BLM National director visits initiative work group

"I applaud the vision of the county commissioners..."

— BLM Director Kathleen Clarke

by Cheryl Beeson

The National Director for the Bureau of Land Management made a special visit to Marsing last week to be brought up to date on the Owyhee Initiative.

Kathleen Clarke met with commissioners at the county extension office before meeting with the work group at the Sandbar Restaurant in Marsing.

"I am here because I wanted to learn more about this," Clarke said in an exclusive interview with the Owyhee Avalanche. "The Department of the Interior and the Bureau of Land Management are both really promoting the notion of citizen stewardship of community conservation. BLM has 262 million acres to manage and about 11,000 employees, there is no way the BLM can effectively steward all of those lands. Our hope and the hope for the land, is for the public to recognize that these lands belong to the public. If we can help them engage, have a sense of ownership and participate in forums such as this we will all advance the cause of conservation, stewardship, as well as protecting the west in western cultures and values. So this was an exciting opportunity for me to really see what we are talking about, actually come out, and understand how to be more involved." Clarke said she has never been to Owyhee County, so this trip was a treat for her. She said she wanted to see the area that has made such an impact in the nation.

"I am a real believer that the best decisions are made at the local level, in conjunction with local communities and not by people in Washington in the big offices," Clarke continued. "The most important thing for congress on the initiative is going to be the wide variety of interests. A very broad based

Marsing man joins sheriff's office as patrolman

Aron Streibel, 28, a posse member since 2001, has joined the staff of the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office as a deputy to replace deputy Don Collingwood. Streibel said he has always wanted to be a law enforcement officer since he was a small child and he said he just stuck to his dream. The deputy is certified as a reserve officer and said he will be attending POST for certification this fall. "I love it," Streibel said. "I enjoyed being on the posse and working with the sheriff's office. I like the people and how life is so laid back out here." Streibel is a native of Owyhee County growing up in the area. He worked for the Canyon County Sheriff's Office in the jail before being hired by the county. He said the training has helped him with his quest to be a deputy. "This is where I want to be," Streibel said. Streibel and his wife Jena live in the Marsing area and are raising their two young sons.

First to fuel

Former Marsing Mayor Roy Herman was first in line at the ION Truck Stop Thursday morning to pump gas into his classic car. Herman said although he has been a vocal opponent to the truck stop, since it is here he wanted to be the first to pump gas from it.

ION's most vocal opponent is first for gas purchase

The ION Truck Stop's most vocal opponent was the first in line Thursday morning to pump the first gallon of gas into his vehicle. Roy Herman, former Mayor of Marsing said since the truck stop is a done deal, he wanted to be first to accept the truck stop's placement. Herman has been a very vocal opponent of the truck stop since the plans were brought to the public several years ago. But Herman said Thursday that since he could not stop the construction, he wanted to be the first to accept it by purchasing the first gallon of gas. Herman drove into the station Thursday morning in his restored 1955 Buick Century two door hardtop and pumped $10.02 of fuel into the vehicle. He said the opposition was never personal, he just does not care for progress. "I still live in the past and Marvin (Wallin, developer) lives in the future," Herman said from the pumps Thursday. "I asked Dave Holton (developer) if I could be first and he called me last night and said to get down here. Which I replied yes sir. So consequently my fear is using the land. Where Marvin's public scales now sit, I used to shoot pheasants. I can't tell you how many ducks I shot off the drain ditch here. I wanted to see farmland and wide open spaces. I just like the looks of the farm." But Herman said since the pumps have been put in, he is supporting its success. He said the location is a great convenience for him and he hopes the business is a success.

The Chevron pumps and C-store opened to the public Thursday morning with a full line of quick stop groceries, travel necessities and it offers drivers unleaded, premium unleaded, super unleaded and diesel for vehicles and semi trucks. The store will be open 24 hours a day. Wallin said a grand opening would be held next month.

Developers, managers, and store crew gather at the new ION Truck Plaza convience store during its opening Thursday morning. The store will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Pictured are Chalyse Edgar, Rick Schwartz, Marvin and Paulette Wallin, Cindy Sims and Ramona Sanchez.

Parents of elementary students new to the district are requested to pre-enroll their students at the elementary school, which serves their attendance area.

Kindergarten students who attended the pre-school registration last spring are already registered; however, the administration needs to be contacted by Wednesday, Aug. 11, so they can attain an accurate count of students attending kindergarten this fall.

The kindergarten schedule, for the 2004-2005 school year, will be the same as regular school. For more information call Bruneau Elementary at 845-2492, or Grand View Elementary School office at 834-2775.

