Alabama firm protests county 911 bid award

Hearing set for May 2 in Murphy

An Alabama-based telecommunications company has lodged a protest in the county's awarding of a 911 communications system bid.

On Monday morning, county commissioners decided to hear the protest from Madison, Ala. company Emergency Callworx at 9 a.m. on Monday, May 2, inside Courtroom 2 at the Owyhee County Courthouse in Murphy. Emergency Callworx submitted the low bid on the project, but wasn't a

Homedale schools can expect $270K drop in state help

Trustees look to next budget after news regarding Idaho Dept. of Ed. funding

The impact of state legislation regarding education funding in Homedale will be about the same as anticipated, the school district's superintendent says.

Tim Rosandick said last week that Homedale School District will see about $270,000 less in state support for its fiscal year 2012 budget. That's roughly the same number that local officials anticipated when they were crunching numbers ahead of an unsuccessful supplemental levy election last month.

Homedale received about $5.48 million from the state Department of Education for the 2010-11 school year (FY 2011). Rosandick said Wednesday that the district could anticipate about $5.21 million for next school year.

School trustees will chew on that number during budget workshops scheduled for 7 p.m. on successive Wednesdays (May 25 and June 1). The public hearing

Marsing minister to give Easter message

London selected for Lizard Butte Sunrise Service

For Christians, the celebration of Easter is one of the biggest events on the church calendar. This year, a local pastor will bring a message of "hope" to all believers and non-believers.

With a slightly fading Texas drawl, Dave London will have the opportunity to deliver the sermon for the annual sunrise service held at Lizard Butte in celebration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

"The message will be one of hope," London said. "That is what the resurrection really means. There is more to life than what is going on at the present. When people leave the service on Sunday, I hope they leave with the message of hope that is given to us through the resurrection of Jesus Christ."

London, a retired master sergeant in the U.S. Air Force and businessman, came to serve the Lizard Butte Baptist Church

Teenager picked up on Ada felony warrant near Homedale Middle School

Parents arrested on charges of harboring a fugitive

Law enforcement officers arrested a man on a felony warrant after a short foot pursuit near Homedale Middle School on April 12.

Timothy Riley, 18, was arrested by Homedale Police along with an Ada County Sheriff's deputy, U.S. Marshals and Canyon County law enforcement after he attempted to flee from officers after a morning-long stakeout of his parent's residence on Marion Drive in Homedale.

According to Ada County Sheriff's Office public information officer Andrea Dearden, Riley was wanted for escape from a juvenile charge against him from 2009. The warrant was issued for his arrest by Ada County in January 2011.

Acting Chief of Police Sgt. Mike McFetridge said he had been on the lookout for Riley for the past couple of months. He said officers had been watching the house and the area for most of the morning when two individuals wearing hooded sweatshirts were seen leaving the house.

"Timothy left the home with another individual and proceeded toward 7th Street," McFetridge said. "When I approached them on 7th, one of the subjects ran through the field toward the middle school and was caught by the other officers. The other subject was apprehended near West Colorado Avenue."

Officers found drug paraphernalia along with a controlled substance in Riley's possession when he was arrested in the field across from the middle school on Johnstone Road. He was transported to the Owyhee County Jail by the Ada County deputy.

After Riley was arrested, officers went to the home of his parents at 714 Marion Drive where they arrested his father, John Riley, 51, and mother Robin Riley, 50. Both were charged with harboring of a fugitive, which is a felony.

Audit: County was under budget in most areas for FY10

Owyhee spent $700K less than it brought in for current expense, roads

Owyhee County spent hundreds of thousands of dollars less than budgeted during fiscal year 2010, according to a Nampa financial auditing firm.

The bulk of the black ink came from the Current Expense and Road and Bridge portions of the budget, the audit presented by Bailey & Co., reveals.

Expenditures for the Current Expense line, which encompasses county departments, came in $428,219 less than originally budgeted last September. Despite receiving slightly less funding than budgeted, the Road and Bridge budget showed that the county's two road districts spent $282,450 less than anticipated.

The result was an excess in general fund revenues over expenditures of $416,987. In Road and Bridge, that number was $203,136 and contributed to a nearly 50 percent growth in that fund balance to $627,000 by Sept. 30, 2010.

Bailey & Co.'s Jared Swygart presented the audit at a recent Board of County Commissioners meeting.

"It shows the fiscal responsibility of the departments and the employees helping to make sure that they're holding their funds in line," BOCC chair Jerry Hoagland said.

"I was pleased that it came out good like it did."

Hoagland said the restraint shown helped cover the gap of dwindling state revenues throughout the current fiscal year. He reported that things may be looking up with the state's announcement that sales tax revenue for March came in $60 million above projections.

Swygart reported that the county's net value, encompassing cash and other assets, was $9.8 million. Of that, $4.5 million was cash.

But Swygart urged better oversight for the county fair finances in light of the fact that his firm couldn't get a solid grasp on the situation during their review.

He pointed out that the fair's budget was in the red by $2,476 at the end of the fiscal year. The fair brought in $21,058 but spent $25,347, which wiped out a fund balance of $1,813 at the start of FY 2010.

"We feel that you need to put a little pressure on the fair board," Swygart said. "You should have someone reviewing the banks statements."

Swygart said that fair secretary was paying bills and preparing the bank statements, and someone else should also reconcile the statement.

Swygart's department-by-department analysis showed few areas of deficit.

While every department met budget overall, the audit revealed that the sheriff's office was $50,713 in the red for its operating expenses, which includes fuel costs. Budgeted at $205,750, the sheriff's office spent $256,463, or 24.6 percent more than appropriated. At the same time, Sheriff Daryl Crandall spent nothing out of his $48,000 capital outlay appropriation.

The Jail's operating expenses, set by the commissioners at $145,000, was over by $3,871.

The Coroner's Office salaries were $46 over a $13,828 budget.

The Prosecuting Attorney's Office overspent its benefits line by $1,586.

The capital outlay appropriation for the Buildings and Grounds fund, set at $13,000, was exceeded by $3,580.

The Elections budget was also over in operating expenses by $1,437.

Savings were widespread, however.

The sheriff's office budget for salaries and benefits, set at $831,974, came in 10 percent under budget.

The jail's salary and benefits spending, set at $521,924, was $31,318 under budget (6 percent).

Other big savings came in general operating expenses, which came in $74,189 under budget (24.9 percent), and technology department operating costs, which were 29.2 percent (or $40,296) under budget.

Swygart did warn the commissioners that they may have to consider beefing up the Airport fund after spending $22,717 for operating expenses out of a budget that received no FY 2010 revenue.

He had the same suggestion for Indigent and Charity, which was $105,486 in the red.

HMS accepts $20K reward for Blue Ribbon nomination

Principal surprised with check at state Title 1 conference

A nomination for a national award has earned Homedale Middle School $20,000. Building principal Luci Asumendi-Mereness and other staff were on hand April 8 to accept the check at the Title 1 conference at the Centre on the Grove in Boise. As one of the three Idaho schools nominated for the national Blue Ribbon School award, HMS was honored as a Showcase School. Asumendi-Mereness led a Power Point presentation encompasses for the four-year journey HMS has been on to the national recognition. The presentation centered on the second of the nine Characteristics of High Performing Schools. "I chose No. 2: High standards and expectations for all students," Asumendi-Mereness said. "I believe this starts with the adults, and that is how I presented the information." In addition to the check, HMS also received an Academic Achievement plaque. "I was stunned as the presenter announced that each school would receive $20,000, and yet, humbled that this nomination, which I believe is a tribute to the work of improving student achievement that our students and staff have done," the HMS principal said. "It really reinforces the significance of the nomination." Asumendi-Mereness said the cash award will "will allow us to better serve the diverse needs of our students, to improve instruction, and to become better practitioners at every level." No decisions on how to use the money have been made, she said, adding that it will be put to good use to serve HMS students. While the Blue Ribbon nomination and the award check both spotlight HMS, Asumendi-Mereness said the success story goes deeper than one campus in the Homedale School District. "The nomination for the Blue Ribbon schools award did not happen just because of the work of the middle school," she said. "The elementary school staff is doing an outstanding job under Yvonne Ihli's leadership of preparing students to be successful at the next grade level. "Students are entering fifth grade ready to learn. They can read and are able to handle the course work. Yes, there are a few outliers, but for the most part, students are prepared to be successful."

