Fishing derby, rodeo make for busy weekend

Breshears fishing derby to be held Saturday

Local young experienced and in-experienced fishers will have the opportunity to learn new techniques and maybe even how to fish during the LeRoy Breshears Memorial Kids Fishing Day, which will be held again this year. The event was postponed last year due in part to a very lengthy legislative session.

But this year, County D.A.R.E. officer and district representative Rich Wills, who is coordinating the event, will have the opportunity to collect donations from individuals and businesspeople in the area. Wills said that since the department did not coordinate an event last year, funds have dwindled. He said any donation will be accepted, but donations of $200 or more will get the donator a spot on the back of a t-shirt kids will be given.

The event will be held on May 15 at the Marsing Island Park pond and is organized by the Owyhee County Sheriff's Department, the Idaho Department

Hit the dusty trail

Riders saunter down a dusty trail during the Wilson Butte 4-H trail ride held earlier this month. Coordinators said the event was a huge success and they plan to hold another one next year. Mary Blackstock and Deana Bass coordinated the daylong event and said over 65 riders attended the fundraiser.

Wilson Butte 4-Hers participate in trail ride to raise funds

Coordinators of the Wilson Butte 4-H trail ride held earlier this month said the event was a huge success and plan to hold another one next year. Mary Blackstock and Deana Bass coordinated the day long event and said over 65 riders attended the fundraiser. “We would like to thank everyone involved and everyone who came and supported our ride,” Bass said Friday. “It was a perfect day. Equestrians rode a large loop across the scenic Blackstock Ranch, along Squaw Creek and returning back to camp with the aroma of buckaroo beans and the fixings. After lunch, tickets numbers were drawn and tons of great donated items were handed out to the lucky winners. Third place Poker run winner received a beautiful saddle blanket donated by D & B Supply, second place received a nice breast collar donated by Wilson Butte 4-H Club and Kim Couey was the big winner of a gorgeous headstall with reins donated by RC Bean Saddlery and Bass Auto Body for first prize.

“Photographer Donna Bortfeld took pictures of riding enthusiast along the way, donating half of her proceeds back to the club.” Bass said many businesses and individuals donated to the event.

Homedale fugitive arrested in Montana

A Homedale man wanted for lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor under 16 was arrested Tuesday in Montana and will soon be in the custody of the Owyhee County jail. But right now he is in Canyon County on another warrant. Chancey Baker, 22, has been hunted by Homedale City police officers for several months and was finally taken into custody by the Montana State Police Department. He was arrested on Owyhee County’s warrant from Homedale and a warrant for failure to appear in Canyon County. Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said Friday that Baker was wanted on a $500,000 bond warrant for lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor under 16 for allegedly having a sexual relationship with a 14 year old Homedale girl. Canyon County detective Chris Garrison said Baker also has a $100,000 warrant for failure to appear for sentencing after he pled guilty to lewd and lascivious conduct with two young boys. The police department posted wanted signs for Baker in The Owyhee Avalanche and citizens posted signs throughout Homedale in search of Baker. Officers had detained him several times, but Baker was able to elude them. “The nature of the crime he is accused of is very serious,” Eidemiller said. “Any time we have a person who is accused of this kind of crime running loose and basically thumbing his nose at the law we proceed with full force. It is obvious that he didn’t respect the law enough to show up for court in Canyon County. He has eluded officers in the past. He is a dangerous person. Every person who had a child under 18 should have been concerned because it would appear that he preys on young juveniles. Canyon County did an outstanding piece of investigative work. I am glad the citizens and victims can get some much needed rest. They have had a lot of sleepless rest waiting for him.” “There is a big problem with this man,” Garrison said. “I received a tip that he was working in Montana which is where he has family. I made a few phone calls and now he is on his way back to Idaho. We received many phone calls on him. He was arrested by the Kalispell Police Department in Hungry Horse, Montana.” Baker is also under investigation on other charges in Homedale.

District high school rodeo finals to be held next week

Next weekend, District II’s rodeo competitors will fight their way through bulls, broncs and even goats for the chance to be crowned district champion rodeo winners.

District II finals will be held May 22 and 23 at 10 a.m. both days at the arena in New Plymouth.

“As a National High School Rodeo member, a district II Idaho State Qualifier and a current member of the Idaho District II, I speak for all of us cowboys and girls when I say we are one tough district to compete in,” Gloria King, from Homedale said. “Every cowboy and cowgirl works hard to earn a trip to the state competitions and if your ability allows it, Nationals. Rodeo is a sport full of one on one competition, talent, aggressiveness and a hay load of hard work.”

District II stretches from Homedale to Mountain Home to Payette and all of the towns in between. King said this year District II of Idaho is allowing Jordan Valley to rodeo in the district II competitions.

