Duty calls Homedale councilman

Homedale City Councilman Charles Garrison resigned his council seat during a regular meeting last week because he has been called to duty in the ongoing Iraq war.

Charles Garrison

Garrison submitted a letter of resignation, which was accepted by the council, and said he regretted resigning, but Idaho Code would not allow him to continue, as he will be deployed for longer than the allowed 60 days.

"I regret to inform everyone I must resign my elected position on the city council of Homedale due to the conflict that I currently have with my pending deployment to Iraq and the Idaho Statute," Garrison said in his letter to the council. "I would like to thank everyone for their support while I was a part of the leadership in the city and while I am away from home in Iraq. Many citizens have expressed their

Outpost Days offers trip back in time

History will come to life in a small town in Owyhee County this Saturday and Sunday as the Owyhee County Historical Society hosts the Annual Outpost Days. Murphy will be hoppin' as colorful western heritage will be on display. Displays of lost art demonstrations, activities, entertainment, an auction, chuck wagon barbecue and the 21 anniversary of the running of the great honey toad race will attract onlookers.

The Owyhee County Historical Society, Boise Office Equipment and Dan Wiebold Ford sponsor the event and entertainment will begin at 10 a.m. each day. The center of the celebration will take place at the Owyhee County Museum on the corner of Hailey and Basey streets.

Visitors can see demonstrations by a blacksmith, boot-maker, dog and sheep trials, fiber arts, flintknapping, mule packing, potter, spinning, goat packers, Native Americans and wagon and stagecoach.

Chief Saunders will demonstrate Flint Knapping and Lady Lane will appear on the piano.

On Sunday at noon, there will be an official ground breaking ceremony for the new building site at the Museum. Shortly after Outpost Days, the site preparation will be completed and construction will begin. Commemorative tiles have been being personalized as a fundraiser for the project and will be a part of the new building as the Historical Walk of Fame.

Historian Rosemary Kunkel will present a collage of slides from her many years of field trips in the Owyhee backcountry. The slide program will begin at Crutcher Crossing with Tex Payne, Jim and Pam Howard and Jim Watkins at 11 a.m. and will

Bruneau-Grand View:

Patrons petition removal of administrator and principal

Nearly 200 Bruneau-Grand View school district patrons signed a petition that "demands" the board of trustees remove or reassign school district superintendent Dr. Dallas Taylor and Grand View Elementary School Principal Kathy Delle. But officials said last week that many people who signed the petition have been requesting that their names be removed.

Brenda Lee Smith presented the petition to the board and stated several points she said petitioners are concerned about.

"The purpose of a school district is to serve the patrons and children of their community," Smith said reading the petition. "It must educate the children so that they are prepared to live successful lives as adults. When employees of that school district fail to implement this purpose and refuse to listen to the interests of the patrons, changes must be made."

The petition accuses Taylor of not providing "equal educational opportunities, unprofessionalism, encouraging parents to remove their children, threats and intimidation and lowering credibility." Delle was accused of nearly the same as Taylor.

Minutes from the meeting state that Cynthia Frederick of Grand View requested her name be removed from the petition because of an investigation she conducted on her own. The minutes state that Frederick and a group of people presented a rebuttal to the petition to "dispel misconceptions created by the petition of grievances."

Board member Russ Turner stated that not one patron had contacted him with a concern about the administration. Trustee Darrel Agenbroad said the administration was "adhering to Idaho Code, Federal Law and District Policy in making decisions with the board's approval."

Board member Sandy Cantrell said she was making decisions which were beneficial to children and the test scores are improving because of those decisions. Trustee Jo King state that her child struggles to read and she has seen gains this year in the area of reading. She said she is pleased with the gains and supports the administration.

"We have had numerous calls and people coming into the office asking to

P and Z asks public to help amend zoning ordinances

The Homedale Planning and Zoning commission is asking the public for their input on amending the city's zoning ordinances and will hold a public meeting with the city council on June 14 to seek advice.

Planning and Zoning administrator Sylvia Bahem said last week that the meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall and the city council will be available for comments. She said the subject matter of the meeting is to amend several of the city's current ordinances and will specifically include manufactured homes or mobile homes section of the amended zoning ordinance.

She said other ordinances the commission are looking at is a restriction on the number of large animals to be allowed on acreages within the city limits or the impact area, number of meetings required to be held annually by the commission and other changes.

The public is invited to attend the meeting to provide input, but if citizens cannot attend they may send a written comment to city hall before the meeting. She said a decision would not be made the night of the meeting, but amended ordinances will be written and will be presented to the public at a public hearing at a later date.

