

Marsing's Cody Heller takes shot at Pac-10

Former Huskies standout walks on at uncle's old school, Oregon State

Oregon State University has announced that Marsing High School graduate Cody Heller will join the Beavers' football team for spring practice as a walk-on. The first workout with pads comes April 3 in Corvallis.

The 6-foot, 200-pound Heller, the son of Huskies football coach and athletic director Don Heller, participated in OSU's winter workouts, and now will take a shot at a Division I college football spring practice.

A three-time All-Western Idaho Conference linebacker at Marsing, Cody Heller classified his chances of making coach Mike Riley's

Beavers squad as "awesome."

"There are three possibilities," Heller said. "Starter, backup or special teams. There's a good chance I could play this upcoming year."

"I guess that depends on how things go (in the spring)."

The 2005 Marsing High School graduate enrolled for the winter term at OSU to preserve his athletic eligibility.

He said he settled on Oregon

State after his inquiries received no response from Boise State or the University of Idaho.

"I got a lot of offers from small schools like Linfield (in Oregon) and Redlands in California," Heller said. "A lot of small schools in California showed interest, but I thought I could do better than that."

After the snub from BSU and UI, Heller turned to a familiar face — his uncle. Ron Heller, an Idaho

Sports Hall of Fame member who lettered four years at Oregon State in the 1980s, spent five seasons in the NFL with the 49ers, Falcons and Seahawks.

"My uncle played football at Oregon State in the 1980s, and he knew some of the coaches," Cody Heller said. "And obviously, the film was good enough for them."

Early season form

Homedale gets down-home feel, five victories in its own track meet

Last week's meet was the only home event on the Homedale High School track and field schedule this season, so new coach Thomas Thomas pulled out all the stops.

"People asked, and I let them come," he said. "It's the only meet we're going to host, so I figured I'd invite a lot of people."

Fourteen schools showed up, putting more athletes than spectators inside Deward Bell Stadium. Middleton, alone, brought 90 athletes.

And the Trojans acquitted themselves well against many tough and deep teams, including all the Snake River Valley conference teams.

"I just don't think we have the team speed to compete with Middleton," Thomas said, alluding to the depth the Vikings bring to the table. "But through the maturity process, we can refine some of the (Homedale athletes') techniques."

Running to the ribbon

Marsing High School senior MJ Usabel, center, prepares to clear a hurdle during her heat of the girls 100-meter hurdles. Usabel had the sixth-best time at Thursday's meet at 18.15 seconds.

"My goal is to see these kids step up in the SRV, and see the kids stay committed in the program and build it for the years to come."

Homedale athletes won five events during the non-scoring meet, which also attracted 2A Western Idaho Conference teams

Marsing, Parma, New Plymouth and Nampa Christian as well as 1A squads from Idaho City, Cambridge, Council and Wilder.

Mark Vance won the triple jump by nearly a foot. The Homedale junior, who qualified for the 3A

Marsing vs. Homedale Trojans baseball wins in return to varsity Homedale High School's first varsity baseball game in two seasons had a pleasing result for coach Tim Fulwood.

A group of four pitchers limited Marsing to three hits March 14 as the Trojans posted a 9-2 non-conference victory on the road.

"For our first game, I was pleased how our pitchers performed," Fulwood said. "They threw strikes and made Marsing put the ball in play, which is key for us."

The game was the season opener for both teams.

"Since we are such a young team, I was pleased with our first game," Marsing coach Mark Worley said. "I saw a lot of positive things to build on, especially with our pitching staff."

Huskies softball can't cool torrid Trojans

Despite the frigid weather Wednesday, the Homedale High School softball team rode a hot start to a 21-0 non-conference win over Owyhee County rival Marsing.

"The girls came out fired up and ready to play," Trojans coach Larry Corta said. "We got some hits early on to break the ice."

The visiting Trojans jumped out to a 6-0 lead against the Huskies' Nicole Gelin as the top of the first inning. The game was halted after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Meanwhile, pitchers Corey Hall and Jessica Mooney teamed to hold Marsing (0-1) to just one hit.

"It's hard to start off with a team like Homedale because they are very experienced," second-year Marsing coach Tanya Hughes said.

Hughes is fielding a lineup with four starters who have never played softball before.

"I have a feeling when they come together and get used to playing with each other that our team is going to improve a lot," Hughes said.

Shortstop Mollee Nielsen singled in the fifth inning off Mooney for the Huskies' only hit. Homedale's defense turned a double play to end the game.

"We hit well, and we fielded well once again," Larry Corta said. "We told the girls defense wins games, and they took that to heart."

Homedale didn't make an error, while Marsing had eight miscues.

Taryn Corta and Jessica Hansen were both 4-for-5 with four runs

Huskies steam to win

The Marsing High School baseball team got into the 2006 win column in a decisive manner Thursday, crushing Wilder 16-0 in five innings.

Taylor Nielsen and Troy Dines combined to allow just two Wildcat baserunners — on a leadoff single in the first and a two-out walk in the second — in the non-conference game played in Marsing.

Nielsen got the victory, striking out eight of the 13 batters he faced. Dines closed the game with two strikeouts in the fifth, his only inning of work. The Huskies pair faced just one batter over the minimum and retired the final 10

Wilder hitters in order.

First baseman Jake Sevy was 2-for-3 with two RBIs to lead Marsing (1-1).

