Huskies up to challenge

Marsing senior Kaitie Kent lunges for a dig during last week's match against Cole Valley.

Marsing splits WIC openers

Marsing High School volleyball collected a strong win last week at the start of the 2A Western Idaho Conference slate.

On Thursday, the Huskies' rejuvenated offense sent host New Plymouth to a 25-17, 25-17, 25-16 defeat.

Kaitie Kent drummed up six kills and seven assists, Rebecca Cossel had seven kills and two blocks, Miranda Clausen posted three kills and a block, and Peyton Kinney had a great service day, with three aces, as well as a good defensive day with seven digs.

Marsing (3-1 overall, 1-1 2A WIC) dropped its conference opener on Sept. 9 as host Cole Valley prevailed in a marathon, 16-25, 25-22, 25-16, 21-25, 15-11, in which the Huskies fought tooth and nail.

Despite the loss, Marsing coach Loma Bittick saw a positive aspect in having such a hard-fought game at the season's outset.

"It was good experience for us to go five games in an early season match," she reported. "We came back well in Game 4."

Bright spots for Marsing included Kent, who posted six kills and seven assists, a pair of aces. She led scoring with 19 points. Cossel had seven kills, and Kim Garza totaled eight assists.

Cole Valley saw great performances from Lauren Loffer (23 assists), Katie Keeney (13 kills), and Lisa Hillsbrand (eight kills).

Quintero does it all in JV victory

Mustangs win
third straight behind QB's 350
yards offense

Quintero may be champing at the bit, too. The Mustangs' quarterback has been virtually unstoppable in the first three weeks of the season.

With his offensive line controlling Friday's game against the Hornets, Quintero got things going quickly with a one-yard scoring run. It was one of his shortest runs of the day as he piled up 164 yards on 11 carries. In the second quarter, Quintero rumbled 92 yards for the Mustangs' longest scoring play of the season.

He also fired a 19-yard touchdown pass to Zac Fillmore in the third quarter. Fillmore was Quintero's most prolific target, averaging nearly 34 yards for three receptions.

McBride said linemen such as Koehl Trautman and Dusty Easterday were crucial to the Mustangs' dominance in the trenches.

While Quintero was racking up ground yardage and completed seven of 13 passes for 192 yards, the line play also sprung Josh Deen for 86 yards on nine attempts.

Senior quarterback Alek Quintero accounted for more than 350 yards of offense Friday as Jordan Valley High School rolled to a 50-24 High Desert League victory over host Harper.

Quintero contributed an all-around football performance, leading the Mustangs (3-0 overall, 2-0 HDL) with six solo tackles and three assists.

"Ben Williams, our assistant coach and defensive coordinator, did a good job of getting our kids prepared for this game," Jordan Valley second-year coach Tim McBride said.

"It was really a good league win for our team, and we're looking forward to playing Burnt River."

The Mustangs return home to play Burnt River of Unity, Ore., on Friday.

Ex-Trojan takes her place in Vandals Hall

Colleen Williams Cozzetto brought an impressive resume to Friday's induction ceremony for the University of Idaho Athletic Hall of Fame.

The 1978 Homedale High School graduate capped her career with the Vandals with the 1982 AIAW Div. II national championship in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. She was also named a Div. I All-American in the event.

The 400-meter hurdles school record she set in 1982 stands as the second-oldest active women's track and field record at UI. Her time of 57.7 seconds hasn't been threatened for 26 years. She also set the 100-meter hurdles record at 14.23, and that time still ranks seventh on the Vandals' all-time list today.

Cozzetto's athleticism helped Idaho earn a national runner-up finish in AIAW Div. II in 1982, and also landed the Vandals' 4x400-meter relay team on the All-American list 26 years ago.

Away from track and field, Cozzetto was instrumental in the Vandals' 1982 Mountain West Athletic Conference cross country championship.

Cozzetto competed as a top hurdler for the Vandals from 1979 to 1982.

Cozzetto's conquests

- Holds HHS records for girls 110 low hurdles (14.3 seconds), 100 (12.2) and 400 (58.2)
- Won 1982 400 hurdles national title
- Holds U of I women's 400 hurdles record (57.7). Held 100 hurdles mark at 14.23

Emilio Cuellar's gutsy performance Friday night may be what is needed each week for the undersized Homedale High School football team.

Problem is, the 5-foot-8 sophomore who weighs in at less than 150 pounds might not survive the calling.

"He's been taking too much of a pounding for being a sophomore his size and playing both ways," Trojans coach Rob Kassebaum conceded.

He'll probably see the bulk of the carries Friday in Parma when Homedale takes on the Panthers in the annual Milk

HHS field's soccer debut

The Homedale High School boys and girls soccer teams had an opportunity to break in their new playfield at the Homedale Middle School on Saturday, in games against Emmett High School.

Girls coach David Correa was very happy with the field's condition, quality and its location.

Soccer teams transfer to HMS

The soccer teams from Homedale High School are playing on new turf this season.

Athletic director David Hart and Homedale city public works supervisor Larry Bauer confirmed last week that the school district decided to move all 2008 home games for the Trojans' boys and girls soccer teams to Homedale Middle School.

The squads previously played at city-owned Sundance Park.

"They came to us and asked if we would be terribly upset if they did move the games," Bauer said. "We said, 'No, we would be more than accommodating.'"

Both Hart and Bauer stressed that the transfer was mutually acceptable and positive.

"It's just a better situation for our school athletic team," Hart said. "It's just a much better circumstance to use our own facilities whenever possible."

The school district didn't pay the city for the use of Sundance's back field. High school softball games will be there this spring.

Bauer said he was contacted in the first week of the soccer season earlier this month about the move.

Bauer says the move presents a win-win situation for the city, the high school and soccer fans.

"I think they would like to have their grass trimmed the day of the game," Bauer said. "Unfortunately our (maintenance) schedule couldn't accommodate that."

"Soccer is hard on grass, that's inherent to the game."

Bauer said the HMS field, to which the soccer goals have been moved, is more spectator-friendly, too.

"Where the school had the game at Sundance, (fans) had to walk a long way," Bauer said. "Now I think they can watch right from their cars."

The soccer goals are jointly owned by the city and school district, Bauer said, but there is no conflict there because without a youth soccer program, the city has no use for the goals.

Go Trojans!

Trojans endure hectic week

Homedale High School's girls soccer played from behind throughout a busy week.

The Trojans (0-4 overall, 0-3 3A Snake River Valley conference) scored in their first two games before losing a 3-0 decision to 4A Emmett on Saturday.

