Commission rejects next phase of 911 system

Owyhee County Commissioners rejected moving forward with the next phase of the county's 911 system, which would allow sheriff's dispatchers to track an emergency call from a cell phone. But following the decision, Commissioner Chris Salove said after some questions are answered, the decision could be overturned.

The additional system would allow dispatchers to track a cell phone call within a few hundred feet of where the call is being made. As of Tuesday before last, County Sheriff Gary Aman said 722 calls have been placed to 911 and of those about 40 percent are from cell phones.

Salove said he wants to know that the county will be justified in spending in excess of $40,000 for the system by knowing how much of the county would be covered. He said he has Nextel for cell phone service and he can only receive reception in about 10 percent of the county.

First snowfall causes motorists and emergency crews havoc

Although the amount of slide-offs and accidents in Owyhee County were considerably lower than in nearby Canyon County during the first significant snow fall of the winter season, local emergency crews remained busy throughout the day helping stranded motorists, getting vehicles back on the roadways and responding to minor accidents.

The first accident reported during Tuesday's snowfall was in Homedale and involved the city's chief of police. Jeff Eidemiller found himself on the other side of an accident when a vehicle driven by a Homedale man slid into his patrol car just as the snow was beginning to let up. No one in the accident was injured but both vehicles received minor damage.

The driver of the vehicle who hit Eidemiller, 27-year-old Adrian Gonzalez was cited for driving too fast for conditions, driving without privileges and no proof of insurance.

responded to several slide-offs on Highway 78 at Sinker Creek. Deputies and the sheriff held vehicles back for a short time as Idaho Transportation Department crews were called to the scene to sand the section of road. Sheriff Gary Aman said the section of highway was not closed, but motorists were told to enter at their own risk until sanding crews could arrive.

On Old Bruneau Highway in Marsing a section of fence on the Joseph Weatherby property was damaged due to a car sliding off the road and several vehicles were reported off the roadway on Jump Creek Road near Homedale. No injuries were reported.

Stolen property

Cigarettes, beer, personal items and miscellaneous food items were recovered after three teens broke into the Square Deal store in Grand View last week.

Snowy tracks lead officers to burglary suspects

The snow played a big part in the arrest of three young burglary suspects last week after someone kicked in the door of the Square Deal in Grand View and stole a wide variety of items.

A dispatcher from the county sheriff's office said the juveniles, 12, 13 and 15 year old boys, are accused of burglarizing the store in the early morning hours of Dec. 1. She said they stole beer, cigarettes, food, cold medicine and miscellaneous candy and personal care items. She said due to the snow, the boys left tracks and were able to be followed.

Reports from the sheriff's department said the three boys were seen in town at about 1:30 in the morning. She said Deputy Darryl Crandall followed the boys' tracks and found the boys sleeping with some of the stolen property. The boys were cited and released to their parents, but they have been charged with a felony, burglary.

The dispatcher said the stolen items were hidden in several locations in town, but most has been recovered.

Fraternity party busted at Boy Scout camp

A fraternity party of 25 Albertson's College of Idaho students turned sour Wednesday night as county law enforcement officers broke up the festivities and cited seven of 25 sorority members for underage drinking. The party was broken up at about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday night after a county deputy discovered the party at the Boy Scout camp off Sommercamp Road.

Students ranging in ages of 18 to 20 were checked for consumption and seven of them were given citations. A spokesman from the county sheriff's office said those cited were released to non-drinking adults but have been summonsed to return to court at a later date.

Cole Baldwin, 20 of Andersonville, Georgia, Galen O'Gara Currens, 20 of Olympia, Washington, Matthew Donald Gier, 19 of Boise, Brett T. Mallard, 19 of Boise, Charles Sellmeyer, 19 of Caldwell, Alexander John Voshell, 19 of Boise and Jeffery Harrison Caywood, 20 of Boise were cited.

County Sheriff Gary Aman said the arrests are the second in as many weeks where several underage teens have been caught drinking in the county's remote areas. He said extra patrolling of the areas would continue. Aman said the group told officers that the party was a fraternity party.

Fair board settles boundary issue

Jordan Valley School District added to county boundary by petition

The board met

... and decided to only allow

"residents of

Owyhee County,

attending an

Owyhee County

school," except

Jordan Valley...

Finally the county fair board has settled the issue of just who can sell livestock during the Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo's livestock sale. The board met last week in Marsing and decided to only allow "residents of Owyhee County, attending an Owyhee County school," except Jordan Valley who the board decided to allow to sell at the sale by petition because they can not sell at a fair in their area.

The decision was made after many months of deliberation and testimony and the ruling would take effect for next year's fair.

In March the board revised the livestock sale rules to exclude out of county 4-Hers and will only include 4-H kids who live or attend a school located in Owyhee County. In the past 4-H kids from school districts located in the county have been able to attend, but now only kids who live or attend a school in the county are allowed.

Many parents and leaders have expressed disapproval of the decision to the board, which has brought the decision back to the Fair board agenda.