County to hold hearing to set building permit fees

The county commissioners will hold a public hearing on June 7 at 10:30 a.m. in the Magistrate Court Room to consider setting fees related to building permits and inspections.

The hearing will focus on fees for building permits, building inspections, plan reviews and mechanical fees to be charged for services.

The commissioners will consider imposing fees under the prior Uniform Building Code for building permits and some inspections, increase fees for plan review and other miscellaneous fees to the level of actual cost for inspections and set new fees for mechanical inspections and consider fees for service necessary under the newly adopted codes.

“These fees are new, and are made necessary because of the inspections which must be conducted under the codes adopted by the board along with the International Building Code which has been adopted by the State legislature,” County Legal Consultant Fred Grant said. “These inspections have not been conducted previously because the mechanical code was not part of the county building code, thus a hearing is necessary for consideration of adoption of new fees. The increase is simply to meet the cost. Building permit fees, it is proposed, will remain the same as they were under the Uniform Building Code.”

Proposed mechanical fee schedule will be listed under “other inspections and fees.” Changes include from $49.50 to $50 per hour and from $49.50 to $50 per hour per inspection. Proposed changes in fees under the Building Code are for a statement of intent, from $47 to $50, plan review or review of submittal documents with permit application, $50 per hour and miscellaneous inspections not specifically listed, from $47 per hour to $50 per hour.

A variety of mechanical fees will be adopted including fees for permit issuance and heaters, furnaces, appliance vents, repairs or addition, boilers, compressors and absorption system, air handlers, evaporated coolers, ventilation and exhaust, incinerators, miscellaneous and gas piping system.

The hearing is the only opportunity the public will have for input on the fees.

Homedale-Marsing commercial assessments double on 2004 roll

The assessment for commercial property in Homedale and Marsing doubled on this year’s tax assessment and Owyhee County Assessor Brett Endicott said it is because the property has not been at 100 percent of market value for many years.

Endicott said the state requires counties to assess property values at 100 percent of market value. He said in the past nothing has been done with the ground for about 10 years. But recently sales have determined the property should be assessed at twice as much as it has in the past.

“Because this is a non-disclosure state, we have not gotten enough sales when there have been sales to determine a trend,” Endicott said. “About two years ago, the Real Estate Association decided to make their information more available. Last year our state appraiser came out. She brought me five or six sales from the multiple listing. Now I am at a position where I have to use these sales. So a few of the appraisers and myself went out, spoke to the people, and determined what the sales sold for.

“The state determined that we were out of compliance on our commercial ground. When the county is out of compliance we have to fix it or the state will. With doing these things, we determined that the ground has doubled in value. Because now that we are out of compliance we have to fix it or they will come in and fix it for us. Unfortunately because it has been close to a 10-year period since anything has been done with that ground, it takes a big jump like this. Personally I don’t like to see this. It will increase the taxes that are paid on the ground.”

Endicott said that in Homedale and Marsing, because of sales he has received of property selling outside of the city, market value ground has also gone up. He said the property was valued at $5,000, but now it has been raised to $6,500. He said home-sites also will raise from $8,500 to $10,000.

“Personally I hate to see it double like that, but because nothing has been done for about 10 years, I don’t have any choice,” Endicott said. “If I don’t do something with it, the state will.”

have their name taken off of the petition,” Taylor said. “We have letters of support and people who have gone into the schools showing their support.”

Taylor said she does not feel there is a problem between the district and the patrons concerning herself or Delle. She said she believes that the husband of a teacher who had been placed on probation started the petition.

“It is not a secret; he has made it very public,” Taylor explained. “There were other teachers who were unhappy because we have had to do a reduction in force. We tried to get the group to present us with facts supporting these claims but they would not. This petition was started by employees and community members who are not getting their way in a time of accountability and reduction of force. We are very pleased that a large number of people have come forward to apologize for putting their name on the petition. They feel that they were lied to just to get them to sign the petition, and we have received so many letters of support.”

Dairy Showmanship Rodeo to be held Friday

The Williams family at Owyhee Dairy will once again host the Dairy Showmanship Rodeo. The rodeo will be held at the dairy on Market Road on Friday and will start at 9 a.m.

Coordinator Sue Williams said all area youth are invited to attend to learn about preparing a dairy animal for show at the annual fair.

“There will be clipping and showing demonstrations first,” Williams said. “Then the youth will have until 3 p.m. to clip, wash and break their animal to lead. There will be a show at the end of the day with a real judge.”