“Our district has gained 45 new freshmen making over 100 members and I am absolutely ecstatic about the season,” King said. “Our cowgirls compete in barrel racing, pole bending, goat tying, breakaway roping and team roping. Cowboys choose between riding bulls, saddle bronc, bareback, steer wrestling, calf roping, and team roping. And of course every competitor has the choice of cow cutting.”

King said she and all the members of the rodeo association would like to invite everyone to attend next weekends district finals rodeo.

Law enforcement volunteers hold fishing clinics to teach children how to cast, catch and clean fish. Prizes are given for a wide range accomplishments including the biggest, smallest, first and last fish caught.

The first event recorded approximately 250 children and nearly doubled that amount the second year. Nearly every child attending win a prize from hats and t-shirts to fishing poles and tackle.

Frances Field: "Experience will make the difference"

Frances Field

District 23 Representative Frances Field is seeking a second term in the new district as the only Owyhee County member of a three member legislative team. Field has represented Owyhee and Elmore Counties in the house for 9 terms. She presently serves the district which was reapportioned in 2002 and which now includes a large portion of Twin Falls County.

"The new assignment has been both challenging and rewarding," Field stated.

As a legislator, Field has chaired the Agricultural Affairs Committee before being selected to serve on the Joint Finance and Appropriation Committee where she is co-vice chairman. She has also served on the education, judicial and rules, State Affairs and Revenue projection committees and vice chairman of the Resources and Conservation Committee.

Field said she and her late husband Oscar claimed their first farm from the "snakes and sagebrush" in the Grand View valley in the 1950's. Here they raised their family and were very active in community, political and church activities.

"My desire to serve the people of the rural counties fuels my dedication to seek another term in the Idaho House of Representatives," Field said. "I am always a strong advocate for multiple use of our natural resources and I feel that those closest to the resource should be included in the planning process for the use of that resource, using scientific data and not emotion."

Being fiscally conservative in spending Idaho's tax dollars, Field states, "My constituents are small businessmen, farmers and ranchers with the same values I have. They know how to manage a business, meet a payroll and stay on good terms with the banker. They know how to make hard decisions when times are tight. They want a level playing field so that they can sell their products competitively in foreign markets. The voters of this district want private property rights and keeping Idaho water in Idaho and I will work tirelessly to see that my constituents' needs are met."

Field boasts a 100 percent passage on her carried bills in the House. Her legislative record includes continued support for Idaho's educational goals and concern about health care for all citizens regardless of age. She said she would continue to build a coalition with both urban and rural legislators.

"Caring enough to listen and being persistent enough to get the job done," Field says are her strengths. "A voice of reason, and an experienced, knowledgeable legislator are the qualities that will distinguish me from my opponent in the May 25 primary."

Youngsters experience hands-on agriculture

Making friends

Watching the nest

Fifth grade students watch over an incubator nest with baby quail eggs preparing to hatch.

Over 700 students from around Owyhee County and some from Canyon County experienced first hand agricultural booths during the annual FFA Ag Days at Marsing High School in a two-day event Thursday and Friday.

Ag advisor Jason Nettleton said many booths were set up this year to demonstrate the agriculture business and to give kids a hands on experience with animals raised on the farm.

Some children were able to watch baby quail emerge from their eggs as Nettleton and his classes raised nearly 200 babies over the last few months. Nettleton attempted to coordinate the event so the wild birds would hatch during the event, but most of the babies did not begin emerging until Friday afternoon.

Steers, dairy projects, a mule, horses and a tour of the greenhouse greeted kids during the beginning of the tour. Children were introduced to tractor safety with a video and a tractor demonstration.

Inside the Ag shop, booths from the Idaho Dairy Council, Idaho Department of Fish and Game and many other stations greeted kids. Nettleton said the event was one of his biggest and the FFA kids volunteered many hours to the project.

Multicultural celebration

Students, friends and family members joined kindergarten through sixth grade Marsing Elementary School kids for a multicultural fair Friday evening. Student projects featuring culture and the humanities will be on exhibit while attendees line up to savor foods including tacos, Basque chorizos, enchiladas, pozole (spicy pork/hominy stew) and Philly steak sandwiches. Handmade corn and flour tortillas will also be served.

Annual field day draws 200 local students

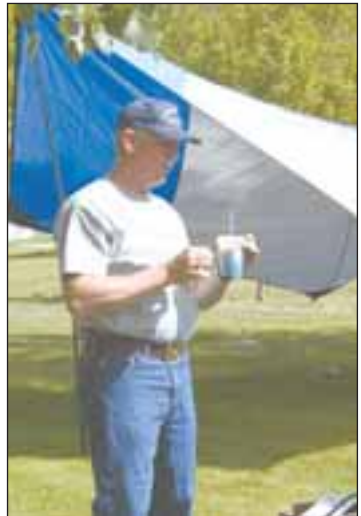

Students from Marsing, Adrian, Arock, Nyssa and Pleasant Valley traveled to the Owyhee Dam Thursday to participate in the third Annual Owyhee Field Day sponsored by the Owyhee Watershed Council. Students were treated to a hands-on experience for fifth grade students that provides a “fun, diverse and hands-on way of learning about the watershed and that they live in and depend on.”

