Mayor reports more discrepancies in city's books

Fink requests criminal investigation into bookkeeping accounts

Homedale Mayor Paul Fink said last week that nearly $175 thousand dollars had been taken from a variety of accounts to fund an "emergency" water line project last year, some of which are not legal accounts to have taken the money from.

In August of last year the council declared an emergency to replace a damaged water line that feeds most of the city with its water supply. At that time, City Engineer, Public Works Director Bob Walker told the council that the existing pipeline crossing the Snake River Bridge into Homedale was in "very poor shape" and could fail at any time. He said that if the line was to break at either side of the bridge, it would eliminate the city's major water source and it could also create considerable damage to the bridge abutments. He stated that if it broke and was not caught for a length of time, it could cause considerable damage to the bridge itself including lines for natural gas, electricity and phone service to the city. AG's office to handle investigation of city clerk

An investigation into the City of Homedale's former record keeping practices has been turned over to the Attorney General's office after county prosecuting attorney Ed Yarbrough appointed a special prosecutor in the case.

The investigation began in January, just two weeks after a new administration took over the city office. Former clerk Pam Dugger and assistant city clerk

Mary Lou Wilson resigned their positions the day the new mayor and two new council members were sworn into office. Newly-elected mayor Paul Fink said at that time the investigation was being conducted due to "discrepancies" in record keeping on a credit card.

The investigation was turned over to the State in January — to page 5

Former councilman's subcontract work to be investigated

As city officials continue to sift through mountains of documents and search for documents that may never be found, another question has arisen in City Hall; the subcontract work of a former city councilman. Homedale Mayor Paul Fink said the investigation has just begun, but some documents are already on their way to the Attorney General's office.

Dave Freelove, who was elected in 1999 and chose not to seek a re-election in 2003 and served under former mayors Ervin Gifford, Harold Puri and Hap Duryee, was confirmed to have been a subcontractor for Entranco, a construction company who contracted work on a road project in 2002. Checks have been discovered that show that Freelove received at least $1,385 and could have received upwards of $5,000. A "pre-construction conference agenda" has Freelove

Cattlemen to hold summer meeting this weekend

The Owyhee Cattlemen's Association will hold its 126th annual summer meeting this weekend in Silver City. This year the convention will again be held at the Silver City Masonic Lodge instead of at the schoolhouse because renovation is continuing on the schoolhouse.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the general business meeting will come to order at 9:30 a.m., with a drawing from members present for a silver bit.

President Tony Richards will do the introductions and present the president's report followed by the election of directors by past President Charlie Lyons.

The general business meeting will follow at 10:30 a.m. with the introduction of this year's honorary Life Members

Virginia Stanford, Frankie Dougal and former commissioner Dick Bass and his wife Karen. A special presentation of an honorary life membership will be given to the family of Curt Strickland who passed away last year.

County Commissioners Hal Tolmie, Dick Reynolds and Chris Salove are scheduled to speak followed by Chad Gibson who will update the cattlemen on the Owyhee Initiative. George Reed will finish up the general business with a discussion on trespassing issues.

The group will break for a potluck lunch around noon and at 2 p.m. the industry reports will begin.

A spokesman from the NCBA is scheduled to speak followed by spokespersons from the Idaho Cattle Association, BLM State and District offices and other reports as time permits.

At 3:30 p.m. the business meeting with old and new business will continue followed by a presentation of resolutions by vice president Brian Collett.

The social hour begins at 5 p.m. sponsored by the association. Dinner will be prepared and served at 6 p.m. by Caba's Catering of Marsing. A dance will begin at 9:30 p.m., with music by The Running for Cover Band. Admission is $5, or $8 per couple.

Caba's of Marsing will serve breakfast on Sunday morning from 7 to 9 a.m. A director's meeting will be held at the Nettleton horse corral at 10 a.m.

