Commissioners break down FY 19 budget; Monday hearing set

Road, legal costs headline $1M increase

Improving employee pay and infrastructure are the primary reasons Owyhee County's budget is increasing more than $1 million.

The Board of County Commissioners will hold a public hearing on the proposed fiscal year 2019 budget at 10 a.m. on Monday in Murphy.

The budget to be discussed inside Courtroom 2 is set at $11,227,030, which is 10.7 percent higher than the current appropriations of $10,142,877.

The county's budget includes pay raises of various degrees for employees and salary increases of between two percent and four percent for most elected officials.

But the largest portions of the increase are earmarked for construction materials for County P&Z commissioners forward zoning change ideas

BOCC sets hearing; Murphy, Marsing land uses to be scrutinized next

County zoning ordinance changes inspired by feedback during meetings in Homedale will be subject to a public hearing next month.

The Owyhee County Planning and Zoning Commission finalized its recommendations for the Board of County Commissioners on changes that will affect rural zoning throughout the county.

The BOCC’s public hearing will be held at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 4.

P&Z commissioners forwarded recommendations after a July 25 public meeting that received no attendance.

A draft document had been under review since May, and the P&Z commission added the definition of a residential subdivision after its final deliberations last month.

A residential subdivision is

“the cumulative division of an original parcel into more than four parts for the purpose of residential use.”

The revised ordinance on which county commissioners will take comment next month also includes a light industrial definition.

Other proposed changes in the zoning ordinance include:

- Adding a table of contents
- Changing a residential subdivision to an allowed use in a residential zone. Currently, subdivisions are a permitted use in those zones.
- Adds “except residential subdivisions” in the allowed uses list in both multi-use and commercial zones.

Copies of the ordinance amendments are available in the Planning and Zoning office, 17069 Basey St., in Murphy.

The proposed changes also can be viewed under the Community Development tab on www.owyheecounty.net.

Call (208) 495-2095, ext. 2 for more information.

More county P&Z public meetings planned

Dates haven’t been set yet, but the Community Development Department has reached out to residents in the rural areas between Marsing and Murphy in preparation for another round of public meetings regarding zoning preferences.

The meetings will be similar to those held in Homedale regarding the area outside that city’s limits.

These new meetings will pertain to areas outside the Marsing city limits.

Marsing’s area of impact and all rural county areas along the Idaho highway 78 corridor to Murphy are included in the next round of analysis.

Residents in that area will receive (or should have already received) a letter including a map of the area, a letter of explanation and a survey.

The survey includes questions to gauge what residents would like to see in the way of development (or lack thereof) and land uses in the area of analysis.

Homedale council OKs second police K9

Land swap near airport with Westowns goes through

The Homedale Police Department has been given the green light to acquire another canine officer.

The city council signed off on a $3,500 expenditure during its meeting last Wednesday.

Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller told elected officials about the availability of a German shepherd shorthair dog that already has been trained to detect three illicit drugs – methamphetamine, heroin, and cocaine.

Most of the money to buy the dog will come from HPD’s narcotics recovery fund, proceeds of which come from asset forfeitures during drug seizures. That fund has $2,700 in the fiscal year 2018 budget.

“Seventy-five percent of the cost of the dog will be paid by the drug dealers,” Eidemiller said.

The chief also said that there would be no additional cost for equipping a patrol vehicle to carry a dog.

Officer Andrew Arnold will go through a 160-hour handler training course in Ada County, and he will transfer to the K-9-compatible police car used by Officer Karl Kingston.

Kingston and current K-9 officer Brady will return to school resource officer duty when Homedale students return to class Monday. Kingston now patrols in a SUV unit.

“The advantage is we’ll have a dog for patrol on the night shift,” Kingston said, referring to the fact that Arnold works night.

Brady joined the force last year after being flown from Maine. She was a free acquisition, and Eidemiller said Kingston owns the dog.

The new dog would be a city asset, Eidemiller said. He added that boarding and other needs for the animal would be paid for through a private account set up to accept donations during the late K-9 officer Goose’s illness.

That account still receives donations, Eidemiller said.

The new dog hasn’t been trained to detect marijuana, and the chief said such training won’t take place until the legality of CBD oil in Idaho is figured out.

City finalizes land exchange with Westowns

The City of Homedale and Westowns Disposal Inc., will swap parcels of equal size near the municipal airport.

After last Wednesday’s public hearing, the city council voted 3-0 to exchange a 3,429-square-foot piece of ground for a piece of equal area. The move will alter the airport’s southeastern boundary.

No citizens provided testimony for or against the move.

During the public hearing, Councilman Mike Aebischer said that the swap would allow Westowns Disposal to use 53-foot trailers in conjunction with its new tipping station at the company’s headquarters located between the airport and Industrial Road.

The shifting of the parcels will allow enough room for Westowns’ drivers to turn the longer trailers around.

Westowns owner Bill Pastoor wasn’t present for the hearing.

Homedale council OKs $5M budget

Federal grant for airport fence comprising half of $400K increase

The Homedale City Council passed a $5 million budget last Wednesday after one resident demanded tangible results to justify the nearly nine percent increase.

Marty Geselle was the most vocal of the two citizens who spoke during the public hearing about the city’s proposed fiscal year 2019 budget.

“Five million dollars is a lot of money. I want to see things done,” Geselle told the council during a testimonial during which she sometimes slammed her hand on the wooden divider between the gallery and the council lectern.

“These are the things we’re paying for, and if we’re going to be paying this (much), we should see improvements.”

Geselle demanded improvements to streets, sidewalks, and the sewer system, and general cleanup as part of the city’s plan if that much money was going to be spent.

