School district searches for trustee replacement

Homedale School District's zone 5 trustee resigned last week and now the district is searching for a replacement. The replacing trustee will only hold the office for four months as the zone seat is up for election in May.

Board Clerk Faith Olsen said last week that Moss Watson resigned his position in resignation letter stating no reason for the resignation. She said Watson stated in his letter that he regretted the resignation and his recent attendance of board meetings.

"It has been a privilege and an honor to have served on the school board," Watson wrote. "I would like to commend the entire staff, principals and superintendent for their dedication and commitment to the students. I believe they bring the true meaning to the term Homedale Pride." Watson was elected to the position in 2001 and an election for the zone will be held in May. It is a three-year term.

The board will make an appointment for the vacancy on March 8 and are accepting nominations until Feb. 27. A screening process will be held on March 3.

The appointed person will finish Watson's term until July 2004 when the newly elected trustee will be sworn into office. The election will be held on May 18.

Zone 5 begins at the intersection of the west Homedale city limits and California Ave. East on California Ave. to 1st St. West. North on 1st West a short distance and extended directly north to the Snake River. Easterly on the Snake River to Idaho Ave. West on Idaho Ave. to Railroad Ave. Northwest on Railroad Ave. to 6th St. West. North on 6th St. West to Washington Ave. West on Washington Ave to the city limits. Northerly on the city limits to the beginning.

County commissioners establish snowmobile advisory committee

A snowmobile advisory committee has been formed by the Owyhee County Commissioners last week so the county can be able to receive funds from snowmobile registrations as they do from boat registrations.

The Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation give 85 percent of the registration fees back to designated counties who have an active snowmobile program in place.

Typically, the money is used for the maintenance and operation of the snowmobile trail groomer, signing of snowmobile trails, plowing parking lots and maintaining warming shelters.

County commissioners passed an ordinance defining the duties of an advisory committee earlier this month and passed a resolution regarding the appointment of the members who will serve last week.

Kevin Lawson, Scott Bennett from the Grand View area, Joe Usabel from Marsing, Ben Badiola from Homedale and Dennis Pruett from Canyon County, were named to the board. The committee will be responsible to advise the commissioners on matters relating to the establishment and maintenance of parking and unloading areas on public and private property and on the expenditure of moneys deposited in the county snowmobile fund. The committee will also coordinate its activities and recommendations with the county natural resources committee.

The Department of Parks and Recreation reported that nearly 8,000 miles of trail are groomed as a result

Irrigation tax billings, collections short

Some residents in the City of Homedale have been receiving a break in their irrigation taxes in the past, but Mayor Paul Fink said during a meeting last week that the discrepancy has been found.

In a statement presented to the council from City Maintenance Supervisor Larry Bauer, he said records show that customers have been billed $5,617.06 for the Gem Irrigation District assessment. The amount owing Gem Irrigation is $13,890.51, showing a shortage of $8,273.45.

Overall, the fund was short even more. Bauer said the user revenue budget for irrigation (the Gem assessment, plus the maintenance assessment) was $73,400. Only $50,707.60 was billed, and of that, only $38,723.38 was collected. If all the bills were collected, the fund balance would still be short $22,700.

"We have gone through and worked every customer account, lot size through deed, so now the assessment of the Gem Irrigation will be right," Bauer said. "I would suggest that we prepare the public. The large property owners are going take a big hit. The average household with two or three lots is not going to feel it much. But the people owning acreages are going to feel it.

"The total amount we should be charging the customers (for Gem Irrigation) is $13,120.10. A maintenance fee of $56.50 was charged to each customer in addition to the Gem District assessment. There was also a surcharge of $10 added the billing, but not all customers were charged this fee."

Mayor Paul Fink explained that an acre contains 14 lots. He said the city

Purdom jamboree planned

The Marsing Seniors will honor local music artist Woody Purdom with a jamboree of local talent on Saturday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

“We want to honor Woody and those who have played with him over the years,” coordinators said.

Local musical artists are invited to attend as well as the public to enjoy a variety of tunes. Chili and pie will be served. The cost is $3 per person or $5 per couple.

Public invited to Lincoln Day luncheon

Republican candidates will gather tomorrow (Thursday) for an annual Lincoln’s Day luncheon with guest speakers including U.S. Senator Larry Craig, Idaho Congressman Butch Otter, Attorney General Lawrence Wasden, Senator Tom Gannon, Idaho State Treasurer Ron Crane, a representative for Crapo, Representative Francis Field and representative Doug Jones. The event will be held at noon on Thursday, Feb. 11 at the Sandbar Restaurant in Marsing. Dinner will cost $12 per person and the public is invited to attend.

County elected officials will also be available to speak including County Commissioners Hal Tolmie and Dick Reynolds. County sheriff Gary Aman is also expected to attend as his term in office expires this year.

Coordinators of the event said in the county, the sheriff, Aman, prosecuting attorney, Ed Yarbrough and two commissioners’, Tolmie and Reynolds’ positions will be up for election.

Board delays county fair by one week

Members of the county fair board have delayed this year’s fair activities by one week, moving it to the second week in August instead of the first week as in years past. Fair board secretary Terry Nielsen said last week the fair will be held on Aug. 9-14. She said the rodeo will be held from the 11th to the 14th.

This year’s theme is “Fun in the Sun” and the colors will be bright yellow and hot pink. A beach party will be held on Friday with entertainment in 1960s beach style. Saturday a bluegrass bonanza with bluegrass bands is planned as well as two nights of dancing with live bands.

