County levies “un-certifiable” — again

Acting Owyhee County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn was to meet with officials of the State Tax Commission yesterday to iron out problems with the county’s certification of levies, it was learned last week.

The extent of the problems with the levies has not been made public, and the clerk’s office has failed to respond to a request by this newspaper for documents pertaining to the issue.

“They’re not big problems at this point. I think we’re okay,” Sherburn said Thursday. She added that she was not involved in the levy process, but that the “new construction values were figured wrong”.

She said she was to meet with the commission in Boise Tuesday to resolve the discrepancies. The state has until the fourth Monday of October to confirm the levies certified by the county as being proper and legal.

This is the eighth year in a row the county-certified levies have been rejected by the state because of errors, but the errors have been corrected before the October deadline.

Sherburn, who is acting clerk while clerk Cyndi Eaton is recuperating from minor surgery, is the GOP candidate for he position at the November elections. - JA

by Cheryl Peterson

The owners of the Owyhee Lanes and Restaurant have filed a tort claim for $1million in damages against the City of Homedale, the City of Wilder and both cities police departments stating significant losses in “business, damage to reputation, damage to business reputation, emotional distress and related injuries” after Homedale Police Department closed the establishment when a report of juveniles drinking had been reported.

The claim states that on March 30, 2002, Homedale City Councilman and Police Commissioner David Freelove contacted the local police department and reported that he had been informed juveniles were consuming alcohol on the bowling alley premises during cosmic bowling.

“The respondent Freelove reported this information without any direct knowledge as to it’s truth or falsity,”

Irrigation season draws to a close

The irrigation season in Owyhee County is drawing to a close as farmers harvest crops for the fall season.

A spokesman from the South Board of Control said irrigation water in the district would also be shut off on Oct. 11 as well as the City of Homedale.

Irrigation in the City of Marsing is expected to end on Oct. 11 and Janice Bicandi, Marsing City Clerk said the ditches in the area should be empty within a few days after the water is shut off.

A newly released water outlook shows Idaho is expected to get normal precipitation this fall, but the

Society ends summer with Star and Brace Ranch trip

Meeting at Jordan Valley, over 80 Owyhee County Historical Society members prepared for a 120-mile round trip field trip to visit the Star and Brace ranches on September 21. This was a repeat of a July excursion hampered by temperatures over 100 degrees but this

Saturday morning had a hint of frost.

Many members had purchased radios so the 28-car caravan could listen to a running dialogue by trip coordinator Tom Skinner. This was further enhanced when Frankie Dougal joined the caravan and informed the group of the many facets of living a long life in this difficult but beautiful ranching country.

Mike Stanford of the Glenns Ferry Grazing Association hosted the group at the Star Ranch. Skinner, Dougal and other area residents responded to questions after lunch and when asked what people used to do for fun there was a long pause.

Dougal finally countered, "There wasn't any." She elaborated that the lifestyle, riding, wrangling and extraordinary country was fulfilling beyond measure.

Continuing through the volcanic impacted country sprinkled with natural springs, the caravan came to the Brace Ranch with its unusual historic buildings. Members were amazed at the large barn constructed primarily with willows and poles that years ago had sported a sod roof. Impressed by the ingenuity of early pioneers, who used the materials at hand, without mechanized implements, members inspected the stone and willow buildings.

This trip rounded out a summer of interesting excursions by the OCHS.

The Homedale Public Library offered more than 1,000 books for sale Saturday during the annual fall book sale. Proceeds average about $200 and go towards the purchase of new books.

The fate of Homedale City Councilman and Police Commissioner David Freelove will have to wait until October after a motion to dismiss was continued during a pretrial hearing on charges of driving under the influence. An Owyhee County deputy stopped Freelove on August 17 after receiving a report that Freelove had been trespassing and seemed to be intoxicated. Freelove refused a breathalyzer test and had his drivers license was revoked until a BAC hearing on Sept. 9th at which time a judge determined that the “state has not proven the burden,” and dismissed the charges. During the pre-trial hearing held in Murphy Monday, the defense attorney moved the case to be dismissed. The case has been continued until Oct. 21 at 1:30 p.m. -CP

Frost blankets valley, expected to continue through week

The National Weather Service posted a frost warning for most of Owyhee County last Tuesday as temperatures dipped into the lower 30s through most of the area and announced that temperatures were expected to remain cold through the rest of the week. In a frost warning issued Sunday night said a cold air mass would settle over Southwest Idaho bringing the first frost to the area for this fall.

