First installment of property taxes due Monday

County taxpayers should be aware that their first installment of property taxes is due Monday, Dec. 20, Owyhee County Treasurer Barbara Wright said last week.

Tax notices were sent out about a month ago, Wright said, and payments have been coming in. She said although people tend to wait until the deadline to pay, they have the option to pay early or pay all year long.

"Payments have started to come into our office and things really have been quite steady," Wright said. "We usually are the busiest the week prior to the Dec. 20 deadline. To avoid delays at this busy time of year, people can take care of it early. Residents can make payments on their taxes all year long. They do not have to wait until the deadline to pay it, it can be paid every month or whenever they would like as long as it is paid by the deadline."

A late charge and interest will be added to payments postmarked after the deadline date. Those who do not meet the deadline will be charged a two percent penalty on the first half beginning Dec. 21. A 12 percent annual interest penalty

Burglary arrest nets $20,000 in stolen property

With the arrest of a Kuna woman and a Nampa man, county sheriff's deputies have been able to solve a three county burglary spree and recover approximately $15,000 to $20,000 in stolen property. County Sheriff Gary Aman said Monday that three search warrants were served last week and stolen property was recovered in all three.

Lynette Majors, 41 of Kuna and Lynn Coleman, 23 of Nampa were arrested at a home in the Wilson area in the early hours Thursday morning that they were burglarizing. Majors and Coleman were charged with burglary, two counts of grand theft and possession of drug paraphernalia. Aman said cameras and officers staked out the home and caught Majors and Coleman in the process of taking items from the home. Aman said an elderly couple lived in the home, but recently the husband passed away and the wife moved to a nursing home.

"We have determined that Coleman is a distant relative and that is how he knew no one was in the home," Aman said. "This burglary is the result of drugs. These people were stealing things and selling them for drug money."

While sheriff's deputies were investigating the Owyhee County incident, they discovered that property in Ada County and Can-

ITD to hold public meeting on U.S. 95 project

A public meeting will be held Thursday, in the Homedale High School cafeteria, from 4 – 8 p.m. to provide an update on the U.S. 95 – Idaho 55 to Homedale project, the Idaho Transportation Department (ITD) announced.

ITD proposes to reconstruct, widen and add right-of-way to approximately 7.3 miles of U.S.

95 from its junction with Idaho 55 west of Marsing to just south of Homedale.

The $10 million project is scheduled for construction 2007. The highway and shoulders will be widened and left-turn lanes added at all county roads. The roadway will be realigned to straighten existing curves, improving highway capacity and safety for motorists.

The new alignment for this project was selected through a variety of public contacts, including stakeholder contacts, a public meeting in Oct. 1999 and a design hearing in Oct. 2000. Previous delays have been due to funding constraints.

ITD project engineers and right-of-way staff will be available to answer questions and to discuss property acquisition procedures.

Hearing tomorrow, 4-8 p.m., at High School

'White stuff' attracts snowmobilers to Owyhees; registrations bring bucks

Snowmobile registrations increase 94 percent in four years

When the snow starts to fly, winter recreationists watch the mountain snow levels and local ski resorts for openings. But while some are digging out their skis, others are taking the covers off and tuning up their snowmobiles. With nearly eight inches of snow on South Mountain, snowmobile season is not far away.

Earlier this year, the Owyhee County Commissioners formed a snowmobile advisory committee so the county could receive funds from snowmobile registrations. The Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation give 85 percent of the registration fees back to designated counties who have an active snowmobile program. The money is used for the maintenance and operation of the snowmobile trail groomer, signing of snowmobile trails, plowing parking lots and maintaining warming shelters. County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn said the county commissioners plan to meet with the committee in the future to discuss their plan for the local area.

Rick Just from the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation said snowmobile registration has increased by 94 percent since 2000 in Owyhee County. He said overall, snowmobile registrations have increased 13 percent in the state.

In 2000, 108 snowmobiles were registered in the county and in 2004, 210 sleds were registered. Although the total funds the county would receive has not been determined, if 210 snowmobiles were registered and designated the county for registration, Off Highway Vehicle Recreation Coordinator Dave Claycomb said it is estimated that the county would have received nearly $4,000 from the registrations last year.

From boat registrations for fiscal year beginning Oct. 2003 to Sept. 2004, the county received $23,226.

Nampa teen collides with father in motorcycle accident

A 17 year-old Nampa teen was transported by air ambulance Saturday afternoon after she was seriously injured in a motorcycle accident involving her father at Hemmingway Butte. County sheriff Gary Aman said Monday that Danielle Gibson received head and neck injuries after she collided with her father, Alan, 43, also of Nampa.

Aman said Danielle and her father were riding on Upper Reynolds Creek Road when the front tire of Danielle's motorcycle became entangled with the back tire of her father's motorcycle. The couple was traveling about 35 to 40 miles per hour. Aman said Alan was transported to a nearby hospital with leg injuries.

"This is the third off road vehicle accident we have had in the last three weeks," Aman said. "Two of them were air ambulated and the third refused or they would have been. We have had two motorcycle accidents and one snowmobile accident. There are so many people out here anymore."

