Rally and Ride planned for Jordan Valley Sat. and Sun.

Horseback riders, motorcyclists, four-wheeler enthusiasts and 4 X 4 fans will converged on Jordan Valley Saturday and Sunday for the Second Annual Owyhee County Rally and Ride.

Sponsor of the event is "The People for the Owyhees," an organization comprised of the many groups who enjoy multiple use of federal lands.

The ride, to benefit ranchers, recreationalists and search and rescue teams, is set for two days this year at the Jordan Valley fairgrounds.

Participants will register for separate trail rides in the South Mountain area located in the southwest corner of Owyhee County and will travel over miles of rough desert and forest terrain.

Tickets are being sold for the annual raffle drawing, which will be held on Saturday evening during a barbecue. The drawing will give lucky winners a choice of prizes. One is a 12x10x5 Sheepherder tent, which includes the tent, frame and a stove with water heater. The tent package is donated by Ken's Custom Tent and Canvas, Rocky Mountain Steel, Right Angles and

Summer fun

Students in the second grade from Homedale Elementary School play on a merry-go-round at the Homedale City Park last week during their final days of classes before summer vacation. The kids were treated to a day in the park complete with a picnic and Popsicles.

Murphy to host Outpost Day this Sunday

The 19th anniversary of the Great Horny Toad Race is just one of the many events to take place on Sunday, June 2 in Murphy. The Owyhee County Historical Society presents Outpost Day each year as a "fun-filled educational way to learn about and experience the colorful western heritage of Idaho's oldest county."

Besides the horny toad race, in which prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place as well as for the most original name, this year's activities and entertainment will include local artists exhibitions, native plant presentations, old time fiddlers, square and round dancers, a handmade quilt raffle, hourly prize drawings, a live charity auction, historical shows and demonstrations of lost arts.

Lost arts are skills and industries that were essential to the daily lives of Owyhee County pioneers. Demonstrations scheduled for Outpost Day range from atlatl (spears) to tatting (lace-making). Dr. Hugh Eddy will demonstrate blacksmithing; Jim Reibe will show his boot-making skills; Tish Lewis and Don Helsey will run dog and sheep trials; Snake River Fiber Arts has an exhibit; Terry Collins will

Owyhee Cattlemen propose wilderness standards

As the Owyhee Initiative grows closer to actual legislation, Owyhee cattlemen are making their thoughts known in more concrete ways.

Owyhee Cattlemen's Association members met at the Murphy courthouse Thursday night, May 23, and Chad Gibson presented a draft of an Owyhee Cattlemen's Wilderness Proposal. If approved, the proposal would be given to the Owyhee Initiative Work Group to help direct their development of standards for review and selection of areas for wilderness designation.

The proposal says that any area to be designated as wilderness where there are ongoing lawful uses including grazing, mining and recreational pursuits, will not have those uses restricted. Further, any action relative to wilderness designation or land withdrawal shall protect the value and use of private lands, vested water rights, other vested rights and access to same.

Secondly, areas not recommended for wilderness in the August 19, 1991 Idaho Wilderness Study Report will not be considered for wilderness designation. That means, for example, that the following current BLM Wilderness Study Areas would not be considered eligible for wilderness designation: WF Red Canyon, Middle Fork, Squaw Creek Canyon, Big Willow Springs, Jarbidge and Bruneau rivers, and Sheep Creek.

The courthouse in Murphy was filled to capacity as Owyhee Cattlemen gathered to voice concerns to new BLM consultants.

The proposal also requires further evaluation and review of an area prior to final wilderness designation, with an eye to protecting grazing rights, private property and access. The draft further calls for release of non-designated Wilderness Study Areas to multiple use.

In cases where a grazing preference is diminished by designation of wilderness or land withdrawal, the owner of such grazing preference shall be compensated in an amount equal to the impact of the loss on the market value of the ranch

Crews from Homedale Volunteer Fire Department extinguish a blaze that destroyed the home of Patricia Patterson at 24 West Washington Avenue in Homedale last Saturday night. A spokesman from the department said fire crews from Marsing assisted in the blaze and the home was a total loss. No one was home when the fire ignited and the cause was undetermined on Tuesday.

Partnership forms community garden

It’s all about partnerships, and this one has many people pulling for it. It began as a dialogue between the Owyhee County Extension Nutrition Program and Marsing High School’s Vocational Agriculture instructor and it has grown to involve neighbors, friends, and the Extension Technology Program.

As a result, Marsing residents will have access to garden plots in the space adjacent to the Vocational Agriculture building this summer.

It began as a project for the After-school Program—learning about soils, healthy food choices and the “Five-a-Day” message then it blossomed. As the result of some phone calls Genevieve Johannsen, Nutrition Advisor for the Owyhee County Extension Office, received seeds for approximately 1,000 corn plants from Crookham Seed, compost soil for raised bed gardens from the Steve Regan Company, lumber to construct the raised bed gardens from Jump Creek Lumber and Supply, and pallets to build the raised bed gardens on from Owyhee Publishing.

In addition, Tim Miller—the project’s nearest neighbor—agreed to till some organic fertilizer into the land next to the Ag Shop for the corn plants, vine crops (pumpkins, cucumbers, and melons) and family plots.

John Davis, Vallivue Vocational Agriculture

Instructor, offered to share nitrogen fertilizer for those crops needing a higher nitrogen soil.

“The only partner we haven’t found yet is the materials for the watering system,” Johannsen said. “Thanks to Jason Nettleton we have access to water, just not the means of getting it to the crops quite yet. We’ll get there, even if it isn’t ideal this first time around. We can move that direction in the future.”