Testimony given at Johnstone Road hearing

The Homedale Highway District shop resembled a courtroom as the public filed in Wednesday morning to hear arguments over the ownership of a portion of Johnstone road south of Homedale. A hearing officer, highway district commissioners, a court reporter and attorneys for the “interested parties” were seated at the front of the room as witnesses were called to a seat to answer questions.

Hearing Officer Fred Grant said a decision of the hearing may not be made for several months as attorneys for the highway district and for a local family who has blocked off the road submit briefs. The road in question is in the Highway District about seven miles south of Homedale. The county has had a tipping station near the road for many years and had a gate installed at the beginning of the road. But recently the county built a fence around the tipping station and removed its gate. Now local man Tom Wilke has installed a gate across the road claiming he has ownership. The issue has heated to the point of fists fights, people being locked behind the gate, and shots fired.

Dan Grober is council for the highway district, and Terry Yost represented the Wilke family.

Grober opened the hearing with a statement asking the commissioners to keep an open mind, lay their personal opinions aside, and determine what they need to decide by the evidence given during the hearing.

Yost also made an opening statement and said by the time she presented evidence that the road has never been a public road and has always been a private road.

“I think the only decision that can be made today is that it was never a public roadway, but rather it was a private roadway and it was a privilege to the county to utilize the road strictly for the dump. It never was dedicated and never should have been deemed a public road.”

Many people testified about the road and about the amount of time the highway district has maintained the road. Grober opened the hearing by calling City Councilman Steve Schultz who testified that he owns mining claims approximately one mile from where Johnstone Road crosses South Canal. He said his only access has been from Johnstone Road. Highway District foreman Rob Atkins said he and his crew has maintained the road past the gate for many years. He said he has worked for the district since 1985 and has maintained the road several times a year since then.

County commissioner Hal Tolmie also testified that he has never seen any documentation that shows anything other than the road being maintained by the highway district or the county.

Grant said a decision would be made after the briefs are received.

Entered evidence

Homedale Highway District attorney Dan Grober shows a map to district employee Kent Curtis so he could point out the area in question during a road hearing last week. The ownership of the road is in question after a local man blocked the road with a gate.

Plans continue for BLM Marsing field office

After a public hearing held at the Community Center in Marsing, plans for the placement of a Bureau of Land Management field office next to the Community Center are underway. The city has proposed to build a BLM office, which will be leased by BLM for at least seven years, at the site of the current skateboard park. BLM will also lease city ground near the Marsing schools for it equipment storage facility.

Marsing Mayor Don Osterhoudt said the hearing was well attended and the city had “very good input.”

“We explained the benefits to the city of putting the BLM in the location we have chosen,”

Osterhoudt explained. “Howard Hedrick and Alice Muffley from BLM also attended and explained what BLM has to offer the city and what they intend to do. This is a temporary office facility, but as I explained, after seven years, the city of Marsing will have a new city hall and it won’t cost us a dime.”

The Community Center Board raised opposition several months ago about the location with concern for parking during large events. Osterhoudt said that issue has been addressed and the board no longer opposes the placement of a BLM office.

“Eleanor Stewart said during the meeting that they were not opposed to us putting the BLM office on city property, their objection was that the lot proposed on the hill was not to be used and rightfully so,” Osterhoudt continued. “I commend them for their steadfast resolution. We had four or five resounding comments from people who said it was a good deal and we are proceeding ahead as planned.”

Details of the building and a time frame have not been released by BLM as they are in negotiations with the city. Osterhoudt said the council will consider in the future if they want to relocate or totally remove the skate park.

Vendors shut down during Homedale's block party

Food inspector says lack of time kept him from submitting proper paper work

A health inspector shut down two vendors during a block party hosted by the City of Homedale last Saturday. Dennis Morrison did a random check of the food vendors at the party and determined that two of the vendors did not have the proper permits, but he also stated that it was not the fault of the city, it was the fault of Southwest District Health Environmental Services.