County DMV closes for dispatch remodeling

Owyhee County residents hoping to get drivers’ licenses or register a vehicle in Murphy will have to travel to Marsing, Grand View or out of the county on Oct. 7-9 as the Department of Motor Vehicles will be closed for remodeling. Owyhee County Dispatch Supervisor Sherry Olson said the dispatch center will be moved into the DMV office for the three days as new computers and equipment is installed for the enhanced 911 system. She said people can go to Marsing or Grand View for DMV issues or they can go outside of the county. She said the Grand View DMV is open on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Marsing DMV is open Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

“Overnight clouds and some winds Monday kept frost from most locations, but Tuesday night clouds decreased and temperatures dipped into the upper 20s. Highs were expected to be near 63 today (Wednesday) and clouds are expected to move into the area again on Thursday with a chance of showers. Thursday’s high is projected to be up to 66 degrees with the lows from 30-37 degrees. Friday is expected to be partly cloudy with a chance of showers, lows 32-39 degrees. The high Friday is expected to be from 58-67. Saturday expect clear skies with lows from 30-36 and highs 58-68. Sunday is projected to be partly cloudy with lows 28-35 and highs in the upper 60s.

✓ Tort

The claim states. “Following receipt of the above rumor from respondent Freeloze, Homedale Police Officer Andrew Hoagland went to the Owyhee Lanes and Restaurant on March 30, 2002. Respondent Hoagland did so while on duty as a police officer and while accompanied by and with the assistance of Wilder Police Officer Jeff Hoffer.”

The claim states that Hoagland and Hoffer entered the bowling alley, stopped the bowling activities, prevented the patrons from leaving the premises and administered breathalyzer tests to a large number of juvenile patrons, “possibly as many as 30-40.” No juveniles were found to be consuming alcoholic beverages.

“Respondents Hoagland and Hoffer took the above-described action without probable or legal cause, nor did they have any type of warrant authorizing their actions,” the claim states. “Their actions were negligent and/or intentional, willful and reckless, resulting in damage to claimants and claimants’ business.

“Respondent Freeloze as Homedale City Councilman, and perhaps more especially as the City’s Police Commissioner, knew or should have known Officer Hoagland would act upon the unsubstantiated rumor he (Freeloze) reported. Respondent Freeloze’s actions in light of his position with the City and Police Department, were negligent.”

Homedale Mayor Harold Puri said he had no comment when asked to respond to the claim.

✓ Irrigation

question still remains if it will be enough to bring irrigation back to normal.

This year’s carryover is nearly nonexistent. But Owyhee County still has not felt the effects of the drought conditions as other counties who have ended irrigation seasons nearly a month early.

A new forecast from the Climate Prediction Center in Maryland indicates drier-than-average conditions are generally expected in the Pacific Northwest this fall. However, Idaho has better chances of avoiding extreme drought than its western neighbors, Oregon and Washington.

Another problem is that next year’s irrigation season follows several seasons of drought, so underground water levels, which take several years to recharge, are expected to retreat further.

So far this year, Gov. Dirk Kempthorne has declared drought emergencies in 15 counties.

Class of 1942 plans reunion

Appeals panel upholds limited grazing decision

by Cheryl Peterson

A three member panel of the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals on Tuesday affirmed U.S. District Judge Lynn Winmill's order to limit livestock grazing in areas of Owyhee County. Local ranchers say they are not surprised by the decision and said they don't feel like they won, or lost, in the decision.

The decision, issued by the San Francisco-based appellate court panel, was granted largely on technical and procedural issues.

An environmental extremist group filed suit in 1997 challenging the Bureau of Land Management's environmental analysis that was conducted as part of the permitting process and attempted to overturn the renewal of 68 permits.

Additionally, the suit sought an injunction barring cattle grazing on the affected allotments until National Environmental Policy Act documentation was completed.

In March 1999, Winmill ruled that the bureau's documentation of its environmental analysis did not comply with the act.

The court later ruled against the environmental group's request for an injunction barring grazing until the environmental work was done.

Instead, Winmill ordered interim recommendations that set minimum stubble heights on stream banks, set allowable damage at less than 10 percent on stream segments, and cut overall grazing about 50 percent.

"I had only heard a small portion of the decision as of this morning," rancher Connie Brandau who is named in the lawsuit as a defendant, intervenor and appellant with the Owyhee Resources Area Permittees, Thomas Hook, James Collins, Michael Hanley and Tim Lowry. "They affirmed Winmill on all points. This means for us that those environmentalists have the right to go ahead. It basically says they uphold everything, that the federal court judge has the right whether right or wrong."

