Sheriff takes deputies off road

Calls handled from home, by phone; position to be eliminated

Owyhee County Sheriff's deputies have been directed to handle non-emergency dispatch calls by phone either from home or a substation.

Hours after meeting with the Board of County Commissioners about his overdrawn fuel budget on Aug. 1, Sheriff Daryl Crandall issued a new coverage policy that apparently keeps deputies off the road unless for calls that are determined an emergency by dispatchers. The change was made because of budget constraints now and in future years, according to an intra-departmental email.

BOCC chair Jerry Hoagland (R-Wilson) said Crandall made the unilateral decision.

"This working from home deal didn't come from the commissioners," Hoagland said. "That's kind of troubling to me, but it's his department."

The email also informs OCSO

Rash of collisions prompts Homedale
try for 35 mph

City and emergency services officials want to do something about a Homedale intersection plagued by seven vehicle collisions in four years.

A delegation representing the city government, Homedale Fire and Ambulance and affected business owners recently met with an Idaho Transportation Department official to discuss reducing the U.S. Highway 95 speed limit from Industrial Road south to the city limits to 35 mph.

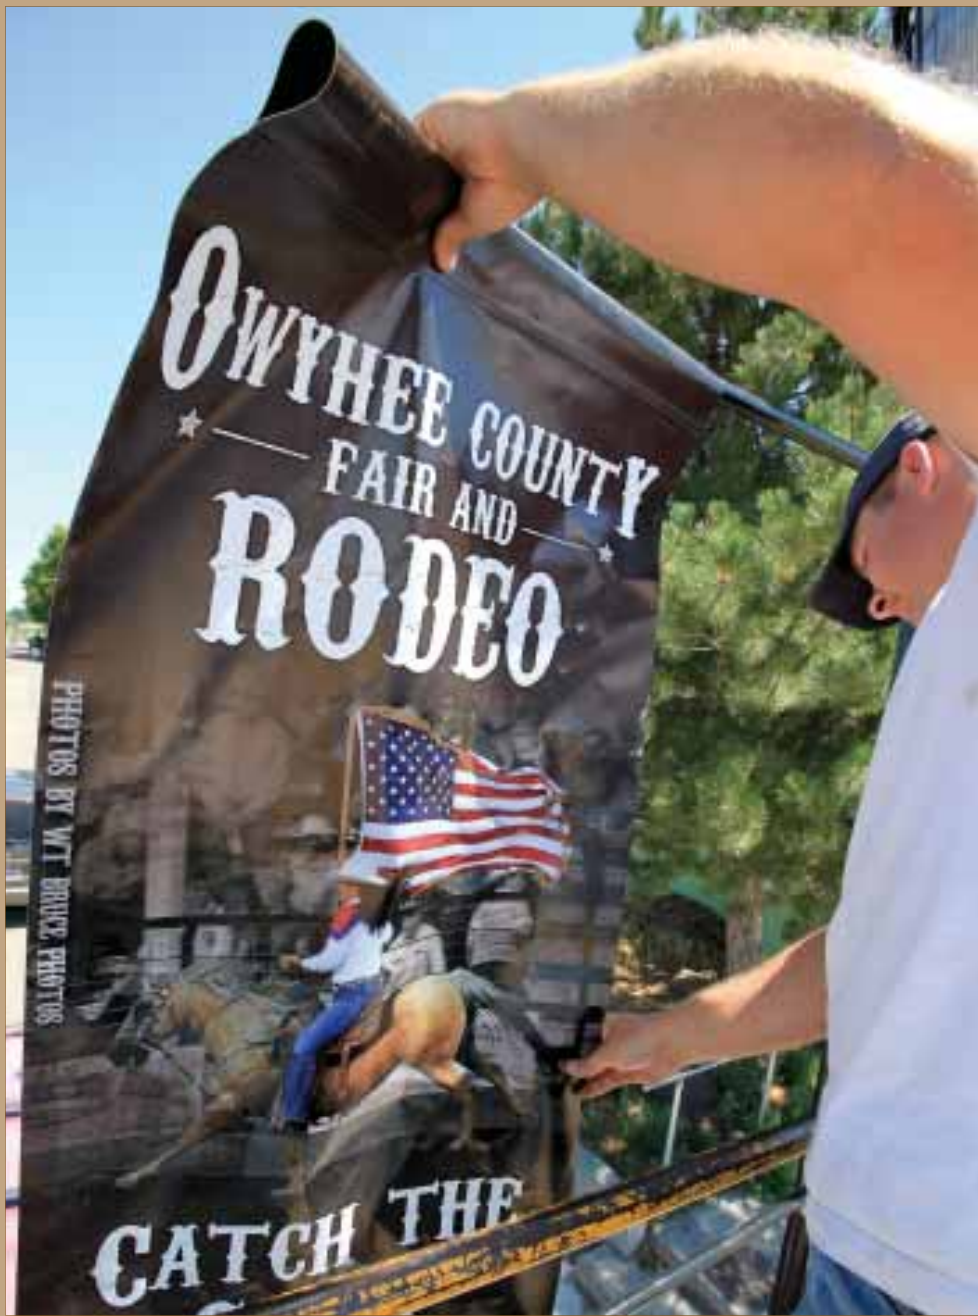

Currently part of the road is 55 mph and a stretch near Industrial Road intersection is 45 mph.

Mayor Harold Wilson said he'd like to see the change in place by September as the new school year gets off the ground.

"ITD is behind us on it," Wilson said.

The concern stems from a rash

Owyhee queen candidate profiles

Horsemanship judging held tonight at rodeo opening

The search for the next Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo Queen begins with the annual style show Monday at the Tumbleweed Theatre.

Five contestants will take part in the event, which begins at 7 p.m. at the fairgrounds, 420 W. Nevada Ave., in Homedale. During the style show, the contestants will present their platform in a speech, model their outfit and answer three questions from the judges.

The contestants this year include:

- Keri Clancy, 22, of Caldwell
- Annie Kunerth, 21, of Nampa
- Callie Ann Lehto, 20, of Nampa
- Chyenne Ponder, 18, of Emmett
- Bailey Cheyenne Wolford, 17, of Homedale

Cassie Nielsen, a 21-year-old from Emmett, is the reigning queen. The daughter of Donald and Deloris Nielsen was victorious over a 2010 field that included Lehto and Wolford.

An Emmett High School graduate, Nielsen has attended the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls and plans to major in Communications at Treasure Valley Community College and pursue a career in law enforcement.

“To me, being a rodeo queen is not about sitting on a horse and looking pretty,” Nielsen said. “It is about representing your hometown rodeo and the sport of rodeo while being a role model for younger generations.”

The 2011-12 queen contestants will ride in the grand entry each night of the Owyhee County Rodeo, which begins next Wednesday. The horsemanship pattern competition will be held during the first night of the rodeo, and the new queen will be crowned during the Friday, Aug. 12 performance.

The contestants will go through the interview portion of the competition Thursday night. During the 15-minute interview, judges ask questions regarding rodeo, horse care, western tack, Owyhee County history and current events, according to coordinator Debbie Shearn. The interviews aren’t open to the public.

