The Owyhee Avalanche

VOLUME 18, NUMBER 17

HOMEDALE, OWYHEE COUNTY, IDAHO

SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS

Pursuit ends in three felony charges

Vehicle plows into porch; deadly weed kills cows

Owyhee County Sheriff's office responded to several calls last weekend including a suicide threat, a vehicle versus house call and the report of nearly 35 cows found dead in the Bruneau area.

The Owyhee County Sheriff's office responded to a possible suicide attempt by a Murphy area woman Saturday night, and ended up arresting the woman and charging her with three felony counts.

A report filed with the sheriff's office states Maureen Cassidy, 49, had been reported to the sheriff's office as attempting to commit suicide when her husband arrived home to find her in the couple's garage in her running vehicle with suicide note. The report states Cassidy also left the scene with weapons in her vehicle.

Candidates file for local school boards

Homedale trustee positions challenged

Unless a rush of people file as write-in candidates, Homedale School District will be the only district to hold an election next month as four people filed to challenge two zone seats by Friday's 5 p.m. deadline.

Zone 3 hopeful Benita Miller will run against Jim Bittick for Fred Butler's seat as Butler had not filed to rerun by Friday. In zone 4, Ric Uria will try to oust incumbent Kirt Weimer who will run for his third term.

John Ineck filed to run for another term in the Marsing School District for zone 5 along with Betty Ackerman who filed to run for another term in zone 3.

In the Bruneau/Grand View School District, Dave Tindall will run again for zone 5 and Darrel Agenbroad will run for zone 3. Incumbent Harold Simper did not file for another term.

A single seat in Pleasant Valley will probably be filled again by Pat Stanford for zone

1 unless a write in candidate declares before the election next month.

In Melba School District, two incumbents and a candidate filed late Friday afternoon for its three open seats.

Vivian Good filled to again fill her seat on the board for zone 5. Good replaced Patsey Foote who resigned from the position in August due to moving. Incumbent Belinda Thiel will run again for zone 3 and Teresa Silver, new candidate declared her intention in zone 4.

Write-in candidates must declare their intent to serve and be qualified to serve for votes to count. The declaration must be made up of two weeks before the election, May 7, with the district clerk. Write in candidates' names will not appear on the ballot.

Unopposed candidates may still have to face voters if a write-in candidate declares by May 7. If after the write-in deadline no one has filed, no election will be held and the candidate will be declared a trustee without a vote. — CP

Jackson building fire results missing

An Idaho State Fire Marshall said his department released the findings of a devastating fire at the Jackson building to the Homedale Police Department nearly three weeks ago, but Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said his department has not received the final results yet.

Fire fighters were dispatched to the Whoa Baby business in the Jackson complex on Idaho Avenue at approximately 1:30 a.m. March 10. Several businesses were threatened in the complex, but crews were able to contain the blaze to the individual store.

After firefighters sprayed water on the smoking building during the first call, crews entered the building with a heat sensor and determined the fire to be extinguished. But crews were again dispatched to the scene at approximately 6 a.m. and found the building engulfed.

Wilder and Marsing assisted with Homedale on the initial call and returned to assist on the second call. Caldwell sent a ladder truck and an air trailer as well to the second call.

"We have not got it all back,," Eidemiller said last week when asked about the final findings in the case. "The lab results are not back. They (the State of Idaho Fire Marshal) will not make a determination until all the results are in."

Eidemiller said he is uncertain when the investigator would make a final determination that the state was currently waiting on lab results.

Fire cleanup workers walk through the remains of Whoa Baby in the Jackson building in Homedale last week.

Barbara Wright goes for fourth term as treasurer

"We respect our taxpayers and we're a service to them," says Barbara Wright. After 12 years as Owyhee County treasurer, Wright says, "I'm going to keep my office running the same way it has been running. The county's in good shape financially, everything is running well, and we've always had conscientious commissioners who pay attention to the budget."

Wright has no challengers in her race for a fourth term, and enjoys the strong support of other county officials. "All of our elected officials are responsible people who try to do what's right," she says.

The county-wide primary election is on May 27.

Health Fair in Grand View

Everyone is welcome to attend the Valley Health Fair on Tuesday, April 30 from 8:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Pre-registration is not necessary – just stop by for:

If you have any questions, call 834-2929.

MSD kindergarten screening planned

Kindergarten screening and registration will be held at the Marsing Elementary School on Friday, April 26, 2002, from 8:00 until 3:00.

Students should bring their shot records, birth certificate and social security card.

Please call the school at 896-4111, ext. 497 for an appointment. There will be no kindergarten classes on the day of registration.

Spring colors...

Spring like temperatures sent trees into bloom last week as temperatures climbed to near 80 during the day and stayed in the upper 40s during the night. Cooler temperatures are expected throughout this week with a warming trend predicted for the weekend.

Marsing Clean-up Day set for May 3-4

The 8th annual City of Marsing Clean-up Day will be held on May 3-4 with several activities planned and a barbecue planned for clean-up volunteers.

The FFA students will spend Saturday morning planting flowers the city bought from them in various locations at Island Park.

City employees and volunteers will be available to pick up lumber, leaves, branches, couches, chairs, metal and non-hazardous materials for residents who are physically unable to bring their trash to a dump site that will be located at the maintenance shop. To reserve a time for the crew to pick up trash, residents are asked to call the Marsing City Hall at 896-4122.

The event is sponsored by the city and volunteers are still needed. Volunteers will not be able to remove batteries, refrigerators, air conditioners, tires, car parts, hazardous materials, household garbage, oil, or paint.

