High drama in the High Desert Crane, Adrian teams clash for first place

Adrian High School will be the center of the High Desert League universe Friday when the Antelopes' volleyball and football teams square off with their counterparts from Crane for league bragging rights.

All four squads are unbeaten in league play heading into Friday's showdowns, which will go a long way toward deciding league championships and top seeds for the playoffs.

The football game, which kicks off at 7 p.m. at Ward Field, pits the league's best defense against the most potent offensive attack in the HDL. Additionally, Crane (7-0 overall, 6-0 1A HDL) has allowed the fewest points of any team in the league this year. The Mustangs rolled over Huntington, 66-0, last week and are allowing opponents

Frosh keeps Homedale girls afloat

On a team studded with standout seniors, it was a freshman who preserved Homedale High School's girls soccer season Saturday.

Kylie Kushlan scored 120 seconds before the final whistle to lift the Trojans past McCall-Donnelly, 3-2, in a 3A District III Tournament elimination game at Harmon Killebrew Field in Payette.

"Eliminating McCall from the tournament means a lot to the team," first-year girls coach David Correa said. "It is not only the first time we beat McCall in the history of our program, but it also served as a boost in my team's confidence — and what better time than at District?"

Kushlan's goal capped a topsy-turvy match — the second of three that Homedale (1-10-1 at week's end) would play in Payette last week. Senior Hannah Johnson dribbled through two defenders and scored the game's first goal at the 18-minute mark.

McCall tied the game in the second half before Johnson's kicked Homedale ahead three minutes later. The Vandals then knotted the score again six minutes before the end of regulation. Sierra Aberasturi had 15 saves.

"I am convinced that my team can compete with any of the teams

Hardin's pick propels Mustangs

Logan Hardin returned an interception for a touchdown in the fourth quarter Friday as Jordan Valley High School notched its biggest win to date in an undefeated football season.

Hardin's five-yard return for a score was part of 22-point fourth quarter as the Mustangs beat 1A Oregon state playoff qualifier Spray/Mitchell, 44-24.

Jordan Valley (7-0 overall, 5-0 in the 1A HDL) was playing the High Desert League game in Mitchell.

"Logan Hardin's interception in the fourth quarter was a great play for us," Mustangs coach Tim McBride said. "It changed

Huskies conquer Chargers

Marsing High School's football team stayed in the running with its rushing game during Friday's 2A Western Idaho Conference victory.

"Well, we played good enough to win," Huskies coach Jake Walgamott said of the 28-21 victory over Cole Valley Christian. "We ran the ball really well, but we didn't do a good job playing defense and stopping the run."

Despite more than 100 yards of penalties and the best efforts of Mitch Simmonds — the Chargers' quarterback who posted better than 100 yards on his own — Marsing stayed in the fight and emerged a victor for homecoming.

Marsing racked up more than 300 yards on the ground, which made Walgamott happy.

"It was nice to see some offense come together, but it would have been comforting to see the defense do the same," the first-year coach said.

Junior quarterback Joey Burril had some focusing issues in the match against the Chargers, following an early interception and a turnover, and by the end of the game his former co-quarterback Jose Paramo was captaining the offense.

Marsing's Evans becomes solo act

After finishing 10th in Homedale for Vallivue, Husky must run alone

Marsing's Natalie Evans has competed in cross country with teammates at Vallivue all year long, as part of a co-op with Marsing High School. But, come district, she'll be running solo.

While a teamless athlete can compete as part of another school's team, so long as the schools have an official co-op system in place, Idaho High School Activities Association rules don't allow athletes to represent another school in district or state championship meets.

Evans will thus have to train and compete on her own in 2A District III cross country meet. She won't be without some support, though, as Marsing's athletic director, Jake Walgamott, has appointed a certified coach, Jim Eisentrager, to help the junior through the postseason competition, which begins next Wednesday with the 1A-2A district meet at Scotch Pines Golf Course in Payette.

Eisentrager coaches distance events for Marsing's track team, and will bring those skills to bear to help guide Evans through district and, hopefully, state competition. He was picked at the beginning of the year with Evans in mind, as Walgamott prepared for the postseason runs and his lone loper.

He'll additionally have a chance to prep Evans for the upcoming track season, where she will also compete for Marsing.

Evans will be run at West Park in Nampa today in the 2A Western Idaho Conference meet, her first step to State — a level at which both Walgamott and Natalie Evans' father, Marc, believe she has a very good chance of competing.

The year with Vallivue has been a good one for Natalie, her father said at the Homedale Invitational on Thursday.

"I can't say enough about coach (Robert)

— See Evans, page 12B

Lone Husky

Natalie Evans attends Marsing High School, but she has run cross country from Vallivue this year. Now she will be the Huskies' lone representative in the 2A championship season that starts Monday in Payette. She finished 10th at the Homedale Invitational on Thursday.

High Desert leader topples Jordan Valley

In what could be classified as the volleyball match of the season thus far, Kayla Cuvelier smacked a season-high 21 kills, but Jordan Valley High School suffered its first loss.

High Desert League leader Crane won the last two games of the tight match and came away with a 21-25, 25-23, 18-25, 25-16, 15-4 victory at home on Oct. 7.

“It was a great game, very intense and quick moving and lasting a little over two hours,” Jordan Valley coach Jacque Naegle said. “There were a lot of long rallies. On both sides, balls that seemed hard to get were put back over the net to stay in the point.”