Catcher Sean Finley got the Huskies rolling with a two-run single in the second inning. Matt Hill (walk) and Michael Moore (hit by pitch) scored on Finley's two-out base hit.

Two Wilder pitchers struggled with their control all day, walking eight and hitting five batters.

Marsing closed out the game with a seven-run fourth inning in which the Huskies sent 12 batters to the plate. Troy Dines had a run-scoring single and Sevy drove in two with a two-out hit.

Baseball

Troy Dines, Shea McClellin and Martin Galvez — saw action for the Huskies.

Claudio Garcia started on the mound for Homedale and struck out five batters in three innings of work.

Ryan Johnson, Trevor Krzesnik and Ross DeWitt followed him to the pitching rubber.

"I thought that Claudio did a nice job for his first outing," Fulwood said. "He struggled with his curve, but had decent placement with his fastball."

"I was also pleased with the way Ryan Johnson, Trevor Krzesnik and Ross DeWitt pitched. We need all of them to step up and perform if we are going to be competitive this year."

Garcia was 3-for-4 with two runs scored for the Trojans.

The Huskies were hitless until they strung together all three of their hits against Krzesnik in the sixth inning.

Sean Finley scored on Shea McClellin's two-out double, and Troy Dines drove in McClellin with a single.

Trojans rattle off more wins

Homedale High School's baseball team ended the week with a perfect 3-0 record, and strong hitting from Ross DeWitt.

DeWitt was 2-for-4 in a 14-3 win over Melba on Friday, one day after going 2-for-2 and knocking in three runs in the Trojans' 7-4 victory over New Plymouth.

Ryan Johnson got the victory in Thursday's game.

Claudio Garcia picked up the win over the Mustangs on Friday as Brandt Graber went 3-for-3 and Josh Jolley and David Liddell collected two hits apiece.

Strong nucleus ready to lead JV track squad

by Michelle Elsner, JVHS

With three returning standouts, the Jordan Valley High School track and field team is planning for a great season.

Senior Lauren Cuvelier, who placed second in the shot put at the Oregon state meet last spring, comes into this season looking for a gold medal.

Angela Larsen (fourth place in discus at State) and Michelle Elsner (fifth-place showing in the long jump at the District meet) also return to the fold.

Newcomers include distance runner Nickie Naegle, long jumper and sprinter Catie Kershner, long jumper and thrower Kayla Cuvelier, and sprinter and thrower James Stacy.

Stacy, who transferred from Huntington High School earlier this year, is a 5-foot-9, 210-pounder who finished third in the shot put at the 1A state meet in 2005. The senior was a standout running back for the Harper-Huntington football team in the fall.

"We have a whole lot of talent for the high school," Jordan Valley track and field coach Melinda Cuvelier said. "I'm looking forward to taking up to six to State."

"They work hard and most likely will make it."

With athletes such as Stacy, Kershner and Larsen, assistant coach Jacque Naegle — a specialist in the throws — is looking forward to a rewarding year, too.

The state meet is May 20 at Western Oregon University in Monmouth. The Mustangs begin their season at 1 p.m. April 7 in the Lions Invitational in Nyssa, Ore.

Middle school

This will be a learning year for eight young men from Jordan Valley Middle School: Elias Cline, Kaine Baptist, Josh Deen, Tyler and Nathan Elsner, Taylor and Tyrel Lucas, and Blaine Moran.

"I'm just excited to see everyone out for track. They are working hard too and seem to be excited also," said Cuvelier, who also coaches the middle-schoolers.

The boys aren't sure what events they want to try. They're waiting until the weather permits outside practice before making the decision.

Because of bad weather, the Jordan Valley track team will be practicing in the gym and conditioning.

The first track meet for the middle school is April 6 in Harper.

Fire one!

Homedale High School pitcher Corey Hall prepares to release a strike toward home plate in her team's season opener last week against Nampa Christian at Sundance Park. First baseman Jessica Mooney gets set to play defense in the background.

Timely hitting lifts Homedale

Breann Rodriguez laced a two-out single to send Jessica Mooney home with the go-ahead run March 14 as Homedale edged Nampa Christian, 7-5, to win its season opener at Sundance Park. Corey Hall struck out eight and walked none to get the victory for Homedale.

"It took a while for our kids to settle down. But once Corey and the rest of the team got over the first-game jitters, things got a lot better for us," Larry Corta said. Rodriguez, who was hitting .750 after Homedale's first two games, was 3-for-4 with three RBIs. She led off the fourth inning with a triple and later scored to tie the game 5-5.

Jessica Hansen ripped a two-out triple in the bottom of the sixth inning and scored Homedale's final run on Mooney's second base hit of the day.

"Girls were trying hard to make things happen," Corta said.

Hall retired seven consecutive batters after giving up two runs in the first inning. Nampa Christian seniors Melissa Ropp and Jonelle Kamper scored the game's first runs. A shortstop, Kamper was 3-for-4, and teammate Hannah Lewis, a senior third baseman, drove in two runs.

Thievery

Marsing High School shortstop Mollee Nielsen moves to the bag to receive the throw, but she's a little late to deter speedy Homedale base runner Hannah Johnson during the early goings of last week's game.

scored as Homedale won for the second time in as many days to start the season.

Corta also ripped two of the Trojans' five doubles.