Coach David Correa's squad lost Saturday's game despite nearly equaling the Huskies' shots-on-goal production. Emmett had 17, two more than Homedale.

"I realize that my team has made a tremendous effort to fight, run and attack," Correa said.

On Thursday, Homedale lost, 2-1, on the road when 3A SRV foe Weiser was able to snap a stalemate in the final minutes.

Jessica Eubanks had tied the game with a shot from the right in the first half. Sierra Aberasturi notched 15 saves.

The week began on Sept. 9 with a 4-2 defeat at the hands of Fruitland. Hannah Johnson scored both of the Trojans' goals on assists by fellow senior Kendall Rupp.

"The improvement in our team's dynamics was evident," Correa said. "During the game, the passing was accurate and effective. Our defenders were in sync and neutralized Fruitland's attack regardless of the four goals."

Homedale opened the season on Sept. 4 with a lopsided 7-2 conference loss at McCall-Donnelly.

Sophomore Llesenia Calderon scored Homedale's first goal of the season, converting a Johnson in the sixth minute for a 1-0 lead. Johnson later scored.

Raiders ramble in Payette River Runoff

Andy Bol, Lee Gray and Ida Ahlfors competed for Rimrock High School in the Payette River Runoff cross county meet on Friday at Horseshoe Bend. Bol finished 21st out of 31 competitors with a 23:25 in boys varsity.

Among the 27 girls running in the event, Ahlfors, a junior, finished 11th in 27:51, and Lee Gray grabbed 23rd with a 31:53.

"Our kids did very well," coach Kermit Tate said. "It was a great day to experiment," Tate said. "Andy is tinkering to find his most effective race strategy, while Ida and Lee competed in their first cross country race ever.

"I was very pleased with our results, and as the kids gain race experience and their fitness level improves, I think we'll be seeing more and more PRs. I'm really interested to see what happens when we run the same course two weeks from now, and I'm especially interested in seeing how Andy's time in the Bob Firman Invitational next week compares with last season's performance."

Huskies lose to Payette in tight defensive duel

Burril gets nod for starting QB; Paramo to back him up

The Marsing Huskies football team (1-1) lost one Friday night to the 3A Payette Pirates (2-1) in a 6-0 defensive showpiece.

Neither team's offense could mount much of a drive in the face of defensive play that limited first downs and largely shut down passing and running, with a few brief exceptions. Both teams were held to a dozen first downs each, and Marsing actually totaled more yardage on the ground, picking up 131 yards on 31 carries versus 34 rushes 124 yards by Payette. Total yardage for the offenses showed just a 14-yard difference, with Payette managing 213 and Marsing 199.

"Both teams had the opportunity and just couldn't get it done when they had a chance to score," Marsing coach Jake Walgamott said. "We'd run for a while and had to punt, they'd run and had to punt, or turn over on downs."

The Huskies had a last-minute chance, but came up a yard short.

With the clock at zero, on the final play on the Pirate's 15-yard-line, a facemask penalty on Payette halved the distance to the goal and gave Marsing what looked like a last shot at getting the ball into the end zone. Payette then jumped offsidelines and edged the ball even closer, putting the Huskies deep in the red zone; but what the flag can give, the flag can take away.

Brief confusion arose when the readied Marsing play, delayed by the offsidelines call, was to be switched. Senior running back Michael Moore pulled his mouthpiece to shout in connection with the change, asking, Walgamott said, to run the initial discarded play — a slant — and was penalized for illegal equipment, backing the ball out five yards.

The play was run, and finished on the one, just an arm's-reach short of the points needed to keep the Huskies alive.

"It's just one of those things," Walgamott said, adding that it's always tempting to "what-if" plays after the fact, and easy to assume doing something else would have worked better — or not at all. "Even as a play-caller and a coach, when you've got a play called and it's a great play, and you get a penalty, you still change it. I think if we'd run the slant before the offsidelines we'd have maybe scored."

"(Quarterback) Joey (Burril) had a chance to win the game, but it just didn't happen. It wasn't his fault; it's really just fortunate we even had a chance to run a play with nothing on the clock. We'd have had the clock run down at the 15 without the facemask."

Walgamott said the loss wasn't really anyone's fault and pointed out how tough it can be for young players in a stressful moment to let go of one plan and move to another in an instant.

"It's an experience thing; you have to have been in that situation before to know what to do," he said.

Payette got a good word from the coach.

"Give credit to Payette," he said. "They got us on the one play. That's all it was, too. The scoring play they had was a 52-yard touchdown."

That one pass play was the Pirates' single moment of breakaway offense in the entire game. Scorer Damien Reynolds also led Pirates' rushing with 73 yards. The Huskies had a nearly mirror-image drive at the end of the second quarter that came to grief with a stripped-ball fumble recovered by Payette on their two-yard line.

It's good for a team to have a tough game, Walgamott said. After the game, his offense came to him fired up to do things to increase their scoring ability inside the 20.

Walgamott said he thought it was a good day and a positive one. He was impressed with the packed crowd that attended and cheered the team, and extended thanks to the boosters in the stands.

"The kids gave their all — I couldn't have asked any more of them. The only thing I could have asked for that would have been better is that we would have scored a touchdown," he said. "We'll keep fine-tuning it every week."

"Hopefully, when we play Nampa Christian in two weeks, we'll be the best we can possibly be," he said. "That's going to be a tough (2A Western Idaho Conference) season opener."

Marsing will head to Nyssa, Ore., (0-2) on Friday for its final non-conference game of the season.

Burril wins starting job

The matchup saw Marsing again play both quarterbacks — senior Jose Paramo and junior Joey Burril — equally until the end of the game. At that point, Burril stayed behind the center, a spot he'll occupy for the rest of the season, according to his coach.

"I'm going to go with Joey. Jose does a great job, and I want to be able to get him the ball — running the ball or catching the ball," Walgamott said.

"I know, I say that and then something will change my mind, but that's the way I feel after this week and last week," he said with a chuckle.

The advantage of having two capable quarterbacks on the roster isn't lost on Walgamott.

"If Joey takes a hard hit, and Jose goes in, it's just like we never changed. They've rotated back and forth every day in practice," he said.

Burril will likely lead in two-thirds of practices now, in order to fine-tune timing and patterns, Walgamott said, but Paramo will still be taking the snap when not roping in Burril's passes or running the ball.

Walgamott said the pair is great to work with, and egos don't enter into the mix, with both Burril and Paramo willing and eager to do whatever they can to make the team as good as it can be.

"They live right behind each other and play catch back and forth over the fence," he said. "They're good friends, and it's a good situation. I'm proud of them; they've done a great job."