The daylong event is organized by the council education committee. Jennifer Martin is the council coordinator.

Approximately 20 FFA leaders volunteered to assist in the event which hosted 14 educational stations from learning water safety in a raft to a visit with a noxious weed, “Hitch-Hike-n-Spike.” Special this year was the livestock production with Marnie Porath from the Oregon State University Extension Service where children were able to take a “hands on” experience of the digestive system of a cow.

Martin said the vision of the council is that “watershed issues resolved through coordination, cooperation and education resulting in enhanced watershed health, function and use.” She said the groups mission is to “lead the effort in ensuring sustainable, responsible and productive stewardship of all land and water resources for the economic and environmental benefit of the Owyhee Watershed.”

Another special treat for students this year was each one attending received a t-shirt with a logo on the front drawn by a Jordan Valley youngster. Martin said the t-shirts were made possible because of donations from the community. A drawing was held to determine what would be on the front of the shirts and Taylor Gleason from Jordan Valley won the competition with his drawing

Tara Rowland from the University of Idaho, demonstrated entomology with a pair of “bug eye” glasses and treated students to a first hand view from a bugs world.

Additional stations were tour of the dam led by Gene Derock, dam supervisors, rangeland management presented by Ed Petersen, NRCS, water management station with Jay Chamberlin from the Owyhee Irrigation District and Rex Barrie from South Board of Control, the rafting station with Steve Boren from

Trojans lose to Pilgrims in season final

Trojans vs Trojans

Homedale lost 5-0 to the New Plymouth Pilgrims in a regular season final baseball game last week. But they started the district baseball action with a win against Marsing on Saturday during the first round of WIC 2A competition.

On Tuesday, Homedale lost to Nampa Christian 0-8 with Shawn Gibbs suffering the loss. Gibbs pitched three innings, had six hits and eight runs. Nick Williams started the game with four innings. Williams gave two hits and no runs.

Chris Varuska went two for three at the plate and Jeff Lindbloom had one of two.

Against New Plymouth, Varuska suffered the loss pitching six innings. He gave three hits and five runs. Homedale ended its season with a 12-7 overall and 6-4 league record.

“Our last couple of games we have really struggled offensively,” Trojan coach Tim Fullwood said. “Hopefully we can turn it around in districts.”

Heading into the fifth inning, Adam Shockley allowed only one Homedale batter to reach base, as leadoff hitter, Nick Williams reached on an error.

Shockley, along with help from the New Plymouth defense, retired the next 13 batters, before Ryan Rupp and Jason Hathhorn hit consecutive singles, to put runners at first and third, with one out.

Homedale opened the district game by beating the Marsing Huskies.

Varuska and Mark Mashburn each singled home a run in the bottom of the first inning to jump Homedale’s lead. Williams reached on an error and a pitch to send the runners for Varuska and Mashburn to home hit Gibbs.

Williams pitched into the seventh inning to earn the win with nine strikeouts and nine walks. Varuska relieved Williams with three outs remaining in the seventh.

YOU GRILL, Girl

EASY, LIGHT AND LUSCIOUS TURKEY

Talkin’ Turkey

America’s favorite gobbler is great on the grill. Here’s the why and how.

- 1. Why turkey? According to the National Turkey Federation, turkey has the lowest fat content of any other meat, including chicken, and more protein per portion than chicken or beef. Turkey white meat is also the lowest in calories.
- 2. How do I grill turkey? The simplest way is to use what Karmel calls the “Grilling Trilogy” — olive oil, kosher salt and freshly ground pepper. Just brush or spray the turkey breast, cutlets, strips or sausage with olive oil, then sprinkle with salt and pepper. Grill over medium heat, turning once half-way through the cooking time.
- 3. How do I know when turkey is done on the grill? Using a meat thermometer is the only accurate way to determine a safe temperature. Insert the thermometer in the thickest part of the turkey. Turkey is done when an instant-read thermometer reads 165°F for white meat or 180°F for dark meat. For doneness temperatures on a variety of turkey products, visit www.honeysucklewhite.com.

While you’re at www.honeysucklewhite.com, check out the recipes mentioned above, more great grilling tips and a chance to register for the Dream Culinary & Spa Getaway. The winner receives an all expense paid trip for two to Canyon Ranch Spa and Resort in Tucson, Ariz. Plus, enjoy a cooking demonstration from Elizabeth Karmel, creator of Girls at the Grill.

