Physical Trojans take out Huskies

Marsing High School running back Sean Finley endures a rough tackle by two Nampa Christian defenders during Friday's game on the Trojans' field.

Huskies tackle transition

Loss to NC provides rough start to WIC year

Although he had been in his new job only a short time, Jake Walgamott faced a crucial decision about how he would steer the Marsing High School football team.

He chose to bite the bullet and ride out the consequences, which has resulted in two shutouts and only 25 points in the season's first four games.

"I debated about this all summer when I got the job: Whether I change and do what I want to do or whether I stay with what we know and then waiting and change when I have more time and we can work through it after football season," the first-year coach said.

"And I thought about it long and hard, probably a week to 10 days, and I just finally decided that well if we would hire somebody different they'd be learning something new. And so we're hiring somebody different, and we're going to go through the change and they're going to learn something new."

The learning curve was steep Friday night as early mistakes set up the Huskies for a lopsided 58-12 loss to top-ranked Nampa Christian in the 2A Western Idaho Conference opener for both squads.

Penalties stalled two first-half possessions for Marsing (1-3 overall, 0-1 2A WIC) while the Trojans (4-0, 1-0) were still within striking distance.

A holding penalty torpedoed

the Huskies' deepest penetration into Nampa Christian territory on a 2nd-and-4 from the Trojans' 35, and the team's next possession was up-ended when the Huskies were flagged for not getting enough players on the line of scrimmage (no receiver covered the left tackle in the formation).

Speedy Michael Siegersma beat cornerback David Rios on a 39-yard fly passing pattern five plays later for a 14-0 Nampa Christian lead.

"It's been a hard go for me because the little mistakes have kept us out of things," Walgamott said, referring to the eight penalties for 52 yards the Huskies accumulated through the night.

"We moved the ball then we get down to third and long and

Thrilling play keeps Adrian's record perfect

Quarterback Blake Ishida finished what he started Friday in literal and impressive fashion.

The senior led Adrian High School to a heart-stopping 42-40 High Desert League victory on the road in Prairie City, throwing what would become the game-tying pass and scoring the points that tied the game.

With 1 minute, 45 seconds left and the Antelopes facing a six-point deficit and 85 yards of territory to cover, Ishida unloaded a 45-yard pass to George Ellsworth. With a Prairie City player trying to tackle him as he headed for the sideline, Ellsworth lateraled to Ishida, who was trailing the play. Ishida roared the remaining 40 yards to tie the game, 40-40.

Kyle Osborn ran in the PAT for a 42-40 lead, and Daniel Lode picked off a Prairie City pass to give the Antelopes a win.

The final drive was just the crowning achievement for an Adrian team that erased a 12-point deficit in the final five minutes of the game.

The Antelopes drove 65 yards in six plays earlier in the quarter, with Ishida going in from a yard out to pull to within six points, 40-34.

After a scoreless first quarter, the teams began trading scores. Colton Schulze's fourth rushing touchdown of the game gave Prairie City's a 40-28 edge. Earlier, Ishida had tied the game, 28-28, by throwing a 20-yard TD pass to Osborn.

Schulze gained 190 yards on the ground; Ishida completed seven of 16 passes for 268 yards. Ellsworth hauled in four passes for 166 yards (a 41.5-yards-per-catch average), including a 70-yard TD reception to tie the game, 20-20.

Adrian will meet Mitchell/Spray on the road on Friday.

Rusty Fender Classic features cross country cross-section

The Rusty Fender Classic will wend its way around and through the tough terrain at CJ Strike Reservoir on Thursday.

Kermit Tate, the coach of the host Rimrock High School cross country team, said that entries have been received from Homedale, Horseshoe Bend, Idaho City, Liberty Charter, Victory Charter and Parma. He is still waiting to hear from Hansen and Middleton, "both of whom had expressed interest in joining the fun," Tate said.

"The course stays the same:

the most demanding 5K I could find. This race tests competitors both physically and mentally. It's completely doable, but it will make you very, very tired. It's definitely (and deliberately) old-school cross," he said. "As Coach (Paul) Dallmann (Idaho City) says, 'It's not a sport for the faint of heart'."

A real attraction for the Fender, which Tate points out, is that the runners are in view of both coaches and spectators for perhaps 80 percent of the course. In a sport where too often all the action is out of sight over a hill, the Rusty Fender gives those attending a chance to break out the binoculars and watch the runners battle the terrain and each other.

"Because of a meeting scheduled for that day," Tate said, "we'll have to start the middle school section at 4:30 p.m., with the women's varsity and men's varsity sections following as time permits. We're hoping for cool weather; the sun can be brutal on that hillside on a hot day. The Grand View Lions are

Antelopes volleyball pounds PC

Adrian High School did no less at the net than it did on the gridiron this week, with the volleyball team keeping its undefeated status in the High Desert League by sweeping host Prairie City on Friday.

The Antelopes (7-3 overall, 4-0 HDL) took down the Panthers in three straight, 25-12, 25-20 and 25-16.

Coach Aimee Goss praised the team's service game, and singled out Terra Rust (eight aces, two kills) and Andrea Shenk (seven aces, five kills) for kudos.

"They place the ball really well, and Prairie had some problems returning the ball at times," Goss said. "There were some nice rallies, and I am pleased with the progress the team is making as a whole."

McKenzie Purnell chalked up three aces, six assists and seven kills. Madison Shira had an ace, eight assists and three kills of her own.