Brandau says she does not feel this is a win for the environmental groups because this suit had nothing to do with the environmental groups at all.

"Basically the five of us, supporting the total 68 permittees, went in and said we don't think Winmill used sound judgement in deciding the things he decided because he decided one way for one group and one way for another," Brandau explained. "He wasn't applying the standard across the board."

"It is because we are trying to follow the rules, laws and regulations of the federal court system that we are having so much trouble. All of this is from trying to set up a good allotment management plan and having the environmentalists come in and shoot it down then BLM holds you to that plan that creates a problem. Then they come back in and say, 'oh, we have a problem and you will have to get off.' If they would let us

"We live in a strange, strange world that an appeals court will affirm Winmill's decision," a local rancher reacts to Circuit Court decision manage it we would not have problem.

"Judge Winmill has allowed the environmentalists to bypass the administrative procedure process and go right into federal court."

"The record reflects that the District Court adopted a middle-ground approach and was mindful of the equities on all sides, imposing the interim measures in order to avoid the harsh consequences to the ranchers of stopping all grazing," wrote appellate court Judge Dorothy Nelson.

"He can now make any decision he wants to make whether it is in conflict with each other or not," Brandau continued. "We live in a strange, strange world when an appeals court will affirm Winmill on all points even though there is such a conflict of interest."

The interim order will be in effect until the BLM is able to complete its environmental impact studies on all 68 allotments and conforms with federal policy.

Reviews of high priority allotments should be complete by the end of next year, followed by the other allotments by 2006.

After several attempts to obtain a statement from the Bureau of Land Management's Lower Snake River District Field Manager, the office sent a statement from the Department of Justice in Washington D.C. that said; "We are currently reviewing the courts ruling and will make a determination in the near future as to what our next step will be."

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Black 50 years ago

Asa and Marilyn Black to celebrate 50th anniversary

Asa (Ace) and Marilyn Black of Bruneau will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at a reception in their honor to be held Saturday, Oct. 12 from 2 until 5 p.m. at the Bruneau American Legion Hall. There will be a short program honoring the couple at 4 p.m.

Ace was born and raised in Bruneau where he worked with his parents, Albert and Bonnie Black on their ranch. He attended Bruneau Elementary and was a graduate of Bruneau High School.

Marilyn was raised in Oreana at the Box T ranch in the Owyhee mountains where she helped her parents, Jim and Maudie Nettleton. She attended elementary school in Oreana, was a graduate of Nampa High School and attended Maryhurst College in Portland, Oregon.

The couple met at the Grand View Rodeo, where Ace was working as a pick-up man for the rough stock events. He literally “roped” her heart, and broke the window of her father’s car in doing so. Ace and Marilyn were married on Sept. 20, 1952 at St. Paul Catholic Church in Nampa. They began their married life in Bruneau where Ace worked for his family on their cattle ranch.

From there, the couple moved to Castle Creek in Oreana and on to the Joyce Ranch on Sinker Creek near Murphy where Ace was a foreman for Dave Miller for several years. In addition to working on the ranch, Ace continued to work the local rodeos as a pick-up man as he had before his marriage and Marilyn baked pies which she sold to the Wagon Wheel restaurant in Murphy when she took her children to school in the mornings.

In 1962, the Blacks returned to Bruneau with their five young children, Terry, Tony, Patrick, Ann and Martin. It was at that time they moved into their two-story home which was built in 1898. Shortly after their move, their son, Patrick, was killed in an auto accident near Bruneau.

They continued to ranch in the Bruneau Valley and in the Owyhee Mountains and added to their family sons Burke and Bret, and their daughter, Sandy.

Ace is a charter member of the Owyhee County Sheriff’s Posse and has been active in the local, state and national cattlemen’s associations. Marilyn served 18 years as an EMT on the Bruneau QRU and 22 years as a 4-H horse leader. She is a charter member of the Owyhee County Cowbells and was instrumental in many other organizations.

The Blacks have been active in the Catholic Church all through their married life and sponsored many marriage encounters over the years at their cabin in the Owyhee Mountains. They attend St. Bridget’s Catholic Church in Bruneau.

When Ace and Marilyn count their blessings, they count 17 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren as the treasures of their lives.

Youth pheasant hunt is Saturday

First time bird hunters will have a chance to learn from the experts at an upcoming pheasant youth hunt sponsored by the Canyon County Chapter of Pheasants Forever.

The event will be held at Idaho Sporting Clays and Game Birds on Sage Road south of Homedale on Oct. 12. The event is designed for first time bird hunters of any age to become familiar with pheasant hunting and shot gun safety.

