Local serviceman hurt by bomb in Iraq

A roadside bomb in Iraq seriously injured a Homedale serviceman earlier this month.

Although initial information is sketchy, Jeremy Fountain of Homedale was reportedly sent from Iraq to Germany where he has undergone several surgeries on his legs. Fountain's parents, Debbie and Gary Fountain, left for Washington, D.C., last week to meet their son, who has been flown back to the United States.

Debbie Fountain stated last week that she and her husband were informed of their son's injuries, but she did not have any details on his condition.

She said a surgery was performed in Iraq before her son was flown to a military hospital in Germany where he underwent several more surgeries.

"We really do not have much information on his condition," Debbie said last week.

"I got to talk to him this morning, and he sounds OK. I just hope to see him soon."

Debbie Fountain said she and her husband would meet their son at Bethesda Naval Hospital outside Washington.

Broken line

City Maintenance Supervisor Larry Bauer pumps water from a hole after a main water line broke on Thursday. The city was without water for a few hours on Thursday due to the break and some residents were without water for several hours on Monday from an unrelated water line break. See page 3 for the full story on the water troubles.

Former prosecutor run over in Nampa

Former Owyhee County prosecuting attorney Ed Yarbrough was seriously injured last week in what is being called an attack of road rage. Although Nampa Police Chief Curtis Homer, citing departmental policy, would not confirm that Yarbrough was a victim, sources close to Yarbrough have confirmed that he was the driver of the motorcycle involved in the incident.

Yarbrough and an unidentified friend were riding a motorcycle in Nampa on Thursday evening when an altercation ensued. Shots were fired and Yarbrough was run over.

Homer said Monday that Yarbrough and an unidentified passenger were riding near the intersection of 12th Avenue Road and South Valley Drive in South Nampa when heated words were exchanged with the driver and passenger of a vehicle. He said Yarbrough's passenger got off the motorcycle and approached the vehicle when the car passenger pointed a shotgun at him and fired twice. The victim was hit once in the back and head by pellets from the gun.

"From what we know, the passenger of the vehicle made a reference to sexual preference to Mr. Yarbrough and his passenger,"

Over flow

Water not only fills the culvert, but also over flows the banks of Dougal Reservoir on Juniper Mountain last spring. Road crews have been working on several sections of county roads during the summer that have deteriorated over time. Submitted photo.

Spring rains damage area mountain roads

High gas prices impact county budgets

Maintenance crews from Road District No. 1 in Owyhee County have been busy this summer repairing roads in the mountain areas of South Mountain and Juniper Mountain after spring rains brought flooding to some of the areas. On Juniper Mountain, the roadway was washed out near Dougal Reservoir for several months, but has been reopened to single-lane traffic.

Road District Supervisor Larry McDaniel said last week that construction on the roads has been ongoing this summer, and with help from several local residents, the roads have been temporarily fixed and are passable.

Near Dougal Reservoir, McDaniel said that the county will spend nearly $10,000 before the project is complete. He said the washout has been filled as much as the county can repair it, but replacing the overflow culvert

Marsing mayor encouraged by water bond forum

The City of Marsing is taking a different tact to promoting the proposed $1.7 million water improvement bond, and the strategy might be working.

Marsing Mayor Don Osterhoudt reported late last week that about 30 people attended Thursday's informational meeting at the community center. He thinks that bodes well for voter turnout for the Aug. 2 special election.

"We've done a better job of disseminating information," the first-term mayor said. "People are better informed about the water bond."

Only 118 votes were cast in February when a $1.55 million bond proposal was defeated by Marsing voters 76-42.

"We had a low turnout, and I take full responsibility for that," Osterhoudt said. "People didn't know what they were voting for and didn't know the issues."

Because of an increase in bond rates since the February failure, the new bond amount is $1.7 million.

"We may have lost $150,000 in grant money through the (U.S. Rural Development Agency)," Osterhoudt said. "There is a possibility that could be recaptured."

But the possible loss of the grant money is only part of the problem. Waiting another six months before trying to pass the bond again could cost the city two years in getting the job started, if the new bond is approved.

"By the time we do our due diligence and engineering, it may be 2007 before we break ground," Osterhoudt said. "In the meantime, the price of pipe and contractors is going up all during that time."

That could mean Marsing won't be able to do all the desired upgrades to the city's water system. The mayor said the 6-inch main pipe will be the priority, but replacing smaller pipe in the distribution system is desirable, too. The latter may not be possible if costs continue to rise, he said.

The mayor said an upgraded water system, delivering more pressure to city residents as well as more pressure to battle potential fires, would bring Marsing up to fire code. That will help with insurance rates as well as peace of mind, he said.

"In order to (bring the city up to code), we have to have all the infrastructure in place," he said. "That's pipes in the ground and storage to back up the distribution system."

Those who attended Thursday's meeting seemed in favor of improving the town's water system, the mayor said.

Osterhoudt said Marsing business owner Chris Salove received applause when he said it was time to quit studying the problem and start work on a solution.

"The general consensus I get is, 'It's time,'" Osterhoudt said. "We need to do this."

"It's past time. All we're going to do is cost us more money if we wait."

School board sworn in

Shanley elected chairman of HSD board

Former vice president of the Homedale School Board Kurt Shanley was elected chairman during the district's annual reorganization last week.

Kevin Miyasako and Ric Uria also were sworn into office during the July 11 meeting. Uria and Allen Hays nominated Shanley for the chairmanship. Hays will serve as the vice chair for the 2005-06 year.

Appointments included Shanley as the Canyon-Owyhee School Service Agency representative, Shane Muir as the hot lunch representative, Uria as the city liaison and Miyasako as the Idaho School Board Association legislative liaison.

New superintendent Tim Rosandick will serve as the local education representative.

Meetings will continue to be held at 7 p.m. on the second Monday of every month at the district office. Jim Duncan was re-appointed as the district's clerk, and Faith Olsen will continue as the district's assistant clerk. Legal notices will continue to be published in The Owyhee Avalanche.

Superintendent to review district policies

Homedale Superintendent Tim Rosandick has only been on the job for two weeks, but he has been active in researching the district's policies and said he foresees possible changes.

Rosandick suggested to the board during a July 11 meeting that the district's enrollment policy should be reviewed and asked for permission from the board to review the policy. He also recommended the board consider adding an additional insurance policy for its employees.

The administrator also requested a volunteer from the board to participate in hiring "key" positions for the upcoming school year, namely for athletic director.