Rimrock volleyball takes three from Gem State

Raiders pick up first WIC win for new coach

Rimrock High School's volleyballers (1-1) took down Gem State Adventist (1-2) in a 1A Western Idaho Conference match played Thursday in Bruneau.

Gem State fell in three straight games, 25-13, 25-20 and 25-18. The Raiders played well across their roster, and had a stellar performance from Stevie Richardson, head coach Ashley Merrick said.

"Stevie had a great night with both her setting and serving. In game one she had a 13-point run," Merrick reported.

Richardson has 23 points and 22 assists.

The first-year coach also had praise for Jackie Thurman and Anna Cantrell, who brought both offense and defense to the floor throughout the match.

"Jackie and Anna were both on at the net, and the whole team just pulled together and worked to get the job done," she said.

Thurman served 12 points, including a pair of aces, and notched 16 kills, eight blocks and 10 digs. Cantrell contributed three points, nine kills, five blocks and 15 digs, and Kaile Murray posted seven points, three kills and 12 digs.

Gem State's Jaquell Boone had five kills, and her teammate Jessie Lawson a half-dozen digs.

The win was a boost after last week's conference-opening 25-5, 25-16, 25-15 loss to visiting Greenleaf Friends Academy, according to Merrick.

"We had to refocus after Tuesday's match against Greenleaf," she said, "and we knew we had work to do and some changes to make, and the girls adjusted well."

"They have a lot of heart and determination, and (Thursday) they proved that. We got behind a couple of times throughout the night, and they were able to come back and take charge and pull the momentum through to win."

The Raiders faced Notus on Tuesday, but results were not available at press time.

Rimrock will play host to Wilder (0-1 in league play) on Thursday.

Jamboree kicks off season

Homedale Flag Football starts second campaign

Morphing Mustangs keep rolling

Coach wields Midas touch with lineup changes

One would think that a volleyball team that has yet to lose a game wouldn't require much tinkering. But Jordan Valley High School seems to have grown stronger after coach Jacque Naegle went under the hood and looked around a little bit. "We changed a few things around this last week in practice and the girls felt a lot more comfortable on the floor and did a better job in executing their game," Naegle said. "We served better all the way around and we also hit more consistently." Senior Kayla Cuvelier was the epitome of those changes in the Mustangs' 25-5, 25-14, 25-7 High Desert League road victory over Harper on Friday. Cuvelier served a team-high 21 points and shared the team lead in kills with Emma Johnson at six apiece. Setters Nickie Naegle and Catie Kershner made sure Cuvelier and Johnson were busy through the match with nine assists and eight assists, respectively. Naegle also served 12 points. The Mustangs (3-0 HDL) entertain Burnt River on Friday. "It is still early in the season and we have things we need to work on, but all in all I was pretty happy with the way we played on Friday," Jacque Naegle said. Junior varsity Strong serving by Haley Hebison (16 points) and Shelly Payne (14) helped the younger Mustangs open league with a 25-6, 25-6 over the Hornets. "Every week when they get on the floor they continue to improve on their basic volleyball skills," Naegle said. "We did a great job of serving and then defending the ball when we did get it back. I was very proud of the way that we played." Mattie Wroten led the team with three kills, and Hebison dished five assists.

Trojans tackle tough Weiser Invite course

HMS cross country runners pick up three top-five finishes

In baseball, the pitchers have the upper hand over hitters in the early season. In cross country, it's the courses that throw curves as runners get their legs. Thursday at the Rolling Hills Golf Course layout, Homedale High School's athletes tried to disprove the norm by improving their times during the Weiser Invitational. Senior Kenny Cockrum finished 46th in 23 minutes, 22.15 seconds, while sophomore Jarod Armenta, another returner, was 52nd in 26:24.08. "Kenny Cockrum and Jarod Armenta improved their times from last week. That is a pretty good feat considering the difficult course at Rolling Hills," Trojans coach Nick Schamber said. "Other runners were within a minute of their times last week." Homedale's other athletes in the boys race — both freshmen — finished 50th (Ishmahel Mendoza, 24:56.05) and 53rd (Anthony Adams, 27:50.96), respectively. Two Trojans girls ran in the junior varsity race, with sophomore Brittany Cockrum finishing in 28:29.9 and freshman Phaedra Stevenson completing the 5-kilometer run in 31:37.38. The Homedale Middle School team, also coached by Schamber, opened its season in Weiser. Eighth-grader Antonio Sturgeon was runner-up in the boys race, with teammate Alfonso Barbosa, another eighth-grader, grabbing fourth to lead the Trojans to a second-place team finish. Seventh-grader Lauren Craft finished fourth in the girls race.

Clutch plays lift Trojans JV

Homedale High School used a big defensive play to get an early advantage Thursday night then held on for a 30-12 non-conference junior varsity football victory over host Melba. The Trojans (1-2 overall) deflated the Mustangs with four first-half scores. Trey Corta returned a fumble 75 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter then fired a 77-yard scoring pass in a third down-and-long situation to Alan Kennedy in the fourth quarter for a 30-6 lead. Kennedy ran 40 yards after hauling in the pass, the only completion of the night for Corta. Eight-four seconds before halftime with Homedale facing a 3rd-and-10 situation, Danny Magdaleno roared 45 yards for a touchdown to give coach Kevin Cornwall's squad a 22-0 lead. Bodie Hyer also scored a first-quarter TD, and the Homedale defense notched a second-quarter safety.

