Huskies prep for Pilgrims

N.P., Marsing
meet Thursday
for first place

A Big Three in the scoring column hasn't translated into many easy victories for the Marsing High School boys basketball team this season. And, frankly, first-year coach Jake Walgamott might be getting a little tired of it.

The Huskies dodged a bullet Jan. 16 with a 42-41 2A Western Idaho Conference victory at home over Nampa Christian.

"We are proving to ourselves that we can win the close ones," the coach said after a one-point win over the Trojans. "I am just ready for us to win big."

Maybe Walgamott will just settle for a big win this week as the Huskies (12-2 overall) plays host to New Plymouth (10-4 overall) in a showdown of

Trojans search for varsity coaches again

The turnstile is spinning again in the Homedale High School coaches' office, but not every vacancy sits in a vacuum of controversy this time around.

Trojans athletic director David Hart said last week that the school is trying to drum up some applications to fill the varsity positions for the girls soccer team and the volleyball team after Lesa Folwell and Maleta Henry resigned last month.

Hart said the jobs are being advertised on the Homedale School District Web site (homedale.schools.org) and the state Department of Education site, but candidates were slow in coming forward.

He also said last week that the school has a batch of candidates interested in the Trojans football coaching job vacated by Thomas Thomas after last season. Hart said anyone interested in either the volleyball or girls soccer job could call him at the school at 337-4613 or download an application at the district Web site. The application period closes Feb. 1.

Folwell, the only girls soccer coach the team has ever known, resigned to focus on her daughter's senior season with the Vallivue soccer squad next year.

Greeley: Homedale girls are peaking at right time

Strong showing against Weiser points
Trojans toward district tournament

For two years, Mike Greeley has embraced his team's underdog status.

And for two seasons, the Homedale High School girls basketball squad has defended its pride fiercely with gutsy performances down the stretch.

"I gave them a motivational talk (Friday) morning and read what Channel 6 said," Greeley said. "(Channel 6) said we're the underdogs."

The Trojans took that speech and nearly rammed it down the throat of visiting 3A Snake River Valley conference-leading Weiser on Friday night.

But Weiser wore down the Trojans after the break and managed to pull out a 51-42 victory. The Wolverines took control with a 17-8 run through the third quarter.

For 22 minutes, Homedale looked poised to snatch an upset victory from the taller Wolverines, owning a two-point halftime lead.

"Basically we were playing one of our best games of the season," Greeley said. "We were tired, but so was Weiser because it was starters against starters the whole game."

With leading scorer Jordan Warwick sidelined with a twisted ankle, Homedale relied on quick hands and a tough defense to smother Weiser's taller lineup and hold the Wolverines without a basket for nearly the first six minutes of the game.

Senior wing Christa Tolman hit a jump shot with 2 minutes, 8 seconds left in the first quarter to put Weiser on the scoreboard. To that point in the game, the Trojans had only scored two baskets themselves and clung to a 4-2 lead.

Junior guard Taryn Corta was one of the Trojans showing off quick hands, and teammate Rachel Wheeler was equally fast early in the second quarter as Homedale kept pace with Weiser.

Hot Fruitland boys burns Homedale frosh

Homedale High School's freshman boys basketball team fell victim to a hot hand Saturday night in a 52-37 3A Snake River Valley conference loss to Fruitland.

The Trojans (8-6 overall, 0-3 3A SRV) trailed by just a point at halftime.

"One of their perimeter players got hot in the second half, scoring 12 in the third and 9 in the fourth," first-year coach Jason George said.

Alex Mereness scored 11 points to lead Homedale. Teammate Justin Harrell chipped in nine points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

"The kids played hard and are getting better with each week," George said.

Raiders clinch top seed to district

Rimrock girls cruise past GFA to win 1A WIC South regular season

Their coach didn't say a word, but Rimrock High School girls basketball team's players achieved the first major milestone of the season Thursday in Greenleaf.

Shelby Chandler scored 21 points to lead three players in double figures as the Raiders beat Greenleaf Friends Academy 52-38 to wrap up the regular-season title in the 1A Western Idaho Conference South and locked down the division's top seed into the 1A District III tournament, which starts Feb. 3 in Meridian.

"We've got a bunch of young kids," first-year Raiders coach Mike Chandler said.

"The kids were so nervous in the locker room before the game."

Rimrock (10-0 1A WIC South) pounded Dietrich 61-26 on Friday to end the week with its 18th consecutive victory to start the season.

Obviously, the butterflies didn't get in the way once the ball dropped to start the showdown with the second-place Grizzlies (9-8, 8-2 at week's end).

"They shot really well," first-year Greenleaf coach Bruce Johnson said.

"They're going to win a lot of games if they shoot like that. It had to be up there, like 60 or 70 percent."

The collective hot hand early came in handy by halftime because the Grizzlies had tried to climb back into the game. Rimrock outscored Greenleaf, 19-5, in the first quarter and led 32-20 at the break.

"They played us tough the whole game," Chandler said of Grizzlies. "Defensively, they were in our face."

Freshman Jackie Thurman, one of the butterfly bunch before the game, settled in to score eight points and grab 11 rebounds.

Fellow ninth-grader Anna

Cantrell snagged seven rebounds.

Kaile Murray and Ellie Cantrell chipped in 11 points each.

Michelle Gooding hits two 3-point goals to lead Greenleaf with 16 points.

Katie Morse fired in two treys as part of her 10 points.

Rimrock 60, Notus 12

Murray, who has been one of the Raiders' leaders in assists this season, got a little selfish Jan. 15, and it paid off for Rimrock.

Murray erupted for a season-high 22 points to nearly double the Pirates' team output in a 1A WIC South game played in Bruneau.

"These kids are very unselfish," Mike Chandler said in explaining how, with her teammates' help, Murray went from dishing the points to piling them up.

Murray entered the game averaging 3.8 assists a night, and began the week as the Raiders' fourth-leading scorer with 10.1 points a game.

Kaile Murray

Rimrock's top two scorers — Shelby Chandler and Ellie Cantrell — also reached double figures against Notus. Each scored 10 points, with Cantrell pulling down 11 rebounds to complete a double-double.

Rimrock jumped on Notus for a 15-2 lead after the first quarter and held the Pirates to just a free throw in the third period.

The Cantrell family snagged 20 of the Raiders' 43 rebounds as Ellie's younger sister, freshman Anna, collected nine boards.

Rimrock 61, Dietrich 26

Shelby Chandler scored 19 points Friday to pace three players double-figures as the Raiders dispatched Dietrich in a non-conference game played in Bruneau.

Chandler drilled three 3-pointers, while Ellie Cantrell canned a trey on the way to 16 points.

Cantrell's younger sister, Anna, snagged nine rebounds, including six on Dietrich's glass.