"I hope that someone from the board will be included in the hiring process on the interview committee for the athletic director position," Rosandick said.

A board member designation was not made during the meeting.

Rosandick asked the board for permission to review the district's enrollment policy. He said currently the district does not allow students from outside of the district to attend the schools, but he felt the district was making a mistake by not allowing outside students. He said the district receives funding for students attending the schools, and by not allowing out-of-district enrollment, the district may be ruling out some of that funding.

"I don't feel we should overload our classrooms, but I think we should revisit the policy," Rosandick said.

The board moved to allow Rosandick to review the policy and recommend changes.

Resource officer pulled from Homedale schools

Owyhee sheriff cites funding, personnel constraints as reasons for change

For the past eight years, a resource officer has been contracted through the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office for the Homedale School District. Last month, Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman told the school board in a letter that his department would no longer be able to provide a resource officer for the district because of budget cutbacks.

Aman said he was regretful about the decision and that the officer-student and officer-staff contact was invaluable to all the parties involved.

"The commissioners have asked me to cut back wherever I can," Aman said last week. "The school has not increased the contract in three years, so each year the officer is spending less and less time in the schools. This year, we would have gone down to about two hours a day."

Aman said that, because of budget cuts, he has had to completely re-organize his department to match his efficiency with the officers he currently retains.

"I had to pull Gary Olsen (SRO) from the schools," Aman said. "That position needs someone who has a lot of law enforcement experience and training, which Olsen does, but at this time with the call load, I would have had to hire someone for that position. What the county can pay would not pay to train someone and keep someone on the payroll for just that position.

"We would have to hire a veteran law enforcement officer and what the county wants to pay, we could not accomplish (this). It is a multifaceted situation, and I didn't feel that I could properly do the job the way it needs to be done with what resources we have available."

Aman said that the school districts in Marsing and Bruneau-Grand View are charged for the hours they are requested to be there. He said there is not a real contract with the schools. He said the Homedale district would pay the county up to $12,000. The county pays anything over that amount.

Homedale Superintendent Tim Rosandick said during a school board meeting that he would meet with Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller about possibly adding an SRO from the city's police force. Rosandick said the police department approached him about two weeks ago about the position.

In the meantime, though, Rosandick said high school principal Mike Williams could seek to fill the void with someone not related to law enforcement.

Rosandick said the role of the SRO was chiefly to supervise in common areas during lunch break. But the superintendent said he has heard of no major problems on campus that would require the SRO to serve as a peacekeeper.

Perhaps the most important benefit of an SRO is building a relationship between law enforcement and students.

"We're very much open to building a relationship with the police officers of Homedale," Rosandick said.

The climate at Homedale High is not volatile, Rosandick said, so the SRO's role has a different dynamic than on larger campuses like those in Nampa and Caldwell. The Nampa School District's student resource officer program was reduced last year because of personnel constraints within the Nampa Police Department, causing concern for campus safety.

Rosandick said no such concerns have been raised in Homedale.

Line ruptures disrupt city's water

Twice in one week, water services were interrupted in the city of Homedale because of water line breaks.

On Monday, several blocks in the northwestern section of town were without water most of the day when a section of line broke on Sixth and Arizona.

On Thursday, the entire city was without water for several hours when the main line broke while maintenance crews were replacing a fire hydrant.

City Services Supervisor Larry Bauer said that many of the lines within the city are old and decaying. He said the problem is an ongoing issue. City crews had the fire hydrant nearly replaced on Thursday, but the pipe apparently burst from pressure, Bauer said.

"The problem is the system was installed so long ago, that it is just wearing out with time," Bauer said.

"To add to that, we don't have and probably will never have an up-to-date account of where shutoff valves are located. In the situation on Thursday, if we could have located a shutoff valve, we could have isolated the leak and kept water to some of the residents."

Bauer said neither leak was expensive to the city, mostly an inconvenience. He said the total cost, excluding extra labor, was less than $100.

Thousands flock to Owyhee County back country roads

Tens of thousands of people have flocked to Owyhee County’s backcountry, and each one is recorded on counters the county has installed on six major backcountry roadways. Throughout the spring and summer months, the counters track the amount of vehicles that have traveled backcountry roadways from Juniper Mountain Road to Mud Flat Road. The counters were activated on March 8 and as of last Thursday, nearly 70,000 vehicles had traveled the counted locations. Owyhee County Sheriff Gary Aman said last week that the counters located at Silver City, Rabbit Creek and Reynolds Creek were not operating for two weeks in the spring. More than 4,500 “units” traveled the Bachman Grade Road, and 23,880 units traveled the Juniper Mountain Road. On Lower Reynolds Creek, 10,094 units were counted in the four-month period. At Mud Flat, 3,833 units traveled the area, and at Rabbit Creek, 9,144 units were counted. On Silver City Road, 10,653 units were counted.

and completing the road may not be done until next year. “We have filled it as much as we can for right now,” McDaniel said. “The roads have been so soft we can’t haul anything up there. We will try to get some construction done to it next week.” McDaniel said the “tremendous” amounts of rain the area received earlier this year have caused damage to many of the gravel roads in the district. McDaniel said the district plans to install a 6-foot arch bridge and a larger culvert. He said it was reported that 6 to 8 inches of rain had fallen during an eight-day period in the area. He said the amount has never been verified, but he knew that a tremendous amount of rain had fallen during the spring months. “We have went through and cleaned culverts several times,” McDaniel said. “(Local residents) George Reed and Mike Stanford have been a tremendous amount of help in keeping the roads open and culverts clean.”

McDaniel said gas prices also have had an impact on projects this year. He said he is hoping for an increase in next year’s budget, but the final numbers have not been determined. McDaniel said he bases his suggested increase on the national percentage of increase in gas and diesel prices. He said this year he based his numbers on a 6 percent increase. County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn said the McDaniel has asked for a $65,000 budget increase in FY 2006, but that the head of the road district, commissioner Chris Salove, has recommended the proposed budget not be increased. Sherburn said last year that District No. 1 had exceeded its budget allowance of $42,000 by $16,000. She said in the 2005 fiscal year, the department has used 80 percent of its budget and still has 26 percent of the year left. This year, the road district has $47,000 in its fuel budget, of which it has already used $37,709.