Morrison, Environmental Health Specialist told city Mayor Paul Fink and coordinators of the event that the two businesses could sell food for four hours, but they would have to shut down after that because they did not purchase a $65 permit that allowed them to serve all day. He said the information did not get sent to the city with additional information he sent for the event because he did not have time due to working in Canyon County.

Fink and Morrison inspected each booth and Morrison said the booths serving “dangerous” food such as meat or dairy, had to have a special permit which allowed them to serve over four hours, but two of those businesses did not have that permit.

“We talked to him earlier this month,” City Clerk Susan Mansidor said Saturday. “We told him what we were having and he said he would be down to check the permits. We told him ‘great, stop by and see what is going on’. He never said anything about the other permit. He told us that it was his fault because he has been to busy with Canyon County and he could not get packets together for us to give to the vendors. We would have had everything together for the vendors if we had any idea.”

“Frankly I was pulled out of the county to work in Canyon County and did not have the time to get the stuff together,” Morrison told the mayor Saturday. “Honestly I just didn’t have the time to put it together. I can’t tell you the amount of days I have been taken out of Owyhee County and stuck in Canyon County for missing personnel. The major complaint is the charitable booths. If they sell only four hours or less we have no problem, but if they sell over four hours they have to have a $65 permit. I would be happy check them free of charge, but they can't sell over four hours.”

Fink said the incident put everyone in a terrible situation, but he said the two vendors who were asked to shut down early did so without a problem. He said they were very understanding and their vendor fee would be reimbursed. Fink said he did not want to go against the law and the vendors would shut down.

“It doesn’t seem to me that it would make it any safer to use the same food if you pay the fee, but it is the law and we will not go against it,” Fink said.

“Probably would be better to talk to the mayor,” Morrison said when asked about the situation. “What you have is you have what is called a Pink Lady Law. The law allows a waiver to booths for charity purposes. You are recording me, and that is not a good thing because it is not the way I would write it myself. You should talk to our PR lady. I don’t want this written in a news article and I won’t answer any further questions.”

Mansidor said Monday that Morrison did not return to the party Saturday, but the booths were closed down.

listed as being a subcontracted “project inspector” for Entranco.

Idaho Statute title 18, “crimes and punishment,” chapter 13, “bribery and corruption,” states: “no public servant shall: (D), be interested in any contract made by him in his official capacity, or by any body or board of which he is a member.” It states that; “any public servant who pays out of any public funds under his control or who draws or authorizes the drawing of any warrant or authority for the payment out of any public fund of the salary, wages, pay, or compensation of any such ineligible person, knowing him to be ineligible, is guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in this chapter.”

A supplemental agreement dated July 10, 2002 from Entranco to former City Clerk Pam Dugger states that the “letter constitutes a supplement to our agreement dated 3/9/01 for the referenced project.” It shows that Freelove would be contracted for 240 “original contract hours,” hours spent 69.25, hours remaining, 170.75 at an hourly rate of $20. It says the “contract impact is $3,415.00.

On May 12, 2002 a check was written and signed by Pamela Dugger to Entranco for $20,152.67 and attached to the copy of the check is an invoice from Entranco to then Mayor Harold Puri that shows a sub consultant billing for David Freelove for $485. The invoice date is June 4, 2002.

On July 10, 2002, a check was written and signed by Pamela Dugger for $16,517.65, again to Entranco. Attached to the copy of the check is an invoice from Entranco that shows a sub consultant billing for David Freelove for $900.

A break down of time is also attached to Entranco from Freelove that shows 45 hours at a rate of $20 per hour from June 6, 2002 to July 5, 2002.

“We don’t know exactly how much was paid to Mr. Freelove,” Fink said. “I don’t believe it is legal and yes I do intend to turn over the documents to the Attorney General. We will let them decide if something should be done with it. Every day we are discovering more and more public money waste. It is a travesty. I just hope the public will be patient and know that we are working on this to try to make it right.”

HMS offers middle school physicals

If you have a son or daughter who will be in the 7 grade, or a new student, 7 or 8 grade, they must have a physical in order to participate in any sport at Homedale Middle School. This year the school will offer physicals to students for the upcoming school year.

