SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS

Woman found alive after 3 days lost in desert

A 62-year-old woman who had spent two nights and three days in the Owyhee desert east of Castleford was found Sunday morning frozen to the ground, but still alive.

Rose Swan, Boise, was enroute to the Twin Falls area last Thursday, when she became disoriented and drove out into the desert west of the Buhl-Castleford area. Her car became high centered, and she set out on foot with her lap dog, "Junior", to seek help. She went west instead of east.

In the meantime, Boise police had sent out an ATL (attempt to locate) bulletin, after friends had reported her missing.

Saturday morning, off-duty Twin Falls deputy Cooper when out into the desert to sight in a weapon, when he spotted the car, just inside Owyhee County. A check on the license plate showed it belonged to Swan.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department put a plane in the air and did an initial search, along with ground crews. TFCSD contacted Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman, who called deputies and posse members, who drove to Castleford late that night.

Homedale teen critical after stabbing

A Homedale teen remained in a Boise hospital in extreme critical condition this week after he was stabbed several times last Tuesday morning.

Charges of aggravated battery with enhanced penalty for using a deadly weapon were filed later that morning on 37-year-old Adrian Almarez of Homedale. Almarez is accused of stabbing the 17-year-old teen at about 2 a.m. at a home in Homedale. Local law enforcement officials have not released the name of the teen, but Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said the stabbing was the result of an argument, and that alcohol was involved.

Almarez was found hiding in his brother's home less than

Commissioners, sheriff blast IDF&G proposal

Owyhee County Commissioners and the county sheriff blasted the Idaho Department of Fish and Game last week for not giving residents ample opportunity to attend an open house and because the department has "again left the county out of the loop." Fish and Game is proposing adding a doe deer hunt to local units 40 and 41 and proposing restrictions to ATV use in unit 40, as well as changing big game regulations in several other units in the state.

Press releases announcing an open house were sent out statewide on Wednesday Feb. 25. The first meetings were planned for March 1 in Weiser and Marsing where state department officials were available to discuss proposed big game regulation changes to local hunt units. But local media were not able to publicize the announcements because of publishing dates and the lateness of the announcement.

A Nampa daily paper did publish the announcement on Friday before the meeting, but it included the wrong location for the Boise meeting. The paper did receive a correction from fish and game and corrected the mistake on Monday or Tuesday, a spokesman said.

Proposed changes include ATV restrictions and changes to doe deer seasons along the Snake River in units 40 and 41. Commissioner Chris Salove said Tuesday that Southwest Region spokesman Al Van Horn called and was added to the commissioners' meeting agenda Monday, where Salove said Van Horn got an ear full.

"I think there is no doubt that they are trying to slide this by us," Salove said. "We haven't taken the issue as a formal position, but we would most likely agree to completely oppose the banning of ATVs in unit 40. We are definitely opposed to them making any decision without giving the people of the county time to attend one of their open houses. I don't care what they say, a written comment is not the same. You don't give someone a week's notice and expect them to be prepared for a meeting of this sort with any excuse.

"My comment to him was that they needed to admit they messed up and they better just stop for this year until people can have time to comment. As far as I am concerned, anything less than canceling all plans for this year is unacceptable. They didn't follow the

Mayor warns residents to “put the seat down”

Occasionally the elected officials of a City get an opportunity to visit first hand when things in the City go wrong. Such was the case earlier this month for Marsing Mayor Don Osterhoudt and Councilman Ed Pfeiffer, who live in Riverview Subdivision in the City of Marsing.

In passing a recent bonds for the renovation of the city’s sewer system, one of the parts of the bond was an inventory of the sewer system in which a camera is passed thru the sewer pipes and locate any area’s where irrigation water is invading the system.

Osterhoudt said two major benefits of the inventory is identification and repair of the system, and a lowering of the amount of material processed thru the system, therefore lowering costs and the cleansed discharge.

“It seems Roto Rooter, after losing one camera to debris in one other pipe in town, hooked onto the sewer pipe in the Riverview area and began high pressure water cleansing of the pipes prior to inventory with the camera,” Osterhoudt said. “The high pressure water wash creates a high air pressure situation which in the normal course of events passes thru the pipes and up the air vent on homes with little or no effect to the surrounding homes while this procedure is being completed.

“The problems that can, and did, arise is if the air vents in the homes have become restricted by some nasty insects, animals or just plain old blown in debris, then the air takes the path of least resistance, and viola- the water in the toilet bowl becomes old faithful in miniature. There is no way to determine if the air vents have become restricted, and the result is definitely a disturbance in domestic tranquility.

“As your momma told you when you were a young person ‘put the seat down.” So the City is now asking the residents of Marsing to ‘put the seat and the lid’ down for the next two to three months until we can be sure the inventories are completed, and surprises to the domestic tranquility can be minimized.”

Cemetery district mistakes cause grief

A Homedale woman travels to the Marsing/Homedale Cemetery once a week to visit the grave of her mother who died recently. She looks over the area where he mother has been laid to rest, and where she will also someday be laid to rest, not far from her mother’s grave. But during her last visit, she discovered a very disturbing surprise. Someone else was buried in the plot that had been bought for her as her final resting place.