√ Prosecutor

Curtis said by phone Monday morning. “Heated words were exchanged between the four and the violence escalated.” Curtis said the confrontation ended violently in a neighborhood just across the street from South Middle School, which is located at the corner of Greenhurst Road and 12th Avenue Road. A spokesperson from Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise said Yarbrough was discharged from the hospital during the weekend. Nampa Chief Detective Mike Wagner said Monday that although the altercation initially began as a confrontation over sexual preference, the attack is not being investigated as a hate crime. He said investigative reports were not complete, but for now, the department is handling the investigation as a road rage incident. Yarbrough was trapped under the vehicle and dragged before the driver stopped and backed up to dislodge him. Reports state that the suspects were driving a newer model two-door, silver sports car. The passenger is approximately 18-22 years of age, about 5 feet, 10 inches tall and 175 pounds with a medium build. Wagner said the department has a “couple” of “persons of interest,” but he said he could not release their names. Anyone with information is asked to contact the Nampa Police Department at 465-2257 or Crime Stoppers at 343-2677 (COPS).

Three Creek

By Lola Blossom

The 7 Triangle Ranch crew, consisting of Shawn Weekes, Layne Crafton, J.R. Robinson and Chase Chapin, tried its luck at the ranch hand rodeo in McDermitt, Nev., during the Fourth of July. They took their families and camped at the UC Ranch. They didn’t win any money, but said they had a lot of fun. Chandler Chapin got to go to Boston, Mass., just lately. John Crancer and Pat Metzler from Idaho Public Television in Boise have been filming the Diamond A. Ranch crew when they are trailing cattle and later branding calves. They also contacted Lola Blossom for the history of the area. Roxie Plott, who is employed at Devil Creek Ranch, had damage to her car when a deer tried to hitch a ride with her. Nola J. Mink, 46, of Boise passed away June 21, 2005, after a brief illness. Nola was born Feb. 25, 1959 in Twin Falls, Idaho, to Harlan and Elsie Mink. She was the sister of our road supervisor, Harlan Mink Jr. She is survived by her mother, Elsie Mink of Twin Falls, and, besides Harlan, she is survived by brothers Wayne (Zouire) of Albany, Ore., and Olim (Jana) of Buhl, Idaho, and stepchildren Bryon Mignanelli and Cindy Mignanelli and many nieces and nephews. Aunt Edna Pollard, Walter Colyer and Lola Blossom were happy when we were introduced by Kyle Colyer as the honored guests at the 60th anniversary party of his grandparents, Ray and Bonnie Colyer. The event was held June 25 at the Legion Hall in Bruneau. A large crowd attended and enjoyed the drinks, food, visiting and the neat slide show of pictures. The music and singing was wonderful. The kids danced right with the others, and the little granddaughter of Frank and Cindy Bachman was the best of all. The old songs popular 60 years ago were sung. Ray and Bonnie looked so gracious when they danced alone to the tune of “Can I Have This Dance Until The End Of Our Lives.” Thank you, Sara Miller of San Gabriel, Calif., for your kind words. They gave me a boost.

Hanley releases book ‘Veterans of the Owyhees’

Author and historian Mike Hanley released his sixth book last week, titled “Veterans of the Owyhees, A Tribute to Those Who Served,” which gives accounts of those who fought for freedom in the United States.

Hanley’s book tells the stories of the hardships and the good times of the United State military from the late 1800s to present time with first-person interviews from Owyhee County veterans who fought for our country.

“Bannock Chief Buffalo Horn served the military during the Sioux campaign of 1876 and the Nez Perce campaign of 1877,” Hanley recounts. “While he was away, conflict on the Bannock reservation at Fort Hall, Idaho, grew into open war. He was killed on South Mountain in a skirmish with volunteers from Silver City and Jordan Valley.”

“Those that we owe so much to were the young men and women who went to war,” Hanley says. “Some made the ultimate sacrifice and those who survived fit unassumingly back into the community. There’s the story of the vet who returned home after the Spanish American War. He volunteered, much to the disgust of his wife who figured his place was working on the farm. He hobbled into the house on crutches, he’d lost a leg, and sat down. ‘Don’t expect any sympathy from me... now that you’re back don’t think you’re going to sit around here doing nothing.’ (his wife said). I believe I know why he went to war, and it wasn’t patriotism.

“When I was a little boy, I listened to the stories from the veterans on where they had traveled and the things they had done. I was a little envious of what they had done and the places they had been. I loved listening to their stories and hope I can give something back by writing their words and saying ‘thank you’ to the ones who have allowed us to live the life we have today.”

Anatomy of a sturgeon strike

Photos by Cheryl Beeson

On the Snake near C.J. Strike

Fighting the mighty sturgeon

Catching a great white sturgeon is a challenge that draws thousands to the banks of the Snake River. At the mouth of C.J. Strike Dam seems to be a hot spot for anglers to take on that challenge. On Friday afternoon, one fisherman got his chance to hook and land one of the mighty fish.

Counterclockwise frm top:
Lee Lukenbill of Boise hooks the sturgeon.
Two bystanders helped Lukenbill land the nearly 6-foot-long fish.
The same two men take a quick measurement of the creature.
As per fishing regulations, the sturgeon is released.

Lightning sparks Idaho’s largest fire in Owyhee

High winds and dry grass is fueling a nearly 200,000-acre fire, which started from a lightning strike last week in Owyhee County.

Fire investigators are saying that the Clover Fire, which started near the Saylor Creek Bombing Range, was 30 percent contained Monday morning and is located about 30 miles south of Hammett. They said several ranch homes are being threatened and extreme fire behavior was reported.

The fire was sparked Friday evening by lightning and, on Saturday, 35 mph winds spread the flames to 180,000 acres. It has mostly burned federal lands, but some private ranches and wheat fields have been charred as well.

More than 200 firefighters from multiple agencies spent Sunday attacking the flames, and air support also has been used.

Forty engines and six helicopters have been assigned to the fire. A spokesman for the National Interagency Fire Center said fire bosses expect up to 250,000 acres of land will burn before the flames are controlled, hopefully by the end of the week.

Homedale plans big block party this weekend

Homedale’s second annual Summer Block Party is shaping up to be bigger than the inaugural one last year, and there are still three days left for organizations to get involved.

“We would like this event to be a memorable and enjoyable event for both vendors and attendees and have them all back each and every year,” a city press release said.

“We believe this event is a perfect opportunity for local organizations to have a fund-raiser or bring attention to their group. We hope local organizations utilize this occasion to their advantage.”

The party takes place from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday.