As part of the 4-H PowerUp technology project Bridget Aman’s students are researching community gardens and designing this summer’s garden.

“I worked with the Silver Sage Girl Scout’s community garden as part of my program while earning my social work degree,” Aman said. “I’m very anxious to watch this come together and next year we’ll have more lead time to find additional resources.”

Anyone interested in having a garden plot, and those interested in helping with this year’s garden, can call the Owyhee County Extension Office (896-4104) between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. each day.

Tennis star takes after her Marsing dad

Brooke Ferney Beverley’s whole family has always been comfortable on the tennis court, not only dad but her mom, brother and sister as well. Marsing resident Michael Ferney, who was also a professional baseball player with the San Francisco Giants, says of his daughter, “She went to her first tennis clinic when she was eight, and none of us were surprised how well she did.”

These days Brooke is a senior on BYU’s Mountain West Conference defending champion tennis team, with prospects of becoming a professional on the international tennis circuit if she decides that’s what she wants to do. But Brooke is also a newly-wed and is pursuing her degree in nursing, and she’s not sure if she wants the grueling, travel-intensive lifestyle of a tennis pro or not.

Brooke’s college academic career began in Illinois, where she was attracted to the Big Ten school’s highly ranked tennis team and its coach, Jennifer Roberts, who traveled to Idaho to recruit her. At Illinois, Brooke was nominated as the Big Ten Freshman of the Year and played in the NCAA Tournament. After her sophomore year, she transferred to BYU so she could be closer to her family and her fianc . Her tennis leapt forward again in her junior year under BYU women’s head coach Craig Manning, and she teamed up with senior captain Jodi Richardson to become a nationally ranked doubles team.

Brooke is known as a power player, aggressive on the court and equipped with the mental toughness required to win big tennis matches. Just like dad. -RB

Uria, Miller to fill Homedale school board positions

Ric Uria and Benita Miller will join school board members John Demshar and George Hyer at the Homedale School District board table in July after winning the local trustee election last Tuesday.

The two newcomers will fill Zone 3 and Zone 4 seats on the board which were formerly occupied by Fred Butler in Zone 3 and defeated incumbent Kirt Weimer in Zone 4.

"Fred and Kirt have been outstanding," Homedale School District Superintendent Bob Lisonbee said Wednesday. "They both displayed a great deal of dedication to their jobs. I just want them to know they will be deeply missed."

"But we do have two new faces coming to the board in July and I would also like to welcome them. I expect they will contribute a great deal to the education of our students."

Miller defeated Jim Bittick by 41 votes for a total of 131 to 90 and Ric Uria defeated Weimer 30 to 11. The turnout for Zone 3 was the heaviest many have seen in years. Weimer leaves the position after holding it off and on for over 20 years. Former trustee Butler chose not to run for another term.

Miller is a child advocate and an executive director of the Third District CASA, or Court Appointed Special Advocate. She works on behalf of children taken from their homes because of abuse and she serves on the Governor's Children Risk Task Force. She has four children, two of which are still in the Homedale School system.

Uria is the owner of Uria Pump & Sprinkler in Homedale. He has been a volunteer firefighter for over 20 years and a fire commissioner. He is also a member of the Basque Organizations Euzkaldunak and Txoko Ona. He lives near Homedale with his wife Teri and the couple has three daughters. Uria also has two of his children in the Homedale school system.

Miller and Uria will be sworn into the district as trustees during the annual July meeting. Weimer and Butler will attend their last meeting next month.

One month: One in three felony cases prosecuted

A disposition report from the Owyhee County Court of the Third Judicial District shows that only one in three felony cases brought before the courts over a period of a month was prosecuted as charged.

During the month ending May 10, 2002 eleven felony cases were brought before the court, four were requested by Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Ed Yarbrough to be dismissed, four were amended by the prosecutor, two pleaded guilty and one withheld judgement by the court.

The report documented 12 felony cases had gone through the local courts as of May 10. Of those felony charges, four were dismissed, four were amended to misdemeanors and the remaining four pleaded guilty.

The report shows cases that are handled in the court from the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office, Homedale Police Department, Idaho State Police and The Port of Entry. Charges are listed in the report for traffic infraction citations, misdemeanor violations and felony charges that have gone through the local prosecuting attorney's office and the court system.

The Owyhee County Sheriff's office issued 33 infraction citations, 43 misdemeanor violations and 11 felony charges. Homedale Police Department issued 20 misdemeanor violations, and one felony charge, which was amended to a misdemeanor.

Of the misdemeanor cases from the sheriff's office, two were dismissed by the court and 16 were dismissed by recommendation of the county prosecuting attorney.

Of the 11 felony charges

from the sheriff's office, three were for grand theft, two for forgery, two for burglary and one each for battery, possession of controlled substance, malicious injury to property, and probation violation.

Of the three felony grand theft offenses, one was amended to unlawful entry (a misdemeanor), one charge was dismissed and one was held on a withheld judgment. The two felony forgery cases were dismissed, one felony burglary case was dismissed and the other was amended to a misdemeanor. -CP

The soft-covered book is filled with 92 pages of Owyhee County ranching history including trials and tribulations, events and lifestyles of ranchers in the early 1800s who tamed the wild land of Owyhee County.