The cafeterias will be open for lunch on the first day of school. Lunch fees will be $1.25 for grades K-6, $1.5 for grades 7-12 and $2.5 for adults. All checks for school lunch should be separate from other school fees, checks should be payable to Joint School District No. 365.

proof of the public is supporting it. They will be more interested in the constituent following and the fact this group has balanced the polarized values of so many to come together with a shared vision. That would be the most compelling for the congress much more than the fact of the agencies that have endorsed it.”

Clarke said she felt the importance is bringing the OHV community, the ranchers, and environmentalist groups who endorse the process. She said congress would be much more interested in a product that has already had the hard work done.

“We are looking forward to seeing the final product,” Clarke said. “From what I understand here today is that they hope they have signoff by the end of August. I think the senator wants to have something for congress in the fall.

“We are all anxious to see how it all goes and see where we fit into this picture. If we indeed have a bill and an initiative is passed, then we look forward to playing our part of it.”

She said the issue has been so well debated that the evolution has brought in great support.

“I applaud the vision of the county commissioners,” Clarke concluded. “I also applaud the courage of the commissioners to put something like this into action.”

Domestic attack results in one man dead

A Homedale man was killed by a self inflicted gunshot wound earlier this month after a domestic argument with his wife. Due to the incident, Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller is informing the public of the options to stop domestic violence before someone is hurt, or worse killed.

Jon Mullins was found in his home on July 20 dead from a gunshot wound to the head. Eidemiller said Mullins took his life after a domestic attack on his wife.

“We received a call from the victim who had fled from the scene,” Eidemiller said. “We met the victim and she reported that her husband had held her against her will in the home before she was able to escape. We went to the couple’s home and found Mr. Mullins.”

Homedale officers respond to “dozens” of domestic calls every year. Eidemiller said the calls are the most dangerous calls an office responds to.

“It is tough,” Eidemiller stated. “The person being beat on usually takes the accused back. Sometimes out of fear, sometimes because of guilt or just a wide variety of reasons why. They don’t have to. We don’t have much to offer in the city, but there are programs victims use to get out of potentially dangerous situations.”

Homedale City does not keep a break down of statistics on domestic violence reports, but in 2000, more than 4,700 calls were made to the Women’s and Children’s Alliance rape and domestic violence crisis hotlines. Law enforcement officials in Boise, Meridian, Garden City and Ada County responded to over 4,000 domestic violence calls in 2000.

“It is a growing problem,” Eidemiller said. “People need to be aware that they have an out. They do not have to stay in violent relationships. There is a place to go and people to help and support them.”

In 2001 the Homedale Police Department handled another case of domestic violence, which resulted in the death of a Homedale man and the incarceration of his wife. Then 40-year old Stan White was shot in the neck with a handgun and killed by his wife Annie Lisa Lange White. Lisa was arrested and later charged with White’s murder. Reports stated that White was trying to leave the residence when he and his wife began to argue over a leather jacket and White was shot.

Eidemiller said his department has responded to several domestic calls at the residence in the past. White had filed for two restraining orders against her husband of one year, but an order was not in effect during the time of the shooting.

“Any death due to domestic violence is too many,” Eidemiller said. “It just makes you feel like there was something else that could have been done.”

Eidemiller said Mullins had recently been released from the Owyhee County jail after being prosecuted for domestic violence.

Domestic violence assistance

Idaho has several agencies that help with volunteers for domestic violence issues. Most are staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week by trained counselors who provide crisis assistance and information about shelters, legal advocacy, health care centers and counseling.

Shelters provide food, shelter, clothing, and referral service in a supportive atmosphere. Safe homes provide similar services with a volunteer family in the community. In some areas of Idaho, motels provide emergency housing and those with longer shelter needs are referred to nearby shelters.

Victims may be eligible for compensation. Call 1-800-950-2110 or the nearest shelter for further information. This fund is to directly reimburse victims of crime for expenses, such as medical, counseling, or wages lost.

The following is a list of agencies that can assist the victims of domestic violence.

Obituary

In remembrance of Rosealie Patrick Cox

Rosealie Patrick Cox, died April 1, 2004, at age 103, at Oregon City, Oregon. She was born January 24, 1901 at Bruneau, Idaho to Lovenia McCoy Gray Patrick and George Darlington Patrick. George Patrick was a rancher at Three Creek, Idaho from 1896, just two years after land was opened up to homesteaders in 1894, to 1913. She was the second youngest of nine children. She had four sisters, Carolyn Emily (Callie), Mabel Claire, Irene Gray, Kathryn Nylle (Katie), and four brothers, Karl Denver, Clayton Revere, George Allan, and Emanuel Loyd. She recalled making mud pies and learning to play the organ and piano. Her grandmother lived with them and read the Bible aloud every day. Rose always spoke lovingly of her family, but most especially of her mother, whose love, patience and wisdom had taught her so much, and of her brother Karl, whom she adored.