Homedale City Clerk-Treasurer Susan Mansisidor said by last Wednesday that 26 vendors had registered for the block party, up from 16 in the event’s first year. Fifteen applications had been circulated but not returned.

Groups and vendors and even show-car and hot rod enthusiasts have until Saturday morning to register to take part.

Vendors offering food and drink, handmade crafts, gifts and services will be on hand. There will be informational booths and a farmer’s market.

Free entertainment will be provided for children, including a jumphouse-jumbo slide combo.

As was the case last year, local public safety officials, including Homedale Police, the volunteer fire department and ambulance service, will participate, Mansisidor said. Mayor Paul Fink also will be on hand.

For more information on the event or how to become a participant, call City Hall at 337-4641.

Additional fire protection
Grand View Fire Chief Terry Carothers and mayor Paul Spang thank Mountain Home Fire Department spokesman Brian Reed for the department's donation of two fire trucks presented during Grand View Days last weekend.

Mountain Home donates two trucks to GV fire agency

Grand View Fire Department was presented with two additional fire trucks from the Mountain Home Fire Department during Grand View Days Saturday.

“On behalf of the City of Mountain Home and the Mountain Home Fire Department, we are pleased to be here today to present two American LaFrance pumpers to the City of Grand View,” Brian Reed told the crowd Saturday. “We have used these trucks for several years and due to grants and additional monies we were able to obtain three additional trucks and these became available. We can’t think of a better home for them, then with the Grand View Fire District.”

The trucks, a 1977 and a 1976 pumper truck, were added to Grand View’s fleet and will be in service immediately. Grand View Fire Chief Terry Carothers said the two trucks would allow his department to wait several years before they will need additional equipment.

He said the department appreciates the help they receive from Mountain Home.

“They have just built a new training center and they have invited us to come and train with them anytime,” Carothers said. “We just can’t say enough to show our appreciation. Thank you.”

“To the City of Mountain Home and the Mountain Home Fire Department, we want to say thank you for the donation,” Mayor Paul Spang said.

Westown’s wants to raise trash fees

Bill Pastoor, owner of Westown’s Disposal, the contracted trash disposal service for the City of Homedale, has requested to increase current trash collection fees by 25 cents because of the rising cost of fuel and insurance. Pastoor was unable to attend last week’s city council meeting, but the council discussed the raise and tabled a decision until he could attend.

Residents now $7.25 a month to have their garbage dumped by the company.

Of that amount, the city receives 50 cents per customer. But Homedale Mayor Paul Fink is suggesting that instead of receiving a flat rate for service, he hopes the council will approve the city increasing its revenue to 10 percent of the total amount.

Fink said the administration services for the city clerk and staff have increased since Westown’s has been issuing toters to residents who request them in the city.

Fink submitted a garbage rate survey, which showed that billing fees in local communities is quite different than it is in Homedale. In Marsing, residents pay $7.75 per month for garbage service and the city receives $1 per customer. In Wilder, residents pay $8.25 for service and the city receives 10 percent of the revenue.

Trojans' new track coach not afraid of a little work

After one conversation, no matter how trivial, you can tell Thomas Thomas is a man brimming with the drive and dedication to see a job done right.

And these days, the Homedale High School coach has a few jobs to do right.

Already gearing up for his third year as the Trojans' football coach, Thomas was handed the keys to one of Idaho's most successful track and field programs at the July 11 school board meeting.

No small feat, considering that he has just added to his workload exponentially.

In addition to taking the baton from longtime Homedale track coach Troy Sullivan, Thomas also has been retained as the freshman boys basketball coach.

No pressure, right?

"There's not at all. I'm replacing kind of a legend as far as the track world goes," Thomas said of Sullivan, who, after 21 years, left the Trojans in June for an opportunity in Caldwell. "But I also know that he wants to move on, and he's content with what he's doing."

"And I'm content filling in."

Content but not idle.

With so many hats, one would think Thomas should just jump in and take on the vacant athletic director position, too.

He flatly refuses any notion of going for that brass ring, though. He has enough on his plate.

For starters, Thomas is also trying to help the high school administration fill three assistant coaching positions on the football staff.

Thomas Thomas

"I'll look at who will be loyal and the best fit, and then see where they'll work best," Thomas said of shaping his coaching staff for a football campaign that begins in late August.

But football really already has begun for Thomas. Since July 5, he has been holding two nights of passing drills each week to work out the kinks in the offense. Wednesday nights have been devoted to working with linemen. And the school's weight room is open four days a week.

And there's still the matter of his summer football camp, which has been pushed back because of the absence of a coaching staff. Thomas said there are seven candidates to interview.

"Time's getting short," he said. "The end of July is the last day I can do a summer camp."

Two-a-day workouts begin Aug. 12.

"I'm looking forward to it,"

Going through motions

Homedale High School football coach Thomas Thomas sends players through drills during Thursday's summer workout session on the Trojans' practice field. Football is only one of Thomas' focus now that he has been named the school's track and field coach.

Ready to launch

A Homedale High School football player prepares to throw downfield during Thursday's session of the Trojans summer passing league.

said Thomas, who reports 70 athletes have signed up for the football program this year. "We just need kids to step it up and be pretty aggressive as a team and we'll be fine."

As for the new responsibilities awaiting him in the spring, Thomas really is no stranger to the work.

He served as a throwing coach (discus and shot put) during the final two years of Sullivan's tenure. Before that, he was the head coach of the Payette track and field team.

"Track is a lot more laid back (than football)," said Thomas, who plans to focus on coaching sprints and relays. "I just need to keep the kids more organized and the workouts structured, really."

"It's not stressful like football."

— JB

Homedale hires more coaches

In addition to the appointment of Thomas Thomas as track and field coach, more pieces are falling together for the Homedale High School athletic programs.

Three coaches were retained and one hired during the July 11 school board meeting.

Coaches retained included Kevin Cornwall (assistant for football), Tony Martinat (assistant for wrestling) and freshman girls basketball coach Mike Greeley.

Toni Brinegar, who has been helping run summer volleyball activities for Homedale, has been hired as freshman volleyball coach.

Homedale is still looking for a new coach for the cross country team, another post formerly held by longtime track coach Troy Sullivan.

Other varsity positions still open at press time included boys basketball coach (formerly held by Randy Potter), volleyball and tennis (formerly held by Jim Smyth), girls basketball (formerly held by Mark Weekes) and golf (interim coach Michael Williams filled in for Rich Hoyt last spring, but won't return).