Thurman blocked five shots and grabbed four of her five rebounds on the offensive side while scoring 14 points.

Change in weight doesn't slow Ensley

Former Homedale High School wrestler Jeremy Ensley, left, wrestled up a weight class Friday in Northwest College's dual meet against the University of Great Falls (Mont.) in Powell, Wyo. The freshman ran away with a 10-3 victory over 133-pounder Josh Henderson from Frenchtown, Mont. Trappers coach Jim Ziegler moved Ensley because Great Falls forfeited the freshman's normal weight class (125). Both Northwest and Great Falls have been nailed by injuries this season, forcing shuffled lineups. Ensley's victory in unfamiliar territory couldn't help the Trappers, who lost the dual to visiting Great Falls 24-21.

unbeaten 2A WIC squads. Both are 4-0 heading into Thursday's game in Marsing.

Marsing 42

The Huskies maintained their perfect conference mark when the Trojans' Matt Meservy missed an off-balance shot late in the fourth quarter, Nampa Christian has been struggling this year but seemingly circled the Marsing date in red on the schedule.

"We came out on fire offensively, so did NCHS," Walgamott said.

Shea McClellin scored 12 points and grabbed 12 rebounds for the Huskies, while Johnathan Cossel dropped in 10 points, including a clutch 4-for-6 showing from the foul line.

Aaron Salvias was limited to just six points and played less than 16 minutes because of foul trouble.

Marsing held a 20-18 lead at halftime as Salvias scored four of his points in the final 2½ minutes.

"I think they matched us evenly in the third quarter," Walgamott said. "Both teams played tough defense in the fourth. We just happened to come out on top."

Nampa Christian actually outscored Marsing 8-7 down the stretch. The Trojans shot 31.4 percent (16-for-51) in the game, rebounding from a 20 percent showing (6-for-30) in the first half.

"I think our defensive effort is what kept us close," Walgamott said. "We shot poorly and got out-rebounded for the first time all year."

Marsing shot 30.2 percent for the game (16-for-53), but hit only eight of 32 shots (25 percent) in the first 16 minutes.

Donnie Heida grabbed six rebounds and Meservy and Michael Siegersma had five boards apiece to fuel the Trojans' 44-39 edge.

Nampa Christian's control in the paint allowed the team to shut down the Huskies early and climb back into the game. Marsing led 12-5 at the end of the first quarter, but 2 1/2 minutes into the second quarter Nampa Christian had pulled to within a free throw 12-11.

Heida led the Trojans with 18 points, while Meservy scored 10.

Marsing 65
Cole Valley Christian 55

Life for the Huskies got a bit easier Friday in Meridian against the host Chargers. McClellin scored 22 points before fouling out to lead three players in double-figures for Marsing.

Salvas buried a pair of 3-point goals on the way to 12 points, and Miguel Quebrado sank four of eight free throws as part of his 11 points.

After losing the battle of the backboards against Nampa Christian earlier in the week, the Huskies crushed the Chargers on the glass. McClellin had nine rebounds as Marsing held a 46-22 edge, including out-boarding Cole Valley by more than a 2-to-1 margin on the Chargers' end of the floor.

Jay Seals scored 16 points to lead three Chargers in double digits.

✓ Girls: Despite loss to league leader, coach optimistic of team's chances

and a layup three minutes into the second quarter to give the Trojans a 10-8 lead.

With 1:43 left in the half, Mandy Brasher hit an inside jumper for a 12-9 Homedale edge. Brasher finished with 10 of the Trojans' 29 rebounds.

Kendall Rupp also scored 11 points for Homedale.

Junior guard Annie Hafer led all scorers with 19 points for the Wolverines.

The Trojans are showing signs of a late-season surge similar to what they pulled off last season. With the 3A District III Tournament set to start Tuesday in either Weiser or Fruitland, Homedale couldn't have picked a better time to start a push.

"I hope it happens this year," Greeley said of the breakthrough that the Trojans have threatened for two seasons. "I'm seeing some bright spots, and Mandy and Corey (Hall) are figuring out how to score against people who are taller than them."

Hall scored 10 points and Brasher chipped in nine in the Trojans' 33-21 victory over Payette on the road Jan. 16.

Greeley said that although the Pirates are winless in the 3A SRV this season, they have height that could have given the Trojans some problems.

The Trojans opened against Payette similar to their first half against Weiser, but the difference in the week's first game was the Pirates couldn't keep up. Homedale led 20-4 at halftime.

"We turned the ball over too much. We gave up too many offensive rebounds for putbacks, and we played poorly in the second quarter," Payette coach John Kowatsch said.

Three of Brasher's team-high eight rebounds came on the offensive end. She had four defensive rebounds in the first half as the Trojans outplayed the Pirates.

Kowatsch said the Pirates played better in the second half, but by then Homedale had complete control, even without Warwick.

Warwick twisted her ankle in the third quarter of Homedale's 47-41 loss to Fruitland on Jan. 11, but not before scoring 14 points in one of the Trojans' best efforts of the season. The senior missed both games last week.

"I felt good because we held our own without Jordan," Greeley said of the Fruitland game. "(Her injury) could have been the difference."

Greeley Warwick and Alisha Marks, who has been ineligible to play, both will be in uniform for the final two games of the regular season.

The Trojans seemingly gained some confidence from their performance against the Grizzlies in hostile territory. They trailed 35-32 after three quarters against a team that could wind up being the top seed in the upcoming district tourney.

Before the Weiser game, Greeley even speculated that a good showing against the Wolverines, coupled with a fantastic finish in the final week against McCall-Donnelly (Thursday on the road) and Fruitland (regular-season finale at home Saturday) would put the Trojans in a good position for the postseason.

"I think my girls are playing great," Greeley said. "We're poised in a great position for district, and if we can get the stats up in respectable numbers, it's easy wins for us."

But Greeley concedes that the Trojans will have to dig deep to recharge from a long trip to McCall to face a Vandals squad that threw a scare into Weiser in a 48-38 loss early last week.

"We'll practice Friday after the road trip to McCall and have to be ready with a top A game for Fruitland Saturday," Greeley said.

"Only (the Grizzlies' game is at) home so maybe the girls will be psyched up and pumped up enough to compensate (for any fatigue)."