Near flood stage, Bruneau River threatens Idaho 78

Steady rain and snow runoff pushed the Bruneau River closer to flood stage Monday. The National Weather Service upgraded a flood watch to a flood warning Monday morning as the river was expected to possibly run onto Idaho highway 78 west of Bruneau. In a phone message to the Board of County Commissioners during its Monday meeting, Owyhee County emergency services coordinator Jim Desmond reported that the NWS had issued a flood watch because of concerns that flooding could occur in the Hot Springs area as well as on the Idaho 78 bridge that crossed the Bruneau River midway between the Bruneau townsite and the Idaho 78/Idaho 51 interchange west of town. The river was running at 7.8 feet in the morning and an Owyhee County Sheriff's deputy reported that it had risen to within 18 inches of the Idaho 78 bridge by the afternoon. Desmond said Jay Bridenbach of the NWS reported that the river could hit flood stage by midnight Monday with a crest of 9½ to 10 feet. Meanwhile, Dave Smith of the county road crew near Pleasant Valley said that Jordan Creek was swollen with runoff Monday afternoon. He also said that while Juniper Mountain Road hasn't been closed by county officials, travel is risky because of the muddy conditions. — JPB

Work continues on shoring up hall after last year's flooding

The George D. VanDerhoff American Legion Post 32 in Homedale will show off continuing renovations Friday during its 70th annual Bean Feed and Raffle. Happy hour begins at 5 p.m. with a free dinner to follow. Raffle tickets cost 50 cents each, and there are numerous prizes donated by local businesses, according to post commander Robert Keaveny. The grand prize is a double-barrel .20 gauge shotgun, and tickets for that drawing are $5 each or six for $20.

Proceeds will help the post offset the $350 cost to send Homedale High School junior Anthony Adams to Boys State this summer as well as pay for two college scholarships that the Legion assumed stewardship of in January. Keaveny said the scholarships come from the George Murray Memorial Scholarship Fund originally administered by the now-defunct Homedale Community Club. Keaveny said work continues to shore up the Legion hall in the wake of last summer's flooding, but the refurbishing has taken a toll on the bank account. "We're trying to make the place water-tight by closing in the windows and raising the back steps and wall," he said. "We've just about emptied the coffers."

"The message each person hears is designed for that individual," London said. "The man that stands up and delivers any message may never know what each person gets from the word of God. We have to be willing to listen. When we are truly willing to listen, God will touch our hearts." London has served the Marsing congregation for nearly 11 years. Throughout his career and the nearly 14 years spent at Mountain Home Air Force Base, London credits the structure and training he received from the Air Force as the foundation for his ministering career. "I was called to be a minister in 1974 while stationed in Thailand with the Air Force," London said. "At that time, I didn't have the education to start right then. In my years with the service, I was educated on how to lead, and that truly helped me to understand how to lead a flock." During his time operating his own auto repair business in Mountain Home, London was called to be the pastor at the Baptist church in Marsing. "I was picking up an engine in Ontario, Oregon, when I heard a voice telling me I was going to serve in Marsing," London said. "Being the skeptic that we all are, I said 'I'm not going to Marsing.' I drug my feet in accepting the call here. "But, when you are where you are supposed to be, even though there are good times and bad, you still have an inner peace and joy. That peace comes from knowing that God is using you." London serves on the Board of Directors for his alma mater Idaho Baptist College and was instrumental in founding the Chaplain program for the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office. "I am a servant," London said.

"The work we do here is far-reaching. Working with the sheriff's office gives me an opportunity to help throughout the entire county. I am here for everyone as a volunteer serving the needs of the public." Despite tending to the regular services at his called position, on a regular basis London visits with inmates at the Owyhee County Jail and conducts services for those incarcerated. Along with his visits, he is also in the process of finishing up a degree in communications at Boise State University and expects to graduate next year. "When it comes to people in need who are hurting, I am here for anyone," he said. — J LZ

✓ 911 bid: Low-bidding vendor disputes information used in decision

top-three finalist after 911 committee scoring. Owyhee County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn said she received an email from Emergency Callworx co-founder Kevin Gardner protesting the county's award of the 911 project to Qwest Communications. Gardner's protest arrived after the commissioners adjourned their April 11 meeting and required a Monday meeting even though the Board of County Commissioners had cancelled this week's gathering because of training in Meridian. In his email, Gardner disputed the award on the grounds that the county incorrectly stated that the Callworx system was Internet-based. Gardner wrote that, like all other vendors' products, Callworx operates on the local server with no connection to the Internet required. He also pointed out that his company's bid was nearly $100,000 less than the proposal the commissioners accepted. Furthermore, Gardner contends that objections listed in the county's rejection letter about fiber-optic requirements and DSL or cable modem requirements were based on misunderstanding. Gardner said that fiber optics would be needed only if the 911 system's computer server is located in a separate building and that a DSL or cable modem would be used for remote maintenance, but wasn't necessary. Gardner wrote that a dial-up connection would allow access to the system for maintenance, but would limit the features available. Emergency Callworx was the low-bidder at $124,000, but the BOCC voted 2-1 to accept the $219,576.21 proposal from Qwest for a Positron system. District 1 Commissioner Jerry Hoagland (R-Wilson) cast the dissenting vote on April 4. Sheriff Daryl Crandall backed the Qwest Positron bid, and said that the county's dispatchers favored the Positron, too. The Qwest bid was the highest of the six proposals the county received. The county's 911 Committee recommended the Qwest

Communications PlantCML bid of $194,000.15. The committee, comprised of representatives from county emergency responders, had ranked all six bids from best to worst in terms of how they scored on an evaluation analysis. Qwest Positron scored highest, while Emergency Callworx ranked at the bottom in the preliminary scoring. The 911 committee organized product demonstrations for the top three scorers — Qwest Positron, White Cloud Zetron and Qwest PlantCML. Also as part of Monday's meeting, the commissioners issued a subpoena for Eddie Goldsmith, the coordinator for the Idaho

Emergency Communications Commission, so he can give testimony at the May 2 hearing. The county also will send notices of the protest to the other vendors in the process. Because of its distance from Owyhee County, Emergency Callworx has been given the option to send a representative to the hearing or attend via telephone conference call. The other vendors can attend the hearing in person. Deputy prosecutor, who attended Monday's meeting telephonically, suggested that the county appoint Jim Desmond as the hearing officer for the May 2 proceedings. — JPB