THE CAMP

The second Homedale Summer Camp for volleyball will be held July 26-28 at Homedale Middle School.

Brenda Reay and Toni Brinegar will direct the camp with the help of other area coaches.

The camp includes a session for freshmen and sophomores from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. each day and a junior-senior session from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The entry fee is $20, and registration will be taken from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on July 26.

Practice for the 2005 high school season begins Aug. 12.

Trio tries to preserve Homedale volleyball

Former Homedale High School volleyball coach Brenda Reay is doing what she can to keep the Trojans' program afloat while the school district searches for a new leader.

Reay, who coaches the eighth-grade team at Homedale Middle School, has been one of the volunteers who took the helm to keep athletes interested and in shape. The program has been rudderless since the school district refused to re-issue coach Jim Smyth's contract in the spring.

"I still want to help these kids even though they don't have a coach," Reay said. "I don't want them to start the season behind."

The volleyball season is just around the corner. Preseason practice starts Aug. 12.

Reay, Toni Brinegar and former Homedale volleyball player Jaime Frelove have been running a summer volleyball program to fill the void. Breay and Brinegar are listed as directors for next week's three-day Homedale Summer Camp at the middle school.

"I'm going to focus on basic skills and footwork," Reay said.

Reay will do her share of coaching at the camp, which runs

July 26 through July 28, but she's not prepared to return to the post she held for several seasons after arriving in Homedale in 1994 from South Medford High School in Oregon. She is focused on her family and her son Bryan's rodeo exploits these days.

"I'm very torn about these kids," Reay said of her decision not to return as coach. "I've had the seniors since they were kindergarten."

"I used to be the elementary PE teacher. I just want to help them."

Reay is concerned that the seniors in the Homedale program will be denied the chance to have fun and enjoy their final year of high school competition because of the turmoil.

"My biggest fear is you have seniors who are sitting there and are not going to have a good experience," she said.

But, like any good coach — temporary or otherwise — Reay is trying to keep the morale up.

"I was talking to a senior recently, and I told her, 'No matter what happens, you've got to stick together,'" Reay said.

"I know the kids are working real hard to try to make it happen. The kids are trying to keep it together."

Marsing, Melba football teams to train together

They'll be at each other's throats on Oct. 7, but for two days this month, the football teams from Marsing and Melba high schools will work together to prepare for the 2005 season.

Marsing coach Don Heller announced last week that the varsity and junior varsity teams from the 2A Western Idaho Conference rivals will run through a three-day mini-camp in Marsing from July 28 to July 30.

Camp is open to all incoming and returning athletes registered to play at either school in 2005.

Heller says the Huskies will have their biggest turnout of players in his nine years at the helm. He's expecting 40 to 45 athletes, which beats last year's record 34.

Players will run through a skills camp and an offensive camp during two practices each day on July 28-29 and in one wrap-up session on July 30.

Practices run from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. on July 28-29. The July 30 camp will go from 9 a.m. to noon.

In addition to the coaching staffs from Melba and Marsing, there will be a coach from California on hand. Brandon Harris, a former assistant with Heller at Marsing and a one-time Melba head coach, now is the offensive coordinator at Pitman High School in Turlock, Calif.

Marsing begins two-a-day practices on Aug. 8. The Huskies, who were 1-7 a year ago, open the season Aug. 26 at 3A Snake River Valley conference member Payette, 1-9 last year.

Roping duo finishes 8th in junior high nationals

One twist of a rope is all that may have stood between local team ropers and a national championship at the Wrangler Junior High Finals Rodeo in Gallup, N.M.

Homedale Middle School student Bryan Reay and Jordan Valley cowboy Brandon Mackenzie finished eighth in with a total time of 26.76 seconds during the July 5-8 rodeo.

The duo's week started off in fine fashion as they finished third in the first go-round with a time of 11.48.

But Reay and MacKenzie came away with a no time in the July 8 final go-round when MacKenzie's rope slipped after hooking two hooves on the calf.

Still, the pair's performance helped Team Idaho to a ninth-place finish in the inaugural junior high national rodeo. The rodeo was developed by the National High School Rodeo Association as a stepping stone to the National High School Finals Rodeo, which is being held through Sunday in Gillette, Wyo.

"(The NHSRA) decided they wanted to get junior high kids prepared for high school and offer them the same exact experience for sixth- through eighth-graders that the high school kids have," Brenda Reay, Bryan's mother, said.

Team Idaho was as high as fourth in the team standings during the week.

There were about 700 cowboys and cowgirls competing in three different arenas at the rodeo, Brenda Reay said.

Bryan finished 25th in a field of 100 in boys breakaway.

Austin Clow of Melba competed in the chute dogging event.

Percifield tournament field fills quickly

The popularity of the Percifield Memorial Softball Tournament continues to soar more than 20 years after the first pitch was lobbed in Marsing.

Tournament co-director Jeff Percifield said that as many as 28 teams will register for the July 29-31 slowpitch tournament at Marsing High School. Basically, the field is full for another season.

"It's a very popular tournament," Percifield said. "Some umpires say it's the most popular in the valley."

Games start at 5 p.m. on July 29. The action begins at 8 a.m. on both July 30 and July 31. About 60 games will be played during the three-day span.

Each year, the tournament raises thousands of dollars for the Marsing Summer Recreation Program, Percifield said. The tourney began in 1983.

The tournament has been renamed the Percifield Memorial in honor of Tim and Mike Percifield, Jeff's brothers who were active in the event. The tournament was renamed in memory of Tim after his death while playing basketball in Homedale in 1985.

Mike, who served as tournament director, died last year.

The tournament also pays tribute to former Marsing High School athlete Kim Panzeri with the Kim Panzeri Award for the tournament's best all-around athlete. Panzeri's parents, Benny and Mary, donate a leather jacket each year as the award, Jeff Percifield said.

"I'm honored. It means a whole bunch," Percifield said of serving as co-director for a tournament carrying his brothers' names.

"I'm saddened by it, obviously, but it's a good thing to carry on their name and Kim's name."

Percifield has assumed the mantle as co-director with Tim Miller. The board of directors also includes Gwen Miller, Sharon VanWassenhove and J.W. and Amy Chadez.

This year's tournament features three divisions of teams on three different fields.

Percifield expects squads to lace 'em up from Marsing, Homedale, Nampa, Caldwell and Boise. In the past, teams have shown up from as far away as Winnemucca, Nev., to compete.