Mustangs take court at Blazers game

JV volleyball among state champs honored by Blazers

by Michelle Elsner, JVHS
The Portland Trailblazers invited the Jordan Valley High School state championship volleyball team to be honored during a Trailblazer NBA game last week. After their girls basketball game against Prairie City, seniors Bailey Kershner, Michelle Elsner, Breann Hipwell, Angela Larsen, Lacey Kershner and Chelicy Payne along with teammates Jessie White, Nickie Naegle, and Catie Kershner all squashed into a van for the 10-hour drive to the Rose Center in Portland. After staying in Baker, Ore., the members of Mustangs' 1A championship volleyball team made their way to Portland where the Trailblazers were playing the Milwaukee Bucks. The Bucks beat the Blazers in overtime by one point the last time they met on Milwaukee's turf, so the Mustangs were in for a good game. Along with several different schools being honored in various categories, volleyball captains Bailey Kershner and Elsner, along with their coach Jacque Naegle, led the parade of schools during the High School Sports Appreciation Night halftime appearance. The captains received a letter of congratulations from the owner of the Blazers and got their faces shown on the wide-screen video monitor in front of 10,000 people. The excitement rose as the Mustangs players watched the Blazers beat the Bucks, 99-95. After being down by 20 points, the Bucks seemed to find their feet in the second half and gave the Blazers a run for their money. With memories of the Blazers' victory and some autographed merchandise the Mustangs players were more than happy to make the long journey back to Jordan Valley to arrive at 6 a.m. and sleep long enough for school that day.

McPeak's scoring takes Adrian girls to the summit

Senior Sarah McPeak averaged 16.5 points per game during the weekend to help the Adrian High School girls basketball team stay within striking distance in the High Desert League East Division. McPeak and three teammates scored in double-figures on Saturday to lead Adrian to a 55-43 interdivisional victory at home against Dayville-Monument. McPeak was the model of consistency, dropping in two baskets in each quarter to finish with a game-high 16 points. Paige Branstiter, Amanda Simpson and Stephenie Hutchings scored 11 points each for Adrian (11-6 overall, 7-2 HDL East). The Antelopes trail Jordan Valley by two games for the division lead. Crane sits one game behind Adrian in third place. Adrian 58, Prairie City 54
Branstiter scored eight points to spark what turned out to be a decisive 20-point third quarter for the Antelopes on Friday against visiting Prairie City. Branstiter, who would foul out with nearly five minutes left in the game, scored 12 points in the first three quarters. McPeak picked up the slack in the fourth quarter, scoring eight of her team-high 17 points to help the Antelopes win despite the Panthers winning a shootout in the final period. Both teams combined for 37 points in the final eight minutes. The Antelopes also withstood a Prairie City barrage from the foul line. The Panthers went to the charity stripe 39 times Friday, sinking 24 attempts. Adrian was only 14-for-25. Tera Rust kicked in 11 points for the Antelopes, who can put some distance between themselves and third-place Crane when the Mustangs visit for a divisional game Friday.

Trojans youth cheer clinic set for Feb. 3

The Homedale High School cheerleading team will hold its annual children's clinic Feb. 3 inside both high school gymnasiums. Children in kindergarten through sixth grades can attend the camp, which will be held from 8 a.m. to noon. Cost of the camp is $25, and high school cheerleading advisor Kelly DeWitt said the price includes a camp T-shirt and an adult ticket to that night's boys basketball game between Homedale and McCall-Donnelly. Camp participants will put on a show at halftime of the game. A raffle also is being held with prizes that include a quilt, free movie rentals and admission to Boondocks in Meridian. For more information, call Denise Dixon at 337-4450.

✓ Coaches: AD says applicants have flocked to school's football position of her games, and she had 22 games," said Folwell, whose husband Jeff is the Falcons' junior varsity girls soccer coach. "I had been thinking about (resigning) because my daughter plays for another team, and I didn't want to miss her games." Folwell built the girls soccer program at Homedale, and the team finally broke through with landmark victories in the fall. "Lesa started the program, and we were happy with her doing that program," Hart said. "It's just one of those deals where it was time for her to move on." The similarities between the departures of Folwell and Henry evidently end with the fact that both were announced during the December school board meeting. Henry, who was hired weeks before the start of the 2005 volleyball season, said school officials suggested she coach the freshman team in 2007 to allow the school district to bring in a coach with more experience to run the varsity program. Hart said Henry was approved to be re-hired after her evaluation. "She's in good standing with us," Hart said. "We just want to develop her more as a coach." Henry said she had no problem giving up the reins of the varsity program, but admitted it was "irritating" when school officials apparently asked if she would return to the varsity if a replacement couldn't be found. "Either you take it away or you don't," Henry said last week. Because no freshman coach was hired for last season, Henry spent 2006 coaching both the freshmen and the varsity. She said the freshman team would have been dropped if she hadn't taken the lead. "We thought she worked hard for us and did a good job," Hart said. "We just thought we threw her into the fire and didn't give her a chance to develop." Henry said that after some thought she decided against coming back as the freshman coach. Although she admits that she grew close to the incoming freshmen through a summer program at Homedale Middle School last year, the prospect of coaching her daughter, Jessica, wasn't appealing because of the strain it might put on the family dynamic. In that respect, Henry's decision may have had more in common with Folwell's than one might see on the surface. "My kids are kinda excited actually," Henry said. "It takes a lot of time to be a coach away from them. I didn't see any of her games at the junior high or my son play football." Folwell's departure ends an era in Homedale, but she believes the best is yet to come with the Trojans' girls soccer program. Nearly all of the team's All-SRV selections were sophomores and freshmen last year. "It was just exciting getting something going here," Folwell said. "I guess the biggest thing

I'm taking away from the coaching is the association I have with such great kids. "It is amazing, the girls that have been on my team all three years. I have never been around a group of kids that like each other so much." The athletes also threw their support behind Folwell when she took an off-season leave of absence and underwent surgery in Utah to correct a vascular ailment that caused her lung to collapse repeatedly. "It's just the attitude and the determination, and they just don't ever give up and don't let things get them down," she said. "They pick each other up, and they pick me up."

Trojans capture titles; Martinat's streak ends

Homedale High School's young wrestlers continued to show their mettle Saturday at the Parma Tournament on a day that senior Bryan Martinat saw his perfect season come to a halt.

Frankie Obregon (125 pounds) and Amador Cortinas (heavy-weight) won championships, but Martinat dropped his first match of the season in the 152 final against one of the top-rated wrestlers in Nevada.

"It was the premier match of the tournament," Trojans coach

Toby Johnson said. "It looked like a state title match."

Martinat trailed by a point with 30 seconds left, but couldn't complete a final move for the win.

Homedale finished third as a team with Jason Christoffersen (145) and Jaime Uriarte (285) picking up thirds.

Thursday, Homedale beat Fruitland, 47-24, in the Trojans' conference-opening dual meet.

Martinat, Joe Mac Hernandez, Kevin Dillon and Cortinas all had pinfalls.

JV middle school hoops teams fall on road

by Emma Johnson

On Friday, the Jordan Valley Middle School Colts traveled to Willowcreek to play the Warriors. Both the of the Jordan Valley teams lost, the boys fell 58-29, and the girls were defeated 46-12.

