Primary election is next Tuesday

Owyhee County voters will be asked to choose from candidates for county-wide as well as state offices when the primary election polls open on Tuesday, May 28 at 8 a.m.

Primaries are the first of a two-step process to elect an officeholder. When more than one person from the same political party wishes to run in the general election in November, they must first fight it out between themselves in the primaries, with the winner earning the right to represent his or her party against the other party in the fall. In a case – and there are several such cases in Owyhee County – where there will be no opposition party candidate in November, the winner in the May primaries takes all.

Uncontested races include Chris Salove for first district commissioner, Charlotte Sherburn for clerk of the district court, Brett Endicott for county assessor, Harvey Grimme for county coroner, and Barbara Wright for county treasurer.

Sheriff advises local recreationalists to beware

Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman said last week with the upcoming Memorial Day weekend, fishermen, outdoorsmen and recreationalists should be careful about leaving items outside of their campers, tents or vehicles as many items have already been sto-

Dare officer resigns amid allegations of misconduct

Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman has announced the May 13 resignation of Deputy Troy Tarter. The resignation was accepted in lieu of termination after allegations of misconduct were made to the sheriff on May 9th. Immediate inquiry by the sheriff revealed that the allegations could involve possible criminal conduct. Aman placed Deputy Tarter on suspension, and requested an outside investigation by the Nampa Police Department. That investigation began on the very day the allegations came to the sheriff's attention.

Sheriff Aman also requested that County Prosecutor Ed Yarbrough seek appointment of a special prosecutor to assist in the investigation and to take any prosecutorial action which might be appropriate. The investigative findings by the Nampa Police will be turned over to the special prosecutor.

Troy Tarter

Upon completion of the outside investigation of possible criminal conduct, Aman will request that the Canyon County Sheriff's Office conduct an internal investigation as to the alleged misconduct and as to whether other policies and procedures were violated. The internal investigation will also focus on what actions the sheriff can take to assure that similar incidents can be avoided in the future.

The allegations of possible criminal conduct do not involve actions which occurred while Deputy Tarter was on duty as the DARE officer or the Marsing School Resource Officer.

Sheriff Aman's prompt administrative action is consistent with his department's requirement that all employees sign an oath of office and a notice of the law enforcement "Code of Ethics". Sheriff Aman stated: "I demand from our employees a higher standard of ethical conduct than that required of normal everyday professional employees. When it appears that the standard may have been violated, swift and sure action is necessary."

Teen Council raises funds with gift of a goat

The Owyhee County 4-H Teen Council raised nearly $1,000 in a one-day fundraiser frenzy which involved delivering a goat named “Woodrow” (or his pal named “Gus”) to more than 40 local businesses. Fundraiser coordinators said the event was a success but not all the businesses were happy to have received the visitor.

The first ever Get Your Goat fundraiser was kicked off Thursday morning when the council was divided up into two teams to descend on unsuspecting Marsing and Homedale businesses. The teens took their goats to the business in hopes that they would get in on the “goat joke” and donated money to the 4-H council and send the pesky critter to another business. Merchants were also offered a bargain package where they could pay $50 to purchase the goat and keep it from returning.

The funds raised will be used to send members of the council to the Idaho State 4-H Teen Conference in Moscow, Idaho in June. 4-H Program Coordinator for the University of Idaho Owyhee County Extension Tara Rowland said after Thursday’s romp in both towns the group had enough money to attend but said she was surprised at the reaction of three business people who didn’t appreciate receiving the gift.

The students’ first stop was at the Marsing City Hall where workers dug into their pockets to give the kids a $50 donation. Marsing City Clerk Janice Bicandi then sent the animal to the Marsing Senior Citizens Center to give the goat to Marsing Mayor Faye Pfrimmer. Faye gratefully gave up the dough to “purchase” the nanny, but asked if it could return later. She then sent it to Marsing Hardware where Owyhee County Commissioner Chris Salove easily paid for the animal to not return.

“We had a ball with it on this block of businesses,” Pfrimmer laughed petting the animal Thursday morning. “I have never touched a goat before. I am a city gal. I gave them the $50 but told them I still wanted it to come back. It is a great thing for our community kids to attend these

4-H events. Anything we as businesses can do to help them will benefit our children’s future. The people of our community spend money in our shops and stores, I think this is one way to give our gratitude back to them.”

Rowland said five businesses in the area declined to participate in the fundraiser and she said three of those were “rude” to the council.

“The teens gave out 40 thank you certificates,” Rowland said. “Some of the businesses were hit two, three and even four times, and only five businesses chose not to participate. Actually of those five, three were very rude to the kids and even went as far as to call them names like extortionists, black mailers, unethical and things like that. I was shocked.”

Rowland said although a few businesses were unhappy with the gift, the council plans to hold the fundraiser again next year.

“There are 11 teens who attend the 4-H Teen Conference from all over Owyhee County,” Rowland continued. “The conference costs $200 per student plus transportation. For the most part I think they had a very positive experience. The rest of the businesses were very wonderful and we don’t want to let a few unhappy people shadow our experience.”

The council was developed in December 2000 and Rowland said it has been growing ever since. The council now consists of 18 members and is open to any teen in Owyhee County who is 13 years old or older. They do not have to be a part of 4-H to attend.

The teens decorated the stage for the 4-H Fashion Show at the fair last year and completed a community service project in February. They meet once a month and try to have parties frequently. The focus since February has been on fundraising for Teen Conference. -CP

July 4th fireworks to be as big as ever

After some initial confusion about whose insurance company might be willing to be responsible for what, the City of Homedale, the Homedale Chamber of Commerce, the Lions Club and other interested parties have made sure Homedale’s Fourth of July fireworks show will be as big as it has ever been.

As it shakes out, the city is the sponsor of the fireworks event, and substantial monetary donations are being made by the Lions and others. Several people close to the event have reported that the Lions are putting up $1500 , the City $500, and others a lesser amount.