Emma Johnson (four digs), Nickie Naegle (three) and Catie Kershner (two) helped keep Jordan Valley (6-1 overall, 5-1 1A HDL) in games with defense.

Naegle also dished 22 assists, and Kershner chipped in 11.

Johnson had a team-high 13 points and four digs.

“We did a lot of great things on defense and offense,” Jacque Naegle said.

“The one thing that I think hurt us in the end was we were having problems serving last night for some reason and that is one of our really strong points.”

Naegle said that the team’s service percentage was “quite a bit lower” than its average. The coach said most of her players serve at 100 percent.

Junior varsity
Jordan Valley def. Crane

Improved communication and floor control led the junior varsity to its second league victory, 25-21, 25-15.

“They did a really good job last night,” Naegle said Wednesday. “Coach (Chris) Elsner has been working very hard with them to improve communication and controlling the floor.

“Last night, they really stepped up and played very well together.”

Haley Hebison had 13 assists and served 14 points for Jordan Valley (2-1 overall, 2-0 1A HDL).

Michelle Telleria and Tessa Matteri shared the team lead with four kills each, while Telleria served 11 points.

Shelly Payne had three kills and two digs.

Jordan Valley
def. Mitchell and Spray

The Mustangs rebounded from their first loss of the season by launching into a winning streak with Friday victories over Mitchell and Spray.

Kayla Cuvelier delivered 14 kills and 17 service points to pace Jordan Valley’s 25-17, 20-25, 25-13, 25-11 league victory over Spray.

Coach Jacque Naegle said the team struggled with serving and intensity issues. “Outside distractions”, as Naegle called them without elaborating hampered the team’s focus in Game 2.

“We came out pretty flat in teh second game and just didn’t play well together,” she said. “The girls got things together and did a really good job in the third and fourth games.”

Catie Kershner dished a team-high 17 assists, while Ann Marie Eiguren racked up eight kills.

Emma Johnson had nine kills and 20 points, while Nickie Naegle notched 15 assists and four digs.

The Mustangs’ junior varsity was put on the floor for a 25-9, 25-11, 25-16 victory over the Mitchell varsity, which was playing on Spray’s home floor.

“They did an excellent job of playing together,” Jacque Naegle said of the junior varsity. “They communicated well and used the entire floor to their advantage. Coach (Chris) Elsner and I were really pleased with the way that they played.”

Haley Hebison paced the offense with 17 assists, while Mattie Wroten carded seven kills and 12 service points. Tessa Matteri led the serving with 18 points, and Michelle Telleria chipped in five kills and three digs.

Jordan Valley def. Ukiah

The Mustangs capped their marathon week with a road trip to Adrian to play an inexperienced Ukiah team featuring a roster heavily flavored by exchange students. In fact, Naegle said all but one of Ukiah’s players is foreign-born.

Jordan Valley’s JV players were enlisted for this clash, cruising to a 25-10, 25-10, 25-3 win.

Hebison had an impressive outing with 29 service points — by far the most by any Mustangs player in a match this year. She also registered 15 assists.

Shelly Payne (six kills) and Wroten (five kills) ignited the offense, while Christina Rogers chimed in with three kills and two assists.

“They have come a long way this year in the way they move the ball around the floor and set and hit from all positions,” Naegle said of Jordan Valley’s younger players.

“Coach Elsner has done a great job working on basics and improving the girls’ skills all the way around the floor.”

Antelopes tune up for Crane with rout

Adrian High School put together a complete game Friday in crushing Burnt River in a High Desert League football game. Two interception returns, a kickoff return and a punt return helped the Antelopes scored 32 points en route to an 82-28 rout of Burnt River in Adrian's Homecoming game at Ward Field. Adrian is back at Ward Field on Friday to meet Crane in a battle of HDL unbeatens. The winner will have sole possession of first place with two weeks left in the season. The top three teams in the High Desert League qualify for the 1A Oregon state playoffs. George Ellsworth returned the second half's opening kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown and a commanding 52-14 lead over Burnt River, but coach Paul Shenk's squad was just getting started. Jeremy Price and Blake Purnell raced 41 yards and 15 yards, respectively, with interceptions thrown by the Bulls' Leandro Hara, and exchange student Lois Adam ran 90 yards with a kickoff return for the second score of his American career. Burnt River (1-4, 1-4) committed six turnovers in the game and trailed 28-0 after the first quarter after getting neutralized by the Stones and Jones show. David Stones ran 43 yards for the Antelope's second score, and Levi Jones scored the first of his two touchdowns from two yards out to spark the first quarter. With a four-touchdown lead, Adrian was able to experiment and build depth. Blake Purnell threw the majority of passes for the Antelopes' offense, while Blake Ishida concentrated on his running skills. Purnell led a balanced 414-yard rushing attack with 74 yards and a 51-yard second-quarter touchdown on six carries. Adrian averaged 13.8 yards per carry and scored seven of its 11 TDs on the ground. Kyle Osborn's only carry was a 48-yard scamper to open the scoring, while Ishida scored on a 13-yard first-quarter run. Exchange student Toy Prayoorat scored the first TD of his career on a five-yard jaunt in the fourth quarter. Burnt River's scores came on two touchdown passes by Hara. He also ran 70 yards with a kickoff return for another score, and teammate Harvard Aasland scored on a 45-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Fine-tuned Grizzlies put Trojans' backs against wall