An exception to the decision is non-residents of the county who do not attend a county school but attend school in a school district located partly in the county may petition the fair board for permission to participate in showing and marketing 4-H and FFA livestock at the fair. Petitioners must belong to a county 4-H club or attend a school FFA chapter to be eligible for consideration. They must also submit the petition to the board no later than Feb. 1 of the year prior to the fair and will need to petition the board every year that they want to participate.

Every time you petition to do something you know when it is on a year to year deal you know," board member David Rutan answered to a question about the criteria of the petition. "It is not like it is something that comes out of the blue. When you are petitioning every year, you always know that there is a chance that it may not go on."

Rutan said he didn't like the idea of using any wording that would indicate that a child could be grand fathered into the program. He said the wording would leave too much room for error.

"I think this is a preference based on prior attendance when you have two individuals applying and one has never attended the fair and one had prior attendance," Bicandi said. "We could still reserve the right to say we don't have a spot. If we determine that we only have room to allow two petitioners in this year. How could we determine which one we would allow in without some kind of criteria like tenure?"

Rutan said he would like to see the Jordan Valley kids be allowed to attend the sale. He said that the closest fair for them is in Ontario. The past rules stated that since the Oregon fair was so far away, the Jordan Valley kids could petition to attend on a hardship basis.

"If we are going to let those kids participate, my idea would be to state somewhere that if they had a release from Malheur County we would review their petition," Fair board Chairman Joe Merrick said. "My thinking would be if they had a release then we would consider them filling out this petition also."

Although Jordan Valley School District does not lie partly in Owyhee County, the board decided because the 4-H students from the area have to travel so far for a county fair they could be a part of Owyhee County's fair by petition.

"The way the petition is written the Jordan Valley kids would not even be eligible to fill out the petition," board member Tim Mackenzie said.

"With the way the form reads right now they would not be eligible if they live in Oregon and the attend Jordan Valley school," Board President Joe Merrick said. "Realistically they have never been eligible. The problem is some of the younger kids go to school in Pleasant Valley which is eligible."

The board decided that if Jordan Valley kids submitted an exception from Malheur County, they could petition the board for a hardship in the petition. They included the wording in the petition as a criteria.

"Under located partly in Owyhee County on the petition, we could add a clause of or living in the Jordan Valley School District," member Shawn Dygert suggested.

The board amended the petition and inserted living in Jordan Valley School District may petition the Owyhee County Fair Board. Member Kenny Tindall opposed the amendment as well as the final draft, but the motion passed.

The final petition as passed was not available at press time, but Fair Board Secretary Terry Nielsen said the final draft would be sent to all 4-H and FFA advisors and leaders or a copy of it would be available later at the county extension office.

Holiday wishes

Six year-old CJ Varnadoe looks over his cart of Christmas gifts he and Owyhee County DARE Deputy Rich Wills have picked out during the annual "Shop with a Cop" event last Saturday.

Cops make Christmas brighter for local children

A line of police cars with lights and sirens blaring converged on a local department store early Saturday morning, but instead of responding to an emergency situation, the officers arrived with a young rider in their vehicles and brought a round of smiles to many young faces.

Deputies from Owyhee County and officers from the City of Homedale as well as law enforcement officers from Canyon County, Nampa Police Department and Caldwell Police Department sponsored a child in the annual "Shop with a Cop" program sponsored by a Nampa store.

Homedale's Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller, Jamie Austin and Reserve Officer Travis Woods shopped with three area kids and gave them a boost in their Christmas shopping. From the county department, Chief Deputy Dick Freund, DARE Officer Rich Wills, Deputy Parry Grant and Jailer Pat McCormack shopped with sponsored children and the county's Posse program also added to the funds with a sponsorship.

The eighth-annual Shop With a Cop paired local youngsters with officers from area law-enforcement agencies for a morning of good food, strong role models and a chance to shop for presents to give to the kids families.

The shopping trip is designed to give children from low-income backgrounds or other special circumstances the chance to experience a Christmas they might not otherwise have.

The youngsters met their lawenforcement shopping partners at Grace Episcopal Church in Nampa for breakfast, and then traveled in a convoy of police cars with lights flashing and sirens blaring to the store in

Once at the store, each child was allotted $150 to spend on gifts for their families. The money was raised by the departments, store employees and through community donations. Organizer Katy Nance said $9,000 had been raised for this year's shopping spree.

Jordan Valley brings in the holiday cheer

By Holly Deen

On Thursday the Jordan Valley Basque Club sponsored a chili and baked potato feed for the community in conjunction with the lighting of the town's Christmas tree.

The feed was held prior to the tree lighting and was a fundraiser for the Basque Club. Community members Pat and Ada Stanford provided the tree, which is located on the town's main corner.

Local elementary students made ornaments to adorn the tree and put them on the tree that evening. Evelyn Loveland was given the honor of lighting the tree this year as Jordan Valley's oldest person at 92 years young.

