

AG looks into sheriff's SoCal trip

Spokesman: Investigation ongoing; Crandall tells Emery it's complete

The Idaho Attorney General's Office is in the midst of investigating Sheriff Daryl Crandall and a trip he took to San Diego last summer.

Bob Cooper, public information officer for the Attorney General's Office, would not give details, stating he cannot comment on an ongoing investigation.

Former OCSO civil deputy Toni Gruenwald — who now works for the Division of Motor Vehicles in the county assessor's office — confirmed Thursday night that investigators visited the county courthouse in December and interviewed her. She said she also was aware of interviews with then-county auditor Angie Barkell and OCSO dispatcher Jayne Kingston.

On Wednesday, Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Douglas D. Emery told The Owyhee Avalanche that — according to a conversation with Crandall — the investigation has been completed and no evidence of wrongdoing was found. However, Emery admitted he had not confirmed the outcome of the investigation with the Attorney

Angel Walk benefits Homedale boy stricken with cancer

Mothers' group bands together to help raise medical funds

A local group of mothers from a Bible study group has banded together to help support a Homedale family with medical expenses with a walk/run/stroll on Saturday. Angel Walk 2011 is a five-kilometer fundraiser for Angel Rios-Salas, who is undergoing treatment to fight Stage II Hodgkins Lymphoma.

The walk is organized by a group of mothers from Homedale Friends Community Church. Michelle Larzelier and the group of moms started the planning when they heard about the second-grader's fight with cancer.

"We all talked about finding a way to help in the Bible study," Larzelier said. "The group really ran with it. This is a great way to serve and help a local family in need. It was a real eye-opener, it could have been any of our kids."

The event designed to help Angel and his parents, Cristobal E. Salas and Tabita Rios, with medical expense will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday at City Park. Check-in starts at 9 a.m., and the event is open to all ages.

"We currently have about $1,200 in sponsorships from businesses in Homedale," Larzelier said. "The neat thing is, there have been people and businesses from all over the Treasure Valley that have pledged support."

Second-graders from Angel's class at Homedale Elementary School will kick off the event with the singing of the National Anthem followed by a short speech from principal Yvonne Ihli.

The walk/run/stroll will start from City Park and travel west on Idaho Avenue making a turn at Johnstone Road toward the middle school. Bathrooms at the middle school will be open for participants, if needed, at the midway point. Participants will then head back toward the park following the same route.

Acting chief of police Sgt. Mike McFetridge said officers from the Homedale Police Department will be on hand to help block traffic at the intersections as participants move through the town.

After the runners and walkers return to City Park, the Homedale High School band will play music, and food and drink items will be available for purchase.

"This is a hard thing for anyone to deal with. Especially when it is a kid that is so full of love and energy," Larzelier said. "It has been touching to see all the support, and we are grateful for all the help from the community."

Registration is $15 per person and $35 for a family. Registration includes a T-shirt. Family entries receive up to five T-shirts. Additional T-shirts are available for $7.

Email angelwalk2011@gmail.com to begin the registration process.

Contact Michelle Larzelier at mlarzelier@hotmail.com or (208) 941-4163 for more information.

Callworx CEO refutes 911 system misinformation

State official admits he made an incorrect assumption based on bid language

The premise on which advisors rejected the lowest bid for Owyhee County's next 911 system was based on an assumption, the man who gave the advice to the county admitted during a hearing last week.

Testifying during a bid protest hearing May 2 in Murphy, Idaho Emergency Communications Commission program manager Eddie Goldsmith admitted he was incorrect when he told the county 911 committee that the Emergency Callworx system was Internet-based.

Goldsmith said he assumed that Emergency Callworx was Internet-based because the company's bid response made reference to a browser.

Craig Parker, CEO of Alabama-based Emergency Callworx, corrected the record during his testimony, saying that his firm's system relies on phone lines to receive 911 calls like any Public Safety Answering Point (PSAP). He said the system uses Firefox browser software locally at the call-taker's station in the dispatch center and that as long as the "back room" hardware for the system is in the same room as the call stations — as is the case in the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office — there is no need for fiber-optic line.

Parker said that his company had never protested a bid award previously, but felt compelled to protest in the Owyhee County instance to clear up inaccuracies.

Parker also reiterated that the county would save nearly $100,000 by going with Emergency Callworx over the Qwest Positron system.

Emergency Callworx's low bid of $124,000 was rejected in favor of Qwest's bid of $219,576.21, which was the highest of the six received. Commissioners accepted the Qwest Positron bid on April 4 by a 2-1 vote, with District 1 Commissioner Jerry Hoagland voting against the award.

Although it was lowest bidder, Emergency Callworx didn't make the final field of three vendors who were selected to give live demonstrations for the 911 committee and county dispatchers.

Committee members said Emergency Callworx's poor scoring was due in part to the fact that they relied on Goldsmith's expertise when he spoke about the system's Internet connectivity requirement during a March 10 meeting.

On May 2, Parker explained that the Emergency Callworx product is browser-based at the call-taking position and that a high-speed Internet connection is necessary only for remote monitoring of system hardware performance and optional maintenance. Parker said that a dial-up connection would suffice for basic maintenance.

During the protest hearing, District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi questioned how Emergency Callworx planned to deal with service calls. Parker said that every key component but one was available over-the-counter at consumer electronics stores, but admitted that there were no third-party service contracts in place with Treasure Valley maintenance providers for hardware installation and repair.

Parker said that repair time could take from one to three hours up to 24 hours.

"I would say our system is no different than our competitors' in that regard," he said.

The Emergency Callworx PSAP product has only been available since the second half of 2010, Parker said.

"So there is very little track record on the system," Aberasturi said.

After more than four hours of testimony and follow-up, commissioners voted unanimously to deliberate the evidence in a future open meeting. No date for the deliberations was set.

Next NOCWMA spray day targets White Top weed

Two pickup points Saturday

People from Homedale to Silver City will have another opportunity to pick up herbicide to fight weeds Saturday.

The Northwest Owyhee Cooperative Weed Management Area will hold its second free spray day of the year at two locations, with the focus on White Top.

Telar-XP and surfactant will be distributed to help fight White Top, which is difficult to eradicate because of its rhizome root system, according to NOCWMA administrative assistant Gina Millard. The rhizome system entails a thick underground horizontal stem that produces roots and has shoots that develop new plants, resulting in spreading.

Members of the public can bring legal spray containers ranging in size from one gallon to 25 gallons to have them filled with pre-mixed herbicide. No milk jugs or water bottles will be accepted.

The spray will be distributed from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the U.S. Department of Agriculture Service Center, 250 N. Bruneau Highway, in Marsing between 9 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. The scene shifts to the Homedale Armory at the Owyhee County Fairgrounds on West Nevada Avenue from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

White Top must be sprayed during the bud to bloom stage to kill the plant, Millard said.

Farmers, ranchers and property owners with more than two acres of land can contact the NOCWMA office for more information about their spray.

For more information, call (208) 896-4544, ext. 102 or ext. 110.

During NOCWMA's first spray day in April, 140 people picked up enough spray to cover 600 acres of puncture vine on roadways.

Millard said the there still is time to spray for puncture vine, and people can call the office for assistance.

The NOCWMA board meets at 7 p.m. on the first Wednesday of every month at the USDA Service Center in Marsing.

Idaho Press Club honors Avalanche editor, photographer

The Owyhee Avalanche received four awards Saturday night at the Idaho Press Club’s Best of 2010 banquet in Boise.

Managing editor Jon P. Brown won first place in the General Column Weekly Print category for “Eyes of Owyhee”.

Reporter/photographer John Zsiray brought home three citations, including first place in Spot News Photography for Weekly Print and General News Photography for Weekly Print.

“Accidental Shooting” featured a self-inflicted gunshot victim and his crying wife; “Extrication” covered a wreck on U.S. Highway 95 near Industrial Road.

The state organization’s top General News Photo for a weekly was published on Sept. 29, 2010, and featured two City of Marsing maintenance workers dressed in neon green T-shirts riding a paddle boat in a sewer pond illuminated by a surface layer of green duckweed.

Brown’s first-place honor stemmed from a collection that included “The more things change ...”, which appeared on April 14, 2010, and dealt with Owyhee County Waterways Committee procedures; “Good idea, bad execution” from Jan. 20, 2010, which covered the City of Homedale’s attempt to build a new library; and “Man on a Mission”, a Feb. 17, 2010 column detailing Homedale High School principal Mike Williams’ efforts to reduce the abuse of prescription drugs by students.

The Idaho Press Club Best of 2010 awards were handed out at the Boise Centre on the Grove. A complete list of all winners in all categories is available at www.idahopressclub.org.

BLM ground near Murphy closed for two years

Part of the Morley Nelson Snake River Birds of Prey National Conservation Area in Owyhee County is closed to motorized vehicles.

The two-year closure was triggered after resource damage from a project to construct and repair a pipeline that runs a half-mile from a pumping station on the Snake River up a steep area of public land to a fence line. The BLM is currently looking into the project and the damage it left behind, a press release from the federal agency stated.

Closure signs were supposed to go up at key access points Monday marking the closure of 65 acres of Bureau of Land Management ground approximately eight miles east of Murphy.

The closure includes 600 feet on each side of the pipeline.

Non-motorized recreation may continue.

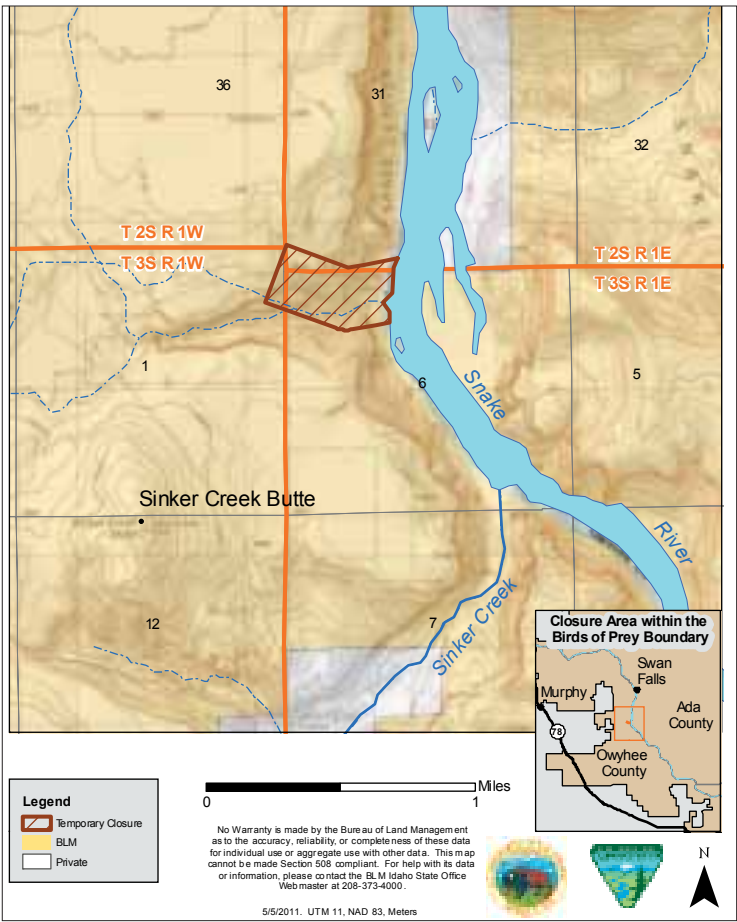

“The closure will prevent continued soil erosion on both sides of the pipeline and sediment flow into the Snake River caused from the recent ground disturbance,” NCA manager Patricia Roller said. “The BLM is replanting the area to restore lost and damaged vegetation. The temporary closure will enable these plantings to become established, reducing further soil erosion and the spread of invasive weeds.”