Breann Rodriguez came through in the bottom of the order for the Trojans, scoring three runs during a 3-for-4 day. Homedale rapped 21 hits against Marsing.

Hansen, Mooney, Shaunna Vaughan, Mikal Mackenzie and Kendall Rupp drilled consecutive hits with two outs in the third inning as Homedale tacked on seven more runs.

"They had a good attitude about it," Hughes said of her team's reaction to a season-opening loss, "and I don't think it got them down too much."

state meet last spring, soared 41 feet, 7 inches.

Another 2005 state qualifier, Terence Thomas, held on to win the discus competition against a field of 72 throwers. The Homedale sophomore's effort of 138 feet, 1 inch was 10 inches better than second-place Mikel Overgaard from Weiser. Thomas heaved the shot put 41-11 to finish third behind Fruitland's Chris Ingebritsen (44-0) and Overgaard (42-4).

All three athletes were among the top throwers at last year's state meet — and Thomas Thomas sees no reason why that should change this season.

"Ingerbritzen, Overgaard and Terence can go 1-2-3 at State in the discus," the coach said.

Another state qualifier, Trojans senior Cheyanne Andrade, put up good numbers after subpar workouts. She won the discus by nearly 11 feet and was second in the shot put by just seven inches. Andrade, in just her second meet of the season, exceeded her third-place State throw of 110-3 a year ago. She won the competition Thursday with an effort of 111-8.

"She stepped it up for sure," Thomas said. "She exceeded my expectations (which were) based on how she was doing recently (in practice)."

Belen Vega used the lessons learned as a state meet qualifier in cross country to win the girls 3,200-meter run Thursday.

She finished in 13 minutes flat, 15 seconds ahead of Weiser's Becca Wiggins. Vega was sixth in the 1,600.

Freshman Austin Emry, who was the Homedale Middle School male athlete of the year in 2004-05, exploded on the high school scene Thursday with a victory in the high jump. He cleared 6 feet.

But Thomas wasn't the least bit surprised by Emry, who played for the coach on the Trojans' freshman boys basketball team.

"I knew he was a good athlete just by watching football and coaching basketball, too," Thomas said.

And there probably are more athletes following Emry's spikeprints from the middle school. Thomas said Friday that 103 seventh- and eighth-graders have signed up for the HMS track team this season.

"I just know if you have that kind of a turnout, you're going to develop some real strong teams," Thomas said.

Belen Vega

Austin Emry

Homedale will see its first scoring meet of the season in Parma on Thursday. Five other teams will be on hand, including Marsing, Parma, Middleton, Weiser and Greenleaf Friends Academy.

"For me, everything is geared for district and qualifying for State," Thomas said. "And every meet is a stepping stone to improve."

Marsing athletes

Huskies senior Perry Gibson showed flashes of a good season to come, winning the boys pole vault with an effort of 11 feet and turning in the second-fastest time in the 200-meter sprint at 23.64. Gibson's time in the 200 was .26 of a second slower than the winning time of returning 3A state runnerup Adam Smith of Fruitland.

Defending 2A girls pole vault state champion, MJ Usabel began her senior season with an 8-foot effort, good for fourth place. She also had the sixth-fastest time in the 110 high hurdles, finishing her heat in 18.15 seconds.

Elisa Moreno had the sixth-fastest time in the 200 heats, crossing the line at 29.04.

Chris Covey cleared a height of 5-8 in the high jump, the fourth-best effort on the afternoon.

Three boys relay teams finished in the top six of their events. The Huskies finished their 800 relay heat in 1 minute, 40.7 seconds, while another Marsing team was clocked at 47.5 in the 400 relay. The Huskies' medley relay team finished fourth in 4:12.78.

Adrian starts track year with a few wins in Nyssa

The Adrian High School track and field team has started a new season with a new coach, but some athletes have the same old aspirations — reach the 1A Oregon state championship meet in May at Western Oregon University in Monmouth, Ore.

Juniors Sarah McPeak and Stephenie Hutchings are back with the Antelopes after placing in last year’s state meet.

McPeak finished third in the 300-meter hurdles (50.04 seconds) and fifth in the 100 hurdlers (18.14), while Hutchings was third in the discus with a throw of 106 feet, 5¾ inches.

First-year head coach Aimee Goss expected McPeak to make another run at the hurdle events.

Chris Schumacher and Brett Buchholz, both seniors, represented Adrian in the state meet last spring. Another senior, Logan Branstiter, participated as a junior with a young 4x400 relay team that finished ninth in the final at WOU.

Branstiter was joined on that team by underclassmen David Meyer, Joe Witty and Kyle Rogers.

“He’s a strong one for us,” Goss said of Branstiter.

Goss is grateful to have seniors like Schumacher, Buchholz and Branstiter around the practice track this season.

“The returning kids really help with the younger kids, like Logan in the high jump.” Goss said. “I plan on having the upperclassmen teach the younger kids how to do things.”

There are about 20 athletes out for the team this season. Adrian opened its schedule with a strong showing in the Don Walker Invitational on Friday in Nyssa, Ore.

In team scoring, the Adrian boys finished third and the Adrian girls came in fifth. Nyssa swept both team competitions.

Individually, Hutchings blew away the field to win the discus. She uncorked a throw of 103-2, outdistancing second-place Chelsey Ramos of Nyssa by nearly six feet. Hutchings finished fourth in the shot put with a throw of 31-6.