Williams said everything to prepare the animal would be provided as well as a picnic lunch. She said showman should bring a change of clothing in which to show.

“This is a fun way to learn about and work hands on with dairy calves,” Williams said.

Obituary

Mildred Alltucker

Millie (Black) Alltucker, 94, a descendant of the original settlers of the Snake River and Bruneau Valleys in Idaho, died peacefully at the home of her daughter in Overbrook, Kansas on September 2, 2003.

Local friends and family are invited to a memorial service on Saturday, June 12, 2004 in the Bruneau Community Church at 10:30 a.m. to honor and celebrate Millie’s life. Following the memorial service, graveside services will be held at the Bruneau Cemetery. The services will conclude at the Bruneau Legion Hall with a specially prepared video tribute and a community potluck dinner.

Millie was born November 22, 1908 in Bruneau to Joe and Jennie (Virginia Tate) Black. She was raised in Bruneau, where she attended school and graduated from Bruneau High School. Millie attended Albion State Normal School and began her adult life as a teacher in one-room school houses in Middle District, Little Lost River, and Wendell.

In 1941, Miss Black married Robert Alltucker, a highway patrolman from Elk Grove. After their marriage, the couple moved to California.

During the war years, while her husband Bob served with the Navy in the Pacific, she returned to Idaho with their daughter Carol, and assisted in the war effort by working the graveyard shift at the Union Pacific roundhouse in Glenns Ferry. After the war, the family returned to California where they resided for nearly 61 years. Her husband Robert passed away in 1976.

Millie was a childhood member of the Bruneau Community Church, a member of Bethany Presbyterian Church, and was active in Eastern Star and Job’s Daughters. She was also a substitute teacher for the Sacramento School District.

According to her family “Millie was a gifted poet and kept wonderful journals describing her life in California and the memories of her early life with the family cattle ranches in the Bruneau Valley and their summer range at the head of Battle Creek. Millie was a very special person and an inspiration to all who knew her. She will always be remembered by the many lives she touched.”

Millie is survived by her daughter, Christine Brandenberger and her husband Bill of Overbrook, Kansas; her brother, Paul Black and his wife Mattie of Shoo Fly, Idaho; six grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and many nieces, nephews, cousins, neighbors and friends.

She was preceded in death by her husband Robert Alltucker; daughters Carol Ann and Crystal; her sister Bessie Keith and her husband Bob of Sacramento; and her brother Albert Black and his wife Bonnie of Mountain Home.

Remembrances may be made to the Bruneau Cemetery Fund, c/o David Jones, Box 7521, Bruneau, ID 83604.

Range management tour slated this month

The Idaho Section Society for Range Management summer tour committee of Rimbey, Franzen, Gibbs, Gibson and Secrist, have formulated a plan to hold a section tour on June 25 and 26.

The day and a half tour will be looking at a number of issues related to rangeland resource management that should be of interest to a broad spectrum of members and others. The main focus of the tour will be on the ground discussions on a large variety of issues ranging from the situation and implications to resource management, the Owyhee Initiative, sage grouse, spotted frogs, holistic management and many other topics.

Coordinators said there would be a number of stops on the tour that will deal with issues in an open discussion format. The group will make the “big-loop” from Jordan Valley to Bruneau-Grand View. The group plans to camp Friday night at the BLM’s Administrative site on the Mud Flat road.

Those attending will need to bring a sleeping bag or whatever they need to spend Friday night outside. The cost for the tour is $40 per person. The group will meet on Friday at the intersection of Cow Creek Road and Highway 95, between Marsing and Jordan Valley, at 9 a.m.

There will be two stops Friday morning to look at juniper sites. Lunch will be provided at the North Fork campground on the North Fork of the Owyhee River south of Jordan Valley.

Coordinators said there would be one or two more stops related to juniper issues in the afternoon then the group will camp at the administrative site. Dinner will be served with steaks and all the trimmings on the menu.

“Campfire discussion will center around the Owyhee Initiative process,” Neil Rimbey said. “Breakfast Saturday morning will be provided at camp.”

Saturday’s events will include several stops dealing with issues related to sage grouse, spotted frogs, livestock management and others. Lunch will also be provided.

The tour will conclude early afternoon on Saturday. For more information or to register, call Rimbey at 459-6365, Dave Franzen at 337-4608 or Chad Gibson at 337-4996. Registration is required.