Contractors working in the area on behalf of the BLM are exempt from the closure as are search and rescue personnel, federal state and local officials and employees in the performance of official duties and people with written authorization from the BLM.

The temporary closure will also protect habitat for nesting raptors and other wildlife populations in the area. The NCA is home to more than 800 pairs of raptor species, including golden eagles and prairie falcons nesting in the vicinity.

“In addition to allowing the damaged lands to be rehabilitated, the public is also being asked to stop all motorized access in the closed area for their safety,” Roller said.

OWC seeks comment on sub-basin study

Comment will be taken until Monday on the Owyhee Watershed Council’s Upper Owyhee Assessment until Monday.

The study covers a sub-basin partially located in Owyhee and Malheur counties that includes the headwaters of three forks of the Owyhee River.

The assessment analyzes water quality and environmental and human aspects of the watershed.

Scientific Ecological Services completed the assessment, which was financed by an Oregon Watershed Enhancement Board grant. It’s available online at <http://shockfamily.net/UpperOwyhee/upperowyheeindex.html>

For information, contact the OWC at agreenowc@qwestoffice.net or (541) 372-5782.

The OWC meets at 7 p.m. today at the U of I Extension Office, 238 8th Ave. W., in Marsing.

✓ Sheriff: Clerk says Crandall paid back less than $1,000 to the county

General’s Office.

Last summer, Crandall attended a symposium hosted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in San Diego, and received direct reimbursement from the FBI of approximately $1,300 for the expenses, according to Gruenwald, who says she was the first to see the reimbursement check because one of her duties as civil deputy was to open the mail.

Owyhee County also paid the sheriff’s expenses for the trip, which apparently included the rental of a vehicle to drive from Boise.

County auditor records obtained by the Avalanche indicate that the Board of County Commissioners approved to pay U.S. Bank, the county’s credit card carrier, out of the sheriff’s budget on a claim from Aug. 14, 2010 for $678.91 for a car rental and a claim dated Aug. 20, 2010, for $661.88 for a hotel. Also on the claim was a hotel meal for $7.78 on Aug. 16.

County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn said Friday that Crandall wrote a check on Oct. 27, reimbursing the county less than $1,000 for the cost of the trip, which totaled at least $1,348.57. Crandall presented the check prior to the Attorney General’s Office opening its probe, Sherburn said.

Citing state law that prohibits the disclosure of public records that are part of an investigation [Idaho Code 9-340B(1)], Sherburn declined to give the exact amount of the check.

The Avalanche filed two public records requests seeking access to Crandall’s credit card bill for September 2010 — when the August activity would have appeared.

A request was first filed in November then again in late April. Emery denied the November request, and Sherburn withheld the information last week. Both cited the fact that the requested material was still part of an investigation. County policy has been that Emery approves or denies all public records requests.

✓ Boy: Community members fan out on canal bank to find 3-year-old life,” Homedale Ambulance emergency medical technician Teresa Ryska said. “That’s why any EMT or any fireman6 should be in this field of practice.”

Ryska and fellow Homedale Ambulance EMT Ron Brockett were among the first on scene and found the boy in waist-deep water against the bank of a canal that runs under U.S. Highway 95 south of Pioneer Road.

“We were side-by-side, walking down the canal, feeling on both sides, and Ron said, ‘I think there’s something here,’ ” Ryska said. “He reached and pulled around, and I reached down under the water and pulled him out.”

It’s estimated the boy was underwater for about 10 minutes before he was found.

“Ron immediately started CPR on him, and we handed him up on the bank to (Ian Takashige of the Wilder Police Department) and he continued with CPR,” Ryska said.

She said the boy was revived through a team effort that included CPR from Brockett, Takashige and Canyon County Paramedics.

“Between the three agencies, we were successful to get a heart-beat,” she said, adding that resuscitation efforts went on for about a half-hour.

An Air St. Luke’s helicopter crew flew the boy from Homedale

Municipal Airport to St. Luke’s Regional Medical Center in downtown Boise. The boy was still in the hospital Monday, but further details of his condition weren’t made available.

“Our thoughts and prayers are with the child and the family, and we’re hoping for the best,” Homedale Ambulance administrator Lisa Rittenhouse said by phone from Washington, D.C., on Friday. She was in contact with Ryska and others getting information on the call.

The boy isn’t a Homedale resident, Ryska said, but she said that didn’t stop community members from fanning out along the canal to try to find a sign of him. Homedale volunteer firemen were on scene along with Takashige, Homedale Police Officer Jeff Jensen and Owyhee County Sheriff’s Deputy Karl Kingston.

✓ OCSO: Mayor turns down county offer to negotiate outside public eye

7 tonight at City Hall, 425 Main Street.

For the past eight months, OCSO and Marsing have been working from a month-to-month contract for the law enforcement services provided for the city. Tonight, the city council looks to finalize an agreement for the protection of the residents and businesses of Marsing.

“OCSO is paid by our property taxes,” Mayor Keith Green said. “We have the same privileges as everyone else in the county. What we are paying for, and asking for, is services above and beyond what is required.”

Green is asking that all residents of Marsing attend the monthly council meeting to help provide input into the negotiation of the contract.

“I want to invite everyone to the meeting,” Green said. “I hope the people of Marsing show up to provide their input, whether it is for or against the contract.”

The current $76,385 contract with OCSO pays for law enforcement, which state law says incorporated cities are required to pay for as well as ordinance enforcement and service for the school district.

The council will discuss removing components for ordinance enforcement and schools as well as contracting for a lower price.

“The city has seen a decline in the county law enforcement presence,” Green said. “We used to have four to six officers that lived in and around the city. We still need to have an agreement with the county for law enforcement; we just need to redefine it for our current needs.

“We have hired our own ordinance enforcement officer, and we are doing that all in-house now.

We will be eliminating the funding for the nonexistent DARE program for the school. Each of these area’s are a big portion of the contract.”

Green said recently he was asked to have an unadvertised closed-door meeting with Sheriff Daryl Crandall, one of the Board of County Commissioners members, a city council member and the city’s attorney in order to “hash out” the details of the contract.

“I declined to have the meeting with the sheriff,” Green said. “It would have been a waste of time because we couldn’t make any decisions. It really wouldn’t have been a good idea because everyone’s opinion wouldn’t have been represented. I want to keep everything as open as possible.”

Public comment regarding the OCSO contract will be taken during the regular public hearing portion of the council meeting. Green said dependent upon how many residents take part, there might be a time limit on their comments.

“Our coverage has turned into minimal coverage,” Green said. “Our coverage from the officers, when on duty, is adequate. We are still lacking.”

Homedale library’s youth programs continue

A kitten goes in search of her purr during the next Story Time at the Homedale Public Library. “Have You Got My Purr?”, a book by Judy West, will be read at the event for preschoolers at 10:15 a.m. Friday at the library, 125 W. Owyhee Ave. The story follows a kitten as she tries to find her purr and learns what noises other animals make.

Songs and crafts are planned and refreshments will be served. On Tuesday, the library’s Tweens and Teens group will learn how to read maps. The group is open to all youth ages 10-17. Reading a map key and learning about longitude and latitude are among the lessons planned. The hour-long event starts at 6 p.m. Cookies will be served, and there will be another Survivor vote and a door prize. Questions should be directed to Tweens and Teens coordinator Sara Martin. She also requests youths who plan on attending to contact her at the library to RSVP. For more information on either program, call the library at (208) 337-4228 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Lori Otter to speak at start of Meyers 10K on Friday

Idaho First Lady Lori Otter is scheduled to speak Friday before more than 400 people take part in the Ray Meyers Memorial 10K at Grand View Elementary School.

The first annual five- and 10-kilometer run/walk begins at 9 a.m. and follows a course along River Road to Rimrock Jr.-Sr. High School.

According to a media advisory from the governor's office, Otter will speak at 8:30 a.m. at Grand View Elementary School, 205 First Street.

The inaugural run/walk held in honor of a former Bruneau-Grand View School District trustee raises money for Bruneau and Grand View elementary schools and a donation in Ray Meyers' name to lymphoma and leukemia cancer research. Meyers died of cancer at the age of 72 on Dec. 4.

Registration costs $20 for an individual and $30 for a family of four or more. The entry fee includes a free lunch at the end of the race. Bruneau and Grand View Elementary students can run for free, but they are encouraged to raise at least $10 each in pledges.

Make checks payable to Bruneau Elementary School. For more information, call Bruneau Elementary at (208) 845-2492 or Grand View Elementary at (208) 834-2775.

Registration also is available online at www.active.com/10k-race/grand-view-id/ray-meyers-memorial-10k-2011

Breakfast will be served beginning at 8 a.m. at Grand View Elementary and will cost $2 for adults and $1.50 for children not enrolled in the school district.

People who want to take part in the 5K version of the race will be bussed to the starting point at the Keppler's Christian School.

The Rimrock school band will play during the post-race festivities, and high school students will man refreshment stations along the route and cheer on competitors. District 3 Commissioner Joe Merrick, who is also chair of the local school board, spoke with Sheriff Daryl Crandall at last week's Board of County Commissioners meeting about providing an escort along the route. Merrick said the sheriff could deploy three deputies to cover the race.

Event spokesperson JayDene Aquiso said Thursday that 420 people have signed up to take part in the race.