Overall, the contestants will be judged on personality, appearance, knowledge and horsemanship.

Acting Homedale Police Chief Sgt. Mike McFetridge talks with Roberto Calderon after he was found sleeping on the sidewalk on Idaho Avenue last week. Authorities discovered that Calderon was “highly intoxicated”.

HPD: Highly intoxicated man found sleeping on the sidewalk

A 47-year-old Arizona man was found sleeping in front of a Homedale business on Wednesday. After an officer arrived, it was discovered he was “highly intoxicated”.

Acting Homedale Police Chief Sgt. Mike McFetridge said Roberto Calderon was found sleeping in front of Matteson’s along Idaho Avenue.

“He was highly intoxicated,” McFetridge said. “He was too impaired to walk on his own, and I could barely get any information out of him.”

Calderon was staying with his brother in Ontario, Ore., and left around a week ago, McFetridge said. After finding his identification and a handful of different phone numbers on pieces of paper, authorities were finally able to track down his brother to come pick Calderon up.

McFetridge said he couldn’t get a straight answer out of Calderon as to how he ended up on the sidewalk or in Homedale.

Homedale Ambulance responded and placed Calderon in the back of the ambulance and waited nearly two hours for the brother to arrive.

McFetridge said no citation was issued to Calderon because the City of Homedale doesn’t have an ordinance for public intoxication.

Man convicted for felony charges involving minors

Sentencing for Green set for October

A 46-year-old Owyhee County man pled guilty to three felony charges involving minors for incidents dating to 2000.

Lee E. Green Jr.

Lee E. Green Jr. of Marsing, entered guilty pleas to two felony charges of lewd conduct with a minor under 16 and one count of injury to a child under the age of 18 on Thursday in Murphy.

Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Douglas D. Emery said Green will be sentenced on Oct. 18 at 10 a.m. before Third District Court Judge Gregory M. Culet.

Originally, Green was charged with six offenses. Four of the charges were for felony lewd conduct with a minor under the age of sixteen with one minor and two felony charges of sexual battery of a child 16 or seventeen, another minor.

In July, a no contact order was filed prohibiting Green from having contact with the victims and victim's immediate family members. Green was ordered to not come within 500 feet of any residence where the victims of family members live. The no contact order was set until March 2025.

According to the charge documents, the lewd conduct charges took place between 2000 and 2009. The amended injury to a child incident took place in July 2010.

Green could face life in prison for the charges.

Man sentenced in Pascoe Road death released on probation

The man who pled guilty to a lesser charge after an altercation resulted in a death outside the Marsing city limits last year is out of jail.

Silvestre Gonzalez

Initially, Silvestre Gonzalez was charged with second-degree murder after the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office responded to a report of a fight at his residence on Pascoe Road last August.

Gonzalez, 23, knocked Bradley Schlotka to the ground with punches and kicked him in the head several times, according to court records. When a deputy arrived, Schlotka was found on the ground breathing but non-responsive with a weak pulse. He later died.

After a plea deal, the charge was reduced to involuntary manslaughter. He was sentenced on Dec. 22. On June 28, after a 180-day review hearing, Gonzalez was released on probation with retained jurisdiction.

"He was sentenced initially in December and served from December 2010 through June 2011," Owyhee County Prosecuting Attorney Douglas D. Emery said. "He will have five years of supervised probation. The supervisor will have discretionary jail time available."

Emery said part of the condition of Gonzalez's release is he has to maintain employment, live in a law-abiding fashion, undergo drug testing and he can't associate with anyone on probation or that has been convicted of a felony.

"He has roughly five years and six months left on his sentence with requirements to meet all the obligations of his probation," Emery said.

No raises planned in Homedale budget

Marsing budget hearing today

Homedale’s proposed fiscal year 2012 budget foregoes most employee raises and reduces the amount of county property tax needed to run the government, according to city documents.

The public hearing on the proposed $2.8 million budget is set for 6 tonight at City Hall, 31 W. Wyoming Ave.

According to information provided by clerk and treasurer Alice Pegram, the city will levy for approximately $315,200 in county property tax, down from $363,722 for the current budget year.

The overall levy rate could remain the same; the difference in revenue stems from a 12.8 percent drop in market value from slightly less than $47.3 million prior to FY 2011 to $41.2 million this year.

A three percent cost-of-living wage hike was scrapped because some council members were concerned with such a move as citizens continue to struggle financially.

The City of Marsing will hold a public hearing on its fiscal year 2012 budget during the city council’s regular meeting, which starts at 7 tonight.

City Hall is located at 425 S. Main St.

The FY 2012 budget will see a $153,547 decrease in expenditures from the FY 2011 budget. Last year, the budget decreased $654,013 from FY2010. The proposed expenditures for 2012 are $1,757,351.

The proposed property tax levy will include a $6,893 increase, with all categories seeing changes from last year.

✓ U.S. 95: Wilson wants public hearing on issue after ITD speed study of accidents at the intersection of U.S. 95 and Industrial Road. There have been three major wrecks there in the past nine months, including one that seriously injured a Buhl woman.

Wilson said that in the past 10 years there has been one fatality at the intersection.

“I think it’s a much-needed change,” acting Homedale Police Chief Sgt. Mike McFetridge said.

Wilson said Friday that a group comprised of Homedale Ambulance and Fire commissioners and representatives from business and city government recently met with Dave Jones of the Idaho Transportation Department to discuss the steps to lower the speed limit on that stretch of highway. The 35 mph zone would be extended to the southern city limit where Main Street intersects with the highway.

The U.S. 95 speed limit coming over the Snake River bridge already is 35 mph.

An ITD worker was scheduled to conduct a speed study last week in the 45 mph zone.

Wilson said he would approach the city council about setting a public hearing on the speed limit reduction when he receives the ITD study results.

McFetridge said that it’s fortunate more people haven’t been seriously injured at the intersection that is the heart of a burgeoning commercial zone.

“I’ve responded to several accidents myself where some people were lucky not to have serious injuries,” he said.

Wilson said traffic has increased at the intersection with the advent of the Moxie Java Bistro, Kate’s Place hair salon, Pruett Lumber and the Badiola Arena.

Boise Cascade’s wood products plant recently expanded to two shifts, too. Employees use Industrial to get to work, and truck shipments are taken down that road because of a sharp turn on Pioneer Road near the factory makes semi-truck travel dicey.

✓ Deputies: Personnel learn of job loss, patrol freeze through office email personnel that one position will be eliminated because of the loss of the Marsing law enforcement contract for fiscal year 2012. The county continues negotiations to renew the CJ Strike Reservoir coverage contract with Idaho Power, Hoagland said. Currently, patrol is provided under provisions of the FY 2010 contract, which has been extended twice.

The sheriff’s office fuel budget was more than $10,000 in the red last week when county commissioners set a hearing to get public comment on whether to add $25,000 to get through the remaining three months of FY 2011.

Under the new coverage policy, deputies who live outside of Owyhee County will field calls from substations in Grand View and Marsing. Personnel living in the county will respond to calls from their homes, according to the email, which was sent by Sgt. Slade Heeb, who attended the BOCC meeting with Crandall.