Teriyaki

Fresh Lemon Pepper Turkey

- 1 pound Honeysuckle White or Shady Brook Farms Breast Cutlets, Chops or Tenderloin
- 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice (reserve lemon rind)
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes
- 2 tablespoons grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon minced garlic
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly cracked black pepper

Combine lemon juice, onion, soy sauce, oil, ginger and red pepper. Pour over turkey, coating evenly. Marinate in refrigerator 20 minutes to 3 hours. Remove turkey from marinade.

Combine lemon peel, garlic and black pepper. Rub over turkey, coating evenly. Grill 5 minutes on each side or until internal temperature reaches 165° to 170°F.

Makes 4 servings

Tropical Glazed Grilled Turkey

- 1 pound Honeysuckle White or Shady Brook Farms Breast Cutlets, Chops or Tenderloin
- 1 (15-ounce) can sliced pineapple in juice
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1 tablespoon reduced-fat margarine, melted
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Combine honey, 2 tablespoons pineapple juice, melted margarine and spices. Pour remaining pineapple juice over turkey and let stand 15 minutes.

Remove turkey from pineapple juice and grill 4 minutes on one side, brushing with honey glaze. Add pineapple slices to grill, turning to brown on both sides and brushing with glaze. Turn turkey, brush with glaze and top with pineapple. Cook an additional 3 to 5 minutes or until internal temperature reaches 165° to 170°F.

Makes 4 servings

“Food tastes better when it’s cooked on the grill, it’s intrinsically healthy and there’s virtually no clean-up.

Because of these reasons and more, women all across the U.S. are hungry for recipes and hints on how to use the grill to cook for family and friends,” says Elizabeth Karmel, creator of girlsatthegrill.com. “And new research shows that 34% of women versus 14% just a few years ago are taking charge of the grill and cooking outdoors year ’round.”

So, what’s sizzling on Karmel’s grill these days? Turkey. “Turkey is lean, it’s a great source of protein and it tastes great. Plus, it can take on a world of flavors,” she says.

With a variety of turkey products from which to choose, including ground turkey, tenderloins, cutlets, strips, brats and sausages — there’s a recipe and a flavor for everyone. Substitute light and flavorful Teriyaki Turkey Burgers for that ho-hum burger you’ve been grilling. Spice up your life with Tropical Glazed Grilled Turkey, finished with a luscious pineapple and honey sauce. Or jazz it up with Fresh Lemon Pepper Turkey, with a zippy marinade of lemon, green onion, soy and garlic.

Turkey-on-the-grill weekday meals can be as easy as this recipe: Take one package of hot Italian link turkey sausage and one bottle of your favorite barbecue sauce. Fire up the grill and sizzle the sausage over medium heat, turning every 5 minutes or so. Brush the sauce on the sausage during the last 5 minutes of cooking. Grill for 15 minutes total, or until a meat thermometer inserted in the sausage reaches an internal temperature of 170°F. Now, sit down to the dinner table and enjoy a lean entree with luscious flavor — and no clean-up!

Teriyaki Turkey Burgers

- 2 pounds Honeysuckle White or Shady Brook Farms Ground Turkey
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly cracked black pepper
- 2 cloves garlic
- 2 teaspoons fresh, coarsely chopped ginger
- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 cup orange juice

In large bowl, mix together turkey, onion and pepper and set aside. Extract juices from garlic and ginger into small bowl with a garlic press. Add remaining ingredients to juices and mix into turkey. Make into patties and grill, turning once during cooking, until internal temperature reaches 170°F.

Makes 8 servings

On the edge of common sense

Time passes slowly

When I was a kid, school lasted forever, and Christmas always seemed eons away. But the older I get, the faster time seems to pass.

Maybe it's because when you're nine and you want to go to Mt. Rushmore and your mom says we'll do it next summer, that might as well be in the next ice age. That's 1/10 of your life away! It doesn't compute.

When you're 40, that same vacation is only 2.5% of your life away, 12 short months. It's easily imagined and can be planned for.

But there are some ways you may make time pass more slowly. For instance:

- Have a child when you're fifty years old, that will help the time crawl by.
- Have an injury and be bed-ridden for two months. It will seem like two years.
- Try re-reading The Last of the Mohicans, or The Biography of Edward R. Murrow by A.M. Sperber.
- Drive from Rapid City to Bison in a car with two cutting horse people, or two airplane pilots, or two chain smokers.
- Drive across Texas, or Nebraska, or Seattle, or Saskatchewan, or Pennsylvania, or Atlanta.
- Drive from Boise to Mountain Home, Denver to Ft. Collins, Cleveland to Akron, or Ft. Davis, Texas to anywhere.
- Arrive on time for a doctor's appointment.
- Drink six cups of coffee then attend the Baptist Church service.
- Take your child's third grade class to see the Pokémon movie.
- Anticipate cleaning your shop, your garage, your junkyard, your teenager's room, or your collection drawer.
- Buy a new pair of boots and go to the dance.
- Go on a three-day wilderness pack trip, having not been on a horse for two years.
- Run out of chewing tobacco, smokes, beer or sunscreen on your assault on Mt. Everest.
- Go deep-sea fishing off the coast of Oregon in March with no Dramamine.
- Be standing second in the team roping on a 7.3 with 42 teams left to go.
- Learn to call coyotes.