The board will soon be advertising for bids for a lighting project for the rodeo arena. Nielsen said the project is a three-phase plan with the rodeo arena and the east parking lot being the first phase. The first project is expected to be done by July 4th in time for the Demolition Derby.

The fair board meets the first Thursday of the month at the Owyhee County Extension office until this summer when it will again meet at the fair board office in Homedale. The meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Conservationist of the year

Judy Lisonbee stands near her tractor (left) on her farm on Succor Creek last week. Lisonbee was named this year's Farmer Conservationist of the Year by the Owyhee Soil Conservation District during an awards banquet at the Sandbar Restaurant in Marsing earlier this month. Judy was honored with a plaque for her efforts to conserve water on her 220-acre farm near Homedale.

Homedale woman named farmer of the year

A Homedale woman was named Farmer Conservationist of the Year during an awards banquet at the Sandbar Restaurant in Marsing earlier this month. Judy Lisonbee was honored with a plaque for her efforts to conserve water on her 220-acre farm near Homedale.

Lissome is the eldest of 15 children and grew up on a farm. She has 10 children of her own with her husband school superintendent Bob Lisonbee. Besides raising her own children, Judy has also helped raise two exchange students and a young man in Challis.

Judy was chosen for the award because of her work in developing changes in farming practices to conserve resources. She manages two places on Succor Creek Road.

She and Bob grow alfalfa and corn and recently moved her home to the farm to manage the couple's calf operation. She raised 50 calves this year, with the assistance of 11 mother cows, and she has successfully developed an irrigation system that now allows her farm to be considered a zero run-off system.

The Lisonbees experienced extreme soil erosion, developed a system with the installation of a surge system to regulate water flow in gated pipe, and updated to wheel lines. Bob said Judy had worked on the system for five years until the couple received a grant from the Owyhee Soil Conservation District, which helped with the wheel lines.

In another field, a full 360-degree pivot was installed.

They no longer see canyon-sized erosion patterns in these fields. Judy sees the potential for increasing yields in their production as excellent.

Bob and Judy, in addition to projects on their own farm, has been a major driver of the success in the completion of the Homedale Wetland Project and the outdoor conservation classroom near the middle school off Johnstone Road. As a teaching environment open to the public, the wetland not only thrives as a living renewable ecosystem, but it also solves a serious soil erosion problem for Tagasuki Farms.

Judy also spends much of her time attending to her only daughter left at home, Naomi. She said Naomi has Down syndrome and requires a great deal of medical attention every day. Bob said if his wife is not working on the farm, she is attending to their daughter.

"Anyone who gets into farming is getting into something that is healthy, like a breath of fresh air," Judy said. "When our kids who live in town, come out to visit us, they love to go out onto our land and experience being close to the soil, water, air, and growing things. It is exciting to get into conservation planning, and even more exciting to see them up and running. The people at the conservation office I have worked with have been wonderful."

√ Irrigation

has to pay Gem Irrigation is about $35 per acre.

“What has happened is even though a person might own an acre or two acres, they may have only ended up paying $10,” Fink explained. “There is no reason why it was set that way or how it was set that way, it was just a mess. It will be equal. Every lot will be treated the same and I am very happy that Larry and the crew have spent so much time working this out. It will be straightened out.”

“The billings sent out in November contained several errors,” Bauer said in his statement. “We have discovered payments that have not been applied to the customers’ accounts. They have brought in their cancelled checks as proof of payment. We have been unable to track down where the money was applied but have found that it was deposited into the city’s account. Looking at past records, it appears that previous balances were not entered into the computer correctly when they began using the program. We have customers who present billings but the amount owing on the computer is less than they were billed. These are just a few of the problems that have been discovered so far.”

Fink told the council that the $10 surcharge that has been added to some billings is not a surcharge. It was supposed to be a fee. He said he hopes to be able to remove the fee in the future because if people were being charged what they should have been, the fee would not be needed.

“According to Hap (Duryee, former mayor) the surcharge was supposed to be a $10 raise in the maintenance fee, which should have been a $66 maintenance fee, instead of a $56 maintenance fee (plus) a $10 surcharge,” Fink said. “Some paid the surcharge, some paid the higher fee and some paid just the regular fee of $56. There is no reason why it is like it is. We don’t know where we are. We are just moving along. There will not be a raise on the irrigation bill, they will just be correct now.”

Councilman Charles Garrison explained that the $10 was placed on during the past administration because the irrigation fund was not reconciling itself. He said with this “new twist” it is possible the irrigation fund will balance itself next year so the fee may be able to be removed.

“If it is done right and everyone pays what they are supposed to be paying we should be able to make it,” Fink said. “That is what we are working for; to try and continue the maintenance and update the system as we go along and be within budget.”

of the program. Generated by snowmobile registrations, the fund provides about $600,000 a year to county snowmobile programs. In addition to trail grooming, the program provides funding for building and maintaining shelters and plowing parking areas for snowmobilers.

Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman said three groups had been working to find a solution to the large amount of snowmobilers in the county. He said the groups finally came together and the committee was formed. He said the county could have received about $2,500 from last year’s registration.

“Saturday and Sunday, 118 vehicles went up the Silver City road,” Aman said. “I understand that Saturday there were over 100 snowmobilers at Cow Creek. The county had to take some action to control this before it gets out of hand. They are going to have to do something sometime with four wheelers, too. About 15 percent of the funds can be used for law enforcement.”