Coach Mike Quintero said he was hopeful in taking the team to Willowcreek. However, he realized his young team was inexperienced, although they had been playing well together.

The boys ended the first quarter only down by three points. However, as the game progressed after halftime, the Warriors took a leap and finished the game 29 points ahead.

Jordan Jones led the Colts with nine points, followed closely by Tyler Elsner with seven points and Josh Dean with six.

"Overall we're just a young team, and Willowcreek had experience on their side with five eighth-graders," Quintero said. "We'll be more prepared next time."

The girls team suited up eight of its nine players, as opposed to Willowcreek's 12. The Colts started the first quarter 13 points behind.

Haley Hebison led Jordan

Valley with six points, followed by Meagan Fillmore's three points.

"I only have five girls who play varsity. We really have no depth," girls coach Sheila Quintero said. "Our young team had difficulty keeping up with that rhythm in that small gym. The game was more physical than the girls expected, but they got some good experience."

"The bottom line is youth, depth, and that Willowcreek is probably the best team in our league."

Both Colts teams travel to face Huntington on Friday.

Marsing girls wake up with district tourney looming

The Marsing High School girls basketball team may have turned the corner in more ways than one Saturday night in Nampa.

After a disappointing showing Thursday against Melba (a 52-32 loss at home), the Huskies rallied to push 2A Western Idaho Conference co-leader Nampa Christian to the limit in a tough 55-45 setback.

"The coaches had a talk with team captain Sam Wilson after the Melba loss, and she talked to the team after the game," Huskies coach Don Heller said.

"We came to practice Friday with a new attitude and had an awesome practice, and it showed with our game (against Nampa Christian)."

The Huskies trailed by three points with 90 seconds left, but the comeback try fizzled after a missed lay-in forced Marsing to foul Trojans players.

"Last time we played, we weren't even in the game and lost (53-33 in Marsing on Dec. 15)," Heller said. "(Saturday), our defense was great, and we started to make some outside shots on offense."

"The girls had fun, and they made things fun for the coaches also."

Beckstead barrels to the basket
Marsing's Wittney Beckstead tosses in a layup Thursday at home against Melba. Beckstead led the Huskies with 12 points.

Leading the party was Eliza Moreno, who fired in three first-half 3-pointers on the way to a team-high 14 points. Taryn Chenoweth chipped in with 10 points, including another two treys.

After digging a 17-6 hole in the first quarter, the Huskies posted 20 points in the second quarter to climb back into the game.

Wittney Beckstead scored eight points for Marsing (5-13, 1-7 at week's end), which wrapped up the regular season against Cole Valley Christian at home Tuesday. Results weren't available at press time.

Next up for the Huskies is the 2A District III Tournament, which begins Tuesday at Vallivue High School in Caldwell. Marsing most likely will enter the tourney as the No. 5 seed and will face either New Plymouth or Melba at 6:30 p.m.

Melba 52, Marsing 32

The visiting Mustangs scored the first 12 points of the game and cruised to a 2A WIC victory Thursday.

"For some reason we did not come out ready to play," Heller said. "We just couldn't get anything going."

After attempting only one shot in the first quarter, Beckstead awoke with seven points in the second stanza on the way to a team-high 11 points. Moreno added 10 points.

But Melba received nine points from Whittney Johnson to build a 31-13 halftime lead. The Mustangs (10-8, 4-4 through Monday) widened their lead with 11 points in the third period as Cara Duckworth dropped in the second of her two 3-pointers en route to 10 points.

"Our defense has been pretty good all season, but was non-existent," Hellersaid. "Offensively, we could not get any movement against their zone."

"I just didn't have the girls ready to play."

HMS 8th-graders lose tight opener

Kenny Esparza scored 17 points Thursday, but the Homedale Middle School eighth-grade boys basketball A team dropped a 50-45 overtime 3A Snake River Valley conference thriller to host Weiser.

Esparza had the Trojans' only 3-point goal of the game, while grabbing a team-high nine rebounds.

Coach Kevin Cornwall's team came up with 32 boards against the Wolverines in the Trojans' conference opener.

Walter Almaraz and Emilio Cuellar were both 4-for-11 from the field while coming up with eight points apiece for Homedale. Cuellar also collected eight rebounds.

Homedale's eighth-grade B team edged Weiser 25-22.

Seventh-grade

Homedale's A team couldn't contend with Weiser's height Thursday in a 40-31 victory over the Trojans in Homedale.

Trey Corta led HMS with 10 points, while Casey Christoffersen and Zac Lowder knocked in eight points apiece.

The Trojans' B team was edged 16-14 by the Wolverines. Homedale's scoring was balanced with four points each from Josh Gonzalez, Michael Vigil and Mark Williams. Zach Mereness chipped in two points.

Antelopes boys scare PC

The Adrian High School boys basketball team put together a strong weekend of work that left first-year coach Brent Ishida smiling.

On Saturday, the Antelopes (4-12 overall, 3-6 in High Desert League East Division) snapped a two-game losing streak by pummeling Dayville-Monument 79-34.

But the game of the week probably came Friday when visiting Prairie City had to scramble to escape the Oregon-Idaho border town with a 54-52 HDL interdivisional victory.

“What a game,” Ishida said. “I’m so proud of our boys. Even though we lost, we played great ball.”

The Antelopes trailed the HDL West Division’s second-place team by just four points at halftime, 22-18, and tied the game 35-35 after Joe Witty and Kyle Dondero scored four points each in the third quarter.

Witty finished with a co-game-high 17 points, including his team’s only 3-point goal.

“Joseph Witty had a great game with 17 points, and he led the team with rebounds,” Ishida said.

Prairie City (10-5, 6-3 at week’s end) survived a shootout in the fourth quarter to win the game. The teams, which had scored just 35 points each through the first three periods, combined for 36 points in the final eight minutes with the Panthers holding the decisive 19-17 edge.

Adrian struggled at the foul line, connecting on only nine of its 20 free throws. Prairie City was 9-for-12 from the stripe.

Marus Hope scored 11 points for the Antelopes, while teammate Kade Thomas scored eight points before fouling out late in the fourth quarter.

“The boys executed their offense well and played good, hard defense,” Ishida said.

No one was left out of the fun Friday as every Antelopes player scored in an HDL rout of Dayville-Monument.

Kyle Dondero was Adrian’s leading scorer for the second time in three games, hitting four of six free throws and pouring in 18 points.

“The boys played a great game,” Ishida said. “They are playing well with confidence, and it sows both on defense and offense.”

Hope popped two 3-point goals as part of his 13-point effort, and Joe Witty knocked in 11 points.

The Antelopes held a 20-point lead, 36-16, at halftime. Adrian also dominated on the backboards with 33 rebounds.

“We were able to play transition well due to our good defense,” Ishida said.