Booths will be set up for the health fair, including:

- Free eye screening by the Grand View Lions Club
- Grand View Ambulance
- Dr. Dan Burkhart, Boise chiropractor
- Hutchinson's Helping Hands, massage
- Norco of Mountain Home
- Air St. Lukes
- Idaho Meth Project
- Idaho Drug Free Youth (IDFY)
- Central District Health
- American Lung Association
- A Juice Plus+ distributor
- Regence Caring Foundation
- Guardian Home Health Care

The goal is to raise $25,000 with 65 percent of the proceeds going to start a student council at both elementary schools. The student council will consist of a group of students elected by their peers that will develop ideas to improve the schools by participating in school-wide activities and decision-making. The students will use the funds to improve the school, including field trips, assemblies, school supplies and community projects, among other ideas.

Another 25 percent of the proceeds will be returned to plan for next year's Meyers 10K, and the remaining 10 percent of this year's funds will be donated to lymphoma and leukemia cancer search in memory of Meyers.

The event is organized by Bruneau and Grand View elementary schools in coordination with the Bruneau/Grand View School District's Healthy School Program.

Local Masons ready to answer questions at open house

Homedale lodge takes part in statewide program Saturday

Masons with their roots in one of Idaho's first lodges will open the doors to the curious and interested Saturday.

Silver City Lodge No. 13, located at 19 W. Idaho Ave., in Homedale, will be open to the public from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday as part of a statewide open house program put on by the Masons.

"The Lodge room will be open and people will be there to answer questions about Masonry or what goes on in the building," Senior Deacon George Decker said.

The Masons will be easy to spot Saturday, Decker said, because they'll be wearing their Masonic aprons and officers will be wearing their jewels.

"Masons have been called a secret society or a society that has secrets. We're not even that anymore," Decker said. "There's so much misinformation out there."

With the old perception of the Masons being a secret society perpetrated by folklore and reinforced by the novels of Dan Brown and even the Nicolas Cage "National Treasure" movies to a certain extent, the Masons have slowly opened their doors to show that they are a society of benevolent, community-minded men, Decker said.

"Anyone who has ever had a question about the Masons," Decker said when asked who was invited to the open house.

Affiliated organizations such as Eastern Star and Job's Daughters also may have a presence Saturday. Decker said the Job's Daughters will have a barbecue available, too. A donation will be taken with proceeds benefitting the Job's Daughters.

"This is something that the Grand Lodge of Idaho has seen other states have success with," Decker said.

In 2009, 3,000 people visited the Masonic Temple in Salt Lake City as part of Utah's open house program, he said.

Silver City Lodge No. 13 is comprised of several defunct lodges, including the first two original Owyhee County lodges – Owyhee No. 5 and War Eagle No. 6. The Owyhee Lodge was formed in 1866 in Silver City. Another Silver City lodge, War Eagle merged with Owyhee in 1881.

The Masons still meet on the second Saturday in July at the Silver City Masonic Lodge. The large glass Masonic emblem that hangs in the dining room of the Homedale lodge used to be placed in front of a light source in Silver City to let people know that the Masons were meeting at the lodge.

Other artifacts from the War Eagle Lodge and the Owyhee Lodge are housed in display cases inside the Homedale location, including a ballot box, officers' jewels and the original Bible from the Silver City era of the Masons.

Although Silver City Lodge No. 13 is on the far edge of the Treasure Valley, there are 88 members, Decker said, with about 40 taking an active role. Many members are affiliated with other lodges near Boise but elect to come to the Homedale meetings because they are held on Saturdays, he said.

For more information on the open house, call Decker at (208) 337-6042 or (208) 871-1953.

Homedale FFA members earn awards, scholarships

by Kylie Farwell
chapter reporter

The Homedale FFA’s annual banquet was held Monday, May 2 and the chapter honored members and honorary members for their successes of the past year.

The Honorary Degree is awarded to community members who have donated their time and money to help advance agricultural education and FFA. The honorary degree was awarded to Dave Holmes, Linda Clemenger, Jason Keller and, for all the times their house is turned into the FFA hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Harrison.

In the fall, we held our Harvest Auction, which raises money for our community service projects. Without the support of all of the community members none of what we do would be possible. Our chapter was very thankful to Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Fisher and to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Williams for being the top buyers at this event.

The following students were honored with the Discovery Degree, which we set aside only for eighth graders: Brady Brown, Justine Cornwall, Devin Fisher, Colton Grimm, Kyler Landa, Morgan Nash, Tori Nash, Carlie Purdom, Elise Shenk and Samantha Woods.

Our first-year high school members were honored with the Greenhand Degree, including: Lydia Aman, Megan Bettleyon, Nicole Burns, Justine Calzacorta, Katie Deal, Kyler Eidemiller, Britt Eubanks, Carli Farnetti, Karl Henry, Tell Hyer, Brenlyn Kilby, Shelby Lee, Esteban Lejardi, Riley Maggard, Maddy Maxwell, Kaylee Rupp, Curtis Stansell, Jace Turner and DJ Vermeer.

The Chapter Degree is awarded to students who have been active in FFA for two years. Members honored included: Hailee Aberasturi, Taylor Coons, Shelby Criffield, Kade Eiguren, Kenny Harper, Ashley Leslie, Drew Martin, Mike Mavey, Shelby McRae, Gabby Nash, Nick Ryska, Erin Shenk and Cole Twedt.

The Scholarship Award is given to students who have maintained an overall grade-point average of 3.0 or higher starting their junior year. Recipients this year are: Caitlyn Johnson, Ali McRae, Justine Calzacorta, Casey Christoffersen, Trey Corta, Katie Eaton, Deena Emry, Kylie Farwell, Bodie Hyer, Clay Johnson, Raven Kelly, Ashley Leslie, Lane Matteson, Laurien Mavey, Aubrey Nash, Katie Price, Kyle Purdom and Brett Ryska.

Recipients of the Letter Award went to chapter members with a high level of involvement, including Lydia Aman, Justine Calzacorta, Katie Deal, Tell Hyer, Brenlyn Kilby, Esteban Lejardi, Maddy Maxwell, Shelby McRae, Zach Mereness, Kaylee Rupp, Jace Turner, Shelby Criffield, Katie Eaton, Clay Johnson, Ashley Leslie, Mike Mavey, Gabby Nash, Erin Shenk, Cole Twedt, Deena Emry, Kylie Farwell, Bodie Hyer, Raven Kelly, Lane Matteson, Aubrey Nash, Katie Price, Mark Williams, Caitlyn Johnson and Ali McRae.

State FFA Degrees were earned by Katie Eaton, Deena Emry, Kylie Farwell, Laurien Mavey and Katie Price.

The Star Greenhand Award, given to Greenhand Degree recipients who went above and beyond in FFA, went to Esteban Lejardi, Jace Turner and Tell Hyer.

Erin Shenk earned the Chapter Farmer Award, which was awarded to the Chapter Degree recipient who went above and beyond the call of duty.

Katie Price and Deena Emry earned the Workhorse Award, which goes to a junior or senior who did more than was required.

Shelbie Criffield won the Proficiency Award for her outstanding Supervised Agricultural Experience.

Many students in our chapter participate in welding, fabrication, and Ag mechanics, and Mark Williams received the Top Shop Student Award as the person who worked the hardest and got the most done.

Ali McRae won the DeKalb Award, which is sponsored by Monsanto, Inc., and is given to seniors with outstanding

All told, the Homedale FFA presented nearly $2,000 in scholarships to its members.

Bruneau talk to reveal history on Snake River

The final Bruneau and Beyond luncheon of the spring season will feature a talk on the folk history of the Snake River.

Cort Conley, director of Literary Services at the Idaho Commission on the Arts, is scheduled to discuss the portion of his “Idaho River History” presentation that covers the Snake River through Hells Canyon.

The free luncheon and presentation begins at noon with service of the meal at the Bruneau Valley Library, 32073 Ruth St. RSVPs are requested to ensure enough food is prepared. Reserve a spot by calling either (208) 845-2131 or (208) 845-2345 by Monday.

A writer, editor and publisher, Conley has worked as an independent river guide since 1968 on rivers throughout the West.

During next Wednesday’s talk, he’ll explain the human and natural history of these rivers. He will illustrate the presentation with vintage films, photographs and taped recordings about boating, homesteading, or early outfitting on the rivers.

The program is made possible by a grant from the Walter & Leona Dufresne fund of the Idaho Community Foundation. Conley is part of the Speakers Bureau of the Idaho Humanities Council, which is a partial sponsor of the Bruneau program.

Library board member Judy Erwin said plans are to rekindle the speaker series again in the fall.

“I miss math class and being with the other kids” —Angel

A typical day isn't so typical anymore for a Homedale second-grader.

The 7 year old is still filling his day with cartoons, games, reading and his favorite World Wrestling Entertainment superstars. But for Angel Rios-Salas and his family, what used to be normal isn't quite the same anymore.

In November, Angel's mother, Tabi Rios, and father, Cristobal E. Salas, took him to the Terry Reilly Health Clinic, for what they thought at the time was just normal bumps and bruises children get.

“On the left side of his neck, there was a bump,” Tabi said. “We really thought it was just a kid thing, and it seemed like it was going away after a little while. We really didn't see any symptoms of Hodgkins Lymphoma. It all happened really fast.”

In January, Angel was referred to an ear nose and throat specialist to have the growing bump on his neck looked at. The family was told it could be mononucleosis. He was put on some antibiotics and limited on the activities he could do.

“We found out after a biopsy was done that Angel had cancer,” Tabi said. “I have told people, you really don't expect these things to happen to you. You hear about others going through it, and your heart goes out to them.”

“It is a little overwhelming knowing that my son has this. After his first appointment in April, seeing him hooked up to all the machines and tubes going into him, it hit me.”

Still being a rambunctious 7 year old, much of Angel's days now are filled with staying indoors and missing his classmates at Homedale Elementary School.

“I miss math class and being with the other kids,” Angel said. “I can't play basketball anymore, but I watch WWE every Monday and Friday. I love wrestling. I didn't get to see all the matches last year, but I watch a lot of it. The best guys are John Cena and Rey Mysterio.”

With his favorite meal, a hamburger with pickles, Angel keeps a smile on his face, not really knowing the road ahead of him.

“I don't really think he understands what he has,” Tabi said. “He really doesn't think about it from what we can tell. Some of it might be a front he puts on because he is acting a little bit different than he used to. Childhood activities have somewhat been taken away from him. The other day, there were some kids out playing football and he wanted to go out but couldn't, that is hard to tell him no.”

In April, Angel had what he calls a “portal” installed on the left side of his chest. The port is a semi-permanent intravenous line that aids the nurses and doctors in drawing blood and administering medicine. The port is tied into a central vein that ends right before the entrance to the heart.