With two to go, Homedale needs help for a shot at State

Destiny slipped through the hands of the Homedale High School football team Friday. Even if the Trojans win their final two games of the 3A Snake River Valley conference season, they must do some wishing for a shot at District III's third and final berth in the 3A state playoffs. The Trojans (0-6 overall, 0-2 3A SRV) also must hope Payette loses its showdown for the conference lead this Friday against the Fruitland team that ripped Homedale, 45-7, last week. "(The Grizzlies) did a great job of staying focused on the potential distractions of homecoming and playing well," Homedale coach Rob Kassebaum said. "To compete with them we will need to have a strong commitment to working hard in the weight room all year and doing speed work over the summer." Homedale's portion of the task at hand — reaching State — begins this Friday with a long trip to winless McCall-Donnelly (0-6, 0-3) for a 7 p.m. kickoff. "McCall seems to be changing their offense each week but will probably be running the wing-T," Kassebaum said. "We came away from the Fruitland game fairly healthy and should do well at McCall if we handle the traveling well. If the Trojans can beat the Vandals, a Senior Night victory over Payette on Nov. 24 could put coach Rob Kassebaum's squad into the postseason for the second time in as many seasons. "The playoffs are still a real possibility, but we are taking everything a day at a time right now," the coach said. Homedale now has lost seven consecutive games, with the Trojans' last victory coming last October against McCall. The objective for the Trojans (0-6, 0-2) was driven home by 324 yards rushing from host Fruitland last Friday. The Grizzlies dominated Homedale unmercifully in the first half, scoring all 45 of its points. Fruitland (6-0, 2-0) plays Payette (4-2, 2-0) on Friday for first place in the conference. The Trojans didn't reach pay dirt against Fruitland until Trent Acree raced 63 yards with a Ryan Ryska pass with 2 minutes, 50 seconds left in the game. The TD pass was the only completion of the night for Homedale quarterbacks, including Ryska and freshman Trey Corta who made his varsity debut for the Trojans. Homedale was limited to six first downs and failed to convert on nine third-down conversion attempts. Fruitland jumped out to a quick lead when Zack Fabricius blocked Rodrigo Villarreal's punt and the Grizzlies returned it for a touchdown 91 seconds into the game. Villarreal turned into another solid rushing performance with 132 yards on 17 carries. Throw out Villarreal's rushing and Acree's TD reception, though, and the Trojans' offense tallied negative yardage. Villarreal also led the defense with nine tackles. Fruitland, meanwhile, rolled up 371 yards offense. The Grizzlies, didn't score in the second half, but built a 45-0 edge at the intermission behind a couple of one-yard touchdown runs by Tommy McFarlane. Caleb Crim scored on a 24-yard run and led Fruitland with 124 yards on just five carries. He ripped off a 76-yard run during the contest to pad his 24.8-yard-per-carry average.

✓ Clash: Top offenses collide on grid iron

From Page 1B an average of 9.2 points per game. Crane averages more than 56 points per game. Adrian (5-0, 5-0) is coming off an 82-28 rout of Burnt River in which Antelopes players scored on interception returns, a kickoff return, a punt return and seven rushing touchdowns. Coach Paul Shenk's squad averages nearly 55 points per game. Crane and Adrian both saw their 2007 seasons end in the 1A state playoffs against eventual state champion Mohawk. The Antelopes lost, 90-12, in the first round, while Mohawk edged Crane, 37-34, to reach the championship game. Meanwhile, the Adrian volleyball team (12-4, 8-0) comes into its Friday battle with Crane (10-2, 10-0) after losing a game in an HDL match for the first time this season. "We'll need to play with a lot more intensity and cleaner to match up with our upcoming opponents in the next couple of weeks," Goss said. While Adrian won three matches last week, including two HDL victories, Crane knocked off Jordan Valley — the league's only other unbeaten squad — in a five-game match early in the week and then swept Huntington. The Antelopes were runners-up in the 1A Oregon volleyball tournament a year ago, while Crane lost in the first round.

✓ Mustangs: Quintero rolls up 418 yards

From Page 1B the momentum of the game in our favor." Spray/Mitchell was the second seed out of District 6 a year ago and lost, 69-20, in the first round to eventual state finalist Imbler. "I'm really proud of our team for getting a win over a team that played in the state playoffs last year." Jordan Valley shut out Spray/Mitchell in the first 24 minutes to hold a 16-0 halftime lead after Alek Quintero hit Zac Fillmore for a 33-yard scoring play in the first quarter and Josh Deen ran 10 yards for a second-quarter touchdown. But the Loggers (3-4, 3-3) broke through in the third quarter with their first touchdown before scoring twice in the fourth quarter. Quintero answered with two rushing touchdowns — 39 yards in the third quarter and 22 in the fourth quarter — then threw a 14-yard TD pass to Fillmore to cap a three-touchdown fourth quarter for the Mustangs. Quintero racked up 418 yards total offense with 150 yards on 20 rushes and 268 yards on 12-for-20 passing. Fillmore again was Quintero's favorite target, hauling in five catches for 132 yards. Bryce Kershner had three catches for 123 yards.