✓ Schools: Homedale trustees set dates for workshops, budget hearing on the FY 2012 Homedale schools budget was set for 7 p.m. on Tuesday, June 13 during last week's monthly board meeting. The state funding subsidizes salaries, discretionary spending and transportation costs for each school district. The passage of the state budget has solved one piece of the puzzle for FY 2012 Homedale school funding, but Rosandick said that property values continue to be a variable in determining how much revenue the district will garner from county taxes. The superintendent said that property values within the district took a 25 percent nosedive for the 2010 tax year, which affected the Canyon-Owyhee School Services Agency operational levy's revenue. Another revenue source for the district — the plant facility levy — generates $150,000 each year. Rosandick said that levy isn't influenced by market value fluctuations. In light of the $720,000 supplemental levy election defeat on March 8, trustees continue to look for ways to shore up budget shortfalls. At the request of the school board, district athletic directors David Hart and Nick Schamber presented ideas for sports participation fees at the April 11 board meeting. No action was taken on the proposal, which calls for high school athletes to pay $50 for each sport in which they compete. Middle school students would pay $45 for each sport. Rosandick said the formula proposed by Hart and Schamber will help finance equipment and supplies for each sport, transportation for each team and also assist in covering stipends for each of the coaches. Rosandick estimated that the school district spends about $170,000 on coaches' salaries each year. In another exploratory move regarding ways to save money, trustees heard analysis of a four-day school week from independent consultant Frank Gallant. "We asked Dr. Gallant to do this because of his experience, and we wanted to have someone that was completely objective on the issue to help with the analysis of the economic impact of the four-day school week," Rosandick said. A former Basin School District superintendent, Gallant spent 35 years in education and currently serves as a part-time professional for the University of Idaho satellite in Boise teaching finance and quantitative research. According to Gallant's report, students would lose approximately 20 days from the school calendar and the school day would lengthen anywhere from 30 minutes for kindergarteners to nearly an hour-and-a-half for high school seniors. The total money saved ranged from a high estimate of nearly $78,000 to a low estimate of $36,000. The high estimate is less than one percent of the district's current annual budget. — JPB

Bet You Didn’t Know

Famed soda originally billed as brain beverage

Coke, as in Coca-Cola, has had many different slogans over the years ... the first one is a little hard to swallow ... It was sold as an “Esteemed Brain Tonic and Intellectual Beverage.”

So if you were thinking that the Model T Ford was the first mass-produced vehicle, you’d be wrong ... it was the Model N ... Cost $500 in 1906.

Speaking of Ford Motor cars ... all Fords were black until 1925 ... then you could get them in green and maroon as well as black.

So, what’s the name of America’s largest corporation named after someone’s daughter? If you said Wendy’s hamburgers ... you’d be wrong again. ... It’s Sara Lee, named after the daughter of Charles Lubin, who started the Kitchens of Sara Lee in 1951 ...

The average 160-pound person has a skeleton weighing just over 29 pounds ... That’s me ... heavy bones.

Shows you that you can never be too old to start ... famous actor Sydney Greenstreet (Maltese Falcon and Casablanca and Christmas in Connecticut) ... made his screen debut at the age of 62 in 1941 ...

Indiana Jones ... so what was his real first name in the movie? Henry.

ITD speaks out on Homedale reader board

The City of Homedale no longer can sell advertising space on its reader board to commercial enterprises.

The Idaho Transportation Department has notified Mayor Harold Wilson that the small reader board that sits near the intersection of U.S. Highway 95 and Idaho highway 19 (East Idaho Avenue) can be used only to advertise community events.

The sign, which has touted community events as well as deals available at local businesses, is in the state right-of-way for Idaho 19 and is visible from U.S. 95. The city was charging $35 for businesses to advertise for two weeks, while community groups could promote their events for free.

In a letter dated April 12, Lana Servatius, ITD's District 3 right-of-way supervisor, asked that the city immediately cease further advertising on the sign.

A March 24 letter from Servatius stated that signs in the highway right-of-way can only be used to promote community events, such as the Chamber of Commerce Easter egg hunt that was advertised last week, or the county fair or June's community block party.

The city must obtain an encroachment permit from ITD in order to continue using the sign, however. ITD's Pam Golden

Library to get new lighting

Visitors to the Homedale Public Library soon will have better light by which to read.

The City Council on Wednesday accepted the library directors' recommendation to hire H&H Electric to install 22 new light fixtures for the building at 125 W. Owyhee Ave.

H&H Electric, which is based in Homedale, bid $1,386 for the energy efficiency project, which would be paid for through library fund money.

Caldwell's AME Electric, which was the general contractor for the recently completed Local Improvement District revitalization project, bid $1,661 for the library lighting job.

Marsing sets renegotiation date for city coverage by OCSO

Special use permit approved for in-home daycare

The Marsing City Council set a date for the contract renegotiation with the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office during its regular monthly meeting last week.

Earlier in the month, the council held a special executive session to discuss the current and future pact with OCSO. During the meeting, the council deemed having its own police department wasn't a feasible option.

"We need to notify the Board of County Commissioners along with Sheriff Daryl Crandall of our intentions," Mayor Keith Green said. "The agreement has expired and is currently running month-to-month. By the terms of the contract, we have to give them 30 days notice for renegotiation."

The $76,385 contract with OCSO stipulates a 30-day notice for any modifications to the agreement. The May 11 meeting falls two days prior to the required 30 days, but the contract allows for both parties to schedule a meeting within 15 days with a consensus of both entities.

During discussion of the draft letter, Green brought up coverage in the schools and paying for the ordinance enforcement within the city.

"We will no longer ask for coverage in schools," Green said. "We're not asking you to not do stuff in the school, the city isn't going to provide money any longer to pay for coverage in the school. We have been told by many, many people we shouldn't be paying for the coverage. I disagree with this, but it is what the people want."

With the hiring of Frank Rehdorf as a Title V employee in November, the city will look to remove paying for ordinance enforcement from the contract.

Specific dollar amounts for the new contract weren't discussed during the meeting. Green said at the May 11 meeting, the city would have numbers available as to what they will offer OCSO for services.

Green said the official letter from the city attorney would be sent to OCSO, BOCC, Owyhee County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn and Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Douglas D. Emery.

"We are meeting to discuss the contract not meeting to sign the new contract," councilman James Ferdinand said. "We want to make sure that everyone gets this letter, so we don't have to rely on distribution. This is a matter of public record, and we want to be transparent with what we are doing here."

Special use permit approved for daycare

With council approval, Misti Wageman was granted a special use permit to operate an in-home daycare at her home on 12 Butte

Lane.

Following policy, a public hearing was announced for anyone with concerns or questions about the daycare operation. No residents spoke regarding the facility. Wageman is licensed with the state and will provide care to her three children along with another child.

She said the other child is only part-time and within state regulations she could take on only one more child without hiring another care provider.

City building inspections

After a presentation from Kevin Hinsdale, the council approved moving forward with turning over all city residential and commercial inspections to him.

In his proposal, building inspection fees would follow the amounts the state charges. Hinsdale proposed a $50-per-inspection charge for all residential checks.

For commercial applications, Hinsdale noted each project would have its own list of inspections depending on the type of building and materials used and the purpose of the building.

Because of the variety of inspections required on commercial buildings, Hinsdale would collect 75 percent of the fees for the individual inspections. For an electrical, plumbing and HVAC inspection of a $100,000 project, Hinsdale would receive $2,160 and the city would collect $870.

The next step in the process is to notify the state, which is currently the inspecting authority, of the decision along with Owyhee County, which handles all HVAC inspections within the county.

Donation made to Purtell fundraiser

The council unanimously voted for a $300 donation from the city to benefit past city councilman Tony Purtell. The donation was made to the bank account set up at the Marsing US Bank to help Purtell and his family cover medical costs.

Five Homedale FFA’ers set sights on nationals competition

by Kylie Farwell
chapter reporter

Three Homedale’s FFA members will attend October’s national convention in Indianapolis.