“My mom puts cream on the portal to make it not hurt when they poke me,” Angel said. “They stick the needle in there to test me and give me my medicine.”

“We have to limit his activity because of the port,” Tabi said. “It was put in under the skin. Because he is so young, they put it in to help prevent damage to his veins.”

Angel and his family recently traveled to St. Luke's in Boise for the second round of chemotherapy. Angel visits the Mountain States Tumor Institute (MSTI) monthly and meets with Dr. Nathan Meeker and a host of caring nurses and staff.

“Cancer in kids, in general is uncommon, but in terms of the kids who do get it, lymphomas are more common,” Meeker said. “Typically pediatric cancers are quite a bit different than adult forms.”

“Adult cancers are typically caused by an exposure to toxins. In kids, it is more often caused by a random event. It is more of the luck of the draw. Unfortunately, childhood cancers are usually plain bad luck.”

Angel is classified in the “low” risk category, Meeker said. He will receive three cycles of chemotherapy, spaced three weeks apart.

“The port Angel has is used for two things, it is an easy way to get blood and do studies,” Meeker said. “It is also useful for putting things into him. With chemo, because of its toxic nature, it allows for an easier time administering the mix. It makes things easier, but it isn't a terribly painful procedure.”

Meeker said Hodgkin's Lymphoma has two peaks for certain age ranges, between 15-30 and 55-75 years old. He said it is somewhat rare to see younger children with Hodgkin's. In all, about 10-12 percent of the kids treated at MSTI have Hodgkin's Lymphoma.

The most visual cue — and most recognizable — for those undergoing cancer treatment is the hair loss related to chemotherapy and radiation treatments, Meeker said.

“Angel called me to his room a couple of weeks ago and said he couldn't go to sleep,” Tabi said. “When I got to his room, I asked him why he couldn't sleep. He told me because his hair was falling out.”

“The hair loss just started. I know it is one of the side effects, but it makes it real. I started crying. I know with his type of cancer there is a higher percentage of being cured than others, but it really makes it reality.”

The annual rate for those under the age of 20 in the U.S. diagnosed with Hodgkins Lymphoma is 12.1 million. The national average for those cured has moved from the 80 percent range into the 90 percentile in recent years. Meeker said four out of five kids who visit MSTI are cured.

“One of the nice things with kids, being that their bodies are strong and adaptable, we can give them higher doses of chemotherapy,” Meeker said. “Angel will get three months of therapy and then we would rescan for the cancer. I would suspect we wouldn’t see the cancer in his body. He will still undergo the radiation at that point, but within about four months he should be up and running.”

After his third round of chemotherapy later this month, Angel will begin localized radiation treatments to remove any lingering cancer cells.

"We really want to thank everyone for their prayers and support," Tabi said. "You never really think about this happening to your family. You don't really know what is going to happen and how this is going to affect your family until it happens. We are just thankful there is a good team helping us and the love from everyone supporting our family and Angel."

Election 2010

Homedale School District, Zone 1

Incumbent: Kurt Shanley

The 41-year-old business owner has served as the chair of the Homedale School Board for six of his seven years in office.

The Homedale native and his wife, Nicole, have two daughters – Erika and Sydnee Rae – and a son, Brett.

He has served a volunteer coach for youth football, baseball, basketball and softball and also has made financial contributions to 4-H, FFA and youth sports, among other causes.

“I have a strong working relationship with my fellow board members as well as the administrative team. I have a good working knowledge of the current Idaho Code,” Shanley said. “I am informed of current legislation and issues affecting education. I have a proven record of leadership and performance in this capacity. I am not a single-issue candidate, and I am committed to the future success of the Homedale School District.”

Kurt Shanley

Why are you running for office?

As a lifelong member of the Homedale community, I am committed to the success of our schools and our community. I would like to help provide the children of my friends, family and fellow community members with the best education possible.

What are the positive aspects of the community’s schools?

We have great students in Homedale and involved, caring and supportive parents. We are also very fortunate to have a talented and dedicated staff to provide top-notch instruction to our students. This makes for a great combination and is a key to success that we see in our academic achievement. As a parent, you can be sure that individual growth and academic achievement is the top priorities districtwide. Homedale is one of a small group of districts in the state to have all of its schools making AYP (adequate yearly progress). The administrative team has done a remarkable job of facilitating the improvements at all levels. In Homedale, academic proficiency is now the expectation, not the goal. The goal is to have as many students as possible achieving at advanced levels. This was not always the case. As a result of the school board, through its annual goals process, working in collaboration with the administrative team, we are now meeting the needs of all students. In addition to providing remedial courses and attending to the needs of lower-performing students, we have added many advanced-level courses to allow our top-performing students to flourish. As a result of these changes to the system, our students are achieving at unprecedented levels.

A few recent awards and accomplishments of Homedale schools and students:

- Elementary school -- State Board of Education Exceptional Growth Award
- Middle school -- National Blue Ribbon Schools award, Featured “Showcase School” State Title 1 Conference, State Board of Education Exceptional Growth Award, Future City engineers state champions and national competitors
- High school – Northwest Accreditation Commission Exemplary Schools Award
- District -- Since 2005, we have been awarded more than $1 million in grants.

What would you improve about the schools? How would you accomplish that?

I would like to see an emphasis put on our high school students taking advantage of the dual credit (high school and college credit) classes as well as continuing to look for more dual credit opportunities with our existing offerings. By receiving college credits while attending high school, I believe this will encourage our graduates to attend college and make graduation a much more likely outcome.

What are the most crucial issues facing the district? How would you address them?

As we enter an unprecedented third year of cuts to public education funding from the state, we are faced with many decisions. When developing our budget, we must be prepared to accept that certain programs and positions may no longer be sustainable. It is not the addition or subtraction that will make this budget complicated but rather the decision of what to preserve and what to pare down. The determining factor, as always, will be that we must keep our resources as close to the classroom as possible to preserve the quality of education for our students.

How many school board meetings have you attended in the past year?

Between regular meetings, special meetings, budget workshops, committee meetings, agenda review meetings, disciplinary hearings and other official engagements, I say, conservatively, 50.

How many have you attended in your time in the county?

As a patron and while serving as a trustee, I would say that I have attended at least 350 meetings or official board functions.

What are your plans for retaining quality teachers?

As a part of the recently approved Students Come First Legislation, the state will provide $38 million to Idaho schools to fund a pay-for-performance plan.

At the local level, we will be able to enhance pay for our “teacher leaders” and those with proper endorsements to take hard-to-fill positions. Teachers and administrators will also have the opportunity to receive additional pay when the students in their buildings meet both local and state achievement standards.

To reduce spending, what programs would you pare down? How would you do it?

In response to diminished funding over the past three years, we have made cuts to

Challenger: Harold “Hal” Tolmie

Tolmie, 75, has served either on the Homedale School Board or on the Board of County Commissioners for 33 of the 54 years he has lived in Homedale. He was District 2 county commissioner for 20 years and Homedale school trustee for 13.

Tolmie and his wife Judy have two grown sons, Brett and Dirk.

He has served on the Southwest District Health Board and the board of the Caldwell Community Fund.

Before retiring, he owned Tolmie’s Ace Hardware and Appliance for more than 30 years.

Hal Tolmie

Why are you running for office?

I am running for school board because I believe there are some budgetary issues and other concerns in our school district and with my experience I might be able to help.

What are the positive aspects of the community’s schools?

Our school district has many positive aspects, including many talented teachers on staff and nationally recognized improvements in test scores in recent years.

What would you improve about the schools? How would you accomplish that?

Our school district needs improvements in regards to budgetary concerns and without being able to see the budget right now, I am unable to give an intelligent answer.

What are the most crucial issues facing the district? How would you address them?

The most crucial issue facing the district is funding and, again, without being able to see the current budget report, I am unable to give a constructive answer.

How many school board meetings have you attended?

I have attended the school board meetings when I was a school board member and may others in addition to that I have not attended recent meetings, but I have consulted a large percentage of district patrons.

What are your plans for retaining quality teachers?

I would like to study the budget and job descriptions of district teachers and personnel before stating a plan for retaining quality teachers.

To reduce spending, what programs would you pare down? How would you do it?

I would like to study the budget, district programs and job descriptions of district teacher and personnel before stating a plan for paring down current programs.

What else would you propose to save money?

Saving money boils down to an efficient budget process to make sure the money is spent prudently.

What are the specific challenges for the district over the next four years?

How do you propose to address them?

The specific challenges facing the district over the next four years is how to provide our students a quality education without raising taxes. One specific goal I have is to hire new quality teachers and to keep current quality teachers at a comparable salary with surrounding districts. I plan on using my experience as a school board member and an Owyhee County Commissioner to address these and all other concerns listed above.

Where you do stand on the concept of a four-day week in an attempt to save money?

I believe the concept of a four-day school week should be studied and considered when attempting to solve budgetary concerns.

Final comments

Homedale has always been a school district that other districts looked up to. I ask the question – Is our district still looked up to by other districts? I would like to see the spirit of our school rise within our students and patrons alike.

virtually every part of our budget. The unfortunate reality is that more than 85 percent of our budget is spent on personnel, so it is difficult to make reductions without affecting employees. We will first have to look at cutting (or at least cutting district funding for) some of our sports programs as well as other non-essential programs. I also see the sports programs moving toward more pay-to-participate programs rather than 100 percent district funded. Even in light of these changes with the anticipated funding for the next year, we will still most likely need to reduce the number of certified positions in the district, and we will accomplish this by combining certain positions and eliminating some others altogether.

What else would you propose to save money?

In response to recently passed Senate Bill 1184, which, among other things, will require graduates to take online courses, I would like to explore Homedale High School developing and delivering some of our own online courses. This would allow us to

Election 2010

Bruneau-Grand View S.D., Zone 2

Incumbent: Dixie Black

The 47-year-old owner of the Cowboy’s Pastime in Bruneau has served seven years on the Bruneau-Grand View School District Board of Trustees. She currently sits as the chair. She and her husband of 24 years have lived on his ranch in Bruneau for the past 15 years. They have three children, including 22-year-old Joseph and 19-year-old Justin, who are both enrolled at the University of Idaho. Their 15-year-old daughter Bridget is a freshman at Rimrock Jr.-Sr. High School.

“I feel I am qualified to be on the board because I have been to many classes to learn about board protocol and also personal experience of the last seven years,” Black said.

Challenger: Laura B. Morrison

The 44-year-old homemaker has 20 years’ teaching experience in public schools, charter schools and homeschooling. She’s married to John Morrison, and she has seven children, including sons Joey Caballero, Tanner Sharek and Christian Sharek (9-year-old third-grader at Grand View Elementary); daughters Abby Caballero (17-year-old 11th-grader at Rimrock Jr.-Sr. High School) and Hailey Sharek (12-year-old fifth-grader at Grand View); and stepdaughters Lindsay Short and Heather Morrison (14-year-old ninth-grader at Rimrock).

