Committee favors four-day week in Homedale

School board will make final decision Monday

Homedale school trustees received a positive four-day school week recommendation Monday night, but decided to wait seven days to make a decision.

The committee comprised of school board members, district administrators, district staff and community members voted 9-4 last Wednesday to recommend a switch to a four-day week for the 2014-15 school year.

Superintendent Rob Sauer pointed out that neither school board member on the 17-person committee — Zone 4’s Shelley Shenk or Stacy Woods from Zone 2 — cast a vote in the committee’s final meeting. He also said two other committee members didn’t attend the meeting.

The school board will vote on the switch during its regular meeting, which starts at 7 p.m. Monday inside the district office, 116 E. Owyhee Ave.

River irrigation water will start Thursday

Managers bump 2014 allotment to 1.5 acre-feet

With a handful of farmers worried about warmer weather, South Board of Control officials decided Tuesday morning to turn on the Gem Pumping Plant at midnight Thursday.

That means serviceable water will be in the A and B canals sometime Friday. The C canal will have water next week, SBOC manager Ron Kiester said.

“We had eight concerned farmers who were worried that it would get into the 70-degree range,” Kiester said Tuesday morning after the decision was made.

Less than a week earlier, the SBOC board of directors had set a tentative date of Monday to turn on the Gem pumps, but the pressure from area users forced Kiester to move that date up by six days.

After an April 1 decision by the Owyhee Project Joint Board, irrigators in the basin will have a little more water to use. During an afternoon meeting in Nyssa, Ore., the Joint Board increased the 2014 allotment to 1.5 acre-feet.

That’s still half of the amount that growers received last year.

The turn-on date for Owyhee Reservoir water still hovers between April 25 and May 1. The Joint Board will meet Tuesday to discuss the date again.

Marsing to take up county’s law enforcement offer

County’s counter offer nearly four times higher than city’s original idea

The Marsing City Council will meet tonight at 7 at City Hall. The council will be holding its first discussion of a newly proposed $72,000 Owyhee County Sheriff’s Office contract.

The contract would allow deputies to enforce city ordinances.

City attorney Stephanie K. Bonney will lead the discussion on the topic of the law enforcement contract.

Last week, county Prosecuting

Attorney Douglas D. Emery sent the city the new proposal for a $72,000 contract for the council’s review.

The city had initially proposed a $15,000 contract, which was rejected by the county commissioners last month. Emery said in a letter to the city that it was not enough to pay for Marsing’s law enforcement and prosecution of cases needs.

Other topics to be addressed at the meeting will include updates on several ongoing projects.

City engineer Amy Woodruff will provide information to the council about the status of the Waterways Improvement Grant for Island Park. The grant would pay for park improvements. The Public meeting to examine road, trail use in Triangle Flat

Tonight’s meet part of county’s RS2477 process

The Board of County Commissioners will take the next step in the RS2477 roads rights-of-way process tonight.

A public meeting is scheduled for 6 inside the Owyhee County Courthouse Annex, 17069 Basey St., in Murphy.

The meeting kicks off a 60-day comment period on the county’s intention to assert rights-of-way on roads within the Triangle Flat Quadrangle in the west-central portion of the county. The county will accept written comments until 5 p.m. on June 9. The maps are available for viewing at the Planning and Zoning office inside the annex.

Comments can be mailed to P.O. Box 128 Murphy, ID 83650 or hand-delivered to the county clerk’s office in Murphy between 8:30 a.m. and noon and 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The RS2477 process involves roads and trails that traverse public lands. The county has made five criteria categories. None of the criteria involved roads that go across private land.

Public input is sought to help determine how the various roads and trails are used by adjacent property owners and recreationalists.

The county wants to assert rights-of-way to head off the possibility of the BLM permanently closing roads. The process began in 2011 with series of public meetings.

RS2477 stands for “Revised Statute 2477,” which was passed in 1866 as the West was being settled. It provided rights-of-way across public lands for the construction of highways.

The Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (FLPMA) repealed RS2477 and put the precedence on valid existing rights.

The county began the process of validating rights on all roads by splitting the county into 161 quadrants based on U.S. Geological Service topographical maps.

The Triangle Flat Quadrangle is the first such map to be brought forward for public comment. The quadrant includes the area where Flint Creek Road and Bachman Grade Road intersect. The area also includes the Triangle Ranch subdivision.

County official views favorable possibilities in public lands issues

Gateway panel sees on-the-ground impact; Senate receives legislation limiting monuments

Owyhee County officials have seen some uplifting developments on the public lands front in the past weeks.

But don’t expect to see any commissioners doing handsprings on the front lawn of the Owyhee County Courthouse complex in Murphy anytime soon.

“I’m cautiously optimistic. I’ve been that way for a long time,” District 3 commissioner and Board of County Commissioners chair Joe Merrick said after the latest Gateway West subcommittee meeting.

“I thought we had a deal a couple years ago when it went to Washington and come back and everything that we had done didn’t come to fruition.

“So I don’t get my hopes up too high.”

Still, Merrick said he saw some good signs after the Bureau of Land Management Boise District Resource Advisory Council subcommittee toured parts of the landscape proposed for routing of the 500-kilovolt electrical transmission line.

The panel spent six hours March 27 touring parts of Owyhee and Canyon counties where the Idaho Power Co.-Rocky Mountain Power transmission line might go.

“It was quite an eye-opener for a lot of people,” Merrick said. “It was very good.

“They realized what impacts that there would be upon the people and private property in the different areas, especially Segment 8.”

Segment 8 as proposed takes the powerline over the Snake River and through the Idaho Air National Guard’s Orchard Training Area on the way to the Hemingway substation. An alternate route would take the line south of the Orchard Training Area on a path that would affect Bruneau, Oreana and Murphy.

The information gleaned from the on-the-ground meeting last month led to some slight changes in possible routing during last Wednesday’s subcommittee meeting in Boise, Merrick said.

“They stayed in the two-mile corridor, but they kind of tweaked it a little bit,” he said.

More meetings are scheduled before the subcommittee is scheduled to take its recommendation on Segment 8-9 routing to the full RAC for a May 28 meeting at the BLM Boise District Office.

Of course, that won’t be the end all and be all.

“The BLM has to go through their process,” Merrick said. “It’ll probably be fall before they get their work done and start to make decisions.”

The federal agency created the subcommittee, which includes Owyhee County residents Donna Bennett and Karen Steenhof (who is the co-chair), to hash out routing of the two segments that go through Owyhee County after finalizing all other segments on the 1,100-mile power line that will run from Rock Springs, Wyo., to the Hemingway Butte substation in Wilson.

The subcommittee has added two more meetings to its schedule as it continues to examine routing as well as Idaho Power’s natural resource mitigation and enhancement plan if the line is permitted down Baja Road in the Morley Nelson Birds of Prey

National Conservation Area.

Additional meetings will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on April 18 and April 30.

In another development related to public lands, the U.S. House of Representatives last week sent to the Senate a bill that would require National Environmental Protection Act analysis (and public involvement) on all future national monument designations.

At present, national monuments, which can affect hundreds of thousands of acres of public land, can be established merely with the stroke of a president’s pen on an executive order.

“I think it’s a great idea,” Merrick said of H.R. 1459, the Ensuring Public Involvement in the Creation of National Monuments Act.

“Our country was founded on government by the people, and it’s really hard for me to swallow a mandate from the president or a leader that doesn’t have input from the local groups that it affects.”