Aman said the accident is still under investigation and citations have not been issued.

Idaho delegation praises sage grouse non-listing

Idahoans and others in Western states are successfully caring for sage grouse through existing conservation measures which appear to be working, Idaho Senator Mike Crapo, chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works subcommittee with jurisdiction over the Endangered Species Act said earlier this month. Senator Larry Craig, Congressmen Mike Simpson and Representative Butch Otter agree.

Crapo is linking on-the-ground activities preserving sage grouse with an earlier announcement by U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service Director Steve Williams that field biologists and scientists have found no need for listing under the Endangered Species Act.

"Ranchers, conservationists, landowners, and others have been trying to increase the number of sage grouse for almost ten years. That teamwork, commitment, and on-the-ground action is the fastest way to restore species and it is working here," Crapo said. "Today we learned that ESA mandates are unlikely, but more work is needed to increase the size of this game bird population. That was our original goal and remains the point of our efforts."

"As we have known all along, sage grouse are thriving in Idaho and in the West," said Craig. "This recommendation confirms that increased restrictions or prohibitions need not be the first option to keep sage grouse numbers at a productive level. Local partnerships are working to help this species recover and prosper."

"It has been apparent to most everyone living in the West that the sage grouse faces a very low risk of extinction and does not belong on the endangered species list," said Simpson. "I commend all those involved who under serious pressure from extreme environmental groups were able to assess the scientific data and come to the accurate conclusion."

"This recommendation is a victory for common sense, limited government and continuing local efforts that already are proving to be effective. It acknowledges that folks whose lives and livelihoods are rooted in the West are best able to find answers that work for themselves and the resource," said Congressman C.L. "Butch" Otter.

Crapo added, "Even without ESA the sage grouse remain a federal case because the bird is already a Special Status Species on Bureau of Land Management lands, and we need to be sure that the rules and regulations are promoting on-the-ground conservation that helps the bird and works for people. Many people have already agreed that sage grouse populations need to be higher. I believe they are on the right track and I plan to help them succeed. Ironically, the ESA can sometimes slow down the process rather than help it."

The Idaho Congressional Delegation secured $300,000 in the Omnibus appropriations bill for sage grouse recovery projects in Idaho.

Homedale council passes planning and zoning fee increases

Board approves waterline project

Homedale City Council approved several items during a regular meeting Wednesday night including a $16,000 revitalization project at the local airport, a waterline project bid and a fee increase for the city's planning and zoning.

Prior to the regular meeting, a public hearing was held on planning and zoning fee increases. The council passed the increase as no one attended the meeting to oppose or support the proposal.

The increases include $100 for an application for special use permit, $300 for a request for a variance, $100 for lot split, $700 for manufactured home park or expansion of mobile home park, $100 Subdivision time extension, $150 amendments of plat, $300 zone change, $50 vacate of road or alley, $35 sign permit, $50 for home occupation permit, 1.25 plus postage for regular mailing, $6 plus postage for certified mailing, $40 for preparation of legal notice and actual cost for publication costs.

The board started out Wednesday's meeting by passing a resolution to use some money from a grant for a revitalization project at Homedale's airport. Mayor Paul Fink said approximately $14,000 of the funds would come from the grant. The board approved the resolution.

City Services Supervisor Larry Bauer said work needs to begin soon on a water line project on Montana Avenue. He said although the city does not have the final approval from the Department of Environmental Quality, work needs to commence now.

Fink said a notice to proceed would need to be sent to the construction company so the project can commence. He said due to the changes in the weather, the project needs to begin soon.

"We don't have total clearance from DEQ," Fink said. "But we have received a notice to proceed. They are just waiting on governmental paper work. We won't put any water through the lines until we get the approval, but we need to get it started."

The bid for the project was awarded to Warrington Construction by council passage in the amount of $24,844 for labor, as the city will provide the materials. Bauer said the city engineer from Sunrise Engineering recommends the company as they have done most of the city's sewer and water work. Bauer said the full project will cost approximately $60,000 with labor and materials combined.

The project began on Tuesday and Bauer said it would take several weeks to finish the project. The waterline has broken several times over the past several years and Bauer said it has cost the city thousands of dollars to give it a quick fix. He said residents in the city may experience some water shutoffs over the next several weeks, but the shut downs would only last about one to two hours.

Bill Pastoor again addressed the council concerning the possible placement of plastic 96-gallon tote cans. The council advised Pastoor to return to January's meeting with a formal proposal of what the residents will be charged for a new tote or two new totes if they need them. He said as of Wednesday's meeting he had heard very little disagreement about the new garbage cans. Fink said the council would take the matter under advisement during January's meeting.

Council asks for another bond

The Marsing City Council will again ask voters to pass another bond, this time for the city's water system, after adopting a bond resolution last week. Last year, voters passed a $324,000 sewer bond. This bond is worth $1.550 million.

Marsing Mayor Don Osterhoudt said the bond would be used with a grant to drill a new well and add an additional 425,000-gallon water storage tank. He said the total project would cost about $2.5 million.