The five chapter members were part of a strong contingent that traveled to the State Leadership Conference at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls from April 6 to April 9.

Career Development Experience (CDE) competitions and leadership sessions were on the agenda.

Mark Williams earned a gold ranking and a Proficiency Award for his work with pigs. Only a handful of FFA members statewide received the award, and Williams will pick up his honor at the national convention.

Aubrey Nash and Raven Kelly will be in Indianapolis after finishing fourth at State in the National Chapter Award competition. The National Chapter Award is a large packet that showcases the chapter’s achievements throughout the year. The top five National Chapter Award entries from the state convention earn passage to the national competition.

Homedale FFA advisor Lori Idsinga said the because of budget cuts it’s no longer possible for the school board to help with travel costs to nationals. Fundraiser such as the annual Harvest Auction and the greenhouse sale, which begins Monday, help offset costs, too.

“The students will probably have to pay around $500 each for this trip if we don’t have any more fundraisers,” Idsinga said.

Deena Emry, Katie Eaton, Katie Price and Kylie Farwell received

State FFA Degrees in Twin Falls.

Homedale also sent four CDE teams to the state competition. They competed in Farm Business, Floral, Landscape and Horse Judging.

All the contests involved hours of competition.

On April 8, the Farm Business team of Eaton, Lane Matteson, Clay Johnson and Esteban Lejardi earned an award for their fifth-place showing. Eaton, Matteson and Johnson earned college credits after passing their test with a score higher than 60 percent.

The Horse Judging team was wrapped up in their task during the morning and afternoon of April 7. The lineup of Bodie Hyer, Morgan Nash, Cole Twedt and Carlie Purdom brought home an eighth-place standing.

Reynolds ranch kid earns FFA nationals berth for Melba H.S.

Reynolds Creek resident John Richards will represent Melba FFA at the national convention in October.

Richards recently earned a Gold placing at the state leadership conference in Twin Falls for his diversified livestock project.

According to Melba FFA advisor Josh Sanders, the Melba High School sophomore completed a several-page document detailing financial records of his project, which included a beef herd, horse herd, fair projects and working on the ranch owned by his parents,

John Richards

Brenda and Tony Richards.

The documentation detailed how Richards managed his herd size, attended to sick animals and managed his brood mares as part of his everyday life.

In addition to his Gold award, Richards received $350 in prize money.

The national convention will be held in Indianapolis.

Richards also earned a weekly Distinguished Student Award from the United Dairymen of Idaho last month. He was featured on KTVB Channel 7 for his efforts.

Richards: Initiative board unified against Wild Lands

Inventories under way on BLM ground in Owyhee

The Obama administration’s burgeoning Wild Lands policy is causing friction beyond the West apparently.

And, even though environmental groups may line up in favor of the plan, those involved with the Owyhee Initiative will continue to support protecting the county’s public lands.

Reynolds Creek rancher Brenda Richards, who recently returned from Washington, D.C., on Public Lands Council business, says even congressmen from eastern states are balking at the idea put forth in a December executive order by Interior Secretary Ken Salazar.

Richards is the PLC’s national secretary/treasurer. She gave a report of her recent visit to the nation’s capital in that capacity during an administrative meeting of the Board of County Commissioners earlier this month.

Salazar’s executive order requires federal land managers, including the Bureau of Land Management and U.S. Forest Service, to create an inventory of all lands that may possess wilderness characteristics.

Multiple-use proponents fear that the policy could lead to the closure of more land. Opponents of the executive order say it usurps congressional authority to establish wilderness, a mandate created by the 1964 Wilderness Act sponsored by Idaho Sen. Frank Church.

Richards, who is also the president of the Owyhee Initiative

Board of Directors, said that the coalition of stakeholders are unified against the policy, even as some of the environmental groups involved move forward with plans to support the executive order in areas outside Owyhee County.

Richards said The Wilderness Society, in particular, is taking that stance.

“They’ll stand firm on the Owyhee agreement. For the county, that’s really all we can worry about. It’s not a good thing for the rest of the state, though, because they will be pushing for the inventories.

“But it sounds like the whole Owyhee Initiative board is standing strong like they said.”

District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi stated that the policy would create a litigious environment. The Owyhee Initiative process was begun a decade ago in part to prevent such an occurrence.

“Wild Lands encompass a large amount (of county acreage),” he said. “That will put those lands in lawsuits, and we’ll lose them because they’ll be in constant litigation.”

Sen. Mike Crapo (R-Idaho), the man who got behind the county’s effort to make the Initiative law, has kept an eye on the progress of the Wild Lands policy. Spokesman Lindsay Nothern said the senator is still investigating the policy through meetings with administration officials.

“We’re just trying to discern what that directive means in terms of Owyhee,” Nothern said.

Crapo’s state natural resources director, Layne Bangerter, along with Owyhee County commissioners, met March 23 in Boise with Boise District associate manager Dave Wolf, Bruneau Field Office manager Arnie Pike, Owyhee Field Office outdoor recreation planner Ryan Homan and other officials from the federal agency.

At that meeting, county officials learned that the Wild Lands inventory mandated by Salazar’s order was well under way in Owyhee County with most of the Bruneau office survey complete and about 30 percent left in the Owyhee office, BOCC chair Jerry Hoagland said.

“It was a little frustrating to the commissioners that they were that far along,” Hoagland said. “It’s kind of something that they did, but they kind of ignored that the Owyhee Initiative law released all that.”

According to Hoagland, maps presented at the meeting showed acreage beyond the Wilderness Study Areas released by the Initiative law that now have been determined to have wilderness characteristics.

“Depending on how it goes as we go through a public process, if they want those lands depending the degree of wilderness characteristics, some things will be very restricted and others will be more open,” Hoagland said.

All Wild Lands designations will be subject to public comment, according to the policy.

DOI: Wild Lands may have human touches

The Department of the Interior has issued guidance to land managers on how to carry out inventories, including the criteria for determining which lands may be eligible for the Wild Lands tag.

Among the criteria are size, naturalness and the existence of “outstanding” opportunities for either solitude or primitive and unconfined recreation such as hiking, backpacking, fishing, hunting, horseback riding and other non-motorized forms of recreation.

According to the guidelines, the inventory must take into consideration whether the roadless area is at least 5,000 acres of BLM land uninterrupted by state or private acreage.

Roadless areas less than 5,000 acres can be considered for designation if they meet certain criteria.

The naturalness factor includes determining the human impact on an area.

The guidelines caution that an area shouldn’t be taken out of the running for Wild Lands designation merely because of the presence improvements by humans, such as trails, trail signs, bridges, fire break, hitching posts, fire rings and pit toilets. Radio repeater sites and environmental quality measuring devices also should not be reasons for exclusion, the guidelines say.

Some human impacts also are acceptable if they are “substantially unnoticeable”, according to the guidelines.

COSSA career day includes carnival, too

In addition to learning about career opportunities, students and others attending Thursday’s career day at the Canyon-Owyhee School Services Agency campus will be able to help out the needy.

The senior class of COSSA’s alternative high school has announced it will hold a carnival to raise funds for the Calvary Holiness Church Food Bank in Wilder.

The carnival will be held from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. after the second annual COSSA Career Expo.

Geared toward elementary school-aged children, the carnival will include games and activities. Donations of cash and canned foods will be accepted for participation in a cake walk, fishing booth, face painting, jail, wedding booth, beanbag and football tosses, a coin collector, a lollipop tree and more.

Hot dogs, drinks and chips also will be available for purchase.