Graber went nuts Jan. 16, leading Greenleaf Friends Academy to a non-league victory over host Adrian, Ore.

Graber, a junior who played baseball last spring for Homedale High School because Greenleaf doesn’t field a team, fired in seven 3-point goals on the way to 26 points against the Antelopes.

Adrian of the High Desert League East Division trailed 41-12 at halftime against the Grizzlies from the 2A Western Idaho Conference South Division.

Dondero scored all but one of his team-high 10 points during the Antelopes’ 12-point second quarter.

Marus Hope, one of Adrian’s top scorers this year, was limited to seven points and George Ellsworth chipped in six.

Meanwhile, Greenleaf seemingly could do no wrong.

With senior Matthew Choate knocking down two field goals and converting all three of his free throws, Greenleaf rolled out to a 17-5 lead after eight minutes. Choate led all scorers with 27 points. He was 8-for-9 from the foul line.

Graber scored 24 points over the game’s final 24 minutes after opening his performance with only a trey in the first quarter.

Neil Kyger scored 12 points for the Grizzlies, while former Adrian player Aaron Langley dropped in a fourth-quarter basket for Greenleaf.

JV boys creep closer to division leader

Mustangs girls stay perfect and ahead of Adrian

by Koehl Trautman, JVHS

The Jordan Valley boys basketball team hosted Dayville-Monument on Friday night. The High Desert League matchup proved to be an easy win for the Mustangs as they beat the Tigers by 33 points, 58-25, even after playing their junior varsity squad the entire fourth quarter.

“Playing in a varsity game for an entire quarter gave us a chance to run our plays,” junior varsity post player Bryce Kershner said. “We had some great passes and worked well as a team, which helped up gain points to maintain our lead.”

Sophomore Alek Quintero was on fire. He led the Mustangs with 15 points, shooting three 3-point baskets in the third quarter. Koehl Trautman, a 6-foot-5 post player and Kershner followed up with eight points each. However, more importantly every player who entered the game for the Mustangs scored. Carlen Hipwell missed the contest with an injury.

The team took a while to get warmed up, posting only a 23-12 halftime lead. Yet, the third quarter brought the Mustangs to life, and they scored 19 points.

The team traveled to Prairie City on Saturday to take on the Panthers, a strong team. After a hard-fought battle the Mustangs (10-6 overall, 7-2 HDL East) prevailed with a 67-62 win, leaving them in second place in the HDL East Division, one game behind Crane (12-4, 8-1). Unbeaten HDL West leader Spray (18-0, 9-0) cruised to a 73-50 victory Friday to hand Crane its first league loss.

“The Panthers were supposed to be really physical and great shooters,” Trautman said. “They made eight 3s in the second half, so the rumors were true. We had to work hard to pull off this win.”

Fellow post Zac Fillmore led the Mustangs with 20 points. Quintero followed with 19, then Trautman with 17, Jerry Wroten with 10 points and Tim Eiguren, the last players to score, with one point.

Trautman led Jordan Valley in rebounds with 15, followed by Wroten with 10 and Fillmore with 7. Wroten led in assists with eight, followed by Fillmore and Brandan Mackenzie with two each.

The Mustangs travel to facer Huntington on Friday and then play Harper at home Saturday.

JV girls still unbeaten

Bailey Kershner scored 12 points Friday night to lead the Jordan Valley girls basketball team to a narrow 45-42 victory over HDL West-leading Dayville-Monument. (11-4, 6-2).

The host Mustangs scored 17 points in the fourth quarter to storm back from a 36-28 deficit heading into the game’s final eight minutes.

Jordan Valley (16-0, 9-0) maintained a two-game lead over Adrian in the HDL East Division by capping the weekend with a 58-30 victory over Prairie City on Saturday.

Officials clarify expenses of road project

Recent controversy concerning Owyhee County’s paving job on a county road in the Pleasant Valley area has prompted county officials to clarify some facts and figures concerning the project.

The county called for bids on the 6.7 miles of road in April 1980. The bid called for a two-inch thick lift, and did not include the price of oil. It included reshaping the old roadway, gravel haul, liquid asphalt for prime, road mix and construct a new section of road.

The low bid came in at $138,213.70. In addition to this, the county was to pay for the oil at $218.00 per ton; bringing the total to $412,127.00.

The county commissioners did not accept the bid. Instead, they looked for alternatives. And this led them to the Nampa Highway District, and eventually the calling for bids on a paver and pugmill. The Nampa Highway District reported it was saving up to two-thirds on paving costs following the purchase of its own equipment.

The county was in the paving business, at a cost of $94,553.46, but they had no one experienced to operate the equipment. The first project — the Pleasant Valley Road — was the training grounds for the county road crews. The county paid room and board, travel, and other expenses to train the crews.

The following months were expensive ones, with maintenance and repairs, due initially to lack of experience in operating the equipment.

The project was slow, and errors were often. The finished road “isn’t the best — by any means,” commissioner Ernie Bahem readily admits.

A seal coat or slurry seal is planned for the road as soon as the weather breaks, and Bahem expects the road will be smoother than at present.

According to an accounting report from County Clerk Barbara Jayo, the project expenses totaled $308,246.21

If the costs of equipment were added to this, the total would be $402,799.67 — still $10,000 less than the bid.

And the county owns $94,000 worth of equipment, and has a four-inch asphalt lift instead of the two-inch specifications.

Bahem added the crews did make some mistakes at the Pleasant Valley project, “but they learned a lot” about using the equipment.

Bahem, who is also road commissioner of District 1, said he believes the equipment is a good, sound investment for the county. The county will get enough use of the equipment in screening gravel alone to pay for it, he contends.

Mayor anticipates ‘good year’

Homedale’s Mayor George Murray, told the city council last Wednesday night “I look forward to a good year . . . let’s make it a productive year.” Murray made the comments following the swearing in of re-elected council persons Bette Uda and Herb Fritzley.

Murray reappointed Marie Badiola as city clerk and treasurer, Paul Simon as city services superintendent, Allen Bidwill as Chief of Police, June McMullen as building inspector, and Gary Morgan, city attorney.

Following appointments, the mayor emphasized to the department heads that they “are here to serve the people,” and stressed courtesy and professionalism in working with the public.

The council members were reappointed as commissioners of various departments: Bette Uda to parks and recreation, Herb Fritzley to domestic water and irrigation, Rodger Nash to Sewer, and Larry Bauer to police and streets.

Mayor Murray asked for the resignation of Herb Fritzley from the planning and zoning commission.

Murray said he requested Fritzely’s resignation because of a conflict should the council be required to act as an appeals board on planning and zoning matters.