Osterhoudt said preliminary numbers show that if the bond passes, taxpayers can expect to pay about $196 extra per year. He said the bond would raise about $15 per month, per home, and the extra $3 per month is due to the city operating $3 short per home.

"Even if the bond does not pass, we still will have to raise the water by at least $3 per month because we have been running in the deficit that much," Osterhoudt said. "This way we just do both at the same time."

The election will be held on Feb. 1 of next year and will enable the electors to vote upon the proposition of issuing revenue bonds. Polling places will open at 8 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m.

yon County was also stolen by the suspects. Aman said search warrants were issued at Majors’ home where property was recovered and at a second-hand store in Nampa where the couple had “pawned” items for cash.

“We solved an Ada County burglary, a Canyon County burglary and two Owyhee County burglaries,” Aman said. “They pawned items in Nampa between the first and second day that they were at the home. We served a search warrant there and at Majors’ home in Kuna. We did three search warrants and recovered property from all three of them.

“It is a typical theft deal. They get cranked up and they just go and go. It was definitely drug related and they stole for drugs,” Aman said.

✓ Taxes

is assessed on Jan. 1.

Property taxes in Idaho are collected in two semi-annual installments. The second installment deadline is June 20, when the remaining balance must be paid. Wright said last week that county taxpayers have been good about sending in their payments early. Personnel property and manufactured housing owners, must make their first half tax payment by Dec. 20 or the entire amount becomes due and payable.

A postage meter is not an acceptable post office cancellation mark, Wright said. The postmark must have a post office cancellation mark.

✓ Snowmobiles

Claycomb said Owyhee County is quickly becoming a chosen recreation spot among the snowmobiling enthusiasts. He said although he has not seen a plan from the county’s advisory committee, the county would receive funding for this year. He said those funds could be used for signing, maintaining parking lots and enforcement.

Snowmobile registrations are due every November before they can take to the trails. Under Idaho law, any snowmobile sold new in the state must be registered before it leaves the dealership, and set up with the proper registration stickers.

Fees for registration support a network of groomed trails across Idaho that extends for more than 7,200 miles and exceeds that of any other western state. All registrations are valid from November 1 to October 31 of the following year.

Commissioner shows lobbyists county from the sky

Owyhee County Commissioner Chris Salove took two Washington lobbyists on a flight over the county to show them exactly what the Owyhee Initiative is about. The commissioner treated the campaigners to two days of a countywide tour that included all five of the proposed wilderness areas in the Owyhee Initiative.

Salove said Ed Dickman, pilot, flew Ernie Bahem, Arlen Lancaster, from Senator Mike Crapo’s Office, Dick Bouts, Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources from Senator Larry Craig’s Office, John McCarthy from the Idaho Conservation league and Salove over a vast portion of Southern Owyhee County Monday. Commissioner Hal Tolmie and Salove lead a Monday afternoon vehicle ground tour following the flight, to the Bruneau Canyon, and then on Tuesday, Tolmie, Commissioner Dick Reynolds and Salove lead a ground tour.

Salove said the group was able to fly over most of the areas planned to be designated and the ones that will be released.

“We flew over most of the designation that will be on the initiative maps whether they are scenic, wild and scenic, wilderness or wilderness areas to be released,” Salove said. “We headed out of Murphy and flew to Grand View. From there we flew to Grasmere and to the Bruneau/Jarbidge area near Murphy Hot Springs. We went to the reservation, to the proposed wilderness areas in the Owyhees and around Crutcher’s Crossing. It was a beautiful and very informational trip.”

Salove said the trip was set up to show exactly what the commissioners and the work group are talking about in the initiative. He said Lancaster and Bouts are two key staffers that are working on the initiative in Washington, D.C. and the trip introduced them to Owyhee County.

“It gave them an idea of where we live and what we do,” Salove said. “We take this area for granted because we live here. To take these people and fly them in the air over a five million acre county is instrumental in passing the initiative. To show them the canyons up close is a real treat. And if we wanted to see a canyon Ed showed us a canyon. It was a terrific flight. Dick and Arlen said they were very impressed with the area. We have to prove to them that wilderness is justified in this case; that we can create a wilderness and that it is deserving of a wilderness. And that we can create a wilderness that is good for the county.”

The following day, Salove, and the delegates traveled by vehicle from Jordan Valley to Grand View. Salove said although the trip was snowed on most of the way, the scenery was breathtaking.

“Five million acres from the air is a lot smaller than it is on the ground,” Salove said. “We were able to go all the way even though it snowed on us most of the day. We didn’t get to any of the wilderness areas, but we were able to get close to them.

“We were able to show them the North Fork country and one of the WSAs that will be released. It is a heavy juniper forest that needs juniper management. We were able to give them an idea of the distances we work with, the kind of ground that was not found suitable for wilderness.”

Salove said on Monday the group was able to fly over the Bruneau Canyon overlook. That afternoon, he took the delegates to the area by vehicle.

“They were able to stand on the Bruneau Canyon overlook,” Salove said. “They were amazed. You can’t do it justice by talking about it. No matter what they hear from us or other people who live here, hearing about it and seeing it are two different things.”