In an event contested in Oregon but not Idaho, Sillonis finished a distant second in the javelin. Ramos won with a toss of 133-4, while Sillonis was second with 87-3 — nearly nine feet ahead of the third-place athlete.

Sillonis did capture the top spot in the triple jump with an effort of 33-1½.

McPeak won the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 19.53, nearly a full second ahead of Crane’s Amy Deller. McPeak was second in the 300 low hurdles.

On the boys side, Branstiter and Schumacher finished 1-2 in the triple jump. Branstiter had the winning distance of 41-1¾, while Schumacher was measured at 40-10. The Antelopes’ Martin Riehl (seventh at 34-10½) and Mat Lorinczy (eighth at 34-8¼) also finished in the top 10.

Schumacher, a senior from Germany, placed third in the long jump at 19-1 and was fifth in the shot put. He finished second in the 100 sprint at 12.04. Kasey Erlebach of Ontario won the event in 12.03, and Branstiter (fourth, 12.19), Brett Buchholz (sixth, 12.24) and Kyle Osborn (tied for eighth at 12.43) finished in the top 10.

Buchholz was third in the 200, while Vallejo finished seventh and Riehl tied for eighth. Another exchange student, from Ecuador, Vallejo pulled in fifth in the 300 intermediate hurdles in 52.50.

Derick Rios tied for second in the high jump at 5-6.

The Antelopes aren’t scheduled for another competition until April 7 with another meet in Nyssa, but Goss said that the early contests are just for conditioning anyway.

“You try to tell the kids that the real time that matters is district and to get into State,” the coach said. “Up to that time, you’re trying to make to district and get a state-qualifying time.”

Homedale’s Josh Myers prepares to rocket a serve to Nyssa No. 1 singles player Mike Arrendondo during action last week.

Homedale tennis trounces Nyssa

Josh Myers rolled to an easy victory March 14 as the Homedale High School tennis team opened its first season under coach Mark Weekes with a rout of visiting Nyssa, Ore.

Myers, a returning player, posted a 6-0, 6-1 victory in the No. 1 singles slot as the Trojans coasted to a 5-1 non-conference victory.

“We had a good time,” Weekes said. “It was very cold. I think we will see some good things from our kids during the season.”

Chanda Cox fought hard for a 6-4, 6-8, 6-1 victory over Nyssa’s Alex Esplin in the No. 2 girls singles match.

The Homedale girls doubles team of Andrea Schwangler and Emily Verwer needed three sets for a 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 win over Megan Saunders and Mattie Barlow.

Two of the Trojans’ victories came by forfeit as No. 2 boys singles player Levi Jones and the boys doubles team of Andrew Bingham and Caleb Johnson walked on to the court unopposed.

Junior varsity

Homedale stomped Nyssa 6-1 in the junior varsity match, bolstering Weekes’ confidence in his younger players.

“We had some young kids show some early talent,” the coach said.

The JV matches were played in a pro-set format. The Trojans’ Shanae Galloway shut out Julie Hosse, 8-0, in a girls singles match. Luciana Silva and Blanca Uriarte teamed to beat Nyssa’s Betsy Hernandez and Aracely Mendez, 8-0, in a girls doubles match.

Matson Lyon won the boys singles match, 8-1, over Nyssa’s David Durfee.

Krzesnik leads Trojans to season-opening golf victory

Trevor Krzesnik

Junior Trevor Krzesnik fired a 3-over-par 39 on March 13 to win medalist honors and lead Homedale High School to a tournament win at River Bend Golf Course in Wilder. Parma was the meet’s host, but the Trojans made good use of their practice course, beating the Panthers by 10 strokes, 175-185. In the girls varsity tournament, Homedale’s Alisha Marks and Jennifer Hall posted the lowest scores of their careers, according to first-year Trojans golf coach Dave Thompson. Nampa Christian won the team title. Homedale’s junior varsity also grabbed a tournament title with the Trojans’ Ryan Garrett carding the medalist score with a 46. Homedale beat Nampa Christian by 10 shots, 202-212. Third in Weiser The Sweet brothers — Garrett and Grant — finished in the top five of all individual golfers Wednesday at Rolling Hills Golf Course as Homedale took home third place in a 10-team tournament on Weiser’s home course. Garrett Sweet was third with a 4-over-par 40. Team champion Payette was paced by medalist Collin Hershey, who carded a 1-over 37. Payette finished seven strokes ahead of Homedale at 160. Weiser was second at 165. Grant Sweet was tied for fourth after a 41. All four of the Trojans’ scoring golfers had respectable scores, with Jordan Pegram and Krzesnik each firing 43s.

On the edge of common sense

Life’s highway

I like vegetarians. I like organic farmers. I like mule people, purebred breeders, heelers, bankers, equine practitioners, county agents, BLMers, cat lovers and cowboy poets.

I pick on them all, of course, because they all, at one time or another, hold their hand up in front of their face and dare me, “Bet ya can’t hit my hand before I move it!”

But, some would say the most frequent subject of my poems and stories is cowboys. They’re right. Unfortunately, it’s like shooting myself in the foot. I’ve probably written 100 stories about cowboys getting bucked off, run over, bit, kicked, stomped, throwed, butted, drug and keel-hauled, for every one story about some wacko environmentalist or animal-rights lunatic.