For more information or to schedule a pick-up contact City Hall at 896-4122.

$700 reward offered for info on graffiti vandals

The Homedale Police Department, Owyhee County Sheriff's office and the Owyhee County Probation Department have joined forces to offer a $700 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of graffiti vandals, known as "taggers," who are defacing our communities.

According to Chief Eidemiller, "Every bare wall and empty space is a target. They don't discriminate. They've been very active lately, and I want them."

Anyone with information about graffiti incidences or perpetrators should call the Homedale Police Department at 337-4642, or the Owyhee County Sheriff's office at 337-4950 or 495-1154.

Commissioners appointed to Marsing P and Z

Two Marsing residents were appointed to the Marsing Planning and Zoning during a regular meeting earlier this month.

Robert (Spanky) Bazcik and James Ramirez were appointed by Marsing Mayor Faye Pfrimmer and the city council and will attend their first meeting in May.

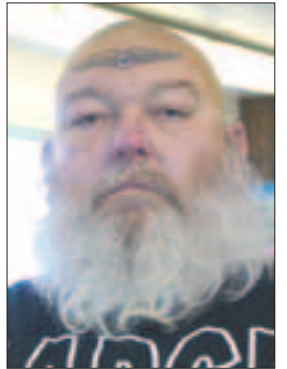

Bazcik said he is a disabled vet who served three tours in Vietnam and said although he has never served as a planning and zoning commissioner before he has an extensive background in residential construction.

"After Vietnam I worked in Arizona in construction for many years," Bazcik said. "I am looking forward to working with the rest of the commission and doing my best for the folks in Marsing."

Bazcik said although he has only lived in the Marsing area for a short time, he said, "I plan to die here. I love it in this small town."

"I had a couple other names, but I wanted someone completely new," Pfrimmer said Monday. "Someone who didn't know anything about it. These two are intelligent enough to be very good on P and Z and I felt they would be willing to go the extra yard."

Ramirez was unavailable for comment.

Weight Loss Puzzles Doctors

ATLANTA, GA -- Doctors were surprised when two separate studies found that a natural dietary supplement could help cause significant weight loss.

Although not conclusive, both studies found that patients receiving the formula called Bio-Rex 3000[®], lost more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to decrease the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

According to a spokesperson for Phillips Gulf Corporation, the exclusive North American distributor of Bio-Rex 3000, the company is considering additional studies in order to get federal approval to make pharmaceutical claims. Currently, weight loss claims for the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement are limited. However, with the requisite approval, the company could say that Bio-Rex 3000 decreases sugar cravings, increases metabolism and interferes with the body's ability to produce excess fat.

Bio-Rex 3000 is currently available as a dietary supplement and plan in pharmacies and nutrition stores or by calling 1-800-729-8446. Suggested retail price for a four week supply is just $19.99. www.hcdsales.com © 2000 PGC the scene and was pursued by Chief Deputy Dick Freund into Melba and Canyon County before she traveled back into Owyhee County.

The pursuit ended after Aman set road spikes to stop Cassidy. Aman said a struggle with the woman ensued when she refused to leave her car.

“We had to physically take her out of her car,” Aman said Monday. “She was very distraught and upset.”

Thirty-five minutes after the pursuit began, Cassidy was arrested on three felony charges and three misdemeanor charges through the Owyhee County and Canyon County Sheriff’s offices.

She was charged with felony eluding police officers, aggravated battery, felony possession of methamphetamine, misdemeanor possession of marijuana, misdemeanor possession of paraphernalia, and resisting and obstructing officers.

She is being held in a Canyon County jail on a $200,000 bond.

At 1:32 a.m., early Saturday morning, dispatch received a call from Marsing resident Richard Cromwell stating he had been awakened by a loud noise. Dispatchers said Cromwell reported he looked outside his home and found a vehicle parked on his front porch and no one around the accident.

Aman said the vehicle, a white Pontiac Grand Am, was traced as being registered to a lady from Oregon who had sold it to a man from Marsing.

“Whoever was driving the vehicle drove over two cement ditches, into a tree, through a chain link fence and into the porch of Cromwell’s home,” Aman said Monday. “The house suffered probably about $6,000 in damages.”

Aman said the vehicle was impounded and towed to a local lot. He said the department is seeking Juan Zepada for questioning in the incident. No one in the home was injured.

On Sunday, Idaho Department of Fish and Game reported finding many dead cows at Duncan’s Creek drainage area along a two to three mile stretch. Aman said nearly 35 cows were found dead in the area from eating a poisonous weed.

Aman said the cattle, owned by the JR Simplot Company of Bruneau, had eaten Larkspur. —CP

✓ Fire

But Idaho State Fire Marshal Don Dillard said Thursday that the final results of the investigation had been “hand delivered” to Homedale Police Department nearly three weeks ago.

“We hand delivered them about two to three weeks ago,” Dillard said. “I have turned it over to the local law enforcement and hopefully they are pursuing the matter.”

When asked if the state results were finalized, Dillard said as far as the state was concerned they had done all they could in the case.

Eidemiller contended Thursday that his department was waiting on lab results from the State Fire Marshall, “since obviously he is the lead investigator in the matter.”

“We have gotten some preliminary reports, but nothing official as of yet,” Eidemiller continued. —CP

Helen Floyd to celebrate 85th birthday

An open house will be held to honor the 85th birthday of Helen Floyd of Riverside, on Saturday April 27th from 1-4 p.m. at the Deer Flat Free Methodist Church in Caldwell.