Susan Winder and her husband Bob, purchased a plot in 2003 at the cemetery and thought, because of wording on the deed, that their plot would be recorded with the county. But upon asking why someone else was buried in Susan’s plot, they found that the plot had never been recorded at the county courthouse and a mistake had been made by the cemetery district.

“About a year ago, Rick (Sharrow, district secretary/treasurer) went out to stake out a plot for another gravesite,” Cemetery District Chairman Don Osterhoudt said. “Each one is marked with a pin. But at this time he somehow got on the wrong pin because of snow on the ground and we buried a person in the wrong spot. We contacted the family and let them know what had happened. The people have been very gracious, but we are also working to make sure mistakes do not happen in the future.”

The mistaken pin, Osterhoudt said, has caused a mistake in three gravesites. But Osterhoudt said he was not aware of the mistake with the Winder plot.

“She (Susan) goes out every month or so to visit her mother,” Bob said. “She saw that someone else was in the plot bought for her. They offered to put her plot somewhere else, but I guess the family of the man buried in the wrong plot wants to move him anyway. But right now we don’t trust the cemetery district. What is to say it has not or will not happen to someone else.”

Osterhoundt said the recording of the plots is not a requirement by the cemetery district and would not have changed the problem of a person being buried in the wrong spot, but it is a safeguard for everyone involved. He said recently the district decided to send the deeds to the county on their own to have them recorded.

Owyhee County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn said Thursday that 11 plots have been recorded since 1989, but she retracted that number on Friday saying after further investigation 30 plots have been recorded since 1989. Sharrow would not release

Cemetery plots

The Marsing-Homedale cemetery is located between the two cities on Highway 95. Recently mistakes in locations of pre-purchased plots have caused some local family members grief.

how many plots were in the cemetery or how many plots have not been recorded. Sherburn said the recording of the plot is only a recording of the property. She said the county does not track the sale of the plots.

“When you buy a plot you are hoping the cemetery district is keeping track of which one you bought,” Sherburn said.

“We have had problems in the past because we give people a deed to those plots, but the problem is they would not record them,” Osterhoudt said. “They are told, as far as I know, that they need to record their plot, but they don’t. At a recent meeting we decided that we would record the deed. What we would find was happening is a person would buy seven or eight plots and then they just pick where he wanted that person buried.

“We have made mistakes by putting someone else in a plot intended for a different person. But we have corrected that.”

Sharrow said Friday that he takes full responsibility for the mistake that was made with both burials. He said poor record-keeping in the past and a forgotten map mark has caused the trouble.

“We had to have a disinterment because someone was accidentally put into someone else’s plot,” Sharrow said. “When this person died, his daughter died about a year before he did and his sons bought lots next to hers. Of those plots, one of them had already been sold. When Winder bought their lots, I put them down in the computer. I don’t know what happened, but I didn’t record them on our map. That is where the mistake was made.”

“The problem we were having is because people would come in an purchase six to 14 lots and then distribute it through their family,” Sharrow said. “Then when the person would pass away, they would want them buried in a plot that was still in the name of the person who originally bought it.

“What they should be doing is when they distribute it to a family or friend, there should be a quit-claim deed. It is for the protection of the person who has the plot. It is not a requirement to record a plot, but it is a safe option.

“It will help us to keep from placing a person where they should not be because the plot is recorded. We have had people who have owned a plot for many years and no longer have the deed. If it is recorded we have a record.

“I am a minister, I believe in my integrity, and I feel terribly bad for the mistake. It was a mistake that should have never happened. I would just like to suggest that anyone who has a deed, take it in to the county recorders office and have it recorded. I can understand Susan’s upset to the situation. I hope she knows that it is devastating for me as well to have had this happen.”

began spreading out across the desert.

Around ten o'clock, tracks were found in the road leading west, towards Grassy Hill area. The plane began searching that area, and spotted Swan, lying in a snowdrift. A closer fly-over revealed some movement by Swan. Ground crews found her alive, but suffering from extreme hypothermia. Her wet clothes were frozen to the ground. She was dressed in tennis shoes, two light pairs of pants, and two sweaters. She had sprained her ankle, and had fallen where she was found. Sheriff's posse EMTs did what they could while awaiting an air ambulance.

Swan was transported to a Twin Falls hospital, where she is recuperating and was listed in critical but stable condition Monday. Her dog "Junior", who accompanied her on the helicopter, suffered no affects from the ordeal.

Swan was found about eight miles from her car. It is not known how many miles she had wandered around in the desert. She was 5 1/2 miles inside Owyhee County.

To reach the area, it is about a 200-mile drive, going through Elmore, Gooding, and Twin Falls counties to get back into Owyhee County. Eleven people from Owyhee County Sheriff's Department were involved in the search.

process."

Sheriff Gary Aman said he agreed with Salove and the impact to his department would be detrimental. He said fish and game cannot possibly enforce ATV restrictions in Owyhee County.