Organizers also are encouraging the middle school and high school students attending the career fair to bring donations for the food bank.

The career fair is a collaboration between COSSA and the Idaho Department of Labor and will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Good gloves, hot bats can't carry Homedale

Homedale High School's consistent gloves couldn't counteract Fruitland's powerful bats Friday in a 3A Snake River Valley conference baseball loss.

The Trojans didn't commit an error, but Fruitland's Ryan Wright smashed two home runs off Zac Lowder to fuel a 7-5 victory at home.

The Trojans jumped out to an early lead, but couldn't recover win the Grizzlies scored five runs in the fifth inning.

Zac Lowder and Logan Jarvis collected two hits apiece from the top of the Trojans' lineup.

Trojans take third in home-course debut

Reed Maggard birdied two of the final three holes Monday, and Nick Ryska chimed in with a 43 to push Homedale High School to a victory as host of the weekly conference golf tournament Monday.

Maggard missed medalist by one stroke, but Ryska's strong showing out of the No. 4 slot helped the Trojans come out on top in a 3A Snake River Valley conference nine-hole match at River Bend Golf Course in Wilder.

"The kid I'm proudest of today is Nick Ryska," second-year HHS coach Greg Kilmer said. "He knows I'm looking for that fourth guy, and Nicky has been there every week. I'm very happy for Nick today."

The sophomore matched his brother Brett's score of 43 as Homedale came in with a 166 team score. The Trojans were four strokes ahead of the field, which was log-jammed with a three-way tie for 170 between Weiser, Fruitland and Payette.

The Pirates' Brice Boudreaux won a playoff for medalist honors. He and Weiser's JD Hurd each finished the round at 1-over-par 37.

A sophomore, Maggard notched a 2-over 38, and teammate Hayden Krzesnik came in at 42.

"The kids were challenged," Kilmer said. "They didn't want to lose on their course. I'm very happy for that."

Marsing sprint medley team continues to shine

Huskies to compete at New Plymouth Invite on Thursday

While crazy April weather continues to bring cold temperatures and unpredictable patterns, the one thing staying consistent is the Marsing High School sprint medley team.

Picking up second place at the Parma Invitational on April 13, the team of Andrea Rodriguez, Margarita Contreras, Shannon Malmberg and Gloria Martinez wrapped up the two 100-, 200- and the 400-meter jaunts with a combined time of 2:06.44. Earlier in the season, they picked up a time of 2:05.30 cementing them in first place in the 2A Western Idaho Conference standings a full 2.8 seconds ahead of Melba.

"Our girls' sprint medley team did great," Marsing coach Jim Eisentrager said. "In a field of 25 teams our girls continue to shine. The didn't PR their time, but they blew everyone out of the water."

Malmberg also snagged fourth in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 17.62 and pulled in a 10th-place finish in the 100 with a posting of 13.33. Rodriguez was able to pull off a 30-foot, 11½-inch throw in the shot put to get sixth.

"This was one of the coldest meets we have been at," Eisentrager said. "The kids rose above it. What was really neat was they saw there was cold weather and adjusted their warm-ups accordingly. With as many teams as there were, it was a tough. Overall our girls had their best showing in a meet that size, placing 11th out of 21 teams."

For the boys, Jason Galligan narrowly missed the 5-8 mark in the high jump, finishing with a 5-6 leap for ninth place. He also picked up 11th in the long jump and 22nd in the triple.

"Jason's goliath has been 5-4 for a number of years, and he cleared 5-6," Eisentrager said. "He will easily be able to clear 5-8 after a little more work. I was really proud of the work he has put in."

Pedro Carillo picked up a discus throw of 107-10 to snag 15th overall in a field of 38

Trojans' Bill rings up first tennis win

Meligan stays unbeaten, but HHS falls to Weiser

LaVon Bill's first victory of the season led a strong singles ladder performance for Homedale High School on Thursday.

Bill downed Weiser's Sloane Weldon, 6-3, 6-3, but the Wolverines were able to dominate the doubles action for an 8-4 3A Snake River Valley conference victory.

Homedale forfeited two of the singles matches at City Park.

"Despite having to forfeit two of our singles matches, our singles really came through," first-year HHS coach Scott Michaelson said. "Of the four that we played, we won three of them."

Second-seeded in the boys' ladder,

Jordan Meligan remained unbeaten for the 2011 season with a 6-2, 6-0 win over Dominic Aubrey.

Fellow senior Tanner Lair, the Trojans' top boys' singles player and the reigning 3A state champion, cruised past Austin Winegar, 6-1, 6-0.

Homedale's only other victory came in a hard-fought No. 2 mixed doubles match in which Becka Krasko and Dominic Christiansen prevailed, 7-5, 7-6, over Jade Beams and Artem Moskalenko.

The Wolverines swept to victory in the other matches.

April 12 boys: Ontario, Ore., 3, Homedale 2 — The Trojans couldn't sustain themselves through a slew of three-set matches in a narrow non-conference loss at the City Park courts.

Lair and Meligan swept the first two boys' singles matches, but the rest of the HHS squad came out on the short end of matches that went the limit and then some.

Zach Mereness faltered after sweeping the first set against Ontario No. 3 Josh Stampers.

The doubles teams of Jarrod Armenta and Christiansen and Jordan Brady and Tell Hyer both lost 7-6 in the third set.

April 12 girls: Ontario 5, Homedale 0 — The No. 1 doubles team of Sarah Maggard and Krasko won three games in the first set, but were swept by Ontario's Ali Babij and Kayla Bertram.

The Tigers won all five matches in straight sets.

No mixed doubles matches were contested.

Jarrod Armenta leaps to get a shot at the net during the No. 1 mixed doubles match between Homedale and Weiser high schools Thursday at City Park. Armenta and Trojans' partner Sarah Maggard fell to Weiser's top duo, 6-1, 6-3.

Mackenzie McMichael stretches to make a play Thursday as her Homedale High School No. 1 girls' doubles partner Kirsi Thatcher looks on. McMichael and Thatcher lost to Weiser's Tanna Pettet and Erin Tolman, 6-1, 6-2.

Harrington shares ideas for successful brunch entertaining, including adding fresh twists to popular dishes, like the distinct taste of a vanilla vinaigrette on a field green salad. She suggests heightening the flavor of favorite dishes with a mix of herbs and spices. Try picking recipes that can be prepared the day before, like Lemon Cheesecake Bars, or welcome guests with a Be Your Own Flavor-ista coffee station that can be set up in just a few minutes. Volunteers sought for E. Owyhee library’s Children’s Day

Grand View library receives grant for books

The Eastern Owyhee County Library’s Book Day on Thursday, April 28, will also celebrate Children’s Day, or El Dia de lose Niños.

The program is set for 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the library, 520 Boise Ave., in Grand View.

As a way of celebrating children from different cultures, there will be stories, games, self portrait exercises and cookies for treats.

Children who attend the activity will receive books made possible with help from the Idaho Commission for Libraries.

Library staff encourages parents to attend to participate and help out. Young adults and teens also are sought as volunteers to oversee some of the activities and help younger children at different stations.

For more information on volunteering, call the library at (208) 834-2785 or visit library director Kathy Chick at the library.

Books feature in the event have been obtained through a Libri Foundation Books for Children grant the library earned in the winter.

Other assistance has come from Hal Berenson and Laura Ackerman donations, the Grand View Lions Club, library patrons and Community Calendar sales.

The local support helped with the community match that brought 84 story, history, math and science books to the library. The total value of the books topped $1,400.