Laura Morrison has lived in Grand View for two years and has civic involvement experience as a Cub Scout leader, in her church and as a elementary school volunteer.

“I am familiar with the Idaho state teaching standards, various curriculums, the special needs of students, standardized tests and the annual yearly progress of the schools,” she said.

Why are you running?

Black: I am running for re-election because we still have one child in school and I am very concerned about the recent cuts.

Morrison: I feel with my teaching experience and experience as a mother I can bring a fair and experienced approach to the school board. I want to be more involved in our community.

What are the positive aspects of the community’s schools?

Black: I feel our teachers and administration are very concerned about our children and go above to get them what they need.

Morrison: The positive aspects of our schools in the classrooms are that we have valuable teachers that love their jobs and the children. They are prepared and are very knowledgeable. The administration has the children’s best interests as their first priority. I have had the privilege to volunteer at Grand View Elementary and have witnessed the above statements.

What would you improve about the schools? How would you accomplish that?

Black: I would like to keep the classes small enough to have a lot of personal attention to the students.

Morrison: Our schools are facing many challenges in the future. We will be facing financial challenges. We are facing academic challenges. We are facing challenges being passed on to us from the state and the Department of Education. I want what is best for our students and to help them become productive citizens ready to face the challenges in the coming years. We need to stay up-to-date with technology, educational strategies, and keep our students moving ahead.

How would you characterize the quality of education received by students? Where would you focus improvement efforts?

Black: I feel the quality of education received by our students is very good and getting better with every year. We have tried many new things and most of them are making a great difference.

Morrison: From my observations at the schools when I am there volunteering and as a parent, the quality of education is very high. I love the curriculums that our students are learning from and the use of IDLA (Idaho Digital Learning Academy) has opened windows to many students. I want to be able to continue to offer these to our students, and I feel we need to continue with the efforts to help those students who are in need of extra support.

What are the most crucial issues facing the district? How would you address them?

Black: Money is the most crucial issue and keeping enough of it is a daily challenge. If we can stay on top of the budget that will keep the school running smoothly.

Morrison: Our schools need to continue to meet the challenges of annual yearly progress. I believe the new curriculums being implemented are working, but are difficult to many students who have not had the chance to use these curriculums in the past. We need to continue to meet these students’ special needs and move them ahead. I know that the finances are tight and we need to address these issues the best we can to not affect student/teacher ratios and classroom performance.

How has the four-day week worked for both quality of education and effectiveness in reducing spending?

Black: I feel the four-day week has been a good decision for both education and finance. I have a ninth-grader, and I feel she gets a lot more instructional times than before.

Morrison: I have mixed feelings on this issue. As a parent of students that are advanced, average and below average, the four-day school week is a difficult situation. My advanced student is using IDLA and can school Saturday, Sunday and Monday at home. My average student is achieving at grade level. My below-average student is struggling with only being in school four days and off three days. Some students need to be in school more days to retain the information. Teens who are not employed are constantly searching for things to do. As far as the effectiveness in reducing spending, I do not know yet how effective this schedule is. The report is not available yet.

What else would you propose to save money?

Black: Every month we look at the budget and try to shave off a little more. I don’t feel we have a lot left to shave, but we are always looking.

Morrison: I am open to many ideas so long as it is not hindering our students’ education.

What are the specific challenges you see for the district over the next four years, and how do you propose to address them?

Black: Money is the big challenge, but if we keep trying we will make it through this challenge just as we have with others.

Morrison: No answer

How many school board meetings have you attended?

Black: I have attended every school board meeting but two in the past seven years.

Morrison: One

maintain local control of the instruction while still taking advantage of the efficiencies of online course delivery. This would also allow us to keep the funding in Homedale instead of sending it out of town, or worse, out of state.

What are the specific challenges for the district over the next four years? How do you propose to address them?

I believe that the biggest challenge will continue to be how we maintain the momentum that we have attained with respect to student achievement in the face of reduced funding. I am confident that as we have done for the last several years, with the hard work and dedication of our administration and staff and the effective use of our limited resources, we will overcome any funding issues and remain a strong district.

Where you do stand on the concept of a four-day week in an attempt to save money?

I appreciate the opportunity to address this question, as it has been a hot topic in our district recently. Moving to a four-day week is a major decision and one that I would not jump into blindly. There has been a great deal of speculation and some suggestion that the four-day week could save the district $250,000 or more per year. It has also been suggested that the savings would be quite minimal and not worth pursuing.

Given the conflicting information surrounding this topic and in an effort to perform our due diligence and make an educated decision, we authorized an independent education consultant to perform a study on the four-day week, specific to the Homedale District. The result of the study indicated that the district could expect to save between $36,000 and $78,000 per year, which is about one-half to one percent of our annual budget. It was further determined that the realistic amount would be closer to the low end and not the high. If you break these numbers down, the district would save about $1.50 per week per student.

I can see where the four-day week would be an appealing option to the certified staff and could be a recruiting tool to attract and retain certified staff. Conversely, we would probably struggle to retain bus drivers, cooks, custodians and aides.

The ultimate question has to be how will a four-day week affect student achievement in Homedale? The answer is that we really do not know. The research is inconclusive. The research did indicate that many districts that tried the four-day week reverted to a five-day week when budgets were less constrained. Ultimately, I believe the four-day week is much more about a lifestyle choice for the community and staff than it is about a great savings to the district.

Final comments

Seven years ago when I was first elected, our district was in a state of turmoil, and there were many divisions within our community. It was a difficult time and one that I do not care to revisit. With the hiring of a new superintendent and two new principals, the district was set in a new and positive direction. Since that time, academic achievement has been steadily on the rise to the point where we are now.

Job openings, initially a crisis, are now an opportunity. We are fortunate to have highly qualified people applying in Homedale. We have had much more success with our extracurricular and sports programs. “Trojan Pride” seems to be coming back.

We have accomplished all of this in spite of drastic budget cuts (nearly $1.9 million per year as of 2011-2012 projections). I am proud to have served as a trustee during this period of positive change, and with your support, I will continue. Please vote for me on May 17.

Election 2010

Homedale Highway District, Zone 3

Incumbent: Mark D. Stimmel

The 75-year-old Homedale native has served on the Homedale Highway District board for 28 years, including 18 consecutive years as chairman, a post that is reserved for the senior member of the board, he said.

A farmer, he and his wife, Maxine, have four grown children — Marke, Carmen, Shelley and Mike — and 13 grandchildren.

Stimmel worked on the Homedale Highway District road crew in 1956-57, about the time they began oiling roads in the district, he said.

He said he filed for re-election because it didn't seem as if anyone else would file for the position. His two challengers declared write-in candidacies after the April 1 deadline to get on the ballot.

Why are you running?

We've got quite a few projects in the making. We just got approved for some grant money to rebuild one road (East Thompson Road), and we've got more (roads) we need to rebuild.

We've got some bad roads. The heavy trucks from these dairies with the manure travel on them, and the roads haven't been built for that.

Part of the problem is we can't get the Department of Transportation to come out and stop these trucks because we're not state highway. (Stimmel said he wasn't sure who was responsible for enforcing weight limits on the roads).

What are the good aspects of the district's administration?

I think over the years we've had pretty good roads and have taken pretty good care of them.

Right now, we've got some problems on account of these dairies and all their trucks.

The other thing is our money has gone down the last two years a bunch. That cuts down on what we can do. And the oil price has gone up so much, that's going to cut down on what can do for any oil for sealcoating or new overlay. It just gets so costly, it's ridiculous.

What can be improved upon?

We've had the same members for the last ... ever since I got to become chairman. We're all 65 and older. There's a couple of us thinking retirement, you know?

We've got these projects going that we'd like to see through, and then somebody else can take over.

What are the specific areas of need for the district?

We try to do between 12 and 15 miles of sealcoating ever year, and we're really wondering if we're going to have the money to do that the way it's going.

What do you see as the most critical aspect of a director's job?

Staying on top of everything and keeping track of it: Expenditures of the district and where projects are going to be done.

Any specific issues that need to be addressed?

We, over the years, have improved the roads a lot. We had a little program, we were going back and redoing (the roads) and putting another three to four inches of blacktop overlay, but we don't have the money to do that at this point.

Any other comments

Being chairman, I'm down there (the district office) on something two or three days a week. It's not just a one-meeting-a-month job. There's a lot to it. There's more and more paperwork for the state and, of course, the secretary does a lot of it. There's a lot of questions I have to answer and keeping materials lined up for sealcoating and oiling and even just gravel.

Challenger: Scott Salutregui

A 41-year-old journeyman electrician who runs Homedale Electric, Salutregui is a lifelong Owyhee County resident who serves as fire chief for the Homedale volunteer fire department. He has been a volunteer firefighter for 20 years.

He and his wife Wendy have three daughters — Adrianna, Lyndsey and Claire.

Salutregui cites his experience of setting the budget for the Homedale Fire Department and serving on the Owyhee County 911 advisory committee as qualifications to hold the highway district directorship.

Salutregui is running as a write-in.

Why are you running?

I am running for highway commissioner to improve the safety of our roads, bridges and crossings.

What are the good aspects of the district's administration?

The aspects of the commissioner's job are to effectively use the taxpayers' money in a reasonable and responsible manner, and to oversee and ensure quality for the money spent.

What can be improved upon?

Improvements to be strived for are to make better the general infrastructure of the district.

What are the specific areas of need for the district?

The districts needs of today are quality check on crossings, bridges and careful monitoring of taxpayers' funds.

What do you see as the most critical aspect of a director's job?

The most critical aspect of the job are taking the taxpayers' concerns seriously and administrating the taxpayers' money to best advantage.

Any specific issues that need to be addressed?

The specific issue to be addressed is the general safety of the Homedale Highway District infrastrucutre.

Any other comments

I will be a responsible, accountable and accessible commissioner if given the opportunity to serve.

Rimrock woodworking showcase celebrates 30th year

Barbecue, sports banquet also slated next week

Wood and leather crafts from furniture to checkbook covers will be on display next week in Bruneau.

The 30th annual Rimrock High School Cabinetmaking/

Millwork/Arts and Crafts Show runs from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 18 at the high school.

The show was started by teacher Gary Jones in 1981 as a way to give his students a taste of what a judged show was like before they took part in the state competition a few weeks later.

The exposure paid off.