And finally, call the vet when you've got a colicky horse, the border patrol when your house is surrounded, or the plumber as the water level is raising the linoleum floor in you kitchen, and it will seem forever before they arrive!

Not important ... but possibly of interest

Who would have every thought something made of polyurethane would have historical significance.

The cups have been in our cupboard for at least thirty years. They are plastic -- not the hard type -- but the softer "unbreakable" variety. They are identical except for color. One is yellow, one is orange and one is pink. They are small, not capable of holding more than about six ounces each. They are the kind of cups children use when they finally give up their bottles.

I had forgotten the history of the three cups until a recent evening when our eldest Darling Daughter was visiting. The yellow plastic cup was on the kitchen counter.

"This one was mine," she said, picking up the cup. She remembered that the pink version of the cup was the property of our middle daughter and the orange one was used by the youngest sibling.

"I didn't know yellow was your favorite color?" I said, assuming that as our oldest child, she must have had first choice on cup color.

"Yellow isn't my favorite color," she said. "It was the only cup left." She said there was no way she could get the pink cup because the middle sister loved anything pink and daughter Number Three, who was very young when the cups appeared, would have thrown a baby fit if she hadn't got the orange cup. Seniority didn't mean a thing. Being the oldest can have its drawbacks.

Daughter Number One has always excelled at refreshing our memories on what it was like to grow up in the Cornell household. As she held the cup she remembered that when she and her sisters were allowed to have soda ("pop" to my generation) one bottle was distributed evenly between the three cups with ice added to make it appear the little containers were full.

The reminiscing stimulated my memory banks. A picture popped into my mind of our three youngsters seated at the breakfast table -- the oldest about ten. Each of the girls had their personal unbreakable plastic cup filled with milk. There were several cereal boxes on the table. Each girl used some of the boxes to build a privacy wall between herself and her sisters. Occasionally, they would peer around or over their brightly-colored stockades and scowl at each other.

The plastic cups were also very practical from a parental point of view. If there was an argument and one of the arguees heaved her cup at her opponent, the pliable plastic prevented wounds that required stitches or ice packs. Nowadays, the three former combatants get together on a regular basis. If those cups had been metal their relationship might be less cordial.

The pink cup was particularly memorable. Daughter Number Two had a special talent. It was unusual for her to complete a meal without knocking over her cup and sending the contents flooding across the tabletop. Fortunately, the small size of the cup usually limited the damage. Any time now our granddaughter will start drinking regularly out of a cup. It seems only fitting that she uses the pink plastic cup her mother used. Hopefully, she will be a little more sure-handed than the first owner.

We should retire the cups and have them mounted on plaques with suitable inscriptions - - to be presented to their former owners on some future Christmas. You sometimes hear references to memories "written in stone." Of course, the original author of that phrase probably didn't have access to unbreakable plastic cups.

Leaving for better pay

I have been employed by the Owyhee County Sheriff's Department for the last three years. While the experience has been a positive one I am forced to move on to another department.

The reasons for the move are pay and benefits.

While I know Sheriff Aman is active in trying to improve the pay and benefits his hands are bound by the decisions made by the county commissioners. I am told the commissioners rate the pay scale for our department by the surrounding departments. If that is true then they must be looking at the lowest paying in the area. In the three years I have been in this department I have seen four officers and one dispatcher leave and move on for better pay.

In the last four years this county has had to replace at least four road deputies, which is over half of the entire county officers. It is a hardship for the department to cover shifts for officers while they are being trained and it is an unnecessary waste of money. If the commissioners would grant the department better pay we would not lose so many good officers.

I truly feel this is a good department and a great county to learn in, but unfortunately, that is what this county is, a training ground for officers. Once we get the training we need we become very marketable to the surrounding departments like Nampa and Boise.

To wrap this up, I am resigning from this department to further my career and gain some financial gratification. I would also like to take this opportunity to say that I support Sheriff Gary Aman. He has been doing a great job for the people of Owyhee County and I'm sure he will continue to do so!

Anybody who thinks Sheriff Aman has been calling the kids of this county a "sucker" or a "dumb dumb" either did not read the article that pertained to those two quotes or does not know anything about the man they are trying to put down.

Deputy Dennis Peppley

Excellent relationship

The Nampa Police Department has had an excellent working relationship with Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman. We have worked together on criminal cases as well as internal matters. I have enjoyed a great spirit of cooperation with Sheriff Aman and know that I can just pick up the phone and he will help. I look forward to continuing the close working relationship in the future.