“Persons with little or no field experience shooting shotguns and hunting upland birds are encouraged to attend,” event spokesman Barney Harper said. “Folks are encouraged to bring their own shot gun to the event, but we will have shotguns available for people to use.”

Harper said people wanting to attend will need to pre register with him to confirm a time and there is no cost for the event.

Registration times will begin at 8:30 a.m. To register contact Harper at 454-9551 or by e-mail at bharper11@msn.com. Participants will receive shooting instruction during an accuracy workshop and then will follow with a supervised pheasant hunt. Harper said he hopes each participant will return with a bird.

Dummy game animals used in law enforcement

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game reminds hunters that in areas where the department has received complaints of spotlighting or other suspicious activity, enforcement officers will be using artificial simulated animals.

Also known as ASAs, these life-like specimens of deer, elk, and other game species, aid conservation officers in apprehending violators of Idaho law. The use of such tools has been upheld in court systems across the country as a legitimate method of apprehending violators and has aided in reducing illegal hunting activities. At least 30 states and several Canadian provinces have been using ASAs since the late 1980s.

Many of the citations issued to road hunters who violate game laws include spotlighting, trespassing, shooting from a motorized vehicle, shooting across the road and waste of game. The penalties for shooting an ASA can include a mandatory license revocation, fine up to $1,000 and a jail sentence of up to six months.

Two inmates transported from jail to local hospitals

Two inmates from the Owyhee County Jail were transported to local hospitals last week in unrelated incidents, but both at nearly the same time. Lyla Sepulveda-Hernandez was taken by Marsing ambulance to Mercy Medical Center in Nampa after she complained of chest pains. At nearly the same time, jailers were booking Steve Larzelier of Homedale into the jail when they discovered he may have swallowed three grams of methamphetamine and had to be transported to a hospital. “Larzelier was being brought in by Homedale Police Department for booking on a warrant when we had to dispatch for an ambulance for Lyla,” a dispatcher with the sheriff’s office said Wednesday. “The officer reported that he may have swallowed nearly three grams of methamphetamine. Lyla was complaining of chest pains and we felt she could be having a heart attack so the ambulance was dispatched from Marsing.” The dispatcher said Marsing ambulance left the jail with Hernandez at approximately 12:40 a.m. she said Larzelier was being prepared for transport at about the same time. Larzelier had been arrested on a $50,000 grand theft warrant and Hernandez has been housed in the jail since her arrest for two counts of possession and two counts of grand theft by possession in July. Both inmates were treated and released back to the jail.

Women are different at heart.

And changing your habits could save your life.

You can’t change who you are, but you can change what you do. Women are just as prone to heart disease as men, but St. Luke’s wants you to know that you have the power to reduce your risk. For example: Don’t smoke.

More than 20 million American women light up every day—even though women who smoke are two to six times as likely to have a heart attack as nonsmoking women. And in women, smoking causes nearly as many deaths from heart disease as from lung cancer. Know the risk factors of heart disease in women. It just might save your life.

If you experience the symptoms of a heart attack, call 911 or get to the nearest hospital immediately.

This heart healthy message was brought to you by the Rural Connection, a partnership of hospitals and Boise State University Department of Nursing, dedicated to improving patient care and outcomes by strengthening hospital nursing.

Trojans hold Trojans in homecoming thriller

The Homedale Trojans put their best on the field Friday night for the battle of the Trojans against rival football team Nampa Christian. Homedale's efforts paid off with a 21-12 victory. Cole Cooper led Homedale in the 2A Western Idaho Conference game rushing 129 yards and scoring two touchdowns including the clinching score on a fourth and nine play with a short four minutes left in play. Homedale's defense also came through with an effort to set up a conference showdown next week at co-leader Parma who beat Melba Friday 44-19. Homedale led 13-12 midway through the fourth quarter when Brandon Hathhorn and Cooper moved the home team down the field to set up Cooper's winning touchdown. Home defense held Nampa Christian to one first down and 25 yards of total offense in the first half, but Nampa Christian went into halftime tied 6-6. Homedale opened the second half by scoring on a five-yard touchdown run by Hathhorn, but Nampa Christian responded with an 80 yard run and cut the deficit to 13-12. Homedale sealed the win when Mark Mashburn intercepted with a minute and a half remaining. Homedale will travel to meet the Panthers Friday in Parma.

Battle of the Trojans to take place Thurs.

The battle of the Trojans will happen Thursday with Homedale traveling to meet Nampa Christian in Nampa. Homedale is currently in the first seed spot undefeated giving Nampa Christian its only defeat earlier in the season.