She has resided in the Riverside farming community for nearly 60 years and has been involved in many school and community activities.

She is an avid gardener and enjoys starting plants from seed in her greenhouse and transplanting them into her flowerbeds.

The family requests no gifts, but cards are welcome and anyone wishing to share special memories of Helen may write them and they will be included in a memory and photo book for her.

A gentile challenges Mormon legislators to listen to their prophet on The Proper Role of Government

Read what happens when two brilliant minds get together

Rarely is an Introduction written by an academic for a landmark work of politics and philosophy almost as enlightening as the work itself. However, such is indeed the case with University of Idaho professor John T. Wenders' Introduction to Ezra Taft Benson's famous essay, The Proper Role of Government. Wenders' Introduction is printed below. While Benson's argument was almost certainly influenced by his religion, his insights remain universal, timely and ever so relevant. If you would like a booklet of the original Benson essay, complete with Wenders' new Introduction, let us know and we'll send you one at cost – because we believe that the proper role of government is a subject of vital concern to all of us – especially today.

Here is Prof. John T. Wenders' new Introduction to The Proper Role of Government by Ezra Taft Benson

Benson's justifiably strident warnings about Communism are now passé in public. I attribute this to two disparate reasons, one obvious and symbolic, and the other subtle and lamentable.

The obvious reason is the fall of Soviet style communism, etched in everyone's mind by the symbolic toppling of the Berlin Wall.

The lamentable reason for the lack of straight-forward attacks on communism is that its underlying principle – collectivism – is alive and well and accepted by most on the political left and right. Hard core socialism and communism have metastasized into various forms of statism, so much that now the proportion of GDP now under control of government is at an historic high. In a recent review in Liberty magazine, Bruce Ramsey points out that the Socialist and Communist parties have disappeared in the US largely because their principles and agenda were folded into the Democratic Party in 1932. And since then, the Republicans, with their "me too" politics, have not been far behind.

The Slippery Slope of the collective

The insidious common element in all modern collectivist philosophies, whether they be socialist, communist, or fascist, is the mindset that places collective abstractions about humans above the individual well-being of the humans that lie below. It is an organic view of society in which the elements of society, individual people, are lost. Characterizations about society can only be known by the intellect, not the senses. Individuals are the real element of any human collective. Only individuals feel better or worse off – collective abstractions about individuals do not. Once one crosses to the slippery slope from the individual to the abstract universe of the collective, individuals and their well being are submerged and traded against one another in an endless game of redistribution to satisfy some collectivist view that exists only in the mind of the viewer.

People are real, society is artificial

As the French political philosopher Bertrand de Jouvenel observed some time ago, people are the reality and society is an artificial convention – an abstraction that exists only in the mind. In the 19th century when the conception of society was transformed from being a collection of people to a collective about people, there became no limit to the power of the state – anything could be justified in the name of the collective which had a being superior to that of any individual.

I continue to be amazed at how many facets of modern culture can be traced back to this collectivist mind set. I mention only a few.

I accept responsibility

Collective guilt has replaced individual guilt and responsibility. For example, I am astounded by the current and increasingly popular suggestion that I, who was not alive during US slavery and none of whose ancestors even lived in the US during the slavery period, should feel personally guilty about slavery and pay retribution to other individuals likewise four or five generations removed. Moral transgressions can only be committed by individuals against individuals. I will accept responsibility for what I do and have done. I will not accept responsibility and feel guilty about what other individuals do and have done, as much as I may abhor it.

Do big groups make it O.K.?

There is a majoritarian standard of morality in popular culture that is based not on personal standards, but on morality relative to what others do. How often do we hear the reasoning that it's all right to do something simply because others are doing it? What clearly violates personal moral standards, suddenly becomes OK when done by a big enough group. It's not OK for me to steal, but it is OK if the state does it. It is the cult of mob morality. Note that the majoritarian moral standard differs from common moral relativism based on differing cultural standards. The latter argues that morality should be based on the cultural norms of society and that these can vary widely across cultures. In this view, there is no such thing as an absolute standard of morality: if murder and cannibalism are culturally accepted, it's OK. The majoritarian standard is based simply on whether others are also doing it, regardless of any cultural basis for the act.

Feeling guilty about doing well

This leads to a related kind of collective guilt, one based not on what has been done to others, but based solely on one's relative position among others. Normally guilt is based on what one has done. In this instance, guilt is based solely on where one is relative to others. If you have something, even though you got it through your own talent and hard work, with the voluntary and mutually beneficial cooperation of others, you should feel guilty because it has placed you in some kind of illegitimate superior position relative to others. Nothing is so pitiful as watching a creative and productive individual, consumed by guilt about his own accomplishments, adopt a collectivist view of the world. It also lies behind Hayek's observation that it is often a very difficult task to convince businessmen of the merit of what they do. Many successful businessmen ooze guilt about the good they have accomplished.

Don't feel guilty? You're an insensitive clod

I could go on forever about the many ways in which collectivism has become a well-accepted part of modern culture. Group-think is everywhere. Everyone is a victim. People are identified by what they have in common with others. Class warfare, and warfare, drives public policy. Social discontent is fomented by currying envy from below and guilt from above. Ours is the collectivist age of style and image, groups and groupies, and their fruitless search for inner-identity and self-esteem in others. Few want to be seen as out-of-step. Being in step is more important than the tune of the drummer. Belonging is more important than what one belongs to. When something is "in" and "trendy", woe to anyone who says "wait a minute". Public relations replaces private relations. And many private relations are done not for what they privately convey, but what they produce for public relations. Have a disagreement with a woman? That's sexist, and you can be accused of sexual harassment. Don't hire enough minorities? You're a racist. Refuse to feel guilty about what happens to others and about what others do? You're an insensitive clod.