Three Creek

By Lola Blossom

The Summer Meeting of the 71 Livestock Association is scheduled for June 15, 2004 at the Three Creek School. Meeting at 11 a.m. Following the meeting meat, rolls, dessert and drinks will be provided. Members please bring a salad.

Devil Creek Ranch now has a nice new modular home on the south side of the highway. It is to be used for ranch hands.

The Three Creek schools kids had a rollicking good time on their field trip to Boise. They went to the Discovery Center where they made a lot of discoveries, ate lunch at the park and then took in the zoo. Went to the airport and rode the escalators. To the dollar store where they all made purchases. Then to Chuck E. Cheese for a special treat. Spent the night in a motel where they jumped on the beds and went swimming. The next day they toured the Capitol building and got to see where our laws are made and found out a lot of interesting things. They went to the old penitentiary, which housed its last prisoner in 1973. Prisoners make license plates. They ate at 4pm and headed back to Three Creek.

Shawn Weekes is the new school board member. He is employed on Simplots Seven Triangle Ranch. His wife will be moving here soon.

Smorgasbord totals released

The final totals for the 2004 International Smorgasbord have been finalized and schools in Homedale received checks last week. Checks were issued to each school in the amount of $3,140.00.

The Elementary School will use this money to purchase various maps, writing workshop centers, different kindergarten units, and printers.

The Middle School plans to purchase math aids including fraction tiles and charts, art aids and bulletin boards.

The High School will purchase software for economic, math and band, printers, dictionaries, and shop equipment.

Chairman Sherri Romriell said, “this was a very successful year, which really helped towards extra things for the schools. Thanks to everyone.”

Shelly Hughes to wed Alan Larsen

Shelley Hughes of Nampa and Alan Larsen of Caldwell and formerly of Marsing have announced their engagement.

The future bride is the daughter of Mary Hughes and the late Robert Hughes. She is a Vallivue High School graduate and is an assistant manager at Dairy Queen.

The future bridegroom is the son of Venet Larsen and the late Everette Larsen of Marsing.

He is a graduate of Marsing High School and Boise State and is self-employed as a contractor with Diamond O, Inc.

The wedding is planned for June 19 at the Nampa LDS Stake Center on Smith Ave.

Three year old Shane Danforth, Paul and Donna's grandson, lives with his adopted parents, Mark and Debora Krmpotic, in Nebraska. Shane was injured when he was attacked by a pit bull. Donna said the fundraiser is to help with medical costs the child will have to endure from the attack.

"My daughter and her husband adopted Shane after he was placed in their home for foster care," Donna said. "He is a beautiful young boy, but he will have to endure many more surgeries from his injuries."

Extension office schedules 4-H programs thru June

The University of Idaho Owyhee County Extension has several 4-H events planned through the month of June including livestock weigh-ins, dairy rodeo and demonstration contests.

4-H members will have their sheep weighed on Friday and Saturday in preparation for this year's county fair in August. Extension agents will weigh sheep in Homedale on Friday at the Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo grounds at 5:30 p.m. In the Bruneau/Grand View area, sheep will be weighed on Saturday at 9 a.m. at Rimrock Junior/Senior High School.

Coordinators said the maximum weight for lambs at the initial weigh-in is 85 pounds and the minimum weight at fair is 110 pounds. 4-H Program Coordinator Tara Rowland said a shearer will be available at the weigh-in to shear sheep prior to weighing. The cost will be $4.

Rowland said this year's lambs must be slick shorn within three to seven days prior to the final weigh-in at the fair. She said the rule was made at the Owyhee County 4-H Leader Fair Evaluation meeting in September 2003 and approved by the county fair board. A 4-H sheep field day is planned to help youth learn about slick sheering practices.

On Friday a dairy rodeo will be held at the Owyhee Dairy and sponsored by Dave and Sue Williams. The rodeo will be held from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

"Growing in the Garden" summer program at the Marsing Elementary School will be held again this year and is sponsored by ENP, CYFAR and Owyhee County 4-H. The program began on June 1, but will be held again on June 8-10 and the 15-17 from 2-6 p.m. Youth will participate in gardening, plant science and nutrition activities. The program is a hands on activity.

The 4-H Horse Demonstration contest will be held in Grand View at the Eastern Owyhee Library on June 15 at 6 p.m. and at the Marsing Elementary School on June 19 at 8:30 a.m.

A 4-H communications rodeo is planned for July 15 at the extension office in Marsing. The rodeo will include family and consumer science demonstration contest, miscellaneous demonstration contest, public speaking contest, television commercial contest and an interview contest. Rowland said a 4-H member does not have to be enrolled in a family and consumer science or miscellaneous project to participate.

