BOCC takes rare action with sheriff's fuel budget in red

Commissioners set public hearing, could add $25K

The Board of County Commissioners will seek citizens' input on adding $25,000 to the overdrawn Owyhee County Sheriff's Office fuel budget, but expressed pessimism Monday if that would be enough to get through the final three months of fiscal year 2011.

"I'm just afraid there won't be any conservation," BOCC chair Jerry Hoagland said.

After a lengthy discussion during which Sheriff Daryl Crandall touched on the need for patrol and service but not on the long commutes some deputies take from home to their areas of assignment, commissioners voted unanimously to set a public hearing at 10 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 22 on the possibility of opening the county budget for additional fuel appropriations.

The money would come from a cash reserve that helps fund more than half of the departments in the county government.

"The commissioners felt like, in light of everything, they wanted to be open, and they felt like this was the best way to handle it," County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn said.

Sherburn said dipping into the reserve

Amy Winters has been tabbed to move from the counselor's office to the principal's chair at Homedale Middle School.

The Homedale School District board of trustees approved Winters' promotion during a special meeting Friday night.

"The biggest challenge will just be me being able to get out in the community and get to know the people and figure out who's who and where everything is," Winters said.

Winters came into the Homedale district as the HMS guidance counselor at the beginning of the 2010-11 school year.

Homedale city employees check the damage to one of the new street lights on the corner of Main Street and East Wyoming Avenue. A vehicle that was backing out of the business collided with the pole causing the fixture to fall and shatter in the roadway.

City gets estimate to repair damaged light pole

The City of Homedale has received an estimate from AME Electric Inc. on the repair of a light pole damaged in a collision recently.

The Caldwell company that served as general contractor for the city’s downtown revitalization said it will cost $1,922 to repair the light pole standing at the southeast corner of Wyoming Avenue and Main Street.

The pole was damaged in July when a motorist backed into it while leaving a parking stall at a business. The globe was knocked off the top of the pole.

The $1,922 proposal includes replacement of the decorate light atop the existing pole.

The estimate does not include an estimate if there is any repair required for the existing electrical wires or the light pole or base.

City Councilman Tim Downing pointed out during Thursday’s City Council meeting that he thought the light pole was leaning slightly in the wake of the impact.

Mayor Harold Wilson said during Thursday’s City Council meeting that the cost will be covered by the car owner’s auto insurance.

No traffic citations were issued in the incident, Homedale Police reported.

HHS Class of ’61 helps out alma mater during reunion

Members of the Homedale High School Class of 1961 capped their 50th reunion weekend by announcing they had reached their fundraising goal for the new flagpole outside their alma mater.

The former students raised $2,000, including individual donations and a gift from Jim Miller in memory of classmates who have passed away.

On July 23, new HHS principal

Luci Asumendi-Mereness presented a plaque to class members at the flagpole. The plaque will be installed near the new pole, signifying the Class of 1961 contribution.

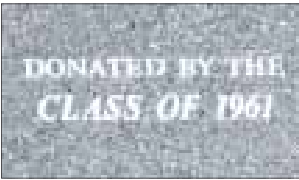

Asumendi-Mereness also led the reunion group on a tour of its old school.

After the tour, the classmates, spouses and guests attended a dinner and reminisced further at the Txoko Ona Basque Center on South Main Street.

“At the end of the evening, it was agreed by all that growing up and attending school in a small community has many advantages, and that as a result of that closeness, the reunion was a definite success,” class representative Donna Jorgensen Rookstool wrote in a press release.

The reunion, the organization of which was led by Joan Jesenko Noe, began the night of July 22 with a gathering at the home of Glenda Watterson Uranga.

Repair work under way on road leading to Jump Creek lower lot

Bureau of Land Management crews are expected to complete roadwork Friday near the Jump Creek Recreation site’s main parking lot.

The repairs began Monday after numerous reports in recent weeks of rear- and front-wheel-drive vehicles getting stuck on the road, which is rutted and in poor conditions. The road leading to the lower parking has been closed because of the difficulties.

The lower parking lot will be closed during the construction, but people can still access the canyon and other facilities by foot from the upper parking lot.

The recreation site is about 10 miles southwest of Marsing.

Visitors may experience short delays for safety while crews perform the repairs, according to a BLM press release.

BLM crews will re-grade the road into the site, bringing in additional gravel if needed, using a water truck and roller to compact the road bed as much as possible. A soil stabilizer then will be applied to the road surface to help bind materials together and reduce dust.

“This will just serve as a temporary solution and hopefully carry us into next summer,” acting BLM Owyhee Field Office Manager Glen Burkhardt said. “Between now and next spring, we’ll be exploring opportunities for reducing future problems by reconstructing and paving the road leading down into the lower parking area, re-routing it, or a combination of the two.”

Marsing neighbors urged to prepare for disaster

The woman instrumental in creating a Community Emergency Response Team in the Homedale-Marsing area wants to start a neighborhood-based disaster mitigation program.

Marlene Moore, the coordinator for the local Map Your Neighborhood (MYN) effort, hopes to find volunteers to host training sessions.

“We are looking for persons who are willing to host a MYN training meeting at their home and invite 15 to 20 neighbors,” Moore wrote in an email.

The program aims to augment efforts by first responders and utility personnel in the early stages of a disaster by preparing neighbors to be ready for an emergency.

“Neighbors that are prepared are more effective in their response to a disaster and have an increased capacity to be self-sufficient for the first 72 hours after a disaster,” according to information Moore emailed to The Owyhee Avalanche.

The MYN program teaches neighbors:

- Nine steps to take immediately after a disaster to secure a home and protect a neighborhood
- How to identify the skills and equipment each neighbor can bring to a situation to help in a disaster
- The importance of creating a map identifying natural gas and propane tanks and shut-offs for electricity and water
- The importance of a contact list to identify neighbors with specific needs such as the elderly, disabled or latch-key children who may be home alone during certain times of day
- How to work together to evaluate a neighborhood in the first hour after a disaster and determine what steps need to be taken

Moore said she is working with the City of Marsing and plans to introduce the program to the Homedale City Council if the Marsing phase gets off the ground.

The program is free, and Moore is printing training materials in both Spanish and English.

For more information, contact Moore at (208) 896-5630.

No Owyhee post offices on USPS hit list

No post office in Owyhee County appears on the list of Idaho branches on the United States Postal Service’s potential closure list.

The USPS has placed many rural post offices on a study list for possible contraction, but post offices in Homedale, Marsing and Grand View were spared. Greenleaf in Canyon County and Castleford in Twin Falls County are the only post offices close to Owyhee County that appear on the list.

There are 23 outlets in Idaho that could be closed.

The Postal Service announced early last week that it would study the feasibility of closing more than 3,600 branches nationwide, roughly 10 percent of the service’s retail centers.

HPD looking for information about Homedale Elementary vandalism

Fourth incident of damage to district property during July

The Homedale Police Department is looking for information to help solve a recent string of vandalism that has occurred at the elementary school.

For the third time in a week, Cpl. Atanacio Montes responded to Homedale Elementary School for a report of malicious injury to property. Montes is seeking information from anyone who might have seen the suspicious activity taking place.

The most recent vandalism took place on Wednesday evening or Thursday morning after the building maintenance worker left, Montes said.

“They broke three more windows on Wednesday night,” Montes said. “It is obviously kids. It is stuff that kids would do. They used a rock to scratch squares into the glass on the windows. There isn’t anything different from all the instances. It is being done by the same suspect.”

Montes was called to the school on July 27 in the afternoon to take a report of three windows that had been broken, screens that were removed from other windows, sprinkler heads that were broken from their housings, and siding on the front of the school that was broken from rocks being thrown.

“This is happening sometime from when the maintenance guy leaves the school in the afternoon into the morning,” Montes said. “Whoever is doing this, I’m pretty sure they are responsible for all the damage.”

After checking all the windows on both days, Montes determined that no one had gained access to the school. The windows that were broken on July 26 are situated right next to a school security camera mounted on the building facing West Washington Avenue.

Last week, district personnel reported a district-owned van that had been parked on the back side of the building along West Oregon Avenue had two windows broken out, Montes said.

“Both the passenger and the driver’s side windows were broken with a rock,” Montes said. “I am working with the school to get access to the camera footage to try and find out who is doing this.”

said the school district is working on getting the security footage from the cameras to help pursue the culprits. His biggest concern was having neighbors of school keep a watchful eye on the property to help assist and watch for suspicious activity.

“We just need to have the neighbors help us help keep track of their property. That school building is their property, too,” Rosandick said. “Every dollar we spend on replacing windows is a dollar we don’t spend in the classroom. We can’t afford to have this type of stuff going on.”

As of Monday, acting Chief of Police Sgt. Mike McFetridge said the school district hadn’t found personnel who had knowledge of the security system to retrieve the footage from the elementary school.

Earlier in July, HPD responded to the art studio behind Homedale High School after a vehicle drove into the side of the building leaving a gaping hole and thousands of dollars worth of damage. Authorities are still looking for information on the hit and run accident.