On the edge of common sense

The horse sculptor

I wonder if he starts at the head?
I mean to sculpt a horse that will one day stand in front of the stockyard gate. Or does he picture in his mind the kind of horse it will be? Would he start at the hooves instead, one leg at a time, stroking, flexing, molding, making the limb yield to him until it feels just right? Right front or left, then gliding back, the skilled hand following the shoulder to the flank, to the stifle, hock, cannon, fetlock, pastern, finally pressing until the hind foot gives itself up and lets the sculptor have his way.

Then does he go to the head?
Surely he must. Like the masthead on a ship, a lookout in the crow’s nest, the face’s expression will be a clue as to what to expect from those powerful limbs that drive the beast through the picture in his mind. Does he envision tension, fear, suspicion, acceptance, trust, fury, devotion or resignation in those eyes, in his stance, in his nostrils?
Will he break and run?

Will the sculptor have to start again from the broken pieces? Using firm but gentle caresses until the nose, the neck, and the mane become smoothly connected. Across the back, over the rump, down the leg, his practiced touch puts the sculpture back together.

Back to the head.
The halter, a piece of artwork in its own right, the rawhide plaiting climbing over the nose, tied on the left side, strong and commanding yet fragile as a riata. It establishes a palpable connection between sculptor and subject. Or, taking artistic license, does he go right to a bosal? He’s the sculptor, he can do what he wants! He is allowed to proceed to the blanket if he wishes, the soaking, the cinching and saddle. Maybe beef him up more, put him in a snaffle. Shoot, why not set a rider on his back? After all, it is the sculptor who is responsible for the final result.

All these Charlie Russell thoughts went through my mind as I watched the horse trainer putting on a demonstration in the middle of the ring. We, the audience, studied and listened as he went through the motions explaining, in the language of the horse, how he was sculpting a new one from the disorganized four-legged collection of muscle and bone that stood before him in the arena now.

Hide and hair, or clay and wire? Ray Hunt or Frederick Remington? The casting and creation of a horse requires an eye for deception, a hand for communication, and a deep knowledge of what it takes to mold imagination into flesh and blood.

Eyes on Owyhee

Not so wild about Wild Lands

Perhaps I’m taking a literal view of things, but I can’t for the life of me figure out what would be so “wild” about a piece of ground on which humans have trod to either create a fire ring or a bridge or a hitching post.

And yet, those structures, at least to these eyes, are exactly what the Department of Interior finds acceptable as federal land managers scour the West in search of land with “wilderness characteristics”.

Again, I’m probably considered a city boy, so maybe I don’t fully grasp what Obama administration officials, namely Interior Secretary Ken Salazar, consider Wild Lands, but you don’t have to be a product of rural life to know when a tree is a tree and pristine surroundings are pristine surroundings.

Just ask Teddy Roosevelt. After all, he’s the guy that as a Republican president kicked into high gear the federal government’s conservation movement by setting aside millions of acres as national forests, national parks and national preserves.

But I bet you’d be hard-pressed to convince TR that what his vision has evolved into is anything close to what he had in mind.

Roosevelt wanted to preserve the unique outdoors of America as the nation’s legacy, but he also was a man who was hard at work to protect those who made the nation hum — its laborers.

It’s not a stretch to think that he would approve of the responsible use of the renewable resources available on grazing lands that might be marked for exclusion. He struck out against over-grazing, but today’s rancher is far more savvy than the cattlemen of the early 20th century.

It’s ironic that in carrying on a concept cemented by our 26th president more than a century ago that the federal lands policies of the current Democratic administration seemingly threatens the most important group of workers to use those lands in the West — the ranchers.

In the name of preserving large tracts of land for posterity, Salazar’s executive order may shut out beef producers from more grazing lands. The impact would be at least two-fold.

First and most evident, the tenuous economic stature of the American rancher could be further eroded by a loss of land on which to raise livestock.

Secondly, and apparently a point unseen by myopic and radical environmentalists, pushing cattle and sheep off more chunks of federal land would create more risk of wildfires on the scale of the Murphy Complex and the Long Butte blazes.

And we all know what those massive wildfires have pushed Bureau of Land Management officials to do in the name of rehabilitation. Cattle would be barred from even more acreage, sending another shockwave through ranchers’ bottom lines.

While the Owyhee Initiative board — a coalition of groups that on most days would be on opposite ends of this argument — vows to stand firm for the collaborative law, folks who lived through the Clinton administration’s abortive attack on Owyhee’s federal lands may never be convinced that the federal government will let something like the law stand in its way.

Fortunately, Sen. Mike Crapo and congressmen like him continue to search for answers.

And, for the record, this city boy hopes that the people I’ve come to admire — the county’s cattlemen (and cattlemen) — can wake up soon with one less thing to worry about.

Sen. Mike Crapo

Federal regs choke small business, economic growth

The Federal Register, a publication of regulations and legal notices issued by federal agencies, ballooned to more than 82,000 pages by the end of last year, and small businesses are bearing a disproportionate share of this growing regulatory burden. To truly improve our economy and sustain what America stands for — the land of opportunity — the federal government must quit heaping federal regulations on job-makers, America’s small businesses.

Increasing federal regulations have a disproportionate impact on small businesses, which have fewer resources to devote to often redundant and bureaucratic red-tape requirements. In a Small Business Administration (SBA) report regarding the cost impact of regulatory compliance on small firms, the SBA reported that federal regulations impose an annual direct burden of $970 billion on businesses, and the estimated per-employee compliance cost with federal regulations for businesses with fewer than 20 employees is $10,585, which is 36 percent higher than for larger companies. The SBA found that environmental regulation compliance costs small firms 364 percent more than their larger counterparts, and tax compliance costs are 206 percent more for small companies. Further, the burden is increasing, as the health care law alone has been estimated to impose $50 billion worth of employer mandates.

America’s small businesses create lasting jobs, develop the innovations to meet new challenges, strengthen our communities and power our economy. These businessmen and businesswomen fill the needs in a community, and contribute to both the economic well-being and social fabric of their communities. Local businesses meet these needs not only through the products and services they provide, but also many support local charitable efforts. Community businesses sponsor youth sports teams, contribute profits to help a family rebuild a home destroyed by fire, help fund a local animal rescue and more. They truly contribute to the heart and soul of communities.

To grow our economy and jobs, the federal government must get out of the way of America’s small businesses and reduce federal overreach that is stifling our communities. That is why I co-sponsored the Regulatory Responsibility for our Economy Act, S. 358, which would strengthen and codify the president’s Executive Order from Jan. 18 to ensure the president’s commitment to review modify, streamline, expand or repeal significant regulatory actions that are duplicative, unnecessary, overly burdensome or would have significant economic impacts on Americans. The legislation, introduced by Sen. Pat Roberts (R-Kan.), would ensure that regulations put forth by the administration consider the economic burden on American businesses and ensure stakeholder input and promote innovation.

Our country was built on its industrial spirit, making America a place where a sound idea and hard work can be

Financial management eBay isn't magic pill to create a successful business

Dear Dave,

I'm in the process of building an eBay store. How likely is it that this will turn into a full-time business for me?

— Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,

I think the likelihood of this becoming a full-time gig has more to do with you and your business model than it does with eBay. If you've developed something really unique and coupled that with great pricing and service, then eBay's a great distribution and marketing system to reach people you wouldn't otherwise reach.

Still, you have to remember that eBay's not magic. The real magic is your brain, hard work, and whether or not your business model is a good one. If it is, then eBay becomes a cool methodology through which your idea gets to market.