Homedale teachers vote to strike unless legislature sets $23 million for education

Approval to the Idaho Education Association’s demand that the legislature approve a $23,000,000 appropriation for educational purposes, and a recommendation that the I.E.A. direct all local associations to go on strike if the demands are not met were voiced by the Homedale Teachers Association last Thursday.

A further clarification of its stand was issued by the association this week. Both statements are printed below.

The Homedale Associated Teachers met Thursday afternoon, January 17 at their regular monthly meeting at the Homedale High School and went on record in favor of the I.E.A. proposed appropriation of $23,000,000 for educational purposes for the next biennium.

If the legislators fail to appropriate 23 million dollars as recommended by the I.E.A., then the local would expect the I.E.A. to direct all the locals in the state to be in a state of strike, according to Kathleen Muter, secretary.

If the I.E.A. should decide to settle for a figure less than 23 million dollars, then the local association will compromise in favor of their recommendation, Miss Muter said.

The association also went on record in favoring the revenue tax on beer but did not earmark this revenue for education.

TO THE CITIZENS OF HOMEDALE

We, the teachers of Homedale, feel that some clarification of our beliefs and opinions in regard to community controversy of late is somewhat overdue.

First of all, we have not threatened to leave if salaries are not raised; nevertheless since the salary scale in Homedale is the lowest in the Idaho third district, we certainly feel that salaries should be higher. Complaints have been made about taxation within the district. It should be noted that most of the Homedale teachers are property owners and taxpayers too. Many of us are permanent Homedale residents and are proud of our town and its citizenry. The things for which we strive are, we feel sure, advantageous to all. Our work in Homedale schools has been pleasant because the administration has been fair, above board, and forward-looking.

We believe in Idaho and its future; we are a part of its educational system because we believe in maintaining its high standards. We are teachers because we know and appreciate the responsibility of guiding and training these youth right here at home.

If we are forced to leave it will only be because we ourselves are unable to meet the standards of living that we must maintain.

Trojans split pair of games; 2 home tilts on menu

The Trojans fell to the Middleton Vikings 47-55 for their third SRV class B loss of the season Friday at Middleton. The home team held an easy 31-25 lead at the half-time with Con Kendall scoring 18 points to lead the Vikings in the next two quarters to a 55-47 win over the Trojans.

Kendall was a top scorer of the evening with 26 points. Junior Uranga scored 18 points for the Trojans.

The Homedale junior varsity beat the Middleton junior varsity 51-41 in the preliminary.

After being defeated by Middleton Friday, the Trojans walloped the Adrian Antelopes 75-60 on the Antelopes home floor Saturday night.

It was an easy game for the visiting Trojans as they shot ahead in the first quarter to easily out-pace the Antelopes the remainder of the evening.

Vic Landa with 25 points and Chuck Dunn with 20 points took the scoring honors for the Trojans and James McKinley, Adrian, led the Antelopes with 16 points.

In the preliminary, the junior varsity fought a close 43-40 victory over the Adrian junior varsity.

“NOTHING TO DO AND PLENTY OF TIME TO DO IT,” is as truly applicable to this community as any we have ever known. Without being cold, a stormy season is prevailing. It is unpleasant and difficult to move out for any time or distance. For the first week in twelve-month, almost everybody in Owyhee is necessarily housed. The boisterous days which now produce forced idleness, might be employed in a pleasant and even dutiful manner. Do we hear the interrogatory of — how? The answer is easy. Write to your distant friends. Within the past few months we have received several letters from the old States, inquiring for sons, brothers and friends. There is little doubt but our private replies give the only tidings to some old folks at home of absent ones which they have received for years. Our paper reaches nearly every state and this lists of departures, arrivals, letters, advertisements and local notices reveal the names of friends or relatives the where about of whom was before unknown to them. A letter is addressed to us and a brief reply is given. Will not those knowing themselves to be derelict in this respect employ the present session of necessary suspension of out door labor in informing friends at least of their continued existence? There is a world of satisfaction to a mother, father, sister, brother or love-lorn lass in just a few lines from those on this side of the continent who have such kin on the other side. The excuse that you get no letters from home is futile unless you write. Miners are a roving people, and at every change should advise their friends and the man who says he’s got none is probably mistaken. Correspondence keeps alive valuable friendships, develops and strengthens new ones and affords both parties consolation under all circumstances. The very sight of an old envelope addressed in the familiar penmanship of one we esteem, love or respect has a significant charm. If the days are dark now, it revives thoughts of those that were sunshiny and cheerful. A regular correspondence is an excellent means of improvement and with a little practice becomes a pleasure. Wished however honest and earnest will neither fill the purse nor satisfy hunger, but the person is hardened indeed whose heart is not made lighter while reading lines of love, sympathy, congratulation, encouragement and sincere hopes of better luck.

SNOW-SLIDE — TWO LIVES LOST. Seldom a more painful task has fallen our lot than that of penning this item, involving as it does the record of the death of two citizens. The wind blew heavily and the snow drifted correspondingly on the 12th, 13th and 14th, piling up immense drifts until along precipitous places their own weight caused them to give way and in some instances with such power as to demolish everything less firm than the mountains. About a quarter of a mile up Long Gulch from Washington Street, on the south side, a slide occurred about eleven o’clock on Tuesday morning, which resulted in the instant death of two brothers, Lewis B. and H. H. Rogers. They occupied a cabin on the opposite side of the creek, but the gulch being narrow and the slide a large one it mostly landed over the channel and completely covered and crushed in the cabin in which the unfortunate brothers were living. They were both found together with every indication that they were sitting upon a bench in front of the fire place cooking their morning meal. The chimney was of stone and thrown upon them, which weight alone would have proved fatal. Letters placed in our possession and written to the deceased reveal something of their family. One of date Nov. 2d, ’66 and written at Marysville, California, is from their father, J. P. Rogers, who left Owyhee in July last. He is quite an old man with apparently no other than the aid of his sons for support. He heard that his sons had taken up a ranch on Trout Creek. Another letter is dated Oroville, California, Nov. 12, ’66, and signed R. M. Coates. We hear the deceased spoken of as having been excellent men.

On the edge of common sense

Another predictable story!

The Pew Charitable Trust has given a $2.6 million grant to the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health to study how concentrated animal feeding operations (dairies, feedlots, hog confinements and chicken houses) may impact public health, sociology and the environment. Any guesses what they will conclude? Here’s my guess ... it’s bad.

In fairness, there is at least one person on the committee list who appears to have spent some time in a feedlot. That should balance the academics, gentiles, politicians and “Daryl Hannah, actress and advocate for biofuels and environmentally sustainable lifestyle.” What is blatantly missing in the list of distinguished panel members is even one hungry person.