The Antiquities Act of 1906 empowered the president with the ability to create national monuments through executive order.

When President Bill Clinton seemed poised to put most of Owyhee County under federal protection by creating a national monument near the end of his second term, county officials sprang into action.

The threat of a monument that would limit ranchers’ ability to use the land triggered the Owyhee Initiative, which was turned into law by the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009.

The fifth anniversary of President Obama making the Initiative law passed March 30.

H.R. 1459 has been referred to the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

SBOC irrigators who transfer water won't face more fees

Another assessment hike to cover energy costs could be coming

The South Board of Control clarified that irrigators who receive transfers from fellow producers won't get hit with excess water charges.

Area farmers have been allowed to transfer part of their allotment to neighboring producers since SBOC directors passed a resolution in 2002. The board attached a $50 administrative fee to transfers a year later to cut down on abuse of the process.

During an April 1 meeting, SBOC attorney Albert Barker urged the directors to clarify whether producers who take advantage of the transfer policy should be subject to excess charges.

The directors determined that because the water is part of another allotment and is merely transferred there would be no excess charge. Director Dennis Turner said not levying excess charges would help in the short water year.

District secretary Connie Chadez said the transfer forms already have a box where producers can inform water officials whether the transfer would constitute an excess over a given farmer's annual allotment.

In reality, no excess would be created because the same amount of water allotted (1.5 acre-feet per producer) is still being used.

"No one is using more water," Chadez said. "Neighbor to neighbor, they're just shuffling water."

Bureau of Reclamation considering rate hike

Any decision won't be made until June, but the federal Bureau of Reclamation has floated the idea of increasing power rates for a second consecutive year.

Kiester told South Board directors that the rate hike would be part of the next five-year contract between BOR and electricity providers such as Bonneville Power Administration and Idaho Power.

A rate increase would be passed on to South Board irrigators in the form of a hike in per-acre assessments.

Last year, South Board increased its power budget by $55,000 to accommodate a rate spike when dry conditions required larger-than-usual usage of the pumping stations along the Snake River.

Last year's increase was from 22.8 mil, or 2.28 cents per kilowatt, to 2.4 cents per kilowatt (24 mil). That equated to a $1.22 per acre assessment increase for the producers in the 45,000-acre district.

Kiester said officials are discussing raising the power rate to 2.5 cents per kilowatt (25 mil).

Kiester said that could force South Board directors to increase the budget by $30,000 to $40,000, which would equate to an assessment increase of between 67 cents and 89 cents per acre.

Kiester said the rate increase idea will be discussed again when BOR officials meet in June.

Fire destroys tractor on Gulley Road

Driver escapes cab before flames can reach him

A John Deere tractor appears to be a total loss after a freak fire Thursday morning.

Homedale Fire Department personnel responded to the report of a tractor on fire on Gulley Road around 11:30 a.m.

The machine, owned by CTI Foods/SSI in Wilder, became fully engulfed after the driver was able to escape without injury, according to Homedale resident Travis Hyer, who was first on the scene and phoned the call into Owyhee County emergency dispatch.

"It looked like the fire was coming from inside the dash," HFD assistant chief Tom Pegram said. "It started in the dash, and before we could get to it, engulfed the tractor."

Ten Homedale volunteers and two fire trucks responded to the scene, which was just north of Idaho highway 19 on Gulley Road northwest of the city limits.

The tractor, which was equipped with a hay fork, was moving between farms during a hay-loading project, Pegram said.

He said the exact cause of the fire was unclear.

✓ Water: Reservoir water still a few weeks away water supply report predicts a shortage for the Owyhee Basin.

The Gem Pumping Plant outside Marsing sends Snake River water to the older portion of the Gem Irrigation District, while irrigators in part of Gem and all of the Ridgeview district rely on water that flows into the South Canal from the Owyhee Reservoir.

It costs $200 for every hour that the Gem plant pumps run, SBOC watermaster John Eells said in last week's meeting.

This week's decision to turn on the pumps earlier than first decided validated Ridgeview director Bret Nielson, who worried that the tentative date might be too late unless the wet weather continues.

"I'm with him," South Board and Gem director Dave Shenk said. "If it turns up dry and windy, we may have to bump up (the start date)."

Kiester told the board that the Owyhee Reservoir's current storage is at the same level it was at this time in 1992, which was a dire year for area producers.

The Bureau of Reclamation website reported the reservoir held 180,932 acre-feet of water Monday afternoon. That figure is 25 percent of the lake's capacity. The reservoir can hold up to 715,000 acre-feet, which would supply enough water to cover two years of the area's irrigation needs at normal four acre-feet allotments.

Kiester painted a grim picture when talking about the 1992 water year.

Although water was turned into the South Canal on April 8 that year, the system lost head pressure by July 24 and the water season ended on Aug. 24.

While Kiester drew parallels between 2014 and 1992, he expressed hope that storms that barreled through the region recently would help. He said the March 28-April 1 storms brought a lot of snow to the Idaho-Oregon-Nevada region, which feeds the Owyhee watershed.

"This is the time of year where it'll happen or won't happen," Kiester said of Mother Nature boosting the water supply.

Shenk echoed the manager's guarded optimism: "The rain today helped me a bunch."

According to the Natural Resource Conservation Service's snowpack report from Monday, the Owyhee basin is at 65 percent of its 30-year average for this time of year.

✓ Four-day: Supervisors say hourly workers worry about losing benefits

Committee members Sauer, middle school English teacher Sally Gonser and elementary school teacher MaryJo Larzelier made a presentation during this week's special meeting. Approximately 15 people, most of whom work for the district, were in attendance.

The presentation didn't provide much new information not already shared during last month's public meeting at the high school.

The effects on personnel, however, were discussed throughout the meeting.

While nearly three-quarters of the staff members who responded to a December survey said they favored a four-day week, upon questioning Sauer told Zone 3 Trustee Dwayne Fisher that there was no breakdown of how many salaried employees, such as teachers, responded favorably as compared to hourly employees such as custodians, bus drivers and food service workers.

According to the presentation, Homedale bus drivers would lose 20 percent of their salary, but Sauer said there would be an opportunity to make some of that money back through Friday enrichment-day transportation shifts.

"I know the bus drivers are going to lose a lot," maintenance and transportation supervisor Tom Muir told the trustees during a question-and-answer period at the end of the 1-hour, 20-minute meeting.

Muir said he knew of two or three drivers who would quit if the district switched. At least one driver is a family's sole wage-earner and would be unable to afford insurance on a smaller salary, Muir said.

The district could look into grandfathering those employees who drop below the work-hour threshold so no benefits are lost, but Sauer said many of the questions like that will be answered through discussions with state education officials this week ahead of the board's vote.

Muir also mentioned that Marsing struggled to find drivers when that district first switched to a four-day week and had to resort to chartering buses for athletic events in some cases.

Muir said his major concern was losing some of the drivers — and thereby quality and experience — in his 10-person pool.

Food service chief Vicki Eby also said her employees are concerned about losing benefits because of reduced hours. Food service employees would lose three to five hours each week.

Paraprofessionals would see a decrease from 35 hours to 32 hours per week.

"The hardest part of being on that committee was knowing that if we would go to a four-day week, it would affect people. That's probably my only downside; is it will affect them," Shenk said.

"I believe in my heart (going to a four-day week is) the best thing to do, but I know it's going to affect people."