I get an e-mail attack for carrying my dog in the back of the pickup on a TV show; a critical letter because I imply that farmed salmon is as good for your heart as wild salmon; indignant retorts from people who take themselves quite seriously. But cowboys, they just say, “Ya know that story where the cow jumps in the pickup with the guy? That happened to me, too.” Which goes to show, as Jim used to say, “That you don’t have to be humble to be humiliated.”

How could you not like a vegetarian? It would be like not liking a monk; a Libertarian party candidate; or a dairyman raising Jersey cows. Ya gotta hand it to ’em. They’re swimmin’ upstream livin’ life the hard way. But I admire them because they have to be true believers. Even though they may secretly buy a Holstein, eat a burger or vote for Ralph Nader. And organic farming? It’s just some hard-working folks that have found a niche! They have given up trying to save the world, they just hope there are enough people in their congregation to keep ’em in business. Kinda like the Episcopalians.

The cattle business is booming. Yet, we’ve got cattlemen fighting with each other for the right to lead the parade to the bank.

My world is plum full of hard-workin’ people, all tryin’ to keep the wolf from the door and be a good neighbor. Sometimes life’s hard, but it doesn’t mean you can’t find potholes of fun, or goofy, or silly, or kind, or caring, or poignant as you trudge along. Wade through ’em, friends, and track a little bit along the trail. It makes it easier for the rest of us.

Not important ... but possibly of interest

I was the “afterthought” of our family, born when my father was 43 years old. Because he died at a relatively young age (75), I didn’t have as much time with him as most of my boyhood friends had with their fathers. But in that relatively short period, I managed to collect some powerful memories.

Father worked hard. Operating a weekly newspaper wasn’t an easy way of making a living. I don’t remember many days when he put in less than 12 hours at the print shop, plus at least a half-day on any weekend. Vacations were few and far between because taking a week off meant hiring someone to collect the news, lay out the ads, set the type and print and mail the paper. Few individuals had all those skills.

But Dad had one hobby that was important enough to occasionally get him out of the newspaper office and also gave the two of us a common interest.

Father was a photography buff. He recorded all the important family events with his Speed Graphic camera, the kind used by regular newspaper photographers. His pictures weren’t always the greatest. But he loved the process of shooting, developing and printing pictures.

Dad processed the film and prints in a darkroom he had built in the basement, right under the kitchen. He even constructed his own photo enlarger using an old camera bellows and a war-surplus condenser lens. Sometimes he would disappear into the darkroom for several hours during an evening. I suspect the darkroom was his escape from his everyday worries.

The darkroom was “Dad’s Place,” normally off-limits to me. So, when I was about 7 years old, I was honored when he invited me to join him in his retreat.

The darkroom was really designed to hold just one person. The space for moving around wasn’t more than 3 feet by 3 feet. And most of the moving had to be done in darkness. If Dad wanted to move from the enlarger to the sink, I had to move, too.

Although film developing was done in total darkness, Dad patiently explained each step as he did it. Sometimes he guided my hands over the film hangers so I could get the feel of how the sheets of film were loaded.

Making prints was more fun because it was done under the glow of a yellow safe light. It always amazed me when Dad dropped an exposed piece of white photographic paper into the developing solution and the image gradually appeared. In the beginning, he had to hold me up so I could see what was going on. He never acted like I was getting in the way or cramping his style.

I still can smell the chemicals, photographic paper — and my father’s scent — as we stood there so close together. I remember how even though there was no heat in the darkroom, the temperature climbed rapidly because of the heat from our bodies. I remember how the paper developer felt slippery on my fingertips. Over our heads, we could hear footsteps and the clang of pots as Mom tidied up the kitchen after the evening meal.

Often we would work in the darkroom until Mom tapped on the floor — the signal that it was time for me to come upstairs and go to bed.

Before I finished grade school, Dad allowed me to develop film and prints by myself. But it wasn’t as much fun as being wedged into that small dark place with him.

When I think about those smells and sounds of long ago, I’m not 60. I am 7 years old again, standing next to my father in that tiny darkroom, in the basement, under the kitchen, making memories.

Idaho agriculture Mapping the future of U.S. farming

by Frank Priestley

The American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) recently enlisted a group of volunteer farmers and ranchers from across the country to develop a vision for the future of U.S. agriculture.

The group of 23 farmers and ranchers from as many different states was charged with evaluating how American agriculture should look in 2019 — the 100th anniversary of AFBF — and given that vision, to develop policy recommendations to make the sector productive and profitable. The effort was titled “Making American Agriculture Productive and Profitable” or MAAPP.

The MAAPP committee vision for the future of agriculture was developed over the past two years and is one in which the American farmer and rancher can compete in a global market-oriented economy — where producers make production and marketing decisions based on non-trade distorting market signals. In this scenario, there will be a change in the role of government as it relates to farm and food policy. Government policy will include the provision of a farm safety net, but will not provide a primary source of revenue for production agriculture.

The main challenges include globalization, increased regulation, tight federal budgets and urban encroachment. According to the report, some seek to change the future while others simply endure a future thrust upon them. The MAAPP committee chose to seek to shape our future.