Initiative Committee Chairman Fred Grant said the trips with delegates are essential to lobbying the proposal. He said they rarely see and understand the remoteness and vastness of a land like Owyhee County.

“A view of the vast expanses of Owyhee County helps officials in the District of Columbia better understand how wilderness designations can, on the one hand, improve grazing methods for ranchers, and, on the other, provide protection of a limited area which hopefully will block serious efforts at designating national monuments in the area,” Grant said. “D.C. officials deal in urban matters all the time. Rarely do they see and understand the remoteness and vastness of a land like Owyhee County. It helps them understand the elements of the Initiative to see for themselves the land, which forms the economic base for the County.

“After completing the air view and the land tour, Arlen Lancaster of Senator Crapo’s staff, told me that he could for the first time comprehend the relationship of all the elements of the Initiative Proposal. He also said that he would urge that the House and Senate committees hold field hearings on the Initiative bill so that the members of Congress could get the same feel for the country that he had gained. So, the trips were a huge success.”

“Once we have a bill, what will happen is an unknown,” Salove said. “But the workgroup will be in place and they will advise the commissioners on every amendment. The work group will be the ones working on the amendments. The congressional delegation working on this will not go against the work group.”

Jordan Valley students collect food for needy

By Lauren Cuvelier

Jordan Valley High School’s annual canned food drive began on Monday. Each year, students bring in food that will be redistributed within their community to needy families.

Coordinators said they want to encourage everyone in the community to participate.

“If you would like to help you can bring your canned or pre-packaged food, no home prepared foods please, to Mrs. Echave’s room at the Jordan Valley High School,” coordinators said. “Please make sure that the food is fresh, not out of date.”

Food must be in before noon December 16.

Fire research

Boise District BLM and Boise National Forest fire crews use an existing road as a fire break to support ignitions as Northwest Watershed Research Center employees observe the progress.

Prescribed fire conducted in the name of science

In late September, Boise District BLM teamed up with scientists from the USDA Agricultural Research Service (ARS) Northwest Watershed Research Center (NWRC) to conduct a prescribed fire for research. The Whiskey Hill prescribed burn was accomplished within the boundaries of the Reynolds Creek Experimental Watershed (RCEW), one of the largest research watersheds in the United States. This experimental watershed is located in the Owyhee Mountains above the community of Reynolds Creek.

The burn is the second of four to be coordinated with ARS. Information gathered through this research could be used for planning future prescribed fire projects and to add to the knowledge base of using prescribed fire to manage intermountain rangelands. “The primary research purposes for the burn are to investigate vegetation and animal behavior responses to fuel reduction/forage improvement and juniper control with prescribed fire,” said Stuart Hardegree, Research Leader with Northwest Watershed Research Center. “Data from this research could be used to improve similar projects in the western United States where land is, or could be overrun by invasive Western Juniper.”

Juniper encroachment has become an issue for resource managers who are looking for ways to improve fire prone landscapes and restore fire-adapted ecosystems. Historical studies of the area suggest that the natural role of the fire cycle has been interrupted, facilitating juniper encroachment into these sites.

“The Whiskey Hill Prescribed Burn went exceptionally well,” said J.R. Epps, Acting District Fire Management Officer. The total area burned included 296 acres of privately owned property and 92 acres of BLM land. The successful effort satisfied the goals of this portion of the RCEW Prescribed Fire Research Plan for NWRC who will be conducting further research on the impacts of grazing management in this unit next spring.

The USDA Agricultural Service Northwest Watershed Research Center has been conducting hydraulic and rangeland research at the Reynolds Creek Experimental Watershed since 1960. This project will contribute to a longer-term research and management plan under development by NWRC for assessing prescribed fire impacts in the RCEW.

Mustang basketball girls on a roll

by Angela Larsen, Hayley Johnson, Holly Dean and Cassia Trautman

On November 30 the Jordan Valley Mustangs traveled to Greenleaf to take on their first basketball game of the season. The Greenleaf Grizzlies had already played two games within that last week, so they came out pumped and ready to play.

The Mustang ladies thought they were ready to play also. However, in the first quarter the Mustangs were a little nervous and confused. The scores were 7 to 10 with Greenleaf in the lead.

By the second quarter, they had picked it up and were leading 28 to 13 when they went in for half time. The Grizzlies came out after half time thinking they were going to pick it up and have another win, but by the end of the third quarter, the Mustangs were still leading 36 to 23.

The Mustangs kept their lead and allowed the Grizzlies to only score nine more points. The game ended with a 44 to 32 score as the Mustangs took the win.

The high scorer for the game was Lauren Cuvelier, with 13 points. Along beside her was Jessica Davis, Breann Hipwell, and Angela Larsen with seven points each. Lauren Cuvelier was also the leader in rebounding. She came out with 8 total rebounds while again, Angela Larsen and Jessica Davis each had six rebounds. The Grizzlies were able to gain nine steals but not enough to beat the mustangs. Mustang Bailey Kershner was the leader with five of the 21 steals.

Head Coach Jeremy Chamberlain said, “well, we played pretty well for the first game. But we were a bit sloppy the second half. We did hustle but we need to improve on our shooting percentage and rebounding. Otherwise, for the first game it was a good effort.”