√ Trojans: Ryska run, Cuellar return are first touchdowns of the season

Jug Game at 7 p.m. Cuellar has been thrust into a prominent offensive role because of the thumb injury to senior tailback Rodrigo Villarreal. During Friday's Homecoming game, Cuellar returned a kickoff 93 yards to provide a momentary flash in an otherwise-flickering 24-13 non-conference loss to Melba at Deward Bell Stadium. In the closing moments of the game, Cuellar was seen on the sidelines clutching a bag of ice to his ribs, but he should be healthy for the Milk Jug Game. Kassebaum said it was nothing serious, just the usual bumps and bruises of a night that saw Cuellar touch the ball 11 times and pick up 38 yards, nearly half of the Trojans' total rushing output. Cuellar also assumed a full role on defense with two tackles and an assist. Villarreal, whose splinted thumb has been heavily taped on game officials' orders each week, led the defense with 12 tackles, a pass breakup and a fumble recovery. "I've been proud of the way he's rebounded with the disappointment of not being able to play offense," Kassebaum said. "He played a monster game on defense." Even though Villarreal didn't spend any time in the offensive huddle, he found a way to get in the rushing column when he turned a bad snap on a punt into a thrilling 15-yard gain. He dodged at least three Parma tacklers on the way to a first down on Homedale's first possession of the third quarter. That outburst didn't change Kassebaum's stance of not taking any chances by putting the fleet-footed senior into the offensive backfield before his thumb is healed. "The problem is getting the ball into his hands and keeping it secure," Kassebaum said. "I know he's athletic enough to make the plays. It's just the fear of turnovers." And so the coach is forced to employ the running back-by-committee approach. But Cuellar has emerged as chairman of the board with the rest of the Trojans' rushers averaging just 1.7 yards per carry. The David-vs.-Goliath aspect of Cuellar's performance against Melba was the Trojans' season in microcosm. Homedale (0-3 overall) has been dwarfed by some physical aspect of its opponent each week. Friday and the week before, it was the size of the opponents' fullbacks against the Trojans' defense. Blake Love, a 6-foot, 210-pound load of a fullback, bulled his way to 153 yards and two touchdowns for the Mustangs. He averaged seven yards per carry by crashing through the Trojans' front line and running free in the secondary. Love set the tone early. With Villarreal in a new position on the defensive line, Love lowered the boom on the senior five minutes into the game and rumbled into the secondary for 35 yards. Ryan Ryska wrestled him down at the Homedale 17, but three plays later, Love churned and turned from five yards out for the Mustangs' first score. There was occasional success against Love. Alex Mereness made two big hits on the fullback in the first half. One of his hits triggered a fumble three minutes before halftime with the score tied, 7-7, after Ryska had scored from a yard out to snap the Trojans' 15-quarter scoreless streak. But two third-quarter scores (a 58-yard run by Bryce Crossley and a 13-yard burst by Love) put the game out of reach for Homedale. Despite the loss, the Trojans had several chances to keep Melba under wraps. Mustangs receivers dropped seven of the first eight passes thrown by Jay Bangerter, and Trent Acree intercepted the other pass. "You probably will be naturally frustrated when you've prepared for what they're doing and you're physically not getting the job done," Kassebaum said. "The second-to-last touchdown, we had the kid (Crossley) wrapped up two yards in the backfield and didn't finish the tackle. They didn't really do anything exceptional on that play, but we just didn't wrap up." The fight against larger opponents continues Friday in the Milk Jug Game against Parma and former Trojans coach Greg Asbury. Friday's rivalry game opponent doesn't have a bruising fullback like Melba or Nampa Christian — in fact Kassebaum they have speed in tailback Dustin Koplin and veteran option quarterback Ranch Portenier. But the Panthers average 252 pounds across the offensive line. "They have good bulk but not in the same positions necessarily (as Nampa Christian and Melba)," Kassebaum said. "They play option football, so we have to be sure of the assignments and be disciplined." — JPB

Football foreign legion

Adrian’s team features international flavor, with eight exchange students on the gridiron

The Adrian Antelopes have a football team featuring players from both hemispheres this year, mustering at least seven languages between the eight foreign players.

Even with a global feel, language barriers haven’t stood in the way of communication.

“These guys haven’t had any problems making themselves understood,” head coach Paul Shenk said.

He was also impressed with their guts and commitment.

“Not one of them has quit,” Shenk said.

Players bring with them a wide variety of other sports experience, but obviously none in American football, a sport fairly unknown outside of Canada and the United States. Part of the draw for players seems to be the uniqueness of the sport.

Notes: “I’ve been here a month — hanging out with friends. It’s been cool here. At first thought ‘Oh no, a small school, this is going to suck’, but I have friends at some very big schools, and they’re saying ‘Oh no, there’s 2,000 students here, this sucks!’ Here it’s like a family. In two days here, I made friends.”
Lorenz did comment on the differences in parties between Germany and the states, especially given that in Germany beer and tobacco can be bought from age 16, hard liquor from 18. “I don’t need alcohol, but it’s different.”

Kee Sung Pyun
#71, 5’ 9”, 150 lbs.
From: Seoul, South Korea
Year: Sophomore
Why football?: “Because it’s hard to play in Korea — so I want to try it in America. It’s really hard, but after practice it feels good.”
Sports at home: Soccer and basketball
Notes: His best memory of football: his first tackle. Pyun is also a piano player and a big music fan.

Rodrigo Magri
#3, 5’ 8”, 145 lbs.
From: Santa Catarina, Brazil
Year: Junior
Why football?: “Because I want to try something different. In Brazil we don’t play football. I wanted to try something new.
Sports at home: Basketball
Notes: Like several of the exchange footballers in Adrian, Magri will also be hitting the courts in basketball season.
Most fun in Adrian: “It’s been a different country, totally different weather. For me, that’s the best part. I wanted to go somewhere I’d never been, somewhere totally different. It’s really dry here, and my city is really humid in Brazil. We have a lot of green things in Brazil (compared to Adrian).”

Lois Adam
#21, 6’ 4”, 160 lbs.
From: Southern Belgium
Year: Junior
Why football?: “Because I’ve never tried it before, and I want to do some activities with the others. I think it’s important to do activities with American boys and to be part of things.”
Sports at home: Tennis and track and field
Nicest thing about Adrian: “I think, the people. They’re very open. They’re used to welcoming exchange students, and I think it’s good. It’s a very small village, so we know everybody.”

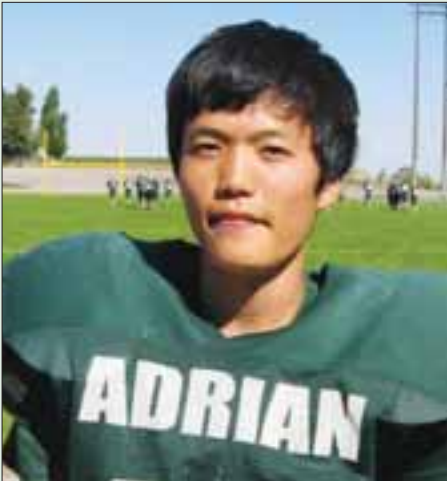

Edison Puebla
First day at practice — no vital stats yet
From: Ecuador
Year: Sophomore
Football: Tuesday was Edison’s very first day on the practice field.
Sports: Basketball, soccer, swimming
Notes: He wants to play basketball here as well. He comment the very fast pace of American basketball.
Most fun in Adrian: “The people, I think. Trying to know the different culture, trying to survive in a different country. It’s how you can define your character and who you are. That’s the best reason, I think.”