Deen carried the ball 12 times for 64 yards as Jordan Valley had 222 yards on the ground and came within 10 yards of the 500-yard total offense milestone. "I am pleased with our record of 7-0, but we know we have some tough competition in the weeks ahead," McBride said. After playing host to Prairie City (1-6, 1-4) on Friday, the Mustangs travel to play unbeaten Crane (7-0, 6-0) on Oct. 24 before finishing the season at Adrian on Halloween. Both Crane and Adrian are ahead of Jordan Valley in the HDL standings, but the two teams meet in a first-place showdown Friday at Ward Field in Adrian.

Five candidates, Larry Bauer, incumbent, John Buck, Tom Murray, Jr., Darlene Atkins, and Ed Stansell, have filed for the two four-year council seats.

Two candidates announce candidacy

Darlene Atkins has officially filed as a candidate seeking one of the four-year terms open on the Homedale City Council.

She is an employee of Paul’s IGA in Homedale and a 1980 graduate from Homedale High school.

At 21 years of age Atkins believe that young blood is needed on the City Council. The younger segment of the community is not being represented, Atkins affirms, but constitutes a significant portion of the total population.

Among the five contenders for the two City council seats open in Homedale’s upcoming elections is Tom Murray, Jr.

Murray, at age 24, is a lifetime resident of Homedale and has worked in small businesses in the city since he was 12 years old. He feels he is fairly familiar with the problems that small businesses face and expressed his desire to eventually manage an automotive repair business of his own. He holds a mechanics decree from COSSA and an equivalence decree in mechanics from the University of Idaho based on achievement testing.

Murray is currently employed as a bartender at Rene’s Lounge in Homedale.

Postmaster Uria discusses building plans at chamber

Vic Uria, Homedale postmaster, showed proposed plans for a new Homedale post office, and discussed possibilities and alternatives at the regular monthly dinner meeting of the Homedale chamber of commerce.

Mr. Uria said that George W. Elden, regional real estate officer of Portland, was here and discussed several possibilities with local persons. Bids which were announced September 25 will close October 25, and Mr. Elden is expected to return to Homedale shortly before that time to assist anyone interested in bidding.

Kenneth Downing, secretary, reported on the financial condition of the chamber.

President Paul Zatica reported that the high school received very good results from its “one-shot” solicitation and was very pleased. No other solicitation of Homedale businessmen will be held by the school this term.

Bud Ross reported on the plan to erect seven large highway signs on highways entering the Treasure Valley. Private firms have indicated that they will participate in this program.

A recognition night for chamber of commerce presidents will be held at the Nampa high school auditorium Monday night, October 20. The chamber voted to pay the cost of meals for wives and members attending as it will be a ladies night.

Adrian retains league lead by beating Homedale 14-6

The Adrian Antelopes retained first place in the Snake River Valley ‘B’ league by edging the Homedale Trojans 14-6 in Homedale Friday afternoon. Both teams went into the game with records of three wins and no losses in conference play.

Johnny Uranga scored the first touchdown of the game for the Trojans by carrying it into pay dirt from the 8-yard line in the first quarter.

Adrian, however, came back shortly before the end of the half and fell on a Homedale fumble on Homedale’s own 25-yard line. Phil Hatch scored on a two yard plunge, and threw a pass to Jim Thompson who made the extra point.

Adrian’s Phil Hatch scored again in the third quarter on a 1-yard plunge, and then made the point after touchdown to give the Antelopes an 8 point winning margin.

Herman’s hold grand opening

Formal opening of Herman’s new gift shop and house wares store at Homedale, was held Saturday and was termed “a real success” by Mrs. Ray Herman, Marsing, owner-manager.

GREAT BILLIARD MATCH. The greatest billiard match ever played in the world, came off in Chicago on the evening of Sept. 16th, between John McDevitt of that city and Joseph Dion of Montreal. The game was for the Championship of America and $500 a side, 1,500 points up, caroms, on second-sized Phelan and Colander table with 2 ¾ inch balls. 2,000 people witnessed the great contest.

At 8:15 P.M. the players banked for the choice of balls and lay off, McDevitt won both, choosing the white and sent it to the upper right hand corner. Dion failed to count. The leave afforded McDevitt a run of 22. Dion followed with a failure, McDevitt did likewise. Then Dion, in the third inning got the two reds against the right cushion and nursed them in that position to a yield of 261. McDevitt’s play subsequently was unlucky; easy shots presented themselves but he failed to secure counts. In the seventh inning Dion made a run of 78 from the leave. McDevitt failed to count. In the 8th inning the call stood, Dion, 340; McDevitt, 42. In Dion’s ninth inning he made a run of 69 and then missed, leaving the balls in a favorable position near the upper end of the table. This was McDevitt’s opportunity and he seized it, making the greatest “run” ever recorded, jaw barred-scoring 1,460 points, and finishing the game.

DERANGED. A late dispatch from Oregon says that both Houses of the Legislature had adjourned a few days, and many of the members were on a visit to the Insane Asylum at Portland. This is about the first consistent transaction that the present Oregon Legislature has been guilty of, and well would it be for the general good of the State if those members would make the Asylum their permanent house.