Aman said when people register their snowmobiles, they need to designate Owyhee County as the county to receive funding.

Burn victims released from hospital

Investigation continues

Two Homedale High School students are recovering at home this week after being released from a Salt Lake burn center.

Michelle Uria and Shawn Gibbs suffered severe burns to their face, body and legs when an accelerant was thrown on a campfire during a weekend party in the desert near Homedale.

The accident happened on Feb. 7 at “Chalk Hill” near Graveyard point southwest of Homedale. Owyhee County dispatchers said shortly after the incident that the Homedale ambulance and an officer were dispatched to the city’s fire department for a burn victim. Gibbs and Uria were transported to West Valley Medical Center and were later sent to Salt Lake City for treatment at the burn center.

Malheur County Under Sheriff Brian Wolfe, who is investigating the incident because the kids were in Oregon, said Monday that the case is under investigation and could be sent to the district attorney for a grand jury hearing later this month.

“My officer interviewed 10 to 12 kids last week and he has about seven to 10 kids left to interview,” Wolfe said. “Those interviews are scheduled for this week.”

Wolfe said it does appear that some of the kids at the site had been in possession of alcohol, but it appeared that the accident happened early in the gathering and no one had been in consumption.

“What we are looking at is we need to do the investigation and see if there will be any criminal charges,” Wolfe said. “We need to make sure we can rule out any criminal charges as well as investigating if any criminal charges should be filed. You never know where these types of things are going to go.”

Wolfe said his department should have a report for the district attorney by the first of next week. He said at that time it would be determined if a grand jury would hear the case.

“I know that the kids were in the process of building a fire,” Wolfe said. “I know that someone had an accelerant and we are assuming right now what accelerant they used. Somebody at some point threw the accelerant on the wood and the container caught on fire resulting in two teens getting burned.”

Wolfe said both teens have been released from the burn center and are home. Michelle is a sophomore at Homedale High School and a guard on the junior varsity girls’ basketball team. Shawn is a senior and on the varsity boys’ basketball team.

Homedale High School receives honor for top rating

The Idaho Department of Education recognized several southern Idaho schools for achieving top accreditation status and Homedale Senior High School was among them. School principal Mike Williams said the school was given a merit of recognition for its first year.

Idaho law requires that all public schools be accredited. As part of the process, local administrators annually evaluate their school in five state standards areas – philosophy, mission, and vision statements; personnel and certification; curriculum, instruction and school improvement; accountability, assessments and measures; and safe learning environment. When a school does not meet a standard or does not provide supporting documentation, it receives deviation points.

“Accreditation is one of the ways schools hold themselves accountable to the state and local expectations,” said Dr. Marilyn Howard, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Schools that use the state accreditation model are recognized for exceeding standards with two-year “merit” recognition. Homedale received its first year recognition.

Schools can receive one of three ratings under the state model: “Approved,” which means the school essentially meets or exceeds the standards and received 15 or fewer deviation points; “Approved with warning,” which means substantial deviations (16 to 25 deviation points) from the standards exist, and the school may lose its accreditation if corrections are not made; “Not approved,” which means the school has failed to meet standards by receiving more than 26 deviation points.

School principal Mike Williams said the recognition is a boost for Homedale as he hopes in the future to be able to include school of merit with students’ transcripts. He said having the accreditation added to transcripts will assist students in their preparation for college and their future.

Rimrock High receives accreditation

Rimrock Junior/Senior High School is recognized for achieving top accreditation status from the Idaho Department of Education from the Northwest Association of Schools and of Colleges and Universities. Rimrock received its accreditation status at the NAS’ annual meeting in Portland recently.

Rimrock was first accredited with the Association in 1980. The school is also approved for the academic year 2003-2004.

Jordan Valley FFA students compete in leadership contest

Nyssa High School attracted FFA students from around the area who took part in the FFA Snake River District Leadership contest last week. Students from Jordan Valley, Adrian, Ontario, Vale and Crane took part in the all-day event that consisted of a competition with tests in speaking, presentation and leadership skills of FFA students. Participants at the conference are judged by the Snake River district's high school advisers: Adam Ineck, Jordan Valley; Victor Noble, Vale; Ann Marie Pimm, Crane; Troy White, Adrian; Porath; Roger Watkins, Ontario; and Snake River District Adviser Les Linegar, Ontario. The top two speakers in each event, as determined by the panel of judges, advanced to a sectional competition in La Grande on Feb. 17. The top two winners in each category - except for the top winner in the parliamentary procedure contest, will attend the state FFA convention at Oregon State University in Corvallis during the weekend of March 19. One winner from the state convention is selected to advance to the national competition in Louisville, Kentucky during the last week in October. The following students from Wednesday's competition will advance to sectional in La Grande: Cody Ables, Ontario, creed speaking; Christie Linford, Ontario, creed speaking; Ruth Corn, Ontario, sophomore prepared public speaking; Stephanie Montgomery, Ontario, sophomore prepared public speaking; Josh Roberts, Ontario, extemporaneous speaking; Nick Maag, Vale, extemporaneous speaking; Nick Maag, Vale, advanced public speaking; Amanda Bennett, Nyssa, advanced public speaking. Josh Roberts, Ontario and Mark Noble, Vale, won the top two slots for the co-op quiz contests. They will advance straight to state competition.