Roman Voigt
#22, 5’ 9”, 140 lbs.
From: Western Germany, near Köln (though he hadn’t known Matt).
Year: Junior
Why football?: “Because, I think, it’s the only sport activity I can do right now, and I want to stay in shape for basketball. But I tried it at the first two practices, when we had vacation, and we did our workout in the weight room, and I thought ‘This is a good idea, Roman, you can do it.’ I love it. I think it’s a team sport, you have to trust in your teammates, and you need a lot of guys. We talk about teachers and all this stuff.”
Sports at home: Basketball, running (he’s promised his father, who runs two marathons yearly, that when he returns to Germany he will run the Berlin Marathon with him).

Notes: “The language is a big thing — it’s not as difficult as I expected, but sometimes I don’t know a word when I want to tell my host mom or host dad something, and that’s difficult. Also, the food is different. But at the moment the weather is quite good here. In one month here it’s only rained maybe 10 minutes. That’s pretty nice.”

Zheng Te
#16, 5’ 8”, 130 lbs.
From: Beijing, People’s Republic of China
Year: Sophomore
Why football?: “Because I never played before, and I wanted to try it.”
Sports at home: Basketball
Notes: Te got to see some of the boxing competition at the Olympics this year. “It was cool.” He’s also intending to try out for basketball at Adrian. How does Eastern Oregon compare to Beijing? “Morning here is very cold!”

GV councilman not quite done with comeback

Lawrence plans to convert car to run with Meridian Street Stocks on Sept. 26

by Brian Calkins
Idaho Racing News

As the season wound down to a close for the Thunder Stocks at Meridian Speedway, Grand View City Council president Bill Lawrence, who races at Meridian, pondered the outcome of the night's racing to come.

Lawrence came to the track for the Sept. 6 Thunder Stocks season finale just four points behind longtime friend and racing buddy, RJ Lewis. The outcome could go either way at that point, but unless something really drastic happened one of them would be leader and the other runner-up in season points for the Thunder Stocks championship.

As the eight Thunder Stock cars completed their individual qualifying laps to set their starting positions for the eight-lap heat race and 25-lap main event, it turned out that Lawrence had gained four points with his faster qualifying time, and the two old friends were at that point dead even in points. After the heat race, Lewis had gained one of those points back, but that set up a shootout for the main event later in the evening.

Because of the inverted starting position (faster cars starting at the rear of the lineup), and points awarded for each position gained that bettered a racer's starting position, Lawrence had only to finish right behind Lewis to win the championship. Lawrence didn't even have to pass Lewis to win; just keep up.

As the green flag flew at the start of the race, Lewis took off right after the race leader in the race, and Lawrence fell back a little bit. As Lawrence jockeyed for position, another driver cut him off and he not only lost a bid to pass but he cut a tire and had to pull into the pits for repairs. As Lawrence made it back to the race, he was nine laps down and nothing short of really bad luck for Lewis could put Lawrence in the championship. As the race neared the end, another driver put Lawrence in the wall, adding insult to injury. As the checkered flag signaled the end of the race, RJ Lewis had won the championship.

Bill Lawrence started racing at Meridian Speedway in 1978 (while still in high school) in the Street Stock class where he met and befriended RJ Lewis, this year's season champion. Lawrence raced for 13 years in that class and then worked as a track official for eight years. He later returned to the track for his final race year before taking several years off after getting married in 1998.

After taking almost 10 years off from racing, Lawrence was lured back to the sport by his friend RJ Lewis and a fellow worker named Dave Harris. This was to be Lewis' last year in the Thunder Stocks, and Lewis thought it would be great for old friends to get back together after 10 years. Lawrence found an old race car, a 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo that last raced in the 1980s and had been literally out to pasture for 18 years. Lawrence reconfigured it for the 2008 rulebook and painted it bright orange and put a chrome tail pipe running out the rear window.

Harris was the first to refer to Lawrence as the Great Pumpkin because of the orange Tony Stewart T-shirt he often wore and now after a year of racing his car is known as the Great Pumpkin.

Lawrence said he had a lot of fun this year back at the races with Lewis. Some may say that it is fitting for Lewis to win the championship this year because it is his last year on the track. Lawrence said that on the track Lewis always "pushed the issue. You always knew he was there". But Lawrence added that he was a "clean driver who would take advantage of you". Lawrence is also seen as a clean driver by his competitors, but he does say about himself that he can drive as clean or as hard as whomever he is racing against.

Many of the racers are like a family and some of them are family. Lawrence, Lewis and another friend, Bill Lacey, always locate their pit stalls together so they can help each other out as needed. None of them have regular pit crews and, as it turned out, it was Lewis' nephew, Roy Kirkland, that changed the cut-down tire for Lawrence so he could continue on the final night of Thunder Stocks.

Even though Sept. 6 marked the last race for the Thunder Stocks at Meridian Speedway, Lawrence plans on changing a few things on his orange Monte Carlo and bringing it back out with the Street Stocks on Sept. 26. Fans of the Great Pumpkin — either the car or the driver — can see him one last time before the Meridian Speedway season comes to a close.

Water on Mars

WATER DISCOVERED ON MARS! That headline stopped me in my tracks! Maybe there’s hope for Colorado!

Colorado’s burgeoning population has those responsible scouring the state for water to supply the unquenchable suburban growth along the front range of the Rockies that stretches for 200 miles. Other, primarily southwestern metropoli from L.A. to El Paso, are trying to secure a water supply to accommodate their next 25 years of population explosion.

But actually locating, seeing and proving that Mars has water beneath its surface is electrifying to me. The accomplishment and findings of this feat rank with putting a man on the moon, the taming of the jalapeno, and the invention of insecticides.

Four million miles away on a red planet, just a bright dot in the night sky, we landed a toy shovel with a stove and a wireless cell phone with a camera. The picture showed a scrape of the bucket in the Martian dirt with two distinct wet spots in the track. Not a doubt.

It’s like making a connection that heretofore, had just been a blurb in the imagination of the human mind. Science fiction writers’ plots. Scientists’ puzzles. Romantics’ hopes. Star gazers’ dreams. It touches a deep spot inside of us. I concede not everyone is as impressed as I when the University of Arizona proved their theory that H2O existed on Mars. It didn’t even make the front page of many newspapers. There was a ho-hum reaction on television news that treated celebrity baby births, campaign promises, and political corruption as higher priorities.

But finding water on Mars is a watershed in the progress of mankind’s earthly knowledge of the universe. Suddenly Mars is no longer a barren giant rock circling the sun. It is no longer lifeless. It is not as hostile. H2O exists under its surface and with it, oxygen. Basic essentials for life, as Coloradoans can tell you. They are protective of their beautiful canyons and streams and mountains. They have for years voted down attempts to capture more water from the Front Range run-offs. But ... now days, the “environmentalists” are being washed away by the reality of demand.