“Patrols should be cut back some, but I still think you need a presence out in the county,” Hoagland said. “Responding to emergency situations from home is a little odd.”

Dispatchers will determine what constitutes an emergency, with deputies instructed to re-evaluate the decisions. Non-emergency calls will be handled over the phone.

“I don’t know if it’s to that extreme that he needs to go yet, but maybe it is a positive move to show that he’s going to do something (to conserve),” Hoagland said.

The email also instructs CJ Strike Reservoir deputies John Nagel and Rick Wiley to no longer take their county vehicles home. Both men live in Nampa.

Deputies working in the Marsing area also have been asked to “shop around” for the lowest fuel price, addressing the commissioners concerns that the best deal wasn’t being utilized consistently.

The email also said time off the road would be well spent catching up on reports.

District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi (R-Homedale) expressed hope that the moves would help the sheriff’s office make its FY 2011 budget, which the commissioners could expand by 33 percent over the original total of $75,000 after an Aug. 22 public hearing. The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. inside Courtroom 1 at the Owyhee County Courthouse in Murphy.

Public urged to speak up on fuel

Board of County Commissioners chair Jerry Hoagland (R-Wilson) wants to hear from the public on the Owyhee County Sheriff’s Office fuel budget.

The commissioners have set a public hearing on the idea of infusing the overdrawn budget with up to $25,000 in appropriations from the county’s cash reserve.

The hearing is set for 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 22 inside Courtroom 1 at the county courthouse, 20381 State Hwy. 78, in Murphy.

“Do they want to see the presence of the law enforcement out there? Do they want to see the fuel expended for the presence like that, or do they think there are ways within the department to conserve fuel?” are some of the questions Hoagland would like the public to answer in giving the commissioners guidance on the decision to expand the fiscal year 2011 budget 33 percent to a total of $100,000.

Hoagland reminds the public that comment needn’t be submitted only in person during the hearing.

Written comments will be accepted through County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn’s email (csherburn@co.owyhee.id.us) or at P.O. Box 120, Murphy, 83650. Put correspondence to the attention of the county commissioners.

Hoagland also said constituents can call commissioners directly: Hoagland at (208) 318-8308, District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi at (208) 249-4405 or District 3 Commissioner Joe Merrick at (208) 834-2641.

Comments must be received prior to the meeting date.

“We just want to get a feel of what the public thinks,” Hoagland said. “Maybe they think it’s all right. Maybe they think we’ve cut too much out of the budget in years past.

“We just need some input from the public.”

✓ Fair: Rodeo banners add new twist to downtown fair week decorations

8 each morning.

From 7 a.m. to 10 a.m., the Homedale Senior Center serves its fundraising Buckaroo Breakfast. Food will be served in the parking lot or inside the building at 224 W. Idaho Ave. Prices are $6 for adults, $3 for ages 5-12 and $1 for children 4 and younger.

Today, the fair gets started with the Ranch Horse Show in the rodeo arena and Open Class check-in at the Armory Exhibit Hall. Animal shows kick off the days on Thursday and Friday at the Livestock Barn.

Today through Saturday, the Owyhee County Rodeo will cap the evening’s festivities.

The Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo Queen coronation takes place during Friday’s rodeo performance. There are five candidates.

Taking advantage of the new lampposts in town, the Owyhee County Rodeo Board commissioned 15 unique banners, which city maintenance crews put up Friday afternoon. Each banner features a different image produced by Homedale rodeo photographer Bill Bruce of WT Bruce Photography as well as a different slogan.

The rodeo began with Idaho Cowboys Association slack.

The rodeo banners will be in full view Saturday for the final day of fair week, which begins with a parade in downtown Homedale.

Jordan Valley native Evelyn Loveland will lead the procession as this year’s grand marshal.

The 99-year-old Loveland, who attended school at Cliffs, has lived in the same home in Jordan Valley for 46 years. The town’s oldest resident was nominated as grand marshal by the South Mountain Cowboys 4-H Club.

“She is truly someone worth knowing,” 4-H co-leader Ann Rutan said. “Her wit, humor and friendly personality are well-known throughout the community and the surrounding areas.”

Loveland, who turned 99 on July 18, grew up in Owyhee County. Her pioneer parents Tom and Clara (Drummond) Whitby were living in Oreana when she was born in 1912, just three months after the Titanic sank.

At the age of 3, the Whitby family traveled by wagon to the 5 Bar Ranch on the Owyhee River. The family later moved to Cliffs southeast of Jordan Valley, and she attended the Cliffs School through eighth grade.

Evelyn married Bill Loveland on Aug. 25, 1930 and the couple homesteaded 640 acres near Cliffs. Bill worked and Evelyn stayed home with the family’s children.

The Lovelands eventually settled in Jordan Valley so their children could attend high school.

During her children’s formative years, Loveland earned the reputation as a great cook and a volunteer. She helped with a 4-H beef club, school activities, field trips and fundraisers.

She walked with her children a mile from their home at the Warm Springs Ranch to the Methodist Church.

Loveland’s giving spirit has come through in her creation of 100 quilts, many of which were raffled to raise money for the church.

Even today, she still provides covered dishes for church potlucks and bakes bread once a month for the Holy Communion service, Rutan said.

And she still holds a driver’s license, driving to church services each Sunday.

Although Loveland is universally known as a giving individual, there is one thing she won’t part with — a secret mustard recipe not even her children know.

“I asked her ‘What if you wake up tomorrow and can’t talk? How will anyone know that recipe?’ Rutan said. “To which she replied, ‘Too bad!’.”

Bad road forces change to OCHS August field trip

Accessibility concerns have forced a change in plans for the Owyhee County Historical Society's monthly field trip. Owyhee County Historical Museum director Joe Demshar announced the switch for the Saturday, Aug. 20 trip Thursday afternoon. The new destination is the John and Kathy Romero ranch, where former ranch owners Dick, a one-time county commissioner, his wife Karen will share the history of the place. The field trip will leave from the museum, 17085 Basey St., in Murphy at 9 a.m. before a stopover at the Carson ranch at 9:45 a.m., where Jerry Hoagland will give short history. The ranch's original owner was one of the more than 50 gold prospectors who came to the Owyhee Mountains with Michael Jordan 150 years ago. Will Hyslop will lead the field trip, which can be traveled with passenger cars. The potluck lunch will be held at the Romero ranch. Bring a favorite dish, table service, drinks and tables and chairs. The new field trip replaces a trip planned for the Cosmopolitan Mine and Mill near Silver City, which was cancelled after organizers discovered that access was questionable because of an impassable washed-out road. Call the museum, (208) 495-2319, for more information.

Prestigious science camp opens Stacey's eyes

HHS grad recounts month-long W. Va. experience

by Jonny Stacey

Deep in the woods of West Virginia, on the first of July, I entered the realm of the National Youth Science Camp. I joined 116 other delegates from nearly every state and many countries, including Germany, Chile, Costa Rica and China. Over 3½ weeks, we listened to lectures from some of the most renowned scientists in their fields, participated in directed studies that provided hands-on experience in everything from biodiversity to ink-jet printers, and enjoyed outdoor overnight adventures in wild and wonderful West Virginia and a three-day excursion to Washington D.C.