Ernie Bahem, Ruby Staples, Mary Nettleton O'Malley, Dale Gray, Mary Hall Bailey, as told by Tom and Celia Hall, Majorie Maher Cartwright, historian Michael F. Hanley and Connie Brandeau are a few of the authors highlighted. The book offers readers 11 chapters on the early ranching years and describes how current ranches came to be.

The books will be available at the Owyhee County Historical Museum for $10 each and will also be available at The Owyhee Avalanche Office. Julie Hyslop from the publication committee said several other publications of the Owyhee Outpost from the Historical Society will also be available on Outpost Day.

A Sunday breakfast will begin the second day of activities, which will include a "mud bog" event for four-wheelers.

"Last year's Ride and Rally raised more than $13,000 despite a short planning deadline," Watson said. "The money was raised to help defend local ranchers involved in disputes over natural resources. One thousand dollars of last year's proceeds were donated to the Owyhee

The long-term goal of the event is to protect access for recreation, agriculture and other traditional uses. Those uses, Watson said, are threatened by aggressive federal actions on such issues as endangered species protection and environmental concerns.

"Our environment is in the best shape it's been in for 10 years," Watson concluded.

"The federal government and over-eager environmental groups use these laws as an excuse to close down productive activities and recreation on federal lands."†-CP

BLM hires consultants to “end the conflict”

An informal meeting of the Owyhee Cattlemen's Association turned into a voting session when a full house showed up at the courthouse in Murphy on May 23 to discuss several issues vital to the county's ranchers.

The most remarkable news announced was that two consultants have been appointed by Kathleen Clarke, director of the BLM, to “end the conflict” between Owyhee ranchers and the BLM's Owyhee Field office in Boise. Introduced were two independent contractors that several members of the OCA group said were well known and respected by them: Wayne Burkhardt, a retired range professor from the University of Nevada, and Steve Leonard, recently retired from the BLM.

Acting state director of the BLM, Mike Ferguson, had promised to be at the meeting, and had even confirmed that very afternoon according to Wayne Burkhardt, but he never showed up. Representing the BLM was Ron Kay, a range specialist from the state office. Sen. Larry Craig's Natural Resource Field Coordinator, Nate Helm, was also on hand to report informally on a recent meeting between the senator, BLM Director Kathleen Clarke and Secretary of Agriculture Anne Veneman which he termed positive. Helm added, however, that he felt there might be a “disconnect” between director Clarke and what was actually happening on the ground.

Burkhardt explained that he and Leonard had been charged by Kathleen Clarke to “keep the cowboys in business while solving resource problems.” He said this meant helping to develop plans and solutions that both the ranchers and the BLM could support. Burkhardt, Leonard and Kay said they were there to listen, and they got an earful as OCA members voiced their long-standing concerns.

Bill Lowry got things off to a rousing start by presenting a news item published in the latest edition of Livestock Market Digest which was read to the group by Kenny Tindall, OCA president. The article was a report on the U.S. House Resources Committee questioning of Secretary of Agriculture Anne Veneman on her plans for the U.S. Forest Service and read in part, quoting chairman of the committee Congressman James V. Hansen (R-UT): “[We] have serious concerns over the management of the Forest Service. For eight years, Al Gore ran the Forest Service out of the White House. Politics drove the management of the Forest Service in ways I hope we never see again. Sweeping management decisions were made at the highest level of the Clinton Administration without regard to science, the health of the forests or the interests of the American people.”

“I don't think the Service has fully recovered from that. The forests certainly haven't. We want to visit with Ms. Veneman about her plans for returning our diseased forests to health. I want to know more about her plans for pulling out the dead underbrush that has resulted in the devastating wildfires of recent years.”

“I want to know about the Forest Service's plans for accommodating and sustaining multiple uses. This is the American people's land. These are their forests. They have the right to use and enjoy them in a variety of appropriate ways that don't damage our forests. Through the '90s, Gore forced the Forest Service to prohibit one use after another for his own political ends. But Congress didn't create the Forest Service in 1905 so that the Service could seal off millions of acres of our most scenic forests to the American people and then let those forests fall prey to disease and wildfires.

“Bill Clinton and Al Gore have been gone for almost a year and a half. It's time we return health to our forests and return our forests to the American people.”

The assembled ranchers directed similar criticisms at the handling of rangelands by the BLM, particularly the Owyhee Field Office in Boise which is the home office of range conservationist Bill Reimers and is managed by Jenna Whitlock. Stories were told of Reimers stalking out of meetings with more moderate environmentalists, and it was reported that Whitlock has recently received an award from an environmentalist group for “outstanding service to the cause.”

Lowry said it would help matters greatly if Sen. Craig or Rep. Otter would take an attitude toward Kathleen Clarke similar to that taken by Rep. Hansen toward Anne Veneman.

Burkhardt admitted that the situation with the Boise office of the BLM was “the worst I've seen.” He said, “It's a sorry situation we've got here and I don't know how we're going to solve it.” He said there was a great log jam in the Boise office. One rancher suggested that the way to break a log jam is with dynamite, and another volunteered to light the fuse.

Burkhardt said, “It's not going to get solved in the next few months. Maybe within the next two years.” To that one rancher replied, “We'll be out of business by then.”

Several ranchers expressed the idea that the only way to solve the ongoing problems with the Boise office of the BLM was to “clean house,” specifically referring to Reimers and Whitlock.

Rancher Mike Hanley brought up the controversial

BLM “Canyonlands” signs, reportedly the work of the wife of the Sierra Club's state director. Hanley reminded everyone that, historically, for a rancher to enter into a cooperative agreement with the BLM was the “kiss of death.”