Anyone with information on the vandalism or who might have seen the vehicle is encouraged to call HPD at (208) 337-4642.

✓ Budget: Commissioners pin OCSO fuel money shortfall on management to make up a budget shortfall is a rare move in Owyhee County. She said this is a first time commissioners have considered opening the budget in the 10 years that she has been clerk.

With three months left in the fiscal year, the sheriff's office is $10,050 in the red on its $75,000 fuel budget.

After the vote and after Crandall had left Monday's meeting, the commissioners discussed the policy allowing deputies to take their patrol rigs home between shifts. A few deputies live out of county, including two marine deputies — John Nagel and Rick Wiley — who live in Nampa and routinely take their trucks home from their assignments at CJ Strike Reservoir in Bruneau, according to District 3 Commissioner Joe Merrick.

Merrick said that some deputies have a 150-mile round trip for a workday. He said that between $10,000 and $11,000 of the fuel budget is spent on commuting deputies.

All three commissioners agreed that the problem was a management issue.

"We have officers that are patrolling in areas that they don't live in, and that's a waste," District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi said.

Aberasturi said the proposed $25,000 increase is about as high as he would go.

"I'd go to $25,000, but that would be political suicide," he said. "The people out there are demanding that we take care of the money."

Aberasturi said he was concerned that the action had to be considered when other county departments with large fuel budgets — such as the road districts — have been able to stay within their means.

Crandall was summoned to Monday's meeting, attending with Sgt. Slade Heeb. The sheriff pointed out that July and August fuel costs could be lower than May or June because the heat keeps recreationists away from the county.

The commissioners originally proposed a $20,000 influx of cash from the Current Expense budget reserve, but mulled a $25,000 or $30,000 appropriation during Monday's talks.

"If we're already $10,000 down, maybe $20,000 is not enough," Crandall said. "I'd rather be long."

Crandall suggested $30,000 would be adequate, stating that he could "give back" whatever amount he didn't use.

Aberasturi pointed out that the sheriff's office has averaged about $9,500 per month in fuel costs, which contradicted Crandall's assertion that OCSO has been spending between $5,000 and $7,000 monthly. Sherburn said $13,000 was spent on fuel in May.

Crandall argued that fuel prices have risen 74 cents in the past year and that his office has seen a rise in calls for service.

The sheriff also said that he was "open to suggestions" on how to conserve fuel for the remainder of the year. He said that in May deputies were instructed to perform "stationary patrol" for 20 minutes each hour during their 12-hour shifts. He said that he could move that four-hour stationary block to six hours.

"We've done everything we can to be frugal and still serve the community," Crandall said, adding that he asked for $96,000 in fuel for FY 2011, but was given $75,000.

Hoagland reminded the sheriff that his fuel budget was in the red at the midway point of the fiscal year, too.

In a facetious moment, Merrick said he has heard from citizens that the commissioners should just "shut it off", referring to the fuel budget.

Equally facetious, Crandall responded: "I could have you guys respond. Got at pistol?"

Crandall also said that a lot of the fuel budget is spent covering the vast recreational system in Owyhee County.

After Crandall left the meeting, Hoagland disagreed with the statement.

"I think there is a lot of waste out there to blame it on the recreation," he said.

Asumendi-Mereness said each grade level of course offerings are customized and a how-to sheet will be provided so parents and students can go through the process together.

"We hope this will reduce the number of class changes we have when school starts," she said.

Registration for sixth-graders and younger students will continue to be offered at the schools.

Students heading for their fifth- and sixth-grade years at Homedale Middle School will register at the school at 3437 Johnstone Road on Monday, Aug. 22, which is the first day of school in the Homedale district. The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. that day.

Williams' successor as principal at Homedale High School last month. Williams has started in a similar position at the new high school in Middleton.

Superintendent Tim Rosandick said Winters was recommended to the board after an 11-person hiring committee pored over candidates for the HMS post. The committee consisted of staffers and parents.

"We've had lots of people apply for the principal job, so there are a lot of people out there looking administrative positions right now," Rosandick said prior to Friday's special board meeting.

The interview committee included Jodie Christoffersen, Stephanie Renteria, Barb Galloway, Lesa Folwell, Homedale Elementary School principal Yvonne Ihli, Linda Miklancic, Brenda Reay, Lee Savell, Nick Schamber, school board chair Kurt Shanley and Rosandick.

Roma was born in Kimball, Nebraska on April 25, 1930 to Rommell & Marguerite (McDonald) Moss. She graduated from Fruitland HS in 1948 after the family had moved to Idaho.

She married Vic Uria in Homedale in 1951. To this union they were blessed with three children: Cindy, Ric and Dennis. Vic passed away after 26 years of marriage in 1978. They were involved with the Homedale community at that time.

She has enjoyed the last nine years with her best friend and companion Marv Hill. Roma & Marv enjoyed traveling, being at their cabin in Garden Valley, ID. She was an excellent cook and loved to bake. Some of our favorites were potato salad, cinnamon rolls and maple bars.

Roma enjoyed playing games and taught the grandkids many, but she really loved to win. She was a perfectionist to say the least, in her sewing, and quilting.

To Roma's delight Whitney acquired many of grandma's quilting skills. Roma would always like to get up early and get her work done before she could play games. Our mom would never leave the house without having her bed made, dishes done, and everything in place. We are sure of the day she went to the ER everything was in its place before she left the house.

Roma was surrounded by her family when Jesus came to take her home.

What a beautiful lady you are Mom. We will sure miss you!

She is survived by her children: Cindy & Steve Derrick, Ric & Terri Uria, Dennis & Teri Uria, Her siblings: Janeen Stradley, Regina & Jim Jamieson, Gary & Jan Moss. Eight grandchildren: Rodney, Shalise Derrick, Tina, Tristen and Michelle Uria, Cory & Kristi Uria, Ashlynn, Whitney Uria, five great-grandchildren. Marv's girls: Teila Noe, and Tonjia & Larry Stansell, and their families: Justin & Laurie and daughter, Isabelle Noe, Lindsey Noe & Derek Barroso, Eric & Wendy, and son Logan and daughter Reagan Stansell, Shelley & Jon, and daughter Makenzie, and son Zacary Napier, Stacy Stansell.

She was preceded in death by her parents, husband, Vic, a brother, Denzel Moss, a sister, Anita Hill.

In lieu of flowers Memorials may be made to Txoko Ona Basque Club, PO Box 1163, Homedale, ID, 83628 or Homedale Fire Dept., PO Box 905, Homedale, ID, 83628. Condolences may be given at www.FlahiffFuneralChapel.com

Dolores May Williams

Dolores May Williams went home to her Heavenly Father July 27, 2011.

She has always been a loving, caring daughter, wife, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother.

She was born in Fairfield, Idaho on October 7, 1922. She lived in Fairfield, Ticura, Pocatello and Boise, Idaho.

She experienced a wonderful life growing up with her parents Wren and Jane, her sister Lorna and her brothers Basil and Max. Such a fun loving family is hard to find.

The enjoyment carried on to her dates with and marriage to George Graydon Williams on November 29, 1941. Soon after, George entered the Armed Forces. She followed him to Missouri and Florida and went with him back to Boise on a furlough. She stayed in Boise where their first child, Dawn, was born in 1943. She went to California with George, but couldn't go to the Philippines with him during WWII.

When he returned, they built a home in Boise where their second daughter, Anita, was born in 1947.

She worked as a telephone operator, then at J.C. Penny's, leased a dress shop and followed with a snack bar. After over 30 years, they moved towards Emmett and finally to their home in Wilder where they have lived for over 20 years. Almost 70 years of fun, laughter and love has carried over to her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren and will never end.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Wren McGlochlin and Jane (Dimick) McGlochlin and her brothers, Basil McGlochlin and Max McGlochlin.

Dolores is survived by her husband, George Williams, her sister, Lorna (Bill) Chaney, her sister-in-laws Gladys McGlochlin, Bobbie McGlochlin, her daughters, Dawn Potter and Anita (Richard) Anderson, her grandchildren, Tony (Deanna) Dodds, Lori (Tammy) Dodds, Shawn (Audrey) Zavala, Tiana (Cainen) Johnson, DeLano (Michelle) Zavala, Cory (Brookelyn) Zavala, Jason (Carey) Potter, Rebecca (Michael) Chisholm, Lisa (Michael) Anderson, Shane (Kim) Anderson, Jared Anderson, Michelle (Troy) Stephenson, Ryan (Kim) Anderson, Derrick Anderson, Amanda Anderson, Darin (Brina) Anderson as well as 47 great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

She endured many trials and tribulations and now is at peace, with the Lord.

Dolores' funeral service will be Saturday, August 6, 2011 at 10 a.m. at the Homedale, Idaho, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Burial will be at Terrace Lawn Cemetery in Meridian, Idaho. Owyhee County Rodeo begins with free Sunday slack

Professional contest sanctioned by ICA, NPRA and Pro-West

The annual Idaho Cowboys Association stop in Homedale for the Owyhee County Rodeo gets out of the chute Sunday with a free performance of timed events.