THE NAME QUESTION. EDS. AVALANCHE. What’s in a name? A good deal when looked upon from the standpoint of your correspondent. About a year ago I had occasion to transact some business of importance in San Francisco, and attempted to do it by means of correspondence, but the letters in response, instead of being sent to this place, went to Silver City, Nevada. The result was, I had to make a trip to the Bay, at an expense of over $300, besides a delay of time, which was precious at that particular time. Now that the time is near for the meeting of our Territorial Legislature, I would suggest the agitation of changing the name of Silver City to something which would at once be local, appropriate and short. “Owyhee” has already been proposed, and I think would be good, but it don’t matter so it is short, uncommon and local. “Owyhee” in Flint may object, but I can propose a better name for that city, or rather the new on which is being built near that place. I propose to christen that new mining metropolis “Lenton” in honor of one of the moving spirits, Mr. Wm. M. Lent, who is now actively engaged in its development. Who will suggest anything better? At any rate, let’s change the name of our town. X.

Silver City, Oct. 8th, 1868

POSTOFFICE REMOVAL. Mr. Bradley has leased the fire-proof stone building occupied by the late firm of Barter & Gardner, and will remove the post office and book store thither the first of next month. This is a good movement. It will bring the post office in the center of town and better accommodate the majority of our citizens.

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS. Oct. 5th. Grand Jury empanelled and sworn in, charged and retired for business. Seizler vs Sullivan – dismissed. Thos Larson vs W R Davis – dismissed. H Herbert vs Cosmos Co. – defendant’s demurrer withdraws with leave to answer. Jno A Post & Co. vs Jas Freeman – judgment for plaintiff by default. Frazier & Conn vs Woodstock Co – complaint amended.

Mule business

There is a recurring condition in the life of the cowboy when bravado, belligerence and bent judgment overcomes the normal human self-protective instinct.

If medals were given for placing yourself in harm’s way, deliberately sticking a porcupine down your shorts, or being wounded in action, Jack would be a highly decorated veteran! In addition to surviving such feats as riding his horse into a mud bog till they were both buried up to the head, rolling off a 30-foot embankment, then landing feet in the stirrups but on the horse’s belly, AND splitting his pelvis not once, but twice, Jack continues to walk that fine line between the Crash Test Dummy and fishing with dynamite!

Buddy Red was Jack’s archenemy. He was a non-descript long-eared mule who had been sold three times but was returned each time before the check cleared. A few weeks after Jack’s second split pelvis incident, he waddled out to the mule pen to grain Charlie Brown, a mule his nephew Lon was taking hunting that day. Uncle Jack was graining him before daylight so Lon could load him and go.

It was black as the inside of a cattle buyer’s coin purse in a gun safe at the bottom of Lake Michigan when Jack, sans flashlight, felt his way to the corral in his pajama bottoms and flip-flops. With a bucket of oats he strode into the corral. The three mules crowded around, but Jack couldn’t tell which was which.

He felt for Charlie Brown’s soft brushy mane on the first mule. Not him, so he popped that mule on the nose with the flip of his hand. The second mule was Buddy Red. Jack popped his nose. Buddy backed up, switched ends and kicked Jack with both feet square in the groin and propelled him backwards like a Kleenex being sucked into a Shop Vac! In agony, Jack rose, turned and stooped to pick up the bucket, when Buddy Red planted two mule-sized hind feet on Jack’s hip pockets and air-lifted him into a full one-and-a-half flip!

When Lon showed up at dawn he found Uncle Jack crawling slowly toward the house. His pajama bottoms were hanging by one leg, his flip-flops still lay side-by-side in the corral where he had left them at take-off, and there were two lucky horseshoe prints emblazoned bright red against the shiny white moon.

Eventually Jack sold Buddy Red to a hunter who asked if you could shoot offa him. Buddy was back in three days. “I thought you said you could shoot off of him!” complained the hunter with the fresh cast on his right arm.

“You can,” said Jack, “... once.”

Not important ... but possibly of interest

The longest minute of my life

It was late Saturday afternoon. We had just arrived home from a quick trip to Wally Walla. Jenny and Scott were in the process of moving. Since our 8-month-old granddaughter Ella had a bad cold, we volunteered to watch her while her parents worked.

Sara watches Ella during the week. If there is a happier child on the planet, I have not seen her. When I get home from work and Ella is still there, I always get a big smile that is nearly continuous until her folks pick her up. For some reason, she seems to find her grandfather particularly amusing — even when I’m not trying to be funny. But that’s OK with me.

But on Saturday afternoon Ella wasn’t smiling a lot. Her nose was running and was sore the way a kid’s nose gets when it has been wiped a lot.

Ella was tired and fussy. A little before 5 p.m., Sara held her and gave her a bottle while rocking her in the recliner. I was sitting across the room watching TV.

Ella finished the bottle. Her nose was running. Sara wiped her nose and that made her cry. Ella seldom cries and this cry was worse because it was one of those where the youngster cries until he or she runs out of air and has to stop and take a deep breath ...

There was something in the tone of Sara’s voice that got my attention immediately. I looked at her. She was looking down at Ella, who she had brought into a sitting position on her lap.

“She’s not breathing!!”

I stood up and moved towards them. Ella’s face was bright red. Her body was stiff. Her head was sort of flopped back and her eyes had rolled back almost out of sight. And she wasn’t breathing.

By the time I reached them, Sara was turning Ella over onto her stomach — which was hard to do because she was so rigid. I starting patting Ella on the back. No response. I patted a little harder. She was as stiff as a board. Sara pressed on her stomach to try to get her to bend.