Several ranchers voiced the urgent need for a new BLM state director, but no one present had heard anything about when an appointment might be made or whom it might be.

Steve Leonard explained to the group the strategy used by Jon Marvel's Western Watersheds Project, a strategy he said he had heard expressed first-hand: “Their strategy is to sue the BLM and sue the ranchers no matter what. If they win, they're happy. If they lose, they're still happy, because what they want to do is drive up the cost of range management so high that the ranchers quit or, at least, so that Marvel can go to the American people and say, “See, it costs too much to allow grazing on public land.”

One rancher suggested the cattlemen “take a lesson from the environmentalists and start suing the BLM.”

Rancher Connie Brandau reminded the group that the BLM's alleged “mail foulup” had still not been solved. She said that grazing applications and grazing bills had not been received by many ranchers, or when they were received they were last year's bills, or when they were paid the checks were returned. She voiced concern that the ranchers were being “set up” by the BLM for heavy fines or cancellations of allotments.

There was some discussion of the Sage Grouse issue and the thought, as one rancher put it, that “the Sage Grouse is becoming the Spotted Owl of the Owyhees,” referring to the issue used by environmentalists to shut down a large part of the economy of Oregon a few years ago.

“This industry has always been on the defensive,” one rancher said. “It's time we changed and got on the offensive.”

Chad Gibson, who represents the interests of OCA in the development of the Owyhee Initiative, presented a draft Owyhee Cattlemen's Wilderness Proposal which outlined standards for review and selection of areas for wilderness designation. While this gathering of OCA was not a formal one, so many members were present that a motion was made to vote on the draft proposal, the vote was taken and OCA overwhelmingly approved going forward. -RB

Services for Dorothy Pauline Edmiston, 88, of Nampa, formerly of Marsing, entered into eternal rest surrounded by her family Monday, May 20, 2002, at a Nampa Care Center, were conducted at 2:00 p.m. Thursday, May 23, at the Marsing Assembly of God Church. Pastor Rick Sherrow officiated. A viewing was held Wednesday at the Marsing Assembly of God Church from 5:00 p.m. until 8:00 p.m. Burial followed at the Marsing-Homedale Cemetery. Services were under the direction of Potter Funeral Chapel Emmett.

Dorothy was born on Oct. 5, 1913 to Edgar and Edna Smith in Clarinda, Iowa, where she was reared and educated. She moved with her family to Idaho in 1932, settling in Nampa. There she met and married Roy Boyd Edmiston on Sept. 8, 1938. They farmed in the Treasure Valley for many years until their retirement to the Marsing area in 1974. They were active in the Marsing Senior Citizens group and particularly enjoyed dancing. She also enjoyed playing bingo and did some crafts.

Roy and Dorothy enjoyed more than 60 years of marriage before Roy preceded her in death on Jan. 2, 1999.

Dorothy is survived by her children: Fred and Connie Edmiston of New Plymouth, Don and Margaret Edmiston of Caldwell, Pauline Rhoades of Marsing, Darline and Gary Steiner of Rexburg, Earl and Alice Edmiston of Emmett, Jerry and Margo Edmiston of Caldwell and Judy Obendorf of Nampa, 28 grandchildren and 49 great grandchildren, a brother Tom Smith of Fresno, Ca. and a nephew Carrol Smith of Nampa. She was preceded in death by 2 brothers, a sister and a great granddaughter. Memorials may be made to the Marsing Disaster Fund.

Kindergarten classes learn health through ag

Kindergarten classes in Homedale and Marsing recently learned how Owyhee County agriculture contributes to health with the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension office.

Seven kindergarten classes have been learning about how farms can provide them with all the foods of the food guide pyramid.

“We think that because they live in a rural area all of the students have seen a dairy and watched crops develop, but that’s not necessarily true,” commented Martin, a bi-lingual kindergarten teacher in Marsing.

The students had opportunities to relate photos taken throughout the area to the part of the pyramid they were studying each lesson.

According to Genevieve Johannsen, Extension Nutrition Program Advisor, “We are so fortunate to have such an abundance of agriculture and food-related companies near us. The orchards were beautiful this year, they provided lots of great photos to be in awe of.”

After looking at the pictures and relating them to a children’s book the students had opportunities to get involved in placing tissue blossoms on trees and matching seeds to the plants they would grow. In all, over one hundred and twenty children were involved.

Students treated to bread making

Marsing Elementary fourth graders celebrated Idaho agriculture on Friday, May 17th. Through the cooperation of the Idaho Wheat Commission, the school food service and the Owyhee County Extension Nutrition Program each student worked with a partner to create bread in a bag.

After mixing the ingredients in the bag they turned the dough out and kneaded it before shaping it into a loaf. That complicated process of bread making was suddenly something they could do while camping this summer if they should choose to. The final tally—over five dozen loaves of delicious whole wheat bread from Idaho wheat in one afternoon.

Big game controlled hunt applications due

Time is running out to file applications for this coming fall's controlled hunts for deer, elk, antelope and black bear. Applications must be in by the last day of May.

Hunters can find application forms in the big game proclamation booklet recently delivered to license vendors and Fish and Game offices statewide. Hunting rules and seasons can also be found online at <http://www2.state.id.us/fishgame> where hunters will be able to apply for hunts with the use of a credit card.

Applications can be made through the Point of Sale Machine (POSM) system at more than 400 license vendors statewide as well as at Fish and Game offices. Mailed applications must be postmarked no later than May 31 and sent to IDFG, Licensing, P.O. Box 25, Boise, Idaho 83707. Applications can be filed by calling 1-800-554-8685.