"They can not enforce it out here," Aman said. "They say they will enforce it themselves, but the only way they will enforce it is by calling us. Opening day of deer season last year I had nearly every one of my officers out answering fish and game calls. Unit 40 is too large to have a one-size fits all rule on the use of ATVs. What works down here in the low lands does not work in the mountains. To be in violation you have to have a weapon on you and a big game tag. Evidently every person who is riding an ATV will be checked. They cannot enforce it.

"Owyhee County is the most sought-after deer hunting unit in the state. It is a zoo out here during hunting season. Opening day, there were probably 150 hunters on Whiskey Mountain alone. It is unenforceable and it will put a huge increase on my department. They say their mind is not made up, but you can tell it is. This is nothing more than a foot in the door and pretty soon special interest groups will get everything they want from fish and game. This is just another step in the direction to limit hunting."

Motorized vehicle restrictions apply to hunters only, and only for some hunts in the following units: 32, 32A, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 58, 59, 59A, 70, 72, 73, 75, 77 and 78. Fish and Game said they will accept written responses to the proposed changes until the day before this month's commissioners meeting in Boise on May 25.

New rule covers off-road hunting

A new rule adopted by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission restricts motor vehicle use while actively hunting big game in 16 management units.

The rule states "motorized vehicle use as an aid to hunting is restricted to established roadways open to motorized vehicle traffic capable of travel by full-sized automobiles. A full-size automobile shall be defined as any motorized vehicle with a gross weight in excess of 1500 pounds."

An established roadway is any road showing signs of repeated use by full-sized vehicles. "Two-tracks" created by infrequent use and that may exist only during brief periods of the year will not be considered roadways. Established roads typically have depressed wheel tracks and little or no vegetation in the wheel tracks.

A person will be considered actively hunting if they have a valid hunting license and tag and are chasing, driving, flushing, attracting, pursuing, seeking, following, trailing, shooting at, stalking, or lying in wait for, any wildlife while in possession of a hunting weapon. The rule does not affect persons not actively hunting or hunters staying on established roads.

Vehicles may be used for retrieval of game but are governed by the owner or manager of the land. If a person uses a vehicle to retrieve game, to remove any question about whether they are hunting, it is recommended they leave the weapon behind or unload the weapon and stow it away.

Additionally, the Department recommends that hunters, who wish to use motorized vehicles to retrieve game, use them during mid-day to minimize potential disruptions to nearby hunters.

Motorbikes and ATV's used exclusively on private agricultural land are excluded.

Fair board revises rules for out of county 4-Hers

The rules for the annual Junior Livestock Sale held every year at the Owyhee County Fair will change in the future to only include 4-H kids who live or attend school in Owyhee County instead of including kids who attend a school district located in Owyhee County.

Fair board members addressed the issue during a meeting last week. Fair board member Dave Rutan told the board that he has been approached over the issue because of a 4-H club located in Canyon County. Rutan said the 4-H kids live in Canyon County, but the kids attend school in Owyhee County, which allows them

"They used to be an Owyhee County club, but last year they got upset and went to the Canyon County side and started their own 4-H club," Rutan said. "Now they are a Canyon County club, Canyon County kids and they still want to show and sell their animals in Owyhee County. Our 4-H program coordinator thinks that is just fine. She said she does not want to discourage any kids from joining 4-H and I agree, but they should be in 4-H in their own county."

Member Kenny Tindall said the rules currently include only 4-H and FFA members in Owyhee County. He said they are only allowed to market one animal in one fair.

Fair board chairman Joe Merrick said the fair book rules state: "to exhibit or market livestock in the fair, one must be a 4-H club member living in Owyhee County or attending a school district located partially in Owyhee County."

The board agreed to change the wording of the rule to state, "to exhibit or market livestock in the fair, one must be a 4-H club member living in Owyhee County or attending a school located in Owyhee County."

Members Rutan, Mary Lootens and Ray Bicandi approved the motion. Tindall opposed it saying he felt the board would receive a lot of opposition over the decision. Merrick did not vote.

"I don't like some of that because I think it has a conflict in Jordan Valley and it has a conflict in the reservation," Tindall said.

"Also if you read these rules on this subject it says written approval from the county extension educators in both locations is required," Tindall said. "If they live in Jordan Valley and they want to come down here if they get the approval from both they can."

Tindall argued that the board is splitting the cultures and he did not agree. He said the school district in Bruneau/Grand View pay for the school district in Owyhee Nevada.

"Down there a good percentage of the kids are on the Nevada side, attending Nevada schools which is funded by Idaho tax payers money," Tindall said.

Merrick and Rutan said that if it is a hardship for the kids in Owyhee Nevada, they could get an approval and still attend the sale.

The group agreed that the rule would not take effect for this year's fair, but it would be in effect for the 2005 fair.

Terry Reilly offers medical care for uninsured

The uninsured do not need to go without needed primary health care. An expanded medical capacity grant from the Federal Bureau of Primary Health Care has given Terry Reilly Health Services additional physicians and other staff so they can help more of the growing uninsured population in the Treasure Valley.

Fees for health care services at the clinics are discounted, according to family income, so that personal finances are not a barrier to getting the care that’s needed.

At the Homedale Clinic, family physician Dr. Chip Roser has been added to the medical staff part-time, as has physician assistant Janine Franco. Also, long time clinician Dick Ernest is still there full-time.