Suddenly Ella gave a little shudder, relaxed, took a breath and looked around. Then, just as we were breathing sighs of relief, she quit breathing again. We repeated the patting and after a few seconds she resumed breathing and slowly started to return to normal.

Although Ella seemed fine, we headed for the hospital emergency room. Sara sat in the backseat holding the baby instead of putting her in the car seat. If a cop had seen us he would have had to follow me to the hospital to give me a ticket because there was no way I was going to stop.

We had called Ella’s folks and Jenny met us at the hospital. After about two hours of tests the doctor basically said sometimes little kids stop breathing and usually start again on their own. Maybe it’s not that unusual. But it was the first time Sara and I had encountered such a situation in our careers as parents and grandparents.

Later when I told others what happened, the general consensus from most listeners was they would have “freaked out.” I doubt that. When your granddaughter is unconscious and not breathing, you simply do not have time to “freak out.” As we worked to get her to take a breath I was thinking to myself, “We have to stay calm. If what we are doing now doesn’t work we will have to give her mouth-to-mouth. But my training was with adults so I will have to be careful not to blow too hard. And if that doesn’t work I will try something else. There is plenty of time ... ”

From what the doctor said, I suspect Ella would have started breathing again even without our help. But I’m glad Sara and I were there working together as a team. And I’m glad one of Ella’s aunts, who was originally suppose to be taking care of her that day, didn’t have to deal with the situation by herself.

Looking back, the entire incident probably lasted more than 60 seconds. But it was one of the longest minutes of my life. Now when I come home from work and Ella looks up and gives me a “You’re funny, Grandpa” smile, it is even more special than her smiles prior to that heart-stopping minute on a Saturday afternoon.

Sen. Mike Crapo

From Washington Farm Bill proviso puts fruit, veggies in school for kids’ health

The Children’s Nutrition Research Center (CNRC) estimates that a 9-year-old boy, 53 inches tall and weighing 63 pounds, needs 1,500 calories a day, if he doesn’t exercise approximately an hour every day. A 20-ounce soft drink, super-sized serving of fries and a bacon cheeseburger provide about 1,500 calories.

This means this inactive child would get all his caloric (but not nutritional) needs in one typical fast food meal. The remaining snacks and meals over the course of that day make the aggregate calories consumed far in excess of what he needs to maintain his growing body’s health. If that child were to exercise an hour every day, his caloric needs would increase by one-third; however, even a 2,000 calorie-a-day diet doesn’t leave room for the high-calorie snacks and food that many American children consume every day. Furthermore, quality is just as important as quantity. This means that the 1,500- to 2,000-calorie diet your child needs to maintain good health must include a balanced diet of whole fruits, vegetables, protein, a calcium source and, yes, even fat and sugar, in small amounts. The key is balance, with a minimal intake of highly processed foods.

As families adjust to school-year routines of school lunches and busy evening schedules, it’s a good time to revisit the important topic of childhood nutrition.

First and foremost, the nutritional intake of children and teens is almost entirely determined by parental choices made on their behalf. Research now indicates that poor eating habits in childhood can bring earlier onsets of heart disease, diabetes and other chronic diseases as an adult. This makes it as important for parents to provide healthy eating options for their children as it is for them to monitor what their children are exposed to on television, in movies and on the Internet.

Aman brings professionalism, judgment to sheriff’s office

I am writing this letter to endorse Gary Aman’s write-in campaign for re-election as Owyhee County Sheriff. Gary has served for 12 years, bringing professionalism and sound judgment to the department. With his record of community service to the county, it would be a shame if we did not re-elect this fine man.

Team of county dispatchers pledge support for Crandall

As dispatchers, we receive requests for service that range from the noise that disturbs one’s sleep, to the need for firemen because someone’s home is going up in flames, or the caller who has just found their loved one unresponsive. Each call is just as important to us. We love our jobs. Not because we enjoy spending the nights, weekends or holidays away from our families, and not the large amount of positive calls we receive each day. Our shifts are stressful. Very few of the calls we receive are bearing good news. We love our jobs because we love to help people. Some of us have grown up and spent our lives in Owyhee County. When friends or family call, we want to provide help as quickly and efficiently as possible. When tragedy

GOP candidates make perfect team to represent District 23

When we look at the complexion of Legislative District 23, we see miles and miles of beautiful country and a diverse group of people. It is terribly important that all of the constituents of this district are represented in the Idaho Legislature. I am so excited to write this letter supporting the Republican team that is running this term. Bert Brackett, Jim Patrick and Steve Hartgen are all outstanding candidates. Bert will bring his conservative voice to the Senate. Jim will continue the good work he has done in the House and Steve will add his many years of business background. The combination of these three men makes the perfect team that will truly represent our district.

Frank Priestley — Idaho Farm Bureau

Voter initiative limiting on ag will put strain on pocketbooks

California voters will decide this fall whether to support an initiative that bans certain agricultural practices long used in the production of meat and eggs. And something similar to Proposition 2, the Prevention of Farm Animal Cruelty Act, may be headed to Idaho and many other states in the near future. This initiative, recently endorsed by the New York Times, would end the use of battery cages for laying hens, hog gestation crates and crates used to confine calves destined to become veal. The NYT went so far as to urge every state to enact similar laws. In addition, the issue will be featured on the Oprah Winfrey program and although it hasn’t aired yet, we’ll hazard a guess that Oprah’s influence will help the cause. This voter initiative is sponsored by the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS), which as a side note is not affiliated with the good folks that operate animal shelters all across this great nation. The HSUS motivation is to turn back the clock on American agriculture. They would rather you ate tofu, and they’ll ply on the emotional aspects of the issue to get this initiative passed. Their methods have already worked on voters in Colorado, Florida and Arizona.