"Our first show was excellent, and the following week we exhibited in the statewide show (at Karcher Mall in Nampa) and received more ribbons than any other school, including grand prize overall for a roll top desk one of the students exhibited," Jones said.

As has become tradition, this year's show in the high school's hallways will be held in conjunction with the school's Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) barbecue, which runs from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Rimrock's All Sports Banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m.

This year's show, which will be the final one before Jones retires, will feature items that his students have built during the school year, including custom cabinets and furniture such as beds, computer desks, leaf tables, coffee tables, chests of drawers, gun cabinets, Adirondack chairs and a swinging bench, hope chests, end tables, night stands, bureaus and corner cabinets.

There also will be arts and crafts featuring leather and wood such as tack gear, wood turnings, billfolds, belts, checkbook covers, leather incorporated in wood project and pillows.

"The show promotes the program and gives the students a sense of pride and accomplishment," Jones said.

Now, 30 years later, the show has turned into much more than an opportunity for the woodworking students.

"The show is looked forward to by the students and the community," Jones said. "We have great community support and a good turnout yearly."

Students who have exhibited at the show and have taken Jones' classes have gone on to productive careers in trades. One student from Jones' time teaching in Oregon owns a custom cabinet shop in Shady Cove, Ore., another, Stacey Buckingham, is a contractor/builder who owns Skyline Construction in Bruneau. More recently, Nate Hofer moved on to further his education at the College of Southern Idaho where he was the Northwest collegiate champion and qualified for the Skills USA nationals in cabinetmaking.

Trojans reach district baseball tournament

Zac Lowder did it all Saturday to keep Homedale High School's baseball season afloat for at least two more games.

The junior left-hander struck out 13 in a three-hit performance that sparked the Trojans to a 7-1 victory over Parma in a 3A District III Tournament play-in game.

The victory at Walter Johnson Memorial Field in Weiser put Homedale (7-11 through Monday) into the double-elimination portion of the district tournament. The Trojans played top-seeded Fruitland after press time on Tuesday.

The once-beaten Grizzlies had beaten Homedale, 13-0, in five innings on May 3.

Lowder was 3-for-4 from the plate. Jonny Stacey and Timmy Scott provided the run support with two RBIs each.

May 3: Fruitland 13, Homedale 0 (5) — The Grizzlies scored all their runs in the first three innings on the Trojans' field to capture a 3A Snake River Valley conference baseball victory.

Reed Johnson limited Homedale to four hits, struck out five and walked no one. Homedale, which finished the conference season at 2-6, fell into a 5-0 hole after a half-inning as Lowder allowed eight consecutive base runners.

The Grizzlies (19-1, 8-0) had four straight singles and capped the rally with Austin Rawlings' two-out, two-run base hit.

Homedale's only base runners were Phillip Moulton, Stacey, Drew Beckman and Cody Lynde, all of whom had singles.

No Trojan got past second base.

Lair, Meligan complete Idaho sweep

Seniors shine for HHS tennis as season winds down

Homedale High School's two state medalists from last year's 3A state tournament solidified their tennis games last week. Reigning state champion Tanner Lair and fellow state medalist Jordan Meligan — both seniors — didn't lose a set while winning three matches ahead of this week's 3A District III Tournament. The district tournament runs Thursday through Saturday with the singles ladder in Parma and the doubles ladder split between Payette and Fruitland. On Thursday, Lair blitzed Parma's Conner Flaherty, 6-0, 6-0, but the Panthers prevailed, 4-2, in the boys' ladder of a 3A Snake River Valley conference. Meligan had to battle in the first set but defeated Parma's No. 2, Trevor Nielsen, 6-3, 6-1. On the girls' side, the Panthers rode four forfeits to a 6-0 conference sweep. Sarah Maggard and Becka Krasko won an opening-set game in the No. 1 girls' doubles match, and Kirsi Thatcher and Mackenzie McMichael captured a second-set game at No. 2 doubles. Wednesday: Homedale 7, Nyssa, Ore., 3 — Lair and Meligan were at it again Wednesday in a 7-3 non-conference victory over host Nyssa, Ore. This time, Tell Hyer got in on the act with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Devin Rindlisbacher. Krasko outlasted Anna Boster in a two-hour, 25-minute No. 1 girls' singles match. The players were the last on the court, with Krasko surviving coming back from a first-set loss and surviving a long second-set tiebreaker for a 4-6, 7-6 (12-10), 6-1 victory. Mackenzie McMichael and Kirsi Thatcher also collected girls' singles victories. McMichael beat Katie Hayden, 6-4, 6-1, and Thatcher dispatched Gabby Cuevas, 6-2, 6-1. May 3 boys: Weiser 4, Homedale 2 — Lair and Meligan swept to victory again, but the Wolverines used two forfeits to capture a conference victory at home. Lair lost only once in a 6-1, 6-0 No. 1 singles domination of Austin Winegar. Meligan had a similarly easy time with Wolverines No. 2 Arten Moskalenko, rolling 6-2, 6-0. May 3 girls: Weiser 6, Homedale 0 — Only four of the matches were played as the Trojans gave up three points to forfeit but put up a fight in nearly every other on-court encounter. Homedale's No. 2 mixed doubles team of Tell Hyer and Edmy Vega exhibited resilience in a 7-5, 7-6 loss to Weiser's Hailee Anderson and Dominic Aubrey.

HMS: Track grabs medals

From Page 17 (5-0) and Josh Tolmie in the triple jump (32-9½). Jakobee Osborn was runner-up in both the discus (79 feet, 10 inches) and shot put at 36-8. Other second-place finishes included Noah FreeLove and Dusty Sanders, who tied at that mark in the high jump after both cleared 4-4. Corta won gold for the girls in the triple jump (27-9) and the high jump (4-4). She also served with Makayla Aberasturi, Shantay Garcia and Hailie Martell on the winning 4x100 relay team, which posted a 59.04, one full second faster than runner-up Fruitland. Martell also ran to championships with the 4x200 and sprint medley squads. She helped Aberasturi, Nathaly Jimarez and Elizabeth Vargas post a 2:07.31 winning time in the 4x200. Jimarez, Martell, Kimberly Galvan and Liset Llamas ran a 2:17.33 in the sprint medley, nearly 2½ seconds quicker than second-place Ontario. Gonzales also won the 200 hurdles (34.64), and she Galvan finished second and third, respectively, behind Corta in the triple jump. Homedale also swept the throws, with Kirsten Egurrola grabbing gold in the shot put (27-5) and Mady Conant dominated the discus with a toss of 63-1. Morgan Nash won the 200 hurdles and served on the victorious 4x100 relay team for the eighth-grade girls. Other athletes on the team that turned a 59.25 quarter-mile included Roni Black, Victoria Nash and Carlie Purdom. The HMS eighth-graders were second to Weiser. Nash was runner-up in the 100 hurdles with an 18.08 and finished third in the triple jump with an effort of 27-9½. Homedale also won the 4x200 girls' relay by .14 of a second. Bailey Adams, Brooke Armenta, Samantha Woods and Alyx Christensen were clocked at 2:08.71, just ahead of Parma. The Homedale eighth-grade boys finished 10 points off Weiser's championship pace. Miguel Montejano was the only Trojan to find gold, soaring 35-3½ in the triple jump. Teammate Jose Lopez was second at 35-0. Montejano also finished second in the 100 and was third in the 100 hurdles and the 200. Lopez was a half-second behind the winner in the 400 and also had top-five finishes in the 800 and 1,600. Jose Ibarra grabbed third in the 200 hurdles, and served on the Trojans' second-place 4x200 relay team along with Amos Aguilera, Edgar Garcia and Clay Carbone. Aguilera, Ibarra, Carbone and Colton Grimm comprised Homedale's third-place team in the 4x400 relay. Andy Martinez was runner-up in the high jump, and Grimm was fourth in the shot put.

New coaches to be introduced at HTAA meet

The Homedale School District Board of Trustees was expected to hire two new high school coaches Monday night, and those people will be introduced to boosters next week. Homedale High School athletic director David Hart has announced that the Trojans' new girls' basketball coach and cheer coach will meet members of the Homedale Trojan Athletic Association at its next meeting, which is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Monday at the HHS library. Other agenda items include reports of spring tournaments for the 3A District III and State levels. Hart said all head coaches have been invited to the meeting. Also on the slate is brainstorming for fundraising ideas, including discussion of preparations for the second annual HTAA luau in August.

MHS track and field preps for 2A districts

Huskies grab second for girls and boys in McCall

With their best team finishes on May 3 at the Vandal Invitational in McCall, the Marsing High School track and field teams are now gearing up to tackle the 2A District III Championship meet on Friday and Saturday in New Plymouth.

“It was a mailman credo day in McCall. We had sun, clouds, and a big snowstorm,” Marsing coach Jim Eisentrager said. “That didn’t dampen the spirits of our team as we set out to compete in McCall. I am proud of all the kids and the work they did.”

Overall, both the boys’ and girls’ teams ended up in second place in the meet. The girls finished 86½ points behind the host, McCall-Donnelly, and the boys came in 35½ shy of first-place Cole Valley Christian.

For the girls, Shannon Malmberg continued her dominance in the 100-meter hurdles, grabbing first place and crossing the line at 17.78 seconds, a full tenth of a second ahead of Cascade’s Tessa Stocks. Malmberg also picked up fifth place in the 100 with a time of 14.10.

The sprint medley team of Malmberg, Margarita Contreras, Andrea Rodriguez and Gloria Martinez posted a 2:07.34 for second place. The 4x100 team of Ofelia Herrera, Contreras, Malmberg and Martinez picked up third place with a time of 57.87.

Making their debut, the boys 4x200 team of Nathan Danner, Jason Galligan, Tristian Jacobi and Mariano Estrada blew away the competition, finishing first with a time of 1:42.26, a full four seconds ahead of Cascade. Jacobi finished third and Estrada fourth in the 100.

Michael Collett and Dillon Danner added to their chances for a state apperence in the 1,600. Collett crossed the line at 5:17.14 for second place with Danner on his heels finishing seven-tenths of a second behind for third.

“We are turning our attention to districts the 13th and 14th,” Eisentrager said. “We are competitive, and if we train well during the next week we will be competitive and see some success with trips to State in our future.”

Boys’ 100 meters: (3) Tristan Jacobi, 12.4; (4) Mariano Estrada, 12.18; (6) Nathan Danner, 12.24; (17) Tyler Malmberg, 13.72. 200: (9) Troy Praquer, 28.94; (10) Jacobi, 30.94. 400: (3) Nathan Danner, 59.56; (5) Raul Garcia, 1:00.9; (7) Dillon Danner, 1:05.09; (8) Michael Collett, 1:19.37. 800: (3) Miguel Leon, 2:14.38; (7) Tristan Goodwin, 2:24.24. 1,600: (2) Collett, 5:17.14; (3) Dillon Danner, 5:17.84. 110

Clutch hits help Adrian salvage twinbill

Purnell fans 20, Gomez ties game with three-run shot in 7th

Adrian High School found itself on opposite ends of the baseball spectrum Saturday in a league doubleheader.