Three hours from Charleston, my fellow delegates and I stepped off our buses, greeted by the "Staph" in its natural environment — Camp Pocahontas. Of course, normally one would refer to these camp counselors as "staff" members, but at NYSC, the Staph's infectious enthusiasm spreads like the disease for which it is named. Not only did this creative crew come up with such witty ideas as its title, but its members also lived up to their reputation and created a very welcoming and fun environment for all of the delegates that was indeed contagious.

My time at NYSC was transformative, marked by once-in-a-lifetime experiences — like watching a concert in a cave, sharing a luncheon with members of the U.S. Senate, listening to two lectures a day from brilliant scientists, enjoying private presentations at the Museum of Crime and Punishment in D.C., and participating in our very own science panel discussion — all courtesy of the generosity of the National Youth Science Foundation.

As truly remarkable as NYSC activities are, another element of the program that is equally extraordinary is the delegation itself. Being able to interact and live with more than 100 of the brightest young minds from across the country and around the world for nearly a month is an experience for which I am very grateful and I will never forget. Coming from a small agricultural town, I had never before been exposed to such a variety of disciplines or to so many people my age interested in science. At NYSC, I learned much from the other delegates, not only in areas of science, but also in sports, games and the cultures of other nations. Granted, college will present a similar learning atmosphere, but I may never again enjoy the incredible diversity that I encountered at NYSC.

On the last night of camp, all delegates had the opportunity to reflect on the NYSC experience. Many shared their favorite memories from camp or just offered their thanks to the National Youth Science Foundation, the Staph, and the other delegates. One delegate presented an analogy that each of the delegates is a piece of the world, and in order to complete the puzzle, we have to come together and unite. Another delegate elaborated on this idea, saying we must each share pieces of ourselves in order to be complete.

I am confident that I have been introduced to many of the leaders of tomorrow, and I am truly honored to have been a delegate among them.

— Jonny Stacey is a 2011 Homedale High School graduate. He will start his freshman year at the University of Washington next month and plans to major in environmental engineering.

Stacey completes national science camp

UW next stop for 2011 HHS graduate

Homedale High School graduate Jonny Stacey has his sights set on his college career after wrapping up the month-long National Youth Science Camp on July 24.

Stacey was one of 116 top high school graduates from the U.S. and 11 countries to attend the 48th annual camp in the Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia.

Now, Stacey shifts gears to attend the University of Washington where he will pursue an Environmental Engineering degree.

While at the NYSC, Stacey was able to take in lectures on global warming, genomic medicine, radio astronomy and energy sustainability.

"My favorite lecture (was) the (one about) sustainable agriculture because it's most closely related to my major," the son of Steve and Valerie Stacey said.

Stacey and the other NYSC delegates studied different scientific disciplines while also exploring music, art and the outdoors.

Throughout camp, directed studies with visiting scientists provided extensive hands-on experiences in specific fields. Delegates had the opportunity to dissect a human hand, discuss bioethics, explore forensic science techniques, and search through the DNA sequence of a genetic disease.

In addition to learning about groundbreaking scientific research, delegates explored their natural surroundings through an outdoor program consisting of hiking, caving, mountain biking and rock climbing. The delegates chose from seminars ranging from Ultimate Frisbee and swing dancing to discussions of philosophy, travel, religion and culture.

Homedale cowboy gets top-four times in ICA slack

Homedale’s Luke Jeffries plays a waiting at the Owyhee County Rodeo.

Jeffries had the third-quickest tie-down roping time and the fourth-best steer wrestling run during Sunday’s Idaho Cowboys Association slack at the rodeo arena on his home dirt.

He finds himself seven-tenths of a second behind his buddy Andy Weldon after the former Boise State football player posted a Sunday-best 4.7-second performance in steer wrestling.

Jeffries brought down his steer in 5.4 seconds and also tied his calf in 10.4 seconds, more than two seconds behind slack leader Jake Pratt.

Jeffries was sixth in the ICA tie-down standings through Aug. 3; Weldon, who rodeos out of Greenleaf, is second in steer wrestling.

The top 10 performers in timed events in the long-go will receive invitations to Saturday’s championship short-go.

Grand View rookie Sierra Ridley also appeared in the breakaway roping Sunday, posting a 3.8-second performance that was 1½ second slower than slack leader Jennifer Frohman.

Other leaders after slack include:

- Jordan Crossley in barrel racing at 17.718 seconds
- Team ropers Casey Fuller and Bo Sickler at 5.7 seconds

Tolmie retires from SWDH board

Former Owyhee County commissioner Harold “Hal” Tolmie was honored recently for his years of service on the Southwest District Health’s Board of Health.

Former SWDH colleagues presented the former District 2 commissioner and his wife, Judy, with an appreciation plaque during a recent board meeting.

Tolmie had served since 2004 and stayed on the board after his term as commissioner had expired. Tolmie left the commissioners board after 16 years and was succeed by George Hyer in 2008. The commissioners at that time agreed to keep Tolmie as the county’s representative.

Current District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi began a five-year term as Owyhee County’s health board representative on July 1.

“I have really enjoyed serving on this Board,” Tolmie said. “The staff of this health district is great and I really appreciate the services they provide Owyhee County.”

Health Board chairman Bill Brown, an Adams County commissioner, highlighted Tolmie’s many public service contributions.

During his time with the SWDH board, Tolmie sat on the subcommittee that oversaw the creation of the district’s new Canyon County offices near the corner of Idaho highway 55 and Florida Avenue in Caldwell. Tolmie said the crowning point of his years on the board was his involvement in this committee that led through the entire funding, planning and construction phases of this major project.

State highway work planned

August projects affect Idaho 51, Idaho 78

The Idaho Transportation Department has announced a pair of projects that will start this month on state highways running through Owyhee County.

Part of the work will be seal coating on 9.4 miles of Idaho highway 78 between Murphy and the Snake River. Crews will work during the day to take advantage of the hot weather to provide a higher-quality product, according to the ITD. Speed limit reductions will be in place and motorists can expect delays of up to 20 minutes.

After the project, reduced speeds will remain in place to help prevent windshield damage from loose gravel.

The work between the Idaho 45/78 junction and the county seat is part of a $700,000 contract let to Kimberly-based Snake River Construction for state and federal highways in Treasure Valley.

Resurfacing of about 21 miles of Idaho highway 51 north of Grasmere will begin mid-month, according to the ITD.

The project will cover the roadway from milepost 34 to milepost 55 at Broken Wagon Flat Road. The $3.4 million job carried out by contractor Idaho Sand & Gravel Co., of Nampa is expected to extend into late fall.

A cold in-place recycling technique will be used on part of the route, during which crews break up a layer of old pavement and add additional oil to restore flexibility. The highway surface is then shaped and compacted, and overlaid with a top layer of new pavement. This is primarily used on medium- or low-volume roads.

A standard overlay will be used on the section from Grasmere north for the first 14 miles.