Democracy is the perfect vehicle for statism. It is the ultimate triumph of group-think. It is the totalitarian collectivism of the majority, or worse, the minority that are able to use democracy for their own ends. We wait for our elected leaders to painlessly do for us from on high what we are unwilling to do for ourselves. It is not surprising that Benson spoke so vigorously against communism and for limited government. A profoundly religious man, he rose to be President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. A central belief of this church, one often lost even among its most ardent members, is that one's earthly life is the time when one's soul is tested. For this test to have meaning, a person must have free agency, be free to choose, be free to make right and wrong choices. If one is not a free agent, then the test will not be real. It will be meaningless. Thus, what the government does is not as important as what the individual does. And for the individual to be free to make his own choices, the role of government must be minimal, or else that individual will not be truly tested here on earth. Benson's views clearly reflect this central tenet of the church he loved.

Communism and socialism may be dead, but collectivism lives. That is what Benson warns us about in his excellent essay.

This is a friendly suggestion that public policy minded folks insist that their LDS legislators read this.
(Or get a copy of The Proper Role of Government and give it to them!)

For the individual to be free to make his own choices, the role of government must be minimal

Nothing is so pitiful as watching a creative and productive individual, consumed by guilt about his own accomplishments, adopt a collectivist view of the world.

In this (collectivist/relativist) view, there is no such thing as an absolute standard of morality

It's not OK for me to steal, but it is OK if The State does it.

Jerry Roberts, 72-year-old founder of the Marsing Easy Riders motorcycle club, has an attitude as youthful as the springtime. “Riding our great area on a motorcycle is like walking 60 miles-an-hour,” he says. “You get the country smell of the crops, fresh mown hay, flowers and smog-free air. And there are no windshield posts to block your view.”

Roberts has been a bike aficionado since he was a teenager. Though he sells cars and trucks now, as owner of River Country Trucks in Marsing, he has recently started the bike club to encourage more local social enjoyment of his favorite activity.

He explains why he prefers motorcycles to all other modes of transportation. “Stop and think about riding a street bike. You don’t have to launch it and drive to the lake. You don’t have to take it way out to the hills and snow. You don’t have to feed it and saddle it. You don’t have to drive to the golf course or tennis court. And you don’t have to drive to the airport to fly it. You just step out to your garage and go!

“My wife and I rode with the big clubs in Boise, but Boise is too far to go to start a ride. The finest times I’ve had is riding with others who enjoy the sport, join in the fun and ride this area we live in. The main objective of the club is to put riders with similar likes together.”

While the club is open to riders and bikes of all types, most of the bikers Roberts expects to join up are either tourers or cruisers. He explains the difference.

“Tourers usually take day rides, weekend rides or vacation/camping rides for days or even weeks at a time. Cruisers usually take a ride in town or in the country for an hour or a half day. Tourers, when they’re not touring, often join the cruisers for the shorter area rides.

“Generally speaking, tourers use big machines like Harleys or Goldwings. From 1200cc to 1800 cc bikes. Cruisers range from 500cc to 1800cc, with many in the 750cc to 1100cc sizes. It can be inconvenient to tour with a cruiser, but you can easily cruise with a touring bike.

“The typical club ride is a half day or whole day event. Most times to a town or eating place where the members gather for ‘friends, food and fun’ as one club describes it. The big clubs are mostly devoted to big tour bikes and long rides, but I believe there is a need for cruisers to get together too. Personally, I flat do not have time to tour, so I sold my big bike to buy a piece of real estate. I now have a good 750cc cruiser and time for half-day rides. This does not limit the club. I would like to see both tour and cruise people working more together.

“In the end, any bike that will safely cruise at 65 mph will do the job. You don’t have to have a new bike or a fancy one. I’m riding a 1983 Yamaha right now and getting plenty of pleasure out of it. And you don’t have to have all the clothes for riding. You can get the things as you go along. In clubs, clothes are bought and sold used all the time.”

Regarding club benefits, Roberts says “club members will have access to other riders via phone and email. They can get together and ride when and where they please with whomever they please. Many friendships are formed in this kind of club atmosphere where there’s something for everyone.” -RB

Multicultural day called huge success

The Marsing Multicultural day was deemed a huge success by coordinators Friday night when nearly 300 people attended the several hour-long event.

Nearly every room in the Marsing Elementary School contained events, displays and information of cultures of families around the world. Basque, Spanish, and Japanese dancers paraded around the halls in brightly colored costumes.

In the multipurpose room many displays created by students from the middle school of personal culture were viewed.

A variety of cultural cuisines were served in the school's cafeteria as patrons wandered through rooms of displays. Local cultural entertainment was preformed in the school's lunchroom including Indian, Basque, Japanese, and Spanish dances and singing.

Multicultural raffle tickets, Peruvian style.

Presentation of the parade of Flags by Marsing Boy Scout Troop No. 225 and Girl Scout Troop No. 264.

Idaho fur trapping and Idaho wildlife adventures.

Dinner delight from the griddle of Mexico.

Hand made tortillas and life in San Luis Potosi.

A Basque two step.