Once the tree was decorated and the lights were lit community members joined in a chorus of Christmas carols.

it will be," Salove said. "There are so many areas that even if you can get out with a cell phone you won't know what repeater you will hit. We want some clarification that this system is going to work for a county with as poor cell phone coverage as Owyhee County has. We just want to make sure of what we are getting. The Marsing and Homedale area is not a problem, but there are so many different towers down here [Murphy area]."

Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman said Tuesday that the commissioners have asked some questions and his department is working to get answers to those questions.

"They would like to know if the system will provide enough service throughout the county," Aman said. "Right now the county is receiving almost dollar for dollar on cell phones as they are on land line cell phones. It comes out to about $72,000 per year.

"With phase one and phase two, if someone called in from a cell phone, we would be able to locate them within a few hundred feet. Without it, we can't."

The county estimated that of the 722 phone calls on the county's 911 line, about 40 percent of those are from a cell phone. Aman said with the vast rural ness of the county, cell phones are used as much or more than landline phones.

"Our system is totally set up for it as it is," Aman said. "The cost would be under $60,000 and we have enough in the 911 trust account to more than pay for it. To completely finish the system and make it so we can track cell phones it would cost under $60 thousand. Possibly closer to $50 thousand."

Aman said he hopes to be able to provide the information the commissioners are asking for by the commissioners' next meeting. He said at this point the commissioners would not approve moving forward.

said. "In the event of wildfire, these small trees could act as ladder fuels, allowing fire into the canopies of the larger fir trees, resulting in a dangerous uncontrollable crown fire."

This year BLM fuels crews thinned 400 acres of these small trees near the town and will continue the effort in 2005. The Christmas trees will be harvested from a portion of next year's treatment area.

"We are excited about OCHS's attempt to market these Christmas trees," says Steve Jirik BLM fuels specialist. "We hope this will become a successful annual fund raiser for them. OCHS efforts will augment our treatments at no expense to the public."

Hyslop said the fir trees to be removed are in all sizes up to 15 feet.

"Many will be oddly shaped since they are not plantation trees. Some of these will be like Charlie Brown's tree," he said. "They will display your ornaments well."

OCHS plans to sell the trees for $10 each as a fundraiser. The money will be used to help pay for the construction of the new museum addition now underway in Murphy.

Trees are available at the museum during the Country Christmas Bazaar Dec. 10 and 11 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the OCHS Christmas Open House on December 10 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. For additional information call the museum at 495-2319 or Jim Hyslop at 466-5064.

responded to an accident involving a pickup truck driven by a Grand View teen, a teenage passenger and a school bus loaded with school children

The accident was reported at just before 4 p.m. not long after the bus was loaded with children. Reports from the sheriff's office show that teen slid into the back of the bus on Highway 78. The teen was slightly injured in the accident, but no one else was injured. A dispatcher from the sheriff's office said the accident was under investigation.

At about 4 a.m. Wednesday morning another accident was reported on Industrial Road near Homedale. A paper carrier lost control of his vehicle and ran off the road. His vehicle ran up a guide wire for an electrical pole and rolled over. The driver, Sara Schroeder from Boise, and her passenger Reuban Gilliam from Florida were not injured.

County hires civil defense director

During a recent commissioners meeting, county officials approved hiring a nearly fulltime civil defense director. Larry Howard has been working for the county for some time, but only on a very part-time basis. Now Howard will be able to work on civil defense needs on nearly a full time basis. County Sheriff Gary Aman said Howard has been working nearly full time for the county now, but only being paid on a very part time basis.

Howard will be in charge of setting up emergency services operations. The county has had a plan for many years, but now the county wants to cover natural and man made disasters as well as the on going threat of terrorism.

"People don't really know it, but this area is a fairly active earthquake area," Howard said. "There was a time last summer where Jordan Valley was experiencing a huge amount of small quakes in a short period of time. The geologists said they had no idea why."

Howard said the local community planning commissions are planning meetings to work together with the counties on mutual aid agreements and make plans formal. He said he also works on grants with Homeland Security.

Howard has been training in mock emergency response drills and said the drills need to be done in the county as well. He said he has participated in four of the drills and hopes to have some in the future in the county.

"There is all kinds of things we are doing right now," Howard said. "We have gotten about $169 thousand from grants for equipment. We have nearly $300 thousand for equipment, training and law enforcement and planning."

Currently the director is working on getting a PA system installed in Grand View that will alert residents of disasters. He said the Omni Directional Array, a warning system, would replace the old sirens. The system is programmable and will alert residents in a two-mile radius.

"If everyone knows what is going on, it takes 20 minutes to get the kids out of school and to high ground," Howard said.

"But if there was a massive dam failure it takes the same 20 minutes for the water to get there. It would get the kids out if they were in school, but what about the rest of the people?"

Aman said Howards income is being paid by a Homeland Security grant.

Owyhee teens attend ambassador training

A.J. Ellis and Matthew Johnson were two of the 75 Idaho 4-H teens to attended the 2004 Idaho State 4-H Ambassador Training in Cascade this year. The training was held November 19-21 at Trinity Pines Lodge located just outside of Cascade.