Supports Shanley

I am writing this letter in support of Kurt Shanley who is running for the Homedale School Board in Zone 1.

Kurt graduated from Homedale in 1988, was an Honor Society member, and was part of several state championship teams.

Kurt is a 5th generation Homedale resident, born and raised this community. He and his wife, Nicole, have three children who attend Homedale schools.

I have personally known Kurt for a long time and find him to be a fair and reasonable man. He is the type of person who will look at a situation with an open mind and come to the best decision for everyone involved. Kurt is a man of integrity who will not be compromised.

Kurt has fiscal skills that have been learned through his successful tarp business he started thirteen years ago at the age of twenty-one.

Kurt will be a voice of reason in all situations, whether they involve academics, sports, or personnel issues.

Please vote for Kurt Shanley on May 18th, our schools will benefit from his support.

Shelley Shenk

Ada prosecutor endorses Aman

I write to support Sheriff Gary Aman for his third term as Owyhee County Sheriff. I have known Gary during much of his 23 years in law enforcement. He is honest, energetic and works smart to stretch his manpower over a county the size of some Eastern States. He represents his residents well, truly, and fairly in handling the criminal law and civil process services.

He is a professional and Owyhee County deserves a good sheriff.

Greg H. Bower
Ada County Prosecuting Attorney

Vote for Shanley

As a former school board member and resident of Zone 1 I am writing to express my support for Kurt Shanley to be elected to Homedale School Board.

Kurt has the character traits that would enable him to do an outstanding job as a school board trustee. Kurt is an honest and fair man. He has working knowledge of fiscal conservatism through owning and managing his own business for many years. He has always been willing to give time and resources for various youth activities and causes in our community.

Kurt Shanley and I have a common interest, the Homedale School District, its students and faculty. He would be an excellent choice to guide Homedale during this time of change and challenge. Kurt will have a positive impact because of his commitment and dedication to the education of our youth.

Please cast your ballot for Kurt Shanley on May 18th, 2004.

Accuracy in media Mistreating victims of terrorism

Cliff Kincaid, Editor of the AIM Report.

The media were fascinated with the issue of whether President Bush would apologize to the Arab/Muslim world for the mistreatment of Iraqi prisoners. Meanwhile, Libyan dictator Moammar Gadhafi, who has the blood of hundreds of innocent Americans on his hands, has been welcomed back into the “international community” and recently made a triumphant visit to the European Union headquarters, where he received a boxed set of euro coins.

The press didn’t speculate as to whether or not Gadhafi would apologize for mass murder and terrorism. It was simply not an issue.

Not only did Gadhafi not apologize, the rehabilitated dictator denounced U.S. policy in Iraq and talked about returning to the days of car bombs and using “explosive belts.”

American Jeremy Hall is one of Gadhafi’s victims, seeking justice 18 years after being seriously wounded and disabled in the Berlin LaBelle disco bombing carried out by Gadhafi’s henchmen. He was a member of the U.S. Armed Forces, off-duty at the time. Hall was recently in Washington, D.C. asking members of the Congress for help and the media for publicity. But most journalists would rather write about mistreatment of Iraqi prisoners.

Hall has a radical idea—that the Libyan regime should pay a price, finally, for killing and injuring Americans in that horrific incident. It may not be deemed newsworthy by Al Jazeera, but shouldn’t American reporters cover this demand for justice?

In an interview, Hall described a blast blowing him through a door, burning skin falling off victims, picking up someone’s severed leg, and trying to help other seriously injured people in the chaos. The disco was targeted by Libya because it was frequented by U.S. servicemen. Hall suffered hearing loss and other wounds and lives on disability payments. More importantly, however, he is concerned that the U.S. Government has left its soldiers on the battlefield. The victims of LaBelle were two dead U.S. servicemen, both friends of Hall, a Turkish woman, and 230 wounded, including 80 U.S. military personnel.

Some think Libya has settled the much-publicized Pan Am 103 bombing case. This bombing killed 270 people, including 189 Americans. However, only one Libyan intelligence agent got a prison term and the regime agreed to pay some money to the families of the victims. Gadhafi himself escaped justice through a deal brokered by U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan. And since Gadhafi has now agreed to give up his weapons of mass destruction, the dictator has received a bonus—U.S. economic sanctions were lifted, enabling U.S. oil companies to return and make money for themselves and the regime.

But those economic sanctions were imposed on Libya before Gadhafi ordered the destruction of Pan Am 103. The sanctions were imposed in 1986 after Libya bombed the Berlin disco. President Reagan, citing hard evidence of Libyan involvement, ordered a retaliatory strike over this act of war and bombed several Libyan targets. But the bombs missed Gadhafi, and the dictator got the last laugh by peddling a phony story to the Western media that his “adopted daughter” had been killed. People felt sorry for Gadhafi, rather than his hundreds of victims, and Reagan was depicted as a barbarian.