On December 3rd and 4th the Jordan Valley varsity basketball teams journeyed to Burns, Oregon for the annual Burns Tournament. On Friday night the first team the Mustangs played was Burns. The score was 65-19 in favor of Burns.

High scorers were Bailey Kershner, with a total of seven points and Angela Larsen and Lauren Cuvelier both contributing four points. Since Burns took the win the Mustangs then faced Joseph.

In the first half the Mustangs were down by 17 points, in the third quarter they were gaining. At the end of the fourth quarter Joseph took away a win with a score of 45-32. The high scorer for Jordan Valley was Lauren Cuvelier with 15 points. Leading scorer for Joseph was Holly Parker.

The boy’s team playing experience mirrored the girl’s during the Burn’s tournament last week. Jordan Valley lost to Joseph, Gem State Academy but beat Greenleaf in boy’s basketball.

The first team to step up against the Mustangs was Burns. The Mustangs lost by a mere four points.

“Paul Elsner shot really well,” commented teammate Pat Anderson.

After their first loss they went on to play Joseph. Even though it was a hard fought game with Anderson having a triple double and being the leading scorer with 17 points, the Mustangs were defeated by 8 points.

On December 6th, a varsity boys’ basketball game was held in Jordan Valley, with the Panthers from Gem State Academy playing against Jordan’s Mustangs. It was a tough and exciting match that eventually ended up in a win for the Panthers, the final score being 58-51.

The Panthers were led by Caleb Echevarria, who had a total of 21 points that included five two-pointers and three three-pointers; as well as Ben Leake, with a total of ten points; and Keith Richardson, with a total of nine points. The Panthers’ outcome was created mainly in part by a steady lead in the first three quarters of the game. In the first half of the fourth quarter, it looked as though they wouldn’t be able to keep their lead. However, they made some game-saving shots which saved their lead and achieved them their win.

Paul Elsner, who had a total of fourteen points that included four two-pointers and two three-pointers; Pat Anderson, who had an overall of fourteen points as well; and Shane Smith, who had a total of eight points, led the Mustangs against the Panthers. The Mustangs had a slightly slow first half, and it wasn’t until the second half that things started to turn for them, where they managed to score 33 points overall. Though it seemed like they would be able to take the win, the Panthers came back and took the game.

The mustang boys’ team also earned a win over the Greenleaf Grizzlies. The game was action packed and the stands were cheering. Head coach Ted Doramus, (correction in spelling from last week) and assistant Mike Quintero helped lead the team to a victory of 58-27. At half time the mustangs had held the grizzlies to only 7 points. “This was the best defensive we have played as of yet,” commented senior Pat Anderson. This was also the first game where every member of the boys’ team has seen playing time. Congratulations Mustangs!

Look for the mustangs at Gem State Academy on December 16. The game begins at 4:30. Friday the 17th and Saturday the 18th they will play at home against Joseph and Imbler.

Lady Mustangs host GSA

On December 9, the Lady Mustangs took on Gem State Academy at home. The Mustangs started out with a lead of 14-9 at the end of the first quarter and were able to broaden that lead to 53-41 for the final score.

Angela Larsen scored 20 points with Bailey Kershner not far behind with 18 points. Joni Giem was the high scorer for Gem State Academy with 14 points. The panthers and Mustangs are scheduled for a rematch on December 16.

On Saturday, the Jordan Valley Lady Mustangs had a victorious defeat over the Greenleaf Grizzlies in their second meeting in two weeks time. Home court for the Mustangs was also an advantage.

Lauren Cuvelier, of the Mustangs, also had 11 rebounds while Michelle Elsner had a total of 10 rebounds. Mustang Bailey Kershner, as the point guard, was able to get eight steals and her teammate, Angela Larsen, was able to get five. Cassia Trautman, 6’2” post, was able to block seven shots for the Mustangs also.

“Our shots just would not fall,” quoted head coach, Jeremy Chamberlain. “We played well and our defense was great. By the second half, we had picked it up and our shots started falling in for us. It was just one of those nights. We did play good enough to pull off a win though.”

Mustangs battle Trojans for win

The Melba Mustangs battled the Homedale Trojans for a 44-21 victory in non-conference girl’s basketball last week. Melba out shot and out scored Homedale for the win.

Melba held the Trojans to single digit scores throughout the game. The Mustangs led 26 to 8 going into the half.

The Trojans were led by Jessica Stimmel with eight points. Hailey Hall scored six points and Mandy Brasher added three.

Additional results were not made available.

Lady Huskies face Nyssa

Marsing Lady Husky’s varsity, junior varsity and freshman girls basketball teams faced off against Nyssa in a turn around game last week. The varsity team was led by Breeana Chadez with 17 points and seven rebounds in a 62-69 loss.

MJ Usabel followed with 14 points and three assists in the effort. Tori Kent added 13 points and three steals.

“This game was our best defensive effort of the year,” Varsity Coach Don Heller commented. “Tori Kent and MJ Usabel played their best defense ever. We held there two six foot three inch girls to six points each. We are starting to shoot the ball well and are executing the offense better.”