At the Marsing Clinic, where Faith Peterson continues as the lead full-time clinician, has also gained the part-time services of Dr. Roser and Franco.

Evening hours are offered until 9 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Homedale clinic and Thursdays at the Marsing clinic. Both clinics open at 8:30 a.m.

Lodge to hold scholarship breakfast

The Silver City Masonic Lodge No. 13 A.F. and A.M. of Homedale is offering local students four scholarships this year. An annual scholarship breakfast will be held at the lodge on March 14 from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. for $5 per person.

The pancake feed will be an all you can eat breakfast with ham, scrambled eggs, pancake and Ava’s red syrup. Everyone is welcome to attend to help fund additional scholarships in the future. All funds will go to the scholarship fund and tickets will be available at the door.

The scholarships will be awarded to four students from the Parma, Wilder, Homedale and Marsing School Districts.

A scholarship committee will select students based on their schooling background, educational goals, financial needs and extracurricular interests. Coordinators of the event said they would like to thank everyone who donated to make the program a success.

Obituary

Andrea Lynn Rutledge

Andrea Lynn Rutledge was the youngest of us, the most cheerful, and the most vibrant. She was our daughter, our sister, our cousin, aunt and niece-and she was our friend. A traffic accident took her from us on Friday, March 5, just north of Rigins, Idaho. Her death was sudden and all too soon, and we will mourn her all the more for it. For we who loved her most, all the shine has left our lives.

Andrea was born November 14, 1971, to Warren and Ann Rutledge of Homedale. She was the youngest sister to five siblings: Karen, Sherry, Warren Lee, Dauna and Daniel. We five and her parents have survived her short life. Not an hour will pass in the rest of ours in which she is not missed.

No summary of her accomplishments and joys can suffice; her life was more than a list. No one gave more, did more, or meant more. All we ask is that you remember her as you knew her, and perhaps in that way all she was might remain.

Memorial services will be held at 2:00 p.m., Wednesday, March 10, at Cloverdale Funeral Home. If you are unable to attend the service, you may e-mail a message to the family at ccsherry@msn.com. Services are under the direction of Cloverdale Funeral Home.

NOV. 2004 ELECT A NEW OWYHEE COUNTY SHERIFF

Vision-Accredited Plan of Action
New Citizen Surveys available soon

The Office of Sheriff needs Accreditation and this will bring an effective new change
In our election process the margin is narrow, but our responsibility is clear. We are learning how to choose friends and change them, how to create alliances and deal with challengers.

Gary Aman has spent his live in the past formulating policy, receiving general support, persuading, leading, sacrificing, teaching, and his greatest duty has been to educate those who would listen.

Gary Aman in the past has tried to fight and defend citizens against the power and might of those who have risen up to challenge citizens in this county. To say that Gary Aman would not make mistakes would be silly. I must believe Gary Aman's past mistakes were not made from faintness of heart or abandonment of moral principles. Whenever a man does the best he can, then that is all he can do.

Gary Aman must weigh the rewards of success against the penalties of failure. There are things a man must not do - even to save a county or country. The greatness of our country is grounded in principles and not on any single personality. Our rights are diminished when the rights of one man are threatened. I do not know of any human right that is more important than a job. A job to share your faith, preservation of family, food on the table and receiving the gift of hope.

Owyhee drill team to host fair drill competition

After several hours of deliberation, the Owyhee County Fair Board finally moved to have the county’s first drill team host a drill competition during this year’s fair and rodeo.

The Canyon County Rough Riders asked the fair board to allow them to host the drill competition, but former members of the Rough Riders, the Owyhee Silver Express, also hoped to host the two-year old event.

The Rough Riders have sponsored the event for the last two years, but the group was then under the direction of Mary Tibbett. Now Tibbett is the president of the Silver Express and she said she felt the event would follow her with the new team. Leaders from both teams agreed that they could not host the event together as a host and a co-host.

Spokesmen for the Rough Riders argued that the group had sponsored the event in the past and that they should be allowed to host it again. They said the event was a big fundraiser for the club, but if the board chose to allow the Silver Express to host it, the Rough Riders team would still attend the competition.

Tibbett, who has also been parade coordinator for seven years, told the board that if the Owyhee County team was not chosen to host the event, that she would not be able to put her “heart” into the event and that they would also have to find someone else to coordinate the parade.

Board member Dave Rutan told the board that his concern was being threatened with Tibbett quitting as parade coordinator. He said he felt threatened to choose her team, or loose her in the parade.

After a lengthy discussion, board member Mary Lootens moved to allow the Silver Express to host the drill event. She said she did not know who would organize the parade if Tibbett did not. Kenny Tindall seconded the motion. Tindall and Lootens agreed to allow Silver Express to host the event.

Ray Bicandi voted against allowing Silver Express to host, but Rutan, reluctantly, agreed to allow them to host this year’s competition. Joe Merrick did not vote.

Homedale residents use hot springs as fountain of youth

Ask 90-year-old Steve Thomas and his 83 year old wife Marianna what has helped keep them as healthy as they are, and both of them will tell you clean living and plenty of exercise which includes swimming three times a week at Givens Hot Springs.