Regardless of how you're executing on the Internet, you still have to be executing the business properly. You still have to use basic marketing and have good margins, prices and service. The big thing is you still have to love on your customers a lot.

Plenty of people think the Internet is an easy path to fame and fortune, and they forget about the basics of building and handling an operation well on a day-to-day basis. Those are the ones who don't last long in the business world, whether it's online or brick-and-mortar!

— Dave

Dear Dave,

We have two teenage daughters, ages 17 and 16, who are both in high school and work in the family business. We've done our best to teach them how to handle their money properly, including how to spend, save and give. Also, they've both been saving for college. My husband thinks it would be a good idea to start charging them rent to prepare them for life once they leave home. What do you think?

— Frances

Dear Frances,

I think you're way ahead of most parents. Teaching them to handle money properly when they're young is a great thing. It sounds like they're both bright, hard-working young ladies, too.

I appreciate your husband's heart and the fact that he's looking for teachable moments, but teenagers paying rent while they're living at home is a little over the top.

Now, if either of them were 26 or 27 it would be a different story. I'd have no problem charging them rent of about $10,000 a month! But seriously, at their ages it's still your job as parents to provide housing for your children. That's just the way it is.

These girls already know how to work and have grasped the basic concepts of managing money. I meet 50-year-olds on a regular basis who still can't do that. With this kind of start, I think these young women will be fine and stand a great chance of becoming wealthy one day. So, while I understand your husband's idea, let's tell the drill sergeant to back off a notch on this one.

Accuracy in Media Budget drama is Déjà Vu again and again and again

by "Senator Bob" Smith

Eureka! A government shutdown was avoided with a last-minute "deal" that worked out the details of an agreement cutting around $38 billion from the budget over the remainder of the fiscal year. It is true that implementing these cuts will produce further reductions in spending over the next few years, but is it enough to really make a difference? Do not be fooled by the rhetoric and the euphoria.

With the national debt fast approaching $15 trillion, the president and Congress had to go to the mat with a government shutdown hanging over their heads to finally agree to cut a measly $38 billion in discretionary spending from the budget. This sum is not a small amount for mortals like us. However, when compared to the national debt, it is merely a drop in the proverbial bucket.

This pathetic scenario has played out before, either with the threat of a government shutdown or an extension of the national debt by increasing the debt ceiling. The battle between Speaker Gingrich and President Clinton in 1995 is a notable reminder of another government shutdown clash. However, the lack of entitlement reform, trimming around the edges of discretionary spending and raising the debt ceiling are all, as Yogi Berra once said, "Déjà vu all over again."

I witnessed it all for 18 years as a U.S. senator and congressman. Month after month, year after year, budget battle after budget battle, the debt and the deficit grew. I was proud to join with a very few of my conservative colleagues in those classic budget battles against moderate Republicans and big-spending liberals on the Democratic side of the aisle. We fought hard to make "real" cuts and reduce the deficit and the debt and bring fiscal sanity back to our government through entitlement reform, by cutting waste, fraud and mismanagement and eliminating unconstitutional and unnecessary federal programs. Unfortunately, we never had the votes to succeed.

If you really want to understand how bad things are, consider the fact that we had to threaten to shut down the government just to achieve small successes in limiting spending. Thank God the true conservatives in Congress like Paul Ryan (R-Wis.), Michele Bachmann (R-Minn.) and Rand Paul (R-Ky.) held their ground, or we would not even have gotten that! Elections do matter, and we did make a start. But this is the beginning and not the end of the race. Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) reminded us that "we have saved billions with this deal, but now we have to save trillions with future reductions."

What the American people must understand is that this is not a game that we are playing. This is about the survival of America as a great nation. The liberals in the past, and even after this most recent deal, like to crow that we cannot cut the poor and we should not give benefits to the wealthy. This is the old class warfare argument, which misses the point entirely. The real argument is that if we do not get the budget balanced and the debt reduced in the very near future by making significant cuts in spending and entitlement reform, then no one wins. Rich and poor, young and old, Democrat and Republican, and most importantly, our posterity all lose.

Here is the challenge. No more deja vu! Conservatives did a great job holding the big spenders at bay. You got the attention of the American people, the party leaders and even some on the Democratic and moderate Republican side. You won a battle, now go out and win the war.

Congressman Paul Ryan, chairman of the House Budget Committee, laid out a serious proposal for entitlement reforms and serious government cuts in programs to move us toward balancing the budget and reducing the debt over the next 10 years. We must not let this budget deal change our focus on stopping the runaway train of debt. Ryan, and those in Congress who think like him, need our support.

Congressman Ryan calls it a "moral obligation" to reduce this debt to save this country for our posterity. We do not have to agree with everything he wants to change, cut or reduce, but join him in the big fight to get the debt under control. We can fight over priorities in spending, but we must support him on getting the debt under control. Any deal to extend the debt limit must be directly linked to a specific plan to balance the budget with significant cuts and entitlement reform with a date certain written into the legislation. It is now or never.

Congressman Ryan reminds me so much of one of my heroes when I came to Congress in the mid-1980s, Bill Dannemeyer of California. Congressman Dannemeyer would take to the floor of the House during every budget battle and lay out his own budget, appropriately called the "Dannemeyer Budget." It included entitlement reform, spending cuts, elimination of programs and usually put us on a real track to balance the budget and reduce the debt. In those days, the debt was several hundred billion dollars and today it is nearly $15 trillion. Had the honesty of Dannemeyer been taken seriously, we would not be in this mess. I was so proud to have supported those budgets along with Congressman Bob Walker of Pennsylvania and other "young conservative turks" in those days.

With every fiber in my body, I urge the current crop of young conservatives to stick to their guns. You, and only you, have the capacity to save our Republic. Do not be deflected by those who say we can postpone this decision. Do not worry about defeat at the polls. You are but temporary stewards of our nation. Make the best of it.

You have won the first skirmish. Now lead the effort to win the war. Our children will thank you.

built into a successful business and lasting jobs. To renew this core principle, reversing the trend of piling a heavy regulatory burden on job generators, is essential. Just as our local communities embrace local jobs and services, the federal government should focus more on creating opportunities and less on bureaucratic obstacles.

Nomination petitions filed; few races staged

A relatively uninteresting primary contest is slated for the May 27 election in Owyhee County.

There are only two contests, those being one commissioner race, and the position of assessor.

In the District 3 commissioner race, three candidates have filed on the Republican ballot. District 3 is the Bruneau-Grand View area.

The three are James C. Morrison, Ace Black, and Chester W. Sellman.

Presently the position is held by Donald Davis, who has chosen not to seek another term. Davis, a Democrat, has held the seat for over 20 years.

On the Republican ballot for assessor is Ruth Doughty and Larry Bachman. Both candidates are presently employed in the assessor’s office, working under retiring long-time assessor Thomas Brunzell.

Running unopposed in the primaries will be Harold (Hal) Tolmie of Homedale for the District 1 commissioner position. Present commissioner James (Woody) Purdom will not seek reelection.

Barbara Jayo, incumbent Republican, will run unopposed for county clerk, auditor and recorder.

Seeking re-election as county treasurer will be Joan Bachman, also an unopposed Republican.

Harold Craven will seek for coroner, a seat he presently holds.

Two candidates have filed for nomination on the Democratic ballot. They are Lonnie Wight for assessor and Gary Aman for coroner.

Republicans running for committeemen of their respective precincts are Barbara Michna, North Homedale; Joyce D. Taylor, Oreana; Oscar Field, Grand View; and Nathalie Davis, Bruneau.