Huskies fall to Trojans in four

Despite extended volleys and never-say-die defense, Marsing High School volleyball (3-5 overall, 1-5 conference) fell to Nampa Christian, 22-25, 25-20, 23-25 and 18-25, in a 2A Western Idaho Conference match held in Marsing on Sept. 23.

The Trojans (5-0 in 2A WIC) played well and put up some impressive individual stats, but Huskies coach Loma Bittick was happy with her defense.

"I think we did a good job of challenging their hitters. We played defense behind our blockers, and I am pleased with the way we volleyed with them. We have strong servers and earned several points with tough serves," she said.

"If we can continue to work on our team play, we will be in a good position at tournament time."

Working on the offense, tuning the team's ability to convert kills, and being better aware of the defense, top Bittick's points for polish in practice this week.

For Marsing, Kaitie Kent had three kills, seven assists, an ace and a team-high 17 points. Rebecca Cossel had four blocks and four kills. Kaya Stahle had an ace, eight digs and seven points.

The Trojans' Kayla Vanderstelt had a big night, with 18 kills, three aces and 22 digs. Teammate Ashley Crooks helped with 27 digs.

"Vanderstelt hit well — we will keep working to put a wall up in front of the hitter and challenge that. All the teams in our league are competitive, anything can happen on a given night," Bittick said.

Pass-happy Mustangs trample Pine Eagle

Alek Quintero fired three of his five touchdown passes in the second quarter as Jordan Valley High School blew open its non-league football game with Pine Eagle by scoring 28 points.

The four second-quarter TDs ignited the Mustangs' 50-18 victory in Halfway, Ore., and kept coach Tim McBride's squad unbeaten.

Dusty Easterday capped the Mustangs' blitz before halftime, returning a blocked punt for a touchdown. Jordan Valley carried a 36-8 lead into the locker room.

"After the first series, our team controlled every part of the game," McBride said. "I was really pleased with the physical play on the offensive and defensive side of the ball. It was a good team win."

Three of the four passes Zac Fillmore caught went for touchdowns, and he finished with 105 yards receiving. He hauled in a 63-yarder from Quintero in the fourth quarter and also added scoring plays of 34 and 10 yards.

Quintero, who scored on a three-yard run in the first quarter, had 61 yards on 10 rushes, while Bryce Kershner added 53 yards on nine attempts.

Melba boy given lifetime license

A Melba man's good fortune means his son will enjoy a lifetime of hunting in Idaho on the house.

Scott Nicholson won the lifetime hunting license raffle sponsored by the Idaho Hunter Education Association's Treasure Valley Chapter. He promptly gifted the license to his son, Tyler.

The hunting educator's fundraising raffle was launched in February. Chapter members sold 500 tickets at $5 apiece.

"The response to the raffle was just great," association board member Jay Stark said. "We appreciate all the support for the association demonstrated by those who purchased raffle tickets."

Raffle proceeds will be used for range improvements at Black's Creek Rifle Range and for youth hunting opportunities in and around the Treasure Valley.

Improvement pleases coach as district tourney looms

Despite an 0-1-6 record, Homedale High School girls soccer coach David Correa likes what he saw on the field and in his players against conference foes McCall-Donnelly and Fruitland last week.

“This week’s games attest to the progress our team is making,” Correa reported. “Little by little, the players have improved in their ability to work together as a team.”

The team’s improvements, especially in defense and in the speed and aggressiveness that they pursue the ball with, were both marks of a maturing process, he said.

McCall (0-1-4) visited Homedale Middle School on Sept. 23 for a 3A Snake River Valley conference game. Both teams managed to put one in the net in the first half, and allowed nothing in the second, to finish in a 1-1 deadlock.

“We played a great game,” Correa said. “We slowed down their attack in midfield and kept possession of the ball for a good portion of the game.”

The game was tied 1-1 at the half, and neither team could score against the defense in the second. Homedale’s goal came at the 15-minute mark in the first half on a play from junior Annamaria Salas to senior Hannah Johnson. Trojans goalie Sierra Aberasturi had 19 saves on the day.

Thursday saw Homedale facing Fruitland. Though the Grizzlies prevailed 5-2 in the conference game at HMS, Correa saw positives on the field.

“I saw my team playing smart, practical and effective soccer. We created several opportunities for goals that, unfortunately, we couldn’t finish,” he said.

Fruitland, on the other hand, made the most of similar chances, scoring three in the first half and two in the second, versus Homedale’s solo goals in each stanza.

For the Trojans, Jessica Eubanks, a junior, scored off a Johnson pass in the first. In the second, Johnson took the ball in herself. Aberasturi saved 23 during the match.

Homedale played host to Weiser on Monday, but results from the conference game were not available before press time. The team travels to Emmett on Saturday for part of a non-conference doubleheader with the Homedale boys team.

“We’ll continue to work hard,” Correa said.

“The district tournament is around the corner.”

The team plays at Payette on Tuesday in the final conference game of the season before beginning the 3A District III Tournament back at Harmon Killebrew Field in Payette on Oct. 11.

Jordan towers over taller Pine Eagle, keeps perfect mark

Libero Ashley Hebison served 17 points in three games Friday, helping neutralize Pine Eagle High School’s height advantage and leading Jordan Valley to a non-league volleyball sweep in Halfway, Ore.

Kayla Cuvelier continued her dominance at the net, smashing 16 kills in a 25-14, 25-20, 25-16 victory over the Spartans. She also led Jordan Valley (5-0 overall) with four blocks.

“Halfway is the biggest team that we have played this year,” Mustangs coach Jacque Naegle said. “They had four players that were all taller than our tallest girl, and they ran a double block across the front row which we have not come across this year.