A.J. and Matthew became a part of the 18-year tradition that has turned out over 475 Idaho 4-H Ambassadors. Ambassadors play a very important role in the 4-H program. They are responsible for 4-H recruitment and public relations in their respective counties, districts and the state. An ambassador is a self-motivated, enthusiastic leader who promotes 4-H using the skill, knowledge and leadership abilities they have acquired through 4-H. This description fits both A.J. and Matthew very well. Matthew is a freshman at Vallivue High School and A.J. is a home schooled sophomore.

The two Owyhee County teens learned about the 4-H Ambassador program, other opportunities available to Idaho 4-H teens, and their role as ambassadors. They participated in icebreaker activities and leadership and speech giving workshops presented by business owner, author and Idaho State Representative Jana Kemp. They also took part in district skits, scavenger hunt, and social activities. All Ambassadors-in-Training are required to write and present a three minute speech about a person who has most influenced them, or how 4-H has prepared them for

"A.J. and Matthew are ready and willing to tell everyone about their experience and the opportunities available through 4-H," 4-H Program Coordinator Tara Rowland said. "If anyone would like them to attend one of their meetings they can contact the Owyhee County Extension Office."

Senior wildlife scientists recommend sage-grouse not be listed

Final Decision Yet to Be Made

Based on an extensive review of scientific data and analysis, senior regional U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologists have recommended that the Service not list the greater sage-grouse as a threatened or endangered species under the Endangered Species Act across its range, Service Director Steve Williams announced last week.

The Service's regional directors and senior scientists this week completed the written scientific analysis and recommendation, which is currently being finalized by technical staff before being made available to Williams. Williams will review the recommendation before making a decision on whether to propose the species for listing by December 29.

"Our biologists have conducted a thorough review of the best available scientific information and, in their view, recommend that the greater sage-grouse does not warrant the special protections of the Act across its range," Williams said.

Williams said the best solution for conserving the greater sagegrouse is for federal agencies and western states to continue to support cooperative efforts to conserve and restore sage-grouse habitat.

"Together we have worked effectively with local governments, tribes, local communities, conservation groups, private landowners and other partners to conserve and restore sagebrush habitat that is vital to sage grouse and many other species," Williams said. "We must continue, and wherever possible, expand these efforts to achieve measurable, on—theground habitat conservation and restoration."

The Service received three petitions to list the greater sagegrouse range-wide as endangered or threatened. In April 2004, the Service announced that the petitions presented substantial information that listing may be warranted and began a full status review of the greater sage-grouse. During the status review of the species, the Service is evaluating all the available scientific and commercial information on greater sage-grouse and their habitats, including all information provided by State and Federal agencies and Tribes, as well as information provided through the public comment process. The review of relevant materials includes the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies' Conservation Assessment of Greater Sage-grouse and Sagebrush Habitats issued in June 2004, which is a compilation of sage-grouse and sagebrush literature and data.

Currently, state fish and wildlife agencies have jurisdiction to manage greater sage-grouse. These agencies and federal agencies are developing conservation plans to address issues such as habitat loss, fragmentation, and degradation and to identify opportunities for habitat restoration and enhancement. Current sagebrush habitat is estimated at 100-150 million acres, 54 percent of historic acreage.

The Service is using a structured analysis process to evaluate the factors affecting greater sage-grouse populations and their sagebrush habitats. As part of this process, expert scientists from state and federal agencies and universities participated in a facilitated discussion on the biology and ecology of sage-grouse and sagebrush ecosystem.

The scientists were also asked to apply their judgment to estimate the extinction risk for greater sagegrouse at various timeframes into the future. However, these scientists were not asked for and did not make recommendations on the listing decision. Their estimates and discussions occurred in the presence of a team of Service senior-level biologists in order to help ensure these biologists were aware of a diverse range of scientific points of view. The outside scientists included experts in greater sage-grouse, plant ecology, rangeland health, and invasive species. Under the Endangered Species Act, an "endangered" species is in danger of extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range; a "threatened" species is likely to become endangered within the foreseeable future. The ESA directs that the decision to list shall be made "solely on the basis of the best scientific and commercial data available, after taking into account those efforts, if any, being made by any State or foreign nation, or any political subdivision of a State or foreign nation, to protect such species." Greater sage-grouse are currently estimated to number from 142,000 to 500,000 individuals.

Sage-grouse populations declined an average of 3.5 percent per year from 1965 to 1985. Since 1986, however, populations in several states have increased or generally stabilized and the rate of decline from 1986 to 2003 slowed to 0.37 percent annually for the species across its entire range. Greater sage-grouse are currently found in Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming. They are also found in small populations in the Canadian provinces of Alberta and Saskatch-

Thousands cross traffic counters on county roadways

Traffic counts on some of the roads in Owyhee County has shown that thousands of people travel Owyhee County roads every day. The traffic counters were installed on several "side" roads in the area earlier this year to get an idea as to the traffic that uses the vastly rural area.