Trojan soccer players teach skills at camp

Homedale High School soccer coaches David Correa and Lesa Folwell showed their commitment to building strong programs in the community by staging a youth soccer clinic July 11-14 at Sundance Park.

Correa, the boys coach, and Folwell, the girls coach, sent close to 100 children ages 5-10 through drills during the camp, which was held in temperatures approaching 100 degrees.

Campers worked with high school players on basic soccer skills.

"It was great to see the boys and girls from our program take charge and share their knowledge and skills," Correa said in a press release. "The commitment the teams showed was outstanding given that a number of the high school players had summer jobs."

Correa said the clinic was a great way for the Trojans to build team unity ahead of the start of preseason practice on Aug. 12.

The coach is also aware of what a clinic such as this means to the community.

"Homedale is fortunate to have a soccer program," he said in the release. "The players know it; the coaches know it; and we appreciate the support that we have received from the community."

Alaska Salmon

So Wild It Practically Flips Over on Its Own

FAMILY FEATURES EDITORIAL SYNDICATE

Whether you dress up Alaska salmon with your favorite marinade or simply season it with salt and pepper, there's a reason why it always tastes wildly delicious — Alaska salmon is truly wild.

Born in the pristine waters of one of the world's last unspoiled coastlines, these hearty fish thrive in abundance in natural surroundings, developing the firm texture and superior flavor that make wild Alaska salmon the perfect fish for grilling and planking.

To make summer eating easy and delicious, try these simple grilling and planking tips and recipes — each recipe works great whether you use a plank or go for it straight on the grill. And you can feel good about serving Alaska salmon, as it is one of the best sources of heart-healthy omega-3 fatty acids.

Wild Alaska Seafood Grilling Tips

Preparing the Grill

- Fish cooks best over a medium-hot fire; shellfish require a hot grill.
- Make sure the grill is hot before you start cooking.
- Liberally brush oil on the grill just prior to cooking.

Grilling Fish and Shellfish

- Cut large steaks or fillets into meal-size portions before grilling.
- Use a grill basket or perforated grill rack to keep flaky fish or smaller shellfish from falling through the grill bars.
- Brush fish or shellfish with oil very lightly just before cooking.
- Always start to grill fish with the skin side up. (If the skin has been removed, the skin side will appear slightly darker.) This allows the natural fat carried beneath the skin to be drawn into the fillet, keeping it rich and moist. It's also easier to turn when the more delicate or "flesh" side cooks first.
- Turn fish/shellfish only once. For easy turning, use a two-prong kitchen fork inserted between the grill bars to slightly lift fish fillets or steaks, then slide a metal spatula under the fish and turn. Use long-handled tongs to turn shellfish.
- Cook fish approximately 10 minutes per inch of thickness. Fish/shellfish continues to cook after it's removed from the heat, so take it off the grill just as soon as it is opaque throughout. To check for doneness, slide a sharp knife tip into the center of the thickest part of a cooking seafood portion, checking for color. Remove from the heat just as soon as it turns from translucent to opaque throughout.

Plank Grilling Tips

Planking is a traditional Northwest-style of cooking using aromatic pieces of wood. It's a great way to add subtle flavors to your wild Alaska seafood.

Planking works best for thin foods like fish fillets or shellfish. The flavor comes from contact with the plank. Arrange foods in a single layer so that as much as possible touches the aromatic wood.

Easy Planked Seafood

Purchase pre-cut planks at barbecue and grill shops or some larger grocery stores. Or go to your local lumberyard and purchase untreated hardwood lumber. Do not use pine or other soft woods, as they are too resinous.

- The best wood choices for planking are cedar, alder and oak. Hickory and maple are also good.
- Presoak the plank in water for 30 minutes to 2 hours.
- Pat planks dry with paper towels and spray-coat or lightly oil one side (place seafood on oiled side).
- Season seafood lightly with an herb blend, a rub like Sunny Chipotle Rub or Terrific Taj Rub or just salt and pepper. Go easy, as you don't want to overpower the flavor you will get from the plank.
- Preheat one side of grill to medium-high and place the planked seafood on indirect (nonheated) side and close lid.

- Turn the heat down to medium.
- Check the seafood frequently for doneness after 10 minutes.
- To glaze seafood, brush on Asian Glaze or an Asian-style barbecue sauce during the last 5 minutes of grilling or planking; cover and let it cook to a sheen on the fish.
- Seafood changes from translucent to opaque as it cooks and will continue to cook after it is removed from the heat. Cook just until opaque throughout.

$115,000 school bond election fails for second time; lacked 34 votes

Lacking a two-thirds majority by 34 votes, the $115,000 school bond issue which was voted upon Tuesday by electors of Joint Class A school district No. 370, Owyhee and Canyon counties, failed for the second time.

There was a total of 470 votes cast at the polls in the Homedale high school – 302 in favor of issuing the bonds and 168 against. A two-thirds majority (or 363 votes) would have been necessary for passage of the bond issue.

Failed June 13.

The bond issue, sought to construct and equip a new eight room elementary school building. Re-roofing and repairs to existing buildings, was defeated by six votes in the original special election which was held June 13.

Because the bond issue was rejected by such a small margin the first time, school officials felt that the election was not truly representative of the wishes of all the people of the school district, since only 294 persons voted, and another election was scheduled.

Tuesday’s election resulted in a turnout of 470 at the polls and a more decided rejection of the bond issue.

Adamses return with new buses

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Adams returned Tuesday evening with two new Chevrolet buses purchased at Austin, Tex. They left two weeks ago Wednesday on a scenic cruiser Greyhound bus and spent a day sightseeing in Salt Lake City, Utah, on their way.

In the Emmett game Mausling hit a triple, double and two singles in six times at bat. Johnstone hit a homer in the sixth inning.

Walt Smith, Homedale pitcher hit a homer in the seventh against Wilder. Mausling hit a homer in the seventh also with two men aboard. Krzesnik was walked six times.

Homedale placed third in the first half season’s play, with Payette first, Nampa second, Emmett fourth, Wilder fifth and Weiser sixth.

The next game will be Friday night with Payette at the Wilder diamond. The game scheduled to be played at Weiser the following Tuesday night will be played with Weiser at the Wilder field Wednesday night, July 27.

Den 1 Cub Scouts travel to Triangle for day’s outing

Last Thursday morning Cub Scout Den No. 1 and its den dad, Denzel Waite, and several friends went to the Thompson ranch at Triangle where they surprised Tommy Thompson with a party in honor of his 10th birthday anniversary.