“I was extremely pleased with the way the girls played.”

Nickie Naegle dished 12 assists and served 10 points. Catie Kershner added nine assists.

“We did a great job on controlling the floor and playing our game,” Jacque Naegle said. “Pine Eagle tried hitting and tipping on our defense and we adjusted extremely well covering all of our bases.”

Junior varsity

With preparation time limited because of illness for many players, the Mustangs’ developmental squad dropped a 20-25, 22-15, 15-10 decision to Pine Eagle.

“I think the only day we had all of our players was on Thursday,” Naegle said. “We also changed a few things on our defense, and we weren’t quite in the right place to cover the floor.”

Haley Hebison had 12 assists, and Shelly Payne notched team-highs with five kills and 11 service points.

“We served pretty well and the girls did a good job staying in the rallies, but we just didn’t quite finish things off,” Naegle said. “I am positive once we are able to get everyone back at practice and spend a little time on the new ideas we are going to be just fine.”

Mixed bag awaits Southwest Idaho hunters

Rocky Mountain Elk

Elk populations in the Weiser River and Boise River Zones are stable to increasing with good elk numbers, but hunters will have to work hard to find mature bulls. Bull-cow ratios are 15 bulls per 100 cows and calf-cow ratios are 30 calves to 100 cows. Hunting pressure is higher compared to that in the Sawtooth Zone.

Public access to U.S. Forest Service lands is plentiful in hunt unit 22, 32A and 39. In contrast, you'll find lots of private land, limited access and not many elk during hunting season in Unit 32.

Elk populations in the Sawtooth Zone are decreasing, but you'll find good access to U.S. Forest Service lands and lower hunting pressure in this zone compared to surrounding areas. Bull-cow and calf-cow ratios are similar in the Sawtooth Zone to both the Weiser River and Boise River Zones.

Mule Deer

Deer populations north of the Snake River are stable with good deer numbers but not a lot of mature bucks. You'll experience fairly high hunting pressure in Unit 39 compared to surrounding units. You'll also find good public access to USFS lands in all units except for Unit 32.

Over-winter survival of fawns this year was higher in Unit 39 than any other monitored unit in the state. The only change to general deer seasons is in Unit 22, which is now a 2-point only hunt. Owyhee County units are also 2-point only. Early reports in Units 40, 41, and 42 indicate lots of yearlings out there.

Overall, high snowpack and slow snow melt contributed to good growth of forbs and browse throughout spring and summer. Animals should be in good physical condition with lots of body fat going into the fall. Animals may be widely dispersed this year due to an abundance of water, and may not be in the same areas as the past few years.

Upland Birds

Pheasant hunting should be good in areas with good pheasant habitat, based on late August brood surveys. Number of chicks per hen was slightly higher this year compared to last.

Greater sage-grouse have declined about 50 percent during the past two years. However, populations are still higher than the 10-year average. Chick production appears to be good to excellent this year.

Forest grouse are generally stable with early indications of good chick production. Forest grouse are typically associated with water, which means forest grouse may be widely scattered this year compared to the past few years.

Extremely low chick production followed by a tough winter adds up to a tough hunting season for chukar and gray partridge hunters. Chukar surveys conducted at Brownlee and Lucky Peak Reservoir were the lowest ever recorded. However, good forage conditions this year mean that chick production was good for those birds that made it through the winter. California quail are also down slightly but hunters should still find decent coveys in areas with good habitat.

Late August dove numbers are down compared to 2007 but slightly higher than the 10-year average. Cooler weather during August may have prompted an earlier than normal migration of doves out of the area.

Overall, high snow pack resulted in good cover and forage for upland birds. Although most upland bird populations are down, chick production should help stabilize the numbers in the next few years.

Lots of water in drainages mean that birds, especially forest grouse, may be more widely scattered compared to previous few years.

Chukars — Few birds and far between for hunters

Another bad year for Chukar

State wildlife biologist Andy Ogden says the 2008 nesting season was critical for the recovery of Southern Idaho's chukar populations. Photo by Idaho Department of Fish and Game.

2007 Chukar season was among poorest on record; 2008 even worse

Talk to any avid Southwest Idaho chukar hunter about the 2007 season and you'll likely get an earful lamenting one of the worst seasons in recent memory and perhaps on record. The 2008 season is shaping up to be equally awful, and likely worse.

This is wildlife biologist Andy Ogden's take on why hunting was so bad last year; observations that are equally applicable to this year's crop of birds. — Ed.

During their first weeks of life, chukar chicks (like all upland birds) rely completely on protein-rich insects for survival. Later in the summer, chicks supplement their insect diet with green, leafy vegetation, but early in life, chicks need lots of insects to survive.

In fact, studies in England have shown that gray partridge average brood size is only one half of what it used to be because insect populations have been heavily impacted by pesticide spraying.

The extremely low precipitation received in southern Idaho last winter, coupled with an extremely dry early spring, resulted in well below normal insect numbers. The plentiful rains of late May and early June were not enough to jump start insect production in time for this critical food supply to be available for chukar chicks hatching in early- to mid-June. The result was limited chick survival from first nesting attempts.

A second factor played a major role in the reduced chukar production of 2007. Hen chukars invest a great deal of energy in egg production, followed by a long period of fasting during egg incubation. To successfully complete this cycle, they must enter the spring season with enough fat reserves to get them through this high energy demand period. In Idaho, hens build up this fat reserve during the winter months by consuming green grass (fall-sprouted cheatgrass, especially). However, "greenup" in the fall of 2006 was relatively poor, forcing hen chukars to survive the winter on less nutritious cheatgrass seed heads and other forage. Many of them entered spring with less than adequate energy reserves, making it difficult if not impossible to successfully complete the nesting and brood rearing cycle.