Sauer did address nutritional concerns brought up by some patrons during last month's public meeting.

He said that Richfield reported 70 percent of the students in the free or reduced-price lunch program have experienced no missed meals on the fifth day.

As in Richfield, Sauer said weekend nutrition for needy children is bolstered in Homedale with a backpack program. Additionally, the Homedale Elementary Li'l Pantry is open to all district families, he said.

From an educational standpoint, Sauer presented a graph that showed little difference in student achievement scores of five-day districts and four-day districts. In fact, 17 percent of the four-day schools in the state (39 districts and charter schools) received five-star ratings while 14 percent of five-day schools received the highest mark in the state Department of Education's performance scale.

Four-day schools charted better than five-day schools in the four-star category, too. Fewer four-day schools than five-day schools were rated at three stars and two stars, while three percent from both pools received one-star ratings.

Board chair Kurt Shanley pointed out that the ratings breakdown didn't take into consideration that many of the four-day schools are charters and, by rule, have higher-achieving students. He said he'd like to see those schools and alternative schools broken out of the graph for a more apples-to-apples comparison.

Sauer also said that because the state's new standardized test — the Smarter Balanced Assessment Consortium — won't be scored this year, there will be no student achievement comparison data from the last year of five-day schooling to the first year of the four-day week if the district switches.

Anecdotal evidence from four-day districts to which Sauer reached out showed that the new schedule was working as far as improving student achievement.

Sauer said Cambridge reported a 90 percent passing rate and a "dramatic" reduction in students who were failing or performing poorly.

Mackay reported better attendance and better quality teaching time, which many Homedale staffers pointed out would be easier to come by in a four-day setting.

Gonser said the amount of time it takes to get students to settle into a class routine each day, when given just 50 minutes, makes it difficult to go in-depth into subjects.

She said information retention would improve because of the longer class hours allowing for deeper instruction and better student-teacher relationships.

Addressing another concern broached during the public meeting, Sauer said that special needs students weren't affected long-term by the four-day week, according to his research. Wendell and Marsing reported it took about a semester for the students to adjust, while Richfield said there was no effect, Sauer said.

Teachers in attendance Monday also said they would favor the four-day week because Friday professional development days would mean less time lost preparing for a substitute teacher and then, many times, re-teaching a lesson left for the sub.

Sauer reiterated that no Idaho district that has gone to a four-day week has reverted back to a tradition five-day schedule although Richfield is near the end of the first year of a two-year pilot program and Gooding re-evaluated the setup but stuck with a four-day week.

Then & Now

Michael F. Hanley IV

Owyhee Graffiti,
Vol. 1
Character

Cattle buyers long ago learned that they had to be on the lookout for tricky customers who would try to pull the wool over their eyes. As a result, most became good judges of character, putting a lot of weight on first impressions.

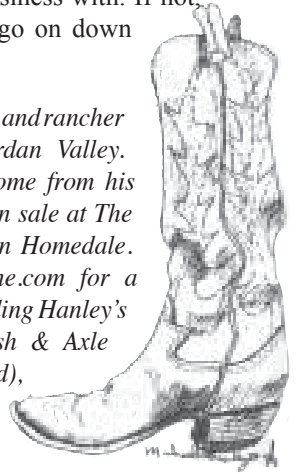

In their business, a second chance seldom is given a bad risk who either tries or succeeds in cheating them. They must deal on a close margin and an order-buyer who gets stung, at the least, loses his commission. On the other hand, his reputation is damaged and he can lose orders, which puts him in the ranks of the “also runs.”

The buyer who buys for his business or is hired by a company has to be just as careful as the order-buyer and is constantly aware of costs. The bottom line is, “Can I buy and make a profit or at least break even when I, or my boss, sell them at a later date?”

Each buyer has his own instincts to guide him in determining character, but the system an old-time cow buyer used is just as revealing today as it was then. He said:

“If you want to learn the character of a man, just take a look at his horses. If they are well cared for, chances are he is a good man to do business with. If not, well, you had better just go on down the road.”

Idaho Power grant provides funding for library program

The Oregon Trail is the topic for the next Bruneau and Beyond speaker program at the Bruneau Valley Library. Mountain Home resident Ron Tugby will present the talk next Wednesday after the library's monthly free luncheon, which begins at noon. The program is made possible through an Idaho Power Co. Powering Tomorrow grant. Officials with the public utility recently presented a $1,000 check to the library. Tugby volunteers with the Idaho chapter of the Oregon/California Trails Association. The association's 11 chapters throughout the United States work with the Bureau of Land Management, the U.S. Forest Service and the public to preserve and protect the trails and to provide education about the trails. Although the lunch and presentation is free, library officials asked folks to RSVP to ensure that enough food is prepared. Make reservations by Monday by calling the library at (208) 845-2131 or (208) 845-2282.

Succor Creek could see changes with new bridge

Officials want stream realigned as part of project

If some elected officials have their way, the planned reconstruction of a bridge west of Homedale will include more than roadway improvements.

District 23 state Sen. Bert Brackett (R-Rogerson) and District 2 Commissioner Kelly Aberasturi (R-Homedale) approached project representatives about the possibility of realigning Succor Creek's stream flow when the bridge taking Idaho highway 19 over the waterway is rebuilt next year.

Designers already are planning to realign the bridge to mitigate the erosion of the west-side foundation of the existing span caused by decades of rushing waters ping-ponging from one bank to the other then squeezing under the bridge during high-water events.

Bridge realignment would better accommodate flood flows, according to Mike Johnson, the project manager for HDR Inc.'s engineering office in Boise.

"In a large flood event, Succor Creek pushes as much water as the Boise River," Johnson said.

Aberasturi, Brackett and about a dozen concerned citizens visited with project officials during an April 1 open house inside the Homedale Middle School gymnasium.

Citizens will be able to submit comments on the Idaho Transportation Department's rebuild of the 50-year-old bridge. The comment period ends Tuesday, and the design phase will continue through the summer.

Project engineers told Aberasturi that re-routing the stream would require permitting from the Army Corps of Engineers. The commissioner said he would talk to the agency about the idea.

Construction is scheduled to begin in the fall of 2015 and will be completed by the fall or winter of 2016, but ITD could amend the construction timeline if funding becomes available before the anticipated fiscal year 2016 allocation.

Getting involved

The Idaho Transportation Department will take public comment on the proposed Succor Creek Bridge replacement until Tuesday.

included how the width limitations during construction would affect agricultural producers who need to move wide farm equipment from field to field.

"We're trying to do whatever we can to limit our impact," Johnson said.

Aberasturi said he will talk to local farmers to gauge how they will be able to cope with a 16-foot width limitation when the north side of the existing bridge is removed in the first stage of construction.

Both directions of traffic will be routed to the 16-foot-wide south lane of the bridge as a 19-foot, 9-inch north side of the new bridge is built.

Johnson said the 16-foot construction width already is an accommodation for farmers. Typically, lanes are narrowed to 12 feet during construction projects.

Aberasturi pointed out that some farm equipment can be as wide as 20 feet, and farmers with those machines will have to find a lengthy detour route.

Traffic will be regulated by an automated stoplight similar to the one used during ITD's project to replace the Scorpion Creek culvert outside Murphy with a slab bridge.

Once completed, the bridge will be 41 feet wide. It will be moved to the west because of the realignment plan, and Johnson also said that the roadway will be shifted about five feet to the north because of the construction staging and the desire to accommodate farm equipment traffic.