The ICA slack featuring tie down roping, steer wrestling, breakaway roping, team roping and barrel racing starts at 9 a.m. inside the rodeo arena at the Owyhee County Fairgrounds.

An American Cowboys Team Roping Association (ACTRA) qualifier jackpot roping will begin immediately after the conclusion of the slack.

There is a $500 added prize for each of two ropings.

One division is for teams with an ACTRA No. 10½ handicap up or down and will feature an entry fee of $40 for four head.

The other contest is for teams with a No. 7½ handicap up or down. Entry fee is $25 for four head.

For more information on the jackpot roping, which is sponsored by SRC Sports, call Chris Landa at 573-2804, Mike Matteson at 337-8014, Tim Mackenzie at 337-8143, Ben Badiola at 573-0202 or Larry Corta at 273-2279.

The ICA rodeo continues next Wednesday with the first of three long-go performances as saddle bronc, bareback, ranch bronc and bull riding are added to the mix. Top performers from the preliminary rounds advance to the championship short-go on Saturday, Aug. 13. KTRV Channel 12 will televise Saturday's championship round on a tape-delay basis from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 21.

In addition to the ICA sanctioning, the Owyhee County rodeo is recognized by the Northwest Professional Rodeo Association and the Professional Western Rodeo Association (Pro-West).

Homedale-based King Cattle Co. is the stock contractor again this year.

The local rodeo includes mutton busting for ages 5-7, steer riding (ages 9-14), wild horse race on Aug. 12, wild cow milking on Aug. 13 and a and local team roping.

Tickets for the Aug. 10-13 rodeo are available from Matteson's Phillips 66 and D&B Supply in Nampa and Caldwell. Tickets also can be purchased at the gate.

General admission is $10 on Aug. 10-11 and $12 on Aug. 12-13. Children get in free Aug. 10 as part of the Family Night promotion. Admission for senior citizens is $7 each night of the rodeo, and children get in for $7 Aug. 11-13.

During the nightly rodeo performances, the gates open at 7 p.m. with pre-rodeo events starting at 7:30 p.m. The rodeo starts at 8 p.m.

The Owyhee County Rodeo Board also will hold its third annual Pink Night Ridin' to Kick Cancer on Thursday, Aug. 11. Everyone is encouraged to wear pink.

To raise money to fight cancer, 50/50 raffle drawings will be held each night Aug. 10-12. Half the proceeds will benefit cancer patients and half will go to the owner of the night's winning ticket. Tickets will be sold for $1 each or six for $5. Another fundraiser is the sale of pink bracelets for $1 each, according to new rodeo secretary Keri Garrett.

The Owyhee County Rodeo Board has made $4,500 in contributions to St. Al's in the first two years of the Ridin' to Kick Cancer promotion.

Fair and Rodeo Parade entries continue to roll in

With the days until the annual Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo Parade dwindling to a precious few, coordinator Donna Marose is looking for all the entries she can get.

Pre-registration isn't necessary, but Marose has urged anyone who plans to take part to send notification ahead of time so she can plan for the ribbons and cash prizes that will be awarded in each category.

This year's theme is "Treasures Beyond Measures" and the parade colors are yellow and red. Marose said parade entries get points for using the theme and the color.

She also points out that the parade has an activity that is fading from other parades — entrants chucking candy for the children on the parade route.

"Entries are coming in, so I think we will have another large parade," Marose said. "I know that some cities have banned the practice of throwing candy, but it is allowed here and the kids love it."

Marose encourages participation from all corners of Owyhee County and the surrounding area.

The parade is sponsored by the Owyhee County Fair Board and the Owyhee County Rodeo

Board. Both organizations provide money for prizes.

The parade takes place at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 13 in downtown Homedale. Entrants can register beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Riverside Park and at the Deward Bell Stadium football field.

Judging will take place at 9 a.m.

For more information, contact Marose at m224md@yahoo.com or (208) 337-3757.

Jordan Valley volunteers in line to get another fire truck

Interagency cooperation vital to protecting property in large district

Volunteer firefighters protecting Jordan Valley and its surroundings are receiving some much-needed equipment.

Mike Quintero, the chief for the Jordan Valley city and rural fire departments, announced recently that a neighboring fire district will donate a structure fire truck to the agency that protects parts of Malheur and Owyhee counties.

Nyssa Rural Fire Protection District Commissioner Mike McClain and Nyssa Fire Chief Lance Reese have been working together to pass on a 1986 GMC structure fire truck to the Jordan Valley crew.

“The truck is ours and all we need to do is go pick it up,” Quintero said. “Thanks to the City of Nyssa and their city fire department as well as the rural fire department for doing this.”

The GMC will be added to a fleet that includes a 1976 Ford fire engine used to fight fires inside the city limits, another structure truck and a tanker previously purchased from the Homedale department.

Quintero said the addition of the GMC may allow Jordan Valley to get rid of the 35-year-old Ford.

In addition to the GMC fire truck, the Nyssa district has offered to send surplus such as turnouts and other firefighting equipment, to Jordan Valley, Quintero said.

“We usually have to purchase any type of equipment we need,” the longtime Jordan Valley chief said.

The donation comes in a year when the Jordan Valley department has seen its major fundraiser — booking vendors for the annual Big Loop Rodeo — cancelled because of the Equine Herpesvirus 1 scare from the spring.

The firefighters usually bring in about $7,000 from the Big Loop, but Quintero said the impact won’t be quite as dire because of the generosity of longtime vendors.

“We were ready to give a lot of money back, and the guys (vendors) said just keep it,” Quintero said.

The Oregon-Idaho Utilities phone company also made a $1,250 donation to the Jordan Valley firefighters in June.

In addition to the apparatus donation from Nyssa, Jordan Valley could be in line to receive a brush fire pickup from the Oregon Department of Forestry.

“We can sure us a lighter and faster truck to be able to respond to our rural fire calls,” Quintero said.

Currently, the rural department responds to calls with a slow tanker truck.

“Hopefully soon we will have this new brush fire pickup to help serve our community and its surroundings better,” Quintero said.

Quintero said Gordon Foster out of ODF’s Prineville office, has been working on bringing the brush truck to Jordan Valley.

It won’t be the first time that the state agency has helped out the Jordan Valley district, which has a core of four or five firefighters and as many as 10 volunteers at times to cover 180 square miles that stretches into the Pleasant Valley, Juniper Mountain and South Mountain areas of Owyhee County.

The ODF already has provided 300-gallon water tanks, pumps and fire hoses to area ranchers to create a community-based effort to mitigate the spread of range fires. With the tanks and equipment, ranchers are able to protect private property as well as Bureau of Land Management allotments when fire first breaks out, saving valuable time as firefighters mobilize to respond.

MRW Fire presents plaque to founder

Benson advocated fire protection for area even before district formed

The Murphy-Reynolds-Wilson Fire District saluted one of its founders Saturday at an appreciation barbecue.

Tom Benson was presented with a plaque honoring his decades of service to the district that he helped create.

The presentation took place during a firemen’s appreciation barbecue held at Benson’s residence.

“We decided with the years of service that Tom has put in and his history of starting the department that we would give him this award,” MRW assistant fire chief Bryan Branstine said.

Benson still serves on the MRW’s board of commissioners.

The fire district was established in February 1985 election.

Before the formal district began, Benson and then-Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton gathered support from area farmers and ranchers to purchase an 860-gallon pump truck. The truck was stored in Benson’s garage in Wilson.

In November 1984, Benson and Nettleton reported in an open letter that the pump truck and help from neighbors had minimized damage caused by three structure fires that ignited in the area during the previous year. The truck also was used during the Jacobsen Mill fire in 1984.

A good crowd showed up for the spring meeting of the 71 Livestock Association. A group took a tour of Kip Gould’s Bureau of Land Management allotment then returned for lunch and the meeting in the new building. Linda Drowns Bunch, former rancher and teacher of Three Creek school for five years, attended from Tuscarora, Nev. She is a writer for the Progressive Rancher magazine. She hoped to see some of her former students show up, and three did: Cathy Clark Lounsberry from Boise, Ellen Tingstrom from Sand Hollow and Mary Williams Bess from Jarbidge.

Gus Brackett had his book “Badger Thurston and the Cattle Drive” there. It made us old timers recall hearing our dads tell about the cattle drives to Deeth, Nev. Then they would get drunk and fight with the Nevada cowboys.

Rick Vander Voet who has been our BLM manager for the past six years has transferred to Lander, Wyo. He was a pleasant guy to deal with, and he will be missed.

Rogerson celebrated its 100 years on July 9 with a square dance, food and branding barn wood with their historical brands. Rogerson had lots of sheep, cattle and wild horses shipped out of the corrals that are still there, but long unused. My brother, Marvin Colyer, tells of coming in with lots of wild horses. One time a mare was hanging part-way off the guard part of the Salmon Dam. He never forgot the screams she made. She was finally able to get back on the road and didn’t go over.

The 100th anniversary celebration was hosted by Helen Schnell Young and her daughter, Anita Robinson. Helen’s mother and father were the first caretakers of the Salmon Dam when they first opened the gates. The mail would be delivered there, and my mother used to ride over from Cedar Creek on horseback to get their mail.