On the Silver City Road, the counter was installed on Feb. 5 of this year. On May 10, shortly before the road was opened to vehicle use after the winter months, 4,408 people had traveled the road in the three-month period. The average use was 45 units, or vehicles, per day. On June 14, a month later, an additional 3,791 vehicles had crossed the counter.

Through the summer months and after the annual Silver City open house, over 17 thousand vehicles had crossed the counter for an average of 75 units per day. On Dec. 1, 20,438 units had crossed the counter averaging 40 units per day.

On the Mud Flat road, two counters had been installed. The first was located near the Highway 78 intersection and was installed on April 5. Two weeks later, the counter had counted 3,353 units on the road for an average of 240 units per day.

Near the intersection of the Oreana Cutoff Road on Mud Flat, the counter was installed on June 15. On August 13, 1,796 "units had been counted for an average of 52 units per day. From Sept. 20 to Nov. 16 during hunting season, 72 vehicles averaged across the counter for a total of 4,156 units.

At Rabbit Creek, the counter was installed on March 3 and 19.400 units had crossed the counter as of Dec. 1 for an average of 63 units per day, but on Juniper Mountain, some of the most significant numbers were recorded.

The counter was installed on March 30 on Juniper Mountain Road. On the first reading on May 10, over five thousand vehicles had crossed the counter. By Oct. 12, during hunting season, the number had raised to over 21 thousand vehicles for an average of 158 vehicles per day. On Nov. 23, 25,200 vehicles had crossed the counter for an average of 71 vehicles per day.

The highest road usage was recorded on the Lower Reynolds Creek Road near Murphy. The counter was installed on Feb. 10 and by May 3, 14,533 units had crossed the counter for an average of 175 units per day. But Oct. 18, during hunting season, nearly 40 thousand vehicles had crossed the counter for an average of 254 units per day.

On the ESI Road, the counter was installed on April 12 and on May 17, over eight thousand vehicles had been counted for an average of 227 units per day.

Another counter was installed on the Bachman Grade Road near Oreana. Since its installation on May 13, 13,816 units had crossed the counter. On Clover Creek Road, the counter was installed on Feb. 18 and by March 24, 1,723 units had crossed the counter for an average of 49 units per day.

Some roads have been spot-checked and on others the county has been doing long-range checks to determine the pressure put on them.

Ranch horse clinic to be held

December's District II Youth Horse Council will hold its December ranch horse clinic in Weiser Sunday at the rodeo grounds at 2 p.m. Through April, a clinic will be held every month on the second Sunday.

A cowboy church will also be held in Weiser at 11 a.m. in the horse trailer parking area. There will be fire pits and marshmallows to roast to help keep everyone warm.

There will be cattle at every event and a $10 cattle fee will be collected. Clinics will not be canceled due to inclement weather, so coordinators suggest participants dress for rain, wind or snow.

Any young person eight years old and in the third grade, through 18 are eligible if they are members of a "recognized youth horse organization." Members of FFA, 4-H, youth breed associations, youth reining associations or any others can participate.