Larry Bauer, Public Works Supervisor for Homedale and a fireworks expert for more than 25 years, says, “The show will be fantastic. No one will be disappointed.”

HHS students place in top ten in leadership conference

Kassi Ruff, Melissa Miyasako and Brandon Zatica from Homedale High School, participated in the National Leadership Conference of Business Professionals of America in Chicago, Illinois on May 8-12.

Ruff, a senior, received first place honors in the Advanced Word Processing Skills event out of 59 other competitors. She received a perfect score.

Miyasako, a sophomore, received recognition for placing fourth out of 58, in the Basic Office System and Procedures event and Zatica, also a sophomore, placed fifth out of 61, in the PC Servicing and Troubleshooting event. Miyasako and Zatica are first year BPA members and competed in the event that tests students in a variety of business, office, technology and human recourse skills. Ruff is a three-year BPA member and is the chapter president.

Approximately 4,500 secondary students from throughout the United States participated in Business Professionals of America's 36th National Leadership Conference. Activities included general sessions with keynote speakers, business meetings, leadership workshops, contest, software certification testing, election of national officers and tours at Chicago area sites. The highlight of the conference is the presentation of awards to the winners in the national contests.

Teen dies during arrest

A 19-year old Homedale teen died Saturday afternoon during an arrest by a Wilder officer from what the Canyon County Sheriff's office suspects was an overdose of methamphetamine.

In a press statement released by the Canyon County Sheriff's office Monday, Ryan Cordova was seen driving on a suspended license. After being pulled over by the Wilder Officer, Cordova attempted to flee the area on foot. A pursuit followed with Cordova being arrested.

"During the scuffle of making the arrest, the officer observed a rock of methamphetamine in the suspect's hand," the statement reads, "after the officer had the suspect in custody, the methamphetamine he (the Wilder officer) had observed could not be found."

The statement continues to say that as the officer was transporting Cordova to jail in Caldwell, Cordova complained of being sick. The arresting officer took him to West Valley Medical Center instead of the Canyon County Jail.

"It is believed that the suspect swallowed a large quantity of methamphetamine, street term, crank."

Cordova was pronounced dead about two hours later after arriving at the hospital.

Canyon County Sheriff George Nourse stated that the prosecuting attorney's office has requested the case be investigated by the Canyon County Sheriff's office. The coroner's office conducted an autopsy Monday and was requested to conduct toxicology tests.

“We have already had a rash of thefts in the CJ Strike area,” Aman said. “People just need to be aware of what they are doing. Don’t leave your stuff unattended or not locked up. People tend to trust too much when they are camping, fishing or boating. They will come back from fishing to their camp and leave their poles and stuff in the back of pickups. It is a prime target for a thief.”

Aman said items stolen while camping are rarely returned. He said recreationalists should keep their items locked in their vehicles and keep camping items locked up in campers.

He said several hundred dollars in fishing, camping and outdoor equipment are stolen every year in the county and it is difficult to make an arrest. -CP

Marsing resident submits petition to recall prosecutor

The first stage of a recall effort for Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Edward G. Yarbrough has been completed by a Marsing resident and was submitted to Owyhee County Clerk Cindi Eaton last week.

Hester A. Tallman of Marsing filed the petition on May 15 with twenty signatures of residents from the Marsing and Homedale area. Two of the signatures were disqualified, but Tallman returned with two more on May 16 to complete the beginning petition. Eaton said the 20 names are needed to receive a recall packet for the first step in a recall election.

The petition states the reason for the petition is due to dismissed criminal cases and “plea down to a minor offense over three fourths of the cases” brought before the prosecutor.

“He has dismissed or pled down to a minor offense, over three fourths of the cases,” the petition states. “Most of those which are taken to court are pled down prior to trial because he has no knowledge of the evidence.” It also states “abuse of discretionary powers.”

“We are tired of seeing people get off for crimes they commit,” Tallman said Monday. “We found out that a woman had been raped by a 14-year-old and the prosecutor didn’t even take it to court.”

In April, a 14-year-old Owyhee County youth was arrested for breaking into an elderly woman’s home and raping her. The young man was tried as an adult, but Yarbrough plea-bargained the case down to assault with the intent to commit a serious felony—rape. -CP

Industry advisory released regarding larkspur poisoning

by Karen Marchant, Idaho Cattle Association

Over the last week, Idaho Cattle Association has been notified by some producers who have recently suffered significant death losses in their cattle herd due to larkspur poisoning. Larkspur is a perennial that has multiple blue/purple flower and the height varies from approximately 2 feet to 6 feet depending on the variety. The problem is becoming more evident as ranchers are turning their cattle out to spring pasture. Because the cool weather temperatures of this spring produced favorable growing conditions for larkspur, the plant poses a more serious threat this year than most years. ICA urges all producers to be aware of the problem and to take precautions to avoid death loss.

If you find any cattle that you think has been poisoned by larkspur, it is best if they leave them alone. The toxin works by paralyzing muscles, including those muscles required to move and breath. Getting an animal excited or moving it around only increases muscle fatigue, and the chance that the animal will die. If an animal gets less than a fatal dose, they can survive if they are not bothered, and if they don't bloat. Animals that are down and that bloat may die from bloat even if they don't eat a fatal dose of larkspur. In that case, it will pay to pass a lubricated hose down the animal if possible, or even use a trocar to relieve rumen gas.