Jack Dunn and his wife, Wanda, of Boise visited here lately and hunted up the old cemetery. Jack has an aunt who was buried there years ago. She died of scarlet fever.

Eileen Cambridge and Judy Brown finally got everything moved out of Eileen’s home in Jarbidge.

Tory Lee and his wife, Carmen, of Las Vegas have bought the home. It’s a log home with three bedrooms upstairs and was built by the early mining people, the Guggenheimers, about a hundred years ago.

The Owyhee Avalanche

Owyhee County’s best source of local news!

BLM presents good news, bad news for grazers

Extra funding OK'd for ORAP analysis, but NEPA may impact future trailing Saturday's 133rd annual Owyhee Cattlemen's Association summer meeting produced a mixed bag for ranchers who graze their herds on federally administered land.

Steve Ellis, Bureau of Land Management's Idaho director, announced that Washington has appropriated an additional $1.6 million to complete the Owyhee Resource Area permit renewal fieldwork.

But in the same meeting inside the Silver City Schoolhouse on Saturday, Ellis tried to quell the possible repercussions of the federal government's proposal to attach National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) requirements to BLM livestock trailing permits.

"We will be working closely with (OCA) and all of you (ranchers) on the plan," Ellis said.

Meanwhile, Congressman Mike Simpson (R-Idaho) announced on his website on July 12 that the Interior and Environment Appropriations Act of 2012 that moved out of the House subcommittee he chairs includes language exempting trailing from NEPA requirements from 2011 to 2014.

The livestock trailing discussion came late in a meeting during which Ellis outlined how the BLM state office received more money than requested to help fund identification teams and an enterprise team that will spend the next two years completing at least five environmental assessments encompassing 68 allotments in the Owyhee Resource Area. The agency has about 33 allotments left to review before a court-imposed deadline of December 2013. The deadline stems from a stipulated settlement agreement reached between the BLM and Western Watersheds Project.

"I was not optimistic (of meeting the deadline) before we received the additional funding to get that NEPA done," Ellis said. "We have to work together to get this done, and I think we can."

The $1.6 million — $200,000 more than requested — is for fiscal year 2011. Ellis said he has received assurances that additional appropriations will be available for FY 2012 and FY 2013.

Boise District manager Aden Seidlitz stressed communication between the ranchers and agency personnel to ensure that field analysis is done in a timely manner with teamwork from both sides.

"If you haven't heard from your range con, call them and remind them," he said.

Seidlitz also reminded the ranchers that the completion of the ORAP permit renewal process won't be the end of the road.

"When we get through these 30-something, we have to start over in a lot of other areas," he said, referring to more 10-year permits that will come up for renewal.

Ranges West consultant Dr. J. Wayne Burkhardt, a private range consultant who served as Saturday's keynote speaker nearly 25 years after his first visit to the OCA summer meet, echoed Seidlitz's message of communication.

Burkhardt offered a shred of hope for the ranchers in the event that the Owyhee permits process misses its December 2013 deadline and the matter is back in the hands of federal Judge B. Lynn Winmill.

"There's a lot at stake here. The BLM has an immense job in front of them," Burkhardt said. "If it's not done by (the deadline), it reverts back to the judge."

"I thought it was interesting Winmill reversed part of his decision on Jarbidge, which is a similar situation. That's an encouraging thing out of Winmill's court and somewhat surprising."

Burkhardt warned that environmental extremist groups such as WWP could shift their focus away from perceived range health impacts and try to eliminate grazing by attacking water quality concerns in streams on allotments, especially after ranchers have shown they can graze in riparian areas without adverse environmental effects.

Delwyne Trefz of the Owyhee Conservation District said that group can do water quality tests when ranchers request them.

New president takes over

Bruneau resident Matt Tindall accepted the president's gavel from outgoing OCA chief Mark Frisbie on Saturday. Past president Doug Rutan of Jordan Valley and director Ed Olson of Guffey left the board of directors.

Replacing Olson and Rutan on the board are Chad Nettleton of Murphy and Daniel Richards of Reynolds Creek. Richards is the 24-year-old son of former OCA president Tony Richards and former board member Brenda Richards.

Replacement heifer recipients named

Three youths from Owyhee County will receive animals to show at the county fair. The 2011 replacement heifer recipients include Zach Tindall, who will get an animal from Dennis and Pat Stanford at 06 Livestock, Wes Grim, whose heifer comes from Joyce Livestock, and Lorenzo Lankow, who will raise an animal donated by Brian and Chris Collett.

This is the second year for the program. A sign honoring the donor will adorn each animal's fair stall when the time comes.

The seven first-year recipients and their donors were also recognized. They will compete in next week's fair.

"The board is really hoping that this program takes off," Frisbie said.

BLM personnel changes outlined

Seidlitz announced that Glen Burkhardt is acting manager for the Owyhee Field Office with the departure to Wyoming of Buddy Green. Seidlitz said the agency is re-advertising to find a permanent manager.

Rick Vander Voet, Jarbidge manager, also has left for Wyoming.

Kate Blackstock with 3-year-old horse Jiggs, who she will be entering in this year's fair.

4-H education helps push recent Marsing grad toward career goal

Blackstock looks to cap final fair with more ribbons

From a young age Kate Blackstock grew to appreciate early-morning rides to move cattle, raking hay, and tending to the countless animals she has raised for 4-H throughout the years. This year, along with many others, it will be her last opportunity to show animals at the fair.

Blackstock hits next week's Owyhee County Fair as a 10-year veteran of the Wilson Butte 4-H Club, with hopes of topping her best year showing market animals from last year.

"Last year I cleaned up!" she said with a grin from ear-to-ear. "My friends are gunning for me this year, but they don't scare me. It will be sad when we get done knowing that this is the last fair for me to show in."

At last year's fair for livestock, she grabbed the outstanding award, the senior judging award and the sportsmanship award. For the horse show, she was the reserve champion for showmanship and the senior winner for demonstrations, record books, and all around. She was the reserve champion in market beef, champion showperson, and Owyhee Cattlemen's Association-sponsored steer. Wrapping up her awards, she pulled in the John Malmberg Memorial Champion honor in the large animal round robin.

"My friends and I always poke at each other and tease while we compete," she said. "We do this for fun. We all have a good time out there and help support each other through the competition."

The 2011 Marsing High School graduate is eager to embark on her newest venture as she leaves the week after the fair to begin classes at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls. Currently, she plans on pursuing an associate's degree in Agriculture Business from the two-year college.

"The program at CSI will help me be able to come back here and help more," she said. "This will give me a better understanding of the business side of things and what needs to be done. After I get done down there, I will probably come back and help out with the (Wilson Butte) 4-H group and possibly get another degree."

Kate said her parents, Ted and Mary Blackstock, really instilled in her the work ethic and drive to accomplish her goals.

"When I was younger, my brother Tyler and I used to have ponies," she said. "We would get up early in the morning and go out to move cows. I don't consider this work a chore. I love it. Even the times I would stay up late and my dad would come in and wake me up early, I would get up and be excited about it."

Last week, Owyhee County Farm Bureau president John Richard officially presented Blackstock with a $750 check for the Idaho Farm Bureau Scholarship that she was awarded in the spring.

"Kate put (an application) in this year and we got one this year," Richard said. "It is a rarity for us to get one. I wouldn't want to be on the selection committee, there are so many qualified students out there. Kate did excellent with everything."

Blackstock is one of only three to have received the IFB scholarship from Owyhee County since 1990. In 2004, Stacy White from Rimrock Jr.-Sr. High School received the scholarship. Before that, it was Richard's daughter, Angie, in 1990.

"There are a lot of things out there for these kids to help with school," Richard said. "We had two apply from the county. Kate has been an outstanding 4-H and FFA girl. I know this will help her to pursue her goals."

The annual scholarship receives applications from students in all 44 counties in the state, Richard said. Each county is allowed to submit up to two candidates, one pursuing an agriculture-related degree and one for non-agriculture-related education.

Owyhee Silver Spurs put final touches on 29 quilt entries for fair

4-H'ers set to enter nearly 150 projects this year

Wrapping up nearly seven months of work, the Owyhee Silver Spurs placed the batting and put the final ties in its 29-quilt entry for the fair.

Silver Spurs general leader Ginger Loucks said the club members who made quilts range from 5 to 14 years old and spent nearly 40 hours apiece carefully cutting and measuring their entries for the Owyhee County Fair, which starts next week.

"We started on the quilts in January and have been working on them every month," Loucks said. "There is a lot of pride, sweat and a few tears that went into all these quilts."

Of the nearly 64 kids in the club, 13 of the quilts were made by children 5 to 7 years olds, 8-to 11-year-olds crafted 14, and two were made by 14-year-olds.

"This is something they can cherish and always have that memory," Loucks said. "This really is a skill that they can keep for a lifetime. They will know how to run a sewing machine. It is rewarding that a kid can teach some of the parents how to run one."

Overall, the club will enter nearly 150 projects ranging from Dutch oven cooking, aerospace and rabbits in this year's fair.