Re-nesting effort among upland game birds – including chukars – is well documented. What is not known is just how many hens re-nest if their first brood successfully hatches but perishes in the days or weeks that follow. I suspect that, last year, few hens had the physical stamina and time left in the summer season to re-nest if they lost a hatched brood.

Each year, Fish and Game conducts a chukar census flight in the Brownlee area; I've flown this census every year since 1984. Birds flushing in front of the helicopter must be quickly counted and with a little practice, an observer can assess the makeup of each group. Our late-August observations at Brownlee were an accurate precursor to a dismal hunting season. The number of birds per square mile and the average number of birds per group was the second lowest ever counted. In addition, the poor production numbers from 2007 came on the heels of low production in 2006, the result being a lower than normal nesting population in 2007.

Unfortunately, population estimates seen at Brownlee are a reflection of southwest Idaho as a whole. I've heard of a few areas where chukar reproduction was good: higher elevation areas mostly. But production was certainly poor in many traditional chukar nesting areas.

While the Brownlee flight is a good tool, our best measure of upland bird production is the evaluation of wing data from wing barrels and other fall wing collecting efforts.

Not surprisingly, last year's wing data supported the helicopter census findings. Chick production was 60 percent below the average (0.7 young birds per adult bird compared to the average of 1.6 young per adult). Without question, this was the worst production effort I've seen in over 30 years of examining wings! And it appears that chukar production problems are not restricted to Idaho; I looked at about 30 chukar wings from birds taken near eastern Oregon's Owyhee Reservoir. Twenty-nine of the wings came from adult birds.

Owyhee receives $309,074 in federal funds

As a result of legislation signed recently by President Reagan, Idaho BLM State Director Clair Whitlock said today that the BLM was to be able to authorize disbursement of $95.9 million to nearly 1,700 units of local government on September 9, 1983, to help compensate for Federal lands within their boundaries that were tax-exempt during fiscal year 1983. Counties in Idaho will receive $7,065,943, which makes Idaho sixth highest on the list of states that qualify for payments.

Owyhee County will receive $309,074, according to Whitlock.

Ann Akichika of Homedale was selected as the “Second Runner-up” in last Saturday night’s finals for the Miss Teen of American Pageant held in Duluth, Minn. A senior at Homedale high school, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Akichika.

Ann was also the recipient of the 1983 Teen of American Personal Development Award in the talent division of the contest. For her talent exhibition she played a classical piano number.

As overall second runner-up in the pageant, Ann will receive a $1,500 college scholarship.

Selected as the 1983 Miss Teen of America was Miss Virginia. Candidates from 50 states were represented in the national pageant.

Reagan sees Davis win bull-riding event

John Davis of Homedale received a commemorative buckle for his winning bull ride at a presidential command performance rodeo in Landover, Maryland, Sept. 24. Following the invitational all-star rodeo sponsored by the PRCA, the rodeo performers and government dignitaries attended a White House barbecue. Davis personally met President Ronald Reagan.

Last week Davis participated in a rodeo in Madison Square Garden. He will finish the 1983 rodeo competition at the Cow Palace in San Francisco held the first week in November. He will also be taking part in the National Finals in Oklahoma City beginning in the first week of December.

Pilgrims fall under Trojans’ force

At the end of a scoreless first quarter, it looked as though the Homedale Trojans were up against an equally strong New Plymouth team, but things turned around before the end of the first half, when the scoreboard showed the Trojans ahead 28-6, holding a strong lead throughout the remainder of the game. The final score was Homedale 41, New Plymouth 20.

Homedale broke into the scoring column first when Terry Uda took it in from five yards out early in the second quarter after Landa lumbered through the line for 11-, 10-, and 15-yard runs to sustain the 75-yard drive.

Moments later, Homedale got the ball right back on the Pilgrim 20-yard line after Todd Kelly intercepted a pass. Jewett capped the short drive with an 8-yard run up the middle.

New Plymouth then scored on a pass play. Homedale scored on their next three possessions as Gary Kushlan ran it in from five yards out before tossing a pass to brother Eric Kushlan with just three seconds remaining in the half.

Gary Kushlan completed 9 of 15 passes for 166 yards, finding receiver Eric Wilson on seven of them for 108 yards.

FLINT ITEMS. The frame of the Rising Star mill is up and nearly enclosed. The machinery is expected daily. Messrs. Lent and Gashwilder, two of the principal stockholders in the company, arrived from San Francisco this week. Mr. John Boyd has also just returned from an excursion to the Bay, where he has been making a sale of some of his quartz interests in Flint. The ore in the Rising Star gets richer the deeper the mine is prospected. A deposit of remarkably rich ore was struck this week causing the stockholders to feel very happy. We’re on the qui vine to see the cords of silver bricks that the new mill will turn out.

Mr. Perry is still at work sinking on the Forest. The shaft is now down 140 feet, where the lode is about twelve feet between the casings. There is a granite horse in the center and rich pay quartz on each side. The granite becomes less and the pay streaks wider the deeper it is worked.

The entire flat between the two towns has been laid off into lots and sold for building purposes. The Flintites expect that a town almost as large as Silver will spring up there this fall. How it is to be done or who will do it, they do not know, but they are confident that something will turn up. In our opinion, Flint will not increase in size and population much more this winter, but we shouldn’t be surprised if in a couple of years Silver should tremble through fear of losing the County Seat.