Last week, Homedale scored yet another victory adding the Parma Panthers to its victim list.

Homedale beat the Panthers, 21-7, 21-7 and 21-13. Carrie Ann Vanderhoff racked up five kills and teammates Kim Silveria, Alysa Gluch and Erica Miyasako each had three aces.

Homedale hosted the Marsing Huskies Tuesday, but results were unavailable at press time.

Homedale varsity coach Kevin Murphy said Thursday night's game is going to be tough and would not predict what the outcome would be.

"Nampa Christian is a tough team, they were a tough team the first time and this one will be no exception," Murphy said Monday. "They are the toughest team in the league we play. So far so good. We will wait to see what happens."

Games will begin at 5 p.m. in the Nampa Christian High School gym.

Pirates stop Huskies 27-18

The Payette Pirates slipped by the Marsing Huskies in Marsing's homecoming football game Friday night 27-18. The match was a non-conference game.

Cody Heller led the Huskies with 174 yards on 27 carries, including a 39-yard touchdown run to close out the first half. Heller also kicked a 24-yard field goal and Garrett Raymond scored on a two yard run.

Payette ran for 284 yards while the Huskies put together 215 yards in the match.

Mustangs oust McDermitt 48-0

The Jordan Valley Mustangs routed McDermitt Friday in nonleague football action 48-0.

Ryan McKenzie opened up the scoring for Jordan Valley with a 70-yard kickoff return and added first quarter touchdown runs of 20 yards and 25 yards. Shaun Lequerica connected with Pat Anderson on a 60-yard pass play to finish the Mustang first quarter scoring and give Jordan Valley a 30-0 lead.

Brian Grenke and Pat Hipwell each had scoring runs for Jordan Valley who will host Dayville-monument-Mitchell in a Tri-Co League contest Friday in the Mustangs' homecoming games.

Spud prices climb, harvest drops from 2001

Potato production in Idaho has dropped over the last year causing prices for spuds to climb to over 10.80 per cwt in July and 8.64 in August as released from the Department of Agriculture earlier this month.

In August 2001, farmers were receiving 6.05 per cwt for spuds but the final disposition numbers for Idaho's 2001 potato crop showed 120 million cwt at 6.1 percent decrease from early year estimates. Annalists believe this years crop will again show a decrease in growing numbers.

2001 field run yield was at 345 cwt is three cwt below previous estimates. Three hundred fourty eight thousand acres were down 15.7 percent from 200 and the lowest harvest acreage since 1988. The final estimate for the 2002 crop will be available in November, but reports show as prices climb, production has dropped.

In Owyhee County, 3,400 acres of potatoes were planted in 2001 with all acreages being harvested for a yield of 450 cwt. Total production in 2001 was 153,000 cwt.

In 2000, Owyhee County was the third largest producer of potatoes in the southwest counties producing over 2 million pounds of potatoes. Elmore county produced over 5 million pounds of spuds on over 11 thousand acres.

Owyhee County part of forage seed pilot program for growers

A recent announcement by USDA's Risk Management Agency confirms USDA's commitment to help strengthen the safety net for agriculture. In part, the availability of the Multi-Peril Crop Insurance forage seed (alfalfa type) pilot insurance policy for the 2003 crop year will be available for producers in Owyhee County, Idaho. Other participating states include California, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming.

Dave Paul, director of RMA's Spokane Regional Office - serving Alaska, Idaho, Oregon and Washington - stated, "Western forage seed growers have the opportunity to add the forage seed insurance policy to their business plan as a risk management tool to protect their crop investment. Growers will also benefit from higher levels of protection at less cost due to provisions approved in the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000."

The forage seed pilot policy provides protection against unavoidable natural perils for the alfalfa type that is grown for harvest as certified forage seed or seed grown under a forage seed contract executed on or before the acreage reporting date.

Forage seed producers should contact a local Multi-Peril Crop Insurance agent for complete crop insurance details. Final date to obtain a forage seed pilot program insurance policy for the 2003 crop year is Monday, September 30, 2002.

A listing of crop insurance agents is found in all local USDA Service Centers (the centers are usually listed in telephone directories under "U.S. Government, Department of Agriculture") or at RMA's website address: www.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/

Public comment reopened for listing of plant Slickspot Peppergrass

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced the reopening of the public comment period for the proposed rule to list the plant slickspot peppergrass (Lepidium papilliferum) as endangered under the Federal Endangered Species Act.