The Idaho 19 roadbed will be raised two feet at River Road to accommodate the realignment. Johnson said that aspect will affect private drive approaches for some residents along the highway.

Johnson said the bridge design being used can be widened further in the future to accommodate traffic growth without completely replacing the span.

Furthermore, stream flow will be improved because the preliminary design will eliminate existing piers protruding from the middle of the streambed.

Local resident Harold Schmierer worried about emergency medical response limitations during the construction period. Johnson said officials are working with local ambulance and fire officials to ensure that the project doesn't effect response times.

Johnson said a conversation such as the one with Schmierer and his wife, Sue, is a big reason why public meetings are held.

"We learn things about the area that will us design something that will benefit you," he told the couple.

Meet Homedale’s foreign exchange students

Homedale High School is not only important to students raised in Homedale, but to students from around the world.

Four students have chosen the school to be their home as part of foreign exchange programs. They are Jasmin Zegger, 16, and Michel Bethge, 17, from Germany, Lia Hollenstein, 18, from Switzerland, and Jiseok Jung (Han), 15, from South Korea.

Zegger and Jung are sponsored by the AYSS (Academic Year in America) Foundation. Bethge and Hollenstein are sponsored by the EF (Education First) Foundation. For more information about AYSS, call Cherry Shuster at (208) 740-9140, or about EF, call Stacey Woods at 337-5585.

Each of the students live with host families in the area. Jasmin and Han are staying at the home of Mark and DeAnn Thatcher, Michel lives with Daniel and Kristina Shira, and Lia is the house guest of Tim and Jennifer Riha. The students are here for the duration of the school year, and will return to their homelands this summer.

Each of them answered a series of questions about their experience. Here’s what they said:

Host families share their experiences

Several Homedale families are doing something a little different this year, by opening their families to foreign exchange students attending Homedale High School.

Tim and Jennifer Riha of Homedale decided to become a host family to benefit their children, Samantha, 17, Jason, 15, and Matt, 8.

They host Lia Hollenstein, a senior.
“We’ve enjoyed everything about it. It’s a good idea and a good experience. It’s nice to have another member of the family from another culture, and watch the interaction with my kids,” Tim said.

The only difficulty Tim and Jennifer ran across was they didn’t have a big enough car. The Rihas owned a GMC Envoy, which could fit five people, but not six. “We ended up buying another vehicle so we would have enough room to carry everybody,” Tim said.

The Rhia family took a trip to the coast with their newest family member on board.

Lia has “fit in very well,” Tim said. “She speaks very good English, so we didn’t have a language barrier to worry about.”

He says his sons have “gained another sister, which has been good for them.”

“My daughter shares a bedroom with Lia, and it has been good for her to learn to get along with someone in a close space. It’s good preparation for college life, that she can learn to share a little more,” Tim said.

As far as cultural differences, Tim said the only adjustment they had to make happened at the dinner table.

“We Americans like our red meat and potatoes, but other cultures are not like that.” He has found that his house guest likes to eat more chicken, pasta and vegetables.

The Rihas decided to be a host family because Tim’s parents had hosted a student while he was in high school and he enjoyed the experience.

Being a host family “opens up everybody’s eyes to the fact that the world is a big place,” Tim said. “The benefit to a family is “to learn that things are not the same all over the world.”

Tim believes that the experience is good for students who come here because “they get to see what Americans are really like, and that we are just trying to survive, just like everybody else.”

Financial concerns have not been a problem, Riha said. “It’s really nothing more to set an extra place at the table. Expense was not really a concern,” he said.

Daniel and Kristina Shira are “empty nesters” with three grown children — Justin, 34, Brandon, 32, and Carrie, 30. They are the host family for Michel Bethge, 17.

“I just feel good that we are able to do something for someone else,” Kristina said. “We’ve had a good time. I’m so glad we did it.”

Michel has “been such a great kid, he has ruined it for the next one,” she said, laughing.

The Shiras plan to host a student every year. Kristina feels that the experience has enriched their lives.

“It’s just been fun and interesting. It puts the life back into living for me, because I had to cook again,” she said.

“I kinda miss my kids, and they get along really good with him,” she said.

Kristina said she is impressed with how well Michel’s parents have raised him. “He’s made a lot of friends and he is very polite and attentive to my house guests.”

As far as advice for other host families, Kristina said “it’s important to set the rules first.”

Mark and DeAnn Thatcher are hosting two students this year. Jasmin Zegger, 18, from Switzerland, and Jiseok Jung (Han), 16, from South Korea.

Mark and DeAnn have participated in the foreign exchange program four times in the past 10 years. DeAnn said, “Overall, it has been a very positive experience.”

The Thatchers have some relatives who were host families, so they became interested in it. DeAnn said she the program because “it gives you a peek into another culture and you build friendships around the world.”

The Thatchers appreciate the opportunity to communicate with the parents of students as well as the young people who stay with them.

The Thatchers have four children — Kathryn, 18, Matthew, 16, Kindra, 13, and Todd, 7 — at home.

“It’s been good for our children. We feel really blessed to have two very respectful students,” DeAnn said. Some of her children are learning German and Korean words.

Her son Matt and Jiseok (Han) played football together, and both her daughters have formed a close friendship with Jasmin, she said.

The Thatchers “try to do extra family outings on a regular basis,” to help their students learn more from their experience, she said. They take all the children to different cities and other places, and the family made a trip to the Oregon coast over spring break.

Hosting is an opportunity to “open your heart and your home to other cultures,” DeAnn said. Her advice for other parents is to “pay attention to the student profiles, to make sure the student you host will be compatible with your family lifestyle.”

HHS grad makes Big Sky outdoor meet

Austin Emry qualified for the Big Sky Conference's track and field championship meet Saturday.

Emry won the 110-meter hurdles Saturday at the Montana State Invitational.

His 14.59-second victory in Bozeman, Mont., was good enough to put him in the field for the championship meet, which will be held May 14-17 at Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff, Ariz.

A redshirt senior, Emry was the only dual winner for the Grizzlies men. The 2009 Homedale High School graduate also won the long jump with an effort of 22 feet, 8½ inches.

The Grizzlies compete Friday and Saturday with the Griz-Eagle Duals at Eastern Washington University in Cheney, Wash.

Wrestling award honors Cortinas

"The Amador Cortinas Leadership Award" has been created in memory of the standout Homedale High School wrestler who died in an Oct. 18 car crash.

The son of Matt and Rosie Cortinas, Amador was a championship wrestler for the Trojans.

"We want this to be a very prestigious award," HHS wrestling coach Toby Johnson said. "We want the kids to work hard for it."

Senior Jovan Cornejo was the inaugural winner, receiving the award during the team's March 18 banquet. Cornejo is the nephew of Daniel Valadez, Cortinas' best friend who also died in last fall's crash east of Wilder on Idaho highway 19.

Homedale wrestlers will make the selection each year. They'll have to provide rationale for their picks, giving detailed reasons how a particular teammate demonstrated leadership to earn the award, Johnson said.

"We want to promote leading by examples of work ethic and character," the coach said. "Those were qualities that Amador certainly had."

Oviedo's arm, Trojans' bats bring wins

Homedale picks up first two conference wins

Caleb Oviedo showed he can be just as dominant on the baseball diamond as the basketball court.

The senior right-hander threw a no-hitter and picked up a save as Homedale High School collected its first two 3A Snake River Valley conference victories of the season.