The junior varsity team took a 70-27 pounding by the Nyssa girls. Jessica Elsberry led with 12 points and Elisa Moreno added six points.

“Marsing was plagued with a wealth of turnovers in the first half,” commented freshman coach Wendy Heller. “They came back the third quarter to outscore Nyssa 13-11. It wasn’t enough to overcome the depth of Nyssa’s 14 players on the roster to Marsing’s eight. In Oregon teams are allowed five quarters per night, so many of these players also played on the varsity team as well.”

The freshman girls also suffered a loss with Nyssa beating them 46-26. Elizabeth Madujano led the Huskies with 12 points and Cheri Gomez added six.

“We struggled early in the game with making adjustments,” Heller commented. “By the second half we started figuring things out and in the fourth quarter we held them to only four points.”

Escutia to Williams for game winning bucket

Homedale Trojan Escutia stole the ball at mid-court and flipped it over his shoulder to Nick Williams for a 57-55 victory over the New Plymouth Pilgrims in a non-conference boys basketball game last week. The late game rally keeps the Trojans on a winning roll.

Williams finished with 29 points to lead the Trojans (2-0). Garrett Sweet added six points and seven rebounds and Brett Hopkins had 14 points.

New Plymouth (1-2) was led by Jordan Frates with 16 points and Dane Edmunson had 10 points and five rebounds.

Huskies hold Nyssa in 48-45 win

The Marsing Huskies boys basketball team held Nyssa for a 48-45 win in a non-conference game last week. Marsing won an opening round of b-ball over Powder Valley during the Half-way tourney, but took a 50-40 lose from Elgin.

Trojan mat men place in Boise Valley duals

Homedale wrestlers placed well in the first ever Boise Valley Duals at Timberline High school last weekend. The 3A team pitted against 4A and 5A teams for three top honor wrestlers.

Homedale beat Boise High School, 57-24, Timberline, 43-16, Caldwell, 43-36 and Capitol, 50-27, but lost to Skyview 19-50 and Nampa High School, 25-45.

Marcus Eby, Tyler Christoffersen and Jeremy Ensley won top honors in the meet by staying undefeated at 6-0.

Homedale went into the match with no eligible wrestlers in the first three weight classes and gave up about 18 forfeit points per dual. But Homedale Coach Toby Johnson said the team had to wrestle well to place well.

“We opened with Boise, picking up seven pins and losing only one match,” Johnson said. “We wrestled another solid dual against Timberline and got five pins for another solid win.”

Friday the team finished off Caldwell, but struggled in the upper weights. Derek Sitko sealed the victory with a pin at heavyweight.

“Skyview and Nampa were loaded with several strong seniors and state placers in their lineups,” Johnson said. “We’re just a little younger and it showed. We wrestled really well and just got edged out on a lot of matches.”

Homedale finished with Capital and got another big win. The team only gave up two matches.

“Saturday was really Jeremy’s day to shine,” Johnson said. “We wrestled him against the toughest kids we could find.”

Ensley started with a winning decision over Dylan Whiting of Skyview then moved to 130 pounds to defeat Kyle Dennis of Nampa. Ensley earned a technical fall over 2004 second at state placer Matt Racine of Capitol in his final match. The match earned Ensley the honors of Most Outstanding Wrestler in the tournament for the 103-140 pound weight class.

“I am very proud of my team and how they wrestled,” Johnson said. “They impressed me.”

Local teachers honored with Christmas party

The teachers of grades one through four, Mrs. Irene Rencher, music instructor, and Mr. Charles Zollinger, superintendent of schools, were hosts Wednesday night, Dec. 15th to the other teachers in the school system at a dinner and Christmas party held in the music room of the new grade school.

Lovely centerpieces of giant red and white, and green and white candles set in a nest of greenery with Christmas decorations graces the two long banquet tables. At their place each teacher found an attractive place card, a red felt candle with a gold flame and their name in gold imprinted on it. They were designed and made by Mrs. Elise Brown and Mrs. Dorothy Goodloe.

Dinner for 28 was served by the new grade school teachers, and following dinner a gift exchange was held and the gifts were presented to each teacher by jolly old St. Nick (John Wester) himself.

Lighting contest

The Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Homedale Improvement club will be judged from Dec. 23rd to Jan. 1st. Although there will be prizes given this year honorable mention will be given in the Owyhee Chronicle at the close of the contest.

High school news

The grade school teachers entertained the Junior High and senior high teachers at a dinner Wednesday the 15, at the new grade school.

The Christmas theme was beautifully carried out by the table decorations.

Gifts were exchanged and Mr. Wester was a very jolly Santa Claus for the event.

Proceeding the dinner a business meeting was held. Mr. Zollinger took pictures of the group. A film "Freedom to Learn" was shown and discussed.

Discussed at a recent student council meeting was the possibility of a P. A. system, with two way speakers in each class room and a central system in the office and gym. Three offers have been made to the school for such system.

Also discussed was the possibility of extending student body officers' terms to a full year. The present term is one semester with the exception of the treasurer, whose term is one year.