MHS youth football camp

Participants stretch before beginning the Marsing High School youth football camp last week. Nearly 38 prospective Huskies turned out for the player- and coach-led camp that ran Aug. 1 and Aug. 2. Youth went through a series of different stations working on passing, tackling, footwork and defensive skills.

Owyhee schools to receive $900 from physicals

Sports physicals at Homedale’s RehabAuthority raised $1,500 for area schools last week. Seventy-five prospective athletes attended the Aug. 2 physicals. Each school received the full $20 fee for each examination. Owyhee-area schools will receive $900 with 19 athletes from Homedale High School ($380), 14 from Homedale Middle School ($280), seven from Marsing High ($140) and five from Marsing

Middle ($100). Thirty athletes from Wilder, Notus, Greenleaf Friends Academy and Vallivue Middle School also took advantage of the physicals. Clinic administrator Maleta Henry said there were 16 physical therapists, a nurse practitioner and a physician’s assistant on duty. “We were definitely overstaffed, which made things go quickly for the kids. Unfortunately, each school had lower numbers, so that means there are a lot of kids out there without physicals for the upcoming season,” Henry said. The high school football teams from Marsing and Homedale began practice Monday. Volleyball practices can start Friday, but Marsing will begin next week. Henry said the funds raised will be delivered to the respective schools and athletic directors in a couple weeks.

Advance tickets on sale for HTAA luau

A full array of entertainment, food and auction items will be available during the second annual Homedale Trojan Athletic Association Luau and Auction later this month. The community event is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 27, at City Park. The inaugural event held a year ago raised more than $6,800. Organizers said that money covered 34 percent of the total transportation costs for the Homedale School District’s athletic departments. This year’s fundraiser to benefit sports travel costs for the middle and high school will feature the luau meal, live and silent auctions and entertainment. “This year’s need is greater because of high cost of fuel,” organizers said in a press release. “Because this event is by far the single-largest fundraiser for our transportation needs, the HTAA is encouraging the community to help by attending the Luau.” The menu includes pulled pork, baked potatoes, corn on the cob, rolls, salad and beverages. Advance tickets are available for $8 for sixth-graders and younger and $10 for seventh-graders and older, including adults. Ticket prices at the door will increase by $4 for the younger crowd and $5 for the older students and adults. Pre-sale tickets are available through HHS athletic director David Hart, who can be reached at (208) 337-4613 or (208) 407-4287 or from Sheila Matteson at Dairyland Seed or Brandon DeMond at NAPA Owyhee Auto Supply. Tickets also are available through Stuart and Lori Emry, (208) 337-3634. Auction donations can be made by contacting any ticket-seller or Devra Christoffersen at (208) 337-4968.

Homedale sports golf scramble raises $2K

In David Hart’s eyes, a lower turnout of participants didn’t dampen the success of the Homedale School District athletic transportation benefit golf scramble. A full complement of hole sponsors and 12 four-person golf teams brought $2,000 to cover transportation needs for the high school and middle school football and volleyball teams. “I’m excited we’ve cleared $2,000, which will cover a good portion of the fall season,” the HHS athletic director said. “This is a good start to the fundraisers of the fall season.” The next fundraiser comes Saturday, Aug. 27 with the second annual Homedale Trojans Athletic Association Luau at City Park. A foursome captained by Homedale’s Barry Van Dyke won Friday’s nine-hole golf tournament at River Bend Golf Course in Wilder. The husband of HHS volleyball coach Janel

Van Dyke, Barry was joined on the winning side by Homedale’s Ashley Bahem, Caldwell’s Tanner Gabiola and Nampa’s Robbie Heithecker. They shot a 9-under-par 27. Heithecker, a former Boise State golfer who recently tried to make the Canadian Professional Golf Tour, also brought home a Trojans head trophy as the scramble’s longest drive champion. Homedale’s Dan Landa won the closest-to-the-pin award. Hole sponsors included Matteson’s, NAPA Owyhee Auto Supply, Paul’s Markets, RehabAuthority, Jacksons Food Stores, CTI Foods, Mark Mimura Law Office, Idaho Sporting Goods, Big Sky Builders, Homedale schools superintendent Tim Rosandick, HHS principal Luci Asumendi-Mereness, the Hart Family, IdahoSports.com, Ideal Custom Homes Inc., Kathy Deal-Idaho Real Estate Co., and the HHS Class of 1980.

White Wine Sausage Bath

Heat Up the Flavor with GOURMET GRILLING

FAMILY FEATURES

While it's hard to resist the delicious aroma of food sizzling on the grill, few people associate the backyard barbecue with gourmet greatness. As the flames heat up this summer, you can single-handedly alter that perception by introducing a new element of flavor — Italian sausage.

A close cousin to the bratwurst, versatile Italian sausage offers a flavorful alternative with a unique blend of herbs and spices. Available in a variety of seasonings and flavors — such as Johnsonville's Mild, Sweet or Hot Italian Sausage Links — savory Italian sausage can serve as the foundation of wide array of dishes.

Served on a bun, as a main course or as an ingredient in a prepared entrée, Italian sausage can take you from basic grill to brilliant gourmet with no extra fuss.

A bath is an excellent — and simple — method for layering in unexpected flavors with Italian sausage that will make your guests wonder what other culinary secrets you have hidden away. For example, Johnsonville's White Wine Sausage Bath combines the sophisticated overtones of wine with fresh herbs and veggies for an unexpectedly gourmet grill entrée.

Or, if your tastes lean more toward the traditional flavors of the summertime grill, try Summertime Kabobs or Italian Burgers — they're new and unexpected ways to appreciate old favorites.

The kabobs blend peppers and onions with the juicy pop of Italian sausage, the sweet tang of pineapple and an unexpected touch of ripe black olives. Or, combine ground Italian sausage with your beef and a few special ingredients for a bolder, better burger.

Serve these dishes with a simple tossed garden salad and a chilled wine or icy microbrew, and sit back while your friends and family marvel at the new master of the grill.

Before you get started, consider these tips to make the most of your sausage grilling experience:

- Avoid utensils such as forks, which can puncture the sausage and allow flavorful juices to escape.
- Keep all your food safe and flavorful by using one set of tongs to place raw meat on the grill and different tongs to turn meat that is already cooking, as well as any side dishes, such as vegetables, that you may be grilling at the same time.
- Grill sausages at a low to medium-low heat, cooking slowly to keep the meat moist and flavorful.
- Maintain the same temperature on the outside and inside of the sausage. Meat should be cooked through with no pink showing, and a thermometer should read 160°F when your sausage is done.

Al Curtis, parade grand marshal

Chosen to be honored as the 1986 Grand Marshal of the Owyhee County Parade is Al Curtis of Homedale. Parade sponsors, the Xi Alpha Sorority, has selected Al from a number of suggested candidates based on his long-standing contributions and service to the County as an agent for the origination and evolution of the Owyhee County Rodeo, and for his services as a member and officeholder in organizations such as the Grange, Cattlemen’s Association, and Sheriff’s Posse; many of which he holds charter memberships.