Local Doctor Perkins will give physicals to girls on August 4 and August 5 for boys. Dr. Perkins office will open both days from 6:30-8:30 p.m. if any student athlete needs a physical. The cost is $20.00. Scholarships are available if needed to help off set costs.

Please feel free to contact middle school athletic director Luci Asumendi-Mereness at 337-3273 if you need financial assistance.

The first day of practice for volleyball and football players is August 26.

and last week it was turned over to the Attorney General's office. Yarbrough said Friday that the AG's office accepted the appointment, and said he probably would not have anything to do with the case.

"I filed a motion for a special investigator because of a conflict of interest since the suspect worked for the city," Yarbrough said. "They are agreed to prosecute the case. I know it does involve allegations of theft by the former city clerk."

Bob Cooper from the Attorney General's office said he could not confirm or deny if his office is investigating the case. He said it is a policy of the Attorney General's office that they cannot confirm or deny investigations.

"Obviously we can not share much information on the case," Fink said Friday. "But what I can tell you that we have now discovered that there could be several thousand dollars involved. I can't help that the problem happened, but I am sick about it. All I can do now is try to fix it."

Members of the city's maintenance crew confirmed that several times after the election last year they were instructed by the clerk's office to dispose of "trash" from a storage room in which "pertinent" and other documents were kept. City Maintenance Supervisor Larry Bauer said he is sure some of the documents were no longer needed, but he was not sure what else was in the two truck loads of bags and boxes. The "trash" was taken to a burn area the city uses near the airport and was incinerated.

✓ Mayor

that time, Walker said the project would cost approximately $92,000.

Then City Clerk Pam Dugger said the water budget did not have enough funds in it to begin the project, but if the city determined the situation an emergency they could borrow money with interest, or they could borrow money from another fund as long as the money is returned within that fiscal year.

The council determined the situation to be an emergency in August and said they would borrow $32,000 from the sewer, take $42,000 of the money from the water staging surcharge and use $18,000 from the capital expenditures fund.

Fink said last week that $173,000 had been taken from accounts for the expenditures, but $108,231.19 was spent as of April 29 of this year.

Fink said a breakdown of the deposits show that $30 thousand was taken from the sewer bond reserve, $70 thousand from the sewer replacement, $55 thousand from the water savings and $18 thousand from the general fund. He said now the city has to figure out how it will replace $118 thousand to the sewer fund and the general fund.

"We were doing the budget to make sure we paid the sewer fund back when we discovered it," Fink said last week. "You can borrow from the sewer fund as long as you pay it back in that fiscal year. Well, that fiscal year is coming to an end in September. We don't have it to pay back. They said they were going to borrow $32,000 from the sewer but they took $100,000. We don't have it to pay back."

In October of last year, the project was put on hold because it was underestimated what it would take to fix the water line. Walker, at that time, said the project would cost an additional $60,000, but the council moved to have cost estimates for all recommendations presented to them. In November the council approved a limit of $102,000 for the project, but city records show that the total cost was $109,415.94.

"We are in trouble," Fink said. "We are going to have to go out and borrow money to replace it. We don't have it in the water budget to return. The people of the city are going to have to pay it back by raising utilities again. I am going to ask for an investigation of the books. It is a mess. We can't do anything but figure out how to pay it back. I am sick over this. I knew that there were problems, but I didn't know it was to this extent."

Fink said right now the city could only go off of bank records to know where the city stands financially. He said several accounts have shown negative balances, but he will not know the extent of the damage until the audit is complete next month.

Currently the council is working on the budget for the 2004-2005 fiscal year, but Fink said it is nearly impossible without knowing what the accounts can carry over. He said hopefully more could be done after the audit is completed.