Coaching advice...

Marsing Lady Husky softball coach Jay McNeil offers some advice to a player during a ball game last week. Marsing will travel to Homedale to meet the Trojans Thursday evening.

Jordan Valley scores at Nyssa Invitational

Nyssa ladies break medley record

The Jordan Valley Mustang’s track team placed in 10th place in the boy’s events and in 11th place in the girl’s events at the Nyssa Invitational last week. Four young women from Nyssa High School are getting a taste of what that means, smashing a 15-year-old school medley record.

The Adrian team scored 13 for 12th place in the girl’s events and Wilder placed seventh in the boy’s events during the meet. Adrian boy’s team scored in eighth place.

For Jordan Valley, Kelly Conro, 27-3 finished in fourth place in the shot put and took a silver medal in the discus with 116-9.

From Adrian, Amber Garner placed second with 4-10 in the high jump.

In the boy’s events, Juan Morales from Wilder won a gold in the 1500-meter run with a time of 4:26.26. Teammate Josh Butler also won a gold in the 300-meter with a time of 9:55.90. Paul Epperson of Adrian finished in fourth with 11:40.50.

Ryan Mackenzie, Jordan Valley tied with Andrew Boster for third place in the long jump with 17-11 and Adrian’s Jason Brown finished in second with 18-7.

Pat Conro of Jordan Valley finished in fourth place in the discus with 118 feet four inches behind Jason Dunten of Ontario with 120 feet four inches.

Kuck Witcraft took a fifth place finish for the Antelope’s in the shot put with 40 feet, 2.05 inches. In the javelin, Roray Walund from Adrian finished in fourth with 125 feet behind Anthony Garner from Ontario with 127-4.

In the hurdle events, Shawn Reynolds from Adrian finished in fifth place with 50.00 behind Bryan Thomason from Weiser with 47.80.

March 21, Megan Hartley, Stefanie Jensen and Erin and Lexi Moody turned in a time of 2:02 at the Weiser Invitational.

The old record was set in 1987 by the team of Andrea Smith, Virginia Martinez, Karina Harris and Angie Murphy with a time of 2:04.17.

Jensen runs the last leg of the medley with a 400, while Lexi runs the third leg with a 200. Out of the gate, is Erin Moody starting things off, followed by Hartley.

Thursday, during a track meet in Nyssa, the young women ran their best 4x100 relay of the year, running for an unofficial 52.92 seconds, to take first at the meet. -CP

Panthers shut out Huskies

The Marsing Lady Huskies suffered a no-hitter 11-0 loss to the Parma Panthers in Parma last week in a Western Idaho Conference softball game.

“We played well for the first three innings and held Parma to one†run,” Marsing Coach Jay McNeil said. “We hit the ball hard, †but right at people. They scored three in the fourth and fifth innings.”

Ashley Bowman and Stephanie Derschon each had five strikeouts and three walks, while combining to no hit Marsing in Western Idaho Conference play Tuesday as the Panthers needed just five innings to beat the Huskies 11-0 in Parma.

Alisa Phelps and Savanna Blaylock each had home runs for the Panthers. Blaylock drove in four runs, while Phelps knocked in three.

The team was rained out for a New Plymouth match up and will play this Saturday at 11:00.

“With Rimrock we just started out flat and never got on track and lost 12-6,” McNeil continued. “Chadez pitched well and the defense was there †we just didn’t hit the ball when we needed to.

Chadez also went 2-4 with 2 runs scored 1 triple and 3 RBI.

“We are not getting the crucial hits when we need them,” McNeil continued. “It will come. I have a lot of faith in my girls and we as a team will jell at the right time.”

Trojans fall to Grizzlies 12-7

The Homedale Trojans struggled Tuesday striking out batters and fell 12-7 to the Fruitland Grizzlies in non-conference softball.

The Trojans had just four strikeouts combined.

Sara Reed went 1-for-3 for the Trojans and Kaija Heinijoki and Halie Reed each went 1-for-1. The Trojans got eight hits on the night.

Mustangs defeat Rimrock 13-1

Melba Mustang’s David Lenz pitched six innings, striking out 15 Raiders and giving no walks to lead Melba to a 13-1 victory in non-conference baseball last Monday.

Rimrock completed just two hits and took one run. Wilson went one of three and Carpenter went one of two.

Tennis

Homedale swept the girls singles tennis matches and Fruitland won all four mixed doubles and boys doubles matches as the teams finished in a draw at 6-6 Thursday in Fruitland in a Snake River Valley Conference matchup.

The Grizzlies entertain Payette today in a SRV showdown.

Roeser to play in Coyote country

Homedale athlete signs as Coyote in college hoops

Homedale High School’s basketball star Annie Roeser spent most of her basketball season in her senior year on the bench due to a broken leg, but that didn’t stop recruiters from offering her a deal she couldn’t turn down to shoot hoops as a Coyote next year.

Roeser signed a letter of intent with Albertson’s college last week after turning down offers from Eastern Oregon and Walla Walla Community College for a several reasons. But she said she has always had her eye on playing for the Coyotes for many years.

“The academics they have here to offer as well as the athletic program is awesome,” Roeser said before she signed her letter Wednesday afternoon. “We have been working on this for a while. This is where I am going to be happy.”

Roeser had several close friends, family her volleyball coach and an old friend and her former basketball coach Dan Tristan even arrived to celebrate the moment with Roeser.

“She is a star,” Tristan said. “I always knew she would go far with her ability. This only is the beginning for Annie.”