Steve, Marianna and two family friends, Sharon Taggart and Karen Seibold travel to Givens every Monday, Wednesday and Friday and spend over two hours exercising in the 98 degree water which they say has helped heal many aches and pains they have felt. Karen is recovering from a knee replacement by walking over 15 laps in the pool and swimming laps.

Steve is a competitive swimmer having earned six gold medals in the senior games. His last was when he was 80 years old when he swam competitive for the last time.

“Sharon is a very strong swimmer,” Steve said from the pool Wednesday morning. “I used to be able to keep up with her, but now I think she could out swim me.”

The hot pool is located between Marsing and Walters Ferry on Highway 78 and was discovered in 1879 by Oregon Trail pioneers Milford and Mattie Givens. The pool is filled with natural warm water, which on the day

Thomas and his group swam was 98 degrees.

“It is a little warm today,” Steve said. “You can’t lower your body temperature at 98 degrees, but it sure takes away the aches and pains of aging.”

Many people travel to the pool to soak in its many tubs or to swim in the large pool. Recently county commissioner Hal Tolmie was shot in the leg and he said last week he has traveled to the pool for therapy in his recovery.

The “bath-house” was built in the early 1900’s and the structure included private rooms with soaking tubs, which are still available. In 1903 a hotel was built, and although it is now gone, a park with picnic grounds, shade trees and camping facility is available.

“Many people come to the springs to seek a cure,” Steve said. “People with arthritis, recovering from a surgery or just to relax from the hurry of today’s society. It is great. I think it has helped immensely in my success for being 90 years old.”

Potlatch drenches Trojans' title quest

Homedale entered the 2A Real Dairy Shootout in boy's basketball last week and got out to a slow start with a 62-47 loss to title contender Ririe. But they bounced back enough to take out the Lapwai Wildcats in a 76-72 thriller on Friday and followed up with a cliffhanger 46-45 loss to Potlatch on Saturday.

Games got underway at Capital High School in Boise Thursday night with Homedale meeting the Ririe Bulldogs.

Ririe picked up its 18th consecutive win against Homedale and went on to fight Wendell for the state title on Saturday.

Trojan Nick Williams, who was chosen as first team all-conference, led his team with 17 points and seven boards. Matt Nauman, who was chosen second team all-conference, added 10 points.

The loss sent Homedale into the consolation bracket where they faced Lapwai on Friday.

Homedale made a winning comeback Friday caging the Wildcats in a consolation elimination game in Boise.

The Trojans scored on six of eight first half three point shots and scored 72 percent from the field in its win.

Clay Haylett, this year's most valuable player, hit three extra pointers in the first quarter in the middle of a 10-2 run. Homedale never trailed again.

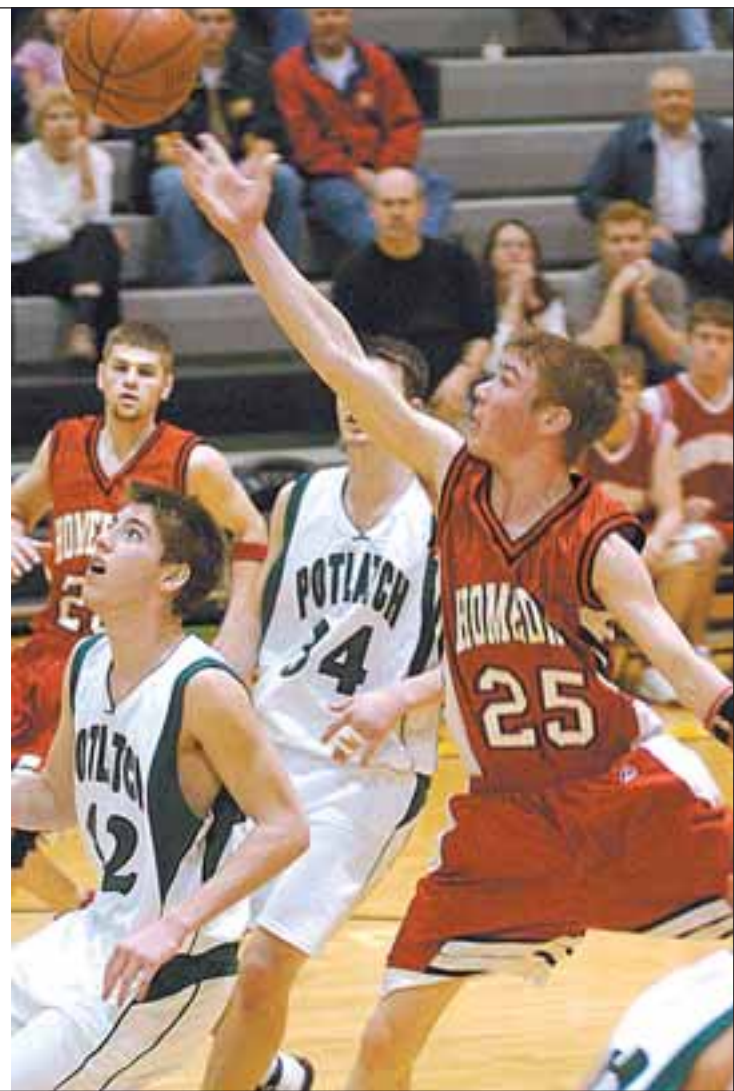

Lapwai battled to comeback to a 16-16 tie in the first quarter and a 20-20 tie early in the second. But Homedale put the fire on and remained just out of reach.