Miren Teresa Osich (Salutregui)

Miren Teresa (Salutregui) Osich, 71, of Boise passed away on Monday, July 19, 2004 after a long and courageous battle with cancer. Vigil services were Wednesday, July 21 at St. Mary's Catholic Church. Funeral mass was celebrated Thursday, July 22 at St. Mary's Catholic Church with Rev. W. Thomas Faucher presiding. Burial followed at Dry Creek Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of Gibson Funeral Home, Boise.

Miren was born October 24, 1932 in Boise to Sebastian Salutregui and Libe Miren Ondarza. They lived in Boise until Miren was 4 years old, moving to the Central Cove area near Homedale so her father would be closer to his place of employment. Miren attended Central Cove grade school (a two-room school) for her first eight grades. She graduated from Homedale High School in 1950. She then moved to Boise.

She worked in insurance, first with Idaho Compensation and later with United Pacific Insurance. She married John Osich on September 14, 1957 and continued to work for another year. While raising their two children, Cathleen and Michael, she continued to do secretarial work at home for a private accountant. In 1972 she started volunteering at St. Alphonsus Hospital and continued to do so until her illness.

Miren has been a member of St. Mary's since 1957, and was past president of the St. Mary's PTO and Pastoral Council. She has been employed with St. Mary's Catholic Church since 1974, most recently as administrative assistant.

She is a member of Euzkaldunak, Basque Museum and Cultural Center, St. Alphonsus Auxiliary, St. Mary's Women's Organization and Basque La Organizacion Independiente Sociale.

Miren is survived by her husband John; daughter Cathleen Seamons and her son Zachary; son Michael (Shawna) Osich, their children Morgan and Joshua; her brothers Ricardo Salutregui and wife Linda; her sisters Carmen Demshar and husband Fred, and Rosemarie Achabal and husband Julian. She is also survived by her sister in law Jean Salutregui, aunt Rosie Mendiola, brother in law Bob Osick and Sandy Knox.

She was preceded in death by her parents, brother Vick, and two nephews, Joe and James Demshar, and her grandmother Aurora Ondarza Cortabitarte and her husband Vicente, and godfather Richard Ondarza and his wife Rita, and uncle John Mendiola.

Special thanks to Dr. Bev Ludders, Dr. Thomas Beck, Dr. John Lung, Dr. Ronald Dorn, the entire staff at MSTI, Hospice, and Darlene Pape and Ruth Hadzor for coordinating the weekly dinners for almost two years. Thank you Fr. Don Riffle for your weekly visits. The family also wishes to express their appreciation for all the masses, cards, notes and prayers.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Basque Museum & Cultural Center, 611 Grove St., Boise, Idaho 83702, Euzkaldunak, 601 Grove St., Boise, Idaho 83702, or St. Mary's Building Fund, 2612 W. State St., Boise, Idaho 83702.

Grand View teen chosen for Australian tour

Leigh Martin always felt someday he would be leaving the town of Grand View for bigger places, but what he didn't think he would ever do is feed wild dolphins on the shores of Australia or come face to face with aborigines. But this summer, which is exactly what Martin was given the chance to do after being chosen for the People to People summer tour.

People to People was founded by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in which student ambassadors travel overseas for two to three weeks to learn, share and represent their communities and schools. Martin is 15 years old and attends the Rimrock Junior/Senior High School outside of Grand View. He said Friday that he did not know how he was chosen to go, but someone had nominated him. Martin was chosen for the academic program.

Martin, the son of Buffalo and Debbi Martin, was the ambassador to represent Owyhee County. He left the end of June and returned last week with a lifetime of memories. He said he really didn't know what to think when he received word that he had been chosen.

"We fed some dolphins in the ocean and we went scuba diving," Martin said. "We went to the Great Barrier Reef for scuba diving and we also went to parliament in Queensland. I think it was the national parliament."

Martin said he joined about 30 other kids from around the United States on the trip. His mother, Debbi said before leaving for Australia, the furthest her son had been away from home, was a trip to Moscow Idaho for FFA.

"It was kind of scary when they sent a letter that he had been chosen," Debbi said. "We checked them out before we agreed to let him go. With the trouble in Iraq, we didn't know what to expect. We thought at first that it was a scam, but I had spoken to several people who were aware of the program and so we decided to let him go."