Applicants using the web site or phone system will be charged a 3 percent of the transaction plus $3.50 convenience fee by the contractors who handle those systems, in addition to the $6.50 application fee. A credit card is required for those using computer or phone. Applications mailed to Fish and Game should be accompanied by a check or money order. Fish and Game cannot accept credit card payment.

Hunters must have a hunting license before applying for controlled hunts. License, application fees and tags cost the same as last year.

Library to hold summer reading program

The Lizard Butte Library in Marsing announced its summer reading program last week, which will begin in July.

The first program will be held on July 2nd at 1 p.m. and will be held every Tuesday in July until July 23rd. Registration is required at the library, which will include name and grade level of those attending. By registering, participants will receive a starter information kit and be on a list for activities.

This year the program will partner with the 4-H program and will allow children to participate in hands-on crafts.

Goodies will be provided for each child participating and special treats will be given to kids who meet their reading goal. The program is especially designed for elementary age children, but everyone is invited to attend.

The library is located on Main Street behind Pepe's Pizza in Marsing. For more information contact Janna or Francis at 896-4690.

Weight Loss Puzzles Doctors

ATLANTA, GA -- Doctors were surprised when two separate studies found that a natural dietary supplement could help cause significant weight loss.

Although not conclusive, both studies found that patients receiving the formula called Bio-Rex 3000[®] lost more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to decrease the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

According to a spokesperson for Phillips Gulf Corporation, the exclusive North American distributor of Bio-Rex 3000, the company is considering additional studies in order to get federal approval to make pharmaceutical claims. Currently, weight loss claims for the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement are limited. However, with the requisite approval, the company could say that Bio-Rex 3000 decreases sugar cravings, increases metabolism and interferes with the body's ability to produce excess fat.

Bio-Rex 3000 is currently available as a dietary supplement and plan in pharmacies and nutrition stores or by calling 1-800-729-8446. Suggested retail price for a four week supply is just $19.99.

Smorgasbord buys almost $10,000 in school supplies

More than 2,000 people bought tickets to the 41st Annual International Smorgasbord in Homedale last February, raising almost $4,300 for the Homedale School District.

Homedale Elementary was able to buy a laser printer, a portable projector and computer. The middle school bought AR books and language CDs, among other supplies. The high school acquired an updated scientific encyclopedia, instructional posters and a cordless drill for use in industrial technology. All three schools equipped themselves with new thesaurus sets and a variety of other needed materials.

"We would like to thank everyone who participated," said Melanie Harper, who ended up chairing the historical fundraiser with her husband Barney for two years in a row after the 2002 chairpersons David and Amy Frelove lost their home in a fire shortly before the event.

Library offers summer reading program

"Join the Winners Circle" is the theme this year for the Summer Reading Program at Homedale Public Library.

Children may sign up at the library beginning on Saturday, June 1st. Those who cannot sign up that day, may sign up any time during the following six weeks.

Children can earn prizes for spending time with books this summer, and for every hour a parent must verify that a child has spent reading, or listening to someone else read. The child earns one "book buck", for each hour spent reading, that can be spent for prizes. There is no age limit since children who cannot read yet can earn prizes by listening to an older child or adult read to them.

Special weekly programs will be offered each week during the five-week program. Games, food and activities will last about an hour each Thursday at 2:00. June 6th will feature "Sporting Crafts and Games." The program June 13th will be "Handprint Art and a Fingerprint Workshop." Children will be doing "Multicultural Crafts" on June 20th. For June 27th, children will have fun with a "Bubble Workshop." Our Summer Reading program will finish with a bang on July 11th with "Party Games and Prizes!"

For more information, phone Diane Williams at Homedale Public Library, 337-4228, afternoons only 1:00-5:00. The library is located at 125 W. Owyhee Avenue.

Bruneau-GV schools offer summer meals

Free breakfast and lunch for children under 18 will be provided at Bruneau Elementary School and Grand View Elementary School from June 17 through July 3. Adults may also take advantage of the program for a nominal $2.50 charge per meal. Breakfast is from 8:00 a.m. until 8:45 a.m., lunch is 11:45 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. The Summer Food Service Program is funded by the state.

Mormon Crickets emerge en masse across Idaho

The Idaho State Department of Agriculture reports that the Mormon cricket has been spotted from the Danskin Mountain/Blacks Creek road area east of Mountain Home to Murphy in Owyhee County and the Summit of Horseshoe Bend Hill on Highway 55.

In excess of 24 bands of migrating crickets have been observed between Mayfield and the road to the Danskin Mountains in Elmore County. One of the biggest bands of migrating crickets is on Horseshoe Bend Hill East of Hwy 55 extending a mile or two up the ridge. Control measures have been undertaken in Elmore County with more being planned.

Boise County has declared a local emergency due to the threat to traffic on Highway 55. Boise County and Idaho State Department of Agriculture officials are reviewing options to see what can be done to prevent the crickets from affecting vehicle traffic on the hill.

The Idaho Transportation Department has placed warning signs on both sides of the road alerting motorists of the hazard. Large numbers of crickets crushed by passing vehicles can cause hazardous driving conditions by making the road slick. There is also great concern for alfalfa and hay crops in the Horseshoe Bend area.

For more information contact Hall Gross, Boise County Agent, at 208-793-3238, or Mike Cooper, Idaho State Department of Agriculture, at 208-332-8620.