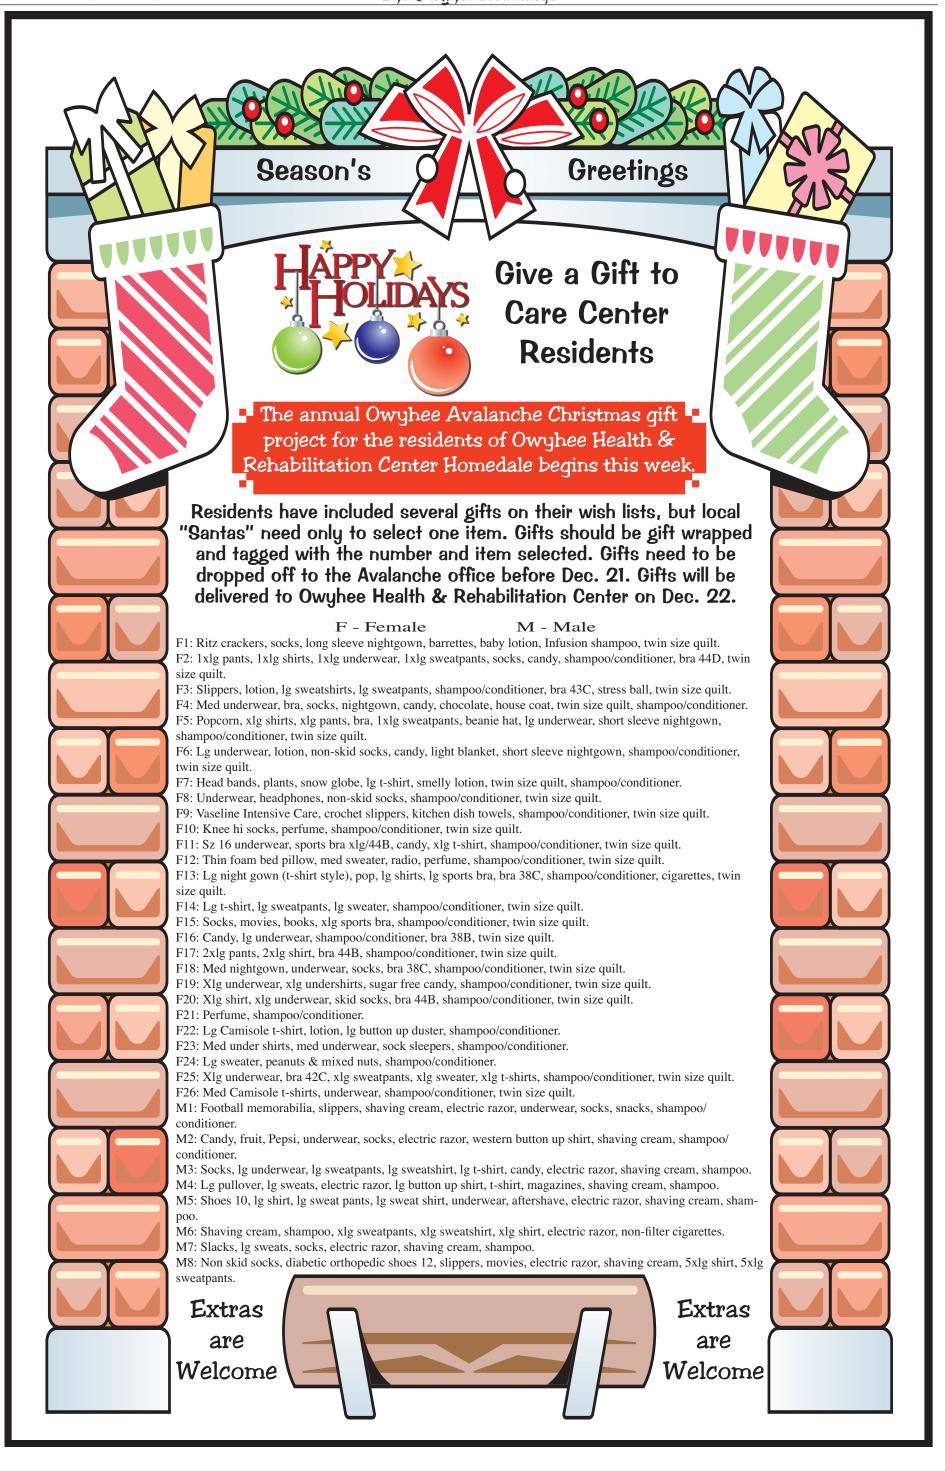

To attend the clinics, call Tass Heim at 482-4330 or Bruce Reuck at 337-5914 one week prior to the clinic.

Huskies soar over Pirates, lose to Nyssa

The Marsing Huskies soared to a 65-23 win over the Payette Pirates last week rebounding from a close 47-31 loss to Nyssa in non-conference girls basketball last week.

Nyssa traveled to meet the Huskies who struggled through the first three quarters entering the fourth with a 21-point deficit. The Huskies caught up a bit in the fourth quarter holding Nyssa to six points.

"The game was well played," commented coach Don Heller. "We started with six turnovers early, but adjusted and controlled the ball very well for the rest of the way. Our downfall was our own shooting. We were 20 of 63 from the field and five of 17 from the foul line. We out rebounded Nyssa's two six foot three girls and held them to six and two points each."

M.J. Usabel led Marsing (2-2) with 13 points and 14 rebounds while Angela Martinez added eight and Breeana Chadez scored six.

The Huskies were host to Payette (0-4) on Thursday night and their defense stood strong. Marsing held the Pirates to a scoreless second quarter and ended the first half with a 29-4 score.

Heller commented, "my team played awesome defense against Payette. We had been averaging 24 turnovers per game and we cut that to 11 against Payette. The girl's played like a team."

Marsing recorded 13 assists to Payette's one and took 20 steals to the Pirates five.

Breeana Chadez led the Huskies with 28 points and four assists and M.J. Usabel added 10 points and eight rebounds. Angela Martinez added 10 points and six rebounds.

Raiders leash Jaguars with 56-34 win

Rimrock's 50 consecutive game winning streak may have ended with a season opener loss for the girl's basketball team, but they are on the road to making another statement. Rimrock defense tied up the Gem State Jaguars and left them with a 56-34 loss in 1A Western Idaho Conference b-ball last week.

Rimrock, now 1-0 in conference and 4-1 overall, faced the Jaguars in its conference opener and played like the league champions they are.

Melanie Simper scored 11 points and pulled down eight rebounds on Rimrock's court. Robynn Ridley added 10 six rebounds and Alex Thomas had 11 points for the Raiders, who blew the game open in the third quarter outscoring the Jaguars 13-4.

Jordan Valley Middle School ready to play ball

By Lauren Cuvelier

Last week marks the beginning of the basketball season for the Colts and both the girls' and boys' teams are ready to get the season started.