A quartette troupe of Teutonic damsels, with lager beer and accordion accompaniment, paid Flint a visit last week. The boys “danced all night till broad daylight,” and oh how hard it was to part with the girls in the morning. After several nights of “Sally come up and Sally come down, Sally come twist your heel around,” the jaded maidens were obliged to come back to Silver, where they will recruit exhausted nature, repair their soles and await another pay day in Flint.

SILVER CITY. Jas. S. Reynolds, editor of the Idaho Statesman, visited this place last week, and says in his paper of the 22d:

Silver City has about doubled in size and population during the last year and building is going on more rapidly now than every before. Everybody is in the best of humor, thinks there is no place in America better than Silver and is sure he is going to get rich. There is some reason why they should feel so for the past year’s work indicates nothing but success for every mine that has been worked. It is no longer a question whether there are other mines than the Poorman that will pay, nor whether that extraordinary mine will give out. The deeper they sink on the Poorman, the more it does not give out and so of other mines? Every new shaft sunk or level run discloses better ore and more of it. You therefore, see no anxiety in the countenances of the people now, as was the case two years ago, but you can read in each face as plainly as though it were printed there, “we have it now, sure.” Notwithstanding its success and present flourishing condition, the reputation of Silver has outrun its opportunities for affording employment to the hundreds who are flocking here. Capitalists have been slow to invest and in some cases have exhibited the usual amount of awkwardness and folly which of course suspended their operations. There has been more work done here with the money that has been slowly wrought out of the mines at this early stage of development than by all the foreign capital ever brought here. The mines have developed themselves. From month to month they have paid for their own working, and large profits besides. These facts becoming known abroad have brought many people here who will find little to do until new enterprises shall employ more laborers than can at present.

THE FIRST SNOW of the season fell on War Eagle and on the summit between here and Flint last Saturday evening but it melted away under the rays of the next morning’s sun. The days are pleasant, the smoky atmosphere reminding us of Indian Summer but the nights are getting cool enough to make a good fire desirable and warn us of approaching winter.

Towing rattlesnakes

It’s always a tough choice for a farmer to make when it is necessary to tow a crippled vehicle; should he have his wife drive the towing unit or should she sit behind the wheel of the one being towed?

To tow requires a steady acceleration to avoid jerking. To follow requires an astronaut’s sensitivity to slow and brake the vehicle before it smashes into the rear bumper or three-point hitch!

Kent’s old ’58 4-wheel-drive ¾-ton pickup had sat like a statue on top of a hill above their farm in eastern Kansas for years. Tourists might have remarked “how poignant that some farmer had made a monument to his faithful old 4x4.” However, the neighbors knew that the pickup broke down up there and was abandoned!

On the fateful day of the “Junction City Rattlesnake Ride”, Kent asked his wife to help him tow it to the shop. Complicating the operation was that the master cylinder was dry, the clutch plate was rusted to the flywheel and the engine didn’t run!

“Don’t worry,” he told her, “All you have to do is steer!”

Most farmers’ wives have a blind spot about machinery. The biggest one is, they actually think their husband knows what he’s talking about! The plan was that he would gently push her to the edge of the hill with the loader bucket. How, she inquired suspiciously, would she be able to stop it once she was headed down the slope toward the shop? He tapped his head with his finger to indicate he had already accounted for this contingency, “I will have the log chain hooked from the loader bucket to your back bumper to let you roll down easily.”

She gave him a skeptical look as they began. She tipped over the ridge as he slowed to take the slack. The truck picked up speed and never broke a step when the chain snapped like an old rubber band! Down the hill at a racing pace she flew, dodging, leaping, coursing, swerving and sailing in, over and through, cut banks, washes, creeks, ponds, cow trails, down fences and other snarling obstacles as Kent marveled at the old truck’s ability to maneuver. She high-centered on a stack of stone posts and leaped out screaming! He thought she’d done quite well, actually, and was surprised at her histrionics.

But, it turns out, there was more to the story than meets the eye. Just as the 4x4 broke free, she noticed a big shed snakeskin on the floor! With one hand on the wheel and the other frantically hunting for the snake, she didn’t get as much out of the ride as she could have!

Kent commiserated and said, sympathetically, “Thank goodness ya didn’t have to worry about braking!”

Not important ... but possibly of interest

Wyoming: A Smoker’s Paradise

It was one year ago that I dumped all my remaining cigarettes into a bowl (about $30 worth), tore them up, soaked them in water and threw them in the garbage.

Since that day in October 2007, I have not used any sort of tobacco. There haven’t been any relapses but there have been plenty of times I wanted to smoke. But the longer I stay clean, the more I have to lose by smoking even one cigarette.

The big reason for quitting smoking is health. But I’m one of those people who doesn’t aspire to live so long that I end up in a nursing home being spoon-fed oatmeal. So the health factor isn’t as important to me as it might be to some folks. What I enjoy is the convenience of not smoking.

Last week I flew to Casper, Wyoming, with a stop coming and going in Denver. Flying anywhere is Hell on Earth for a smoker. You can’t smoke in most airport terminals unless you go outside. If you go outside you eventually have to come back inside and when you do that you have to go through security again.

Denver does have a smoking lounge upstairs in the middle of Terminal B. But Terminal B is more than a half-mile long and if you land at Gate 14 and your next flight leaves in a half-hour from Gate 94, there isn’t time to stop off and recharge your system with nicotine at the lounge.

My Denver layover was three hours. I spent most of it just strolling around thinking about going to China later this fall and how much nicer the 14-hour flight will be when I’m not counting the minutes until I can have a cigarette.