HHS tennis team takes second

Wins mixed doubles in straight sets

The 3A/2A State tennis tournament played at Timberline High School in Boise last Saturday produced better results for the Homedale Trojans than most expected.

Homedale won mixed doubles, took second in girls singles, third in girls doubles and third in boys singles to finish second overall.

Coach Jim Smyth was quoted as saying, "We hoped for the top four, but I didn't think we would get second place."

In an overwhelming win, Kevin Overton and Sara Brown took mixed doubles in straight sets 6-1, 6-2 over Langley McNeale and Josh Kantor from Ketchum Sun Valley Community.

Brown said it was probably the best match they had ever played.

On the edge of common sense

Baxter Black, DVM

By the owl

A while back I was asked who has had the greatest influence on my live. I hadn’t ever given it much thought, like most folks, I guess. After considerin’ for a while I came up with five people that I could say actually affected the direction of my thinkin’. My dad, Doc Brimhall, John Basabe, Red Steagall and Rupert Mansell.

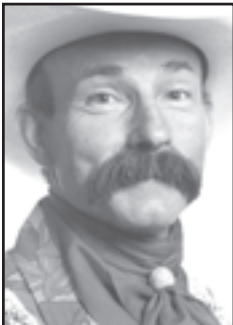

Mr. Mansell was my vo ag teacher in Las Cruces, New Mexico. “Here by the owl. The owl is the symbol of wisdom...” It’s hard for a 16-year-old kid to evaluate wisdom. I remember Rupert, as we referred to him behind his back, tryin’ to teach that rag tag bunch of boys anything (it was all boys back then). Lots of us really didn’t have much in the way of money. Our projects included 4 or 5 scraggly sheep, or a couple of steers, some pecan trees, rabbits or whatever. Sure, there were a few boys whose folks were good farmers and had impressive projects but most of us didn’t. Rupert treated us all the same.

What we all had was a love of agriculture and the optimism of youth. That was what Rupert had to work with. He taught us that dirt was under your fingernails and soil was what you tilled. He tried, often in vain, to teach us how to weld and work on machinery. How to block sheep, fit a steer, castrate a hog, and how to tell a rib steak from a chuck. It was not until much later that I came to realize how much a vo ag teacher has to know.

I said Rupert treated everybody the same. That’s not quite true since he made me feel like I was special. But, if the truth were known he probably made each one of us feel that way.

He wasn’t impressed by politics so when we decided to invite the governor to be the speaker at our local FFA banquet he said go ahead but don’t advertise it in case the “guv” didn’t show. We sent out invitations to all the school board, principal and other dignitaries. Most declined; they had other things to do. The day before the banquet the governor confirmed. It came out in the paper. Suddenly the local dignitaries were calling trying to get tickets. Overnight they had developed a sincere interest in the Future Farmers. It was one of Rupert’s finest hours.

For all you dedicated vo ag teachers, I salute you, but I remind you that you are in the position to shape young people’s lives. It is no small responsibility. And to Mr. Mansell, from all of us ex-reporters, vice-presidents, greenhands, secretaries, state farmers, soil judges, blacks, browns and whites; if we ever amount to anything, you had a hand in it. Yep, you. There by the owl.

Carter visits the U.S.

(Reportedly greeted at the border by the ghost of Frank Church)

The most treasonous American president of the modern era prior to Clinton has departed from his homeland in the junkpile of third-world communist dictatorships, most recently Cuba, for a temporary visit to the country he is still trying to destroy.

Fresh from Castro’s embrace, Carter intends to “brief” the U.S. government, especially president Bush and the Department of State, on why we should smile and wink at our undesirable neighbor to the south as he sells drugs and germs to his anti-American allies around the world.

Carter wants Bush to lift our trade embargo on Cuba so the scraggly old hippie from Caribbean academia can steal bigger bucks to put in his 401k plan, though the retirement of the Windbag of the Left would break the hearts of the similarly scraggly old hippies from U.S. academia who have been cheerfully educating American college students in the perverted ways of communism since the late 50s when Castro was busy violently overthrowing his own country’s former government.

A week before Jimmy “Peace-At-Any-Price” Carter met with his ideological cohort, Fidel “Communism-At-Any-Price” Castro, the U.S. State Dept. leaked a CIA analysis indicating that Cuba was about knee-deep in the biological warfare trade. Of course, if Carter had had his way such an embarrassing CIA analysis would never have surfaced to taint the so-called “humanitarian” purpose of his trip, because there would not have been a CIA analysis of anything at all since 1976.

That was the year Carter was elected president. Two of the first things he did after taking office was to send Idaho’s Sen. Frank Church off to Cuba to kiss the ring of Castro and to join in the Church campaign to disassemble the capabilities of the CIA.

Church is best known in Idaho for seizing 2.2 million acres of our state and handing it over to federal government bureaucrats. It’s not called the River of No Return for nothing. But outside Idaho, Church is better known for 24 years of nonstop left-wing activism in the U.S. Senate. He was a hand-wringing war protestor and, as early as 1961, blamed the failure of the attempted Cuban liberation at the Bay of Pigs not on John Kennedy’s cowardly last-minute refusal to deliver on his promise of air support but on the CIA’s enterprising plan to free the island from its communist dictator.

Throughout their careers, Church and Carter maintained their noxious focus on the Central Intelligence Agency, the American defense institution they hated even more than they hated all the rest of them.