Rose lived in the Three Creek area with her family until 1913. She rode horses to school every day and recalled, "The horses went into the barn, then at noon we rode down the creek and watered them. We loved those horses." She was acquainted with Kitty Wilkins and knew many of the homesteaders in the area.

Rose married Clay Wilson Cox on November 1, 1916 and two children were born, Virginia Rose, and Wilson Clay. The family moved to Buhl, Idaho, and Rose worked in the J.C. Penney Store, and the C.C. Anderson store, where she became manager of the cosmetics department. She also worked in the Boise store as cosmetics saleswoman, and in 1960, C.C. Anderson transferred her to Portland. Rose worked for Fred Meyer and for Meier and Frank, demonstrating and selling cosmetics. She later lived near her daughter, Virginia and enjoyed her many grandchildren. She also worked as a caregiver, and finally retired at age 86.

Rose was a very active member of the Eastern Star society for more than 60 years. One of her prized possessions was her 68 year old Bible. She believed that if you give your life over to God, and if you pray to God, He will answer. Her son, Wilson Cox, and her daughter, Virginia Kendall, preceded her in death, and she nursed both of them through their final illnesses. Rose loved to come back to the Three Creek area and spend time at Devil Creek Ranch with her nephew, Rolland Patrick and Beth and family, and she kept in close contact with niece Carmen Wheeler in Kuna, and the Veda Cox family in Castleford.

Aunt Rose said her final thought would be, "When I leave this earth, I am not gone, I am with my family." We will miss her happy, sparkling eyes and smile. Aunt Rose was a remarkable person and is greatly missed by the people who knew and loved her. She will be remembered as a special, beautiful lady.

Correction

Due to typographical errors in the obituary for Miren Teresa Osich (Salutregui) published in the July 28 edition of The Owyhee Avalanche, the following was inadvertently omitted.

Alfonso Salutregui and wife Linda, Ricardo Salutregui and wife Dolores should have been added. Aurora Ondarza Cortabitarte was listed as Miren's grandmother. She is Miren's godmother. We apologize for the errors.

Three Creek

By Lola Blossom

Jack and Betty Royle of Prineville, Oregon came to Twin Falls for the high school reunions. They went to Three Creek to see their old rock store that has been cleaned up to be a church. There has been a fire which burned several of he ridge logs of the old store, but non of us ever remember ever hearing of it. Jack and Betty then spent the nights at the Tsawhabitts bed and breakfast in Jarbidge, Nevada. They then visited old friends.

J.R. Robinson went July 23 to Gooding, Idaho to see his brother, Casey U. Robinson welcomed to the Gooding County magistrate Judges bench. Robinson, 43, has been the chief deputy public offender for Twin Falls county since 1999. Before that he was an attorney with the firm of Robinson and Walker in Caldwell, Id.

The cattle of Three Creek better stay healthy for quite awhile because John Lanting, DVM under went hip surgery and will be laid up for some time.

A big crowd attended the Memorial services for Johnny Williams held at the Community Center. His sister, Mary came from California for the event. Many poems and other memories were read. Johnny passed away February 27, 2004.

Arlene Joyal who with her husband, Phil spent many, many years in Jarbidge passed away recently during heart surgery. They couldn’t stop the bleeding.

A grave side service was held June 15, 2004 at the Bruneau cemetery in Bruneau, Idaho for John Phy Hawes, 75 who passed away March 21, 2004 at a medical center in Pocatello, Idaho. He was born to John Philip and Ruth (Winters) Hawes on November 18, 1928. His folks were prominent cattle people in the Three Creek and Bruneau country. John Phy married Barbara Reed and they lived at the old Caudle ranch on House Creek for a number of years. He and Barbara had 5 children and were later divorced. He married Carol Castanaris in the Philippines in the late 1980’s. John served with the Twin Falls sheriffs department and was also a policeman in Jerome for many years.

John was a member of the Catholic church. He enjoyed chess, studying languages, especially French, reading and photography. He is survived by his wife, Carol of Pocatello, children Melanie (John) Volker, Nampa, Idaho, Jim Hawes, Bend, Oregon, Robin Hawes, Silverdale, Wa. Initiative and sage grouse top Cattlemen's convention topics

The Owyhee Initiative and the possible listing of sage grouse seemed to be the topic of the 126th Owyhee Cattlemen's Association summer convention in Silver City Saturday.