Al said he came to Owyhee County in 1919 when he was seven years old from the Placerville area to settle near Givens Hot Springs. He says the thing he most remembers about the move was driving an old Jersey cow from Boise to the family’s new dwelling. “We bought the cow in Boise with the understanding that she knew how to lead,” he said, but finding out otherwise, he was elected to trail behind her with a switch all the way from Boise. “I wore out quite a few willow switches and a pair of shoes,” he reminisced.

Al said his folks ranched and lived around the Melba area for many years. When he first went out on his own, Al worked as a hand on both cattle and sheep outfits until he took up farming on his own in 1936. He and his wife Anna-Marie moved to their place near Homedale in 1941, and cleared off 40 acres of sagebrush to complete the 80-acre farm. It has been here that the Curtises have resided and raised their four sons and daughter, with the exception of six years spent near Horseshoe Bend before returning permanently in 1954.

Craig acts to thwart grazing fee increase

U.S. Rep. Larry Craig (R-ID) recently led a successful drive to squelch a proposed 300 percent increase in grazing fees on federally owned land.

In testimony before the House Committee on Rules, Craig convinced the body not to allow the House Appropriations Committee, which proposed the increase, to mandate a new formula.

Following Craig’s comments, the Rules Committee voted 5-4 to allow the matter to be subject to a point of order when the bill is considered by the full House. This means, Craig explained, that a call can be made on the House floor to strike the proposal, and it automatically will be dropped from consideration.

Yarbrough attends meeting

District 12 State Senator Walter H. Yarbrough, Grand View, was among ten Idaho legislators attending the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC) annual meeting July 23-27 in Denver, Colo. Hosts for the meeting were the ALEC Colorado members. ALEC members are Republicans, Democrats and Independents who can be found in leadership positions in every state capital in America.

ALEC is the nation’s largest individual membership organization of state legislators. Of the nearly 7,500 state legislators in the U.S., nearly 2,000 have joined ALEC.

As a nonprofit, nonpartisan, tax-exempt public policy organization, ALEC provides research, legislative analysis, model legislation and forum for communication for state leaders who share a basic commitment to free enterprise and limited, representative government. ALEC also serves as a liaison between state lawmakers and the business community, and between Washington, D.C. and the state capitals.

Eight compete for queen title

There are two young ladies from Owyhee County competing among a total of eight for the title of queen of the 1986 Owyhee County Rodeo.

Reigning Queen Michelle Lane of Nampa will also be a part of the rodeo, with appearances at each night’s rodeo.

The two Owyhee County girls are Debbie Bennett or Grand View and Valerie Joe Favinger of Homedale.

Board members busy preparing for rodeo

Owyhee County rodeo board members are busy making preparations for the rodeo to be held August 24-25-26 in conjunction with the Owyhee County Fair.

Bleachers have been placed along the east side of the arena and an eight-foot-high fence has been built. Lighting of the arena has been improved by the installation of shorter light poles.

Events this year will include saddle bronc riding, bareback riding, calf roping, bull riding, team roping, girls’ barrel racing, and kids’ steer riding.

Special entertainment will feature “Sparky” Sparkman, clown and bullfighter from Cheyenne, Wyo.

Ivan Pollard, Star, will be the announcer.

Stock will again be furnished by Jake Pope, Twin Falls producer.

Queen candidates are Sharon Brunzell, Delores Brabb, and Carol Ann Buck.

Owyhee Co. Fair expands grounds facilities

The Owyhee County Fair is expanding its facilities program, and also the queen contest.

This year there has been added two new lots for outside displays such as new corrals built to facilitate the handling of rodeo stock. In the line of new buildings it now has a dormitory completed for the use of fair exhibitors and also new overhead lighting.

The fair has also expanded its program to include 4-H horse projects and many new products have been added to the agricultural list and it is hoped many more products from gardens and crops will be seen here at the fair. The new products are listed in your 1961 Owyhee County Fair premium book.

Parade theme for county fair is selected

“Owyhee County Unlimited” has been selected as the theme for the Owyhee County Fair parade, according to an announcement made by Felisa Echevarria, parade chairman, this week. The parade is again being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Floats entered in the parade will be judged on theme, work, arrangement and originality.

There will be prizes given in the children’s section as follows: girls, ages 1 to 6; boys, ages 1 to 6; girls, ages 6 to 12 and boys, ages 6 to 12.

One prize will be given to one boy and one girl in the pet section and in the vehicle section.

Other judging will include, best saddle club, best horseman junior and adult; adult organization; youth organization, community floats, commercial floats, comedy section and sweepstakes cup for the best float.

Local softballers win 3 games at tournament

OWYHEE COUNTY ASSESSMENT. Auditor’s Office, August 8th, 1871.

Mr. Editor: The original Assessment Roll of Owyhee County for 1871 has been footed up and the result is as follows:

Value of land and improvements, $34,988.

Value of improvements on real estate assessed to persons other than the owners of said real estate, $290,777.

Value of personal property, $355,499.

Total value of all property, $681,264.

Amount of taxes due on last named amount is $25,206.76, the Territory’s proportion of which is $5,439.25, and county’s proportion is $19,767.51

Of the above amount of taxes due the county there has already been collected, by Assessor Ragan, $17,648.71, leaving a balance due of $7,558.05 to be collected by Sheriff Stevens.

The subsequent assessment, including unsatisfied mortgages, will probably amount to $250,000, which will make the whole assessment nearly a million dollars.

Very respectfully, T. D. Beckett, Auditor

NEW TUNNELING PROJECT. The irrepressible Col. Von Schmidt is determined to supply San Francisco with water from Lake Tahoe. His negotiations with the Central Pacific Railroad for constructing a tunnel through the Sierra Nevada of sufficient size to permit the passage of trains over the canal are likely to be successful. The tunnel will save seven miles of travel, over 1,000 feet of ascent and descent, and almost the entire amount of snow-sheds. But whether the negotiations succeed or not, the work on the tunnel will be pushed forward immediately.

THE AVALANCHE IN THE EAST. We are indebted to a Jordan Valley subscriber for an occasional copy of the Chautauqua (N.Y.) Farmer, in a recent number of which valuable paper, we find a notice of the Avalanche which is characterized as a lively, spicy and tip-top little sheet. But the Farmer man is greatly astonished at subscription price — $10 per annum, and wishes that his paper “had its local habitation in Silver City.” Our down-east friend does not, perhaps, take into consideration that fact that board here costs from $10 to $12, in coin, per week, whisky 25 cents a glass, and other necessities in proportion. The price of the Farmer is $2 per year; the editor’s board costs him $1.50 per week, and his gin, 5 cents a glass in greenbacks. And then — the idea of running an agricultural paper in Silver City where enough soil can scarcely be scraped together to sustain a mustard plant in a flower pot! Nothing as green as the editor of the Farmer could flourish here twenty-four hours.

IDAHO CITY BURNED AGAIN. A large portion of Idaho City has again been reduced to ashes. At about 8 o’clock Sunday evening last a carpenter’s shop, located in the rear of Dr. Zipp’s drug store, was discovered to be on fire, which soon spread and caught into the rear of Vantine’s store, and thence swept the entire block between Main, Wall and Commercial streets, with the exception of Baird’s saloon, and the one or two other fire-proofs. Particulars of losses, &c., not yet received.