"We have a little bit of everything going to this year's fair," Loucks said. "It will be great to see all the projects entered and done. We have a great group of kids that have worked hard with a lot of parent involvement."

The quilts made by the Silver Spurs along with other needlecraft entries will be displayed in the Armory Exhibit Hall. Entries will be judged on Wednesday until 2 p.m. The exhibit hall will be after 2 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 10 and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily between Aug. 11 and Aug. 13.

Wilson Butte 4-H gets ready for fair

Wilson Butte 4-H Club members attended workdays and shows in preparation for the Aug. 8-13 Owyhee County Fair.

Club members recently congratulated Megan Smith for her overall championship at Meridian Dairy Days.

Lacey Usabel also won two buckles at the Snake River Stampede in Nampa.

The club continues to gather items for the annual El-Ada Community Action Partnership food drive, which will culminate at the fair in Homedale next week.

Club members also are coming up with decorating ideas, working on record books, scrap books and generally getting ready for fair week.

Horse members will show during Monday and Tuesday, and the livestock exhibitors take the spotlight next Wednesday.

The Wilson Butte 4-H club also recently cleaned up the grounds around the University of Idaho Owyhee County Extension Office in Marsing.

Percifield tourney wraps softball weekend by crowning champs

Event brings in nearly $14K for Marsing youth sports

Even though the weather was hot, 36 teams slugged it out for trophies across three divisions during the annual Percifield Memorial Softball Tournament.

Organizers for the 28th annual fundraiser said they are expecting around $14,000 in proceeds to go toward Marsing youth sports and the summer recreation program. With the funds, officials are hoping to complete the covers on field 2 and the roof on the new high school baseball dugout and eventually build permanent shade by the fields.

Throughout the three-day Percifield event, the only team to finish in the top three from last year was Woody's Flamingos in the C division. The Flamingos improved on their third-place finish to take home the first-place trophy.

Kim Kent Galvin picked up the JR Kent Memorial Award in its first year offered for a player who contributes on and off the field supporting Marsing youth programs. Galvin is the daughter of the late JR Kent, who organizers say was a "huge supporter and will be sorely missed."

The Whitehouse Drive-Inn & Motel was selected for the Community Supporter Award. The business routinely sponsor the tournament T-shirts as well as sponsoring a team when needed. They have also helped by renting out motel rooms to the teams that play in the tournament, organizers said.

Organizers credit the efforts of all the sponsors and local businesses in their effort to improve the facilities and equipment for the youth sports of Marsing. They noted that without the support of friends and groups from the schools it would be challenging to keep the tourney running.

Homedale man’s year-old carp record falls at CJ Strike

Kunan lands whopper during bow-fishing tourney

Barely more than a year after he took a tumble into the Snake River during a record-setting carp catch, Homedale resident Jake Hyer’s bow-fishing feat has been knocked from the top of the state record books.

But Owyhee County waters have retained their role in the record.

Kuna bow-fisherman Scott Frazier emphatically jettisoned Hyer’s June 2010 record when he hauled in a 67.65-pound carp on July 23 during the Idaho Bow Fishing Association’s state tournament at CJ Strike Reservoir.

Frazier admits that he had no idea just how large the carp in his sights might be when he let fly his arrow fly.

Only after boating the enormous fish did Frazier realize he’d just landed a common carp that was nearly 20 pounds heavier than Hyer’s 48-pounder from last year. The Frazier fish measured nearly four feet in length, too.

In the midst of the state bow-fishing tournament, Frazier and teammate Brian Pokorney spotted the prize five feet below the surface.

“At that point we estimated the fish weighed around 30 pounds,” Frazier said.

That all changed when the arrow struck home and it took the efforts of both men to boat the fish.

Frazier brought the giant fish to the Nampa Fish and Game office on July 25 for certification. Fish and Game staffer Joe Kozfkay established an official weight along with a total length of 47 inches and a girth of 34.5 inches.

The memories of that day should stay with Frazier for a long time, as he plans to have the carp taxidermied.

“Absolutely,” Frazier noted when asked if he planned to hang the fish on his wall. “This is one of the most exciting things I’ve ever experienced.”

Tryouts for competitive softball league being held Saturday

Tryouts for a newly-forming competitive softball league for girls 16 years old and younger will be held on Saturday in Caldwell.

The Idaho Outlaws will be coached by Marsing-area resident Sean Hardy and will compete in the 16U division. The tryouts will take place at 10 a.m. Saturday at the G.A.L.S (Girls Athletic League Softball) Quad Complex, which is north of the Caldwell Industrial Airport off of Linden Road.

Those who are interested but can’t attend the tryouts are encouraged to call Hardy and arrange for a tryout session for another day.

“We are trying to get the premium athletes from the area who want to compete,” Hardy said. “I want to get these kids from Marsing, Homedale, Notus, Wilder, and Adrian, some of the premier athletes out there and play at a high level and get looked at by some college coaches.”

Costs haven’t been set yet; more information will be available at the tryouts. Hardy said the team will offer flexible payment plans for those who make the team.

“I want to make this available to everyone,” Hardy said. “We will work out options for payment. A lot of the cost depends on how many tournaments we go to.”

Hardy said he expects the team to start playing in tournaments this fall with a trip to Washington state and Las Vegas.

“These tournaments have a lot of college coaches out to see the athletes,” Hardy said. “We have a lot of talent here in the area, and this will be a good way to get them exposure.”

During the winter, Hardy expects to hold practices at least once a month and then start up again after the spring high school softball season.

Hardy said is also looking for team sponsors and donations to help get the team up and running.

To be eligible for the 16U league, girls must be younger than 16 years old as of Jan. 1, 2012.

For more information, call Hardy at (208) 989-0884.

MHS football set to host luau on Saturday

The Marsing High School football team will host a luau fund-raising event at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The Hawaiian-themed event will take place at the school cafeteria, located at 209 8th Ave. W., in Marsing.

Tickets cost $7 each and $30 for a family. It is suggested to dress “your island best” for the luau.

There will be pulled pork sandwiches and other food items available. There will be games, including a field goal kicking competition. Football players and cheerleaders will run games for children who attend.

There will also be a silent auction held during the luau. Up for grabs during the auction is the Blue VIP seating for home football games. The special seating will be auctioned off per each game and includes gate admission for four, spirit pack items and concession stand food for the winner.

The P.A.W. Pack booster club will also be on hand selling memberships and Huskies gear.

Tickets can be purchased the day of the event or by contacting players or coaches. For more information, call coach Jaime Wood at (208) 941-1930.

Range fire burning in Owyhee

In Owyhee County, a small fire was extinguished over the weekend out of Murphy in the Con Shea Basin area. A BLM dispatcher said that a 6,000-acre fire along the border of Owyhee County and the Nevada line near Duck Valley is currently being combated by crews from Bruneau and Hammett assisted by a tanker from Elko.

According to the BLM personnel, the Duck Valley fire was ignited at 5 p.m. last Saturday by lightning from the series of small thunderstorms that attributed to the over 30,000-acre fire continuing to burn out of control near Ola.

New ranger patrols Boise BLM district

BLM Ranger Lee Kliman has been permanently assigned to the Boise District, according to J. David Brunner, Bureau of Land Management Boise District Manager. Kliman, a full federal law enforcement officer, is assigned to the Boise District to prevent and investigate federal law violations occurring on public lands. In addition to Kliman’s law enforcement duties, he will be conducting public information programs, assisting in search and rescue activities and in resource management projects.

Kliman has graduated from two law enforcement academies, Santa Rosa Criminal Justice Academy in California and the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center in Georgia. Also, Kliman has graduated from California State Universities with degrees in Recreation Administration, Natural Resource Management and Fire Science.

Kliman has been a ranger since 1973, and has worked for the U.S. Forest Service, California State Parks Department, National Park Service and the Army Corps of Engineers prior to transferring to the Bureau of Land Management in 1981, Brunner said.

Jordan Valley news

Patricia Lynde, 17, daughter of Eddie and Ruth Lynde of Jordan Valley has won the Title of 1986 Oregon Miss T.E.E.N. The recent graduate of Jordan Valley High School was named the winner of the event on July 26, in Salem, Oregon where the pageant was held. She did a humorous skit entitled, “I Love Cherry Cheese Cake,” and also was given the award for the most volunteer hours given in service to others. She will spend much of her time traveling to other states as representative of the Oregon title. Accompanying her on her travels will be Tami Noah. For the next two weeks she will be in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey.

Patricia will be competing on the national level at the Kansas City Pageant in November.

Parallel parking; an old issue revived

A long-standing debate, which was put to an end several years ago, was again revived at last week’s Chamber of Commerce meeting in Homedale.

The subject: parallel parking.

About five years ago, the subject was bought up to the Homedale City Council, and resulted in rather heated public meetings. The issue surfaced after the city expressed the desire of a traffic light at the intersection of Main and Idaho. The State Highway Department said the light could be installed, but only if the city would go to parallel parking in the adjacent blocks.

A few local merchants objected, saying the parking would be restricted adjacent and in front of their businesses. The city council decided to do without the light and stay with angle parking.