In Colorado, developers, California immigrants, and politicians have spent decades plotting ways to beg, buy, borrow, or steal water from the agricultural communities. Now they have the numbers. Major water projects are in the permitting process or under construction to expand reservoirs, build new ones, build new dams, and install massive new pipelines from distant sources. There is an urgency.

Maybe by the time Denver, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, and Phoenix have drained every drop of water from the washrag of neighboring counties, we will be shooting H2O molecules on laser beams from deep wells on Mars and using them to flush toilets and water golf courses in Scottsdale and Aurora!

Hey, anything can happen. You wouldn’t believe it! We just found water on Mars!

Ivy: In a league of her own

The two cats yowling at each other in the park across the street from our house, woke me up at 3 a.m.

Ivy the Cat had been sleeping next to Sara on the far side of the bed. There was a thump as she jumped to the floor. A few seconds later, I heard her jump up into the window in the bedroom across the hall — a spot where she would have a better view of the argument outside.

The two cats in the park continued to shout obscenities at each other for nearly 30 minutes. I have enough catfight experience to know that since they didn’t come to blows in the first 30 seconds, it was unlikely that there would be a real fight. I remembered how, when Ivy was in her prime, there was a lot less talking in a catfight.

It was maybe seven years ago. I walked out on the front lawn. Ivy was sitting on the sidewalk staring toward the house next door. The neighbor cat was sitting just on the other side of the railroad tie boundary between the two houses. Suddenly the neighbor cat, which is several years younger than Ivy, slipped across the line and into our yard.

There wasn’t any stealthy approach or warning yowls from Ivy. The neighbor cat was barely across the boundary when it found itself trying to deal with a brown and black and white, biting, scratching furry blur. The invader was too busy trying to escape to ever throw a defensive punch.

In her prime, Ivy didn’t believe in Marquis of Queensbury rules. That’s because she was born and raised on the rough side of Marsing where you had to be a good fighter and a heck of a healer to survive on the streets. It wasn’t until we moved her to our house in Suburbia that she got a taste of the good life. If anything, that made her more protective.

Normally Ivy and Annie the Beagle, who was the same age, peacefully coexisted. Problems sometimes developed because Annie loved food — even the food in Ivy’s dish, and NOBODY messed with Ivy’s food. On one occasion, Ivy caught Annie trying to gobble up her food and turned the dog’s nose and ears into a big scab. On another occasion, I woke up in the morning to the sounds of yipping. Annie had again tried to get to Ivy’s food. She had been discovered. I found the dog at the rear of a narrow space between a bed and a bedroom wall. The only way out was an opening at the foot of the bed. Blocking that exit was Ivy. She was sitting there quietly, giving the terrified Annie the evil eye.

Ivy started to mellow as she got older. One day I noticed the neighbor cat a good three feet onto our property and our guardian ignored it — apparently not worth the trouble.

Although they never acted like close friends, Annie the Beagle’s death earlier this year seemed to affect Ivy. She is 14 now. Her coat coloring, once described by our vet as “chocolate chip cookie,” is fading. Earlier this year we had to have two more infected teeth pulled — several had been pulled earlier. She now has to eat canned rather than dry cat food. And because of our new pup — Asher — she spends most of her time in the back of the house. She still has those claws that put Annie in her place, but she chooses to avoid the new dog rather than slapping the slobbers out of him.

But in the morning, when I get out of bed and go in the bathroom to get ready for work, Ivy sometimes asks to accompany me. I pick her up and stroke her fur while she rubs the top of her head on the whiskers that have developed during the night on my chin. And she purrs and has a totally contented look on her face.

And I know that when the time comes we will miss her a lot.

Sen. Larry Craig

From Washington Legislation critical to Idaho schools stalled in Congress

The onset of September marks a season of change in the lives of Americans. It begins with Labor Day, the unofficial end of summer, and typically coincides with our schools opening their doors again. The memories of my children, and now my grandchildren, anticipating that first day of school come to mind. I remember their excitement as they packed up their school supplies and headed out the door.

For Congress, September also marks a return, only it is to the halls of the Capitol instead of the classroom. Like students, we have our assignments to complete, and right now there are some enormous tasks on that list, including critical energy legislation and more than a dozen appropriations bills needed to fund the federal government. But perhaps the most important and far-reaching is the now-expired Craig-Wyden Secure Rural Schools and Communities Self-Determination Act.

The Secure Rural Schools or County Payments program was instituted in 2000, but the law that precedes it goes back 100 years. In 1908, the U.S. Forest Service agreed to return 25 percent of the revenue it received from mining and timber sales to the counties where those resources were found. For nearly a century, that formula proved an effective way for counties with large tracts of public lands to make up for the lost property taxes from those lands. During the past 20 years, those payments have declined dramatically because of increased environmental restrictions and consequently, a drop in timber sales. The original County Payments law restored the hundreds of millions of lost dollars to 4,400 school districts across the nation — schools that are now being forced to dramatically cut teachers and programs.

Many of these school districts are found in Idaho. Boundary, Clearwater and Kootenai counties are all facing cuts of more than $1 million each. Valley and Shoshone counties’ shortfalls reach nearly $3 million and $4 million respectively, and Idaho County is looking at a staggering $4.8 million. All told, Idaho counties have lost more than $21 million, $6.2 million of which would directly fund schools. To put it in perspective, students in 120 Idaho classrooms will show up on the first day of school, only no teacher will be standing at the front of the class. Instead the students will be shifted into other classes, dramatically increasing class size and diminishing the quality of education.

Accuracy in Media

Why the media feminists hate VP pick Palin

by Cliff Kincaid

Columnist Marc H. Rudov calls them the “fascist feminists.” These are the feminists in the media and elsewhere who detest Sarah Palin because of her role as a successful wife and mother and defender of the unborn. Palin’s decision to have a Down syndrome child, when 90 percent of these children are being aborted in the womb, has proven in dramatic terms not only that there are articulate pro-life women in America but that there are women who will take a leadership role on “culture of life” issues of concern to millions. And this one could be vice president of the United States.

It could be the story of our lifetimes, something that could be historical in nature and a lesson for generations to come.

With the Palin pick, a loving and caring pro-life mother has been offered to the American people and especially young women as a role model in the political arena. An article distributed by Catholic News Service noted in a headline that Sarah Palin is a politician who “lives her truth” and “walks the walk.” Don’t expect to see any stories like this in the secular “progressive” media.