Roeser was sidelined five games into the season with a broken right leg, the 5-foot-7 guard had to watch from the sideline.

Prior to her injury, she was a prominent player for the Trojans. She averaged 15 points, 5.8 rebounds, 3 steals and 1.5 assists during her sophomore and junior seasons.

During those two seasons, she was a Class 2A All-Western Idaho Conference selection, and played for the Idaho Elite summer basketball team.

Roeser has also excelled in volleyball, runs track and competes in breakaway roping and barrel racing in rodeo. —CP

Raiders’ coach named basketball coach of the year

Rimrock Lady Raiders’ basketball coach Bob Delle received the 1A girl’s basketball coach of the year award, as the Lady Raiders won the 1A District III girls basketball championship last year.

Delle was honored at the District III Winter Sports Banquet in Caldwell last Thursday night. He led his team to a third place finish at the 1A State Tournament last year.

Jeanie Smith arranges a petunia plant into a bucket for sale during next weekend's annual Ag Plant Sale at the Marsing School District Ag department greenhouse. Many varieties of flowering and vegetable plants will be offered to patrons.

Spring flowers

available at Marsing Ag greenhouse

Local members of the Marsing FFA department will begin selling spring flowers on Friday, April 27 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the Ag department's greenhouse located behind the Ag building at Marsing High School.

Members have been raising several different varieties of flowering plants throughout the year and now the arrangements will be available to the public. Proceeds from the sale will be used to help fund FFA related trips.

Dianthus, petunias, double petunias, marigold, pansy and Dusty Millers will be available for $8 for a full flat, $4 for a half flat, $1.50 for a six pack and hanging baskets with a variety of plants will be sold for $15.

Vegetable plants will also be available for the same price and will include Sugar Baby watermelon, Big Bertha sweet peppers, tender green beans and Roma, Big Beef and Celebrity tomatoes.

For more information contact an FFA student or Jason Nettleton at Marsing High School at 896-4112 ext. 188.

Students prepare hand-designed buckets for flower arrangements, which will be on display during this year's fair and rodeo.

Gaby Salinas carefully chooses flower arrangements for her display, which will be part of the Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo this year. Barrels of blooming flowers will be donated to the fair to help decorate the fair grounds.

Krystal Thomas waters flowers in the greenhouse at the Marsing Agriculture department.

Jeff Moyer replants flowers into a barrel that will be donated to the Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo.

Local soldier serves in Germany

Approximately 160 Idaho Army National Guard soldiers participated in a special Army training exercise in Wiesbaden, Germany from March 18 to April 3. During the exercise, Idaho soldiers worked side by side with active duty soldiers and fellow guardsmen and women from other states in support of a large-scale training exercise named Urgent Victory 2002.

Spc. Julie Jones of Marsing worked as an intelligence analyst in the Brigade mission control center. She used an advanced Military Intelligence system to track the enemy on the simulated battlefield and also provided support for members of the battle staff.

“Tracking enemy operations is my main area of responsibility,” explained Jones. “As with my fellow soldiers, operational security is also my responsibility.”

Jones worked 12-hour shifts during the 24-hour operations phase of the training. She worked from 6:30 pm to 6:30 am when she was relieved by the day shift.

Even though things were pretty busy during a good portion of the exercise, Jones did have a couple of days to see some of the German countryside.

“I was able to get out and visit Heidelberg, K`ln, Mainz and Mannheim,” she explained. She particularly enjoyed shopping in the local shops and eateries. “The food is interesting,” Jones said with a big grin on her face. “I have no favorites, I like all food.”

Jones enlisted in the Idaho Army National Guard in 1996 and currently serves as an Intelligence Analyst for the 216th Military Intelligence Company located in Boise. “Go for it! It’s one of the best decisions you will ever make,” Jones recommended to people thinking about joining the Guard.

Jones is the daughter of Barbara and Sam Battaglia of Marsing. She graduated from Marsing High School in 1994.

Commentary

On the edge of common sense

Baxter Black, DVM

Co-bank

It was a strange day.
I picked up the phone. It hadn't rung. A lady said, "Hello."
I said, "Is this Phil?"
She said, "No, the phone didn't ring. Why did you answer it?"
I said, "I thought you'd call."
She said, "This isn't Phil."
"Then who is it?" I asked.

"Tamara"
"Why are you calling?" I asked.
"Have you heard of Co-Bank?"
I thought, "Co-Bank?" I'd heard of snow bank, Mo' Bank, slow bank, po-bank, even status quo bank, but Co-Bank? I asked, "Must one have a top security CIA clearance to be a depositor?" Thinking it might be a co-vert bank.
"No," she replied.
"Is it one where each borrower must have a co-signer?"
"Yes," she said, "At least two."
"Interesting," I thought. "Then there must be a First and Second Co-Bank."
"Do you service customers regardless of sex?"
"Yes," she said.
"So...it's a co-ed Co-Bank." I observed. "Do you make your own dog food and let members charge diesel fuel?"
"No."
"Hum," I thought. "So it's not a co-op Co-Bank." "Do you give away salmon instead of toasters?" thinking it could be a Coho Co-Bank.
"No."
"Serve hot chocolate?"
"No, no Co-Co-Co-Bank."
"How about marketing organisms that digest cow manure?"
"Don't go there," she said.
"Film?"
"No."
"Are you the bank that has tellers dress like Santa and serve eggnog in the lobby?"
"That's us."
"Wow! The Co-Ho-Ho-Bank. Maybe you could loan me some money for a great cow deal."
"Sorry," she said. "We're not a Co-gro-po-bank!"
"Oh!" I said.
"What do you do for a living?" she asked.
"I'm a cowboy poet."
"Ho, ho, ho," she crowed, "In your case we're a Co-no-bank!"
"Whoa," I whined! "A Co-No Bank?"
"No," she said, "A Co-No-No-Bank."