Armed with a list of “abuses of power” provided to Church by his old friend Fidel Castro, the peacenik from Idaho found CIA “dirty tricks” to offend his pathetically naive view of the world under every rock. He supported disastrous congressional acts that exposed the Agency’s vital top-secret operational information to prattling politicians and their leaky staffs for the first time in the history of the Republic.

The notorious “Church Committee” virtually ended the secret surveillance and covert operations that had protected the country from the rising tide of terrorist activities to that point. When Carter was elected, he sent Stansfield Turner in to eliminate almost a thousand clandestine CIA positions and finish the job. By September 11, 2001, the Agency had still not recovered from the deliberate and systematic damage done to it by Carter and Church.

Like most left-wing do-gooders, Church was as vindictive as he was destructive. He succeeded in getting another Idaho son (the smart one) drummed out of the CIA. Rising star and universally respected CIA chief of counterintelligence James Jesus Angleton was pole-axed for running surveillance on Church’s favored anti-American war protestors. If Church had not poisoned Angleton’s career, it is highly unlikely that Carter would have spent a recent week hanging out with Castro. Because Castro would have been terminated with extreme prejudice decades ago and Cuba would now be a free and affluent Republic and would have no reason to allow a pitiful old socialist agitator like Carter to set foot on its free soil.

While America’s liberal press was praising Carter for meeting with “human rights” (code for “communist”) and religious groups, brunching with Castro, inspecting Soviet-style redevelopment projects in historic Old Havana, and touring agricultural communes, drug rehabilitation centers, a school for the handicapped, a neighborhood police informant council and a medical research center (which the intelligence community Carter so hates says is a secret biological weapons factory) – the kinds of hangouts that are politically correct in Carter’s book – something else was happening in Idaho.

Castro’s daughter, Alina Fernandez, who fled Cuba in 1993 and now lives in the U.S., was in Idaho explaining how her estranged father uses the resources of Cuba and its people to further his own dictatorial desires and subversive political goals. Presumably, Alina knows daddy Fidel even better than little Jimmy does.

She has described Cuba’s political system as senseless, where residents have to buy goods on the black market to survive because they receive few “luxuries” such as soap, cooking oil and sugar with their government food ration stamps. Fernandez has said she believes that, after her father is dead, Cuba will begin to slowly move toward a U.S.-style constitutional democracy.

She says it with a full measure of irony, because the fact that Cuba has been infected with a senseless political system since 1959 is itself a senseless fact. A disease that could have been snuffed out in an afternoon with a little help and courage from the United States has lingered on for 43 years and counting.

Even now, the liberation of Cuba would represent little more than an overnight training exercise for the U.S. Marine Corps. But we’ve been preached to about the virtues of “nonviolence” for so long we’ve lost our nerve.

So when Castro finally dies of natural causes and the Cuban people bury him in the ground they can be thankful that they have suffered under a psychotic dictator for only about five decades, that only about half a century of their country’s otherwise proud history has been lost, that they’ve seen only about 50 years of their personal lives wasted.

They can send their thank-you notes to Jimmy Carter. And the ghost of Frank Church.

Appreciates support

Three years ago I became interested in running for the Homedale school board trustee in zone 3. Over the past three years I have attended school board meetings and discussed concerns with many of the patrons of zone 3. I did not at anytime discuss my candidacy with any Homedale teachers. No, Reed, no one on the staff in Homedale asked me to run for the school board. The decision to run for the school board was mine! You are misinformed.

I have enjoyed working with friends and neighbors of zone 3 who have supported me in my bid for school board trustee. I am glad that so many patrons went to the polls and I hope they will continue to be involved in the education of the students of Homedale. Thank you again to the people who gave time and effort in my campaign. I appreciate all of the support I was given from patrons of zone 3.

Poorly Served

by Notra Trulock

What conclusions may be drawn from the media furor over the question of how much President Bush “knew” prior to September 11th? That is, beyond the obvious. The media love nothing better than a scandal, especially one involving Republicans, and the Democrats thought they saw a chink in the President’s popularity?

Ultimately, President George W. Bush should conclude that he was poorly served by his intelligence and law enforcement team and perhaps even his National Security Advisor, Condoleeza Rice. With the exception of Rice, it is a sad fact that this team was composed almost entirely of Clinton administration holdovers or career bureaucrats promoted by these holdovers. That story has been completely ignored by the mainstream media and even the conservative media have sought to shift blame back onto Clinton without revealing that it was the Bush administration that kept many of these appointees on board.

The President was evidently asking the right questions of his intelligence chief, Clinton political appointee George Tenet. Tenet’s morning briefings to the President had been focused on terrorist threats to US targets abroad; Bush is said to have explicitly asked Tenet about domestic threats from al Qaeda and others.

From media accounts thus far, it seems that the President was poorly served by those providing “answers” to his questions. Tenet, as the Director of Central Intelligence, had the authority to reach out to all agencies within his domain, including the FBI, to gather information for this briefing. But Tenet jealously guards his turf and has maintained the morning brief as an “in-house” CIA flagship product.

That briefing is said to have included references to bin Laden and domestic hijacking, but provided no specifics and no warning. For months the administration has claimed that no one could have anticipated the events of 9/11. But what about the 1999 Congressional Research Service (CRS) report, which did “warn” of hijackers flying airliners into skyscrapers? There is exactly one reference in the report to al Qaeda suicide bombers crashing an airliner “packed with high explosives (C-4 or Semtex) in the Pentagon, the headquarters of CIA, or the White House.” Given its overall content—a “literature review” of the sociology and psychology of terrorism—the report was almost certainly filed and forgotten, even by its sponsors.