The meeting began Saturday morning by drawing the winner of the snaffle bit. Steve Miller won the bit.

Cattlemen President Tony Richards introduced the cattlemen's board of directors and past president Charlie Lyons opened the floor for nominations for two additional board members. Dana Rutan and Jeff Lord were elected to the board of directors. They will replace Rohl Hipwell and Charlie Lyons.

Issues the cattlemen have submitted comments to include the inventory ID, which Richards said is still in the works. Richards said the cattlemen commented on the Bureau of Land Management regulation changes, the 10J Rule on wolves, the sage grouse listing and he said the cattlemen were also treated to a trip to Mountain Home Air Force Base for a tour.

"If I could pass a message on it would be on our heritage," Richards said. "Our heritage is one of our biggest strengths. I appreciate the guys who have fought the fights for me to be able to be in business and I think it is important we are around not only to fight the fights, but also to keep up our traditions in the field of ranching. I also think that in order to maintain our heritage, we need to maintain a viable business. That seems to be the trick.

"I think what we do is a very noble thing. I think feeding people is extremely noble and I think everyone should take pride in feeding the people and in our business that is what we do feed the people. Sometimes I think not everybody really understands that or it gets forgotten with the issues we have to deal with. All of the things we do should be forward thinking and I feel the Owyhee Initiative is forward thinking. In order for us to pass this heritage on to other generations, it is my opinion we need issues like that and we need to deal with them and be a part of them."

Bruneau Rancher Tom Hall spoke of his 80 plus years of cattle ranching in the Bruneau area. He told ranchers to continue the faith. He said ranching is a way of life, not just a job.

The meeting began with the awards for life members to Frankie Dougal, Virginia Stanford, Dick and Karen Bass and a representative for the family of the late Curtis Strickland.

Pat Stanford gave the awards to Dougal and his mother Virginia and Paul Nettleton awarded Dick Bass. Inez Jaca awarded Karen Bass as a partner founder for the former county Cow Bells. Russ Turner presented the award for Curtis.

"We used to call them 'old timer' awards, but since we are giving them to women these days, we don't call them that anymore they are life members now," Stanford started his presentation. "We talked a lot about the heritage, about what is true to us and dear to us and the ranch wives are the past their husbands have received these awards. Today I get to present them to the wives of these ranchers. We all know that without the wives, the rancher's work would be much harder. A lot of times in the past, the husband gets the recognition, times have changed and now we are able to honor the wives as well."

Owyhee County Commissioners Dick Reynolds, Hal Tolmie and Chris Salove spoke to the cattlemen about the past and the future. Chairman Hal Tolmie said the cattlemen are a very important part of the county and if it were not for ranching, the county would not exist.

"The last six years that I have been on the board

Virginia Stanford receives a plaque as a life member from her son Pat Stanford.

Dick and Karen Bass receive their life member plaque.

An unnamed family member to Curtis Strickland accepts his honorary life membership plaque from the Russ Turner. Strickland passed away late last year.

I have met you people for the first time," Reynolds told the group. "In the past I have heard this called the Owyhee Cattlemen summer convention, that is wrong. This should be billed as the Owyhee Cattlemen celebration because of what you have accomplished. This is what makes Owyhee County is the togetherness. I wanted to tell you about a letter I have from the president of the National Wildlife Federation to President Clinton urging him to declare the Owyhee Canyon Lands a national monument. He states in the letter that this is the last great pristine area left in the world. He urges him to declare the monument, but what he doesn't say is the reason it is pristine is because of you and your families before you. And for that you should be proud and I am very proud to be a part of it."

Dr. Chad Gibson spoke to the ranchers about the initiative and the possible listing of the sage grouse. He said that a considerable list of items had been submitted concerning the initiative and the work group had been divided up into subcommittees to work on the concerns. He said concerning the travel and access issues have been finalized on the initiative maps. He said the wilderness boundaries have had some minor adjustments, but the extent has been set.

"Fred has put together some language that will get the initiative board of directors out of the requirements under the Federal Advisory Committee Act and do so without having to go for a straight up exemption that would probably cause problems in the legislative process," Gibson said. "One of the issues that came up was the lack of authority given to the county commissioners and I think that has been restored every place that they felt was necessary."

Gibson said the biggest issue of interest to the association was the progress on the science review. He said many issues had been addressed in the review.