For more information contact Rowland at the Extension office at 896-4104.

The first official weekend of the summer camping season resulted in three weekend accidents in the county and two persons injured.

On Friday morning, an accident was reported on Highway 78 near mile marker 3 for a non-injury accident. The driver was not transported to a hospital, instead he was transported to jail.

Cesar Nava, 30 of Caldwell was arrested on an outstanding warrant from the county for parole violation. He was also cited for failure to purchase and inattentive driving.

Friday evening another accident was reported in the Grand View area. Thomas Rich, 54 of Nampa was taken by air ambulance to a local hospital with a broken leg and chest injuries after he wrecked a four-wheeler he was riding near Fossil Creek.

On Saturday, Jennifer Meredith, 30 of Caldwell was injured in a one vehicle accident near Highway 95 and Jump Creek. Marsing woman arrested after baby found near dumpster Owyhee County Officers arrested a 20 year-old Marsing woman Monday evening for felony child abuse after they found her nine month old baby near a dumpster at the Marsing Labor Camp.

County sheriff Gary Aman said Tuesday that Kelly Klausen was arrested and booked on felony child abuse and her baby was turned over to the Department of Health and Welfare. He said officers responded to the labor camp at 7:41 p.m. Monday evening and determined the baby had been near the dumpster for about two hours.

"Klausen told us that she was living at the labor camp when she was thrown out by the other tenants of the room," Aman said. "She said she had no where to go so she moved her and the baby's stuff outside and asked some guy to take her to Caldwell. He told her no. She said she put the baby in his pickup, but he stated the baby was outside of the vehicle near the building. He left the scene and came back about two hours later.

"The baby was strapped in a car seat outside for about two hours. She said she left the baby with the guy and went to make a phone call. We don't know where she went. The baby has been taken into custody by the state and she has been arrested."

Aman said the baby was in good condition. He said he was wet and hungry. The baby was taken to a local hospital to be examined.

Canyon County agent replaces Morrison at extension office

A Canyon County extension agent replaced Eric Morrison at the University of Idaho Owyhee County Extension office last week after Morrison resigned from his position earlier this year.

Morrison worked in the Marsing office for four years and said he would leave the U of I because of "conflict with University campus personnel." Now Scott Jensen from the Canyon County extension office where he said he has worked for four years. He said currently he lives in Middleton, but he plans to move to the Marsing area.

"I moved into the Marsing office to fill the void with Eric Morrison's departure," Jensen said in a statement released last week. "I am excited to be in Owyhee County. I look forward to getting to know everyone and to be working with them to find solutions to the challenges that arise. I know that I have a lot to learn, but I am confident that with local help I can get up to speed."

Jensen is a Idaho native born in Burley and raised across southern Idaho. He graduated from Middleton High School in 1982 and completed a bachelor's of science degree in Animal science at BYU. He then moved to Texas where he worked as an assistant manager on a purebred charolais ranch located midway between Dallas and Houston. Jensen returned to Idaho in 1992.

After returning to Idaho, Jensen taught high school agriculture in the Nampa School District and earned a master's degree in agricultural education from the University of Idaho. Jensen was the livestock educator in Canyon County.

Become a part of Owyhee County history while helping preserve that history

The Owyhee County Historical Society has launched a campaign to raise $594,800 for a 6,400 square-foot addition to its complex at Murphy.

The OCHS is an educational institution dedicated to collecting, preserving, studying, and interpreting the artifacts and documents that tell the story of the people of the Owyhees.

Increased attendance and renewed focus on the education programs has prompted the need for additional learning, exhibit, research and public space. The project is designed to create opportunities in expanding programs, creating interactive exhibits and collaborating with corporations and organizations across the region. Most of the new and renovated structure will be dedicated to these needs.

The society is asking your help in this endeavor to more than double the size of its complex through several ways of participation: Commemorative brick program, planned giving, grants, donations, and memberships.