Clint Fillmore, who is assisted by Todd Gluch, coaches the boys' team. The team has four returning eighth grade athletes including Koehl Trautman, Cole Scown, Zach Fillmore, and Alek Quintero. The 7th graders are Elias Cline, Dusty Easterday, Bryce Kershner, Brandon Mackenzie, Sonny Mackenzie, Tad Jones, and Eli Rose. There are three sixth graders: Kaine Baptist, Tyler Elsner, Josh Deen, and Garrett Williams, and the new fifth graders are Jordan Matteri, Nathan Easterday, and Isaac Bowen.

"I think we can play with anyone tough this year. We have a lot of returning older players so we don't have to work on the fundamentals as much. We have a lot of height as well as speed," says Gluch.

Melinda Cuvelier is the head coach for the girls but she is getting a lot of help from Doug Rutan. Kayla Cuvelier, Emma Johnson, Catie Kershner, Nickie Naegle, and Cassandra Rose are the eighth graders. Annie Eiguren, Ashley Hebison, Katrina Moran, Michelle Telleria, and Mattie Wroten are from the seventh grade class. Shelly Payne is the lone 6th grader and Amelia Eakin, Megan Fillmore, and Haley Hebison are in fifth grade.

"I'm really excited about the girls this year. They came to practice with a bunch of enthusiasm and hustle. We're working on them being a good rebounding, aggressive, fast breaking team. We hope to see everyone at our games to cheer the girls on!" says Cuvelier.

Jordan Valley Colts kick off their season with the boys and girls splitting ways to play on December 10. The boys go south to play McDermitt, while the girls go north to meet Marsing.

Mustangs hit courts for new season with a new leader

by Paul McKay

Jordan Valley has hired Ted Dramas as the high school boys head basketball coach. He's coached basketball and football previously. His experience has taken him through Idaho, Nevada, and Arizona. He also coached football in New Mexico. Currently, he lives in Caldwell.

He said his goals for this year are to see improvement in each player, max out everyone's potential, and for everyone to have fun. He believes the key to winning is enthusiasm and attitude.

There are nine students going out for basketball this season. Seniors Pat Anderson, Paul Elsner, Shane Smith, and T.J Stubs will lead the team. Senior Levi Waller is out this season due to a knee injury from football season.

Juniors Emil Scown and Frank Beckwith as well as sophomore Jerry Wroten will be fundamental players. Last but not least, freshmen Carlen Hipwell and Tim Eiguren will round out the team.

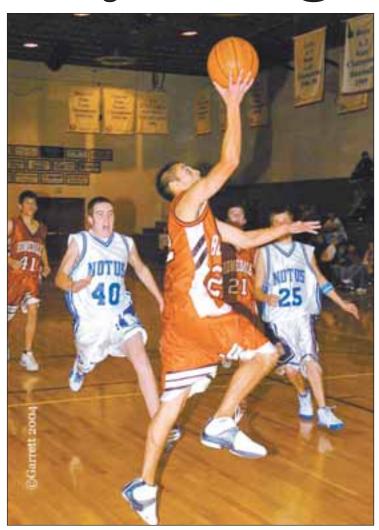

Mustang senior Pat Anderson said the Mustang boys played their first game against Greenleaf on Monday, November 29th. Greenleaf had a really strong defensive front. Greenleaf also made a lot of their shots. They really had their heads in the game. Jordan Valley on the other hand didn't play their best defense. Anderson, defensive center, said, "you could definitely tell it was our first game. We had a lot of missed shots and missed opportunities."

Despite being the mustang's first game and not playing their best, they still pulled off a win with a score of 46-29.

Senior Paul Elsner (point guard) said, "We played good enough to win, but not much else. We have a lot of improvement to make." The Jordan Valley Mustangs will continue into the basketball season with tournaments to help them finetune their skills.

There are a few businesses that were not contacted because Bill had just so much time, and welcome help, a few were missed. So if any individuals or businesses want to slip a dollar to Bill LeCarter, Kirby Wilson or Norman Tolmie to help decorate, your help will be welcome!

RAILS. Winter presents sociability. If the outside is somewhat dreary the inside is made more cheerful. The ball for the Brass Band on the evening of the 7th was a social and gleaming affair and well attended by the ladies. There are two more dances in contemplation this month. A public one will begin on Christmas and an exclusive one by the Masonic Fraternity on the 27th St. John's Day. We learn that the large room next north of our office has been enlarged for the festivities and is now being fitted up in good style.

THE WEATHER has been of the very mild winter type during the past week, in fact, all of December thus far has been an agreeable surprise to many. There is eight or ten inches of snow and the mercury has not averaged much below freezing point. The fact that there has been very mild winters in Idaho since its settlement, is a good reason that the like may occur again.

J. K. EASTMAN'S new hotel in Silver is being finished rapidly, and will be so far advanced that it will be opened the ensuing week, under the management of Mr. Eastman. When finished the new hotel will be much larger, better arranged and more comfortable than the one in Ruby, and equal to any in the territory.