Lady Mustangs tie for fourth in OOL basketball

Jordan Valley lost to Prairie City 37-42 Friday but picked up a 57-27 victory over the Adrian Antelopes Saturday to end its season tied for fourth place in Old Oregon girls' basketball. The Mustangs finished out the season with a 57-31 loss to Powder Valley.

A playoff game was held Monday, but results were not available at press-time.

Jordan Valley jumped to a 13-4 lead in the first quarter with Prairie City, but was held to four points in the second quarter as Prairie City returned the favor and ended the half 18-17.

The Mustangs traded the lead with Prairie City but where held to 10 points per quarter for the third and fourth.

Anna Watkins led the Mustangs in Adrian scoring 18 points including two three point baskets in the win. Lauren Cuvelier added 14 points.

With Powder Valley, the Mustangs fell short 11 points in the first quarter and were never able to recover. Powder Valley ended the first half with a 35-10 lead.

Lauren Cuvelier led the Mustangs with 11 points and went five of six at the line. Watkins sunk nine points in the attempt including five rebounds. Jordan Valley struggled with turnovers recording 35 to Powder Valley's 17.

"Powder jumped on us early and we never responded," Mustang Coach Jeremy Chamberlain said. "The Cove game the night before took a lot out of us, and we were not unable to get things going.

"Powder Valley deserves a lot of credit, they played outstanding defense and never gave us an inch. We got frustrated and threw a lot of turnovers in the first half, which they turned into easy baskets. Powder performed very well and we were just not up to the challenge."

New Plymouth out-scores Huskies 77-38

The New Plymouth varsity boys' basketball team used a huge second quarter of offense to post a 77-38 Western Idaho Conference victory over Marsing Wednesday night at New Plymouth High School.

The Pilgrims started strong. New Plymouth constructed an 8-2-advantage midway through the first quarter on two buckets by Adam Shockley, one from Joe Hally and two free throws from Cole Dennett.

Buckets by Shockley, Ben Schuster and Jordan Frates pushed the Pilgrims ahead 14-6 at the end of the first stanza.

Then the Pilgrims erupted offensively. New Plymouth outscored Marsing 28-11 in the second quarter and essentially controlled the game by halftime. Schuster scored eight points while Jack McKie tallied seven and Hally contributed two 3-pointers while Evan Hawker scored two points during the New Plymouth's second quarter offensive onslaught.

New Plymouth was ahead 42-17 at the half.

Joel Shipley and Dane Edmunson hit their only baskets of the game as part of the Pilgrim's 19-point third quarter points.

Frates added six of the points in the third quarter for New Plymouth while Marsing only connected with 10 points in the third quarter.

In the final quarter, Marsing racked up another 11 points while the Pilgrims sunk 16.

The Pilgrims (10-9 overall, 6-5 WIC) travel to Parma Friday night at 8 p.m., for more basketball action.

Lady Huskies crowned district champions

District title first ever 2A title in any sport

The Marsing Huskies will show its blue and yellow colors during the state girls basketball for the first time since 1979 after routing its way through the District III 2A championship for a district title. Marsing ended its trek with a 49-46 victory over the Melba Mustangs at Treasure Valley Community College in Ontario Thursday evening.

The win sends Marsing (9-14 overall) to its first state tournament appearance since 1979 when the Huskies were a 1A (then A-4) school. The district title is the first - in any sport - for the school at the 2A level.

Marsing, who entered the tournament as the No. 4 seed, will begin the 2A state tournament Feb. 19, at Middleton High School. The Huskies have won eight of their last 11 games.

Marsing scrambled to tie up the match early in the game by jumping to a 15-8 lead in the opening quarter, but Melba battled back with a 10-2 run in the second quarter to make the match a game.

The Huskies closed the second quarter a 6-0 run to take back the lead and end the half at 23-18.

Melba came close to having the opportunity to enter the state tournament as the top seeded team when they took a 43-42 lead in the fourth quarter with 1:20 left in the game.

Mustang Sara Jamison hit one of two from the foul line, but teammate Suzy Bangerter cornered the rebound and hit the basket to take the lead.

Husky Jamie Lynde was not going out of the game that easily and hit a running shot with just under a minute left in the game to squeeze Marsing ahead by one. A pair of successful free throws pushed the Huskies to a three-point lead.

Melba threw a long three pointer, which ended up short. Marsing pulled away, hitting 5-of-6 free throws in the final minute to keep Melba at bay.

Amanda Stewart scored 17 points, leading the Huskies past the Mustangs. Breanna Chadez finished the game with 14 points and made four points in the final minute of the first half.

The Nampa Christian Trojans secured the top seed to the District III 2A tournament this week with a 69-63 overtime thriller against the Homedale Trojans Wednesday night.

The win gives Nampa Christian the top seed and Homedale will go into this week's district tournament as the number two seed team recording a 9-3 conference and 14-6 overall record.

Nampa Christian used a 16-10 over-time run to hold the home team and enter the extra period 53-53. Both teams traded buckets through the first four minutes of the extra inning, before Nampa Christian took the lead.

Homedale opened the game strong holding Nampa

Christian scoreless for the first four minutes of the game. Nampa Christian could not find the range and Homedale jumped out to a 10-0 lead. Matt Landa set the pace scoring six points during the beginning run.

Nampa Christian battled back to outscore Homedale 13-3 to finish the first quarter as they did the fourth quarter, tied.

Nampa Christian broke the spree ending the first half with a 10 point lead. They outscored Homedale 24-14 in the second quarter.