"One was if a science review was requested it needed to go forward and be reviewed," Gibson continued. "We have language that will ensure that it will be done. There was issues raised in April that if this was a science review of a grazing issue than only a rancher should be able to raise that question. Really if we are going to rely on the science to say if it is right it is right, then anyone should be able to ask that. The point is if there is a decision, there is only going to be one review. It is not going to limit the request a review to only cattlemen."

Gibson followed his initiative brief with a discussion on the possible listing of sage grouse. He said the cattlemen approached him and offered some funds to do research on the sage grouse in the county. Gibson said time was limited for an extensive study to compare the impacts on sage grouse and cattle grazing, but some research is being done.

"The heritage board has committed some money to the project so the Black Rock Resources Company has put together a report for us looking back from the Lewis and Clark expedition through other explorers from the early 1800s to the early 1900s," Gibson said. "The report showed the same thing that we expected. The Lewis and Clark expedition ran into sage grouse three times. When you read the petition to list the sage grouse, it says they found these birds in great abundance throughout their journey. When the fact is they only encountered sage grouse three times and the rest of the those were all prairie grouse before they ever got to country where sage grouse were. But they were in fair numbers back then. The explorers who followed Lewis and Clark in the 1820s nearly starved going through this very same country we are in right now. Certainly if there were sage grouse here even in the numbers we have here today, they should not have been having problems with starving parties."

Vice President Brian Collett was presented as the 2005 association president to replace Richards. A dinner catered by Caba's and a dance followed the day's meeting.

Trojans begin football season

The Homedale Trojans will begin its football season later this month, but before that happens, Trojan coach Thomas Thomas said the team needs to be informed of some important dates to remember.

On August, 9-12, the equipment for the team will be checked out during weight room hours. Thomas said football practice would begin at 8 a.m. on August 13 at the football field.

“Athletes will need to have all their paper work turned in prior to the first practice,” Thomas explained. “The paper work is available at the weight room on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 4-7 p.m.”

Thomas said all juniors and incoming freshman will need to have physicals before the can participate. He said anyone who has not participated in athletics before will need to have a physical.

A mile and a half run to test conditioning levels will be held after the first practice. Thomas said the athletes will run in shorts and a t-shirt on the track.

For more information contact Thomas at 454-8330.

Trojan volleyball tryouts to be held next week

Homedale Trojan varsity volleyball coach Jim Smyth announced last week that tryouts for this year’s Trojan volleyball teams would be held on Aug. 13.

The tryouts will be held in the gym at the high school at 4 p.m. for freshmen through seniors. Smyth said freshmen and junior class athletes would need to have a physical done before the tryouts. He said physical forms could be obtained from the high school office after Aug. 9 or from the weight room on Aug. 5 and 6 from 4-7 p.m.

The Rimrock Raiders will begin fall sporting events practices next week with varsity football practice beginning on Monday, Aug. 9, volleyball on Aug. 13 and junior high teams following later this month.

Coaches want to remind athletes that if they are entering the 7, 8, 9, or 11 grade, each athlete is required to have a new physical, obtained after May 15 of this year, on file at Rimrock prior to his/her participation in any sport. Those who already have a valid physical form on file must have the yearly consent form completed by their parents.

Valley Health Clinic in Grand View will provide athletic physicals. Call 834-2929 for an appointment.

All athletes must have insurance. Insurance may be purchased through Rimrock or the proof of self-coverage must be on file.

Marsing welcomes new middle and elementary prināpals

The Marsing School District welcomed two new principals to the district last week after losing its middle and elementary school principals at the end of this school year. Paul Webster was hired as the new middle school principal and Lillian Stewart has been hired as the elementary school principal.

Webster is a former teacher from Nyssa, Oregon. He grew up in Northern California and has been teaching for 12 years. He said this is his first administrative experience.

“I have had a lot of administrative experience in some of the teaching positions I have had, but this is my first formal,” Webster said. “I have had the opportunity to have a lot of leadership roles.”

Webster said he has always enjoyed the closeness of smaller communities, which is what drew him to Marsing. He said for now he will be commuting from Nyssa, but he plans to relocate to the area. Webster said he has met the staff at the mid school and looks forward to meeting the students later this month.

Webster is also the athletic director for the school and said it is also his first time as a sporting director. He said he has coached several sports and looks forward to a successful year, but his primary focus is education.

Lillian, who said she would rather be called Lil, is from Boise. She has taught for the Meridian School District. She began her administrative experience by being hired as a principal for a school in Caldwell and has spent the last three years working for the Albertson’s Foundation.