The following additional information is provided by the USDA-ARS Poisonous Plant Research Laboratory. If you have specific questions, you can contact Jim Pfister at 435-752-2941 or jpfister@cc.usu.edu. For more information go to: <http://www.pprrl.usu.edu/larkspur.htm>

"First, in our grazing studies, cattle ate the most plant when it was in flower and early pod. They ate almost none when the plant was vegetative, even though there was not much other forage then. Second, the density of the plant makes a difference in potential poisoning. Because each low larkspur plant weighs so little (in dry matter) and is essentially one bite for a cow, they must eat literally thousands of plants to get poisoned over one or two days. If the density is low (less than 2 plants/sq yard), then cattle have more difficulty eating enough to get poisoned. When density gets high (> 4-5 plants/sq yard on average over a patch or pasture), then cattle can eat enough, fast enough, to be poisoned. Third, the toxicity remains relatively constant in the plant over time. Most of the plants we have analyzed for toxic alkaloids had relatively stable concentrations of toxic alkaloids during the flower and pod stages. In addition, even when the plants were mostly dried out (no flowers, and pods beginning to shatter), the dry stalks were also still somewhat toxic, although less so than earlier in the season. Finally, stocking rate or stock density makes a difference. When we did a trial where we put a high number of cattle on a small pasture, they initially ate larkspur, but not excessively so. Within a few days though, they had depleted much of the other forage, and then they ate the remaining low larkspur until it was basically gone in only a few days. Obviously, avoidance of high-density pastures for even a few weeks would probably alleviate most of the problems if ranchers are aware of the potential for death losses."

Heartland owners Robert and Roberta Byrne with daughter-in-law and chief salesperson Tina Byrne.

Heartland now parks its cars in Homedale

After 34 years as husband and wife as well as business partners, Robert and Roberta Byrne say they are happy to be moving their business to Owyhee County.

"Heartland Car Co. occupied the same space on Caldwell Boulevard in Nampa for 23 years," Robert said. "When we first opened our lot there, we had six competitors, and when we left we had 30. Overcrowding and traffic congestion had become a daily annoyance."

Roberta added, "So many of our customers—and so many of our repeat customers—have always been from Owyhee County. We probably already know half the people out here. We've lived on the Snake River for a long time, and so has our son and our grandkids."

The Byrne's daughter-in-law, Tina Byrne, is Heartland's chief salesperson. And granddaughters Melissa and Christina have been known to lend a hand with paperwork and carwashing, two of the more constant activities of any car sales organization.

As a company, Heartland specializes in 1988 to 1995 model used cars and provides its own financing.

"A lot of our customers are repeat customers," Robert said. "That tells you something about trust. And for our new customers — if they're local people with a job here — credit is almost never a problem."

Heartland plans to maintain an inventory of about 50 cars.

Tina Byrne says they already have about 35, all clean, refurbished and ready to go. The company also buys and sells used camper shells and has about 80 of those in stock. The Byrnes are planning a grand opening celebration at their new home on Highway 95 in Homedale next month, but are open for business in the meantime. Heartland's phone number is 337-5040. -RB

Sen. Craig introduces new public lands bill

Stating that antiquated public land statutes hurt forest health, Sen. Larry Craig has introduced a bill in the U.S. Congress intended to substantially modernize the laws governing the stewardship over federally owned multiple-use lands.

Called the Public Lands Planning and Management Improvement Act of 2002, the legislation represents a significant modification to S. 1320, which Craig introduced in the last Congress.

“By imposing an unwieldy, if not impossible, planning process on our federal land managers we guarantee more fires, more destruction of critical wildlife habitats, and more water and air pollution,” Craig said. “These laws must be modernized and my bill is a major step forward toward that goal.”

Sneddon says his race will decide the future of the Democratic Party

The race between United States Senate Democratic candidates, David Sneddon and Alan Blinken shows not only a contrast in background, but in political constituencies. Blinken has lived back East almost his entire life, and is well connected with the Democratic National Committee. Sneddon on the other hand has a lifetime of Western values, and calls himself an “Idaho” Democrat, not an Eastern Democrat.

Furthermore, Sneddon says his economic plan is broader based than Blinken's and incorporates the independent nature of Idaho's communities and embraces the local talent pool. Sneddon's plan calls for the expanded use of wind generators & geothermal to stabilize Idaho's energy costs. Sneddon will also pursue public land policies favorable to Idaho, and procure grant funds to assist communities with planning, employment, education, and health care. Dave Sneddon believes his constituent-first philosophy is needed in Washington and a must for Idaho. Vote “Democrat” May 28th and let your voice be heard.

Paid Sneddon for U.S. Senate – So rural communities understand that every effort is being made to get our message out.

County expects dollars for sensitive species

The Owyhee County Natural Resources Committee has recommended to the commissioners that they add a line item in the county budget to receive and disperse funds earmarked for “sensitive species” conservation efforts. The commissioners have also sent a letter to the governor’s office requesting $200 thousand of the $400 thousand that is currently in the governor’s budget for species conservation. The county would use the money primarily for efforts to benefit Sage Grouse.

Stray dogs cause problems in local cities

Stray dogs have been wreaking havoc on local cities, and local mayors would like to remind residents that each city has an ordinance on unlicensed and unleashed canines.

Marsing Mayor Faye Pfrimmer said the problem of dogs at large in Marsing has become a very large problem and the city plans to cite residents who do not follow the ordinance.

In Homedale, Deputy City Clerk Mary Lou Wilson said the city receives many calls during the week to report unleashed dogs. She said an unleashed, unlicensed dog recently bit former City Councilman Roy Jackson.

In Marsing it is unlawful to keep a dog unless the dog is licensed and a tag worn by the animal. The city issues licenses for $5 for an altered dog and $15 for an unaltered dog. The license is issued for one year and must be renewed on January 1 of each year.

Dogs running at large may be captured by the city's maintenance crew or an Owyhee County Sheriff Deputy and held in the city pound for three days. If the animal is not claimed, the city may have the animal disposed of or offered for adoption.

Marsing charges the owner a $10 fee for animals caught for the first time, $25 fee for a second offense and $50 for a third offense. They also charge the owners $5 per day for keeping the animal in the pound.