Homedale's Matt Nauman led the Trojans with 20 points while Nick Williams added 18 points. Clay Haylett sunk 10 points.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes
“Lorraine”

Stuffed Baked Potatoes
“Lorraine”

By Bruce Weinstein and Mark Scarbrough, authors of “Cooking for Two”

The classic flavors of quiche Lorraine are captured in our favorite comfort food: stuffed baked potatoes. They're nature's perfect casseroles — you even eat the dish!

- 2 medium Russet potatoes (about 1/2 pound each)
- 3 slices thick-cut bacon, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1 small leek, white part only, rinsed and thinly sliced (about 1/3 cup)
- 1 large egg yolk, room temperature
- 1/3 cup milk
- 6 tablespoons shredded Gruyère or Swiss cheese, divided (about 1 1/2 ounces)
- Pinch nutmeg
- Salt and pepper
- 2 pinches paprika

Position rack to center of oven; preheat to 400°F. Place potatoes directly on oven rack and bake until skins are crunchy and insides are soft when gently squeezed, about 50 minutes. Remove from oven and cool about 30 minutes. Lower oven temperature to 300°F. Sauté bacon over medium heat until browned and crisp, about 4 minutes. Use slotted spoon to transfer bacon to small bowl. Discard all but 1 tablespoon fat in skillet. Add leeks and reduce heat to low. Sauté, stirring often, until soft and golden, about 5 minutes. Transfer contents of skillet to bowl with bacon.

Cut the top third off each potato and scoop out insides, leaving 1/4-inch shell all around to keep skin from collapsing when restuffed. Scrape potato flesh from inside tops as well. Press flesh through potato ricer into large bowl, or mash with hand masher in large bowl until smooth. Mix bacon and leek mixture with egg yolk, milk, 4 tablespoons cheese, and nutmeg. Season with salt and pepper and add mixture to potatoes. Mix well. Divide mixture between the empty potato shells and place in small shallow baking dish. Top each with 1 tablespoon remaining cheese and sprinkle each with pinch of paprika. Bake 20 minutes or until cheese melts and turns golden. Let stand 5 minutes at room temperature before serving.

When It's You... or Two

Small-Batch Cooking Tips From the Experts

Surprisingly, nearly 60 percent of America's households today consist of just one or two people. If you live in one of these homes, you're in the majority — and you already know it's time to rethink dinner. It's time to think small.

But small doesn't have to mean boring. Some of the nation's top culinary experts have recently written cookbooks filled with delicious recipes serving one or two. They use versatile staples, like nutritious potatoes, in new ways. And they've learned to be creative when buying ingredients to avoid waste.

Treat yourself to some fresh home-cooking tonight. You'll be in good company.

- Shop where they sell in bulk bins, but buy small portions. Many stores feature spices, teas, grains, and even nut butters in bulk. Buy as little as you need.
- Buy produce items available in small units. The produce department is packed with nutritious foods like potatoes — an excellent source of vitamin C and potassium — that can be purchased one at a time. You can even mix different potato varieties and colors and still buy only a few.
- Shop at the salad bar. If your recipe calls for small amounts of carrots, celery, broccoli, or greens, find them at your supermarket's salad bar.

- Don't waste the stock. Pour unused stock into ice cube trays. Freeze, unmold, and store cubes in freezer bags for future soups or casseroles.
- Use today's meal to make a new dish tomorrow. Cook extra potatoes to use later in the week. Leftover mashed potatoes can make potato pancakes or be used to thicken a soup. Toss roasted potatoes with pasta, use in an omelet, or sauté with artichokes and herbs.

Potato Pork Stir-Fry

By Bruce Weinstein and Mark Scarbrough, authors of “Cooking for Two”

Chinese stir-fried dishes can be labor intensive, but pre-shredded, packaged potatoes will save the day. Look for the plain, unseasoned variety in your grocer's refrigerated section.

- 1 1/2 tablespoons peanut oil
- 2 medium scallions, sliced
- 1 1/2 tablespoons fresh ginger, peeled and chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/8 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes or to taste
- 1/4 pound ground pork
- 1 small red bell pepper (about 5 ounces), cored, seeded, and diced
- 1 1/2 cups broccoli florets (about 3 ounces)
- 2 cups packaged refrigerated or frozen and thawed shredded potatoes (about 3/4 pound)
- 2 tablespoons rice vinegar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce

Heat wok or large skillet over high heat. Swirl in oil; add scallions, ginger, garlic, and crushed red pepper flakes, then stir-fry 15 seconds. Add pork and cook, tossing and stirring, until cooked through and lightly browned, about 2 minutes. Toss in bell pepper and broccoli; stir-fry 2 minutes. Sprinkle potatoes over vegetables and pork; cook without stirring 30 seconds. Gently but thoroughly toss, then continue cooking 1 to 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour in rice vinegar and soy sauce; cook, stirring, for 20 seconds, until sauce bubbles. Serve immediately.

Serves two.

Shrimp, Potato and Green Bean Salad With Pesto Vinaigrette

By Joyce Goldstein, author of “Solo Suppers”

When cooking potatoes for this salad, toss in a few extra to use for another dinner later in the week. This recipe can easily be doubled to serve two.

- 4 small red potatoes
- Salt
- 2 ounces green beans, trimmed and cut in 2-inch lengths
- 6 large shrimp (or 8 medium), shelled and deveined
- 3 tablespoons basil pesto
- 2 teaspoons red wine vinegar
- Freshly ground black pepper

In saucepan, cover potatoes with cold water. Bring to boil, reduce heat, add salt, and simmer until cooked through but firm. Drain and cool to room temperature.