The 3A SRV boys' basketball player of the year struck out 10 and allowed just two baserunners in a 21-0 victory over host Parma on Thursday. The game was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Two days earlier, Oviedo pitched two-thirds of an inning, striking out one batter, to save Conner Carter's victory in an 8-5 conference victory over Payette.

Originally scheduled for Homedale, the Payette game was moved to the Pirates' home field because of the rainstorm on April 1.

The Trojans finished the week with a 6-3 overall record, including 2-0 in the conference with a suspended game against Weiser still to be completed.

Saturday: Homedale 14-5, Melba 6-7 — The Mustangs snapped the Trojans' four-game winning streak with a 7-5 victory in the second game of a non-conference doubleheader.

Huskies lose conference baseball opener amid lost opportunities

Marsing High School couldn't capitalize on its chances Thursday in a narrow 2A Western Idaho Conference baseball season-opening loss.

Melba broke through against an otherwise-dominant Austin Williams, scoring the go-ahead run in a 3-2 victory in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Only one of the Mustangs' runs was earned. Williams struck out 12 and walked only two.

Meanwhile, Marsing stranded

10 base runners and ended four innings with base-running mistakes.

"Williams dominated Melba on the mound, but we made entirely too many mistakes on the base paths," MHS coach Jerry Stacy said.

"We were our own worst enemy and squandered numerous scoring opportunities. You just have to try to correct the mistakes and move forward."

The Huskies (5-2 overall, 0-1

2A WIC at week's end) collected eight hits with Williams chiming in with a triple. Hunter Gibson, Junior Gonzalez and Casey Yiengst also got hits for Marsing.

The Huskies' 2A WIC opener, scheduled for April 1 at home against McCall-Donnelly, was rained out. No makeup date has been announced.

HHS softball exploits all facets to extend win streak

Strong pitching, clutch hitting, triple play spark team

Homedale High School ran its winning streak to six games Saturday with a softball doubleheader sweep.

The Trojans rode stubborn pitching to a non-conference sweep against Melba at Sundance Park.

Shelby Lee threw a three-hitter in the second game Saturday, making two first-inning runs hold up in a 2-0 win.

Destiny Long was 2-for-3 in the contest, knocking in Morgan Nash with the game's first run. Nash had led off the inning with an infield single.

Long scored later in the inning on Katie Deal's sacrifice fly.

After allowing a leadoff single to Nicole Hoagland in the fourth inning, Lee pitched the rest of the game without allowing a hit.

Elise Shenk tripled, while Gardenia Machuca picked up a single.

Homedale ended the week with an 11-1 overall record. The Trojans also posted their first 3A

SNAKE RIVER VALLEY CONFERENCE VICTORIES LAST WEEK.

In Saturday's opening, Morgan Nash scattered three hits as the Trojans beat Melba, 10-0, in a non-conference game ended after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Gardenia Machuca got the Trojans off to a fast start with a two-run home run in the first inning. Tristan Corta scored on the hit.

Machuca would score another run after leading off the third inning with a single. Sydnee Shanley's sacrifice fly brought Machuca in.

Homedale broke the game open with a three-run rally in the second inning.

Tori Nash led off with a walk and scored on a wild pitch. Shanley, who reached on an error, and Shenk, who singled, scored when Morgan Nash reached on an error.

Corta laced a two-run single in a five-run rally in the fourth inning.

Thursday: Parma 10, Homedale 7 — The Trojans shook off the Panthers' seven-run outburst in the bottom of the first inning with slow and steady offense throughout the game.

Homedale surged ahead on Katie Deal's two-run double in the fourth inning.

Corta and Long had RBI singles in the seventh inning for insurance runs.

Long finished 3-for-5 with four RBI.

Lee didn't get out of the first inning when Parma unloaded for its seven runs. Corta took over and got the victory.

April 1: Homedale 14, Payette 2 — In a game moved to the Pirates' field because of rain, Homedale pulled off a triple play in the fifth inning.

Already comfortably ahead, the Trojans scored seven times in the sixth inning as winning pitcher Morgan Nash smacked a two-run double.

Third baseman Destiny Long connects with a pitch in the first game of Saturday's non-conference doubleheader sweep against Melba. The senior ended the week hitting .514 with two home runs and 17 RBI. Photo by Jon P. Brown

Nash fired a two-hitter at the Pirates and did her part at the plate, going 3-for-5 with five RBI.

Machuca and Tori Nash knocked in two runs apiece. Tori

Nash also had a pair a doubles, while Machuca ripped a two-bagger as well.

First-year varsity player Tory Lane was 2-for-3 with an RBI and a run scored.

Golfers miss second amid miserable conditions

Mother Nature wasn't very kind to the high school golfers who traversed TimberStone Golf Course last week.

"The playing conditions were some of the worst I have seen," Homedale High School coach Casey Grove said. "It rained all day, and the wind blew really hard."

"It made for a long, miserable day of golf."

Scores soared during the nine-hole 3A Snake River Valley conference season opener that the Trojans hosted on April 1 at the course outside Caldwell.

Fruitland put four golfers under 50 strokes, though, to win the tournament. Paced by 43s from Tucker Craig and Johnny Howard, the Grizzlies posted a 179.

Homedale was third at 199 after senior Bryan Johnson gutted out a 45. Gabe Maurer came in at 48, but the Trojans' other three golfers all carded 50 or higher.

Behind Matt Hurd's low individual round of 41, Weiser finished second at 195.

"I think us three teams are going to battle all year long for the top two spots to go to State," Grove said. "(Last week), if we would of had a couple of kids shave a couple of strokes off their score, we would have easily gotten second. That is golf, though."

Homedale put two girls in the varsity tournament with Maddi Maxwell notching a 71 and Kylee Jenkins scoring 83.

Trojans junior varsity player Brenbyn Kilby shot an 86.

Errors doom Marsing in WIC softball opener

Team rebounds
Saturday
in Caldwell

Marsing High School swept its competition in a Caldwell softball tournament after losing its conference opener last week.

Thursday: Melba 7, Marsing 3 — The host Mustangs posted five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to erase the Huskies’ advantage in Marsing’s first 2A Western Idaho Conference game of the season.

The Huskies (4-1 overall, 0-1 in conference at week’s end) committed four of its six errors in the pivotal inning as Melba touched Marissa Hardy for three singles.

Marsing scored single runs in the second, third and fourth innings to erase the 1-0 lead Melba had picked up on Nicole Hoagland’s RBI triple in the first inning.

Carey Dines tied the game in the top of the second when she led off with a triple and scored on an error.

Marsing took the lead in the third inning when Hardy scored on Ellie Folwell’s infield single. Folwell was 2-for-3 with a double.

Alicia Barkell also had an RBI, while Shannon Clover singled and Destiny Reynolds went 2-for-3 with a run scored.

Only two of the seven runs charged to Hardy were earned.

Saturday: Huskies go 3-0 against JV teams in Caldwell — Marsing took part in the Caldwell tournament at the GALS Quad complex, facing Homedale from Class 3A and two 4A squads.

Against the Trojans, the Huskies bounced from Homedale’s seven-run uprising in the first inning to pull off an 11-7 victory.

Marsing tied the game, 7-7, with four runs in the second inning. Folwell blasted a two-run double and scored on an error. Hardy also scored on an error.

Folwell, Reynolds, Clover and Hardy all scored two runs each in the game.