In Homedale the charge is $10 per year for a license and $10 if a person's dog is impounded. It also will cost the owner $5 for the dog to be picked up and $4 per day in the pound.

Wilson said dogs are kept in the local pound for three days before being offered for adoption at a fee of $10. The license in Homedale is also for one year.

Wilson said approximately 100 dogs are destroyed in Homedale every year. -CP

Alcoholism is the entire family's problem

QUESTION: My husband drinks a lot but it doesn't affect him very badly. It is amazing just how much he can drink without getting dead drunk. Does that mean he isn't an alcoholic?

DR. DOBSON: I'm afraid you are describing a telltale characteristic of alcoholism. Let me turn to a physician who specializes in treating alcoholics. I asked him to describe the early symptoms that family members should look for. Dr. Simpson said:

"The first red flag is a 'tolerance' for alcohol. The person finds he has to drink more to achieve the same result. He calls this being able to 'hold his liquor'—a status symbol around the world. In reality, it is a danger signal indicating a chemical adjustment has been made.

"Second, a person reaches a place where he doesn't want to talk about his drinking anymore. He knows he is consuming more alcohol than other people and he wants to avoid all reference to it. This begins a process of denial that may be with him for years to come.

"Third, the person begins to experience blackouts. By that I mean that he has brief periods of amnesia that lengthen as time goes by. What is happening is that the brain's recording cells aren't remembering what is being said and done.

"Furthermore, it's a low-dose phenomenon: It happens after one or two drinks. I'm not referring to the process of being stone drunk from the anesthetic effects of great quantities of alcohol. Instead, the person thinks back on the previous night and says, 'Gee! I can't remember a doggone thing after that second drink.' It's a scary experience.

"Fourth, the person begins to notice that he can't consistently predict how much he's going to drink once he starts. To me, this is the key feature of alcoholism and constitutes the definition of the disease. It occurs when an individual is constantly drinking more than he intended because he can't help it. He sits down to have a beer and wakes up the next afternoon.

"It may be hard for people to believe, but alcoholics don't drink to get drunk. They merely want to have a drink or two. That's why they can swear they'll never get drunk again, and mean it. They have no intention of breaking that promise. Nevertheless, they sit down to have a drink with a friend and bingo, it's morning."

Let me share with you now the words of Pauline, the spouse, and Bob, the alcoholic, about their experience with this family nightmare.

"I couldn't count the times Bob promised he would never drink again. That must be the most frustrating part of the experience—having Bob look me straight in the eye and tell me he's through—really done with bingeing. He'd say, 'I've seen how it hurts you and the kids and I've had it. I promise you that I'll never do it again!' Then in a day or two he was dead drunk. I thought he was lying to me. How could he love me and lie so many times to my face? But he wasn't lying. He couldn't keep his promise. Bob thought he could whip this problem with willpower. It's like trying to stop diarrhea by making up your mind to do so."

We asked Bob to express what he was feeling during this period of repeated failure. He said he was confused by his inability to overcome the habit. "I thought the problem might be vodka, so I switched to scotch, and then bourbon. Then I tried meditation. Nothing worked. I tried a dozen approaches to control my drinking, but I always went back to it. Then I tried covering it up. I carried a bottle of Binaca in my pocket and I always had a green tongue.

"I drank for six months without Pauline ever knowing it. Every Saturday morning she would wash her hair and then sit under a noisy hair dryer for a half-hour. I could hardly wait for her to get preoccupied because I had a fifth of vodka in the cupboard. I would race in and get a can of Fresca from the refrigerator, pour half of it down the drain, and fill the other half with vodka. Then I'd drink it in front of the television set with a halo around my head. You really have to be calculating to hide a drinking problem from those you live with. This went on for months. You see, I was addicted to a drug and was completely unaware of it."

*YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE A ZIONS CUSTOMER TO GET A FEE-FREE 10-POINT FINANCIAL CHECKUP.
CINDY COOLEY GOT HERS. WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?*

Cindy Cooley, a single mother from West Valley City, Utah, wanted a financial plan for the future, but wasn't quite sure how to go about it. Then she heard about Zions Bank's 10-Point Financial Checkup.

"I did it to make sure I had everything in line in case something happened to me," explained Cindy. "Besides, I didn't have a will and I wanted to make sure my daughter was taken care of."

Getting her finances in order is something Cindy has wanted to do for a long time. "I don't think my credit union offers anything like this," continued Cindy. "There was no cost. And, Zions said I don't need to be a member. So I thought, what have I got to lose?"

So Cindy stopped by a Zions branch. Her experience? "It went really well. They gave me a booklet to go through and figure everything out." Then, armed with her existing financial information, Cindy returned to the bank for her checkup appointment with Branch Manager Lori Harding.

"She just sat down with me and asked a lot of questions," said Cindy, explaining further that it was much easier than she thought it would be, and there was no obligation or pressure. "She just made suggestions... I felt very relaxed."

When asked if she would recommend the checkup to others, Cindy said, "Definitely! I've told my parents about it and my brother and sisters. It feels great. There's a lot of comfort knowing I've done it."

To look into your personalized, fee-free, obligation-free checkup—whether or not you bank with Zions—call or stop in at the nearest branch today.

More on recall of County Prosecutor ...

Prosecuting Attorney Edward G. Yarbrough was elected to the Owyhee County office in 1996 and was working as a senior public defender for Canyon County before he was elected. During his campaign he told an Owyhee Avalanche reporter that he believed he was a "tough but fair prosecutor; has energy in abundance; and will guarantee aggressive prosecution, an efficient, professional office, and active involvement in land use issues facing farmers and ranchers."

He succeeded Lois Hart who ran as the incumbent in 1996. Local attorney Dan Grober also ran for the position in 1996, but Hart and Grober both lost the primary election leaving Yarbrough as the only candidate. Yarbrough ran unopposed for a second term in 2000. His seat will be up for election again in 2004.