STOLEN. One week ago last night sixty-five head of mules were driven off just below Boonville. The animals belonged to Biggs, Glenn & Co. Parties came up the creek, sounded the notes of war and solicited recruits. About noon a rumor reached here that the thieves were corralled in a canon near Wagontown, and that they consisted of whites and Indians. The tide of indignation ran high, and at one P.M. every spare animal able to carry a man was in the service. Sheriff Stanford and Deputy Springer rushed to the front. We heard a number of men say “I’ve always opposed moblaw, but if white men are caught with this stock, go for shooting or stringing them up at one,” and others freely hoped “they would not be brought in alive,” &c., &c. This part of Saturday’s proceedings is of no further account than to show the temper of the people. Nothing short of death inflicted summarily will stop this wholesale horse-stealing, highway robbery and murder. Bring the matter right home to an individual’s pocket or family, and be immediately endorses this “process”, if opposed to it before. But to return to the stealing and its results, there was enough stock taken from other parties in the vicinity to swell the number to upwards of eight head, the majority of which were re-taken. Twelve were found to have been shot and two died from the effects.

A FRIEND from Oregon City presented this office with a choice lot of apples, last week. He brought in a load of apples, butter &c., but don’t think it will pay to bring produce from that section now that the route is open direct to California. Says the road is bad, particularly so in Grande Ronde Valley, where the alkali dust blinds both man and beast.

THE WEATHER, since Saturday morning last and till yesterday morning, consisted of cold rain and much of it, occasionally tinged with snow. Roads provokingly muddy. Promised an agreeable change yesterday. Bully for that.

PASSABLE. The bridge across Long Gulch on Washington street, Silver, is so far completed as to admit the passage of loaded teams. It has been a job of long standing and its near completion is a relief and convenience.

MINERS’ HOME. The popular hotel (in Silver City) is once more under the charge of its old proprietor, Charley Hansoff. Charley is a host that knows how to run a hotel and does it to the entire satisfaction of his patrons.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTRY CONVENTION. The meeting of this body takes place today at 2 pm, in silver, to select six delegates to attend the Territorial Convention to be held at Boise City, June 18th. We shall publish the proceedings.

SOMMERCAMP is refitting the Challenge Saloon in comfortable style. In erecting platforms along the side and putting up armed and cushioned seats. His is bound to be the summercamp.

IN THE FIGHT with the Indians, on the Owyhee, three soldiers were left among them. Their fate is unknown.

JACK WHEELER and H. Sweeny, of Flint District, started to Denver, Colorado, yesterday morning. They go horseback and pack their grub and blankets on other animals. Their object is to purchase one of the many idle mills in that Territory, bring it overland and set it up in Flint the present year. They own ledges in the district which are pronounced very rich. Their present action is the strongest proof of their own confidence. May they not be disappointed.

On the edge of common sense

Animal similes

Animals have many uses. Traditionally, they are discussed as to their purpose; i.e., a source of meat, milk, or as a beast of burden. Other categories include, as a pet, as a show steer or dog, or possibly as an object of worship like Free Willy.

But one of the most significant ways in which animals have contributed to the civilization of mankind is as a simile or metaphor; strong as a lion, graceful as a gazelle, sly as a fox, crazy as a loon, nosy as an elephant, cute as a bug’s ear. Certain animals convey feeling; gentle as a kitten, mad as a hatter, fat as a tick, slicker than silk pajamas on a garter snake.

Plant life also offers itself up as subjects for metaphor and simile, but plants never seem to have the same dramatic effect; they fought like apples and oranges! Quit squashing around! A jello mold in the hand is worth two in the bush! What’s good for the kumquat is good for the kudzu! The Trojan radish! The kelp whisperer! The dandelion king! See? Flora just lacks the zip that fauna can deliver.

There are those times in our lives when we are surprised, insulted, derided or kidded, and we need the perfect animal rejoinder, unfortunately the attacker walks away with a smirk because we couldn’t think of one. Snappy animal comebacks are useful in the category of ‘damning with faint praise.’ I offer these examples for your consideration:

Smart as: a trainload of sheep, a wheelbarrow of turkeys, a busload of animal crackers, or, a bucket of night crawlers.

Or... Witty as a team of oxen, charming as a fruit bat, clever as a cedar stump, cuddly as a centipede, ethical as a congress of millers, regular as a three-toed sloth, deep as a housefly’s thoughts, loyal as a fruit salad, welcome as head lice, romantic as a hippo’s kiss, and handy as wings on a liver fluke!

See how much nicer animal similes are than just saying, “Sometimes Baxter’s dumber than boiled gravel.”

Not important ... but possibly of interest

High school graduation is here again. Another group of young people (they aren’t nearly as old as they think they are) has been turned loose on the real world. Here’s some advice for the Class of 2004, based on 50-odd years of living life:

One of the most often-heard statements by graduates is, “Hooray! I don’t have to take any more crap from teachers! Nobody can tell me what to do!” Sounds good. But I’m here to tell you the realities of life are a lot different.