Casper was a good test of how far I have come since quitting. It seems like about 80 percent of the people in Casper smoke. In Casper, they have smoking areas in restaurants that are larger than the non-smoking areas.

Whenever there was a break in the meetings, some of the attendees stepped outside to smoke. I usually went out, too, since I can relate to those folks. There are things in life I figure will kill me much faster than second-hand smoke — like nachos slathered with melted cheese or eating pizza four times a week.

One thing I never do when I’m around smokers is lecture them. There’s nothing worse than a reformed smoker who goes around telling smokers how superior he or she is. I KNOW how hard it is to quit and understand that a person can’t quit successfully until he or she has a compelling reason.

The toughest test of my non-smoker status came Saturday afternoon. When my panel ended, I headed back to the hotel and called Idaho to find out the score of the Boise State-Oregon football game. Throughout the rest of the afternoon, I kept calling home for score updates but began getting nervous when Oregon started a comeback. Finally, with five minutes left and the lead shrinking, I told Sara I wasn’t going to call anymore and to call me when the game was over.

As I waited for a call on the results of the game, I paced up and down on the sidewalk outside the hotel lobby. Several smokers were there, too. As the minutes ticked by with no call from home, it got more and more tempting to ease the tension with the medicine I had used for years — a cigarette. I’m fairly sure one of the nearby smokers would have obliged by giving me a smoke. But every time the urge surged, I thought about the amount of time I had invested and how much there was to lose. Still, I was glad when the phone finally rang and I got the final score.

In Alcoholics Anonymous, people admit they are alcoholics and always will be alcoholics and, therefore, can’t take even one drink. I’m that way with tobacco. I’m glad I don’t live in Wyoming.

Sen. Mike Crapo

From Washington Energy crunch demands rapid, long-lasting answers

Since June, I’ve been submitting letters to the Congressional Record from Idahoans who have written to me about how energy prices are affecting their lives. I update my Web site with new submissions every day that the Senate is in session. Not surprisingly, the deleterious effects of increased fuel costs over the long run are challenging people in many ways as they adjust their daily priorities to accommodate budget constraints. And, with the complexity of the fuel supply chain from extraction, through production to delivery, the answers are not easy, nor are the problems quickly solved. This is no reason for inaction; in fact, we must take action so that we can see our way to the end of this energy crisis.

The complexity of the issue lends itself to a variety of innovative solutions. It’s becoming increasingly cost-effective for companies, large and small, to research and develop alternative energy that yields lower economic and environmental costs — and they are doing just that. The Idaho biofuel industry is growing, and prospects for nuclear energy development are highly encouraging. The Idaho National Laboratory, building upon its historic role in U.S. nuclear energy research and development, is looking at ways to utilize emission-free nuclear power beyond electricity production to provide alternative clean fuels. This session, Congress will likely extend tax breaks for alternative energy development, including wind, solar, geothermal, cellulosic ethanol, biodiesel and energy efficiency.

Innovations in traditional fossil fuels extraction, specifically oil and natural gas, demonstrate promising results. We will continue to use fossil fuels for many years as we adapt to using alternative energy resources on a massive scale. It makes sense to devote resources to exploration and development of fossil fuels. In an encouraging sign, the annual Congressional ban on Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) drilling may be lifted for the first time in 26 years. It’s important to make full use of OCS resources. That means opening up the East and West coasts for exploration, developing potential resources in ANWR (Arctic National Wildlife Reserve in Alaska) and the Gulf of Mexico, and giving states the opportunity to share in important revenues from these activities. Letters to the editor

Marijuana seizure with no arrests was a waste of time, money

Did I miss something? While it seems that every law enforcement agency from the Coast Guard to the local Boy Scout troop is slapping themselves on the back for their apprehension of 7,345 marijuana plants (that gave up without a fight), I’m wondering what criminal has been taken off the streets, what gang has been broken up, what threat has been removed so that this doesn’t happen again? What I find is that there is one, count ’em one, delivery driver who had better never show his face in Owyhee County again. I’m so relieved.

No kidding, it took 35 agents from six law enforcement agencies (and no doubt many thousands of taxpayer dollars) to weed out a bunch of marijuana plants — something that any good lawn care company could have done for about one-tenth the cost. Of course, no actual criminals were harmed during the production of this media event.

Now that we apparently arm law enforcement personnel with hoes instead of side arms, it’s easier to understand the gushing of ISP Capt. Kevin Hudgens while describing the bad guys: “... the fertilizer, and those types of things: the food stuffs, the tents, the sleeping bags. They know what they’re doing.” Wouldn’t it be great if our law enforcement agencies did?

The only thing that this operation accomplished was to educate the minds behind this growing scheme and make them more difficult to catch next time. They are, no doubt, still in operation, probably in Owyhee County. I have always had a lot of respect for Sheriff Aman, but if the morons who screwed this deal up are the ones he trusts the county to when he’s gone, he’d better stay home.

Sheriff: Marijuana confiscation disrupts drug dealers’ network

What can I say? Apparently taking 8,000 pounds or $15 million of drugs off the street, which is money for the gangs to operate with, which empowers them, clothes them, feeds them, and causes the users to commit burglaries, thefts, armed robberies, rapes and many other crimes, means nothing.

Owyhee County does not have the money, time or manpower to conduct investigations covering 11 years, four to five different states and many counties.

The writer obviously does not know anything about all the pending federal indictments, past federal convictions, seizure of weapons and vehicles and search warrants that have been served on this group stretching from Idaho, Oregon, California and clear into Mexico.