Idaho State Code requires many different steps to recall an elected official. Special rules apply to certain elected officials who are subject to recall and prosecuting attorneys are included.

In Idaho Code section 34-1701, the code states that "a petition for recall of an officer shall be instituted by filing with the appropriate official a verified written petition requesting such recall. The petition shall be filed with the county clerk, and must be signed by registered electors of the county equal in number to twenty percent of the number of electors registered to vote at the last general election held in the county for the election of county officers at which the officer was elected."

Owyhee County Clerk Cindi Eaton said, "the final petition would have to contain 499 registered voter signatures as 2,496 abstracted votes were counted for the position of prosecuting attorney on November 7, 2000."-CP

Charlotte Sherburn in line for county clerk

With almost eight years of experience in the office of clerk of the district court behind her, Charlotte Sherburn feels well qualified to take over as Cindy Eaton retires from the top post. Sherburn is running unopposed in the May 28 election.

Sherburn, who is now Deputy Auditor, said, "I've done every job in the office, and it does take years to learn it all. The County Clerk is accountable for every dollar that comes into and goes out of the county. That's a big responsibility and a real challenge."

The county clerk oversees the district court and advises the board of commissioners. She handles all the official calls and letters, and she sets the agenda for the weekly commissioners' meeting. Any member of the public who wants an appointment before the board of commissioners should call the county clerk's office, explain the reason for the appointment, and get placed on the agenda at the appropriate time.

"I like working with the public here in Owyhee County," Sherburn said. "They're the best people."

Charlotte Sherburn, who has been in Owyhee County for 12 years and has a background in ranching, lives below Murphy with her husband of 30 years and has two grown daughters.

District III softball action closes with Pilgrim victories

Huskies end Homedale's season with surprises
by Cheryl Peterson

The New Plymouth Pilgrims cruised to a second consecutive District III softball title with a tight 6-5 victory at Sundance Park in Homedale Saturday in a district showdown with Parma.

Marsing began district action against Parma in round one and took a big loss of 19-1. The Huskies didn't let the loss defeat them and came back in a second match against Homedale with a big 10-6 victory.

Marsing's win ousted the Trojans from the district competition after Homedale took a seventh inning 8-7 defeat in round one from Melba. Nampa Christian closed the season for the Huskies Saturday in an elimination round.

Homedale kept a 7-1 lead over the Panthers until the seventh inning when Melba scored seven runs for the win.

"I stated at the beginning of the season we would make a comeback," Marsing Coach Jay McNeil said. "We worked hard all season and we may not be going to the state tournament, not this year, but we were beat by Homedale twice in the season and this feels good."

"I am very proud of my girls. They didn't let a bad loss to Parma get them down. They always stay together and against Homedale they were focused. They knew what they wanted and they went out a worked hard for it. We will be back. Watch for the Huskies next year when they will be the team to beat."

Marsing recorded eight hits against Homedale, including a two run home run by pitcher Jennifer Millet in the top of the fourth inning.

Millet continued her hitting spree and drove in sister Brooke Millet on a two run dinger, and lifted the Huskies to a 6-1 lead.

Marsing scored three added runs in the seventh inning after Homedale quickly sent the Huskies to the bench in the sixth.

The Rimrock Raiders eliminated the Notus Pirates with a 12-5 victory after being routed by New Plymouth 15-0 in the first round.

Rimrock scored five runs in the fifth inning and four in the sixth inning for a 11-5 lead and held the Pirates through the seventh.

Raider pitcher Karlee Abbott went all seven innings obviously ill, but un-intimidated and Rimrock coach Mike Chandler said Abbott was checked for food poisoning between games.

Rimrock was eliminated by the Melba Mustangs on Saturday.

Trojan girls place second, boys in third at district track

Marsing’s Amanda Stewart leads Husky girls in third place finish

Homedale’s relay team and Kelsi Haylett lead the girl’s track and field events to push the Trojans into a second place win with 90 points during last week’s District III-2A Track and Field Meet held in Parma.

The Homedale 4x100 and 4x200 relay teams finished in first place with 44.04 and 1:34.63.

Memorial Day, a day to remember and honor

Cheryl Peterson,
Avalanche reporter

In the fast pace world of today's society, Memorial Day usually means the first three-day weekend of the summer and the beginning of camping, water skiing, fishing or just trying to beat the crowds to the hills for a little peace and quiet. Most have forgotten exactly what Memorial Day stands for and the official meaning of the 'first weekend of fishing season.'

With the tragedy that struck the nation on September 11, 2001, the words "Memorial Day" have taken on a new meaning. What used to be a day of honoring military personnel for their gallant fight to keep peace in America will now also include remembering the many heroes who worked valiantly to save innocent Americans caught in the ruins of an attack on our nation.

Memorial Day was officially proclaimed on May 5, 1868, by General John Logan, National Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his General Order No. 11, and was first observed on May 30, 1868, when flowers were placed on the graves of Union and Confederate soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery.

Since that day, on May 30 of every year, the nation honors those Americans who died while defending our country and its values. We honor the ultimate sacrifice paid by men and women from all walks of life who have died fighting for freedom. From the Civil War to the War on Terror, Americans have put themselves in harm's way for the defense and protection of our rights and a more democratic world society.

Hundreds of Americans will take time Monday, May 27 to remember those who died during battles past and those who died trying to save several thousand innocent Americans who were caught in the ruins of the 9/11 attack.