Williams hit a three-pointer to break the tie and Nauman sank back-to-back threes all within a 60 second time period.

Nauman led the offense with 21 points while Haylett added 18. Williams dunked in 12 and Luke Jefferies gave 10.

Homedale's season came to a halt with a 46-45 loss to the Potlatch Loggers on Saturday. Homedale trailed 33-30 heading into the fourth quarter. But the free line was not a friend to the Trojan's Saturday.

Jefferies and Jatón Lord led the Trojans with 11 points each. Lord added seven rebounds and Matt Landa also had seven. Haylett and Nauman scored seven points apiece.

BLM closes Birds region

The BLM Boise District said this week that two seasonal-use closures in the Snake River Birds of Prey Area are now in effect.

Dean Bibles, BLM Boise District Manager, said that during the time of year that the nesting birds of prey are active in the area, certain activities must be restricted.

Air travel below 1,500 feet over the Birds of Prey areas is prohibited from February 1 to September 1 each year, Bibles said. The area restricted is from Indian Cove Bridge near Hammett downstream to the railroad bridge at Guffey Butte south of Melba, and includes the Bruneau Arm at C.J. Strike Reservoir. The closure area extends back one-half mile from each canyon rim. This area contains the densest nesting population of birds of prey in North America. The largest number of birds are in the area during the nesting and fledging periods from February through August, and during this time chances of injury to the birds in collisions with aircraft are greatly increased.

Hunting and shooting in the area beginning about five miles downstream from Grand View and extending about 33 miles, to five miles above Walters Ferry is also prohibited from March 1 to August 31. During the remainder of the year hunting is allowed under Fish and Game Department regulations. Under Federal law it is illegal to harm any raptor, which includes eagles, hawks, falcons and owls.

Bibles also said that within the Birds of Prey Natural Area, a 31,000 acre sanctuary for raptors was established in 1971, vehicle trail is allowed only on designated roads and trails. Signs in the area indicate those roads and trails to be used.

Board rehires Zollinger, Supt., Tucker, principal

Charles W. Zollinger was rehired as superintendent of the Homedale public schools at the meeting of the school board last Monday evening. Zollinger, who came to Homedale from Paul, Idaho, has been administrator of the local school system for the past two years.

During his term of office, the new grade school has been constructed and the grounds landscaped at both grade schools. Mr. Zollinger has done remarkable work in beautifying the schools, taking it upon himself to soliciting contributions and volunteer labor to get the projects completed at little or not cost to the school district.

Also hired Monday night was Ward Tucker, who was elected to again serve as principal of the Homedale high school. Tucker was coach and social sciences before taking over the principalship last year.

Tennis court now under construction West of H. school

A tennis court is now under construction on school property just west of the high school building and before long the youngsters and tennis-minded adults will be using the new concrete slab that marks the beginning of a new recreational facility in Homedale.

The Homedale school board last Monday night approved the construction of one court using contributions to be raised as a community effort through a committee composed of Charles Zollinger, chairman, Mrs. Lloyd McLaughlin, Mrs. Wesley Hausauer and Orville Vance.

High school and junior high school students have pledged a sack of cement each toward the materials to be used, and most of the construction costs will be taken care of through contributions and free labor, Mr. Zollinger indicated. No school funds or no city funds have been pledged to the construction of the court.

Plans call for two courts to be poured side by side but the second court will not be started until the first one is complete and paid for, Mr. Zollinger said.

On overnight hike

The local Boy Scout Troop No. 132 took a overnight hike last Saturday to Chipmunk, located at the head of Succor Creek. Troop members present were David Kushlan, David Salisbury, Kenny Burton, Johnny Scherer, Gene Scherer, Connie York, Gary Henderson, Fred Watterson, and Vernon Kershner. The troop scout leader, Joe Eiguren was unable to go, so the boys were accompanied by Sgt. Richard Scherer of the local unit of Idaho National Guard.

High school news

Wednesday morning a national assembly was held in the high school by Chief Little Deer and his three sons White Cloud, Sun Set and “Mike”. The little boy Mike was 5 years old and the center of attraction. They did many dances; the one which was enjoyed the most was the hoop dance. As soon as the program was over the kids all ran to get autographs and talk to the little boy.

In the interclass tournament the seniors won. The sophs came in next, losing the championship by 4 points of one game. The juniors came next and the fresh last.

The sophomore class sold the most subscriptions for the Chronicle and will receive $78 for their class treasury. All together the school netted approximately $140.

The student council is making plans for stage props. They are finding out about materials and the cost.

The freshmen are sponsoring a Shamrock ball this Friday, March 12. It will held in the new grade school auditorium at 9pm.