City crews find problems with irrigation system

Homedale City Superintendent Bill Watterson reported problems in getting the city’s irrigation system underway and operating on an even keel this season. Watterson said they had intended to have an early start but have run into numerous leakage areas requiring shutoff to patch.

“We had to first get the water in to locate the leaks,” he explained, “but when we thought we’d gotten them all patched and returned the water, more leaks sprung up.”

Watterson described the process of correcting all the problems as resulting in an inconsistent flow to city users. He warned that more work is scheduled on the main ditch next week and suggested that those being affected should utilize water for the remainder of this week, because the water will again be shut of next Monday.

Boise man survives Bruneau Canyon fall

Michael Kim Brown, 27, of Boise, miraculously escaped serious injury after falling approximately a hundred feet off a ledge of the Bruneau Canyon last Saturday.

In a recent report from Ed Ramsey of the Owyhee County Sheriff’s Office, Brown and his brother were climbing in the canyon when the victim, who blamed his gloves for losing grip, plunged 40 feet off the canyon wall. His fall was broken by an extending ledge where he is reported to have rolled and tumbled another distance before landing on the supporting ledge that cradled him.

Jr. high matmen place first in tournament

The Homedale Junior High boys’ wrestlers placed first in the WIC district tournament. This is the first time in the history of the junior high that Homedale has placed first. This is also Coach Russ Mitchell’s first district championship team. Placing first for Homedale were Jerry Breshears, Jeff Itano, Levi Kettle, Dusty Linder and Greg Purdom. Placing second were Harvey Allen, Greg Carson, Monte Fountain and Joe Wikstrom. Placing third were Danny Aberasturi, Doran Lee and Shawn McGee. Brent Bailey, David Frelove and Joe Malmberg placed fourth. Congratulations wrestlers.

Fire laddies called to Johnstone farm

Homedale’s volunteer fire department was called Tuesday evening to the George Johnstone farm southwest of town when trash burning in a sheep corral caused slight damage to a feeder.

Cause of the fire has not been determined, according to Bruce Smith, rural fire chief.

No contests expected at city election Tuesday

No contests in next Tuesday’s city election appeared in prospect as the filing deadline passed last Wednesday with only one candidate for each vacancy.

Mayor Orville Soper and Councilman Paul Zatica of the 1st ward filed for re-election. Bob Kniefel filed for councilman in the 2nd ward to replace Elmer Frank whose term expires.

Holdover councilmen are Frank Matteson from the 1st ward and Wade Nichols from the 2nd ward.

Registration has been extremely light this year after a record registration two years ago, City Clerk Kenneth Downing reported.

Registration for residents of both wards is at the city hall during regular office hours, with registration also open from 7pm to 9pm Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights this weekend for final registration before the election.

Polls will be open from 9am to 7pm Tuesday, April, 25, at the American Legion hall for the 1st ward and the Friends Community church for the 2nd ward.

They mayor’s term is for two years and the councilmen’s terms for four years but because of a change in city election laws made by the recent legislature, the election two years from now will not be held until November to coincide with the general election.

Persons elected then will take office in January, thus adding an additional eight months to the term of office of those elected at this year’s election.

Fund drive for swimming pool will start April 22

The drive for funds to build a swimming pool in Homedale will begin Saturday, April 22, according to plans made by the planning committee, at their meeting held Monday at Bicandi’s café.

In order that the public will be well informed and ready with their contributions when the solicitors call, a review of the questions most often asked and their answers are given here as completely as space permits.

Question: How much will the pool cost?

Answer: A goal of $45,000 has been set. This figure includes cost of entire structure pictured in artists drawing recently displayed in the bank and would also cover cost of construction of wading pool, bath houses, deck, etc.

Question: Where will the pool be located?

Answer: In the northeast corner of lower level of city park just across from the high school building.

Question: Who will operate the pool?

Answer: The pool will be turned over to the city after its completion.

Question: Will this raise our taxes?

Answers: No. The money for construction will be raised through voluntary donations and it will be completely self-supporting after its completion.

Question: How large and how deep will the pool be?

Answer: Three feet at shallow end and four and one half feet at the deep end. There will also be diving wells 11½ feet deep.

Question: What about local contractors?

Answer: All bids will be open to local contractors for any part of the job they are able to handle. Local labor will be given first consideration. (If accepted bids are lower than estimates received, it will decrease the cost of pool construction.)

THE manufacture of reaping and mowing machines has attained such large proportions as to make it one of general interest. The annual production is now estimated at about 125,000 machines. Few facts more clearly demonstrate the immense wealth of the farmers of our country than that they expend each year about $20,000,000 in the purchase of implements of this one class.

NEWSPAPER PLEASANTRIES. Friend M’Gonigle became pregnant with facetix the other day and, while in that happy condition, gave birth to the following pleasant paragraphs which we find in the News of last Tuesday:

Judging from the playing at the late billiard tournament in Boise City, we assume the responsibility of saying that there are at least three Silver City billiardists who could easily get away with the Boise championship. Frank Hunt, Gus. Simondi, or French at Sommercamp’s could walk off with the champion cue, &c., without much trouble. Avalanche

We infer from the above wild statement, that the Avalanche is not aware, that the rules governing the tournament alluded to, barred push and crotch shots. We opine that if the Silver City champions were placed under similar restrictions, their average would be sort of slender, too.

A calico ball came off in Silver City last Wednesday night, at which the Avalanche says, “the ladies all wore calico dresses, and a majority of the gentlemen sported neck-ties of the same material.” The ladies sported calico dresses and the gentlemen calico neck-ties, did they? The gentlemen must have presented an interesting appearance. We once saw a buck Indian on Green River, stalking about among the emigrants, dressed up with an old plug hat; but a neck-tie suit is ahead of anything yet. What’s the place coming to, at all?

A number of the prominent citizens of Silver City attended a fancy “Lanegan” at Hill’s Hall on Saturday night. Nice amusement for “prominent citizens.” The morals of Silver City do not improve much by age.

COMMISSIONERS’ PROCEEDINGS. The Board held a session on Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday met and adjourned till 1 o’clock P.M., Monday, April 24th. An order was passed authorizing the amount of $200 to be issued on the Hospital Fund, in favor of Benj. Patrick, an indigent blind man, for the purpose of sending him to San Francisco to receive medical attendance. Allowed Dr. T. D. Beckett, on the General Fund, for services as County Auditor, signing 481 Hospital tax receipts, $48.10. Granted M. E. Payne the right-of-way for a toll bridge across the mouth of Salmon creek, with the following rates of toll:

Wagon with one span of animals $1.50; Each additional span .50; horse and rider .50; packed animals .25; buggy or carriage with two animals 1.00; loose stock, other than hogs and sheep .10; hogs and sheep .05

A WORD TO FARMERS. The prospects in the immediate future for mining developments in Owyhee are of the most flattering character, and, as a consequence, we may expect quite a considerable addition to our population the coming summer. In consideration of this, we would urge upon the farmers of Jordan Valley, Reynolds Creek, Sinkers Creek, Catherine Creek, Bruneau Valley, and other localities in this county, the importance of seeding every acre of ground they can. At no time in the history of this camp, taking the year through, has the supply of any article of farm produce equaled the demand. Consumers have not yet learned to look upon the home supply in any other light than as simply incidental, always, heretofore and at present, depending mainly on importation for necessary articles. Our farmers can control the market by keeping it supplied; and, after having done this, if they cannot compete profitably with farmers elsewhere, whose produce, in many cases, has to be hauled hundreds of miles, they had better “sell out.” But don’t stop plowing and planting through fear the market will be overstocked; that is scarcely possible under the present cheering circumstances and bright prospects.