Bring small pot of salted water to boil. Drop in green beans and cook 2 to 4 minutes or until tender-crisp. Remove with slotted spoon and refresh in ice water. Drain again and pat dry. Keep water at boil and drop in shrimp. Cook 3 minutes or until shrimp turn pink. Drain and refrigerate.

For dressing, thin pesto with vinegar. Season with salt and pepper.

To serve, cut potatoes into 1/4-inch slices and toss with green beans and most of the dressing. Place on salad plate. Top with shrimp and drizzle with additional dressing, if desired.

Serves one.

Marsing bond defeated

Sixty-six percent. No matter how many times the votes were counted Tuesday evening the results came out the same. When all of the totals were in, 299 Marsing School District patrons had voted for the bond issue and 154 opposed it. A school bond must receive the support of 66 2/3 percent of the voters. The Marsing proposal received 66 percent.

“If two less people would have voted against it, or five more had voted for it, it would have passed,” observed Marsing Superintendent of Schools Loren Schmitt.

The proposed $997,000 bond would have constructed a 12-room junior high building, covered a ditch and provided new dressing rooms at the high school. Projections indicate large classes in the lower elementary grades will create overcrowding as the students progress to the junior high level.

Will compete

Randee Metzger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenne Metzger, and Susan Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Carson, have been selected to represent Homedale high school in the National Honor Society scholarship competition. The announcement was made this week by high school counselor Dean Vance.

The selection was made by Homedale high school faculty members.

Homedale PTA Founders day program presented Feb. 15

The PTA Founders day program was observed Monday, Feb. 15, at the new grade school auditorium. Recognition of the past presidents was made by Mrs. Regan, program chairman, who presented the ladies with a corsage and a boutonniere for the men.

The oldest president present was Mrs. Ivan Nanney who presided in 1935. Mrs. Marjorie Macy, 1950 president; Mrs. Faulks, 1952; Mr. McIntyre, 1953; and Mrs. John Stephans, 1954, were other presidents in attendance.

To commence the program the audience sang “America”. Both the 5th and 6th grades presented plays to the group. The early 6th grade sang a song “Merry Melodies”. Concluding the program, the late fifth grade sang “Idaho”.

Kiwanis install new member

Wm. Gouldman became a member of the Homedale Kiwanis Club at its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday.

Reid Minor, Nampa, of the Idaho State Police, spoke to the club, outlining the activities and duties of the State Police. Mr. Minor stated that the twenty patrolmen in the State Police force made a total of 13,088 arrests in 1953, recovered property in the amount of $148,060.60, collected a total of over $86,000.00 in fines, and over $40,000.00 on drunken driving charges.

Mother-daughter Valentine tea held

One of the most delightful affairs of the season was a tea given by eighth grade girls for their mothers last Thursday in the new grade school building. The girls used Valentines for their decoration and program theme. Each mother was greeted at the door by her daughter, presented a lovely hand made program, and shown to a seat in the horseshoe shaped seating arrangement.

All the girls were on committees and were entirely responsible for the success of the affair. They are to be congratulated on their efforts.

Sports

Huskies romp Trojans Feb. 5, the Trojans played Marsing Huskies on their floor to be defeated 65-40. Landa made 13 for Homedale and Star was high for Marsing. The Trojans played a good game but couldn’t gain fast enough.

The J.V. team lost by one point. The score was 48-47. Bob Carrico made 15 for Homedale and Herman 15 for Marsing.

Pilgrims down Homedale Tuesday, Feb. 9, the New Plymouth Pilgrims beat the Trojans by a score of 50 to 35. The boys fought hard but lost anyway. Fred Dempshar sank 15 for Homedale and Kennedy 9 for the Pilgrims.

The J.V. team again came close to taking the lead but lost by two points, making the ending score 42-40 in Plymouths favor. Don Sweep racked up 14 for Homedale and Plymouth’s high man made 13.

Panther win over Trojans Tuesday, Feb. 16, the Parma Panthers journeyed to Homedale to go home the victor by a score of 51-31. Lyn Taggart paced the home club with 8 points and Watts made 17 for Parma. The teams were tied through the 1st quarter.

The J.V. team came out on top this time. The boys played a good game.

Marsing

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt and family and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Howard were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Parshall.

The Earl Arnolds spent the week end in Jerome and Buhl, Idaho, where they visited friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bledsoe and family were dinner guests of the George Baalsons Saturday.

NEW ROAD-MILITARY HINT. About fifty miles above the present Owyhee crossing (at the mouth of Jordan Creek) a ford and easy crossing have been discovered. Col. Fogus and Mr. Hall have claimed the right of way to construct a road from their ranch, on Jordan Creek, via this crossing to Antelope Springs at the mouth of Ives’ Canon, on the Humboldt road, about forty-five miles from the military Post on Queen’s River. This road will shorten the route to Star City, Nevada, at least fifty miles. It, also, avoids the only bad road to that point. From Hall’s Ranch to Antelope Springs the new route is reported by the parties who have examined it to be level, clear of rocks and mud. A ferry would be put in the Owyhee at the new crossing, but for the reason that it is the very place where the Indians are continually passing and private enterprise can hardly be expected to build roads, bridges, ferries, develop the country generally, and raise, equip and pay a company of men to protect laborers and travel. The route is a most important one and should have a permanent camp of soldiers at the Owyhee crossing. The Indians who made the recent raid and theft on Jordan Creek are known to have crossed at that point, and the signs are abundant that it is their regular ford.