Guests were cub members Dennis Lee Waite, Ricky Waite, Donald Leavitt, Donald Frank, Glenn Johnson, Steve Carson and Terry Levanger; and friends Dianne Carson, John Wegman, Jimmy, Tommy and Mary Levanger, Gail Marie and Nita Jo Waite and Tommy’s sister, Mary Ann Thompson.

Den mother, Mrs. Elmer Frank, was unable to attend.

NEW YORK, June 8th. European advices state that all arms of the naval service of France are being strengthened actively throughout the country, which produces the impression that there are pending difficulties. The difficulty between Denmark and Prussia, in reference to the possession of North Schloewig, continues. France is reported to sympathize with Denmark.

ADA COUNTY. The Statesman says new potatoes are coming into market and that Mr. Rube Robbins has a splendid field of such which will be in the market early. The Rev. Mr. Miller, Episcopal clergyman from New York, arrived on the overland stage on the 12th to take charge of the parish in that place.

BILK. The Salmon City Mining News of June 30th contains this item:

One Dr. A. Turlock was to have lectured in this city on Wednesday night last on “Human Nature and the Science of Medicine.” He failed to get an audience; also, to pay his printing bill.

THE SENTINEL says cattle are being driven through the Klamath Lake country on their way from California to Idaho.

WAR EAGLE. We made a hurried perambulation over the elevation last Thursday. Passed by the Rainbow ledge, east of Webfoot Gulch, and found Mr. Waldref fully engaged in clearing the shaft of water. It is a vein of five or six feet which we’re informed assays very flatteringly. Mr. W. will have it open for inspection down forty feet in a few days.

Passing on up, we next reached the Poorman Extension Works. The lower shaft is temporarily stopped on account of water, but the upper shaft and tunnel are going into the mountain as fast as night and day work can drive them. It is the determination of the Company – we understand – to make a thorough and deep examination of their claim. The present indications are not considered discouraging.

The Poorman are exhibits much of the pure stuff sought for by millions. Free gold and silver are laying round loose. It is all right.

From the Poorman we made a cruise round the Woodstock and Silver Cord to the ridge south of Wade’s Gulch, to the Baxter and vicinity. The Baxter is the only ledge there upon which work enough has been done to show anything definite. This is unquestionably a true vein, and at the present depth of nearly fifty feet is two feet wide and of fine appearance. To what extent it bears the pure silver we can’t say, but such metal is found frequently therein. It is easily mined – no blasting being required. The shaft is timbered securely and the work done in a permanent character.

Prospecting in being prosecuted quite extensively in that vicinity. The actions of sense of the parties imply a valuable discovery. Further than this deponent knoweth not.

COUNTY ELECTION. The County Clerk has given public notice that a general election will be held in Owyhee County on the second Monday in August for the purpose of electing a Recorder, Assessor, Treasurer, Surveyor, Superintendent of Public Schools, Coroner, two County Commissioners and one Justice of the Peace for Ruby Precinct.

So far the first four officers named are concerned, we know that rightfully they will hold their offices until January, 1868. Possibly a strict and strained authoritative interpretation of the law may rob them of their rights. If the law is meant to maintain the rights of man, and is concerned as intended to operate, the officers referred to will be given their full term for which they were elected.

THE SILVER CITY Guards are an active organization. They met Tuesday evening on business, and decided to have an excursion out of town for target practice on August 1st, and to wind up with a ball in the evening. Civilians will be permitted to share the gayeties of the evening, for a consideration, and a free sight of the day exercises.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS. The work needed to be performed on Washington Street in front of the Miners’ Hotel, has been commenced and quite well advanced. A want of public labor and funds to bestow upon that place may prevent a proper amount of improvement. What is done adds materially to its width and looks.

DAILY MAIL. The welcome news was received here Wednesday evening that a daily mail service would commence on the Railroad Line on August 1st – one week from next Thursday. Orders have been issued by Hill Beachey to the agents on the road to put the stock and stations in order for the change. Wells, Fargo & Co. have already put messengers on the route and will send all treasure from Idaho. Boise and Silver cities by this line. The time from here to San Francisco is to be made regularly in four days, and from Idaho City in five. The ocean and river steamers and Umatilla Stage Line have combines and reduced the fare to induce travel on that route, but it will avail them nothing, as the extra time and expense during the time will greatly overbalance the few dollars reduction in fare; besides the reduction will probably not last during a single change of the moon. The line from Boise City via here to San Francisco being daily, there can be not possible detention, whereas a passenger at Portland may be detained several days for a steamer – as they only sail once in ten days.

We consider the lien of treasure and travel so well established that mention of it or opposition is of no account, and would not but for this periodical blowing of our Columbia River friends to get a few passengers over their route.

CATTLE STOLEN. Cattelow & McMahon have had twenty three head of large fat cattle driven off by Indians during the last week. A party went on a hunt for several days but returned with no scalps and but few of the stolen bovines. They now are making a strong exertion to get up an expedition of twenty men to go after the Indians and stock, and desire any parties willing to aid or join in the enterprise to report soon. Cattelow & McMahon will fit out ten men for the chase and hope to have the public generally do something. Next Tuesday is set for starting the expedition. The move deserves public assistance.

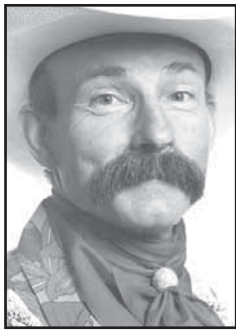

RICH TREAT. On Friday evening, the 12th, just as we finished work and need refreshments, M. L. Smith, of the Cosmopolitan Restaurant, presented the office with a pitcher of delicious ice cream and a large cake of the richest quality, finely inscribed in letters of white sugar. “EDS. AVALANCHE.” If anybody known how to get up the best of eatables, that person is Smith of the Cosmopolitan. His regular board is not surpassed by any grub shop in the mountains. Many thanks for the treat aforesaid.

PAGE, of dust and penitentiary notoriety, is again in limbo in Boise County on the old score – so says the World. How this affects the expected flow of capital into Owyhee is not generally if at all known. Just how many projected enterprises have met with chilling reverses has not transpired. It seems that Page was – just prior to his arrest – complaining of the corruption of the American People. We fully concur in the Statesman’s remarks that “the general opinion is that he is fully informed on the subjects of corruption and depravity.”