Ann Quiroz delivered the team’s only other hit against Homedale.

Mariah Kinney started the game and gave up all of Homedale’s runs on two hits and six walks. Audra Kendall and Hardy kept Homedale hitless over the next three innings.

Kinney and Barkell doubled as part of Marsing’s three hits in the Huskies’ 8-3 win over Caldwell JV in the tournament opener.

Hardy struck out four, scattered five hits and allowed only one earned run to get the six-inning victory.

Marsing closed the tourney with a 6-3 win over Middleton JV. A four-run fifth inning fueled the victory.

Kinney picked up one of her two RBI with a single to close out the scoring in the fifth inning. Audra Kendall and Sheyann Glorifield scored on errors, while Barkell reached on an error and scored on Kendall’s bunt.

Garcia places third twice for MHS track

A handful of top-five finishes propelled Marsing High School to fifth place in the boys’ track and field meet Thursday in Melba.

Eight boys’ teams, including Rimrock, entered the Melba Invitational at Dave Mangum Track.

Raul Garcia was the Huskies’ top performer.

The senior finished third twice.

He ran a 58.23-second 400 meters and then flung the discus 99 feet, 2 inches.

Fellow senior Ector Quebrado was third in the shot put at 36-8½.

Alexandre Heidt (12.12 seconds, 100 meters) and Andy Saenz (26.01, 200) pulled down fourth-place showings.

On the girls’ side, senior

Ofelia Herrera and freshman Angie Draper had the Huskies’ best finishes.

Dines had two hits apiece and four pitchers stifled the Class 1A Wildcats in a non-conference game on the Huskies’ diamond.

“It was more of a fun type game with both teams getting all their kids innings on the field and a chance to play kids that you can’t always get into the game,” Stacy said.

“I’d say both teams enjoyed the game, and Wilder has some really great kids on that team.”

Gonzalez got the start, allowing a run and two hits in the first three innings. Charlie Galvez, Kendall Freelove and Dines wrapped up the pitching chores.

to erase Melba's 3-2 lead and set up a rout.

Conner Carter drove in three runs with two singles in the third-inning uprising. Jake Deal also ripped a two-run single during the rally.

Deal knocked in three runs and scored three more times.

Carter also picked up his second victory of the week, scattering four hits over four innings. He was charged with five unearned runs; Homedale committed four errors.

Matthew Thatcher pitched the final three innings.

In the second game, Melba scored three runs in the top of the fifth inning to snap a 3-3 tie and then held off the Trojans' comeback try.

Homedale put runners on second and third with no outs in the bottom of the seventh when Melba reliever Danny Talbot hit Talon Freelove and Nash Johnson and then threw a wild pitch. Talbot settled down to strike out Lane Sale and Tyson Furlott then got Thatcher to pop up to end the game.

Carter scored to tie the game, 2-2, in the bottom of the first inning on Freelove's infield single. The Mustangs had scored two unearned runs in the top of the inning as Homedale committed the first of its four errors.

Homedale tied the game again, 3-3, in the bottom of the second when Thatcher led off with single and scored on Carter's sacrifice fly.

Once Melba took the lead for good, Homedale tried to get back into contention by scoring a couple of two-out runs.

In the bottom of the fifth, Nash Johnson drilled a double to left field with two outs and scored on Sale's infield single.

In the sixth, Collett's infield single was converted into a run when Deal rolled a grounder to shortstop.

Collett, Carter and Sale had two singles each as Homedale out-hit Melba.

Thursday: Homedale 21, Parma 0 (5) — Carter went 4-for-5 with five RBI and was one of three Trojans to score four times in a conference walk-over.

Deal was 3-for-3 with two doubles, four runs scored and two RBI.

Freelove smacked a two-run double in the Trojans' eight-run fifth inning.

Blake Patton also drove in two runs.

April 1: Homedale 8, Payette 5 — The Trojans erased the Pirates' 1-0 lead with back-to-back four-run rallies in the fifth and sixth innings.

Homedale grabbed a 4-1 lead with a two-out uprising in the fifth inning.

Jake Deal smacked a single to plate Furlott and Thatcher to give Homedale the lead. Deal scored when Carter reached on an error, and Carter came home on Patton's infield single.

Furlott, Thatcher and Carter had run-scoring singles in the sixth inning.

Trojans get chance to scout 2014 SRV track competition

Boys finish fifth at Parma Invite Homedale High School got a pretty good look at this year's track and field competition in the 3A Snake River Valley conference Thursday.

The Trojans' boys' squad finished fifth one spot ahead of the host squad in the Parma Invitational. Three of the four teams ahead of Homedale, though, were 3A SRV teams, including meet champion Weiser.

Weiser, Fruitland and Payette swept the top three spots in the team standings.

On the girls' side, Homedale finished ninth with all four conference rivals above the Trojans, including meet champ Payette.

No Trojans won championships Thursday, but there were a handful of runner-up performances.

Sophomore Josh Tolmie continued his strong season in the boys' 400, running a 54.13-second race that put him .33 of a second behind Weiser 10th-grader Nick Gluch.

listed as second in the 3,200 meters according to Athletic.net with a time of 10 minutes, 43.7 seconds. Another junior, Cole Hungate, didn't receive a placement in the Athletic.net standings, but apparently ran .05 of a second faster than his teammate.

Hungate was fourth in the 1,600 at 5:09.28, followed by Portwood at 5:11.58.

Sophomore Richard Symms was second in the discus with a toss of 135 feet, 6 inches. Fruitland senior Sam Lundy was 21 feet ahead of him.

Homedale school bid awarded
The Homedale Elementary School expansion/remodel project was slated to start this week.
The go-ahead was given last Wednesday to Sundance Construction in Boise by the Homedale School District Board of Trustees at a special meeting with director Frank Haylett and chairman Ron Geertson absent. This followed the board’s opening of the four bids submitted after the project was rebid.
In this second go-around, all four base bids came in under the $1,210,000 bond limit approved by HSD voters last August, and two of the four bids, with all six alternates included, came in under the limit.
The six alternates were items listed separately so the HSD board could cut one or all or none to meet the bond limit set by the district’s voters.

MINING NOTES. The Golden Chariot-Minnesota is turning out an abundance of richer ore than ever, and Superintendent Catalow expects to make a large increase in the shipment of bullion from that mine.
The South Chariot continues to develop splendidly. It is reported that they have struck it richer than ever in the Empire.
The War Eagle is improving every day.
Work is progressing as usual in the other mines, with the most encouraging prospects.
Superintendent Catalow has ceased hauling Golden Chariot ore to the Owyhee mill, on account of the impassable condition of the road, and will run it on slum till the first of June.
The South Chariot mill started up last Sunday on Golden Chariot ore. The Cosmos mill will also run on Golden Chariot ore as long as the roads will permit hauling thereto.
Theo. Culp has succeeded Billy Richards as foreman of the Silver Cord.
Placer miners on Jordan Creek and in the adjacent gulches are actively engaged in getting ready for operations.
The latest intelligence from the San Francisco Stock and Exchange Board quotes Golden Chariot selling at 14; South Chariot, 25; Empire, 7½; War Eagle, 3¾, Mahogany, 3½; Ida Ellmore, 3¾.
COUNTY WARRANTS ISSUED. The Auditor’s Report shows that County Warrants to the amount of $5,126.46 were issued during the quarter ending April 1, 1874, divided among various funds as follows: General Fund, $2,139.50; Expense, $411; Hospital, $1,784.00; School, $793.85.
THE COUNTY INDEBTEDNESS. Messrs. Wilbur & Angell were instructed by the Board of Commissioners to make a synopsis of their report on the financial condition of the County and cause the same to be published in the Avalanche, but, not being able to get it ready for this issue, the publication thereof is deferred till next week.