And what about Project Bojinka, Ramzi Yousef’s plot to hijack airliners and blow them up or fly them into skyscrapers? Project Bojinka, first uncovered in 1995, was treated as a law enforcement matter, the approach adopted by the Clinton administration to fight international terrorism. When Yousef and his co-conspirators were sentenced to life in prison, the FBI chalked up Bojinka as a win. Forgotten were the other parts of the plan, including those featuring September 11th-like attacks on the World Trade Center. How much CIA actually knew about Bojinka is unknown, but Philippine authorities have said they shared all their information with both the FBI and CIA. Bojinka was discussed in the foreign media, but the CIA is well-known to pay little attention to “open sources.”

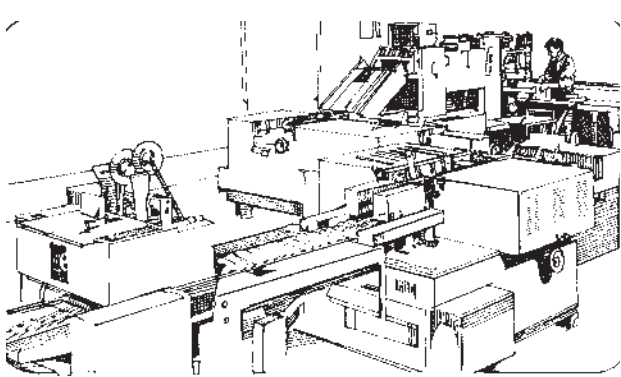

FBI Special Agent Kenneth Williams wrote a memo urging the Bureau to look into the presence of Arabs in U.S. civilian aviation schools. The memo was transmitted to FBI Headquarters on July 10, a few days after former Director Louis Freeh resigned, where it came under the jurisdiction of Neil Gallagher, Assistant Director, National Security (NSD) and Dale Watson, Chief of the International Terrorism Section, NSD, both Freeh appointees. The memo was sent to New York, the headquarters of the Joint Terrorism Task Force, but apparently not out to the Counter-Terrorism Center at Langley, an interagency group which includes FBI agents. No action was taken by the Clinton appointees on the memo.

The bottom line of all this is that Bush was poorly served by those he must rely on to get him the very best information and assessments in a timely and useful fashion. Save for Rice, every one of those people is a holdover from the Clinton administration. There was no transition or changes in personnel at CIA when the new administration took office. Likewise at the FBI, where Freeh and his handpicked deputies were kept on with no changes. The President got bad advice from those urging him to keep them on.

The results of that advice were there for all to see on September 11th.

PARMENIUS LUTHER BANNER a native of Salem, Forsyth County, Indiana, aged 38 years, died at Merrill’s Ranch, Jordan Valley, Baker County, Oregon, at six o’clock on the morning of Tuesday, May 10th, 1868, of consumption, of which he had been more or less affected for a year past. Mr. Banner was one of the early settlers in Boonville, and came to this place to reside about two years ago. He has lived in California and Nevada for many years, where he was engaged in several mining enterprises, none of which, we believe, were very successful. For the last two months he has been confined to his bed, and was induced by his friends to try a change of climate. He was accordingly taken to Lockwood’s Ranch in a carriage by P. H. Clark, and from thence he went by stage to Mr. Merrill’s, where he remained in a very low condition several weeks until he died.

His effects, consisting of papers and money, were sent by his direction to T. J. Butler, with a request that everything valuable be sent to his mother, who is now the only living member of his family.

COMING. – L. J. Lewis, Superintendent of the Cosmos Co., will soon reach here and gladden the hearts of the Company’s creditors with cash. He left New York via steamer some weeks ago, with funds to relieve the Company’s property from indebtedness here, and it is understood with funds to carry on mining operations.

SOLD. – G. W. Grayson has sold his interest in the firm of Grayson and Co., merchants of this place, to J. M. Blossom, of Boise City. Mr. Blossom will continue the business in all its branches as will appear in our advertising columns in a few days.

We were told by hotel and restaurant men that as many as 15,000 pounds of good potatoes would find ready sale in this market at 12 1/2 cts. per pound. Where are the farmers?

VERY AGREEABLE. – A handsome, roguish eyed, rosy cheeked maiden, came tripping into our office yesterday, bearing a large package for the “Avalanche boys.” Upon examination we discovered a magnificent cranberry pie and a large quantity of nice cakes. Quite a treat, thanks to John Grete proprietor of Silver City Bakery where anything in the bread, cake or pastry line is made to order, and constantly for sale.

STOLEN. – The Golden Chariot Company was robbed of about $6000 in crude bullion on the night of the 20th at their mill on Sinker Creek. It was taken from the retort. Suspicions are strong against some Chinamen, but up to yesterday morning nothing positive was ascertained, and none of the lost treasure recovered. It is not exactly safe to allow a retort with that amount of bullion in it to stand over night unguarded. This remark is not offered as news.

JOHN JENN, of Leslie and Co., has recently been to Camp Three Forks Owyhee taking photographic views of the camp, scenes surrounding and groups of the officers. Many of these views are quite interesting and would give a still further variety to the collections made by persons who have been accumulating photographs of different places in Owyhee County. They can be had very cheap at the Gallery, over Wells, Fargo and Co.

DRESSMAKING. – We direct the attention of the ladies (and gentlemen) to Mrs. E. Orendorff’s new advertisement in this paper. All kinds of ladies outfits made to order and constantly kept on hand, also plain sewing and all kinds of fancy fixings.