Homedale played Fruitland Saturday night at Fruitland. Homedale held a lead over Fruitland until the last quarter when their opponents leaped ahead to win 50-37. Trojan high point man was Fred Dempshar with 16 points.

In the preliminary game Jaycees lost 36-23. High point man was Dunn with 7 points.

Mrs. Andrews had a return home Monday morning because of illness. Mrs. John Matteson substituted or her Monday and Tuesday.

The attendance at the high school has been cut by the flu.

The seniors sponsored a girl-date-boy Christmas dance Friday night. The theme was Silver Bells. Ronald Finn's orchestra furnished the music. About fifty couples attended.

DIVISION OF IDAHO. We are realized to believe that a memorial to Congress, asking the division of the Territory, will pass the present Legislature. Mr. Fern, member of the Council from north of the Salmon River Range of mountains, introduced a memorial for this purpose last winter and he now renews it. At present are not advised of the proposed boundaries. The proposed name last session was "Nez Perce", this time, "Columbia." Nez Perce is said to signify split or pierced noses, and is therefore objectionable as it would have neither a local nor national significance. The people of north Idaho are generally favorable to the division, and as human beings covet conveniences, their wished are fair and rational. Their distance from the Capital and difficult road to travel to reach are strong arguments in favor of the division. Even if a good road were constructed directly across the Salmon Mountains, it could be traversed only half the year. There seems to be a barrier raised by nature against the permanency of the present boundaries of Idaho. Whether the right time has been reached for the division, we will not argue, but do say that the propriety therefor is a question of time only. If the three to four thousand inhabitants in North Idaho think they can endure a Territorial Government, we think that about six times as many ought to be willing to let them try it.

INTERESTING. The annexed Eastern dispatch is too local in its significance to be covered up in our usual summary of news:

New York, Dec. 14th – Caleb Lyon, formerly Governor of Idaho, was robbed of $47,000 on Wednesday, (12th) on a train from New York, while on his way to Washington. They money stolen belonged to the Government. Lyon was conveying to Washington to settle his accounts with the Indian Bureau, as Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Idaho.

That reads as though it was a fact, and it may be such, but Caleb's source in Idaho throws suspicion upon it. It don't look reasonable that the ex-Governor had $47,000 about him under the circumstances indicated.

BURGLARY. Tuesday night, of this week, the store of Schoonfeld & Bro., in this city, was entered by a burglar who carried a six shooter, dragon pattern. The thief effected an entrance by removing a part of a pane of glass in the door next to the lock, and the key having been left in the key hole the door was readily unlocked. The fellow cut the wood away around the lock on the money drawer so that it was fully open, but it is supposed that he became frightened at something at this stage of the adventure, and left hastily, as there was some money in the drawer which was not taken.

The fellow is doubtless an adept in the business, and it would be generally safer not to leave keys in the keyhole, particularly in glass front doors. Jerry says he is well satisfied with the fellow's exploits but don't wish a repetition.

INDIAN FIGHT. J. J. McCorrall will please accept our thanks for the following letter:

Ruby Ranch, Cow Creek, Dec. 16, 1866. Friend Pony: The Indians attacked us this morning at three p.m. They had full possession of the stable before we were aware of their presence, for our dogs were off hunting the evening before and had not come home. At the first noise I went to the door and received a volley from them immediately, but did not get hurt. I found they had the house completely under fire on each side of us. The Indians got on the back part of the corral and opened a small gap and took all the stock out of the stables. We have them the best we had, you bet. We killed one and wounded others. At daylight we followed them and recaptured the cattle. I forget to say that before they left they set fire to the stable, which we put out. The house is completely riddled with bullets and quite a quiver of arrows. I find that my curiosity with Winnemucca is not at all respected. More of us hurt. They need Sharp's bullets and others. One of them spoke English well. The boys say he was a Frenchman. I think there were about twenty diggers. You may give these items to the Avalanche if you wish. Yours with good, Geo. Barny. P.S. We fought about three hours.

On the edge of common sense

Delisting Prairie Dogs

“The U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service announced that the Black-Tailed Prairie Dog will be removed as a candidate for listing under the Endangered Species Act.”

It was one of those headlines that make one shake his head in wonder. It’s like hearing George W. Bush announce that Hillary Rodham Clinton will be removed from consideration as the Republican candidate for Vice-President or comparing the A-bu-greb prison scandal to the savagery of Saddam Hussein, or hearing, “Extensive studies show that more women than men burn their bras!”

How much money has been spent, smoke created, and emperor’s clothes stolen to reach this obvious prairie dog conclusion? It’s not even the money involved...government politicians and special interest groups seem to have endless funds to dance on the head of a pin. And the media seems to have a bottomless gullibility where shuck & jive is concerned.

Don’t these folks have something better to do, like fight terrorism, make widgets or clean the horse barn? How many of you readers actually thought the prairie dog was possibly endangered? Raise your hand. Okay...two out of 200,000.

It is demeaning to the intelligence and long tradition of the Fish & Wildlife Service that they are forced into awkward positions. The same for the B.L.M., USDA, and Forest Service, trying to defend silly, goofy, or blatantly indefensible contentions of the silly and goofy.