Germany is still insisting on compensation from Libya for the disco atrocity. The U.S., however, doesn’t seem to be pressing the issue, which is one reason why Jeremy Hall and other victims came to Washington for help.

In a link to Iraq, evidence has emerged that the LaBelle attack was carried out under the direction of Gadhafi himself, and that it was executed by Libyan intelligence agents assisted by Yasser Mohammed Chreidi, a Palestinian member of the Abu Nidal Organization.

Abu Nidal left Libya in 1998 and relocated eventually to Iraq, under the protection of Saddam Hussein. In November 2002, he died in Iraq under mysterious circumstances. Iraq claimed he committed suicide. A writer for Time called it an “assisted suicide,” since he reportedly had several gunshots to the head. It’s not clear why he died or was killed. But the State Department said the fact that Nidal died in Iraq was further proof of Iraq’s support of terrorism. It was Libya, however, that worked with the organization to kill two American soldiers and injure 80 others in Berlin.

Don’t our fellow Americans deserve justice in this case? Shouldn’t Gadhafi and his regime be held accountable for this? Why is Bush groveling on Arab TV because of some isolated cases of prisoner abuse in Iraq while Gadhafi prances around Europe threatening more violence?

Does the mainstream U.S. media even recognize this blatant double standard? If so, they will cover Jeremy Hall’s campaign for justice.