After dozens of meetings with leading economists, trade experts and others, the most important and driving conclusion reached by the committee is that government support for agriculture will look very different in 2019. Domestic budget pressures already have triggered calls for reductions in farm program spending, a trend that will persist for several years. International pressure to reduce spending and change the way in which the U.S. supports agriculture also will drive change. The current U.S. farm program already has been successfully challenged in the World Trade Organization (WTO) and more countries are lining up to bring further complaints against it. In short, the fundamental paradigm shift is that the current structure of farm programs will no longer prevail in 2019.

One of the paradigm shifts identified by the committee is that agricultural marketing goals will change as farmers and ranchers learn to produce what they can sell and not simply sell what they produce. Others include that the structure of agriculture is moving away from the middle. In 2002, 143,000 farming operations produced 75 percent of the value of all agricultural output. It took 2 million operations to produce the remaining 25 percent. Global trade will be a key vehicle for future profitability in agriculture, but the U.S. is not guaranteed the driver’s seat. And environmental issues will shift more toward market-driven actions that are used to achieve environmental benefits.

The 156-page report identifies dozens of challenges and opportunities that American farm and ranch families will face in the coming years. For more information, contact the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation at (208) 239-4292.

From Washington Idaho women make their mark in world

by Sen. Mike Crapo

While she was putting her 11 younger siblings to bed, word reached the house: the British were burning Danbury, Conn., 25 miles away. Sixteen-year-old Sybil’s father was colonel of the local militia, and his men lived throughout a wide area around their hometown of Fredericksburg, N.Y. The responsible young patriot knew what to do. Convincing her father to let her go, Sybil rode her horse 40 miles that dark April night in 1777 to sound the alarm. The men she roused from sleep arrived just in time to drive the British back to Long Island Sound. Although her midnight ride occurred two years after Paul Revere’s, Sybil Ludington’s covered almost twice the distance.

Almost 230 years later, the Space Shuttle Discovery was in a controlled freefall at 17,000 mph, many miles above the Earth, upside down and backwards, with outside temperatures reaching 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. At Mach 25, Cmdr. Eileen Collins flipped the 4.5-million-pound craft back over and executed a few turns to slow to speeds required for landing 28 minutes later on a 3-mile runway in the California desert. Fifteen minutes and 1,000 miles out, she and her crew were hurtling 10,000 mph through Earth’s atmosphere. One minute before touchdown, Discovery was dropping at a rate seven times steeper than that of a commercial airliner. Sixty seconds later, Cmdr. Collins completed the 114th space shuttle mission, her second as commander. Collins’ comment to the press: “It’s just been a wild ride.”

I suspect Sybil Ludington may have had a similar sentiment when she returned home that chilly April night two centuries earlier.

These accomplishments represent just two remarkable examples of American women in history, and Idaho has its own (continually growing) list of accomplished women:

You’ve undoubtedly heard of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony, pioneers in women’s suffrage. Did you know that Abigail Scott Duniway, a rancher from Arco, was elected Vice President of the National Woman Suffrage Association in 1884? In 1896, Idaho was the fourth state to grant voting rights to women.

Many of us know Clara Barton, the founder of the American Red Cross. What many may not know is that six female Yeomen in the Navy Nurse Corps in World War I were Idahoans.

In Idaho, more than half of privately held businesses — more than 74,000 — have women who are either majority owners or own 50 percent interest. In fact, the financial savvy of Idaho’s women goes back many years. In the 1880s, May Arkwright Hutton became a wealthy investor during the early mining years of Coeur d’Alene and the Silver Valley. A fiery advocate for women’s rights, May circulated her message to men in an unorthodox manner: “clap ’em on the back, pass out cigars, and swap stories with ’em.”

On the other end of the personality spectrum, but no less possessed of incredible inner strength and conviction, Idahoan Eliza Spaulding survived the Northwest wilderness to establish formal education in Idaho in 1836.

Sacajawea is perhaps Idaho’s most famous woman. Kidnapped from her Lemhi Shoshone tribe, she passed back through Idaho, assisting Lewis and Clark. Her strength, patience and knowledge saved both the lives of the men and the expedition itself.

Idaho women have a remarkable legacy. Those who don’t make the history books are no less noteworthy than those who do. If you could ask any of these women, “famous” or not, about their life experiences, the words of Cmdr. Collins might echo clearly: “It’s just been a wild ride.”

March is Women’s History Month and a great time to appreciate our tremendous legacy.

Accuracy in Media U.S. should know UN plan on Iran nukes will affect Israel’s program

by Cliff Kincaid

Despite claims that the United Nations is coming to grips with the threat posed by the Iranian nuclear weapons program, the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) resolution that recommended U.N. Security Council action over that program contained a clause affirming a nuclear-free Middle East. It effectively mandates the dismantling of Israel’s secret defensive nuclear weapons arsenal if anything is done about the offensive Iranian program. The resolution was portrayed by our media as a great victory for the U.S. when it was a deadly trap.

Members of the Bush administration talk tough and repeatedly express the hope that the “international community” will do something about Iran. But the U.N. always has been an anti-Israel body, and it is apparent that the Security Council never will authorize military action against Iran as long as Israel has its own nuclear weapons program. These are facts of life, based on an analysis of the U.N.’s history of dealing with Middle East affairs, which few people want to acknowledge.

It’s important to note that some don’t believe in putting pressure on Iran to abandon its nuclear weapons program. Thomas P.M. Barnett, the author of “The Pentagon’s New Map: War and Peace in the Twenty-First Century,” writes that “I choose to see Iran’s reach for the bomb as possibly the best thing that’s happened to the Middle East peace process in decades.”