Most Americans are so far removed from how their hamburger or tofu or salmon get to their plate they are sitting ducks for the ANTIs. Last November, an Arizona referendum to restrict veal and hog-raising operations passed with a 60 percent majority. It was funded by the animal rights group Farm Sanctuary. Studies that have compared the method outlawed in Arizona versus Europe’s more “Humanitarian” method showed that the European pig raisers had a higher mortality of piglets, higher feed cost per piglet, more land space needed, more grain needed because of lower efficiency, plus higher mortality and injury of sows. This, in return for the psychological benefits of more space and “improved socializing.”

It’s the haves versus the have-nots over and over. “So what if pork increases in price, or milk or hamburger or chicken. Besides, hungry people don’t vote anyway.”

As consumers get further and further away from understanding where and how their basic needs of food, shelter and energy are met, those of us on the farm, in the forest, or on the drilling rig will become oddities to them; antiques, caricatures from a time when we as a nation could feed, clothe and keep ourselves warm.

I’m not sure whether it’s worse to be thought of as an evil farmer milking cows on a factory dairy and growing Frankenfood Hybrid corn or a quaint cowboy poet, a throwback to a time when people actually knew how to clean a chicken and scald a hog.

I do think the ANTIs will always have an audience as long as food is cheap. People have the luxury to be blasé about their daily bread. It is only when the “haves” personally feel the financial pressure that the recognition of the value of modern animal production will make an appearance.

Only problem is the have-nots are the only ones who truly appreciate the value of “Concentrated animal feeding” and there ain’t a one of ’em on the Pew Grant Committee.

Searching for perspective

Every day there are more stories on TV news programs and in daily newspapers about the conflict in Iraq. Almost every story begins with the latest American casualty figures.

Since our forces invaded Iraq in March 2003, thousands of U.S. servicemen and women have been wounded. More than 3,000 have been killed. The 3,000 mark was passed late in 2006 and has been used by opponents of the president and anti-war groups as the main reason why we should bring the troops home now.

The injury or death of even one American soldier is tragic and everything possible should be done to prevent it. Like most Americans, this writer has some reservations about the administration’s Iraq policy, past, present and future. But at the same time, the emphasis the media places on the rising American death count provides further evidence that the “Fourth Estate” has been less than objective in its war coverage. Consider the following:

Since March 2003, about 3,000 American have been killed in Iraq. Since the Iraq invasion began, more than 16,000 people have been murdered in the United States annually — that’s at least 60,000 people during the past four years. In 2005 alone, 539 people were murdered in New York City, 489 in Los Angeles, 448 in Chicago, 377 in Philadelphia, 354 in Detroit, 334 in Houston, 269 in Baltimore, 220 in Phoenix and 202 in Dallas. In those cities more Americans died violently in one year than have died in Iraq in four years.

But murder isn’t the only way Americans die unexpectedly and often traumatically.

In each of the four years we have been in Iraq, an average of 36,676 people in the U.S. have been killed in auto accidents, 15,206 by accidental poisoning, 5,800 in work-related accidents, 5,150 by large trucks, 4,846 in pedestrian mishaps, 3,409 drown, 3,312 perished in fires, 3,112 in motorcycle accidents. Firearms accidents kill an average of 779 people annually, boating 714, bicycles 695 and electrocution 410.

If you add up the total murder and accidental deaths in America from 2003 through 2006 they total nearly 500,000 — one half a million people. During the same period, 3,000 Americans died in Iraq.

More young American men and women of military age die from gunshot wounds every day in the streets of this country than are killed in Iraq. More people have been killed in the past four years in railroad accidents (3,700) than have been killed in Iraq. More Americans die in one year from accidental falls (14,900) than have been killed Iraq in four years.

Virtually every night ABC, CBS, NBC and cable news networks lead off their newscasts with the latest Iraq casualty figures. But when was the last time these “objective” and “unbiased” organizations did features on the 3,300 people who suffocate annually in this country. If you die unnaturally in Iraq, it’s page 1. If you die unnaturally in America, you are a news brief at best.

For me the lives lost in Iraq are especially tragic because these young people volunteered to go in harm’s way in service of their county. But in the big scheme of things, is the death of an American soldier in Iraq more devastating to his loved ones or to the community than the death of a young man or woman killed by a drunk driver or by a short-circuit in an electric heater? Reporters would have us believe that is the case.

Like many Americans I do not claim to know if our involvement in Iraq has been worth the cost in American lives. It may be 50 years before historians can give us an answer. But I do know that few members of the news media have made even a feeble attempt to put the Iraq casualty figures into the proper perspective.

From Washington Economy still blooming in winter

by Sen. Mike Crapo

Winter might be an odd time to talk about job growth. The harsh reality for many rural Idahoans in natural resource-based economies (especially this year where parts of Idaho have had bouts of extreme weather) is that winter is a time when some people may have to rely on unemployment benefits to get through a few lean months. Thankfully, there is usually abundant work in the spring, summer and fall months and, from what the numbers are showing, even more than there has been in years past. According to the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis, Idaho experienced the sixth-highest personal income growth rate in the nation, from the second to the third quarters of 2006.

Our nation’s economy has been adding jobs for 40 consecutive months now. In the last 3½ years, the 7.2 million jobs that have been created in the United States surpassed job creation totals in the European Union and Japan combined. After-tax income and real wages have both increased, the former a whopping 9.6 percent since 2000. The national unemployment rate remains well below the average of each of the past four decades, and Idaho experienced a record-low jobless rate in 2006. While the jury is still out on the outlook for the housing market (an important industry in Idaho) with some analysts saying we’ve reached the bottom and others not quite so optimistic, many signs point to the fact that the diverse strength inherent in our national economy is helping us weather recent national housing market squalls.

Job growth indicates a positive economic outlook by industry and business. Employers add jobs when they are experiencing growth or hopeful about future growth. It’s fair to say that our strong and growing economy is due, in part, to the tax relief that has helped put an average of over $2,500 back into taxpayers’ wallets. People are able to allocate their own money as they see fit, and our economy is better off for it. Additionally, and to the discredit of many naysayers, after three years of significant tax relief, we’ve seen a dramatic increase in federal tax revenue.

Still, it’s important to remember that in better times, both personally and on the federal level, we must spend and save responsibly.

Prudence with our government finances is critical to our economy and the role it plays in the world. Reducing the budget deficit is what is needed to ensure that gains from job growth here in the United States continue to feed the pool of capital and resources needed to remain competitive on a global level.

Doubletalk makes it difficult to pin down Obama

by Cliff Kincaid

Fred Barnes calls him “the hottest figure in American politics.” He was invited by Pastor Rick Warren to attend a conference against AIDS, where he was dubbed the “Elvis” of Washington, D.C. But if our media would take the time to analyze what he says, rather than roll out a red carpet for him wherever he goes, Sen. Barack Obama (D-Ill.) — who last week said he would seriously look at running for the Democratic nomination in the 2008 presidential election — might be exposed as an expert in political doubletalk.