STARTED UP AGAIN. The boiler furnace of the Cosmos mill, which was well nigh destroyed last week by some malicious wretch charging a stick of wood with some explosive compound, has been repaired and the mill is again in operation. The perpetrator of the damnable deed is still at large, although a reward of $500 is offered for his arrest and conviction.

GOING AWAY. O. H. Purdy informs us that he will soon go to Boise City, where he will engage in the vocation of teaching school. Mr. Purdy is one of the original pioneers and discoverers of the Owyhee mines and his departure from our midst will be regretted by the host of friends in Silver City.

Commentary

Baxter Black, DVM

On the edge of common sense Biomass

At a time when self-righteous environmental groups are trying to block solar power, and self-described green politicians are preventing “Not in my Backyard” wind power, our much maligned real power utilities continue to search for greener fuel options.

It is not unusual that the bluster of the often government-subsidized non-profit ANTI’s impede progress through frivolous litigation. Yet the workers in the trenches who furnish us with light, fuel, heat and electricity, soldier on with these parasitic envirosites clinging to them like ticks under a donkey’s tail.

For 20 years, coal-burning plants have been experimenting with Biomass as a fuel or co-fuel with coal. Biomass, by definition is also a fossil fuel, only much “fresher”, geologically speaking. In most cases, it is wood-waste, the byproduct of lumber mills.

After Hurricane Hugo in South Carolina in 1989, one of the National Parks in that state was devastated. All the trees were down. The Forest Service chipped the trees, and the local power plants burned the product with coal, up to 15 percent. Today, the envirosites would stop them in their tracks!

Feedlots and dairies have always been interested in ways to recycle cow manure as energy or as cud-pleasing condiments. Though it might sound queasy to the squeamish, even humans develop a taste for Brie cheese, goose liver and fungi!

I’m thinking if southern power plants really wanted to recycle, how ’bout kudzu! My gosh, it’s hangin’ on every power pole from Macon to Memphis! They could compost it, ensile it, or lay it out on Interstates 10 and 20 to be dried and flattened. They cut it in chunks like peat and burn it along with the loblolly stumps and chitlins.

If you’re looking for abundant biomass trash, think about Christmas trees in January, flowers after Mother’s Day, Easter eggs in May and punkin heads after Halloween! Consider the waste in discarded Popsicle sticks, toothpicks, wooden matches and even give-away yardsticks! And speaking of flammable; paper of all kinds including Charmin, well, maybe not Charmin, but Kleenex, losing lotto tickets, receipts from Wendy’s and Circle K 16-ounce cups of coffee. How many of those receipts do you wad up every year and toss? Newspapers could be classed as organic biomass, especially if you have been using it to train the puppy!

We all should remain vigilant to the items in life that could be considered recyclable. There could come a day when every home, apartment complex, restaurant and chicken farm will have its own self-producing power source. Which means as long as I keep writing this column on my Big Chief tablet, I should generate enough paper to heat my home. So keep on subscribing, friends, it gets cold here in Arizona in January.

Eyes on Owyhee OCSO running on fumes

With equal parts irony and incompetence, Sheriff Daryl Crandall has dragged his office into the path of the liability that he has been so fond of holding over the heads of the county commissioners since the earliest days of his caricature of an administration.

Now, the public will have a chance to speak up about the latest corner the sheriff has backed Owyhee County into, and the citizens should take full advantage.

The Aug. 22 public hearing before the Board of County Commissioners really never had to come to fruition, but the sheriff’s insistence on doing things his way without regard for consequences finally is on the verge of affecting an area outside of his control – the cash reserve for the majority of county operations.

It’s time for the public to stand up and voice their concerns over the mismanagement of a once-proud sheriff’s office. This is a sheriff’s office that, through Crandall’s self-centered, short-sighted philosophy, finds itself without a stream of revenue (loss of the Marsing law enforcement contract), in the throes of uncertainty (a second external investigation that may have turned criminal with the involvement of the FBI) and in a constant state of turmoil and turnover (at least 20 personnel changes since January 2009 with perhaps two more either coming or already completed).

Unfortunately, the scope of the Aug. 22 public hearing can only deal with the sheriff’s fuel budget, which is more than $10,000 in the red for fiscal year 2011.

But there is plenty to look at when analyzing just this facet of Crandall’s captainship.

Although the fuel budget had been on a downward spiral since the middle of the fiscal year, the sheriff refused to amend wasteful practices to conserve what was left of his $75,000 budget. His lack of evasive action eventually put the sheriff’s office in the hole with three full months remaining and put the commissioners in a position to do something that hasn’t been done in at least a decade – open up the county budget to bail out a department.

Even staring an obvious impending deficit in the face, Crandall continued to authorize his deputies to commute from home using county vehicles. With many of these deputies living outside Owyhee County, the fuel bill to just get them to work assuredly put a crimp in the overall appropriation.

Marine deputies John Nagel and Rick Wiley, both of whom live in Nampa, drove to CJ Strike Reservoir from Canyon County for each shift. Sgt. Slade Heeb drove from Mountain Home to his assignment. District 3 Commissioner Joe Merrick recently pointed out that the expenses just to get those three deputies to work probably chewed up about $10,000 to $11,000 of the annual budget.

Granted, a discretionary amount of the Idaho Power law enforcement contract is to be used for fuel for the marine vehicles, but there still are several other instances of waste with the sheriff’s office fuel.

The commutes of Nagel, Wiley and Heeb account for nearly 15 percent of the annual appropriation. The figure doesn’t take into account other out-of-county deputies such as Dustin Moe (Caldwell) and David Green (Nampa) and Chief Deputy Kenny Hoagland (Melba), who live out of

Accuracy In Media Debt ceiling deal should have addressed spending, waste

by Roger Aronoff

The voting is in from the House and Senate, but opinions are sharply divided among both conservatives and liberals as to whether or not the debt ceiling deal was a good one for either party or country. Wall Street’s first response was quite negative, with the Dow down 265 points on the day the Senate sent the bill to the White House.

Chris Matthews said the Obama administration “gave in to hostage-taking.” As ridiculous and offensive as all this left-wing talk of terrorists and hostages is when characterizing people who wanted to see the country moving toward fiscal sanity rather than off the cliff, the Tea Party people don’t feel victorious at all. A front-page Wall Street Journal article says, “Tea Party sees no triumph in compromise,” with plenty of quotes to back it up.

Matthews said the Democrats “gave away the store” and “turned over the wallet to the mugger.” In Matthews’ fevered mind, those who fought to end the reckless financial path we are on are terrorists or muggers or hostage-takers. Supposedly this happened in an environment in which popular opinion was on the Democrats’ side, because some polls showed that a majority wanted a “balanced” solution, meaning revenues as well as cuts.

The situation got even worse in the final days of this battle. Most of the media continued right through the weekend with their countdown to “default,” when that was never an option, and President Obama knew it. He reportedly conveyed that to Wall Street bankers. Talk of reducing the “deficit” by trillions of dollars continued as well. The deficit refers to a single year, beyond that it is called “debt.”