Barnett is not a leftist by any stretch of the imagination. His bio says that he has been a Senior Strategic Researcher and Professor in the Warfare Analysis & Research Department of the Center for Naval Warfare Studies at the U.S. Naval War College.

Barnett says that Iran’s possession of nuclear weapons would level the “playing field” by “finally allowing the Muslim Middle East to sit one player at the negotiating table as Israel’s nuclear equal.” He predicts, “Iran will get the bomb, no matter how the United States or its allies seek to prevent that outcome.”

He urges a “grand bargain with Iran” in which “Iran gets the bomb, diplomatic recognition, the lifting of sanctions and the opening of trade, and its removal from the axis of evil.” In return, Iran is supposed to stop supporting terrorism and will recognize Israel.

In a leap of faith, Barnett believes that Iran wouldn’t use its nuclear weapons. He asks, “In which scenario do you think Tehran might risk it all by sponsoring a terrorist WMD strike against Israel or the West — when it has something to lose or nothing to lose?” The flaw in his thinking, of course, is the failure to take into account the religious mind-set of the Iranian president and his top advisers. Barnett seems to assume that the Iranian leaders are rational.

Former President Jimmy Carter has taken a similar approach. Carter has said, “While the international community is justified in exerting strong pressure on Iran to comply with the Non-Proliferation Treaty, there is no public effort or comment in the United States or Europe calling for Israel to comply with the Non-Proliferation Treaty or submit to any other restraints. At the same time, we fail to acknowledge what a powerful incentive this is to Iran, Syria, Egypt and other states to join the nuclear community.”

What Carter seems to be saying is that Israel must be disarmed of its nuclear deterrent as part of the process of stopping the Iranian nuclear weapons program. That is the U.N. approach as well.

Those who think the U.N. is prepared to take action against the Iranian nuclear program, without doing anything about Israel, should consult a Feb. 2, 2005, article by Mohamed ElBaradei, the director-general of the U.N.’s International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA). In the article, published in the Financial Times, he argued that “all parties” in the Middle East should pursue “a dialogue on regional security” that would ultimately result in “a nuclear weapons-free zone.” That approach was reflected in the resolution on Iran that came out of the IAEA on Feb. 4.

The point is that it’s never been U.N. policy to focus exclusively on Iran. Israel always has been seen by most U.N. members as the real problem in the region. At the end of the process, it is possible that the Jewish state could embrace a U.N. plan for Middle East peace, including a nuclear-free Middle East, or it could launch a military strike on Tehran in its own self-defense.

What is abundantly clear is that the U.N. has never had a plan to single out Iran and actually stop its nuclear weapons program. It’s foolish for the Bush administration to pretend otherwise.

County Fair Dates set for August 23-24-25 here

The Owyhee county fair will be held on August 23, 24 and 25, the fair board decided at a meeting at Grand View last week.

The board discussed construction of a new livestock barn at the grounds prior to this year’s show.

The Homedale Junior chamber of commerce was given the go ahead to hold a spring race met at the fair grounds track this spring.

Jaycee members were also present to discuss their improvement project of lighting and turfing the arena infield with the board.

Arrangements were made with the Idaho Power company for moving power poles on the grounds so that the national guard can go ahead with construction of the new armory.

Contact for moving a building which will hinder completion of fencing project at the new armory, has not been let, although bids were called last December. Only one bid was received at that time and it was not accepted.

A discussion was held on scramble and dairy calves given last year. Various committees reported.

Baseball practice now in progress; squad listed

Baseball practice at the high school is now underway with a lot of new prospects on the field as well as most of last year’s lettermen.

Coach Deward Bell has given the following prospective positions for the non-scheduled practice game that he hopes to get with St. Teresa’s here next Tuesday:

Coach Bell says his team may be handicapped by a shortage of experienced pitchers, but he has hopes of developing some pitching talent if his rookies can overcome their wildness and begin finding plate.

Homedale locals

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Myers and daughter, Elaine of Boise were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carson from Jordon Valley called on Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Carson and Kelly Sunday and went n to Huntington, Ore., to call on Mr. and Mrs. Grant Carson and then to Baker, Ore., to visit at the Clifford Paugh home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Townsend and twins, Barbara and Betty, of Eugene, Ore., visited from Wednesday until Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend.

March 21, 1868

NEW POST OFFICE. A new Post Office, named Washington, has been established at Warren’s Diggings, in Idaho County, and the Lewiston and Florence mail service extended thereto.

STAGING TO WILLOW CREEK. Parties desirous of going from here to Willow Creek can now travel the entire distance per stage: By Hill Beachey’s Line to Boise City, thence by John Haley’s Pioneer Stage to Old’s Ferry; from which place Brown & Lindsay’s new stage line completes the distance to the mines.