Robert Boatman

Why aren't conservationists conservative?

Conservationists seem to want to conserve the queerest things but they're not at all concerned about conserving things that are important.
They worry over the difficulties a toad frog might have working for a living in mudville, but couldn't care less about the extinction of a farm family that has helped feed this country for generations.
They cry in their beers about the demise of the American buffalo who once covered the plains for miles and miles on end and now grace only the menus of trendy steakhouses, but deeply resent the far more useful American-bred beef cattle that forage over a tiny fraction of that same real estate.
They say they love the timeless glory of nature, but they don't have the slightest confidence that it can survive ten more minutes without their help.
They want to preserve the countryside in a postcard pose, so they socialize it and try to lock it up so nobody can get in to appreciate it. Don't walk on the grass. Don't smell the flowers. Look but don't touch. You might break something.
They think the world was better off before human beings arrived, but you don't see them lining up to leave the planet.
Conservationists are like bubble babies. In order for their fragile minds to function, they must live in an unnatural and hermetically sealed environment which they think of as reality. They want the Disney rendition of nature placed in their bubbles with them, and they don't understand why normal people don't want to live in little plastic bubbles too.
The true conservers of all that is good and strong and vulnerable and vibrant and beautiful and awe-inspiring in the world are not conservationists, who treat nature with the overbearing possessiveness of an evil stepmother, but rather conservatives, who treat it like an old friend.

Can't be too busy

I see our esteemed prosecuting attorney, Plead Em Out Eddie, has decided to plead out a 14 year old who entered an elderly woman's home in the early morning hours and raped her. He does it to save the Owyhee County residents' money? He still is drawing his salary, isn't he? He can't be too busy, he is taking Linda LeBrane's suit against the state for $25,500 pro bono.

Two trustees up for re-election

HOMEDALE†— Two seats will be filled on the Homedale school board, according to Jim Duncan, district clerk. Last week the Chronicle reported only one, that of Roy Kubosumi.

Duncan said this week that Hal Tolmie’s term will also be up, and the two positions are to be filled at the May 16 election.

Historical Society takes tour

HOMEDALE – Over 70 members and guests of the Owyhee County Historical Society toured Owyhee area on Sunday. After meeting at the Swayne Museum, the group visited the Bernard barn and ferry site on the Snake River, followed by lunch at Givens Hot Springs. Later they traveled to the early Chinese-built aqueducts and through Reynolds Creek to the Jonas Bass Ranch. This Ranch was headquarters for Robert Noble, “Sheep King of Idaho,” at the turn of the century. The touring group was invited into the house following an interesting afternoon of inspection of the tremendous old barn built in 1890 and other ranch buildings.

Beef cook-off

HOMEALE – Any person interested in submitting a recipe for the Cowbell cook-off may send recipes to Sandy Drees, Route 1, Box 97, Homedale, or for more information call 337-4111.

This is open to anyone 21 years of age and older. The meat dishes must contain chuck, round, rump or brisket (2 lb. minimum, 5 lb. maximum).

Make your family and county proud by participating in our cook-off. You may have a chance to go to ISU in Pocatello on May 20 to submit your recipe at the state cook-off. Compete with others from our state for a chance to go†to the National Cook-off, Sept. 15 and 16.

Round the town Homedale

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Goodman, Vida, Oregon, visited his sister, Tressa Warfield, and other relatives in the area during the weekend.

Mildred Dickson and Florence Wood went to Caldwell to visit their daughters and granddaughters, Darlene Smith and Marjorie Combs, last weekend.

Royal Neighbors met for a social meeting at Mildred Dickson’s last Tuesday.

Mrs. Agnes Parr’s granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Torrez and son, Mike, of Klamath Falls, Oregon, were in Homedale for the weekend to visit Torrez’ mother.

Nona Tucker and Mrs. Floyd Marsh, Carson City, Nev., spent last week in Portland and Salem, Ore., visiting friends and relatives.

Marsing names in the news

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Herman returned Tuesday evening from California where they spent the winter.

Gary Williams resigned from teaching at the Marsing School last week and over the weekend he and his wife, Suzi, moved to Sun Valley where they will manage the Tyrolean Lodge.

A correction has been asked from the City Council report of last week. The wrong board was reported for Rev. Doug Money. He was appointed to the Marsing Housing Authority Board, not the Marsing Labor Agriculture Sponsoring Committee, Inc. as stated.

Rosalie Coons was a special guest at a birthday dinner in her honor at her daughter and son-in-law’s, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burns and family of Parma last Sunday. Their guests were Lloyd Coons, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Linder of Weiser, Mrs. Laura Burns of Parma, and Mrs. Beverly Williams, Mike and Darla of Boise.

Homedale ships 1,378 cars of produce during season

Homedale shipped 1,378 cars of perishable produce in 1951 to rank sixth in the shipping area from Boise to Weiser, including eastern Malheur county, according to figures recently released from Pacific Fruit Express headquarters at Ogden, Utah. Grand total for the area was 16,480 cars. Figures were for train shipment only and probably 20% more produce was taken out by trucks, Francis Pusateri, manager for J. C. Palumbo company, Homedale, said this week.