IMPROVEMENTS IN SILVER. Mssrs. Sommercamp and Brey are erecting a building on the south bank of Long Gulch, in Silver City, to be used as a brewery and lager beer saloon. The work is going on vigorously and will be completed and in full blast inside of a month. They have all the machinery and ingredients on hand and expect to make tiptop lager. On the north bank of Long Gulch in Silver, a similar establishment is going up by the Grete Bros., of the Miners’ Brewery. Owyhee is bound to have plenty of lager-a good thing in a family or bachelor’s den.

THE WEATHER the past week has agreeably deceived the most of us. Instead of snorting winds driving little snowfalls through the system, as was shadowed forth the 1st inst., we have been subjected to the genial rays of old Sol accompanied by zephyrs soothing as May-day breeze in such lands as, Humboldt. Snow nearly all gone from the sunny side of Jordan, teamsters praying for more or a good deal less. If less will do, and praying is likely to send it off, why, let’s pray. A mixture of rain and snow at latest dates. It can be a somewhat mean and not try hard either.

BEACHEY’S STAGES continue to make quick trips. Captain Walker’s programme, if carried out, will give the lines of communication protection on Reynolds creek, and be a base of operations as well.

WANTED IN IDAHO. A governor that is a man, not an old imbecile as we now have. The simple fact of a human being having a governor’s commission, is no evidence that he is a real governor. To be a governor is to perform certain well known duties and do all he can in an official way, at least, to promote the welfare of the people whom his parchment authorized him to govern. It has been some time past since we’ve heard any one intimate that Idaho has a governor. The person who claims to be has given no valuable evidence that he is entitled to the name. He is in Boise City raving at those who offer to differ with him, and flattering those who will tolerate it. Add to this the onerous labor of issuing several Noteriel commissions daily, and the reader will have an idea of the governor’s labors. We’ve before mentioned some of his labors as Sup’t of Indian Affairs, his chief forte. Now we do think there are a number of men, whose interests are identical with the Territory, that would accept the position of governor; those, men who would have sufficient pride and self-respect to discard flattery for earnest, sensible talk, and lose sight of self long enough to perpetrate some unselfish act for the public good. If such a man can be found, and we think he can, let a united public sentiment force the present loony concern to resign or effect his removal and have a man appointed. We don’t want any importations, but men of L.T., not of any New York or eastern dale. We want something or a simon-pure vacuum or nonentity, not a living nothing.

THE STATESMAN may think it very smart to garble our remarks about the “situation.” To revel in the enjoyment of regular and reliable mails and travel communications for nearly two years at a sizetch, and be dependant on charity or subscription for any mail matter whatever, with the probability of that little interrupted at any moment and all travel entirely unsafe, are two vastly different things. To have two or three hundred soldiers lolling about in the sage brush for months and months without orders to raise an arm for public protection, but on the other hand, allow themselves to be robbed twice over of about the last hoist, and then, because a “Regular” wipes out a score of these hellions, we must “go back” on a few just remarks, are also two different thing, an out of our style. Almost everything in Owyhee depends on the quieting of these Indians. Every man possessing property or doing business here, is contemplating this Indian war with the most intense anxiety; and of late, horror and confusion is depicted on the countenance of but too many. The successful little fight of Capt. Walker has but maddened the hundreds that remain in the rocks and bushes along every road or trail leading to these mines and valleys. Consider the reversal of positions, and don’t let those fits of smartness unfit the Sides man as a journal of general usefulness, and here’s till ye!

The Lotto

There’s an old joke that goes, “Did you hear about the farmer who won the lottery? When they asked him how he was gonna spend it, he said, ““I guess I’ll keep on farmin’ till it’s all gone!””

Margaret and Mel have farmed for years out on the plains. They regularly spend a few dollars a week on the Lotto. Like many folks, they had a system to pick their lucky numbers, their’s included the kids’ birthdays and their own.

Some might harbor the impression that farmers are too tight-fisted with a dollar to gamble. Actually, it’s just the opposite. Granted, they are stingy about painting the house, buying new tires, trading cattle, or selling cowdog pups, but gambling? They do it everyday! Every seed they plant, every sow they farrow, every pen of cattle they feed is done with the same innocent blind faith that you see in the eyes of a six-year old on the windmill tower, with a homemade parachute strapped to his back!

The morning after the big Lotto drawing, Mel called the toll-free number to hear them read the winning numbers. He couldn’t believe what he heard. “Margaret,” he said, “Call them and check the number.” She did. She didn’t believe it. She asked their son to call. He did. He listened as they read while he compared the numbers on the ticket in his hand. The son began to sway and buckle at the knees. They slid a kitchen chair under him. They were all dumbfounded. They had won!

The next morning Mel made his daily trip to the Pop & Top Shop for coffee and conversation.

“I won the Lotto last night,” he told ‘em.

They, of course, thought it was a joke since Mel did have the reputation of reporting alien sightings, exaggerating the size of his fish, and always fudging the amount of rain he got. Not until his buddies saw him on the television receiving the award did they believe him!

The media swamped them with attention at the ceremony at the state capital in front of the Lotto building. Mel and Margaret were in their Sunday best and everybody back home said they looked good.