On this sacred day, we pause to think about the loss of the brave men and women who did not return from battle. Of 16 million who served in uniform during the wars, the Veterans Administration estimates that only 5 million are still alive, and we lose 1,100 more each day. Currently thousands of men and women in uniform are serving in more than 130 countries. They face danger on a daily basis. Not a year passes that servicemen and women don't lose their lives in a never-ending vigil to maintain peace. Memorial Day is a time for remembering, a time for teaching, and a time for praying for those who risk their lives today and for those who gave the ultimate sacrifice in the past. Many Americans will visit a cemetery and place flags or flowers on the graves of our fallen heroes, fly the U.S. flag at half-staff until noon and fly the "POW/MIA flag" as well.

Proof term limits are bad

Published elsewhere in this edition is a facsimile of the ballot Owyhee County voters will be presented at the polls next Tuesday.

We call special attention to that portion of the ballot pertaining to county offices. There are six positions to be filled, and only one has a challenger, that of county commissioner in the second district. Only one person is interested in each of the other five positions. Had term limits been a reality, three seats would be vacant.

Tell me again what purpose term limits would serve, especially at the local level.

The point I was making

In last week's column I attempted to clarify the way the system works when it comes to representative government. Based on the comments, phone calls, and letters to the editor, I got the message across 50-50. Those who agreed and those who disagreed were evenly divided.

Some misunderstood the purpose of the comments, while others said they are aware that a school board trustee represents only those who live in that zone.

I was accused of supporting one candidate over the other, and that I abused my right as editor to say such things! Obviously I was not supporting anyone. I do not live in that zone, and have no legitimacy to get involved in their election.

And that was the point I was making.

Got her goat

When the Owyhee County Teen Council came through our door with Woodrow the Goat last Thursday, it disrupted production about as bad as a bomb scare would have.

But the disruption was a welcome break from the pressure and production of both this newspaper and adjoining printing business. The cute goat was rather well-mannered, and the kids were having a lot of fun with the event. And they raised a healthy chunk of cash from us.

When we were told we could send Woodrow to another business, we offered several suggestions. But the kids (and the floppy-eared other "kid") had already been to most of them at least once. So another suggestion was made.

I won't say where that location was, but it was a mistake. The lady became very upset at the youths, and told them to get out. She also said she had a gun with one bullet and that she wasn't going to use it on the goat.

The kids came back to our office and told us what had happened. But we already knew. The lady had called us and let us know, in no uncertain terms, what she thought of the "prank".

I considered the source and shrugged it all off, but the 4-H youths were not so impressed. They took her threat seriously.

I think they really "got her goat".

Clean up your own mess

I was stopped in a restaurant the other day by a guy who asked me why I didn't write a column about the need for people to clean up the messes he's seen all over Owyhee County. He said he was on one of the planning & zoning commissions, but I didn't note which one or even if it was in Owyhee County or not and I didn't catch his name. Frankly, I was distracted by his loud voice, his insistence on calling me by the wrong name, his tendency to want to pat me on the chest as he talked at me, the fact that he could have used a couple more hours of grooming himself, and his odd expectation that the way to clean something up is to write about it.

Having spent a little time in oppressively neat and tidy suburbs, I was considerably less obsessed with the matter than he seemed to be. I've also spent a little time in Italy, where the tax man makes up his bill by inspecting only the outside of a property and so, naturally, I've seen some pretty opulent palaces concealed beneath the camouflage surfaces of weather-beaten old barns, crumbling farmhouses and dilapidated looking tenements. Unlike an Italian tax man, I've learned not to judge the value of a place according to its exterior paint job or whether or not it was ever allowed to roll down the road on its own wheels or by the number and breed of chickens allowed to run loose in its front yard. I don't know if the guy in the restaurant was a visiting Italian tax man or not, but I feel sure he would be the first to base his judgement entirely on such potentially misleading information.

I've never seen a rural countryside anywhere in the world where empty land was not used to store a few things of questionable collector value. Here in Owyhee County, we don't have a lot of trees and big bushes behind which we can closet our exterior antiques. And these springtime winds can quickly rustle one man's neat little pile into another man's yard, which is undoubtedly the origin of the phrase, "One man's treasure is another man's junk."

I know the sheriff's office is working on an inmate program to rescue the treasure that ends up along the sides of the roads, and that's a good idea.

The trouble with a big P&Z solution is that it's like trimming a sprawling shrub. Once you start snipping away it's difficult to know when to stop. You can easily end up cutting down the whole plant or leaving just a deformed little stump that takes years to recover.

I like prettiness as much as the next guy. Just so long as it's not sterile to the point of looking unlivable or unlivable by our occasional monkey-like species. So long as it's not some overly efficient government housing project out of the 30s they're in such a rush to tear down these days because the initial bureaucratic beauty obviously didn't last, or some overwrought "habitat for humanity" plastic puzzle politicians like to pretend to piece together for photo-ops.

As every man familiar with women has eventually learned, there are many things that are more important over the long run than pretty. Private property rights are more precious than lawns that don't have cars parked on them. Individual eccentricity is more pleasing and amusing than neighborhoods where everything looks alike. The concept of freedom is a lot bigger than the concept of planning or the concept of zoning or the concept of just about anything.

Sure, there are some messes in Owyhee County. And the people who made them, or who purchased them pre-made, would be good citizens if they cleaned them up. So why doesn't this guy in the restaurant go talk to them instead of to me?

He might even put his muscles where his mouth is and help them out a little.

On the edge of common sense

Baxter Black, DVM

Pawn shop pinup girl

She stood out from the guns and knives and other pawn shop treats
Like a head of Iceberg lettuce in a sea of sugar beets.
It was then I pledged allegiance to what set my heart a'whirl,
Twas a pistol packin' poster of a pawn shop pinup girl.
I don't know what piqued my interest, but perhaps it was that pose
In her gunbelt bandoleras, breathing gunsmoke up her nose.
A blond bombast of bullets with a heart of gold beneath
Like Hemmingway or Roosevelt, a rose between her teeth.