After taking a 10-run lead after two at-bats in Game 1, the Antelopes fell, 28-11, in five innings to visiting Joseph.

The Antelopes showed resilience in the second game, scoring a run in the ninth inning for a 7-6 victory to cap the 1A/2A Special District 7 doubleheader. Senior Blake Purnell carded 20 strikeouts in a nine-inning complete-game pitching performance.

Adrian (10-8 overall, 3-5 district) closes the regular season at Elgin with a noon doubleheader.

Game 1: Joseph 28, Adrian 11 (5) — The Antelopes racked up five runs in the first inning and six in the second to gain an early advantage, but the Eagles clawed back, scoring 17 times in the fifth inning to snap a deadlock and force the 10-run mercy rule.

“The game got away from us,” Adrian coach Kevin Purnell said. “Due to injuries, our pitching was limited, and defensively we didn’t do a lot to support our pitchers.”

Adrian committed 12 errors behind four pitchers.

The Antelopes capitalized on shaky starting pitching from Joseph, collecting nine walks and hits in the first two innings.

Blake Purnell and Leo Munoz each knocked in runs.

Game 2: Adrian 7, Joseph 6 (9) — Eagles came back to force a tie again, but the Antelopes got the last laugh after Leo Munoz battled to drive in Daniel Munoz with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth.

With the Antelopes down to their last strike of the ninth inning, Leo Munoz fouled off four pitches before lacing the game-winning hit into right field. Daniel Munoz began the inning by reaching on an error.

Joseph snapped a 3-3 deadline in the top of the seventh inning with three runs, only to have Adrian return the favor in the bottom of the frame. Freshman Tony Gomez smacked game-tying three-run home run on a two-strike pitch with one out.

ATV, cycle Fun Run slated for Saturday

The Treasure Valley Trail Machine Association is set to host its second annual “Fun Run” which will start at the Rabbit Creek parking area on Saturday.

The event is a fundraiser for the TVTMA to help promote trail advocacy in Idaho.

According to the TVTMA website, the event is designed to be a family event for ATV and motorcycle riders of all skill levels. Individual entry fees are $20. A family entry costs $40.

Participants must be at least seven years old, and minors need to be accompanied by an adult rider.

The event will start from the Rabbit Creek parking area. The parking area is one mile north of Murphy on Idaho highway 78.

Sign ups begin at 8 a.m. and will run through 10:30 a.m. The first bike out will be at 9 a.m., with the first ATV out at 9:30 a.m.

The course will have checkpoints where every rider stops and draws chips, which are good for raffle tickets. The awards and raffle will take place at 4 p.m.

The event and course is designed to accommodate riders of all skill levels including novices. For novices, there is a short 27-mile course for ATVs and motorcycles. The long course is a 60-mile loop for motorcycles only.

Because of Bureau of Land Management restrictions the ATV course is only open to ATVs less than 50 inches wide and must have four wheels. Riders are also required to have an OHV sticker and spark arrestor.

Participants are also required to have a sound check, which is conducted by TVTMA at the tech check area. The tech check is mandatory in order to participate.

For more information, visit the event website at www.tvtma.com. For additional questions, contact Dave Lorello at (208) 631-8327 or Tom Bithell at (208) 866-9073.

On the edge of common sense The high price of hay

In the Southwest, the price of hay can be daunting to horse owners. I keep our ranch horses up in the corral. When hay gets above $10 a bale, I actually weigh each feeding!

Clyde has a little band of broodmares on his Southern California operation. His place is sandwiched by irrigated alfalfa fields to the west and 5,000 acres of desert to the east. To save money on his feed bill, the neighboring farmer lets him pick up “tags” after the field is cut. Tags are what’s left after the baling is complete.

One hot evening, he and his faithful wife and horse lover took their old ’85 Isuzu 4x4 diesel pickup into the neighbor’s field to pick up tags. She drove slowly down the rows followed by Clyde who was pitchforking hay into the bed. She had to put the truck in first and low to keep it slow enough for him to keep up. It crawled along.

The ends of the rows where the baler turns garner the most hay. As the pickup turned sideways to Clyde, he tossed in a forkful. “It felt heavy,” he thought. He glanced up and watched the hay float into the bed and a 3½-foot snake, carried by its own momentum, shoot out of the cloud of stems and leaves, arc through the open window and slap onto the dashboard!

He shouted a warning to his wife, which was not necessary, she was already halfway to the house! The truck puttered along in first and low. Clyde raced to catch up! Running alongside the open driver’s door, he reached in for the ignition. The snake was now in the seat and struck out at Clyde! Clyde fell back, snagged the toe of his right boot on the heel of his left, and cartwheeled to the ground!

As he watched from the gopher’s eye-view, the little pickup banged over a border ditch, punched through the two-strand hot-wire fence and shoved its way into the mare pasture. Upon seeing the clunking vehicle coming their way dragging 300 feet of hot-wire, the 10 mares and one cocky stallion stampeded across the pasture and crashed through the hot-wire on the other side! They escaped into the desert.

Finally, the little truck stalled. Clyde’s wife came to get him in the other pickup. It took them two hours to find and gather the mares, in the dark, and they went to bed exhausted.

Next day they went out to fix the fence. The Isuzu squatted calmly in the morning sun, both doors shut. Armed with a hoe Clyde opened the door as his wife stood by with a cell phone, sure that she would have to call 911 and report a snake bite victim. Clyde poked and prodded around in the cab, then carefully tilted the front seat forward. He screamed! His wife screamed! Then he fell back laughing, hysterical in relief. She peeked inside. A grumpy gopher snake looked up at her as if to say, “Why can’t we all just get along?”

Letters to the editor Homedale School Board election

Writer: Shanley’s leadership will help maintain success

West of the Snake River just off Highway 95 lies a tight-knit community where everyone knows everyone. It’s a good place to call home and a great place to raise a family.

To keep our community successful, we must invest in our youth and give them every opportunity to succeed. For this, we need a school board formed from a group of our peers to represent us. They must have the kids’ best interests in their minds and hearts. We need someone who will listen to our points, thoughts and ideas and combine them with their own and others and implement them to the best of their ability.

A person should not be on the school board with a personal agenda for this only benefits a few and not the whole. As the May 17 election nears, we need to look at who we believe will best represent the community and the kids.

In my opinion, Kurt Shanley has done an outstanding job as a school board member for the past seven years, and it would be a blessing to have him continue. Since Kurt Shanley has been board chairman, the middle school has improved to the point of receiving national awards, and the elementary and the high school are doing better than ever with their ISAT testing.

Kurt has helped to build and support sports programs that are getting stronger every year and bring the Trojan Pride back for the kids and the community. Kurt is a big supporter of youth programs such as FFA, 4-H, youth sports and many more. He understands that without these groups, kids miss out on important life lessons and knowledge.

On May 17, it is in the best interest of our kids and the community to vote for Kurt Shanley for school board.

Shanley works for betterment of schools, community

My family moved to Homedale five years ago in search of a better educational setting as well as extra- curricular opportunities for our three boys. This move was based upon a small school setting in which the school board’s decisions were driving academic success. Since that time, under the guidance of Kurt Shanley, chairman of the Homedale School Board, we have witnessed many notable accomplishments within the district.

Under Kurt’s leadership, Homedale schools are achieving consistent Adequate Yearly Progress measured by the ISAT. Beyond this, both the middle and high schools have been recognized for exceptional academic growth and introduced numerous advanced learning opportunities for our students.

I am currently the president of Homedale Youth Sports (HYS), a non-profit organization that over the past four years has grown in providing athletic programs for the youth of our community. Kurt has given our program excellent support. He works with HYS to allow a partnership with the school district to provide high-quality athletic programs for kids. I believe when a school and community are tied by successful sports programs a level of pride is accomplished which overflows into the academic setting. Kurt has been integral in bringing back Trojan Pride to our schools and community.

Kurt is also involved in numerous other venues that offer the youth of our community various opportunities to learn to be responsible young men and women. His involvement in these activities is to be commended.

With the drastic budget cuts in education which affect all programs, we need a leader in place who is knowledgeable, experienced and who has the greater picture in mind. I believe that leader to be Kurt Shanley. His record speaks for itself.

Re-elect Kurt Shanley to the Homedale School Board.

Sen. Mike Crapo

From Washington Justice served in Pakistan, but perseverance still required

Justice was served with the death of Osama bin Laden. The symbol for worldwide terror for more than 10 years was killed in Pakistan by U.S. special forces, and his body was recovered and verified. While we take comfort in his removal and the effect it has on al-Qaida, there should be no question that we must remain vigilant and aggressive in combating terrorism.

The shadowy terrorist network bin Laden led is only one of the global terrorist threats we face, and only one of the many terrorist extremist groups that threaten U.S. interests. The killing of bin Laden is a victory we owe to the brave men and women in our military and intelligence community, but the al-Qaida network is a hydra that demands our continued attention. While the death of bin Laden was a necessity precipitated by the direct ongoing threat he posed and the symbol of injustice his freedom presented, al-Qaida and his terrorist cause remain dedicated to reaping terror on Americans and our allies.

The events of Sept. 11, 2001, heightened our national awareness of terrorist threats to our nation and our democratic values. Osama bin Laden was the face of that attack, but, in an increasingly interconnected world, we must be alert, boldly meeting this challenge on every front.

We know the war on terrorism is a different kind of war, requiring a wide range of policy tools to achieve victories and prevent terror attacks on U.S. soil. We have been committed to employing the multiple, influential tools of statecraft we have at our disposal: economic, military and covert operations, diplomatic, educational, cultural, humanitarian and moral. With the removal of Osama bin Laden, it is understandable we will reflect on this achievement. However, we cannot relax, and our commitment to the War on Terror must not wane.

The principles I articulated years ago, remain relevant as we continue to combat terrorism:

- Use all available financial tools to disrupt and seize terrorist funding;
- Engage in intensive public diplomacy to trumpet the importance of democracy and human rights;

Financial management
Ensure grown son is responsible with inheritance

Dear Dave,
I recently received a beneficiary IRA when my mother passed away. I also received a small part of her estate. I'd like to share some of this with my 24-year-old son. He's a good boy, but he's pretty impulsive and not good with money. Do you have any suggestions?
— Kimberly

mom without having to worry about a grown son with money issues.
I'm sure he's a good kid, but I don't like the idea of just giving him money when you already know he's impulsive.