“I worked on technology, reading initiative and the ISIMS,” Stewart said. “The Marsing School District is in its first phase of the ISIMS so that will help.”

Stewart is married, to her high school sweet heart for 26 years and grew up in Nyssa. She has four children, two boys and two girls.

Stewart said she would be available during the upcoming registration and looks forward to meeting students, staff and parents.

Library receives $30,000 grant

Homedale’s proposed library received official financial backing and the mayor vetoed his own pay raise. That was only a portion of the action at the regular meeting of the Homedale City Council August 8.

At the meeting council members voted unanimously to budget $30,000 in federal revenue sharing funds for the construction of a new city library. The $30,000 will be added to a $7,000 grant from the Caldwell community Fund, a $20,000 state library grant and several thousand dollars in the library fund account. The city contribution will become available October 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

The revenue sharing monies for next year total $44,553.58. The monies, received during the previous year, are placed in time certificates and allowed to draw interest until the beginning of the next fiscal year. Along with the $30,000 library fund, the council approved $4,700 as a payment on the Kromer property and the remaining $9,853.58 for domestic water.

Board hires teachers

Trustees voted to offer contracts to five new teachers at the regular monthly meeting on the Homedale School Board held Monday evening in Homedale.

The board approved offering contracts to Evelyn Hood, first grade; Steve Hudson, junior high science; Sandy Medley, fifth grade and Marilyn Johnson, kindergarten and elementary music.

Trustees also accepted the resignations of teachers Gary and Arlene Moore. Duane Ash was granted a one year leave of absence to teach in a special Canyon-Owyhee School Service Organization (COSSA) program. Ash will be teaching Art, German and photography at COSSA schools. The program is funded through a special North-west Foundation grant.

Storm ruins crops

A freak hail storm and cloudburst ripped a path though north central Owyhee County Tuesday evening causing a considerable amount of damage to crops and livestock.

Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton said the storm apparently centered just east of Sinker Creek. Nettleton said the hail was so heavy that in places along Highway 78 it drifted to a depth of three foot. Witnesses said the hail virtually stripped the foliage off of several hundred acres.

Below the highway on Fossil Creek, the storm caused extensive damage to crops and possibly livestock on the Rye Patch Ranch, owned by Wayne Smith. The ranch house on Fossil Creek was hit by a flash flood. Nettleton said it is the first time in memory that flood waters from the creek have reached the house.

Fish story?

We don’t know whether or not this is just another fish story but it came to us as the pure and simple truth.

John Wester, Jim Bostwick, Frank Matteson and Ward tucker took a fishing trip last Sunday somewhere in the hills. After their jeep gave out on them, they continued by foot to the fishing waters.

Evidentially the strain was too much for Mr. Wester who became so tired that it became necessary for his companions to decide whether to shoot him or pack him out. Fortunately for Wester, the decision was for the latter. It is reported that he was carried nine miles, but nobody mentioned the bag of fish, if there was any.

Jaycee softballers drop ball game

Softball games played Monday night in Nampa resulted in losses for Homedale Jaycees and Butchers Union. The 13th Avenue Merchants defeated Homedale 10 to 4.

The only home run of the game was scored by Albright for the Merchants in the 4th inning with one on. Bixby received three hits for four times at bat.

MAIL AND STAGE FACILITIES. After a few years of inconvenience and persistent effort, Owyhee is about to be supplied with rightful mail service, and for which we are solely indebted to our individual efforts and the hearty assistance of the Nevada Senators and Representative. J. D. Carr, the gentleman who has the contract for four years on and after September 1st, from Virginia City, Nevada, to Boise City, arrived in Ruby on the morning of the 28th. He came over his route via Star City and reached here from Sacramento in six and one half days. He stopped awhile in Virginia and in Star and from the latter place drove the same team. He is well satisfied with the route as to a road, grats and water. He brought through some mail and went direct to Boise City, made some arrangements about the line, returned to Ruby and on Tuesday at 4am started with the first California mail. At present the mails will be carried on ponies, but in the course of three or four weeks lights four horse coaches will be waking time that will satisfy the public. Hill Beachey has an interest and will be the Superintendent of the Stage Line. He accompanied Mr. Carr California wards to put everything in order. Carr is a man full of life, energy and means, and Beachey is second to no man in the stage business. They will regularly land passengers (via the Pioneer Line from Virginia, Nevada) on the Sacramento River in five days, more likely less than more. The public need have no fears for the success of this enterprise, except the Indians should make continual war. Gen’l Eslleck has ordered an immediate survey of this route from the Big Bend of the Truckee to Ruby, and will give the route all possible protection within his power. Things is brightening.