HSUS will tell people that being able to roam free makes happier pigs and chickens and that conventional methods are cruel and confining. They’ll tell California voters that humans don’t like being confined in small spaces and neither do chickens. And they’ll tell California voters that passing this initiative will reduce the suffering of millions of farm animals. What they won’t tell voters is this initiative and others like it will make food cost more. Pork and egg production in this country has evolved to capture efficiencies. We’re not going to attempt to argue about what makes an animal with no ability to reason happy or whether they have feelings like us. But we do know how to raise healthy farm animals that produce healthy, affordable food. To illustrate the fact that grocery costs will increase if this measure passes, let’s look at hog gestation crates. These crates are used to confine a sow for about the first week after she gives birth. The crate keeps her from stepping on and killing her babies. If farmers can’t use the crates, they’ll have fewer pigs to sell. That’s no big deal to the farmer, as long as he gets more money for the pigs he has for sale. If the farmer can’t get the price he needs to make the farm work, he goes out of business. If enough farmers go out of business and American consumers still want to eat pork, it’s likely to be produced in Canada or Mexico where they don’t pass absurd laws placing unsubstantiated limits on food production. The moral to this story is twofold: First, American agriculture has evolved to capture efficiencies that produce a healthy affordable food supply. If we upset these time-tested production practices, we can expect to pay more for our food. And second, government intervention rarely, if ever, provides a clean-cut solution. American consumers already have lots of options to purchase free-range or organic meat, milk, eggs, fruit and vegetables. This proposition and others likely to follow come with steep costs while accomplishing very little.

— Frank Priestley is Idaho Farm Bureau president.

✓ Health: Farm Bill programs help encourage children to stay in shape

Admittedly, monitoring what your children eat is much easier at home than at school. The good news is that the recently passed Farm Bill includes a proven national fruit and vegetable program that brings continued funding to provide Idaho children the option of choosing fresh fruit and vegetables when they eat at school. All students in participating schools receive fresh fruits and vegetables at no cost where a high proportion of children are eligible to receive free- or reduced-price school meals. This has the potential to develop further improved eating habits outside of school as well, helping you in your quest to help your child eat healthy. In fact, more than 60 percent of the Farm Bill is devoted to nutrition programs: the most recent Farm Bill included more than $10 billion in increases in nutrition programs for the life of the bill. In addition to nutrition, research is now confirming what most of us already knew intuitively: children who have a good opinion of their athletic ability, tend to be more active, which increases the likelihood that they will continue to be active as adults. Increased physical activity helps reduce the risk of chronic illness and being fit and agile, as a child or an adult, makes everyday living easier. Obviously, educated common sense is the best gauge when it comes to eating, feeding our families and encouraging exercise. In our busy lives, it’s good to know that schools and the federal government are on the side of health. The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention are just two of a number of reliable resources for tips on keeping kids healthy through diet and exercise, making our vigilance when it comes to the current and future health of our children a little bit easier.

— Republican Mike Crapo is the junior U.S. senator from Idaho.

Antelopes roll up three volleyball victories

Lethargic or lethal? You be the judge.

Aimee Goss said her volleyball team came out sluggish for its High Desert League match against Burnt River High School.

But McKenzie Purnell rocketed 16 kills over the net and Terra Rust added 11 spikes to keep Adrian perfect in league play with a 26-28, 25-14, 25-8, 25-10 victory over the Bulls on Friday.

The first-game loss was the first defeat for the Antelopes in the HDL this year. They had reeled off six straight 3-0 decisions before Friday.

“We were pretty lethargic most of the first game and Burnt River served really well,” Goss said. “We did play the next three games with fewer errors and did a nice job to finish the match.”

Madison Shira piloted the offense with 17 assists and chimed in with four kills of her own.

Rust served three aces.

The Antelopes (12-4 overall, 8-0 1A HDL at week’s end) were playing their second match of the week and were trying to keep pace with league-leading Crane (10-2, 10-0), which visits Adrian next Friday for a match that could go a long way toward deciding the league championship.

Adrian def. Nyssa

The Antelopes moved up two classifications on Oct. 6 and beat Nyssa of the 3A Eastern Oregon League, 25-19, 23-25, 25-15, 25-21, behind 23 kills from McKenzie Purnell.

“McKenzie Purnell hit very well for us tonight and played very consistent,” Adrian coach Aimee Goss said.

Purnell also had three assists, three digs and three blocks as the Antelopes won their 10th match of the season.

“We have moments when our team plays really solid and then other moments when we just don’t connect well with the ball,” Goss said.

“I’m pleased though with the progress each player is making and know that they will each contribute to our successes down the stretch.”

The Antelopes’ service game again shined with Andrea Shenk firing four aces to go with five kills and two digs.

Madison Shira powered the offense with 26 assists, but she also served three aces, while Terra Rust had two aces, seven kills and four digs.