"Calm ye down!" I bade my urgings, Wonder Woman was not real.
She was just the dream of some poor fool's imaginary zeal.
Yet before me blazing brightly with her hands upon her hips
She stared down from an eagle's nest, a feather on her lips.

She had a little smile with a quizzical appeal
That either said,
"Come closer," or "Cut the cards and deal."
It's a look that men have pondered since Eve came out of her shell.
Lancelot got lost in Guinevere's, Pancho Villa knew it well.

Poor fools down through the ages, be they kings or pimply teens
Have spent their lives and fortunes in pursuit of what it means.
Thus, she held me with those eagle eyes, as sure as with a sword
That pierced my heart and pinned me to her bug collection board.

Where I sit, today, a captive of her Mona Lisa guile
With her hammer cocked and ready, and her lever-action smile.
'Cause I've hocked my last resistance to temptation in this world
For a pistol packin' poster of a pawn shop pinup girl.

Letters to the editor

Gannan knows our county

Under the new redistricting decision, with both Owyhee County and Twin Falls County being represented by one person for State Senator of District 23, we need to have that individual knowledgeable and understanding each county, and its needs.
None of the candidates are residents of Owyhee County, however, Tom Gannon is the only one of the three, on the Republican ticket, who knows our county, and will be looking out for our best interest.
Tom and his wife, Jeanne Davis Gannon, have Owyhee County roots, and their family background, serving the needs of the people of this county, makes Tom the best candidate.
We totally support Tom Gannon, and ask you to join us, and vote for him on May 28th.
Ray and Bonnie Colyer
Bruneau

Common interest in district

A couple of months ago, you suggested that if any of the people involved in the Homedale Parents Group were so totally dissatisfied with the current school board and administration, they should run for one of the vacant school board seats.
Now that someone has, you are using the Avalanche and your editorial power to discredit them by publicly criticizing their tactics and intentions.
Bruce and Benita Miller were our neighbors for a few years. They have remained our friends. Our children grew up together and are also close friends. I was asked to support Benita by lending my name to her list of supporters and I have every right to do so. If the inclusion of my name on this list of supporters influences the vote of someone in Benita's zone then get over it.
Perhaps I should ask the same question of you. What zone do you reside in? Are you allowed to express your own biased opinion in the hopes of influencing other voters in her district?
While we are on the subject, would you think it appropriate for a teacher who lives out of district to ask Jim Bittick to run for school board?
Benita Miller and I have a common interest: the Homedale school district, its students and faculty. Whether she lives in my zone or not, her position on the board will have an impact on all the students and faculty, not just the ones who live in her zone.
Reed Batt

Where have you been?

Thank you for your help in getting Benita elected to school board, it is greatly appreciated. Your article indicated that of the 135 signatures, 40 percent were not in her zone, well, my friend, do the math, 60 % are. The last school board election garnered less than 70 votes total, and usually it takes 51%, yet you gave her almost 10% more.
As for her gathering signatures from patrons outside her zone, my question is, "where have you been?" The decision by our present school board to release school next year at 1:30 every other Monday was voted on and approved by our board for next year. It is safe to say that Mr. Butler's vote of "yes" to this proposal helped to approve it, and therefore it does affect every household in the district, since parents in Zone 3 have young kids in school, and babysitting, and transportation will be an issue, as it will be for all patrons in every zone.
Also, if a person has an issue with the district, they can attend a school board meeting to try and find resolution. I have yet to see a single person, pull up a chair in front of their board representative and express their concerns. (Perhaps the public forum should have chairs with Zone #'s on them, and we could speak to our rep personally, and eliminate the 3 minute timer.) I have seen them address the entire board, with trustees from all the zones, and work together for a resolution.
Anyway, the 135 people in and out of Zone 3, and more appreciate your support of Benita, but more importantly, they know that without a doubt, Benita Miller will have a positive impact for the Homedale School District students, patrons, and staff.
Thanks,
Luci Asumendi-Mereness

Send a strong message

In the May 17 editorial the Times News endorsed my opponent in the District 23 State Senate race. The lead in to the editorial used my main issue of the shift of legislative power from rural Idaho to the large urban areas; however, they added one small twist. "Now more than ever, local voters need to elect legislators who represent the Magic Valley effectively." This statement misses the point that the Senator from District 23 will "represent" the entire district, which includes Owyhee County. The editorial did recognize "Gannon has family ties to the ranching industry" but, failed to mention those "ties" are to the Davis family ranch in Owyhee County.

"Tom Gannon of Buhl and Jim Patrick of Twin Falls make a solid impression, and we think either candidate would be an excellent choice for voters. It's that close a call. It's almost an even choice, but given Patrick's longevity in local issues here in Magic Valley, the scale is tips in his favor." Again, no mention of the Owyhee County voters.
I am aware of "local issues" in Magic Valley since I live in Buhl. Equally important I am aware of Owyhee County issues and will represent the entire district. As I have said throughout this campaign, with a strong voter turn out, Owyhee County will elect the next Senator for District 23.
I urge all Owyhee County voters to get to the poles on May 28th and send a strong message in this election, and for all the elections in the next ten years, the Owyhee County vote counts in District 23.
Tom Gannon
Buhl, Idaho

Government based on free elections

Government in our society is based on free elections. One's vote is based on opinion of who will perform the best and in alignment with your opinion when elected. It is up to the individual to arrive at an opinion based on what is known and at times, unknown about a candidate. By providing a list of people who have committed to a candidate, an uninformed person may see someone they respect and contact them to inquire information. Furthermore, the list itself may enlighten someone as to the quality of a candidate by simple association. Our opinion is based on various things and in large part on people we know, trust, and respect who we know to hold similar values.
Limiting information and opinion to geographical boundaries facilitates ignorance.
To run for School Board one needs to reside in the district only 30 days prior to election. If this were the case today, I'd like to talk to someone who knew the Candidate and a list of people who knew the Candidate would be informative. If all Candidates running were here only 30 days I would hope someone in our School District knew them. But then again, you could simply flip a coin to decide on your School's future.