The period has been reopened to allow additional time for all interested parties to submit written comments on the proposal. The original public comment period closed on September 13, 2002. The new comment closing date is November 25, 2002. Comments must be received by 5:00 p.m. on the closing date. Comments received after that date would not be considered in the final decision. Comments previously submitted need not be resubmitted, as they have already been incorporated into the public record. All comments will be fully considered in the final rule.

This small, rare plant occurs in sagebrush-steppe habitats in southwestern Idaho, including the Snake River Plain, Owyhee Plateau and adjacent foothills in southwestern Idaho. Biologists have documented 70 occurrences of slickspot peppergrass in Ada, Canyon, Gem, Elmore, Payette and Owyhee counties but only six of these areas are considered to be of high quality. The species is no longer found in 18 other historic occurrences. Remaining suitable habitat to support this species is less than 12,400 acres.

writing the Supervisor, Snake River Basin Office, 1387 S. Vinnell Way, Room 368, Boise, Idaho 83709.

The public may submit comments and materials by one of several other methods. Comments may be submitted by mail or hand-delivered to the Supervisor, Snake River Basin Office, 1387 S. $7 million-a-year business

The news that the county tax levies were certified incorrectly again brings a mental recall of all the errors and omissions in the county budget process over most of the past decade.

Since the retirement of long-time clerk Barbara Jayo, there has not been one budget process that has gone by without problems. Some of those years the budget process had to be completely re-done, including re-writing, re-publishing, and re-hearing on the proposed budget.

And for most, if not all, of those years the certification to the state has been sent back to be corrected.

The position of county clerk is a complex one. Duties include the clerk of the district court, auditor, recorder, secretary to the commissioners, and, of course, chief budget officer.

Since the county commissioners are part-time positions, the clerk's job also includes the administrative duties of the board, from answering questions from the public to handling correspondence and keeping track of volumes of communications for the board. It is a complicated and all-consuming position.

In reality, the county clerk is the CEO of the county. All the responsibilities of financial records, payrolls, insurance claims, recordings of all documents, etc., etc. fall on the county clerk.

The job is comparable to a superintendent of a school district, but the pay is about half.

We're not blaming individuals, but one thing is certain. Year in and year out, there are budget problems in Owyhee County government. The county must realize that to get a CEO, we must pay for a CEO. Could a $7 million-a-year business in the private sector attract and keep officers at a $35,000 a year salary? Hardly.

This realization must come to the commissioners regarding the other professional postions - all of the elected full-time officers.

The pat answer from both present and past commissioners is "We pay about the same as other counties". True. And other counties experience many of the same problems. What's wrong with paying comparable to private business? After all, that's the quality of professionalism we want and expect.

To get and keep professional people, you must pay professional salaries. It's that simple.

A job for life

What if the ANTI's dreams came true. A land where livestock raising was outlawed - no cattle grazing, no dusty feedlots, no chicken houses, no hog confinement operations. All farming disallowed except strict organic gardening. No mining or drilling. No coal burning or nuclear power. No new damming of waterways and elimination of existing dams. No timber harvest - even on private lands. No research laboratories of any kind, no resort facilities on public lands, no wild game hunting, no snow mobiles, ATV's, motorcycles, or 4-wheel drives on public lands.

No commercial fishing offshore or inland. No sport fishing, including catch and release. All, except domestic livestock would be considered protected. A population control program limiting births and immigration.

This paradise brought to you by the ANTI's Coalition for Restoring Earth to it's Natural Splendor.

So, does this mean that the ANTI's don't want gasoline-powered cars, air conditioned townhouses, Ben and Jerry's ice cream, redwood decks, well water, concrete bridges, asphalt highways, sewer lines, antibiotics, crab salad, pasta, chicken nuggets, spare ribs, Double Whoppers, parks, boating, fresh strawberries in January, central heating, trash pick up, electric computers, cell phones, and cable or satellite TV?

Of course they do! They just don't want to use our natural resources to produce it. Already, for instance, they see nothing wrong with importing 60 percent of our oil from unfriendly countries with-less-than-EPA approved drilling methods, in questionable tankers operated by reliable allies such as Libya.

The ANTI's can easily envision a world where we import our steel, cement, medicine, food and lumber from 3rd world countries. Think of it, a land with no factories, no slaughter houses, no wheat fields, corn or soybeans, no refineries, coal mines or Hoover dams, pulp plants or sawmills. A Utopia with semi-clean air, semi-clean waterways and a declining population all doing each other's laundry. 50 percent of the jobs would be in the service industry, 49 percent would be government regulatory enforcement employees.