THE HUNTING PARTY. At the sound of the 12 o’clock whistle last Sunday night, Frank Hunt, Jerry Phillip, Frank Babb and Bob Bosserman left here with a two-horse sleigh bound on a hunting expedition to the Cow Creek Lakes. They were well supplied with shot-guns; ammunition, and a general camping outfit.
On Monday they rolled off the grade and wallowed in the snow all day, reaching Wagontown after dark.
Tuesday night they managed to get to Trout Creek, having been compelled to detach the horses and haul their sleigh by hand a portion of the way.
They procured a wagon at Trout Creek and on Wednesday night, camped with a band of Indians on Cow Creek, which is the last that we have heard of them.
Having consumed their stock of provisions and liquors, they sent up to Silver City by the stage for a pound of crackers, 2 pounds of butter and 4 gallons of whisky.
Yesterday morning, Johnny Bostick sent down the crackers, butter and whisky, together with a pair of ducks. Tom Walls also sent a chunk of beef to the hungry hunters.
Grub and whisky enough to last a week will be sent down to the boys in a day or two, and, if they stay away any longer, they will have to rustle for themselves — eat camas, and drink sage tea.
RANDOM GLEANINGS. The difference between having a tooth properly drawn, by a professional surgeon, and having it knocked out miscellaneously by a fall on the pavement, is only a slight distinction — one is dental and the other accidental.
It is no longer the vulgar title of “drunkenness,” but rather the polite and expressive title of “dipsomania” by which the evil is now to be known.

Commentary

On the edge of common sense

A cow hanging

John lives down the road from me. We have cattle across the fence from each other. He is good at a lot of things: carpentry, electronics, sports and hunting, but cows are not his strong suit. He runs a handful on 90 acres.

He called me one day askin’ if we had seen a cow of his. I told him we had cleared the pasture and had not seen her in with our bunch. I left town for a weekend, and when I returned he had left a message to call. I did. “I found her,” he said.

“Good,” says I, and then he tells me the story.

His pasture was pretty well grazed-over, so John walked the fence line to see if he could see a break (yes, he did walk it in his hiker boots, backpack, baseball cap and scope). There was a handmade cattle guard on an abandoned Forest Service road. The rundown gate (WPA 1968) had been pushed over. John walked through on to federal property.

After a thorough scanning of the hillside, he saw a dark object next to a span of cross fence. He actually used his Swarovski spotting scope. He traversed an arroyo and some rough ground before he reached the dark object. It was his cow, alright. She had tried to jump or claw through the barbed wire fence and got stuck!

Now, anybody who messes with cows has a story to tell about how tough cows are; how they’ve fallen out of trucks, been pulled out of the mud with horses and ropes, lifted with bucket loaders, hefted from wells by helicopter, rescued from flooded roof tops . . . I’ve seen them crash into a post and wobble off, get hit by a car or fall over a ledge, then roll, jump up and keep runnin’! Of course, delivering a 120-pound calf is no “piece of cake” either!

John’s cow had straddled the wire fence. She was dehydrated, had some swollen and infected lesions from the barbs. Her whole weight seemed to be sagging on the wire. She’d been there at least three days.

It took John an hour to walk back to the shed and get a pair of fencing pliers and return.

“Wow!” I said, “How’s she doin’ today?”

“Up and at’um. I’ve given her Penicillin. She’s in the corral. I’m feedin’ her. She’s actin’ like nothing happened.”

“Them cows are sure tough,” I said.

John had a habit of naming his cows, usually after something pertinent to their timing, personality or appearance. For example, he had a calf named Wednesday, a heifer named Rainy, a cow named Dolly Parton and an outlaw steer named Tiffany after his daffy sister-in-law.

“What did you name her?” I joked.

“Whataya think? Barbie!”

I would like to thank Mr. Falk for his recent letter to the editor (“Reader tries to clarify objects in Austrian Settlement photo,” J.A. “Jack” Falk, Murphy, March 26, 2014 edition of The Owyhee Avalanche). I am the person who submitted the picture, and I have been curious about the tractor and thresher.

He is absolutely correct; they are threshing grain as writing on the back of the picture reads, “This is a threshing machine at work. That man walking by the straw stack is Mr. John Demshar. Silvio (S.J.) Todeschi is on back of the sacks of grain. You can see a cap and a hat sticking up, and he’s the one with the hat on.”

I believe this photo was taken between 1928 and 1939 by my great aunt Jo (Josephine Demshar Todeschi).

There are at least eight other men — in addition to John Demshar and Silvio Todeschi — in the photo as best as I can tell. From the left is John Demshar (my great-grandfather), a man in the cab of the truck and one in back loading sacks, the two behind the sacked grain (one of whom is Silvio) and at least one fellow sewing sacks at the end of the grain spout, two guys pitching bundles and two watching them.

There is also a tank trailer to the right of the tractor. What you don’t see is the binder and stacking crew that put up the bundle stack.

Today, I can accomplish all that with one combine and a truck driver.

If anyone has any more information, please contact me. I would like to know who owned the thresher and what brand the tractor was.

The world is watching Obama’s display of weakness

Recent happenings on the international scene can’t help but confuse us out in the hinterland.

The lost airliner remains lost in spite of modern technology. Many theories have evolved, including the intervention of black holes and/or aliens.

Russian president Vladimir Putin invaded and annexed the Crimea. Our enlightened leader, Mr. Obama, said it was a sign of weakness on Putin’s part. From Obama’s point of view, Hitler exhibited weakness when he invaded and annexed Czechoslovakia.

While Putin is beating plowshares into swords, our commander-in-chief proposes turning swords into food stamps. This is supposed to impress the Putins of the world?

They are getting the message, and it indeed portrays weakness.

Reducing our military to pre-World War II levels is paramount to national suicide . . . ours.

On 7 December 1941, geography allowed us time to mobilize, but that safeguard no longer exists. Some unsavory characters have nuclear weapons, or the capability to create them, and they, too, are watching.

Bert Brackett, District 23 state senator

From the Statehouse Education funding was priority for Idaho Legislature in 2014

Now that the 2014 legislative session has ended, I would like to tell you what an honor it is to represent the good people of District 23 in the Idaho State Senate.

I want each of you to know how much I appreciate hearing from you and your input, letters, emails and telephone calls. More often than not, I get support or opposition on both sides of most issues. That is a very important part of the legislative process because if everyone thought the same as I do, then I am not doing my job. I try to keep an open mind and make thoughtful, informed decisions, which means your input is critical.

The economy continues to grow gradually, and our optimism for Idaho’s future grows as well. This has allowed the Legislature to restore funding in some areas where cuts were made to accommodate lower revenues during the recession, while not losing sight of efficiencies found during tough times. This year, the state budget is just over $2.9 billion, which is about a 5 percent increase in spending over last year. Included in that is a $5.1 percent increase in spending for K-12 education and just over a 6 percent increase for higher education. It also included a 2 percent increase in pay for state employees who have not had a pay raise in several years. Of that pay, 1 percent is permanent and 1 percent is a one-time bonus.