Martin said the experience is something he will never forget.

OCHS visits Flint Creek and Deer Creek

by Mary O'Mally
Vernon and Bonnie Kershner were the hosts for the July 17, 2004 Owyhee County Historical Society field trip to Flint Creek and Deer Creek for about 50 OCHS members and their guests, including nine members of the extended Townsend family.

This trip was well planned and led by Colleen Shea Skaggs and Nick Ihli. The group met in Jordan Valley, then drove to the Townsend place on Flint Creek that has been in the Townsend family since 1914. Vernon gave a talk on the history of the area, ranches and buildings, and others added their stories, including stories of skiing to this ranch from Silver City in the early days. The group explored the old buildings, including the old Townsend house, built before 1923, since one of the Townsends in the group was born in it then. They also viewed the Flint Creek Schoolhouse, moved here in the early 1940s, after the school closed. Vernon and Bonnie moved to this ranch when they were married in 1964, and bought it from Vern's maternal uncle, Everett Townsend in 1970.

The group then drove to the homestead of Cecil and George Hayes, where these bachelor brothers lived from the 1920s to the 1950s, after serving in the army in World War I. Ernie Baham, who owns adjoining property, joined the group there. He and Marilyn and Jack Burke, who also joined us there, helped contribute stories about the

Hayes brothers, and the many ways they worked to make a living. After the usual wonderful OCHS field trip potluck, and an excellent history of the Hayes Brothers by their niece, Colleen Shea Skaggs, and Nick Ihli, the group explored the old homestead cabin and the sturdy barn, build in 1939 by Cecil Hayes and Dick Birmingham, Delores Birmingham, Ihli's father. This place is now owned by the Kershners.

The next OCHS field trip will be with the Idaho Museum of Mining and Geology, August 14, a geology tour of the Silver City mining district on War Eagle Mountain, and a walking tour of Silver City on August 15. For more information on this, or future member field trips, call the Owyhee County Historical Society Museum at 495-2319

Buckaroo Jamboree results announced

The 17th Annual Buckaroo Jamboree, an open horse show designed to give area kids a dress rehearsal before the Owyhee County Fair, was held July 10 in Homedale. With 49 young riders in attendance, the show was deemed successful at helping the kids have a fun experience with their horses. The results were announced last week.

Darci Kaywood served as the jamboree horse show judge, with Sammy James of Bruneau as her ring steward. Brenda Lair of Homedale placed two of the four showmanship classes with Breann Hipwell of South Mountain as her ring steward. Jim Dunn judged the trail class “Show organizers would like to extend thanks to County Extension Agent Scott Jensen for his help in setting up our event, to Teri Nielson at the fair office and the marvelous LeRoy Ellis for all he does to make things run smoothly at the fairgrounds,” coordinators said.

The Buckaroo Jamboree was started in 1987 as a learning horse show for beginners, and has always divided their classes by experience as well as by age group. Classes held were: showmanship, western and bareback equitation, reining, trail, and western riding. These classes will be offered at the Owyhee County 4-H horse show on August 9, 10 and 11 in Homedale, along with working cow horse, (cow) boxing, green horse project, and ranch horse project.

Results are as follows: showmanship: novice, grand Champion Lacey Usabel, and reserve champion Rachael Brasher. Junior grand champion Marissa Ensley and reserve champion Diedrie Briggs. Intermediate grand champion Jessica Eubanks and reserve champion Mandy Brasher. Senior grand champion M J Usabel and reserve champion Hailey Hall

Due to the set pattern for showmanship at the Fair, the group was unable to divide the class by experience level. All other classes were divided by skill and experience level.

Reining: green cards grand champion Lacey Usabel and reserve champion tie Caleb Cunningham and Jackie Phillips. Red cards grand champion Marrisa Ensley and reserve champion Rachael Brasher. Blue cards grand champion Carlen Hipwell and reserve champion Katie Commack. Yellow cards grand champion Mandy Brasher and reserve champion Jessica Eubanks.