INDIAN MASSACRE. Again we are compelled to chronicle another of those terrible outages that during the last four years have been so common in our midst. Again an industrious citizen has been brutally murdered and added to the bloody list of savage atrocities. On Wednesday, the 18th inst, as a Mr. Jarvis, from Boise Valley, was bringing a wagon-load of vegetables to this place, he was killed by Indians in the Canon between Carson’s Ranch on Reynold’s Creek, and Fruit’s Ferry, on Snake River, the same locality where the stage was attacked and three men killed about a year ago. There are but few facts known in relation to this last bloody deed, as there are no living witnesses except the murderers themselves. From a gentleman named McDowell, who was the first to come along afterwards, we learn the following particulars: Mr. Jarvis crossed Snake River in the morning on the same boat with the stage, which was also coming this way. He had a span of horses and light wagon loaded with potatoes, cabbages, eggs &c., intended for this market. He followed after the stage, which was probably an hour ahead of him at the time of the attack, supposed to be about noon. Mr. McDowell came along the next morning, and when above two miles below the scene of the murder he discovered moccasin tracks apparently by two Indians in crossing the road. Proceeding up the canon, he found the remains of the wagon, which had been burned; the vegetables were scattered round and the eggs broken. A short distance above the wagon our informant noticed some blood in the road, and apparently where a scuffle had ensued. Supposing the some one had been killed, and probably not being quite sure of the safety of his own scalp, he passed over the summit. Meeting the return stage, Mr. McDowell accompanied it back to the spot where the wagon was burned near which the body of Jarvis was found, stripped naked, but not mutilated – not even scalped. He was shot in the lower part of the abdomen and in the breast. Of course the horses and everything the Indians could appropriate were taken away. The body was put on the stage and taken down to the Ferry. We have been unable to learn aught of the history of the unfortunate man. It is supposed that a Chinamen was killed or taken prisoner the same day, as he left Reynolds Creek en route for Boise City that morning and has not since been heard of. There were probably not more than four Indians in the murderous band. One evening, about the beginning of the week they took away a cow from Carson’s Ranch and nearly succeeded in effecting an entrance to a stable containing a number of horses. It is thought that the fiends intended to attack the stage on the morning in question, but there being a large number of passengers they feared to make the attempt.

WHY? Last November General Elliot issued several military orders for the protection of travel: among others was one providing a mounted escort for the stage to and fro through the Reynolds Creek Canon, which was accordingly done for a time: but they were taken away again and the road was left without protection and why was it? Why is it that soldiers are kept in the barracks at Fort Boise where they are of no earthly benefit, and our lines of travel left unprotected? Had the soldiers not been taken away from the canon it is more than likely that the late horrible tragedy would not have occurred which makes eight men that have been killed by Indians on that portion of the road. Was it fancied because no Indians were seen while the escort was there that the danger was over? Of course the bloodthirsty fiends would not show themselves while there was ample protection, the object of which was to keep them away.

NEW SALOON. N. P. Beck has fitted up a cozy little saloon, next door below City Hotel where those who favor him with a call can get a nice drink or smoke a fragrant cigar.

THE WEATHER. It snowed and drifted the early part of the week, then cleared up and was warm and pleasant. Quartz hauling continues and stages arrive regularly. Clouded up and raining was we go to press.

THE POTOSI. We visited the Potosi this week. Found everybody busy and highly elated with the richness of the mine. In the main tunnel eighty feet from the mouth, a shaft is down fifty-four feet, from the bottom of which a drift has been run north sixty feet. In this drift is where the recent rich strike was made. The ledge varies in width from fourteen inches to two feet. Stopping is going on between the upper and lower drifts and ore of immense richness is being taken out, richer than was ever before found in the mine. On the dump we noticed about twenty tons of quartz, that is properly worked should turn out quite a snug fortune in itself. The ore contains considerable gold, but is chiefly remarkable for its richness in silver, in the form of black sulphurets. In some of it, also, can be seen pure native silver, and in some instanced beautifully crystallized. Judging from the manner in which the mine has improved from the surface downwards, it is evident, that by sinking on the ledge in the lower drift, it would be found to increase in width and richness. No mine in Owyhee possesses better or more convenient facilities for working. Situated as it were almost in town quartz can be hauled there from the year round. Starting on a level with the creek Long gulch, a tunnel can be run in on the ledge, which would effectually drain the mine and give unlimited scope for working.

CHANGING THE NAME. We stated last week that there was a movement on foot for changing the name of Silver City, which we think would be good policy for the following reasons: Our people are frequently put to great inconvenience by having their mail matter carried to Silver City, Nevada or Montana, and mails designed for those places have several times, come here. This often occasions serous delays in matters of importance and can be obviated by a change of name. Several names are spoken of among which are Ruby, Poorman, Golden Chariot, Ida Elmore, and a boost of others but the last objectionable on is War Eagle. A new and very appropriate name promising the much needed merit of not having its counterpart in every c un y on the coast. In order to make the change the people must get together and agree upon a name and then petition the Legislature next winter. The name of the Post office could be changed sooner by addressing a petition to the Postmaster General of the United States. In our next issue a meeting for the purpose will probably be announced.

PERSONAL. Judge Roseborough came over from Idaho City a few days ago. We understand that the Judge and Col. Preston will establish a law office and locate permanently in Silver City. Hope so; they are sterling men, and no abler or more reliable lawyers can be found in this Territory.

FROM FAIRVIEW. A. D. Miller has moved into his large hotel recently erected at the new town of Fairview on the Oro Fino Mountain and is now prepared to accommodate transient and permanent patronage with bed and bread. Give him a call when you go on the mountain.

Charley Ingram has also started a dead fall up there opposite the hotel; so if you feel tired after climbing the mountain call on Charley and he will fix you up a dose warranted to kill or cure.