LITTLE TROUBLE AND GREAT FAVOR. Our California friends would offer a great favor by adding to the usual address of letters and papers "via Hunter's Station Nevada," The Sacramento P.M. starts everything right which is mailed in his office, but the San Francisco papers still get into the Chico mail, which comes very irregular and is nearly a month on the way. It arrived the early part of this week with San Francisco and Chico dates to the 17th of November, and the Sacramento Union from the 13th to the 19th inclusive, whereas we had received the Union up to Dec. 4th by the Nevada route. It is the duty of the contractors on the Chico line to carry the California mails, but they do it in such time as to be absolute damage instead of a benefit to the public, and though it be extra service, and not included in the scope of their duties, the proprietors of the Railroad Stage Line will carry all mail sent over their line from California to Idaho. San Francisco matter had better be sent neither way. Will our San Francisco friends note this and address Idaho letters and papers as directed.

SUGGESTION. We respectfully suggest to the Statesman that it would give much greater satisfaction to its readers by giving the title of bills introduced in the Legislature in its reports. We hear many speaking of this omission as rendering its otherwise valuable reports almost worthless. We hope it will supply the title of bills in its future reports.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVAL. The teachers and children of the Sunday School are preparing for a delightful festival on Christmas. Considerable cash has been raised to defray expenses. An interesting meeting is expected to come off tomorrow to arrange the details. Those in anyway interested should attend or find no fault with the programme.

LUNCHES. These can be had in the most luxurious style at the Relief Chop House in this city. R. Doring and wife, the proprietors, give exclusive attention to furnishing the best of lunches at all hours. See transparency on Washington and go in when hungry or in want of a nice lunch.

PHOTOGRAPHS. This new style of pictures can be seen and obtained at the gallery of Junk & Leslie, in Silver. The improvement is reputed and the right of Owyhee County purchased by Junk & Leslie. It is a fine improvement on the old style and one that is universally admired.

THE DELINQUENT tax payers of Owyhee County should come to time on or before next Saturday, the 22d of this month, at which time the sales for taxes remaining due will commence, as may be seen by advertised lists.

THE SUPPER given at the Miners' Hotel, on the occasion of the late ball, was a sumptuous feast. Sam Hughes understands the business of getting up refreshments for ball goers.

ORATION &c. The Masonic Fraternity have decided to celebrate St. John's Day, the 27th inst., with an oration, supper and a social dance.

Commentary

Wayne Cornell

Not important ... but possibly of interest

By the time I was in the fifth grade I was checking out books from the junior high and high school libraries. Sometimes I would bring home a book that was pretty tough. I didn't understand some parts but I always got something out of reading it. It was a challenge to me. The next time I checked out a book written for older readers, I got more out of it. That's how I became a good reader.

Today's kids take reading tests that classify them at certain levels. When they go to the library they are only allowed to check out books for that particular level. They can't try a book above that level until they pass a test. There is no challenge -- no opportunity to press out to the edge of their educational envelopes. I am not a trained educator. But I'm going to go out on a limb here and say this is a stupid idea, even surpassing the "new math" concept that left a generation of American youngsters believing two plus two equals seven.

This reading concept is part of a larger program known as "No Child Left Behind," implemented by the Bush Administration. The goal of "No Child Left Behind" is to make sure all students meet certain educational standards. To accomplish that, kids are constantly tested. If everybody doesn't pass, school administrators and teachers are threatened with demotion or dismissal. So, the majority of school time is spent planning for tests, discussing the test, prepping students to pass the tests, and testing. And when everybody doesn't pass, state and federal education officials lower the standards a little more in hopes of making the statistics look better after the next round of testing. It is an endless, vicious cycle that gives teachers little time to really teach and turns students into testing machines.

The fact that the No Child Left Behind concept ignores is that all students aren't created equal -- never have been and never will be -- no matter how many years they are in school or how many tests they take. Some kids have parents who sit down with them every night, make sure they do their homework and help when there's a problem. Some kids have parents who don't even know where their offspring are, let alone how they are doing in school. Their attitude is that schools are there to keep the kids out of their hair. And the element the believes schools should have total responsibility for the upbringing of their children seems to be growing.

There's another little problem with the No Child Left Behind plan. No one wants to talk about it because it's not politically correct. But the fact remains that some students aren't going to do as well because they don't have the mental tools. No matter how hard they try they just aren't going to reach the same levels of knowledge as some of their classmates. And no teacher, no matter how motivated or gifted can change that.

Because of the pressure from above, schools spend all their time teaching kids to pass tests that are designed for the lowest common denominator. That means the average and exceptional students are spending most of their time studying stuff that offers no challenge or intellectual stimulation. They are being cheated. And the less talented kids are being cheated, too because they get a false impression of their abilities when they would be better focusing on some basic skills that will help them survive in the real world after their school days end.

Generally, I am a supporter of the President. But his education policy should be called "Dumb and Dumber," because that's what it is doing to American schools. It's time to quit experimenting and let teachers teach.