Grads who go on to college will discover that while they do have a little more control over their lives, teachers will still be telling them what to do. If students don’t follow those orders they won’t get sent to principal’s office like high school. They just won’t be allowed to come back for the next semester.

If you go straight from high school to the world of work, you are in for some surprises, too. Bosses have an interesting philosophy: They believe they should be able to tell employees what to do -- and those employees should follow those orders -- even if they don’t agree and/or don’t like the boss. If an employee doesn’t follow instructions or argues with the boss, he or she will probably be looking for another job very soon.

After reading the above, grads might think bosses rule the world. You might conclude that if you can become a boss (in a big company or by starting your own business) you won’t have to “take any crap.” That ain’t the case. Bosses also have to take orders -- in fact more orders than the people who work for them.

Even Bill Gates, president of Microsoft “takes crap” from company stockholders, government anti-trust investigators and, most importantly, from consumers. The products produced by his company aren’t really based on what Bill Gates wants. They are based on what consumers tell Bill Gates they want. If he doesn’t comply with customer wishes, he’ll be out of business.

Even the President of the United States, allegedly the most powerful man on Earth, gets his orders from the voters. If he doesn’t pay attention to what the people tell him, he can be replaced.

But being willing to “take some crap” doesn’t mean the only way to be a success is to always march in lock step with the rest of the world. Successful people sometimes disagree with the people giving orders. The difference is they learn to pick their fights carefully rather than just saying “nobody is going to tell me what to do.” And the people who give them orders respect the fact they are willing to take a stand when there is a legitimate reason.

That’s not to say there aren’t people out there who never “take any crap.” They are easy to spot. They are to ones who spend their lives jumping from one dead-end, low-paying job to another -- living hand-to-mouth their entire lives. The prisons are also full of folks who refuse to take any orders.

So, to the Class of 2004, have a great life. And remember there are battles ahead on the Road of Life you can’t afford to lose -- and others you can’t afford to win.

Letters to the editor

Life is short

In response to the recent P&Z article and subsequent editorial in the Owyhee Avalanche, I would like to submit the following remarks:

I would like everyone to know that it has been an honor and a privilege to serve the interest of the County with the following gentleman of the P&Z Commission: Chairman Sid Erwin of Bruneau, Gene Tindall of Bruneau, Bob Collett or Oreana, Ron Geertson of Homedale, Gary Chadez, Fred Roberts, Tom Dobbins and Dave Holton of Marsing. I found them, without exception to be fair and ethical in applying the County ordinances to every application. The same was true while operating under the difficult aspects of the remand orders. The decisions of the P&Z Commission are based upon findings and conclusions derived from testimony and legal documents provided as evidence, which are a matter of public record. A decision on an application rendered by the P&Z commission is actually a recommendation to the County Commissioners until such time as either the applicant or those in opposition forfeit the right to appeal within a specific time period. If appealed, the outcome of the final disposition of the applications will be decided by the County Commissioners as directed by Idaho Code.

As far as the issue of wages, ($50 per meeting); for me, it helped defray the additional cost of hired help, as well as helping cover the loss of a cow and a calf, which was directly due to my absence. While appreciated, it merely helped cover expenses incurred. Public service should not be financially detrimental to family.

Although my comments at the public forum in Marsing were candid and critical of the County Commissioners, I bear no personal animosity to either Hal Tolmie or the Commissioners. I want to thank Hal for demonstrating his confidence in my abilities by this appointment of me to the P&Z Commission. I value his friendship and if he asked me to serve again in any capacity I would give it serious consideration.

To the Editor: Though I find your editorials less stimulating than watching a cow chew her cud, I do find them mildly entertaining, so lighten up Joe, life is short!

County will continue to grow

In the past few years Owyhee County has grown and will continue to grow as land becomes more expensive in other areas. The growth in Meridian, Kuna, Eagle and Nampa has driven the land prices up tremendously (as much as $40,000 per acre for undeveloped land). If this trend continues, land will become a premium in Owyhee County. The county needs to make sure this growth is done in a safe and esthetic manner. P&Z boards were specifically designed to manage this scenario. Other counties have formed P&Z boards, and they are appointed members who are trying to do their best to make their county a clean and safe environment. I am sure the Commissioners have enough on their plate and do not need to be further burdened with the responsibilities of dealing with local land use issues. The members of the P&Z board have put in countless hours of their time to endeavor to made Owyhee County a lean and pleasant community. The members of this board did not run for the position, nor did they request to be a member of the board, they were appointed by the Commissioners. The personal views of the editor should not cause him to lose sight of what is best for all of Owyhee County.