At a recent Chamber meeting, long-time member A. E. Spud Murphy suggested the group endorse the parallel parking concept, placed the proposal in form of a motion, it was seconded, and the discussion was called for. No discussion. The vote was taken, and it passed without dissention.

The resolution will be presented to the city council at the meeting next Wednesday, August 13 with a “do pass” recommendation.

Parkins talks to Kiwanis about special session

Senator Arlie Parkins of Owyhee County spoke to Kiwanians at their regular Wednesday noon meeting on the coming special legislative session.

Mr. Parkins said the session had been called by the governor for correction of the law making permanent the 15 per cent of assessed valuation bonding limitations in school districts; to implement the constitutional amendment approved by the Idaho electorate in 1960; to provide a continuity of government in case of nuclear attack or other major disaster; implementing legislation allowing cities and villages to ask for federal funds for urban renewal planning; to discuss the appropriation of funds to the Idaho centennial and to raise the salaries of department heads set by statute.

The drain of Idaho Ave., was discussed by Mayor Orville Soper, and the need for a solution to this problem was recognized.

Cattlemen air problems at Silver City convention

Owyhee County cattlemen, gathered in Silver City for a weekend of business and recreation at their yearly convention, were told Saturday that rustling is the most serious problem facing the industry.

The statement was made by Ed Mink, Marsing, who called for the association to set up a workshop meeting to look into further action which can be taken against rustlers or other ways of meeting the problem.

The organization also passed several resolutions. One called upon Congress to enact equitable and realistic legislation that would protect the industry against excessive imports of foreign meats and livestock; took a solid stand against the Wilderness Bill and the setting up of new wilderness areas; called for the right to appeal Bureau of Land Management cases to local federal courts instead of having to go to Washington D.C., and that this same right of appeal in local federal courts be extended to grazing cases on federal lands, urged a survey of drought conditions in the county and to make available as soon as possible the benefits already provided for this emergency.

CHILDHOOD. Childhood is like the mirror, catching and reflecting images all around it. Remember that an impious or profane thought uttered by a parent’s lips may operate upon a young heart like a careless spray of water thrown upon a polished steel, staining it with rust, which no after-scouring can efface.

AN OWYHEE RELIC. Dr. Colmache brought with him from Umatilla the first American flag that ever floated in Owyhee. He got it from A. C. Paige, a well-known expessman, who, by some means, had obtained possession of and kept it. It was hoisted over Blackinger’s store in Ruby City, for the first time, on the Fourth of July, 1864. Dr. Colmache proposes presenting it to Silver City in order that it may be unfolded to the breeze on all public occasions. Long may it wave!

RICH STRIKE IN THE MAHONGANY. A three-foot ledge has recently been struck in the lower works of the Mahogany. Free gold and silver in abundance are plainly discernible throughout the entire width, and stockholders here are very jubilant thereat. Our prophesies in relation to this mine are rapidly becoming verified. Up goes Mahogany stock! All the “bears” of California Street can’t keep it down.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION. The only business transacted by the Board was as follows: Cosmos Mill assessment reduced $1,000; assessment on Fruitnicht’s house on Jordan Street reduced $60; Ed. Graham’s assessment on county scrip reduced from 50 to 40 cents on the dollar, in order to place it on a par with other assessments of like nature. On July 24th, the Board adjourned till one o’clock p.m. Monday, August 28th.

COMMISSIONERS’ PROCEEDINGS. The following is a condensed summary of the proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners since those published in our issue of July 15th; Bond of Jas. Lynam as Probate Judge, in the penal sum of $2,500 approved; bond of W. H. Angell, Justice of the Peace for Silver City Precinct, in the sum of $1,000 approved; bond of T. D. Beckett, county physician, in the sum of $1,000 approved; allowed on Hospital Fund, $200; allowed on General fund, $334.65.

INDIAN DEPREDACTIONS. A band of cattle belonging to Joseph Teal, of Portland, was run off by Indians from Camp Harney, a few days ago. The stolen stock numbered over 600 head, valued at $25,000. General Canby has ordered out troops to pursue the Indians, who are supposed to belong to the Snake tribe.

THE CAMPTHREE FORKS SALE. The auction sale of Government property at Camp Three Forks Owyhee took place last Saturday afternoon. A considerable amount of the property had been disposed of by private sale, previous to the auction, and brought remunerative prices. Quite a number of the articles were bid on by the government, it having reserved that right. Jno. Farneman bought the cattle and wood; A. C. Springer, the hay; J. H. Gardner, the iron and nails; Sam. Heidelberger, the tobacco. The sale passed off in the most satisfactory manner and upon the whole, is thought to have been very favorable to the government.

OWYHEE MINING STOCKS. In the San Francisco Stock and Exchange Board last Monday, Golden Chariot stock closed at $36; Mahogany, $10; Ida Elmore, $7.

LICENSES COLLECTED. Sheriff Stevens collected miscellaneous licenses, amounting to the snug little sum of $1,670, for the quarter ending July 7th, 1871.

LOCAL HINTS AND HAPPENINGS. Jack Bowden is threatening vengeance dire against a cow bell that keeps him awake o’ nights.

On the edge of common sense Disposable tailgates

Our regular goin’-to-the-pasture rig, a one-ton 4-wheel-drive ’97 GMC diesel with 256,439 miles was in the shop. So we brought out the ol’ standby; a 1969 Ford F-250 ¾-ton 4-speed with split rims and a manual choke. It has a B&W turnover gooseneck ball made during the Civil War, I think.

My son hooked up the old Ford to the gooseneck trailer, loaded the horses and went to check the cows. They came back, unhooked the trailer and took a load of trash to the dump with the Ford. I returned from the shop with the Jimmy and backed up to the trailer. In the rear-view, the trailer’s electric hook-up looked different? On closer exam, I could see the male plug was gone and the wires had been stripped! Oh, no. I silently prayed that he’d at least dropped the tailgate before he drove off.

It happens to us all. It’s one of those moments like accidentally drilling a hole in the gas tank, or tightening a bolt till the head breaks off, or thinking “It’ll hold one more cow!”

My Iowa friend Steve has a history of minor collisions. It’s always entertaining to ride with him. Some farmers of his caliber paint their company name or logo on the truck door: Agri-Beef or Sky View Farms. Steve’s vehicles are easily recognized by their damaged fenders and tailgates.

I remember staring at the back of his fairly new pickup and asking, “How’s the new gooseneck?” Then I looked closer. It wasn’t just buckled out like someone had tried to pull it up nor down nor in nor out, it was all of the above. It resembled a Tyrannosaurus Rex chew toy!

Turns out he had unhooked the gooseneck, forgot to drop the tailgate and drove off. Next day, tailgate down, he jumped in the cab, glanced in the rear view and backed into the meter pole! He swore someone had moved it while he was in the shop!

A year later, he told me he’d gone out to cut hedge posts and left the tailgate down. After cutting and stacking the posts in the bed of the pickup, he climbed in, put it in reverse and backed into a good-sized tree! His story to this day is that it had grown right up behind him while he was cutting!

Last month we pulled out of his circle driveway and he hit a flat-bed trailer that they used to haul their four-wheelers. I heard a screech, felt a bump and could hear something dragging in the gravel, but it was below our field of vision. However, it didn’t seem to slow the truck any.

“I think you hit something,” I said. “Should we stop and check?”

“Whatever,” he said, and drove on.

Eyes on Owyhee Wait and see ... then wait some more

It seems that Congress isn’t the only body of elected officials that can’t seem to get anything done.

The Homedale City Council has two issues hanging fire that have dragged on through several meetings.

The matters of creating a mandatory trash toter policy for city customers and moving past a preliminary agreement with the city’s prosecutor seemingly have added a Groundhog’s Day dimension — or is it dementia? — to the bi-monthly meetings at City Hall.

The only thing missing is Bill Murray.

Neither issue seems all that complicated, yet Mayor Harold Wilson and the four council members — president Dave Downum, Tim Downing, Eino Hendrickson and Aaron Tines — have had to re-visit each one time and again.

Anyone watching would find it an embarrassment to the city.

Fortunately, perhaps, for the elected officials, not many Homedale citizens seem all that concerned about whether Westowns Disposal Inc. can place toters at every customers’ residence for a monthly charge or who prosecutes the city’s misdemeanors.

But who could blame the public for yawning?

Both processes have featured fits and starts from the council — and missteps that skirt procedure and possibly state law.

In a split vote decided by a Wilson tiebreaker, the council on July 13 agreed to let Westowns institute mandatory toters at a perpetual cost of $2.50 per month per customer. But after Westowns owner Bill Pastoor — not city attorney Loren Anderson — questioned whether a public hearing was necessary, the council agreed (without a vote) that the step was needed. Anderson confirmed Pastoor’s suspicion after a question from the council.

And so a public hearing was set for Thursday — without rescission of the original vote allowing the mandatory toters.