Examples of absurdity abound: restricting grazing in a habitat to protect a plant or fish or fowl that has never been seen there. Shutting down water use on a creek to protect a fish that is abundant elsewhere.

I like to think there was a time when the disrupters, be they earnest, well meaning, devious, greedy or cuckoo, would have had their feet held to the fire of common sense. If they were found lacking they would have been educated, scolded or committed. As opposed to today where the blind hand of the government assumes that a computer programmer knows as much about shoeing horses as a farrier, that a rookie forest ranger knows as much about grazing on forest permits as a 2nd generation rancher, or that a newspaper columnist knows as much about mountain lion behavior as an experience wildlife officer.

But the way this century is taking off, it is hard to watch the loonies and the flim flam artists being treated as equals of the knowledgeable and reasonable. The big-time media seems to have no clue and quotes or prints the pronouncements of Daffy Duck and the Pet Psychic with the same reverence as they do with Thomas Jefferson and Albert Einstein.

Even Daffy Duck knows that prairie dogs are here to stay.

Open letter to Homedale School District patrons

We have sat back and said nothing about what is going on in the Homedale School District and our son Randy Potter. We no longer feel we can ignore the situation and the things being said about Randy.

Randy has dedicated his life to work with young people both in the classroom and the athletic scene. He has sacrificed many hours that he could have spent with his own family to work with your children. He has spent many Sundays at school to perform his duties as athletic director that could have been, and should have been spent with his own wife and children. Most of you have no idea of the hours needed to perform these duties. It is not a 9 to 5 job nor is it a 5 day a week job. I myself spent many years as an athletic director so I know first hand what the job consists of.

Randy has been a person of high morals and integrity his entire life. He is not the type of person that the Homedale School Board is portraying him to be. If he is such a terrible person why wasn’t a hearing held to let you know what he did? The school board does not want to answer to you people. Randy was told not to rally any support because they did not want to answer any questions. Sounds pretty strange to me since they represent you or do the represent themselves with a personal ax to grind?

Randy has been honored by his peers by being selected as athletic director of the year for the State of Idaho for the past two years. I’m sure the Homedale School Board knows much better what makes a good athletic director than those working in the field of education.

They have smeared his name and financially affected his life. They have ruined the building of a new home in your district so he and his family could become more a part of the Homedale community. This is a great reward for spending 11 years in the Homedale School District as a teacher, coach, and athletic director.

After spending 40 years in the field of education as a teacher, coach, athletic director and high school principal. I thank God I never worked for a school board that dealt with personnel the way the Homedale School Board does. Their reputation in these kind of situations is well known throughout the Treasure Valley so it doesn’t surprise me.

Not important ... but possibly of interest

When I was a kid, a half century ago, Christmas was the highlight of the year. That holiday was the only time, other than my birthday, when I got anything new that wasn’t a necessity.

Because Christmas was the major toy opportunity, I devoted a great deal of thought to my request to Santa. Such a decision required a lot of serious research. And there was only one place to get that sort of information -- the Montgomery Ward mail-order catalog.

In those days there weren’t a half dozen “super stores” in every medium-sized town. If you couldn’t find what you needed at the local hardware or variety store, you pulled out the Monkey Ward catalog. It didn’t matter if you needed a new pressure tank for the well, a new engine block for the car, new shoes or a Winchester 30-30 rifle. The Monkey Ward catalog had the item, complete with a detailed written description, illustration and price.

One of the big events of the year was the arrival of the new Ward’s holiday wish book. I immediately focused my attention on the back section of the catalog that listed every toy available on the planet.

The Wards catalog usually arrived in the early fall. That gave me nearly three months to browse and to dream. By Christmas, the pages of the toy section were crumpled and rumpled.

The electric train section of the catalog always drew a lot of interest. There were trains made by Marx, Lionel and American Flyer. Many of the engines were constructed of heavy cast metal. The rolling stock was tin or plastic. The plastic cars had detail and colors cast right in the material, a very revolutionary idea in those days. The train sets ranged from the basic five-car freight, to a replica of the famous Santa Fe Railroad Super Chief passenger train, complete with horn. The Super Chief, priced at $60 was far beyond my wildest hopes and dreams.

My favorite part of the catalog was the action set section.

Among my favorites were the Fort Apache set and the Army set. Fort Apache had dozens of tiny plastic cowboys, Indians, soldiers and horses and an easy to assemble stockade. The Army set included a battalion of soldiers, equipped with cannon, machine guns, tanks, trucks and tents.

I studied the full-color catalog pictures for hours as Christmas approached, dreaming of leading a rescue party of cowboys to relieve siege of the fort or of driving the German Panzers back across the Rhine at the head of a legion of plastic G.I.s.

Santa never did get around to bringing me Fort Apache or the Army set, although they were near the top of my Christmas want list for years. It wasn’t because my parents were pacifists. It was because the $12.95 price of an action set would buy a couple of week’s worth of groceries.

Looking back, I believe the hours spent studying the toy section in the back of the Monkey Ward catalog probably provided more enjoyment that I would have received from any of the listed items.

Dreaming often is more fun than reality.