Western Riding: grand champion Brittney Meyers and reserve champion, tie, Carlen Hipwell and M J Usabel.

On the edge of common sense

My local paper

What is it about my local paper that I love? It’s called the News-Sun and lists the communities it serves under the masthead; the largest, population 3500, the smallest, 200, if that. It comes out every Wednesday and high school students sell it in front of the post office. Or, you can buy it at Safeway, the only grocery store and the busiest place in town.

We subscribed the year before we moved to the community. We read about our future neighbors, the real estate ads, city politics, parades, school activities and the antics of local characters. “Letters to the Editor” was my favorite part of the paper then. It still is today.

Ironically they were carrying my weekly column, but when we moved here they discontinued it! It was a relief, actually. The column is published nationally and written with a ‘broad stroke.’ However when your next-door neighbor or Sunday School teacher thinks it only runs locally, they suspect you of pretending grandiosity. The compensation was that the closest big-city paper (many thousands circulation) picked it up.

My local paper takes itself seriously. The bulk of the news stories from “Crash on the Highway” to “Top Grads Recognized” are done by the editor and one busy reporter. They are skilled writers and very circumspect about not flavoring the news with “news analysis.” “Just the facts, ma’am, just the facts.”

Small town papers often thrive because CNN or the N.Y. Times are not going to scoop them for coverage of the “V.F.W. Fish Fry,” “Bridge Construction Delay,” or local boys and girls playing baseball, receiving scholarships, graduating, getting married or going off to war.

I think of local papers as the last refuge of unfiltered America. A running documentary of the warts and triumphs of real people unfettered by the spin, the bias and the opaque polish of today’s homogenized journalism. It is the difference between homemade bread and Pop Tarts.

It gives our little community a sense of place in the world. We are important to somebody. We make a difference. The paper recognizes that.

They are the glue, the mirror, the billboard, the flashlight, the semifore, the boom box and microphone of small towns. It is how we hold hands. They care. They show we care. They wear our hearts on their sleeve.

Is it accurate to say that I really “love” my local paper? Well, it’s not quite the proper word, but...I can’t think of a better one.

Keep informed.

Editor’s notebook

Honesty and truth?

Robert Muse has filed as an independent candidate for sheriff of Owyhee County. He is claiming his permanent residence as a motor home behind the Snake River Inn, near Walter’s Ferry.

Among the requirements for running for office of sheriff in Idaho is that the person shall have resided within the county one year next preceding his election.

State law defines:

“Residence,” for voting purposes, shall be the principal or primary home or place of abode of a person. Principal or primary home or place of abode is that home or place in which his habitation is fixed and to which a person, whenever he is absent, has the present intention of returning after a departure or absence therefrom, regardless of the duration of absence.

In determining what is a principal or primary place of abode of a person the following circumstances relating to such person may be taken into account: business pursuits, employment, income sources, residence for income or other tax pursuits, residence of parents, spouse, and children, if any, leaseholds, situs of personal and real property, situs of residence for which the exemption in section 63-602G, Idaho Code, is filed, and motor vehicle registration.

Black’s Law Dictionary defines residence as a “factual place of abode, living in a particular locality”. Abode is described as “one’s home, habitation, place of dwelling.”

Muse's permanant residence?

According to records from the city of Nampa and from Canyon County, Muse and his wife are declaring, for tax purposes, a residency with son Karl at 221 N. Jefferson, Nampa.

His motor home has no hookup for water or sewer. He stays at the RV very rarely – at most a few nights a month on weekends. The RV is registered in Canyon County as just that – a recreational vehicle, not as personal property. If it were a residence, it must be defined as a home, and property taxes are required, not an RV sticker.

Muse is a registered voter in Canyon County, not Owyhee County. (He didn’t even vote in the last election.)