Nyssa, Ore., ranked first with 2,432 cars; Payette, second, 2,086, and Ontario third with 1,943. Marsing shipped 641 cars to win 10th place.

In potato shipments Nyssa was first with 1,897; Vale second with 977 and Homedale third with 907 cars.

Other Homedale shipments were onions, 180; mixed vegetables, 4; cantaloupes, 30; prunes, 233; apples, 14; peaches, 3; plums, 6; and one carload of pears.

Homedale rated third in prune shipments. Emmett shipped 327 cars and Fruitland 300 cars for first and second place. Other new products are green corn and peas which were trucked from Homedale, but 65 cars of corn were sent from Ontario and 37 from Caldwell, Mr. Pusateri said.

County Committee favors plan for Class C District

Following a public hearing held Tuesday night at Murphy, members of the Owyhee county school reorganization committee voted to send the proposal to form a class C district in the Murphy area to the state reorganization board for approval.

The new district would include Silver City, Reynolds, Murphy, Sinker Creek and Guffey. Only opposition was from Oreana which now includes Sinker Creek.

If the proposal is approved by the state committee the county commissioners will arrange for an election when the question will be submitted to voters living in the area for final approval or rejection.

The Murphy school has been discontinued for the past nine years but there are 12 children who will attend the school if voters approve of the plan, Mrs. Mary Grammer, county school superintendent said.

Members of the board were Mrs. Audrey Percifield, Marsing, Mrs. Lora Harris and Mrs. LuRetta Smith, Grand View, and Kirby Foreman, Oreana. Earl Riddle, Member from Riddle recently resigned. Other members are Allen George, Homedale, and Ralph Stanford, Sheaville, Ore.

Homedale News

Warren Stimmel, city watermaster, and Bill Wegman, councilman, made a trip to Idaho Falls Thursday to look over a grader prospect. They made the trip by plane as guests of an equipment company. They returned the same day.

Sgt. and Mrs. Desmond Call and family, Oakland, Calif., were due to arrive the middle of this week, according to his parents Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Call. Sergeant Call must report May 10 for overseas duty. Mrs. Call and their children will remain at Homedale.

Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Snell were Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Monte, Nampa, and Lillie Leonard, Richard Leonard and Mr. and Ms. Sid Orton and two children, Boise.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr left Monday for their home at Spokane, Wash., after spending the past 10 days here visiting at the homes of his brothers Frank, Homedale, and Gene Orr, Marsing, and their sister Mrs. Sam Henson. Mrs. Henson, who has spent the past few weeks here returned home with them to Adrian, Wash.

INDIANS IN FLINT. – Information comes to hand that last Friday afternoon four men from Eves’ sawmill, in Flint, discovered a fresh Indian trail near by, and following it up a short distance saw eight Indians, who took refuge in the rocks and commenced shooting. The parties being unable to dislodge them from their position in the rocks, immediately conveyed the information to Flint, and twenty men were soon en route for the seat of war; but in the meantime the Lo family had skedaddled. They were followed into the Jordan Creek Canon, about two miles below Wagontown, and there the trail was lost.

Considerable Indian “sign” has been seen in the vicinity of Flint of late and the people are becoming much alarmed in consequence. They demand protection, which should certainly be granted them. With a detachment of cavalry stationed on the flat below the town they could thus be ready for any emergency and the Flintites would be rendered comparatively secure against the murderous raids of the savage. We would respectfully call the attention of the Commanding Officer of this District to the very urgent necessity of affording protection to our neighbors, and thus prevent a recurrence of those bloody Indian outrages with which we are all too familiar.

MINING, BUSINESS PROSPECTS, ETC. – Placer mining has commenced in the creek and gulches. As the sleighing is effectually done away with quartz-hauling has nearly ceased for the time being, but will soon be resumed again on wagons. A brisk business is anticipated in every branch of industry carried on in our camp this season. Everybody is confident and cheerful. $600,000, the product of our mines for the months of January, February and March, the depth of Winter, tells a silent but forcible story. The late unfortunate mining war, we are happy to say is at an end, and both companies are taking out large quantities of ore richer than ever. This mining war does not speak favorable of the moral rectitude of our people, but at the same time it has demonstrated that we have mines worth contending for.

CLOTHES LINE ROBBED. – One night last week a party of Indians visited Chalfant and Mangin’s sawmill, near Wagontown, and finding no other deviltry to do, carried off a large washing of clothes that had been hung out to dry the day before. Jack and Chad are swearing vengeance against the aboriginal thieves for cheating them out of their Sunday linen. Lo has been overtaken with a tidy fit, and wants to wear boiled shirts.

LO PROWLING ROUND. – Within the past few days small parties of Indians have been seen at various times prowling round the foot-hills near Jordan Valley. The much afflicted people of that place, several times during the last four years, have lost all their stock and had their dwellings, hay, etc., burned by these cursed red-skins, and now, just as the unfortunate settlers are beginning to get together again a few head of stock and make themselves somewhat comfortable, there is evidence that the same programme will be re-enacted—robbing, burning and murdering! A deplorable state of affairs! A band of Indians might come into Jordan Valley and sweep it from one end to the other, and escape before assistance could be obtained from Camp Lyon, which should have been located in Jordan Valley. A great mistake was originally committed in building it in the mountains ten miles away from the place where it was most needed. It has been rumored several times that the Camp was ordered moved to the valley, but as yet nothing has come of these rumors.