Conservatives are deeply divided over this. Talk show hosts Sean Hannity and Rush Limbaugh are quite unhappy, along with many Tea Party activists, while The Wall Street Journal, Ann Coulter, Charles Krauthammer and others are saying this was a good deal for conservatives and Republicans, at least as good as they could have hoped to get, while only controlling the House, just one chamber of Congress, and certainly not the White House.

No one seems too happy with this deal, other than the fact that a deal was finally reached. The question for all sides is whether this battle was pivotal and will dictate the direction the country is headed, or whether it was just one fairly minor battle in a much larger ideological war that will be decided in the House, the Senate and the White House in 2012.

Clearly, spending was not brought under control. In the language of Washington politicians and pundits, this was all budget cuts. But in reality, Democrats are counting on those tax hikes, at least in the form of the end of the Bush tax cuts, while spending increases every year, adding an estimated $7 trillion to our accumulated national debt over the next decade. And even to arrive at that figure, it will require robust economic growth. If the Democrats get those large tax hikes, it would almost certainly inflict even more damage on an already weak economy.

And then there are these triggers that could be pulled in December. If the House and Senate don’t approve the same legislative agenda by then, it would trigger automatic cuts in Defense, regardless of our threat assessment and military needs. No doubt our military could and should be run more efficiently, but is this any way to run a superpower?

Sen. Tom Coburn (R-Okla.), who received some criticism from conservatives for his signing onto the so-called Senate “Gang of Six” plan that included revenue hikes, mainly

Keep kid’s car title in your name until he’s ready for responsibility

Dear Dave,
Our 15-year-old has saved his money, and he’ll buy a car next year. When he buys it, should the title be put in our names or his?
— Laura

Dear Laura,
When my kids hit that age, I put the titles in my name. The insurance will be much less expensive if you do this. Plus, you don’t want a 16-year-old under the illusion that they’re in control of their lives.
As their parents, you should love them more than that, because they’re just not ready to be in full control. You want them to be in control of some parts of their lives, so that when they leave they have a clue about life and don’t boomerang on you.

But at that age, you should be guiding them, and you don’t need an ownership document to a car confusing them about who’s in charge. I turned the ownership over to my kids when they turned 18. In each case, I knew I could trust them, and they were ready for that level of control.
So, once they’re ready — and you know they’re ready — if it’s going to be their car, all the accompanying responsibility should be theirs, too!
— Dave

Dear Dave,
What is unsecured debt?
— Anonymous

Dear Anonymous,
This is a great question! You’d be surprised how many people don’t know the difference between “secured” debt and “unsecured” debt.
Unsecured debt means that someone loaned you money, but they don’t have a lien on anything. Credit cards and student loans are good examples of unsecured debt, because there’s nothing they can directly repossess if the borrower doesn’t pay. Now, if you don’t pay, they can sue you and get a lien against something after they sue you. Lots of times this is done against your income by garnishing your wages.

Examples of secured debt would be a car loan or even a home mortgage. A home mortgage is secured by the home, meaning they take a lien against the home. If you don’t pay, they can foreclose and take the house. It works the same way with a car loan. If you don’t make your payments, they can come get the car.
Remember this, too. Unsecured debt typically will be the last debt you pay if you’re in financial trouble. In other words, you’d make your car payment before paying on your student loan, and you’d make your house payment before paying on a credit card.
In a worst-case scenario, like bankruptcy, unsecured debt is wiped off. The creditor gets nothing. But a car loan or house payment either gets made, or you give up your car or home. It’s easy to see how a lender making a secured loan is in a much better position than one making an unsecured loan, isn’t it?

county according to County Clerk Charlotte Sherburn. Nor does it include what must have been numerous drives by Crandall himself to his Boise lawyers to deal with his multitude of legal situations.
Both Moe and Green work in the Marsing-Homedale area and have shorter trips to work, which is perhaps the only saving grace for Crandall. Hoagland has a relatively short drive to Murphy each day.

Crandall’s petulant approach to the administration of a sheriff’s office covering the second-largest county land mass in Idaho has created perhaps the largest liability of all – no patrol presence in the county.
Now, OCSO has finally and fully reverted to a Mayberry RFD clone in which deputies take calls from home or a substation. Instead of no bullets in the gun as was the case with Barney Fife, the Owyhee deputies have no fuel in their tanks with which to do their job. They’ll respond to emergency calls only (in part at the discretion of dispatchers, some of whom have proven to be ill-trained for such a decision), and make phone calls to handle other issues.

Not even sweet, kind, personable Andy Taylor could screw it up this bad.

in the context of tax reform, has been talking about why this deal doesn’t begin to address the plight we are in. In his speech on the Senate floor before the Senate vote, he laid it out, item by item. It is not, as he pointed out, the old questions of guns vs. butter. It is a question of massive duplicative and bureaucratic waste, fraud and abuse.
Here is just a taste of Coburn’s comments:
• The average Medicare recipient paid $130,000 into Medicare. The average Medicare recipient takes $350,000 out. How long do we think that can continue?
• Medicaid is broke because the States are broke trying to take care of it. We mandate what they must do, and yet the States are choking on Medicaid, and we are choking on matching the amount of dollars. Under the Affordable Care Act, it is now estimated 25 million more people will go into Medicaid. So it is broke.
• The Census. It was broke before it started. It cost twice what it did 10 years ago, $8 billion more than what was estimated.
• Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. We know they are broke.

They are $190 billion — that you have now committed for, to pay to get them out of hock ... It is going to be $300 or $400 billion that ... we will be required to pay.
• Social Security. People say it is not broke. We have $2.5 trillion worth of IOUs. Well, the fact is, that money is gone. Congress stole it, spent it on other things. Now we lack the ability to go into international financial markets to borrow that money to put that trust fund whole.
• What are the problems? We have 100 different programs with 100 sets of bureaucracies for surface transportation alone. Why do we do that? Why have we not fixed it? That is a question the American people ought to be asking.
• We have 82 programs to improve the quality of our teachers, run by the federal government across seven different agencies. Only one of them is at the Department of Education. Why are we doing that?
• We have 88 economic development programs in four agencies, for which we spend $6.8 billion, and we have another 100 economic development programs in six other agencies, for which we spend another $4 billion, and not one of them has ever been measured to see if it improves economic activity.

• We have 56 programs to teach financial literacy to the American people. First of all, I question whether we ought to be teaching anybody financial literacy as a government when we run it so poorly. But if, in fact, we do, why do we have 56? And, oh, by the way, not one of them has ever been measured to see if it effectively teaches somebody financial literacy.
• We have 47 job-training programs which cost $18 billion a year, nine different agencies, nine different sets of bureaucracies, and all of them but three overlap with the other. That is according to the Government Accountability Office. Why? Why would we do that?
• We have 18 programs for food for the hungry. That is something we all want to be involved in. Eighteen? Why 18 sets of bureaucracies? How well are they working? Are they effective? Could we do them better? The question has not even been asked by Congress.