Muse has been running at the mouth on his website, accusing Sheriff Gary Aman as being a felon, dragging his integrity through the mud, and making numerous specific slanderous statements against him. But recently Muse claims to have had a change of heart, stating he “will no longer accept negative information from citizens or other sources concerning the office of the Sheriff.” He further states “I apologize to our citizens and personally to Sheriff Gary Aman.” But he didn’t apologize for anything specific or even in general. He simply stated he apologizes, and indicates it’s time to move forward and forget the acts of the past.

We’ll watch and see just how committed he is to – as he put it – “honesty and truth”. If he is, maybe he’ll acknowledge the old motor home is not his permanent residence.

Not important ... but possibly of interest

After our first grandchild, Amazing Grace, celebrated her first birthday in June, she shifted into a higher gear. She has quickly gone from baby to little girl.

Gracie is walking now -- taking “baby steps,” her arms straight out in front of her for balance. She reminds me of a tiny mechanical, wind-up doll as she teeters and totters this way and that, swerving at the last moment to avoid walls, chairs and tables as she pursues Lovey the Cat through the house.

Gracie also is talking. Every clock is a “tick tock,” although I’m almost positive she has never encountered a time-keeping device that makes that sound. She can say “Gadad” and “Gama” which pleases my partner and me immensely. All food is “nana” because she loves bananas. “Kitty”, “dog”, “bird” and “horse” all are recognizable. “Up” is the word she uses when she wants picked up -- and when she wants the holder to put her down. I’m sure she will get that sorted out soon. And she nearly always says “tanyou” when someone gives her something.

I must admit, however, my favorite word in Gracie’s vocabulary isn’t really a word at all.

Whenever I hold Gracie, I ask her for a kiss. Sometimes it amounts to a peck on my cheek. But sometimes, when she’s in high gear, she takes kissing to a whole new level. She opens her mouth as wide as possible, leans over and plants it on my face and yells “Mawaaah!” for emphasis. Now that’s a real kiss.

When Gracie is in Mawaaah! Mode she’s not too particular about where she plants her kisses. You might get a big wet one on the cheek, mouth, eye or right on the nose. Wherever they land, it has to be the closest a mortal can get to being touched by an angel

Gracie’s curiosity is developing as fast as her other skills.

We were out in the yard letting her to experience the wonders of nature. While we were sitting on the grass, Grandma pointed out a bright orange Lady Bug that was crawling past on what undoubtedly an important mission. Possibly her house was on fire and her children home alone. Gracie studied the colorful insect for a second. She then demonstrated her exceptional motor skills by reaching down, grabbing the tiny bug and popping it into her mouth. No amount of coaxing could get her to relinquish her catch, which she apparently believed was a new kind of “nana.” Lady bugs must be tough because she chewed on it for at least 10 minutes and still gagged a little when she swallowed it.

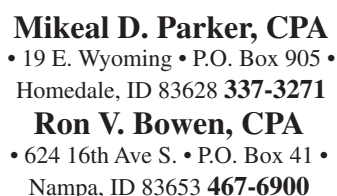

My mate tried to swear me to secrecy on the Lady Bug Incident. But when Gracie’s mom showed up that night and asked, “What did my sweet little girl do today?” it seemed to me that “Well, she ate a Lady Bug” was a natural and honest reply.

Become a part of Owyhee County history while helping preserve that history

The Owyhee County Historical Society has launched a campaign to raise $594,800 for a 6,400 square-foot addition to its complex at Murphy.

The OCHS is an educational institution dedicated to collecting, preserving, studying, and interpreting the artifacts and documents that tell the story of the people of the Owyhees.

Increased attendance and renewed focus on the education programs has prompted the need for additional learning, exhibit, research and public space. The project is designed to create opportunities in expanding programs, creating interactive exhibits and collaborating with corporations and organizations across the region. Most of the new and renovated structure will be dedicated to these needs.

The society is asking your help in this endeavor to more than double the size of its complex through several ways of participation: Commemorative brick program, planned giving, grants, donations, and memberships.