I will keep arresting drug manufacturers, dealers, users and other criminals to try and keep our county safe. If I need help in this endeavor, then I will continue asking for assistance to keep the costs to Owyhee County taxpayers down and to keep the people that live, work and play in Owyhee County safe.

Faulks always finds a scapegoat for his ineptitude as prosecutor

It is extremely entertaining whenever I read about the antics of your prosecuting attorney Matthew Faulks.

Having lived in Owyhee County some years ago, I still feel close to it. It seems to me that Mr. Faulks may perhaps be the poorest excuse for someone who passed the state bar exam (did he?).

His latest bumbling concerns blaming the investigator for causing an acquittal of a robbery suspect. I obviously have no knowledge of the case other than what I read; however, it appears that he has an excuse for every action he is involved in over the years.

Had he better prepared and understood how Jim Bish was going to testify, the outcome may have been different. After all, is it not his job to know how YOUR witness is going to testify?

It always appears he has to blame someone else for his inability to prosecute properly, as he does in most cases he is involved with. I can’t help but wonder how much money he has cost citizens of Owyhee County during his tenure — everything from bringing a frivolous suit against Dick Freund to his poor case preparation and consequent mishandlings.

If I am not mistaken, you folks won’t have to put up with him much longer. My sincere hope is that he finds employment outside the legal world, perhaps in a day care. Sorry, we only hire people who can exercise common sense where I work; no need to apply, Matthew.

Strengthen the community by volunteering as a mentor

Thank you for your continued coverage of The Mentoring Network. I’d like to take this opportunity to elaborate on the program itself and encourage all responsible caring adults to become mentors here in Homedale (or in other districts that are served).

The Mentoring Network currently serves six school districts: Homedale, Parma, Wilder, Caldwell, and Nampa. At the end of last school year, there were 132 active mentor-student matches. Last year, we had six mentors in the Homedale Schools. More are needed.

The Mentoring Network is a school-based program. All interactions are on school time and school property. New volunteers are provided with training and some basic supplies (paper, pens, crayons, activity books).

Each mentor and student decides how to spend their hour each week. Volunteers can eat lunch with their assigned charge (good eats for $3), read with them, help with homework, play a game, or just sit and talk.

I was matched last year with a first-grader, and we are continuing again this year. We meet every Tuesday and mostly just hang out. Only a few times last year did we need to do homework. This last week, we checked out a joke book in the library before eating lunch and then walking around the track.

Having an adult, who is not a teacher or parent, cheering them along is a tremendous advantage for any child. And what a great way to break up your weekly routine — go hang out with a student over your lunch break.

To become a mentor, visit www.MentoringNetworkID.org and complete the application forms. References and a police background check are required. More information about the program is available online or contact executive director Donna Shines at 459-2844.

This is how we continue to strengthen our community.

Mentor group’s yard sale a huge success; benefits local students

The Mentoring Network held its first big fundraising event from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 20, at Zamzows on N. Franklin in Nampa. Despite the lightning, thunder and pouring rain, the yard sale was a great success. People enjoyed the abundance of items for sale, the delicious Starbucks coffee and doughnuts in the morning hours and the barbecued hot dogs and drinks (later in the day when the rain stopped).

Many thanks go out to our sponsors, Intermountain Community Bank, Zamzows, and Starbucks and to numerous people in Nampa, Caldwell, Parma, Homedale and Fruitland that donated items for the yard sale.

Due to the hard-working crew of volunteers, both Friday and Saturday we were able to reach our goal of $3,000, which was then matched by Intermountain Community Bank.

The money raised will go to expanding The MN school-based mentoring services throughout Canyon and Owyhee counties for school-referred children in elementary and middle schools.

Volunteer mentors are always needed. If you are interested in applying to become a school-based mentor with The MN, please go online and fill out the application packet forms. The Web site is: www.mentoringnetworkid.org. For questions, you can call Donna Shines, executive director, at 459-2844.

✓ Energy: Drilling, shale extraction could add billions of barrels of oil

could yield from 14 to 18 billion barrels of recoverable oil and 76 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. And, Congress should lift the ban on oil shale development. Development of oil shale, sedimentary rock that, when heated, releases petroleum-like liquids, could result in at least 800 billion barrels of oil.

To understand how these numbers translate into our energy consumption, in 2006, Idahoans used 15.6 million barrels of gasoline for their vehicles and used 75.7 billion cubic feet of natural gas. Total U.S. consumption of gasoline for motor vehicles alone in 2006 was 3.4 billion barrels, and total natural gas consumption for the U.S. in 2006 was 21.6 trillion cubic feet. Today, the U.S. consumes 20.6 million barrels of oil daily.

Energy is a global commodity, and the regulatory environment plays a role in the price of energy. No long-term legislative solution to energy challenges is complete without improving government oversight of energy markets. I have supported legislation that helps the government regulator that oversees energy trading, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, better do its job in increasing market transparency.

Understandably, these aren’t short-term solutions, nor is any one single option the answer. Once the leasing process is complete on OCS development for example, production would be a few years out. However, starting the process sends positive signals to energy markets. We cannot afford to wait any longer. We know the stories and the facts are evident. The time for talking is past. The time for action is now.

Seventh-grade teams split week

Three members of the Homedale Middle School seventh-grade volleyball B team converge on a dig during their Sept. 23 victory over visiting Payette Lakes from McCall.

The Trojans' volleyball program won three of the four matches it played against Payette Lakes. In games played at the old gym at the high school, the eighth-grade A team won in a two-game sweep, while the B squad lost, 2-1. The seventh-graders won both matches.