THE OPPOSITION STAGES to and from Boise City go and come regularly with full loads. We are informed that Jake Brinkerhoff has sold out his interest, but that this change will not interfere with the regular running of the line.

Line Camp Tribute

Dave is a local rancher in the mountain valleys of Central California. This spring, on May 5, 2005, he took three of his buddies into the high country to check the summer range. They four-wheeled up into the Alpine zone and finally reached the line camp at Dripping Spring.

The snow-covered peaks were melting like ice cream. The spring was beautiful; the willows were budding. It was still coat-cold. Dave checked the corrals, the little outhouse, the tool shed and the spring. To his curiosity he noticed a black bandana tied high in a birch tree that overhung the spring. He puzzled over its significance: a hiker’s souvenir? A hunter’s signal? A cowboy’s joke? A talisman? A scarecrow to drive off beavers?

He stood on his ATV and was able to reach the bandana and managed to untie it from the limb. It seemed fresh and clean, no doubt, rain and sun had laundered it well. He put it around his neck. It made him feel dashing! Inside the cabin, the larder was checked. It was kept supplied with canned goods, matches, some firewood and blankets. Notes were made on what was needed.

Dave found two cans of Miller Lite beer in the sink. “Super!” he thought, picking up and taking them out to the spring. He set them in the icy water to cool. They finished the springtime cleanup, repaired a few corral poles, replenished the D-con, nailed a shingle, re-papered the outhouse.

Dave dug one of the beers out of the cool spring and popped the top. Just as he was about to taunt his crew he heard one of the boys holler from inside the cabin. “Look at this,” his friend exclaimed, holding up the guest book that stayed in the cabin. He read aloud, “To all those who venerate the tradition of the cowboy, we, his true friends, have scattered the ashes of Charlie Blaine, one of the best buckaroos ever to work for the Dripping Spring Ranch from 1957 to 1971, over the spring as his final wish. May his black bandana wave until it frays and becomes part of the mountains he loved. And instead of a statue, in his honor he asked that we leave two cans of his favorite beer as a monument to his eternal resting place.”

The three men in the cabin took off their hats and paused out of respect. Dave walked in with the bandana covering his face like a bank robber. He crushed the empty can. The reader continued, “Date, May 4, 2005. May he rest in peace.”

It’s what we do

Elsewhere in the commentary section of this issue is a letter to the editor, in which the writer says she is “outraged” at us for reporting the fact that a local resident had been arrested for rape.

In fact, the writer states she was so upset, she would no longer even read this newspaper.

It’s understandable that she is upset. I, too, was upset when I learned of the rape charges. I know the families involved, and consider both to be friends.

She wants us to conceal the fact that someone is charged and jailed for rape? She wants this fact tucked away until after the trial?

If this philosophy were the norm, Joseph Edward

Duncan, who is charged with kidnapping little Shasta Groene and her brother, Dylan, and killing three adults, would remain anonymous. And we wouldn’t know the identity of the scum in Florida who kidnapped and buried a little girl alive after sexually assaulting her. Neither has been convicted.

When criminal charges are filed, it becomes public information. Disseminating public information is what we do. We do not pick and choose, as the letter-writer claims. And we will not compromise our duty to inform the public when someone is charged with such crimes against society.

Even if we lose a few readers.

Not important ... but possibly of interest

This is a message for the young man southbound on Montana Avenue, who stopped at the stop sign at Ustick Road, in the late afternoon of Sunday, July 3:

I was the driver of the pickup truck northbound on Montana, stopped at the stop sign on the opposite side of Ustick. I am the person who saw you leap out of your car, run around to the rear door on the passenger side, jerk it open and start hitting what appeared to be the youngest of three children sitting in the backseat.

I’m the person who heard you yelling obscenities as you knocked the youngster around. I watched as you stomped back to the driver’s side of the car, still yelling at the top of your lungs about how you weren’t going to put up with “F” this and “F” that.

I also saw the woman in the passenger seat sit there and make absolutely no attempt to stop what you were doing. And as you pulled away from the stop sign and passed me, I heard a child crying.

OK, now I want to make a couple of observations:

I don’t know if the child you were hitting was your own or if you are a “boyfriend” of the mother. I suspect the latter because I find it hard to believe any father would act and talk that way to his biological child. I’m probably being a bit naïve in assuming a kid’s real dad wouldn’t act the way you acted. My father never behaved that way nor did I when our children were growing up. Not that it makes any difference. No one, father or otherwise, has the right to treat a child that way.

From the look of you, I would guess you are quite a ways down the socio-economic scale. Maybe life is pretty tough. But that’s not an excuse to take out your anger on a child.

It doesn’t mater whether you are rich or poor. When all is said and done, when we check out of this world, the only real legacy any of us will leave is our children. Children are the most precious things any of us will ever have in our lives. They are the future. And you are the person who will set the tone for how they live their lives and how they treat their children. If you can’t understand this, or simply don’t care, you need professional help and you need it now.

To the woman in the car: Maybe you did nothing because you were afraid of getting knocked around, too. If that is the case, you should take your children and leave right now. The lives and future of both you and the kids are at stake. It won’t get any better, and it probably will get a whole lot worse. There is absolutely no justification for remaining in an abusive relationship.

And one last observation for the driver of the car: It’s probably a good thing that traffic on Ustick was fairly heavy on the afternoon of July 3. That prevented me from getting across to your side of the intersection before you got back in the car and drove off. You also are fortunate because I was so angry at what I was seeing and hearing that I didn’t get your license number. But I haven’t forgotten.

If you don’t believe you need help. If you believe it’s OK to hit little kids and scream obscenities at them. If it makes you feel superior to take out your anger with physical violence, I’ve got a deal for you.

The next time you have the urge to hit someone to show how tough you are, give me a call. My number is in the book. We can set up a place to meet and you can try to take out your frustrations on me.

“Try” is an important word here. I may be 60 years old and way out of shape, but I guarantee I will be more of a challenge than a defenseless little kid in the backseat of a car.

Letters to the editor

When I read the picture of Nathan Volk and the statement under it saying “cannot release any information because case is still under investigation.” I was outraged. Whatever happened to innocent until proven guilty? What happens if the charges are dropped or he is found innocent? He has been labeled for life.

If the investigation was not complete, why not wait until it was and then release all information? I believe things are released on a pick-and-choose basis, and I also believe this has to do more with the “victim’s” parents being friends with the Avalanche staff. As of this point, I will no longer be reading The Owyhee Avalanche.