But, of course, this scenario will never happen. For this I give credit to the ANTI's common sense. If all the disparate ANTI groups succeeded in their goals to abolish industry as we know it, then what would they do? They only can exist if they have something to be against, to draw financial nourishment from.

If they win and put our producers out of business, then they put themselves out of business, too. And they are too smart for that. †Because they know that as long as the capitalists in our country try to be self-sufficient, the ANTI's have a job for life.

Accuracy in media

A shaggy dog story

by Notra Trulock

The bloodhounds were “barking and howling and straining at their leashes. That was the sensational lead to a Newsweek story that has become one of the particulars in the public “indictment” of Dr. Steven Hatfill for last fall’s unsolved anthrax killings. Newsweek said that the FBI took bloodhounds to Hatfill’s Maryland apartment in early August. It claims a law enforcement official told them, “They went crazy.” Not surprisingly, Newsweek’s story was picked up and replayed as far away as Qatar. But is the story accurate?

Newsweek reported that the bloodhounds matched scent lifted from the anthrax letters to Hatfill. Newsweek said that the dogs also “reacted” at his girlfriend’s apartment and a Denny’s restaurant in Louisiana. Newsweek reporters told AIM that the FBI had employed a “new technology” to collect scent that involves “vacuuming” it onto a sterile gauze pad directly from the letters. The FBI told Newsweek that the Bureau does not have its own dogs and had flown in bloodhounds for use by the Washington Field Office.

Hatfill says that Newsweek’s description of the dog’s visit to his apartment is inaccurate. He says that the Bureau took him to an empty apartment in his complex and directed him to one of three chairs. A bloodhound was brought in and Hatfill, a dog lover, scratched the dog’s ears. When the dog began to return the affection, an agent started screaming “the dog is reacting, the dog is reacting!” Also, a Baltimore Sun reporter determined that none of the twelve Denny’s in Louisiana had been visited by the FBI and bloodhounds.

AIM contacted a national training coordinator of the Law Enforcement Bloodhounds Association (LEBA), a police officer with fifteen years of experience handling bloodhounds, about Newsweek’s story. He and his dog form one of fifteen teams, all from the law enforcement community in the part of Maryland that includes Hatfill’s apartment. Among this group is a team on the FBI’s Hostage Rescue Team call list that participated in the search for suspected Olympics bomber Eric Rudolph. None were called upon by the FBI in this case and they too have been wondering whose dogs were used. The LEBA training coordinator confirmed that the FBI doesn’t have its own dogs, never uses volunteers, and always contracts with local law enforcement dog teams in such cases.

Asked about the “new technology,” the officer laughed and said that the reference was to a “scent machine,” probably the STU-100, invented by William Tolhurst and Larry Harris, two well-known dog handlers and experts on the use of bloodhounds in police manners. Mr. Tolhurst, who lives in upstate New York, told AIM that it is “very possible” that his STU-100 was used and his website does list the FBI’s Washington Field Office as one of his customers. Tolhurst and Harris have sold their $600 STU-100s to local police forces, particularly in California where Mr. Harris is based. Mr. Tolhurst believes that scent, derived from oils transferred from a person’s skin to a particular article like envelopes, would linger after decontamination. He acknowledged that his device was somewhat controversial, but compared skepticism about its effectiveness to that surrounding earlier tools like the polygraph. He declined to offer any further details citing the “on-going investigation.”

AIM has learned that the STU-100 was the “new technology” and that Mr. Harris and his dogs were flown in by the Bureau for the Hatfill search. AIM also learned that both the STU-100 and Mr. Harris are very controversial in the world of police bloodhound handlers. Officer Jerry Nichols, the LEBA President, told AIM that both LEBA and the National Police Bloodhound Association have declined to endorse the STU-100. Officer Nichols was very critical of the methodology used by the FBI and Harris in the Hatfill case, saying it was “badly flawed.” Too many people handled the letters, it’s not certain that the scent would survive the decontamination process, and a judge threw out a case involving Mr. Harris that was very similar to this. In fact, police handlers were so offended by Mr. Harris’ technique in that case, one flew to California from Maryland to testify for the defense.

At first glance, this looks like just another FBI fiasco. But when did Newsweek magazine become an arm of the Justice Department? It doesn’t appear to have challenged the shaggy dog story it was fed by the FBI and repeated it verbatim. Neither mind that Dr. Hatfill’s career and personal reputation were at stake, Newsweek got a sensational scoop.

Farm Bureau

When yes means no

By John Thompson
Director of Information

Surveys have consistently shown that when voters are confused by purposely-vague ballot propositions they vote no. It’s just commonsense, if you don’t understand it, you can’t support it.