“After you found out you won,” asked the bug-eyed press, “What did you do with the ticket? Put it in a safe? Take it to the bank? Bury it out back?”

“No,” replied Margaret, “We just stuck it under that little smiley cow magnet on the fridge.

“What are you gonna do with all your winnings?” asked a breathless reporter

“Well,” Mel said, “I guess we’ll just keep farming till it’s all gone!”

Not important ... but possibly of interest

I thought the bell was tolling for me.

Recently, members of the Army National Guards 116th Armored Cavalry were notified they should get their affairs in order because they may be called into federal service for a tour of duty in Iraq.

I believe the year was 1968. At the time I was beginning my journalism career as a sportswriter at a local daily newspaper. I had recently married the girl of my dreams and was settling down into what appeared to have the makings of a fairly decent life. In 1968 I also was a member of the Army National Guard. I had joined a local combat engineer unit in 1965. In late 1967 or early ‘68 we had been converted to troop in the 116th Armored Cavalry.

On those days the newspapers received their national and world news via mechanical teletype machines. When something of special importance happened, United Press International sent bulletins . Such messages were preceded by a ringing bell. The more important the message, the more rings.

It was late morning when the bell on the machine started dinging. It dinged more times than I had ever heard a teletype ding. I reached into the machine and tore off the short bulletin. It said, “President announces call up of Idaho Guardsmen for service in Vietnam.”

As I read the message my heart sort of jumped up into my throat. I handed a coworker the bulletin and walked to my desk, wondering if I should clean it out right away or if we would be given a little time for that sort of thing. And I thought about how I was going to tell my mate, if she hadn’t heard already.

Within a few minutes an expanded story moved on the wire. The units being called were combat engineers in northern and eastern Idaho. A few months previously my unit had been part of that group. We missed Vietnam by an eyelash.

In recent reserve call-ups the media has focused on the problems an activation causes the soldiers and their families. They always find somebody who says “This is really going to ruin my career. When I joined I didn’t think I would ever actually have to fight! This isn’t fair!”

Back in 1965, I joined the Guard because it was a part-time job that added a little money to our budget. Joining the Guard kept me from being drafted and automatically sent to Southeast Asia. But I signed up voluntarily for the Guard. If the teletype bell had tolled for me, I would have been scared and would have hated leaving my job and my wife. But I would have gone-without public complaint.

Our world is a lot different that it was thirty years ago. But as far as I’m concerned one thing hasn’t changed. If you sign an agreement you have an obligation to fulfill that agreement. If you are willing to enjoy the benefits you get from being a member of the military, then you should be ready to do what you have been trained to do, if the call comes. A deal is a deal.

Commend new City of Homedale

I comment the new City of Homedale employees at city hall. It was great to conduct business there recently and have a nice clean office instead of a smelly sports club.

My hat is off to you.

Farm Bureau Oregon ruling brings common sense to the forefront

By John Thompson, Director of Information

An Oregon judge's recent ruling that genetically identical wild and hatchery-raised coho salmon shall be given equal consideration in endangered species decisions is great news to the economy of the Pacific Northwest and a big blow to the environmental community.

At issue in the case was how the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) counted Oregon Coast coho salmon for protected status under the Endangered Species Act (ESA). By counting only naturally spawned salmon, NMFS kept fish counts artificially low, justifying needless ESA protections and locking up land use.

At the trial level, U.S. District Judge Michael Hogan ruled that NMFS acted illegally in protecting wild fish while disregarding hatchery fish. Environmental groups appealed that decision and the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals recently dismissed the appeal.

NMFS and various environmental groups have long argued that wild salmon and hatchery fish of the same species are somehow different in spite of the fact that geneticists can find no difference in their DNA. By counting only wild salmon, NMFS and environmental groups have used distorted rhetoric to mislead the public about the actual numbers of salmon that migrate into the Pacific Northwest. Counting only wild salmon has also led to restrictions and regulations under the Endangered Species Act that have inhibited economic growth throughout the region.

However, the March 1 decision from the Ninth Circuit Court in Portland directs NMFS to count every fish. The decision has wide-reaching implications for everyone who uses water in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and California. Attorneys for the Pacific Legal Foundation, the group that successfully argued the case on behalf of water users, believe the decision could have wide ranging affects on many different species listed under the ESA.

"With the Ninth Circuit Court's dismissal of this appeal, 'the sky is falling' rhetoric of hard-core environmental activists has been debunked and their true agenda exposed," said Randy Brooks, attorney for the Pacific Legal Foundation. "This attempt to control private land use in the name of species protection has been successfully shut down. Families in the Pacific Northwest are sick of environmental hysterics that have resulted in rising home prices, choking traffic, higher taxes and a slowed economy."

The Ninth Circuit ruling is one of the most groundbreaking environmental decisions of the last decade. Any fish regardless of whether is it hatched in a small Idaho stream or a modern hatchery that can swim to the Pacific, survive there until maturity and return home to spawn, has earned the right to be counted. To argue otherwise is pathetic, but it serves as a good indicator of how far some environmental groups are willing to go to achieve their goals.