But because the decision was never stricken, Thursday’s

From Washington Comprehensive federal fiscal policy shift needed

An American child today inherits a larger public debt burden than at any time in American history. Our almost $15 trillion national debt puts a debt burden of nearly $50,000 per U.S. citizen. In the past 10 years, federal spending per household has risen by roughly $10,000 to more than $31,000.

If this trend is not corrected, federal spending will balloon to nearly $36,000 per household by 2021. We can correct this by comprehensively shifting our fiscal policy through aggressive federal spending cuts to reduce our deficit and debt and grow our economy.

Irresponsible federal spending compounded the problem. Federal spending, which averaged 20.4 percent of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) over the past 50 years, has grown to 24.5 percent.

Since 2007, when we were on track to balance the budget, Congress and the president have accelerated spending and borrowing to unsustainable levels. If left unchanged, federal spending will continue to rise to increasingly dangerous levels, and federal spending is projected to increase faster than revenues.

The government already borrows 42 cents for every dollar it spends this year. This unsustainable spending ballooned our national debt to almost 69 percent of GDP, up from 40.3 percent in 2008. If we continue on our current path, Congressional Budget Office projections show public debt growing to 100 percent of GDP in 2021. However, budget conventions mask part of the government’s liabilities. Gross debt, which includes the government’s borrowing from those to whom it owes future commitments, is much higher. In 2011, our nation’s gross debt is estimated to be 99.8 percent of GDP. This means that we have obligations equal to the entire economic output of our country, and foreign creditors currently own more than half of our public debt.

Debt this extreme drags our economy further down, increasing interest rates, slowing economic growth, hindering job expansion and discouraging private investments. Higher debt levels will require higher interest payments on that debt, which eventually require either higher taxes or a reduction in government benefits and services. By 2025, current revenue estimates will only cover interest payments, Medicare, Medicaid and Social Security. Every other federal government activity — from national defense and homeland security to transportation and energy development — will be paid for with borrowed money. Tax increases and higher interest costs worsen the problem, weighing down small businesses and entrepreneurs that drive economic growth. Fixing this requires creating a business environment that enables American job creators to compete successfully.

Our fiscal challenges are serious and real. Action cannot be postponed, and the costs of doing it later only increase. That is why I worked with a group of senators to construct a comprehensive fiscal reform plan to tackle the deficit, reduce federal spending and provide the economic growth needed to get our nation back on track. The plan would fundamentally overhaul our tax code with a pro-growth formula that dramatically cuts taxes. Not only would it make significant cuts to all individual tax rates, but it would also lower the corporate tax rate from 35 percent to as low as 23 percent, ending the U.S. reign as having the world’s second-highest business tax and consequently making American business more competitive on the world market. It would dramatically reduce discretionary spending and enact entitlement reform to control the explosive growth of spending and strengthen the solvency of Social Security. Finally, it would institute strict enforcement tools to tighten the government’s budget processes. Though this combination of provisions, spending would be reduced by nearly $4 trillion over 10 years and the substantially reformed tax code would promote economic growth and job creation here at home.

Financial management Watch out for points, fees when refinancing a mortgage

Dear Dave,

We're thinking about refinancing our home, and will be talking to a loan officer next week. What kinds of things do I need to know so we can protect ourselves in the deal?

— John

Dear John,

It's not really a big deal. You'll get a Truth in Lending Sheet and an Estimated Settlement Sheet. You might want a little more detail, so ask them to give you a sample settlement sheet based on the size of your loan.

Watch out for points and origination fees. These are nothing but pre-paid interest. You might get a little lower interest rate if you pay them, but the break-even point is between seven and 12 years to get your money back. Since the average mortgage is refinanced every 5.6 years, paying points and origination fees is not a good deal.

And don't worry if the loan officer tells you this isn't normal. They can make just as much money from the sale. They'll just have to work a little harder to do it!

— Dave

Dear Dave,

My wife and I are about to have our first child. She'd like to stay home with the baby after it's born, so we'll be losing about half our income. We've looked at our budget, and we can stay in the house but things would be very tight. I'll make $42,000 this year, with a potential bonus of $23,000 at the end of the year. Our house payment is $1,550 a month. Do you think we should downsize to a smaller home and live more comfortably?

— Mike

Dear Mike,

I hate it when people have to leave their homes. It can be a hurtful thing to the heart and spirit.

If you had $65,000 as a steady income, the house payment wouldn't be a big deal. But you can't count on a potential bonus, and from your guaranteed income, more than half your take-home pay will be wrapped up in a house payment. You'd probably have to take a part-time job, or save any bonus you get to subsidize your income just to have a realistic chance of making ends meet.

I'm all for Mom staying home with the kids — especially a little baby — whenever possible. But when it comes right down to it, Mike, you and your wife have to decide if it's worth the part-time work and budget hassles to stay where you are.

Moving is no fun, especially when it's something you're forced to do. But you don't want to be a slave to your house payment either!

— Dave

Dear Dave,

Is it a good idea not only to diversify among various mutual funds, but also among different companies that sell mutual funds?

— Brian

Dear Brian,

There's no need to do that. Find one good broker you're comfortable with, and who has the heart of a teacher. You want to know what's going on with your money, and finding someone who can explain it well and help you understand the details is a must!

Just make sure your broker is not directly connected to the mutual fund. You don't want someone with a vested interest. What you're looking for here is someone who can objectively connect you to a good mutual fund with a solid five- to 10-year track record.

Americans for Limited Government Last-minute debt ceiling deal doesn't deal with debt

by Bill Wilson

A late deal struck by House and Senate leaders to raise the debt ceiling — with spending cuts that won't balance the budget anytime soon, if ever — is a sad commentary on the state of affairs in Washington. There is no solution to the problem in sight.

It leaves the American people — who in 2010 voted to rein in government at all levels, most importantly, from spending far more than it takes in — short changed. While families struggle with their monthly balance sheets, the federal government has been on an unprecedented spend-a-thon that would wipe out anyone else who tried it.

Since President Barack Obama had his first budget passed (accounting for two years of spending), he has accumulated $2.4 trillion in new debt. That's more than $1 trillion a year in new debt, a number that will continue unabated through 2021 when the debt reaches $26 trillion.

That is, if the government's rosy economic projections turn out as everyone hopes, with a robust economic recovery and millions of new jobs created. If the projections are wrong, and the economy does not double in size in the next 10 years, revenues will fall far short of expectations.

Aside from the lack of spending cuts — an essential feature of any plan a family would follow to reinstate fiscal prudence — the other essential ingredient missing from the deal is a recipe to get the economy growing again. It will do nothing to reduce the exorbitant cost of doing business in America, with corporate taxes among the highest in the developed world. Where the federal regulatory overkill threatens to shut down millions of more jobs. And where the new costly healthcare entitlement, ObamaCare, threatens to topple the federal treasury once and for all.

With 0.4 percent revised growth in the first quarter, and an anemic 1.3 percent increase in the second, the economy is already falling well short of expectations. Obama promised that unemployment would not get higher than 8 percent, but it went much, much higher. In fact, this is the longest period of sustained high joblessness since the Great Depression.

House and Senate members who wish to turn the Ship of State around can still take a stand in opposition to a deal that will neither get the economy moving again nor avert a Triple-A downgrade by credit rating agencies, including S&P, which was looking for a plan at least $4 trillion in size.

By issuing their warnings, some criticized the rating agencies for previous failures. But, rating debt is not science. It is prospective. Markets were pounding European debt auctions long before raters issued further downgrades on troubled sovereigns. Greece was just downgraded again as the situation continues to deteriorate.

But these private companies do serve an important function to their customers, who understand that risk assessment is not 100 percent and can never be. What they can get is an assurance that certain bonds are more likely to pay out than others through objective, independent means.

Which is the sort of scrutiny Washington wants to avoid.

Any frank accounting of the federal books would find that we are not meeting our obligations honestly now. In the past two fiscal years, the government only made ends meet with a printing press, selling three-quarters of Treasuries to the Federal Reserve, according analysis done by one of the biggest bond-buyers, Pimco.

If we are indeed downgraded, it will be on the heads of every politician in Washington who accepted this deal, or who signed it into law without putting in the structural reforms necessary to affirm our creditworthiness through the future.

Republicans in effect have ceded their only leverage for the next two years to have restored order to the nation's fiscal house. They are to be credited with extracting the spending cuts they did, which may save a little less than $1 trillion over the next 10 years. But those savings will most likely be made irrelevant by weak economic growth and less-than-expected revenues.

In the end, what will matter for the American people is whether they get their finances back in order, or if they deteriorate beyond reckoning. A brave few will stand up and say, "No deal," to their leaders in Washington, but they will not be enough to stop the debt from growing unabated.

The danger is that the debt is already too large, and will be a permanent weight that slows the economy down and restricts desperately needed job growth. We needed a solution, but instead just got another cockamamie deal that won't stop the spending.

✓ Wait: Homedale council stuck in procedural quagmire on some topics public hearing was for naught. In fact, there was speculation that citizens weren't compelled to show up because the original vote was never rescinded (read: the council had already made up its mind, so what's the point?).

So last week, the vote was rescinded and another public hearing set for next Wednesday ... until it was discovered Friday that there's not enough time to satisfy the legal requirement for 14 days' notice for a public hearing.