Before the legislative session started, we were asked to predict the outcome of some of the issues we were going to have to deal with in the 2014 session. One of the questions posed was whether we would do the politically expedient thing and pass a tax reduction measure and go home to campaign on tax relief, or, would we do the right thing and put additional badly needed money into our K-12 education system? I suggested on several occasions that we could do both by doing what we have been able to do. There has been tremendous support to increase education funding from operational (or discretionary) funding, technological support and some teacher pay increases. We have tried to start to implement the task force recommendations with the exception of the steps-and-lanes of the teacher salary schedule. This summer, a task force will address that issue and make recommendations which I expect will be well-received in the 2015 session.

Some of the highlights of the K-12 education funding bills:

- H639 — Increases discretionary funding from $20,000 to $22,401 per support unit. While this is a good start, there

Financial management How you spend cash you’ve earned isn’t Mom’s business

Dear Dave,
My husband and I are debt-free, and we have several hundred thousand dollars in savings. We pay for our children and grandchildren to visit during Christmas each year, but my mother thinks this is foolish spending.
What do you think?
— Linda

Dear Linda,
I’m sure your mom loves you guys a lot, but she’s wrong twice on this one. First, she should mind her own business. Second, you guys have obviously worked hard and been extremely smart and disciplined with your finances. For someone in your situation, bringing your family together for one of the most important days of the year isn’t foolish on any level. I think it’s awful that you’re even having this conversation with her.

One of my great dreams years ago was to have the ability to do things like that for my family. When I was 22, I worked for a real estate guy who would bring his entire family in from all over the country once a year to go skiing for a week. He and his wife would pay for everything. They would rent a nice chalet, and spend that time having fun as a family and growing closer together. I sort of borrowed that idea a while back. Once a year, we’ll take all our kids and their spouses on a nice vacation. We pay for everything, and it’s just one of our gifts to them because we love them.

So, I think your mom is completely wrong. There are three things you can do with money: spend, save and give. Trust me, giving is the most fun of all!

— Dave
Dear Dave,
Is it possible to book a hotel room without a credit card?
— James
Dear James,
Absolutely, it is. Just use a debit card.
I don’t have a credit card. When it comes to finances, the only pieces of plastic you’ll find in my wallet are two debit cards — one for my business, and the other for my personal account.
A Visa- or Mastercard-branded debit card can be used anywhere credit cards are accepted. And the best part is that you’re not borrowing money when you use one. The funds come directly from your checking account. Some hotels might put a temporary hold on your account for the amount in question, so you need to make sure you actually have the money in the bank. But that just makes sense, doesn’t it? You shouldn’t be traveling without money in the first place.

If you’re too broke to travel, then you need to stay home. Pretty simple!

From Washington Time is now to remove government from housing market

Beginning last year, Senate Banking Committee Chairman Tim Johnson (D-S.D.) and I held a series of in-depth hearings on how to reform our broken housing market. The hearings examined the massive taxpayer intervention for Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac that occurred in 2008, and the negative consequences that have arisen as a result of the federal government controlling almost the entire mortgage finance market since then. Building on those hearings and bipartisan legislation introduced by Sen. Bob Corker (R-Tenn.) and Mark Warner (D-Va.), Chairman Johnson and I recently circulated legislation to wind down Fannie and Freddie, end the government domination of the housing market and promote the re-entry of private capital into our housing finance system.
Fannie and Freddie greatly contributed to the housing bubble, the 2008 financial crisis and the resulting dramatic government intervention. In the lead-up to the crisis, they were dangerously undercapitalized, holding just 45 cents in capital for every 100 dollars in mortgages they guaranteed. The government assumed control of these two multi-trillion-dollar companies because they did not have enough capital to support expected losses. These forces culminated in a perfect storm, costing taxpayers more than $180 billion in bailouts, crushing our economy and undermining America’s international standing.

Since the crisis, the government has guaranteed no less than 95 percent of the housing finance market in any given year, leaving no room for the private market to re-enter and compete with the federal government. As a result, the U.S. taxpayer remains in the first-loss position, completely exposed to nearly 100 percent of future losses at Fannie and Freddie. If we do nothing, taxpayers will continue to be subjected to potential future economic crises related to the nearly $5 trillion in mortgages owned or guaranteed by the two entities. Inaction means more taxpayer money to fund future bailouts, continued government intervention in the housing market and the continuation of “too-big-to-fail.”
Our bipartisan proposal re-establishes the private sector as the engine of housing finance. Decisions regarding mortgage credit are moved to the private sector, rather than the government dictating how and to where credit flows. It establishes strong underwriting standards to assure solid mortgages. It places significant private capital ahead of the taxpayer in case the housing market experiences another downturn. We move away from the status quo, where Fannie and Freddie backed toxic mortgages and held basically no capital, to a system that protects taxpayers with a strongly capitalized private sector housing market.

Americans deserve a robust, sustainable housing finance system that will provide future economic opportunities for millions of families and individuals. There is strong, bipartisan support before the Senate Banking Committee to end the government conservatorship, wind down these too-big-to-fail companies and transition to a new system that relies on private capital to fund housing and makes taxpayer exposure to housing market risk extremely remote. It is time to move this legislation forward, reduce the government’s footprint and bring private capital back into the housing market.
— Republican Mike Crapo is Idaho’s senior member of the U.S. Senate. He is the ranking member of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee. Crapo is in his third six-year term and has served in the Senate since 1999. Prior to that, he was a three-term Idaho Second District congressman.

is still work to be done to get funding back up to the 2009 level of $25,696. We then need to keep up with inflation. There is interest in breaking health insurance out with a separate line item that would give some relief to school districts’ use of discretionary money.
• H504 — Teachers will be able to receive leadership “premiums” of between $850 and $5,780 annually for mentoring fellow teachers, teaching in multiple disciplines — like English and Math — or taking hard-to-fill jobs. The $16 million premiums are the first step in creating a career ladder program.
• S1233 — Creates scholarships of $200 for juniors and $400 for seniors to pay for dual-credit classes or test fees for advance placement classes or professional certification tests.
• S1372a — This bill establishes procedures for sharing information and requires reporting to the Legislature. Student information is critical in helping teachers help them graduate from high school and get ready for post-secondary education or to enter the workforce, but it is critically important to ensure that the information is protected and kept private and used only by appropriate educational authorities and for appropriate purposes. The State Board of Education has been directed to develop a model data protection policy for school districts. Districts also will be required to develop and implement data security policies.

• Secondary Agriculture Education Improvement Initiative — This was one of the most fun and rewarding efforts that I was a part of this year.
We were able to get added-cost allocations for Professional-Technical programs as the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee (JFAC) appropriated an additional $604,800 (an increase of $4,740 per classroom for the added costs of agricultural and natural resource education).
We also got $82,475 in the Agriculture and Research and Extension Service Budget to restore a full-time FFA executive director and support staff position.
• S1275 — The other part of the ag education initiative establishes two new grant programs to strengthen ag and natural resource education in public schools. Although the measure wasn’t funded this year, it establishes the policy and creates a challenge for the Legislature to get the funding next year.

One grant program provides incentive grants for instructors of ag and natural resource education programs offered in any grade 9 through 12 where the program meets or exceeds program quality standards established by the Board of Professional-Technical Education.
The other program provides start-up grants for school districts and public charter schools to begin or re-establish ag and natural resource education programs in grades 9-12.