The feminists and their allies in the media, who treat abortion as a human right, when abortion destroys basic human rights, are on the defensive. Their vicious attacks have already generated a backlash in her favor. But the controversy goes far beyond Palin and the fate of those, now some 40 million, who have lost their lives through abortion. What will we as a society do with the increasing numbers of elderly Americans with health problems? Will they be directed into a national health care plan that rations care, treatments or medicine?

Meanwhile, the culture war is back, and it is clear that most of the controversy over Palin is being driven largely by feminists in the media. On MSNBC, a lesbian feminist, Rachel Maddow, is leading the assault. She is the latest addition to the far-left lineup at this poor excuse for a cable “news” channel.

“This intragender war marks the official unmasking of fascist feminism,” Rudov writes in his insightful article on the Newswithviews.com Web site. Palin “rose from hockey mom to state governor without affirmative action,” he notes, and has “proved publicly that women can succeed without being victims.”

What’s more, notes Rudov, “Sarah Palin has achieved success while expressing love and admiration for her husband, anathema to the misandrist underpinning of fascistic feminism.”

Palin can never be forgiven for this. That is why she must be destroyed.

Beyond her role as a pro-life mother who loves her husband, Palin is a reminder to the feminists that what they are screaming for in the battle for the right to “choice” is not only a human life but in many cases a disabled child, one of the most innocent and defenseless among us.

As George Will noted in a column, “Eugenics by Abortion,” abortion of Down syndrome children has become part of an insidious quest for a “disability-free society.” Will has a personal interest in this debate and has written about the ongoing attack in America on a whole “category of citizens” — those with Down syndrome. The elderly could be the next in line. After all, why else did Democratic Party moneybags George Soros initiate a $45 million “Project on Death in America” and promote euthanasia and assisted suicide?

Palin is a target and possibly in harm’s way because she is being perceived as someone who can take a bold stand against George Soros and his nightmare vision and turn the country around on such critical issues.

Evidence of her striking a chord with ordinary Americans is already starting to emerge. Consider what happened in Washington County, Pa., when Palin and McCain traveled through on a campaign appearance.

KDKA’s John Shumway reported: “A local couple unexpectedly got to meet Vice Presidential Candidate Gov. Sarah Palin and GOP Presidential Nominee Sen. John McCain during their visit to Washington County last weekend. They share something in common with Palin. They also have a child with Down syndrome. In a sea of smiling faces at Consol Energy Park, Kurt and Margie Kondrich, along with their daughter, Chloe, caught the attention of the candidates.”

Margie was holding a sign that said, “We (Heart) Kids With Down Syndrome.”

McCain and Palin left the bus and met with the family. “They just came up as warm as could be and said ‘Hi’ and they thanked us for coming,” Kurt Kondrich said. Palin asked if she could hold Chloe.

Later, Palin brought down Trig, their child with Down syndrome, from the bus. “I got to see him,” said Margie. “It was very emotional for me, but I was very proud of him and my daughter and I kissed him on his chubby little face. I actually told her that her son was beautiful and that they would all be fine and it’s a lot of work but they are very blessed with having a child with Down syndrome.”

Other than Shumway’s story on KDKA, I didn’t see this reported anywhere else. It seemed like a story with a human touch.

But perhaps you now understand that the media want to demonize, not humanize, Palin. The hatred is showing through, but it is not having the desired effect. Instead, people are reacting with admiration for a woman who has demonstrated compassion and love in her life.

If you go to the Love and Learning Web site, you can learn more about how parents are caring for and educating their disabled children. The language and learning development materials help children with Down syndrome and other special needs reach their potential. Kurt and Margie Kondrich tell part of their story there, too, and there is a picture of Kurt holding Chloe.

George Will wrote about his own son, Jon, navigating Washington’s subway system to use his season tickets to the Wizards basketball games. But when he was born in 1972, Will recalls, “a time when an episode on a network television hospital drama asserted that people with Down syndrome could not be toilet-trained,” the hospital geneticist “asked Jon’s parents if they intended to take him home.”

Will added, “That question is, surely, no longer asked when Down syndrome babies are born. But there are modern pressures to prevent such babies from being born, pressures that include the perfection-is-an-entitlement attitude of some expecting parents.”

In order to counter the demands for abortion in these cases, Will mentions a bill, the Prenatally Diagnosed Condition Awareness Act, whose purpose is “to increase the provision of scientifically sound information and support services to patients” receiving positive test diagnoses for Down syndrome, spina bifida and other conditions.

The bill, currently known as S. 1810, is bipartisan, and it was introduced by Sen. Sam Brownback (R-Texas). But it has few co-sponsors. The House version, H.R. 3112, has only a few as well. The measures get no significant media attention because they raise questions about whether abortion is truly the right “choice” in those cases.

Amid the partisan rancor in Washington, D.C., might it be possible, in light of the Palin pick, for Democrats and Republicans to pass this bill in quick order and do something to provide information to parents and save lives?

All that they are asking for is more information in order to make an informed judgment. Isn’t that what “choice” is supposed to be all about?

Palin, of course, didn’t need special information in order to make her “choice” to save Trig’s life. She knew, as a mother, that the baby had rights that she could not and should not take away. She knew it was a subject not above her pay grade.

In the days ahead, as Charles Gibson of ABC and other media stars get their chance to interrogate the Republican vice-presidential candidate, we will be hearing about her views on a wide variety of issues. They may be able to trip her up on something or other.

But she has already demonstrated superior knowledge on an issue that is one of the most central of our time.

✓ Legislation: Politics get in the way of key funding authorization

Over the course of this year, I have worked to extend the County Payments program countless times. Unfortunately, election-year politicking and other issues have crippled those efforts. Now that both school and Congress are back in session, I will do all I can to make sure Idaho and the rest of the nation’s rural schools have this critical funding restored. I only hope Congress shares the same enthusiasm and willingness to get to work as our students.

Upcoming elections highlight city council meeting

November elections were the main topic of discussion at the regular Homedale Council meeting on September 14. Registration books will open this Friday, Sept. 23. Edna I. Grimes, city clerk, was named registrar and Marsha Hays, assistant clerk, deputy registrar. Electors may register at the city hall during regular office hours.

Terms which are expiring are those of Mayor George Murray, councilmen Larry Bauer and Rodger Nash. Petitions of nominations are now available at the city hall and may be filed with the city clerk between September 29 and October 11.

It was noted that the monthly water minimum of $6 will be raised by $1.15 to $7.15 monthly effective October 1. Billings received on November 1 for the month of October will reflect the raise.