If the military Chiefs wish to do good, immediate service to our community which they are sent to protect, they can do so by ordering a detachment of men to the point named, and be kept there during splendid opportunities to arouse any latent fighting qualities which they claim to possess. Captain Walker, at Fort Boise, we are informed is Departing commander, and we will not charge him any thing for suggest one at any time.

THE CELEBRATION of Washington’s Birth Day in Owyhee will take place in Silver City. It is to be hoped that the people generally will attend and make the occasion in numbers and spirit creditable to the community at large. By reviewing the lives and works of eminent patriots and good men, we may learn and practice good lessons ourselves.

There will be two sleighs in readiness for the conveyance of ladies and gentlemen to and from Ruby during the day and evening.

APPOINTMENT AND CONFIRMATION. We are credibly informed that Hon. John Cummins has received the appointment of U. S. Dist. Judge for Idaho Territory, and will be law hold court in this County. Hon. Milton Kelly has been confirmed District Judge, by the U. S. Senate, and by law assigned to the 1st District.

BEACHEY makes the trip between Boise City and Owyhee in one day. Excepting between here and Reynolds Creek, he runs six horses to the stage instead of four as formerly. He’s bound to put passengers through on satisfactory time. He knows how to do so, and does it.

WOOD & WOODEN run the Owyhee Exchange at Silver, and are conscientious saloonists; they won’t poison a man without a feeling of remorse for him. We can’t help but recommend them. For timber to “splice the main brace,” go to Wood & Wooden’s.

MARTIN & NUGENT a new firm in the legal line in Owyhee. Mr. Nugent comes from Idaho City, where non stood higher in the profession or in what goes to make a gentlemen and is married. Messrs. Martin & Nugent constitutes a strong and reliable firm of attorneys, and may success attend them in what we believe will be an extensive field for good legal talent.

On the edge of common sense

Go catch my horse

In the old days I resigned myself that bad luck came in threes, i.e., three flat tires, three smashed fingers or three social faux pas. It's comforting to know that good ol' Dakota Mike is still proving my theory. And, I'm not even counting the initial injury that resulted in a swollen right knee which put him down for a solid week.

It was very bad timing, since he was calving heifers and was very particular about tagging and vaccinating newborns and kept meticulous records. His darling wife fed before and after her town job but couldn't do the horseback heifer check. But she did notice the hole in the wire fence had allowed some mixing. Dakota Mike paced-in-place and fretted until Saturday when she could help him catch up.

With her help, he saddled Forrest, a bay mustang-plow horse cross they named after Forrest Gump. He was big and gentle but not a quick learner. She rode Pony. Mike loaded his saddlebag with tags, vaccine and syringes. He figured he could pack the nearly empty spindle of barbwire. Darlin' would carry the fence stretcher and pliers. He stood on the tie pile to mount. Wincing, he got his right leg swung over the saddle and gently maneuvered his tennis-shoed foot into the right stirrup. He squared up and eased Forrest up beside the pickup where he had preplaced the wire roll.

He reached down with his right hand and picked up the wire. The loose roll made a queer rattling sound. One that Forrest recognized from the rattlesnake program on the Discovery Channel. He hunched and fired straight back with both hind legs! Mike had his left hand outstretched with the reins, his right hand outstretched with the wire, his left foot in the stirrup, and his noodle right leg hanging limp. In the time it took him to realize he should drop the wire and grab the horn, Forrest had punched him into a two-point landing under Pony's feet. Darlin' leaned over and asked, "Are you alright?" "Go catch my horse," he said, palpating his scraped forehead and sore right shoulder.

With the fence repaired, they rode into the heifers. Mike prided himself on his cows' mothering instinct. He creaked off his horse, noting the nearby mama cow pawing the ground, and quietly snuck up on a still-wet newborn with loaded ear tagger and syringe. He carefully dropped down on the calf with one knee. In a blinding flash he was flying backwards banging his head on the frozen cowpies and filling his collar with muck. "Are you alright?" Darlin' asked. "Go catch my horse," he said.

Across the pasture he again detached himself from Forrest and approached another newborn. Not seeing the mother, he managed to straddle this one and was supporting it between his trembling limbs. He felt something in his crotch and looked down. A black nose and muzzle the exact size and width of a cow's head protruded between his legs. In less time than he could put two and two together, he was catapulted in a flailing arc ten feet in front of the calf and had somehow managed to ear tag his left pant leg. "Are you alright?" Darlin' asked. "Go..." he grunted. "I know," she said, "I know."

Not important ... but possibly of interest

Annie the Beagle has been a member of the household for nearly eleven years. It would be accurate to say she is getting a little "long of tooth." That also applies to her toenails.

Like a lot of dogs, Annie doesn't get the chance to wear down her nails racing for miles over rough terrain. So, about once a year, they need trimmed. In the past we have let the vet do it. Recently, however, I decided we should try to do the job ourselves. So I shopped around and picked up a pair of dog nail clippers and a cloth muzzle.

The main reason I decided to go after Annie's nails on our own was that she hates veterinarians. Hate probably isn't a strong enough word. A trip to the vet clinic is traumatic for the dog, for us and for the vet.