AIDS is a good example. It’s easy to be against AIDS. But it takes political courage to question why $200 billion has been spent on the disease (and why promises for cures and vaccines have not been fulfilled) and why other health problems affecting many more people get shortchanged for federal funds through the National Institutes of Health (NIH). The Fair Foundation has documented how the federally funded NIH finances AIDS research with tens of billions of dollars more than a variety of health problems that affect millions more people, including diabetes, Alzheimer’s disease, Parkinson’s disease and heart ailments.

The adulation bestowed on Obama by the national media has become almost too much to take. No matter what he says, it is presented as dramatic and inspiring. One expects to read a review of him walking on water. If anybody ever needed any more evidence of a national liberal media bias, this was it.

But before he is installed as emperor, shouldn’t our media ask a few elementary questions, such as what exactly he stands for?

Take Iraq, for example. We went back and analyzed two of his major speeches on Iraq, as well as a statement he made on the situation there. The content suggests that he really doesn’t know what he’s talking about.

His recent Nov. 20 speech, “A Way Forward in Iraq,” began, “Throughout American history, there have been moments that call on us to meet the challenges of an uncertain world, and pay whatever price is required to secure our freedom.” Yet Obama was not talking about Iraq. Instead, he called the U.S. policy of promoting democracy in Iraq and the Middle East an “ideological fantasy.”

Having said that he opposed the war in the first place, he now favors “a phased redeployment of American troops from Iraqi soil.” But he doesn’t provide any details. In fact, he voted against the Kerry amendment to require a redeployment of troops from Iraq. So he wants to have it both ways.

“Let me emphasize one vital point,” Obama says, “any U.S. strategy must address the problem of sectarian militias in Iraq.” But he provides no details.

In a Nov. 22, 2005, speech, he talked about meeting wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. “They were proud of their service,” Obama said. He said he spoke to a sergeant from Iowa “who had lost one of his legs but was working vigorously to get accustomed to his prosthetic leg so he could return to Iraq as soon as he could.”

But Obama is tired of the fight. While he admitted that he has “neither the expertise nor the inclination to micro-manage war from Washington,” he said he wanted to “reduce the U.S. military footprint in Iraq.” He also called this “a limited drawdown of U.S. troops.” He had wanted this “drawdown” to begin by 2006. Now he wants the “drawdown” in 2007.

Next week he may have a different position. But don’t expect the media to notice.

Dems must learn bipartisanship is a two-way street

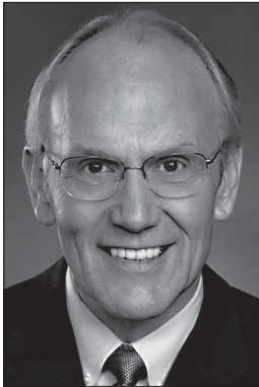

by Sen. Larry Craig

“Bipartisanship” is defined as something “marked by or involving cooperation, agreement, and compromise between two major political parties” — at least, that’s what Merriam-Webster tells us. To many Democrats in the new Congress, however, bipartisanship means a one-way street, where conservatives should vote for liberal policies. Let me explain what I mean by that.

In the first days of the 110th Congress, the Democrat-controlled House of Representatives already has passed new pay-as-you-go (PAYGO) budget rules that will restrain tax relief and make tax increases easier to approve. President Bush agreed to a minimum wage hike in the name of bipartisanship; and both Speaker Pelosi and President Bush — on separate occasions — made clear that tax increases are on the table.

These policies fail both in practice and in principle — and in large part, Americans agree. Gallup recently asked the American public what could be done to improve the nation’s economy, and among the top suggestions were improving the job situation, cutting taxes, and controlling spending.

Far from reducing federal spending, PAYGO budget rules — which Democrats recently pushed through the House under the guise of restoring fiscal responsibility — will actually make spending more difficult to control. Under the Democrats’ PAYGO plan, new entitlement programs and all new tax cuts will require reductions in spending elsewhere in the budget, known as offsets. But the Democrats’ PAYGO rules apply only to new entitlement spending, so they will do nothing to clean up current entitlement programs — which will consume nearly 50 percent of all federal income taxes in 2030, compared to 6.9 percent today.

Sen. Larry Craig

In addition, PAYGO rules will restrain tax cuts — such as Republicans’ pro-growth tax relief of 2001 and 2003 which, in part, led the U.S. economy to 58 consecutive months of growth, a 35 percent increase in revenues, and 7.2 million jobs created since 2003. Under PAYGO, tax relief measures will now have to be “paid for” by large cuts in the budget, and historically, Democrats have not allowed that to happen. With Democrats running the show, American taxpayers will be given front-row seats to watch essential tax cuts of years past — and the revival they brought to the U.S. economy — slowly expire.

An increase in the federal minimum wage — which the House recently passed — also will hurt, not help, American workers. For nearly 60 years, studies have confirmed — and common-sense economics tells us — that increasing the minimum wage does not necessarily mean more money for American workers. When Congress forces employers to raise wages, it means many workers become more expensive to employ. To pay for this greater expense, jobs are cut, employee benefits and hours are reduced, and because jobs are more expensive to create, fewer are created. As a result, the pool of minimum-wage jobs for new job-seekers shrinks.

The Democrats’ initial policies in the new Congress are not bipartisan — they’re just plain bad. Many Democrats seem to believe that bipartisanship means Republicans compromising our principles instead of negotiating on the Senate floor.

I want to make clear that Republicans’ new status in the minority does not mean a blank check for liberal policies. Real bipartisanship means give-and-take on both sides of an issue, not one side giving and the other side taking. Real bipartisanship is a two-way street.

Letter to the editor

Bona Fide duo crucial to our history

Excellent, informative article on Bona Fide and their performance at the Owyhee County Historical Society meeting. Gary Eller and Marv Quinton and others like them are such an asset to Owyhee County, helping us preserve and use our own history. The songs they have about Kitty Wilkins and the train wreck at Guffey are great ways to tell Owyhee County history, and we hope they continue their good work.

Thank you for the coverage of this and similar interesting topics. Also, nice interviews with the new commissioners.

✓ Washington: U.S. must keep edge

As a nation, we experienced some “winter months” a few years ago. We are entering what looks to be a booming spring for our national economy in the context of the global marketplace.

In order to experience the flush times of summer growth, we must enact sound fiscal policy, emphasize education — especially in math and science — promote and support research and development in critical industries and continue to call for effective and fair global trade practices.

Our world is becoming a highly competitive place. Maintaining our leadership position in industry, research and development and business investment will require hard work, intelligent reform of government, and policies that keep us attuned to the nuances of our exploding global marketplace. Fortunately and not surprisingly, our American creativity and innovation stands ready to answer the competition and maintain global economic strength.