Due to the fact that the county seat is in a remote area, there is added expense and time for the board members compared to other counties in the state. If the type of compensation set up by the Commissioners is creating a problem with PERSI, it would appear that some other form of reimbursement could be established. The Commissioners and the P&Z board need to work in unison to make Owyhee County the best county it can be.

General Zinni’s failed policies

Cliff Kincaid, Editor of the AIM Report

Searching for another Bush critic to put on national television, 60 Minutes on May 23 featured retired General Anthony Zinni, who has written a new book with the help of fiction writer Tom Clancy. Correspondent Steve Kroft, who interviewed Zinni, called him “one of the most respected” military leaders of the past two decades. In fact, Zinni allowed himself to be used by President Clinton in brazen “Wag the Dog” efforts to divert attention from Clinton’s sex scandal and alter the course of his impeachment. Despite his impressive military career, Zinni shall go down in history as the general who ran “The Monica Lewinsky War.”

On the night before President Bush’s speech to the nation on Iraq, Kroft featured Zinni’s sensational charge that the Pentagon officials who planned and executed the war in Iraq were guilty of dereliction of duty, incompetence, negligence, lying and corruption.

But Zinni’s record is notable for leaving both Saddam Hussein in power and Osama bin Laden alive.

He was the commanding general in “Operation Desert Fox,” a 1998 bombing campaign against Iraq that took place less than 24 hours before the scheduled start of House of Representatives impeachment proceedings of Clinton over his perjury and witness tampering related to the Lewinsky scandal. Zinni also defended Clinton’s ineffective 1998 attack on Osama bin Laden’s camps in Afghanistan, widely seen as another attempt to deflect attention from the Lewinsky scandal. Zinni himself admitted the strikes didn’t cause any significant damage, and he was quoted as saying that getting bin Laden was never one of his objectives.

Zinni was appointed by Secretary of State Colin Powell as a special envoy to bring peace to the Middle East. His efforts produced no peace, and he left this post about one year later. He was apparently more successful in the private sector on the board of Raytheon. Now he wants to sell a book attacking U.S. officials while America is at war.

Zinni is an advocate of the view that we only needed to “contain” Saddam. But he certainly had strange ideas about doing that. Senator John McCain, who favored the liberation of Iraq, was not impressed with “Operation Desert Fox,” which Zinni planned and commanded, “The 1998 Desert Fox air campaign against Iraq was limited to four days of bombing, and the force used was insufficient to destroy Saddam’s weapons program,” he said. “While it degraded a little of Saddam’s WMD capability, no follow-on military action was taken to prevent its restoration.”

In an August 23, 2002, speech to the Florida Economic Club, Zinni said the Iranian regime was more of a threat than Iraq. Referring to the problem of international terrorism, he said, “The country that started this, Iran, is about to turn around, 180 degrees. We ought to be focused on that. The father of extremism, the home of the ayatollah—the young people are ready to throw out the mullahs and turn around, become a secular society and throw off these ideas of extremism.”

The notion that young people in Iran are “ready to throw out the mullahs” is wishful thinking at best. So-called “experts” have been predicting major changes in Iran since Mohammed Khatami became the president in 1997. But no substantial reforms have taken place.

Nir Boms, a fellow at the Foundation for the Defense of Democracies, and Erick Stakelbeck of the Investigative Project, recently noted that, “...the most likely place to find an Iranian reformer these days is in a Tehran prison.”

Rather than put faith in the unarmed students, it makes more sense to believe, as Bush does, that the success of democracy in Iraq could have an impact in neighboring Iran and other countries.

In a February 4 speech, Bush said, “America is pursuing a forward strategy of freedom in the Middle East. We’re challenging the enemies of reform, confronting the allies of terror, and expecting a higher standard from our friends. For too long, American policy looked away while men and women were oppressed, their rights ignored and their hopes stifled.”

By contrast, Zinni thought that the interests of the U.S. and the international community could best be served by leaving Saddam Hussein in power. Rather than going to war, he told 60 Minutes that the U.S. should have asked for more help from U.N. Security Council members who were on the payroll of Saddam under the scam known as the U.N. oil-for-food program. He’s got the gall to second-guess the Bush administration when his strategy for the Middle East gave failure a bad name. But the media love him because he feeds their anti-Bush agenda.