Diesel short; gas next Remember back in 1973, when lines formed at the service stations? Well, chances are you ain't seen nothing yet! That is the observation of John Jackson, a local oil dealer, in regard to the threatening fuel situation. During the past few months Americans have watched gasoline and oil prices climb to record highs. In some areas of the nation, prices are already at one dollar per gallon. In California, the availability, not the price, is the major item of concern. In southern California, motorists are parking vehicles in line at night, in order to be first at the pumps the following morning. Although the situation is still stable in Idaho, Jackson says the picture could change as the summer progresses. At present, there appears to be plenty of gasoline, but a shortage of diesel fuel has already developed. At Homedale High School, underground fuel tanks which normally hold diesel fuel for the furnaces, are nearly empty. School officials are cutting consumption to a minimum, running the heating plant for only a short time each day. Students in the afternoon physical education classes take cold showers because hot water is normally heated by furnaces. Frank Matteson, owner of Owyhee Motors in Homedale said he would like nothing better than to fill the school diesel tanks. According to Matteson, there simply isn't any diesel available. Jackson, who oversees a chain of six valley stations and supplies three others, says he feels the diesel shortage is tied, at least in part, to President Carter's promise to stockpile heating fuels for the New England region of the county. Jackson and Matteson both indicated gasoline is not in short supply at this point, but the situation might change as the summer progresses. Jackson said many dealers feel the situation may eventually surpass the 1973 oil crisis.	Homedale teaching staff is one short of filling complete Ten teachers were hired by the board of Joint Class A School District 370 last Monday night to bring the teaching staff of the Homedale Schools just one short of being filled for the coming school year. Superintendent Charles Zollinger stated that those teachers hired which have not previously been reported in this newspaper include: James Bostwick, physical education, coaching and social science; Bessie Cox, 5th grade; Olive Mitchell, 5th grade; Andrew Schaplowsky, science and math in the high school; Cleo Fay Schaplowsky, 6th grade; Russel Semba, 8th grade; Esther Semba, 4th grade; Jack Hunt, high school music and band; Hollis Selders, high school music; Eunice Anderson, dramatics. New to the Homedale faculty are Mr. and Mrs. Schaplowsky and Mr. and Mrs. Semba. The former couple comes here from Nez Perce where they have been teaching for a number of years and where Mr. Schaplowsky was high school principal. Mr. and Mrs. Semba are graduate of the College of Idaho and have not taught in public schools before.	STOVE PIPES. Quite a number of houses have recently caught fire because stove pipes and chimneys have been insecurely adjusted. Buildings here are nearly all composed of wood, cloth and paper, and a fire once started, with a favorable wind, would spread so rapidly that a whole street or town would be aid in ashes, in spite of efforts to prevent it, and be the result of carelessness. These catastrophes are common in mining towns, and may occur here. Every precaution should be used to prevent it. By frequently noticing the passage ways of pipes and chimneys, our property may be saved. As yet, there is no fire apparatus, and not any means prepared for stopping a fire. So numerous are the fires which occur from defective flues, that in many pieces committees are appointed to examine them and laws are enacted requiring such inspections.
Voters eye levy The election of three school district trustees won't be the only thing for Marsing voters to consider Tuesday, May 15, when they go to the polls. Marsing patrons will also be asked to approve two mill levies. One levy, a five mill, one year levy, would be used for maintenance and operation of the schools. The second, a five mill levy that would run five years, would be used for improving and repairing school facilities.	County repub. Candidates declare election intentions Sheriff Claude L. Sullivan, who has served Owyhee County in this capacity for 18 years, announced Monday that he would not seek reelection this year. This announcement was made at the Republican Central Committee meeting held in Murphy Monday afternoon. At the meeting a number of aspirants declared their intentions of seeking office in the county in this year's elections. Among them are James C. Hayes, who had previously announced his candidacy for the position of State Representative, and Adam H. Blackstock, who will seek reelection as State Senator. Allen Gowey, incumbent state representative, said that he would run again for reelection to that office. Two other incumbents stated their intentions to file for reelection. They are Richard Eismann, Prosecuting Attorney, and Dr. Wm. G. Reimer, County Coroner. With the withdrawal of Sullivan from the race for Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff Frank Orr and Monty Worden, Homedale businessman, both announced that they will place their names on the ballot for this post. County Commissioners are to be elected in Districts No. 1 and No. 2 this fall, and Vernon Hoaglan, Wislon Precinct, declared his intentions to file for Commissioner in the First District. No one has yet announced his candidacy for Commissioner from District Two, the Homedale-Marsing area. Mr. Ray Fletcher of Murphy put his hat in the ring as a candidate for Probate Judge. Because of his intentions to file for State Representative on the 1954 election, Jim Hayes resigned as County Chairman of the Republican Central Committee. Mr. Bryan Brunzell of Murphy was elected to fill that post. Richard B. Eismann will be vice chairman, Mr. Leornard Hamilton of Marsing will be Finance Chairman, replacing Cy Radcliffe of Homedale in that position. Patricia Slack of Murphy was elected to the post of Secretary.	SCHOOL HOUSE. It is next to decided by the new Board of Trustees that renting a school room is bad policy, therefore one must be built. At present, there are not children enough to make two interesting schools, nor funds to pay two teachers, though the latter might be raised. We understand the Board to favor siding a house west of Jordan Creek and north of Bloom &amp; Herd's office. The location would best accommodate all and remove the school a little out (now) of town, which is good policy. We would respectfully suggest that in building a house, the modern style of furnishing be adopted. The cost will be no more and the room much better. It should be finished with a view to accommodate the various ages of pupils, not grown person; also, have the building and furniture to fit school purposes, require the temporary occupants to accommodate themselves to the furniture, and not have children punished from day to day and month to month on any account. Bear in mind that a school house is for children's benefit, not for the latter, a short inconvenience is nothing compared to the pupils' case and comfort.
Veteran trustee faces contest It will be "experience: versus a wish to "become involved," when Homedale School District patrons go to the polls Tuesday, May 15. The Homedale trustee race will be one of several in Owyhee County. At Homedale, veteran board member Tom Arima if facing Gary Hastriter for the Zone 2 board position. Arima, who has served on the Homedale School Board for the past 12 years, says he has, "a keen interest in the quality of education in our school district." Hastriter, a local electrical contractor, says he entered the trustee race because of his interest in the schools. The challenger said he would "like to have an opportunity to participate in the decision making process of the school district."	Piano recital set for Sunday Piano pupils of Mrs. David Phelps will be presented in a recital Sunday evening, May 13, at 7pm in the Fellowship Hall of the Presbyterian Church. Participating will be Anita Johnstone, Pam and Teresa Kubosumi, Stacie and Michelle Matlock, Randee, Teri and Lynne Metzger and Jeri Yamashita of Homedale and Kenna Fujikawa of Adrian.	NEW SETTLEMENT. Ranchers have taken up and settled on lands on Catharine Creek, east of Sinker a few miles. They have put in crops, and expect to raise the substantial cereals and roots in abundance. Have laid out a town site, but no name is reported. Thus one by one are agricultural settlements increasing, which will reduced the cost of living and render it more easy to pass through the country. They dreaded, long, weary overland route is becoming less tedious, and we might say it is growing shorter. The Owyhee habitations have shortened the distance to settlements at least one hundred and fifty miles.
	Promoted Bert Millspaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Millspaugh, recently received the promotion to Electronic Technician 2nd class. Bert is stationed with the navy on the USS Gladiator at Long Beach, Cal.	BRADLEY. "I was thirsty and ye gave me drink." That's what will be said of A. V. Bradley during the sultry months and cold ones too. He has heard so much complaint about the difficulty men experience in traveling all the way from Ruby to Silver (1/2 mile) without a cocktail, that he is building a half-way house to supply this want. It is inconvenient to carry a bottle in lines coat pockets, but will soon have to be done if the half-way does not get up steam.
	New Recruit Julian Landa of Homedale is a new recruit in the local unit of the Idaho National Guard, having joined the ranks this week. According to Sgt. Elmer Moore the local unit has had the biggest percentage of attendance at meetings for the battalion for the past three months.