Adrian def. Ukiah

Goss singled out the play of Jessica Morton and Alysha Sifuentes as the Antelopes beat visiting Ukiah, 25-18, 25-16, 25-7, with a primarily junior varsity squad on the floor Saturday.

in the conference,” the coach said. “Thinking back (to) the second time around (that) we played these teams, the results were closer.

“This victory has taught us that when we are in the right frame of mind and stay focused throughout the game, we can accomplish our objective.”

Homedale had little time to get ready for its next game, which came two hours later against top-seeded Fruitland.

The Grizzlies found the net three times in the first half and cruised to a 5-0 victory, sending the Trojans into the elimination bracket of the tourney, which continued Tuesday after deadline.

Correa mulled the tournament setup that had Homedale — the fifth seed — playing the conference’s best squad just two hours after fighting for its postseason life in a winner-take-all game. He said players don’t have adequate time to recover after running between three and five miles in an all-out contest.

“Without taking the credit that Fruitland’s team deserves, I cannot help to wonder what the result of that game would have been if this game had been played even a day later,” Correa said. “It seems this type of setting favors the No. 1-seeded team.

“They are not only playing a team that ended in last in the regular season, but they are playing them after they had played a game two hours earlier, fighting to stay alive in the tournament.”

The Trojans started the week Thursday by closing out the 3A Snake River Valley conference season with a 5-0 loss to host Payette, again at Killebrew Field.

Aberasturi notched 13 saves.

“We shot 13 times versus their 18,” Correa said. “However, we failed to convert the opportunities we had into goals. We made the effort, but we fell short.”

Thomas and (Dan) Tristan at Vallivue,” he said. “I thought it was great that they did this. There’s interest out here (in Marsing), but there’s no program.”

The effort both schools and coaching staffs went to earned Evans’ thanks for the chance it gave his daughter to compete.

“Coach Walgamott was very supportive of getting her into a trade/co-op,” Marc said.

Natalie had run cross country in Utah, according to her father, and was glad that the opportunity to do so in Marsing had worked out.

The existence of the co-op offers others with an interest in running an opportunity to do so. The agreement is good for two years, which will allow other interested would-be runners the chance to train with Vallivue next season.

Marc Evans was very happy with the way Vallivue met his daughter half-way.

“It’s a great experience ... there’s a regime for training ... (athletes) can work out there daily or train on a flexible training schedule.”

Going into district qualifiers at full speed, Natalie turned in the second-best time among Vallivue girls competing at the Homedale Invitational. She finished 10th overall, clocking a 20-minute, 26.7-second circuit of the 5-kilometer course.

County volleyball roundup
Huskies top Trojans in a five-game battle

Marsing hosted Homedale in high school volleyball on Monday, Oct. 6, in a rematch of the Huskies’ early-season win at the Trojan’s house. This time the match was fought to the wire, with Marsing grabbing a 25-10, 23-25, 25-23, 13-25 and 15-13 see-saw non-conference victory.

“The scores were pretty much how the games went,” Homedale coach David Hann said. “It was a battle back and forth clear down to the final points. We went through a whole gambit of emotions during those games.”

Hann praised his team’s play across the board.

For Marsing, senior Kaitie Kent racked up 16 assists, sophomore spiker Rebecca Cossel had eight kills, junior Kacie Hull notched five kills and senior Kaya Stahle carded four digs, five aces and 17 points.

On Oct. 7, Marsing (5-7 overall, 1-7 2A WIC) played host to a tough New Plymouth team in a 2A Western Idaho Conference match. The Huskies lost in three hard-fought games, 25-17, 26-24, 31-29. Cossel was the offensive standout with 10 kills and nine points, while Hull had three blocks on defense.

Two days later, Marsing squared off against Parma while Homedale took on Fruitland. Neither county team could post a win, however.

The Trojans lost at 3A Snake River Valley conference match, 25-14, 25-11 and 25-10, against an overpowering Fruitland offense.

“Fruitland is good,” Hann said. “They have lots of firepower and used it against us Thursday night.”

Fruitland hitters Hailey Felgenhauer, Kylee Nawahine, and Janica Martarano combined for 30 kills.

“We did struggle a little with our serve receive,” Hann admitted. “But we really didn’t play bad at all. (Haylie) Frelove, (Taylor) Thomas and (Rachelle) Christofersen all recorded kills.”

Homedale (2-4 3A SRV at week’s end) played McCall-Donnelly on Tuesday after press time. The Trojans finish the regular season Thursday with a Senior Night tilt against Weiser.

Marsing lost to Parma on Thursday, 25-1, 25-15, 26-24.

✓ Huskies: JVs play for title

Paramo and Burril will be sharing the position, likely for the rest of the season, Walgamott said, as Burril hasn’t shown the improvement he’s capable of.

“He needs the competition. He needs someone up there to make him (Burril) focus,” Walgamott said.

Putting Paramo back in will make Burril, and the team, better, the coach said.

It’ll need to be. Marsing will face a tough Parma team Friday on the road.

“They’re not going to be tricky, or special, or anything like that,” Walgamott said of the Huskies’ next 2A WIC opponents. They’ll just be tough “and make you prove you’re better than them. They’re the top dogs right now.”

Walgamott reminded fans that the Huskies’ undefeated junior varsity team (6-0) plays Parma at 7 p.m. Thursday at home to decide JV conference champion.