Ferguson, Tolmie win school board positions

HOMEDALE—The school district board of trustees is no longer comprised of only men, following Tuesday’s election.

In Zone One, Wanda Ferguson out-pollled both incumbent Roy Kubosumi and contender Lawrence Kent. The vote tally shows Ferguson 26, Kubosumi 19, and Kent 15. Three ballots were spoiled.

Hal Tolmie, running unopposed in Zone Five, received all 29 votes cast, according to District Clerk James Duncan.

JoAnne Thompson re-elected by Marsing school patrons

MARSING—In trustee election voting on Tuesday, JoAnne Thompson was re-elected for another term on the school board.

Out of 34 votes cast, 32 went to Thompson, and the remaining two write-in votes were Rodney Hawes.

The voters also approved to hold a bond election for a new 12 classroom facility for grades five through eight, with a small dressing room and gym, near the elementary school.

Shaw, Merrick to serve on school board

Arlen Shaw was elected trustee from Zone IV of the Grand View school district for a term of three years by a large majority. He was opposed by Bill Lemon and Mark Bailey. Ernie Agenbroad, incumbent, declined to run for another term.

C.A. (Pete) Merrick was elected trustee from Zone II of the Bruneau school district with a margin of two votes in a tight race for a term of three years. His opponents were Merrill Tallman, Merle Bachman, and John McQuire. Gene Davis, incumbent, declined the nomination.

NEW FIRM. – It will be noticed by advertisement to-day that Herman and Co. is the name of a new firm now doing business at the old stand of H. Herman and Co., corner of Washington and Second Streets. They have just received a large stock of goods of all kinds, which they sell cheap for cash. That institution will do a good business, but we’re afraid of one thing, viz: That Herman will get jealous of our good friend, Philip Lebrecht, who is a great favorite among lady customers.

POLITICAL. – The Territorial Democratic Central Committee met at Boise City May 5th and ordered a Territorial Convention to be held at Boise City, Wednesday, June 17th. The following apportionment of Delegates was made: Ada County, 3 Delegates; Aituras, 3; Boise, 21; Idaho 3; New Perce, 3; Owyhee 8; Oneida, 1; Shoshone, 1. It was resolved that no delegate be permitted to cast more than two votes by proxy.

BAKERY – John Grete has now his large oven completed and has re-opened his Bakery in elegant style. This will be good news for housewives and old bachelors; for they needn’t bake any more bread, when they can obtain it at the Silver City Bakery at a small advance on the cost of the flour. Bread, pies and cakes for the million.

The road between here and Reynolds Creek is quite difficult to navigate, but Laughlin and Edmundson are assisting the Spring sun to put it in good condition. They intend to materially improve the ditches and drains so as to prevent the Spring thaws and freshets from doing so much damage as formerly.

AN ITEM FOR TEAMSTERS. —It is a common practice for teamsters in general, and ox-teamsters in particular, in going up a hill, to take rocks from the roadside to prop up their wagon wheels when they allow their animals to rest. This would be right enough if they would remove the rocks from the road again, but as a general thing they do not, which is often a serious inconvenience to other travelers. The stage especially is put to very much trouble, thereby, causing loss of time, etc. Will not teamsters be more careful! The use of rocks for propping up wheels on grades could be obviated by having a block attached to a wire and allowing it to trail along the ground immediately behind the wheel.

OUR ASSESSOR. – From what information we have been able to obtain on the subject it appears to us that the County Commisiners “hit the nail on the head” when they appointed W. Vanschuyser County Assessor in place of Sterling Hill, resigned. Thus far he has shown himself to be a attentive and efficient official and has given general satisfaction.

THE ROADS. – We are pleased to know that Mr. Abbott, Supervisor for Road District No. 2, has commenced repairing the roads. As a consequence of the ground’s thawing out and the melting of the snow, our highways in many places were in bad condition, but now the ground is becoming dry and the money now on hand in the road fund, with the taxes yet to be collected for that purpose will serve to put the roads in good order.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD AND OPPORTUNITY FOR A PUBLIC HEARING REGARDING AN APPLICATION FOR A TIER II PERMIT TO OPERATE AN AIR POLLUTION-EMITTING SOURCE

SUBJECT: Application for a Tier II permit to operate an air pollution-emitting source and proposed action: US Ecology Idaho, Grand view

PURPOSE: The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) has scheduled a period to receive public comments under Docket No. 10AP-0229 concerning the air quality aspects of the project application and the proposed action.

AUTHORITY: In compliance with Section 404, Rules For The Control of Air Pollution in Idaho, notice is hereby given that US Ecology Idaho, Grand View, Idaho, has applied to DEQ for a Tier II permit to operate an air pollution-emitting source located at UTM coordinates 559.0, 4768.0. Notice is also given that a period for public comment has been scheduled along with an opportunity for a public hearing. These actions are authorized pursuant to Sections 39-105(3)(a), 39-105(3)(j), 39-110, 39-115(1), Idaho Code.

PUBLIC HEARING: Opportunity for a public hearing for interested persons to appear and submit written or oral comments may be provided if written requests are submitted to the undersigned on or before June 7, 2002. Hearing requests should include a brief statement explaining why a public hearing on the air quality aspects of the project would be beneficial.

For arrangements, contact the undersigned at (208) 373-0237. Braille or taped transcripts can be provided after the meeting for persons with visual impairments.

DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY: The general nature of US Ecology Idaho's business is solid waste transfer operations and the treatment, storage, and disposal of hazardous waste. The Tier II permit places emission limits on facility operations.

PROPOSED ACTION: DEQ has reviewed the application and completed a preliminary analysis of the information submitted by the applicant.