It starts when we load Annie into the car. She knows the only reason for getting into a vehicle is to go to the vet. During the ten-minute trip about half her hair falls out-a nervous reaction, I suppose. When we get in the examination room things immediately turn into a full-blown goat rope. Even for something as simple as nail clipping there are several minutes of yelping, screeching, snapping, growling and often involuntary release of body waste. And Annie's conduct is even more disgusting. It has reached the point where I suspect the doc might offer us money not to bring the dog to his office.

When I brought home the clippers and the muzzle, my mate looked over at Annie, who was snoozing in her doggie bed in front of the fireplace, and shuddered. She asked when I planned to make the attempt. I said Saturday. She said she thought she had an appointment that would keep her away from the house all day Saturday. I told her she would have to be involved since I could not hold down the dog and trim at the same time. She shuddered again.

Saturday was the first nice day in some time. I couldn't bring myself to spoil it by going after Annie's toenails. The next day was Super Bowl Sunday. I spent the first half of the day trying to convince myself Annie's nails weren't really that long. But in the late afternoon, just before the start of the game, I collected my implements, mate and Annie and adjourned to the garage. I figured splatters of blood or other materials would be easier to clean up there.

With my partner holding her, I slipped the muzzle over Annie's nose. To our surprise, she didn't resist. She remained silent when I clipped the first nail. Although there were a couple of times when she struggled a little, the expected explosion never happened. When it was over, I removed the muzzle and Annie calmly went back to her bed to catch a few more winks.

At first, Annie's reaction to the nail trimming puzzled me. But I think I have figured it out. Since the arrival of our first grandchild, Annie has not received as much attention she previously enjoyed. I think she may have decided that any special attention--even being held down, muzzled and clipped--is better than no recognition.

Letters to the editor

Maybe they'd stay Thanks to road district

Every time I cross the bridge back into Owyhee County at Marsing I feel like I've come home. Owyhee County to it's residents is a special place but comparing its' gate way to Siberia may be true and may be not. I've never been there and I doubt if the disgruntled BLM employees, who contest placing a staff office in the "Remote Outpost" of Marsing, have been to Siberia either.

I suggest that they take note from BLM policy on the implementation of grazing practices. It is a 5 year program in which monitoring determines the feasibility of the proposal. At the end of the 5th year the proposal is either implemented or rejected.

Therefore following policy I suggest that the group known as PEER send it's executive director and board of directors to Siberia for 5 years of observation. Upon completion of the study they would return and report on the comparison of Marsing to that "Remote Outpost" of the former Soviet Union.

It just crossed my mind! Suppose the study team liked the real Siberia and decided to stay there?

Yours truly,
Michael F. Hanley IV

We are life long residents of the Homedale Highway District. We would like to commend Rob Atkins and Kent Curtis for the excellent job they have done on our roads this winter. My wife leaves for work before sunrise and the roads have been sanded or plowed already every morning. It has been awhile since they have had much practice at bad roads since our winters have been so mild. If you see the guys give them a pat on the back for a job well down.

OWYHEE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS MINUTES FEBRUARY 2, 2004 OWYHEE COUNTY COURTHOUSE MURPHY,IDAHO

Present were Chairman Harold Tolmie, Commissioner Dick Reynolds, Commissioner Chris Salove, Deputy Clerk Kay Kelly, Treasurer Barbara Wright and Jim Desmond.

Commissioner Salove moved to amend the agenda to include the payment of bills and certificate of residency for a student attendingCollege ofSouthern Idaho, Commissioner Reynolds seconded the motion and it carried.

Commissioner Salove moved to approve the Certificate of Residency for a student attending CSI for the fall semester of 2003 and the spring semester of 2004. Commissioner Reynolds seconded the motion.

Commissioner Salove moved to approve an Ordinance establishing a Snowmobile Advisory Committee, and with a second by Commissioner Reynolds, the motion carried and the Ordinance was signed.

The resolution appointing members was continued until-February 9, 2004.

Kay Kelly brought an inquiry regarding the destruction of records for the building department, with a recommendation that it be sent to the prosecuting attorney as required by Idaholaw for review and an opinion as to the proper listing of documents to be destroyed. The Board agreed that a letter of inquiry be sent to the prosecutor.

At 11:20, upon motion of Commissioner Salove with a second by Commissioner Reynolds, the Board convened as the Board of Equalization. There being no business brought before the Board of Equalization, Commissioner Salove moved and Commissioner Reynolds seconded the motion that the Board of Equalization be adjourned.

Jim Desmond discussed new federal rules regarding the appeals of grazing decisions, and made recommendations to the board regarding the involvement of the county, which the board took under advisement.

Bruce Siebert appeared and requested that the hours for the weed department personnel be extended so that medical benefits could continue for the permanent part time personnel. The Board took the matter under advisement as there are several legal issues that may have to be addressed to resolve the issue as Mr. Siebert requested.

A letter of support for the Owyhee Watershed Council was signed following a motion by Commissioner Reynolds with a second by Commissioner Reynolds.

Belle Evans advised the Board of a request for a removal of a lien from property owned by Case #03-32 with the lien to be transferred to a property to be purchased. The Board asked that Ms. Evans set a time for the person to come directly to the Board and explain the situation.

A catering permit request was approved for Last Chance to cater the Basque Dance to be held at the Homedale Armory on March 6, 2004 was signed by the Board following the motion by Commissioner Salove with a second by Commissioner Reynolds.

A motion by Commissioner Salove with a second by Commissioner Reynolds passed to approve the Board Minutes for-January 26, 2004.