BLUE GULCH. There is species of placer mining going on in this gulch rather new to Owyhee, that of deep diggings reached by tunneling. We learn from Daniel Colehower that he is interested in a claim of this kind at the head of Blue Gulch, and has a tunnel (with branches) in eight hundred feet. Pay dirt is taken out in the Fall and Winter and washed in the spring. The success of this claim will doubtless inspire further hill prospecting. Every hill and slide will not pay, they never do anywhere; but there are probably many good hill claims along Jordan.

HILL BEACHEY has been awarded $4000 for carrying the mail over the Boise City and Owyhee route for the first six months of this year This is just and is evidence that when Government is fully convinced that no swindle is sought to be pretreated, justice will be awarded faithful mail carriers, whether they have or/have not a regular contract.

MUST GO OVER. One of the Owyhee Volunteers has obliged us with a very readable and true account of the battle of the Forks of the Owyhee, and attendant movements, but a press of advertising compels this and other matters of interest to be deferred till our next issue.

WELLS, FARGO & CO. have sent a few over one hundred letters by the last Chico Stage. Passengers speak well of the route and pronounce it preferable to any other road in operation to California.

NEW DISCOVERIES. Two discoveries of good ledges have been make this week, near the Carrice & Varney, on Florida Mountain.

South of Wade’s Gulch, a ledge has been struck, this week, that has every indication of the Poorman. It is on a line with this ledge and the strikers are elated over the indications.

The Richman and Varney & Carrice of which we spoke last week, are being developed with the most flattering improvements. The Track & Jennings and South Extension of the morning Star are inspiring additional confidence.

On the edge of common sense

Why America needs cowboys

- 1) So the press will know how to describe people who don't mind taking the hand off and running over the middle on a '4th down and 2' situation.
- 2) To prevent the abuse of facilities, i.e., corrals, calf chutes, barb wire, aluminum gates, telephone poles, old car bodies, split rails, or electric fence. When properly placed, the cowboy can be sandwiched between these inanimate objects and the cow, to soften the blow and lessen the damage.
- 3) To serve as one of the few sources of amusement in the life of a cow.
- 4) To serve as an example of a job description that is routinely excluded from such actuary lists as 'most dangerous,' 'lowest paid,' 'longest hours,' and 'life expectancy' because they can't afford insurance anyway. I mean, who would insure a boot jack, a plastic whip, or a rubber hubcap hammer.
- 5) To stand as a reminder of what you can become if you don't do well in math, english or study hall.
- 6) There will always be a need for laboratory rats in experiments examining the chaos theory, Murphy's Law and, what is loosely called 'Job's affliction,'
- 7) To act as a buckle bunny magnet.
- 8) To serve as inspiration for all the Charlie Russell, Roy Rogers, and Louis L'Amour wannabees.
- 9) To prove that no matter how good you are at somethin', you can always get bucked off!
- 10) To show that being a male chauvinist pig doesn't pay...well.
- 11) To shine as an icon of truth, justice and the cowboy way.
- 12) To lend credence to the belief that underneath that stoic romantic image painted on the silver screen is a simple human being with feet of cow manure.
- 13) And finally, the world needs cowboys for the same reason we need knights, punt returners, banjo players and Marines. You have to have someone you can send in first.

Dissapointed

I was disappointed to have missed the summer block party in Homedale on the 24th, but was looking forward to reading about it in my local paper. Other than the one cute photo on the front page, there were no other photos worth sharing? And the only newsworthy article was the unfortunate vendor shut down? I'm sure a lot of people worked very hard to make it happen. How is this type of coverage going to encourage future attendance?

Corrupt officials

Is it a disease, a trend, or the norm?

Corruption in local government has made the headlines around Idaho of late, and good ol' Homedale and Owyhee County are among the list.

It seems things really started coming to light following the wrist-slapping of those Boise boys and girls for their acts, but it's probably been a problem ever since the bean-counter was chosen for the first tribal treasury.

In reading old files of newspapers in Owyhee County, we come across such antics every once in a while. The bank at Bruneau nearly folded after its president embezzled most of the firm's assets and the assets of its customers. About the time we purchased this newspaper from Everett Colley (30 years ago) the county was cleaning up the mess from the treasurer's dipping into county funds.

Right now, in a case in Valley County, the former treasurer is facing a felony charge of misuse of public funds. The charge is for appropriating $500 to her own use.

And, we have such corruption being investigated right here at City Hall. From what we have found and what we are told by officials, the alleged (no charges or convictions yet) corruption may put the city near ruin. We're talking tens of thousands of dollars of misuse, personal use, and funds which are simply not accounted for. Records are missing. Files cannot be found. Checks were written without any record of authorization. And on and on.