But on November 5 Idaho voters need to be careful. The term limits supporters are pitching you a curve ball. Proposition 2 is an attempt to deceive because its backers aren’t sure it can stand on its own merit.

Backers of Proposition 2, which would set in motion one of the most restrictive term limits laws in the nation, affecting every elected official in the state from school board member to governor, are hoping Idaho voters won’t understand the ballot and will therefore vote no. But voting no means you support the term limits proposition.

So why would they pull such a sneaky, underhanded trick? They are betting on our ignorance. They have taken their out of state funds, which you will see put to use over the next month buying television and other advertising, and conducted surveys on how to trick voters. They know Idaho voters are split down the middle on this issue. So how can they get a few more votes to swing their way? Deceive the voters.

They don’t respect Idahoans enough, nor have enough courage to let this term limits proposition ride through the election on its own merit. Even if you support term limits you have to wonder why not put it on a straight up ballot where yes means yes and let the chips fall where they may.

Another factor in this treachery relates to Proposition 1 on Indian gaming. This ballot is straight up. If you vote yes, you support expansion of gambling on Indian reservations. It’s likely that the term limits backers believe Idahoans will vote no on both propositions.

Before you cast a ballot in this election ask yourself whether you want rookie sheriffs investigating crime in your county and whether you want a rookie prosecutor trying criminals. Successful corporations don’t throw out their leaders every eight years. Experience counts.

Even if the term limits initiative passes, because of the way the ballot was put together, we’ll have to wonder if that’s what Idaho voters really wanted. Either way, it appears this debate is far from over. Vote Yes on Prop. 2.

FATAL STAGE ACCIDENT. – About daylight on Tuesday morning last the up Railroad Stage turned over between Wagontown and Chalfant’s sawmill, instantly killing Geo. W. French, W., F. and Co’s messenger, and severely wounding messenger H. C. Ward. The facts of the occurrence we learn from Ward and others. Ward was on the seat with the driver, C. Livermore, and French was on the top of the stage behind them. Mr. Greathouse, wife and daughter, and two others named Woodward and Yale were inside. Where the accident occurred, the grade is narrow. The inside front wheels came in contact with a small rock, which stopped the wheel from turning and caused it to run up on the side of the bank so far that the stage upset and rolled over once and a half, throwing French against a tree, killing him instantly. The driver was thrown forward among the horses and escaped without serious injury. Ward was fast under the front of the stage with his face close to a horse’s foot. The inside passengers were not injured, and, after finding that French was dead, proceeded to extricate Ward. In raising up the stage the horse’s foot became loosened, and Ward, with great presence of mind, seized it with both hands, by which he was saved from being kicked to death; although his face was fearfully bruised with his own fists. At last he received a tremendous kick which landed him into the creek. His injuries are severe, though not as serious as at first supposed. Had he not been a man of powerful frame, he would doubtless have been crushed to death, as at one time the entire weight of the stage was upon him.

MCMAHON AND CO. at their foundry, continue to turn out excellent castings of all kinds that are needed here, such as shoes, dies and other mill castings, car wheels and stoves – what do you think of that? Yes, stoves. Just call at the foundry and take a look at some of these most excellent home-made stove castings. That’s pretty good for Owyhee and her resources. McMahan and Co. will furnish castings for less than cost and freight to this place. Patronize home manufacture.

REMOVED – Thos. Ewing and Co. will finish moving into their new fire-proof store to-day. It is undoubtedly the most complete, best supplied, finest and largest mercantile house in the Territory. We will give a notice next week.

The first snow of the season fell on War Eagle and on the summit between here and Flint last Saturday evening, but it melted away under the rays of the next morning’s sun. The days are pleasant, the smoky atmosphere reminding us of Indian Summer, but the nights are getting cool enough to make a good fire desirable and warn us of approaching Winter.

SUDDEN DEATH. – On Monday night last, a stage driver, named Sam. Barr, died very suddenly at Buffalo Station, on the Humboldt road. It is conjectured that heart disease was the cause, as deceased was a robust young man and enjoyed excellent health to the time of his death.

PRETTY GOOD. – Happening in at W., F. and Co’s Express Office last Saturday we noticed treasure to the amount of $60,000 which Thos. Cole, Jr. and Co., bankers, would ship for San Francisco that evening. That is what we call “petering out” handsomely.

APPOINTMENT. – Our estimable friend, C. W. Hays, has received the appointment of Deputy U. S. Revenue Collector for Owyhee County, in place of A. V. Bradley, resigned.