Over the years, I've learned that handing money to someone who's financially irresponsible is not a good plan. Lots of people think they'd be fine if they just had more money, and that's generally not the case. You have to ask yourself if you'd really be helping this young man by giving him a bunch of money. More than likely, the answer is no.
You've got several options. But, at his age, it might be a good idea to attach a few strings to him getting any of the money.

Set up some guidelines designed to improve his behaviors in a few areas, and you could give him the money if he meets the requirements. Don't make him jump through a bunch of hoops for no reason. I'm talking about things that will train and educate him to live a more productive and responsible life in the future — both financially and as a mature, responsible adult in general.
I think this is fair to you both, and it's also a way you can help him help himself. And hey, if he refuses to cooperate or cops an attitude, you can always just keep the money until he finally grows up a little!

✓ Perseverance: After Bin Laden, work in War on Terror must continue

• Use our intelligence agencies effectively and continue to improve the quality of our intelligence;
• Use and develop technology to defend our skies, borders and citizens;
• Work with foreign states to combat hotspots of hatred and promote tolerance;
• Work with our allies whenever possible to meet shared security challenges;
• Strive to keep confrontations between the terrorists and Americans far from American soil
Continuing to remember and support our men and women that remain in harm's way is also important. On May 3, the U.S. Senate unanimously passed a Senate Resolution honoring the members of the military and intelligence community who carried out the successful mission that removed Osama bin Laden and paying tribute to the men and women who have served in the War on Terror. The heroism and perseverance of our military personnel was demonstrated by their dogged pursuit and ultimate removal of bin Laden. Their efforts in Afghanistan and Iraq have made our nation safer from terrorism. Although progress remains to be made in both countries, America has taken away the ability of terrorist organizations to operate with impunity. We have also reduced the number of countries that sponsor terror.

Terrorism continues to be a worldwide scourge. Threats to our national security and Americans must be met with the fullest and most assertive response. Using the right combinations of carrot and stick, America can and will win the War on Terror.

I believe that the most important issue facing the school district concerns how we can continue to provide an excellent education in these tough economic times. I believe that under the guidance of this board, our students have continued to excel in all areas from academics to extracurricular activities. Some notable accomplishments have been:
• The middle school nominated for the National Blue Ribbon Schools award
• The addition of advanced placement courses at the high school level, an Honors Track Curriculum (grades 7-12) and numerous other advanced learning opportunities in each school
• The district being awarded over $1 million in competitive grants
I believe that the job of our school board is to enable the teachers and administrators to prepare all our students for success in a 21st century global workplace. This includes instituting program reviews for all areas, communicating regularly and getting feedback from the parents, addressing achievement gaps among students, identifying opportunities to increase revenue and reduce expenses, and finding new ways to help the community understand how a public school district operates. I believe that Kurt's knowledge and leadership skills will continue to enable these initiatives.

Shanley ideal to lead school board in difficult times

As chairman of the Homedale School District's Board of Trustees, Kurt Shanley has overseen phenomenal progress during his tenure.
Before Kurt was elected to the board in 2004, none of our schools had made Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) as measured by the ISAT. Today, not only have all three Homedale schools made AYP, but they have also been singled out for exceptional academic growth and programs, as evidenced by the middle school's Blue Ribbon Award nomination and the high school's selection as a finalist for the Exemplary Schools Award. After-school tutoring is now available at all three schools, and learning opportunities such as pre-engineering, Advanced Placement, dual-credit, and Honors English classes have been implemented to enable Homedale students to strive for higher academic aspirations than ever before.

Such accomplishments did not happen by accident. Under Kurt's steady leadership, the board has established clear priorities and set specific goals that have made these achievements possible and will continue to ensure success at all levels.
Having known Kurt all of his life, I can attest to his commitment to Homedale schools and his desire for the best education for our community's children. He has conducted school board business with integrity and professionalism, weighing difficult choices with thoughtful consideration.
As we move forward to the next school year with seriously strained resources, we need someone who is knowledgeable and experienced at the helm; Kurt is that leader. Now, more than ever, we need a decision-maker who has delivered proven results, and with your support, he will continue to guide our schools to academic excellence.
Please join me in voting to re-elect Kurt Shanley to represent Zone 1 of the Homedale School District Board of Trustees on May 17.

Letter-writer: Shanley deserves another term

I am writing in support of Kurt Shanley and his bid for reelection to the Homedale School Board.
Kurt has served honorably as a board member, particularly in his latest role as chairman during these difficult economic times.
The board has been forced to make many difficult decisions and no doubt will face many more. However, as a fellow parent of students in the district, I have confidence in Kurt's ability to continue to act in the best interest of our students.

Taxpayers footing bill for spending, growing debt

Two presidents and eight years of an inept and self-serving Congress have managed to put American on a high-speed run to the edge of a cliff that will end this country as we know it.
Trillions of dollars in debt and borrowing more almost daily at very high interest rates, has bankrupted us. We have it on Iraq, Afghanistan and a wide variety of giveaways trying to buy Third World countries' friendship.
All spending is laid on the back of the taxpayer. The same taxpayer that has endured the financial meltdown caused by the horrendous greed of Wall Street and still watching as absolutely nothing is being done to eliminate the loopholes nor imprison the perpetrators, two of which have been appointed to high government positions by the president to help us recover.
The answers to this gigantic problem is quite simple, and all households know it: Stop spending, get out of Iraq and Afghanistan and stop giving our money to any and all countries and start pay our bills.

Friday reception to honor retiring superintendent Bell

With the closing of the school year this month, Homedale’s superintendent Deward Bell will wrap up a 24-year career as chief administrator. Bell retires with a total of 31 years in the Homedale education system.

A reception is planned in honor of the retirement of Deward Bell. An open invitation is being extended to the Homedale community. The event will be held on Friday, May 16 at 8pm in the Homedale High School gymnasium. Nolan Taggart said that the program will include a slide presentation, and the Homedale Jazz Band will provide music.

Moving with his family to Homedale in 1955 from Paul, Idaho, Bell first served in the capacity of teacher-coach at the high school level, teaching government, psychology and PE as well as coaching football, basketball, baseball and track. From 1958 to 1962 Bell served as principal before stepping to the helm as superintendent.

Current principal of Homedale High School, Nolan Taggart, said that Bell assumed the responsibilities with a financial deficit. “I would say that his financial management has been his greatest accomplishment,” Taggart stated.

The Homedale school district has fared well comparatively, through the cooperative efforts of a very supportive community, direction from dedicated school boards, sound investment practices by the clerk of the board of trustees, and the management expertise of Superintendent Bell. The success of the district is not only apparent in the completion of various construction projects, but also carries over in the form of higher salaries. Homedale ranks among the highest paying districts in the state.

Taggart also emphasized that funding for the improvements has never necessitated an override election. He explained that money for these improvements has come from the Plant Facilities Levy, noting that a bond approval was required in 1972 for the addition of the new high school gymnasium and junior high media center.

Over the past 24 years, Taggart pointed out the most significant projects which have greatly enhanced the quality of the district. He mentioned the addition of the new music and science departments, shop and lockers added in 1965; the new stadium in 1969; an expansion project at the elementary library in 1973; the Guidance Complex in 1978; temporary mobile units at the grade school in 1981; the multi-purpose room and lunch room at the high school in 1982; new wrestling room, weight-lifting room and storage room as well as an extensive renovation at the grade school including lowered ceilings, insulation, new windows and lighting in 1984.

New city patrolman

Joining the Homedale City Police Dept. as anew patrolman is Bob McJunkin. Bob has previously served eight years with the Caldwell City police force as Patrol Lieutenant and has 10 years experience in police work.

Bob says the transition into a smaller unit will take some gearing down. “I’ll have to slow down on the miles.”

Spring Fling held at Murphy

The Owyhee County Homemakers Extension Council held its Spring Fling on April 29, 1986 at the Murphy Club House. The council officers held a meeting preceding the demonstrations with Jan Peterson, President, presiding. A check has been mailed to the County Agents offices to take care of our trophies that we sponsor at the Owyhee County Fair.

Judy Erwin reported on her trip to Burley for the State Convention.

The State Convention chairman asked that each county present a banner depicting things in their county. Peg Robinson and Eva Johnston made our banner. It was painted with scenes of Silver City, Snake River, fruit trees, cattle country, and with the 4H emblem in the center for pictures. The banner is to be hung in the Owyhee County Agents office. Thanks to the ladies for such a beautiful job.

PIPE PRESENTATION. We have received, from the Mountain City Mackerel Club, a handsome present in the shape of a magnificent pipe, which reaches us through the kindness of W. F. & Co’s messenger, Joe Jones. We shall always remember with feelings of the deepest gratitude and most enduring friendship, the noble and generous donors, and, without entering into any lengthy acknowledgement, we here give the letter that accompanied the testimonial: MOUNTAIN CITY, NEVADA, April 21st, 1871.

Mr. Hill – Dear Sir: It has recently come to the knowledge of the Mackerel Club of this city that you are a distant relative of Gen. Grant, and that you had not been the recipient of any favor from the said Grant in a pecuniary point of view, or otherwise, as had most of his relatives. Allow me, Mr. Hill, in behalf of the Mackerel Club of Mountain City, to present you with this magnificent pipe as a token of the great respect they have for your talent and social qualities – the quality of the pipe is not to be considered, but the quantity, my dear sir, as you will perceive, is immense. In presenting you with this pipe it is not the intention of your friends to deceive you as to the material of which it is composed, and in order that you may not think it was made by any of the ancient Carthaginians, or that it is the pipe that Miles Standish smoked on board the Mayflower, I will inform you that it is simply a sample of home produce and manufacture. The pipe itself was made by our townsman Mr. George Palmer, and mounted at the extensive jewelry establishment of Mr. A. J. Rowland, formerly of Silver City.

Hoping, my dear sir, that your finances will not be impaired by the purchase of tobacco in filling this pipe, and that it will be received in the same spirit in which it is given.

I remain yours truly, E. L. Capen, President of the Macks.

BACK AGAIN. Con Shea got back from Colorado this week in advance of his drove, consisting of 900 head of fat beef cattle which will arrive here in a few weeks. The cattle were driven from Texas last fall and wintered near Fort Lyon, in Colorado Territory, where they thrrove remarkably well. Tom Bugbee sold out his stock on the Arkansas River and has gone back to Texas for more, and to get himself a wife. Mr. Shea is an enterprising gentleman and has been very fortunate in his cattle speculations. Owyhee need not fear a scarcity of beef this season.