For the record, this will be the third public hearing on the matter. The council unanimously rejected mandatory toters early last year after the first hearing revealed a strong opposition.

Missteps such as the ones taken by the council in this situation hamper the democratic process. People very well may have been confused by the scheduling of a hearing when the council seemingly had already made up its mind.

Making up their minds isn't something the council members can be accused of when it comes to the city prosecutor saga.

Nor is it something they seem able to do.

It's hardly fair to lay sole blame upon the council for the glacial speed at which the contract situation has moved, however.

The man whom the council has paid $1,200 per month since December and, at least from a preliminary proposal, is scheduled to make a $1,500-per-month base salary if and when a non-probationary deal is OK'd — Russell G. Metcalf — hasn't bothered to show up for any meeting at which the contract has been discussed.

Conversely, Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney

Douglas D. Emery, who submitted a private offer to take on Homedale's prosecutions, has patiently sat through each of the past two council meetings waiting for a decision.

While this is no endorsement of Emery or his proposal, which included a proviso whereby the city would pay his car insurance and maintenance, it does seem an applicant should earn some points for displaying a little interest by showing up.

Alas, no decision was made after yet another executive session Thursday. But there may be some movement ahead ... Wilson said the council authorized him to talk to Metcalf.

Never mind that Wilson's characterization of the directive implied a vote may have been taken in executive session — a clear no-no.

The real curiosity is whether Metcalf will show up.

The DEIS analyzes the consequences of granting a right-of-way (ROW) to Idaho Power and Rocky Mountain Power for locating a 1,103-mile-long electric transmission line from the proposed Windstar Substation near the Dave Johnston Power Plant at Glenrock, Wyoming, to the proposed Hemingway Substation near Melba, Idaho. The project is composed of 10 transmission line segments of 230 and 500 kilovolts (kV); each segment would carry up to 3,000 megawatts (MW).

The requested ROW width would generally be 300 feet but could range from 125 to 350 feet, depending on the design variation and structure type. The proposed route generally follows existing transmission lines and West-wide Energy (WWE) corridors designated pursuant to Section 368 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005. Approximately 610 miles (55 percent) of the proposed route is located within or adjacent to designated corridors or existing transmission lines.

Approximately 500 miles (46 percent) of the total proposed length traverses federally administered land in Idaho and Wyoming. In Idaho, approximately 280 miles of transmission lines cross public land administered by seven BLM Field Offices: Bruneau, Burley, Four Rivers, Jarbidge, Owyhee, Pocatello, and Shoshone. In Wyoming, approximately 220 miles of transmission lines cross public land administered by four BLM Field Offices: Casper, Kemmerer, Rawlins, and Rock Springs. The proposed route crosses approximately 16 miles in two units of the National Forest System: 7 miles in the Douglas Ranger District of the Medicine Bow-Routt National Forest in Wyoming and 9 miles in the Montpelier Ranger District of the Caribou-Targhee National Forest in Idaho. In addition, the proposed route crosses approximately 5 miles of land administered by the Bureau of Reclamation. Alternative routes are proposed that would cross the Sawtooth National Forest in Idaho, the Fort Hall Indian Reservation, and the acquisition area of the Cokeville Meadows National Wildlife Refuge. One alternative route in Segment #7 extends 9.5 miles into Nevada with approximately 7 miles on public land administered by the Wells Field Office.

This project includes prospective amendments of Land and Resource Management Plans (Forest Plans) and BLM land use plans (Management Framework Plans and Resource Management Plans). By this notice, and the Notice of Intent to prepare an EIS filed in May 2008 (see below), BLM is complying with requirements in 43 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 1610.2(c) and the USFS is complying with 36 CFR 219.8 to notify the public of potential amendments to land use plans. The BLM and USFS are integrating the land use planning process with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) analysis process for this project.

Your input is important and will be considered in the environmental analysis process. All comment submissions must include the commenter's name and street address. Comments including the names and addresses of the respondent will be available for public inspection at the locations listed below during their business hours (7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.), Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays. While you may ask us in your comment to withhold from public review your personal identifying information, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so.

DATES: The DEIS is now available for public review. The BLM and USFS request that comments be structured so that they are meaningful and alert the agencies to a reviewer's position and contentions. In order to be considered in the Final EIS, written comments on the DEIS must be received within 90 days after EPA's publication in the Federal Register of a Notice of Availability of this Draft EIS. The BLM and USFS will consider timely filed comments and respond to them in the Final EIS.

All public meetings or other involvement activities for the Gateway West Transmission Line Project will be announced to the public by the BLM at least 15 days in advance through public notices, media news releases, Web site announcements, or mailings.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the DEIS have been sent to affected Federal, State, and local Governments, public libraries in the project area, and to interested parties that previously requested a copy. The DEIS and supporting documents will be available electronically on the following Web site: www.wy.blm.gov/nepa/cfodocs/gateway_west.

Copies of the DEIS are available for public inspection during normal business hours at public libraries, BLM and USFS offices throughout the project area. A full list of these locations and addresses can be found on the following Web site: www.wy.blm.gov/nepa/cfodocs/gateway_west.

A limited number of copies of the document will be available as supplies last. To request a CD copy, please visit www.wy.blm.gov/nepa/cfodocs/gateway_west/, contact Walt George, Project Manager, Wyoming State Office, P.O. Box 20879, Cheyenne, Wyoming 82003 or call 1-800-380-5828.

Written comments may be submitted by the following methods:

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In May 2007, Idaho Power and Rocky Mountain Power (the Proponents) submitted a ROW application to the BLM requesting authorization to construct, operate, maintain, and decommission electric transmission lines on public lands. The application was revised in October 2007, August 2008, May 2009, and January 2010 to reflect changes to the proposed action. The Proponents' objective for the project is to improve the reliability and efficiency of both utility systems and address congestion problems with the western electrical grid. The project is needed to meet projected load growth in the Proponents' Service Areas. The project would also tap the developing renewable energy market, especially wind energy, in Idaho and Wyoming and will aid in delivering that energy throughout the region. The BLM and USFS purpose and need for the EIS is so that the agencies may respond to the Proponents' application.

On May 16, 2008, the BLM published in the Federal Register (FR Vol. 73, No. 96, pages 28425 – 28426) its Notice of Intent to prepare an EIS pursuant to NEPA and as required by Federal regulations promulgated for the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (FLPMA) found at 43 CFR Part 2800. The BLM is the lead Federal agency for the NEPA analysis process and preparation of the EIS. Cooperating agencies include: the USFS, National Park Service, US Fish and Wildlife Service, Bureau of Indian Affairs, and US Army Corps of Engineers; the States of Idaho and Wyoming; the Idaho Army National Guard; Cassia, Power, and Twin Falls Counties, Idaho; Elko County, Nevada; Lincoln, Sweetwater, and Carbon Counties, Wyoming; the Medicine Bow and Saratoga-Encampment-Rawlins Conservation Districts in Wyoming; and the City of Kuna, Idaho.

To allow the public an opportunity to review the proposal and project information, the BLM held public meetings in June 2008 in: Twin Falls, Murphy, Pocatello, Boise, and Montpelier, Idaho; and Casper, Rawlins, Rock Springs, and Kemmerer, Wyoming. Issues and potential impacts to specific resources were identified during scoping and the course of the NEPA process.

The following project issues were identified in the scoping process:

- Siting on private lands versus public lands,
- Land use conflicts and consistency with land use plans,
- Electric grid reliability and separation distances of transmission lines,
- Effects on wildlife habitat, plants, and animals including threatened, endangered, and sensitive species (especially sage grouse),
- Effects to visual resources and existing view sheds,
- Effects to National Historic Trails and their view sheds,
- Effects to Native American traditional cultural properties and respected places,
- Effects to paleontological resources in southwest

- Wyoming,
- Avoiding sensitive areas such as National Monuments and Wildlife Refuges, military operating areas, National Conservation Areas, Areas of Critical Environmental Concern, and State Parks,
- Effects to soils and water from surface disturbing activities,
- Effect of the project on local and regional socioeconomic conditions, and
- Management of invasive plant species and ensuring effective reclamation.

In response to scoping comments, Idaho Power and Rocky Mountain Power made route changes in Segments 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 8, and 9 of their original proposal. The proposed action analyzed in the DEIS reflects these revisions to the route. In addition to the proposed action, the DEIS considers the No Action alternative, a structure variation, a phased construction alternative, and 41 route segment alternatives in detail. Other system alternatives and route variations were considered but eliminated from detailed study.

Department of the Interior regulations (43 CFR 46.425) give agencies flexibility when identifying preferred alternatives in the DEIS, stating that: "... the draft environmental impact statement should identify the bureau's preferred alternatives or alternatives [and] the final environmental impact statement must identify the bureau's preferred alternative." Because substantial differences exist, in some project segments, among cooperating agencies on the preferred route alternative, and the full range of public input on route alternatives will not be available to the BLM until after the DEIS public comment period, the BLM is deferring identification of its preferred route alternative until the Final EIS.