On Thursday, eighth-grade B team beat McCain of Payette, while the eighth-grade A lost in three games, and both seventh-grade teams were defeated.

Homedale's seventh-grade football team shut out Ontario, 20-0, in Oregon while the eighth-graders lost a shootout, 37-20, to the Tigers.

Schamber said. "I think they have seen where they are and have set definite goals for themselves."

The coach admits that — with strong Weiser and Payette teams looming — the Trojans' boys team has work to do if there are hopes to reach the 3A state meet. The top two teams after the 3A District III meet will qualify for the state championships.

Freshman Ismahel Mendoza turned in Homedale's best time, finishing 19th in 24:21. Senior Kenny Cockrum was 22nd in 25:18, and freshman teammate Anthony Adams was right behind in 23rd at 26:10. Sophomore Jarod Armenta (28:01) grabbed 25th, and senior Shane Witt finished in 32:28 for 27th.

"The boys times are improving, but will need to improve by leaps and bounds to grab some state spots," Chamber said. "Weiser and Payette teams are pretty solid. We need to get below the 20-minute mark to grab an individual spot."

Middle school

Powered by Antonio Sturgeon's second-place showing, the Homedale Middle School boys cross country team was runner-up during the 3A SRV meet.

In all, three Trojans finished in the top 10. Sturgeon was joined by fifth-place Alfonso Barbosa and eighth-place Cole Twedt.

On the girls side, Laurien Craft finished fifth, and Brooke Armenta finished 18th.

No times were provided from the middle school meet.

√ Huskies: Penalties hamper Marsing's performance in 2A WIC opener

they know we're going to have to throw it, and we're going to have to try something tricky and try to get there and we just can't get it done."

Siegersma was at it again when Marsing failed to convert on a 4th-and-1 and gave the Trojans another short field. The senior wideout flashed 35 yards on a reverse for a 20-0 advantage.

But even if the Huskies were stunned by Nampa Christian's quick-strike capabilities, they didn't show it.

Two plays after Siegersma's sprint, Mike Moore roared 44 yards on a sweep for Marsing's first score. Then quarterback Joey Burril hooked up with Jose Paramo on a 63-yard catch-and-run for a score, and it looked like Marsing would have a chance to hang with the state's top 2A team.

"Jose's a great athlete and I want to be able to use him. He wants to play receiver and play catch out there," Walgamott said. "I think it's the all-around team thing is what we've done better, and we just need to keep fine-tuning."

That means eliminating penalties, which seemed to be the only glaring weakness in the game plan Friday — even with a 38-point loss.

"That's what I said at halftime, and I'll say it when I leave here tonight: Other than the penalties, there weren't a lot of bad mistakes," the coach said.

The Trojans grabbed control of the game with 30 points in the second quarter and by dominating the line play against Marsing's banged-up defensive line.

Nampa Christian racked up 315 of its 473 offensive yards on the ground, including 82 yards in the second half from senior backup running back David Connolly.

"We're not playing with our best D line-man (senior Martin Galvez), Walgamott said. "Martin is not playing because of eligibility."

Homedale-area resident James Nederend, a senior at Nampa Christian, caught four passes for 45 yards and a third-quarter TD.

But the Huskies will have to pack away all the memories from Friday — the emerging Burril-to-Paramo receiving combination, the game-saving play of the defensive backfield of Moore, Sean Finley, David Rios and Sammy Olvera and the nightmare of seeing what seemed like a battalion of Trojans running all over the field — and focus on another challenging running game at home against Melba on Thursday.

"(We) walk away from it and get ready for Melba. Melba's running great, but they don't have the speed," Walgamott said.

"They don't have all the tools. They have a big ol' horse (Blake Love) they've been giving the ball to that's been averaging about 200 yards a game, and we're just going to line up and try to stop him."

selling concessions; the park is beautiful, and we'd like anyone with free time to come out and watch some amazing kids tackle this challenge."

The Trojans will be ready to run, and will be doing so in an atmosphere that might be more fun for the kids than it could have been.

Coach Nick Chamber picked the Fender over the bigger Gary Ward Invite to try a new course out, to avail themselves of the middle school race, and because the Ward "brings in a lot of 5A schools and it can be a bit intimidating," he said.

The Fender, in contrast, will allow the Trojans to compete against schools of a similar size and has the added bonus of getting younger runners some trail-time.

Raiders register record runs

After the wet and muddy Bob Firman Invitational at Eagle Island, the Raiders were down a runner for the Horseshoe Bend Invitational cross country meet on Thursday, but Andy Bol and Lee Gray finished with what coach Kermit Tate called solid times.

Ida Ahlfors, sidelined with an ankle injury after the Bob Firman, has to sit out the race.

Ahlfors is out "... for one to two weeks with an ankle sprain. She's doing some exercises to rehab her ankles and should be able to return to competition after the Rusty Fender," the coach said. The Rusty Fender Classic, Rimrock's home meet, will be held Thursday at CJ Strike Reservoir.

"Andy Bol and Lee Gray competed in the varsity sections, on nearly the identical course they ran a couple of weeks ago," Tate said of the Horseshoe Bend meet.

"Both picked up good performances. The finish-line clock showed Lee turning a 31:02 in the women's race, which would be nearly a minute faster than her previous time."

In the men's competition, Bol set an all-time personal record with a 20:35 — almost a three-minute improvement over his last effort on this course on Sept. 11.

"Two weeks ago, he covered the same course in 23:25," Tate said. "Great job from both of our kids!"