It is especially perplexing to this newspaper staff, because we questioned several of these allegations at the time they were going on. We were lied to, we were provided false – or at best incomplete – records, and our requests for certain documents were ignored time and again. Attempts were made to verify that a councilman was benefiting from a city contract. We were told that such an arrangement was not going on. We were refused access to public documents. The then-mayor and council showed no interest in investigating the crime. On another occasion we documented on film this same councilman in the employment of the city during a remodeling project for which he was paid with city funds. Nothing was done.

But it's not just in Homedale. A couple years back this newspaper discovered the prosecutor was using the county credit card for the purchase of clothing, shoes, motels, $80 lunches, etc. Nothing was done. A former county official reportedly took a vacation on the county credit card. Again, nothing was done. As this is being written, a former deputy county clerk is under investigation for misuse of benefits.

Idaho law provides for checks and balances to safeguard against greed and theft. Maybe not all incidents can be prevented, but if accounting practices are enforced and procedures are followed, detection will be made before it reaches the volume Homedale is finding went on here.

This type of person is stealing your money and my money. But it's worse than the act of a common thief; they are in a position of trust, expected to guard our tax money against such corruption.

But unless charges are filed and prosecutions made, and swift, harsh punishment handed down every time it's proven, this type of crime will continue.

It was most surprising – in the light of what's going on around us – when we read the Wilder city council wants to authorize the clerk to pay monthly bills as they come in, instead of waiting for the council's approval.

But, then again, maybe it shouldn't be surprising. The past Homedale mayors simply gave the city clerk their signature stamp ...

Wayne Cornell

Not important ... but possibly of interest

In the spring of 1996, I decided life was too short to spend any more of it in the newsroom of a daily newspaper. So one day I told my boss it wasn't fun anymore and quit.

Because I wasn't married to the heir to a ketchup company, I knew I eventually would have to find gainful employment again. But I wasn't in a hurry. For years people had been telling me I should compile some of the columns I had written over the previous 20 years into book form. Now I had some time to work on the project. But anything used in a book would have to be rewritten because the daily newspaper claimed it owned the rights to my life story as it had appeared in the columns I wrote while working there. Starting from scratch also would give me a chance to expand and add material. So, every morning I took Annie the Beagle for a two-mile walk, then sat down in front of the computer and wrote. Three months and a couple of hundred miles later, the manuscript for "When Kids could be Kids" was completed.

Eight years later I still have my unpublished manuscript. Lots of folks write stories about what it was like when they were growing up. Book publishers seldom exhibit much interest in such stories, however, unless the writer is famous. Another reason for the lack of interest is most publishers don't believe readers are interested in "nice" stories. As a literary agent once told me, "If you want it to sell your story, you need to have been abused or deprived or something."

Recently, I dawned on me there might be another way to get "When Kids Could be Kids" before in print. I phoned Owyhee Avalanche Publisher Joe Aman, who I have known since high school. I asked Joe if he would mind if I started publishing the story in weekly installments in this column. He said that was fine with him as long as the statute of limitations had expired on events described that might be prosecutable.

So, beginning next week, the world (or at least portions of Owyhee and Canyon counties) will begin a journey through the childhood of this writer. It's gonna take a while since the 40,000 or so words will have to be broken down into digestible segments. And every so often I plan to give folks a breather by throwing in some columns dealing with the present rather than the past.

If you love daytime TV talk shows featuring dysfunctional families, you probably won't find my story very interesting. It is about a normal kid, growing up in a normal family in a normal rural community in the 1950s. (Well, maybe some normal kids didn't have access to hand grenades but I didn't think it was that unusual at the time). In any event I'm going to tell my story. I think it will be fun. I hope you think so, too.

Become a part of Owyhee County history while helping preserve that history

The Owyhee County Historical Society has launched a campaign to raise $594,800 for a 6,400 square-foot addition to its complex at Murphy.

The OCHS is an educational institution dedicated to collecting, preserving, studying, and interpreting the artifacts and documents that tell the story of the people of the Owyhees.

Increased attendance and renewed focus on the education programs has prompted the need for additional learning, exhibit, research and public space. The project is designed to create opportunities in expanding programs, creating interactive exhibits and collaborating with corporations and organizations across the region. Most of the new and renovated structure will be dedicated to these needs.

The society is asking your help in this endeavor to more than double the size of its complex through several ways of participation: Commemorative brick program, planned giving, grants, donations, and memberships.