Trojans axe Bulldogs 48-7 in gridiron contest

The Homedale Trojans came back from a shutout a week earlier to clobber the Nyssa Bulldogs 48-7 last Friday night, playing in the famed Trojan tradition.

It was the Homedale boys all the way, beginning with Terry Uda’s 34-yard run for an early first quarter touchdown, followed by Chris Landa’s one-yarder up the middle. Following both six-pointers, Randy Shanley added the extra point.

In the second period it was the brotherly teamwork of QB Gary Kushlan passing to Eric that added another 6 points. Chris Landa followed adding six more on the board with a four yard sprint.

Landa again scored early in the second half on a one-yarder, followed by another short drive by Randy Jewett and a two-yard jump by Dan Collett.

Homedale woman wins in contest

Boosters, school advocate ‘one solicitation’ plan

The Homedale Booster club, composed of the majority of the local merchants, and the Homedale high school are jointly advocating a “one solicitation” plan for funds to support the high school athletic department and the high school annual for the coming year, according to Paul Zatica, president of the Homedale chamber of commerce and Deward Bell, high school coach and principal.

In the past, the high school students have called on the merchants innumerable times during the year to sell tickets to various sports events and to solicit advertising in the school annual and on the sports posters, Mr. Bell pointed out. Under this plan, merchants will be solicited only once — for $17.50 which will include their $10 Booster club ticket (which is a season ticket to all home athletic events at the high school), their name listed on the ball posters, and a $7.50 ad in the school annual.

Dates set for the select group from the high school to contact merchants on the ‘one solicitation’ plan are October 2-3. This will be early enough so that the season athletic tickets will be out before the first home football game with Adrian, here, October 10.

“We are determined to keep school athletics and the school annual on a ‘pay as you go’ basis. It takes something over $800 to operate as we have in the past. We hope to get about 40 local business establishments to buy the ‘one solicitation’ plan at $17.50 each which would raise $700, and we plan to raise the rest by sale of Booster tickets to parents and others,” Mr. Bell said.

PTA approves purchase of books

The first Homedale PTA meeting of the year was held Monday night at Washington grade school with a short business session, followed by a social hour.

Phil Batt, PTA president, introduced new officers and committee chairmen. Richard Frazier, school superintendent, introduced the faculty and school staff members.

The group approved the purchase of two sets of encyclopedias and matching carts for $230. The new books are for use in the Lincoln and junior high buildings.

Trojans clobber Fruitland 31-0 in SRV opener

Homedale high school Trojans clobbered the Fruitland Grizzlies with an easy 31-0 victory in the opening SRV B football game played Friday at Fruitland.

Both squads went scoreless in the first period, but the Trojans broke loose in the second to grab two TD’s. They added two more in the third and one in the fourth period to wrap up the game.

Johnny Uranga sparked the Trojans to victory. He scored both of the second period touchdowns on runs of four and 12 yards and then threw a 45-yard scoring pass to Dennis Brandon in the third quarter.

Pat Parker and Loran Waite scored the other Homedale TD’s. Parker intercepted a pass in the third period and went 40 yards to pay dirt, and Waite scored on a 30 yard run in the fourth quarter. Parker also kicked Homedale’s only extra point.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION. The Board met August 29th and transacted business as follows: A. H. Webb’s assessment on real estate was reduced $70 and Webb & Bradley’s assessment was reduced $2,000. The Cosmos Mining Co’s assessment on whim was reduced from $400 to $200. The Ainsworth assessment on boarding and ore houses, at Surplus Oro Fino, was reduced from $3,000 to $1,500. The Owyhee Mining Co’s assessment on 100 tons of ore was reduced from $5,000 to $3,000. G. W. Grayson’s assessment on mortgage was also reduced $2,000. The Board then adjourned and met again on Sept. 5th. It was ordered that Hill Beachey’s assessment on Stable in Silver City be reduced from $750 to $400, and on ore from $3,440 to $2,100. Assessment of W. D. Walbridge on dwelling was reduced from $5,000 to $3,500. Minear M. and Mr. Co’s assessment on Oro Fino Toll Road was also reduced from $4,000 to $3,000, after which the Board of Equalization adjourned sine die.

GONE EAST. A few days ago Judge Gilmore Hays started overland for the States. He goes to Missouri partly on business and partly on pleasure, and we understand will return to Owyhee again this fall. The Judge is one of the oldest and most widely known of Owyheecans. We wish him a pleasant journey and safe return.

SHOOTING SCRAPE. Between seven and eight o’clock last Monday evening a shameful shooting affair occurred at Sommercamp’s saloon, between two of our citizens. On account of the hither to respectability of the parties and for the sake of their friends we suppress names. On the evening in question, we, together, with twenty-five or thirty others were in the saloon, when the two valiant shootists commenced banging away at each other with revolvers. Some of the crowd screened themselves behind billiard tables, others sought protection behind the stove, while we, and as many as could readily find the door, imagined that business on the outside demanded our immediate attention. As nearly as we can learn, seven or eight shots were fired, taking effect only in the floor, ceiling and windows of the saloon. When the shooting commenced the parties were not more than six or eight feet apart lengthwise of the house. No. 1, who had fired the fourth shot and snapped the fifth cap, thought that No. 2 would be likely to make it too hot for him, and concluded to “git.” Gaining the back door at a bound, he cleared a long flight of starts at two leaps and reached Jordan Street in safety. How the affair originated or who was to blame, we will not now undertake to say, as one or both have been bound over to appear before the Grand Jury at next term of Court. We understand the parties have “made it up,” but that don’t make their conduct any the less criminal. Shooting promiscuously in a crowd cannot be too severely censured. It wouldn’t matter if the shootists killed only each other, but men who shoot so wide of the mark as those did on Monday night, are likely to kill innocent persons above, below or on either side of them.

HOTEL CHANGE. The public will please note the change in advertisement of Idaho Hotel this week. J. K. Eastman has sold his interest therein to Jas. Hays, who, with the other proprietor, H. B. Eastman, will continue to make that popular establishment an inviting and pleasant home for their patrons. The Idaho affords conveniences second to none in the Territory. The proprietors are sociable and accommodating gentlemen, who pay particular attention to the comfort and well-being of their guests.

MR. JOHN GRAHAM, who for several weeks past has afforded amusement to our community by his witty and pleasing comicalities on the stage, started for San Francisco, via the Columbia, on Tuesday last. Johnny, as he was familiarly called, takes with him the best wishes of a host of warm friends, whom he gained by his gentlemanly deportment and amiable conduct while here.