Elected officials tried to explain to Geselle that the budget doesn’t necessarily reflect what the city plans to spend once the fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

“Just because it’s budgeted doesn’t mean we going to spend it,” Mayor Gheen Christoffersen said, explaining that the budget much reflect anticipated revenue, such as grants, even if that money may never be realized.

Councilman Mike Aebischer explained that the budget had to reflect the nearly $500,000 Idaho Community Development Block Grant that the city has received to add on to the public library. But the library budget is increasing less than $25,000 to $873,890. The grant has been on the books for two years because of the possibility of receiving it.

The grant was awarded in FY 18, and officials have said the project to add 3,900 square feet to the library footprint is supposed to start next month.

The largest increase between FY 18 and FY 19 is more than $185,000 in the municipal airport budget. City Clerk and Treasurer Alice Pegram explained earlier that the city has received a Federal Aviation Administration grant to build a fence around the riverside airport.

With Councilman Tim Downing missing the meeting with an excused absence, the council voted 3-0 to approve the $5,003,885 budget, which reflects a $411,510 increase from FY 18.

The only other person to speak up during the public hearing was Jeannie Wilkerson, who asked if the city’s area of impact would benefit from the budget.

Christoffersen explained that the city draws no taxes from property in the area of impact, so the budget only covers needs within the city limits.

Homedale’s Jacob Morris (left), 12, enjoys the cool water of the city’s pool with his friend Felipe Wages, 12, of Wilder, on Friday afternoon. Friday’s high temperature in Homedale was 101 degrees. On Saturday, the mercury reached 104 degrees. The boys appear to be swimming in green water because the municipal pool has been plagued recently by a non-toxic algae.

Homedale municipal pool will close for the year on Saturday

Saturday is the last day of the season at the Homedale swimming pool.

The pool always closes right before the school year begins.

City public works supervisor Bret Smith told the city council last Wednesday that there has been an algae problem at the pool recently.

Smith said the algae wasn’t toxic, unlike the blue-green algae blooms that have been encountered in bodies of water in the Treasure Valley.

He said the swimming pool’s algae problem has been treated with chlorine disinfectant and shock treatments.

City councilman: No library construction fund shortage after all

Two months after he announced that library expansion construction costs were higher than expected, Homedale City Councilman Mike Aebischer says everything is square now.

During last Wednesday's council meeting, Aebischer said that the Homedale Public Library construction funding shortage — originally reported as about $60,000 in the June council meeting — was actually $44,000 "on paper."

But, Aebischer added, the shortage was actually just $17,000 because $27,000 of the total accounted for contingency funding.

"But, with the Opal Nash (family) donation of $20,000, we don't have a shortfall at all, other than the contingency," Aebischer said.

City Clerk and Treasurer Alice Pegram relayed that library administrator Sharla Jensen has said an unidentified Homedale business has offered to contribute $1,000 to the construction effort.

Because the library's appropriations are held in the city budget, the city council must vote to accept any donations. No vote has been taken on the Opal Nash family donation.

The library expansion, which would grow the facility's footprint at 125 W. Owyhee Ave., from 1,300 square feet to 4,900 square feet, is being financed primarily through an Idaho Community Development Block Grant of nearly $500,000 and a pledged $100,000 donation from the Jackson family contingent on the library being renamed in honor of late longtime library board member Gypsy Jackson.

According to the grant documentation, work on the expansion is supposed to start next month.

✓ Budget: County severs all ties with WAED after community feedback planned road improvements and public defense attorney needs for a man accused of first-degree murder and his two alleged conspirators.

Those line items amount to appropriations of nearly $1.55 million ($500,000 for conflict defense attorney and capital crimes defense costs, $775,000 for construction materials in Road and Bridge District 1, and $270,000 for materials in District 3).

Because of a fund balance from FY 2018 and increased state revenue, no tax levy will be necessary for road repair funding, County Clerk Angie Barkell said.

Improvements could be seen on Sinker Butte Road, a portion of Reynolds Creek Road, and Murphy Flat Road, commissioners said.

While there will be no tax levy for road and bridge work, county property owners will see a three percent increase in their solid waste fees.

Solid waste fees on rise

Commissioners are raising the rates because of an increase in the county’s Westowns Disposal Inc., contract, and the addition of three dumpsters in Grand View and one in Murphy. Those dumpsters are operated by Snake River Rubbish.

Residential solid waste fees will increase $2 to $57, while the commercial rate will raise $4 to $114. Property owners who enroll in the Circuit Breaker tax discount program will pay $28.50 ($1 more than during FY 2018).

Barkell said much of the $400,000 budgeted for the capital defense needs for Nicholas Vandenberg, Willie Raby and Montanna Reed could be reimbursed from the state capital defense fund. The county budgeted $350,000 in FY 2018 for the legal costs associated with the murder case.

Commissioners also are budgeting thousands of dollars in different departments to save for a new vehicle. A new vehicle for the coroner’s office must be purchased in the near future, too, the commissioners said.

County leaves WAED

One big change in the budget comes because Owyhee County’s exit from the Western Alliance for Economic Development.

BOCC chair Kelly Aberasturi said the decision to leave the WAED grew out of public feedback.

“It was very clear when we did the zoning (public meetings) in Homedale that people didn’t want development unless it’s in the impact zone of the city,” Aberasturi said. “At this point, I don’t see much business moving into the area for now.”

More than $80,000 was removed from the budget because the county no longer will serve as WAED’s fiscal agent nor will it have to pay annual dues. Gem County has agreed to handle the pass-through money that the economic development organization receives.

Barkell said that — in addition to $7,000 for WAED dues — the county spent about $4,000 each year to administer the economic development organization’s fiscal business.

Owyhee County was the final governmental entity south of the Snake River that was involved with WAED. The county’s three municipalities pulled out in previous years.

Commissioners have retained $3,000 with hopes of forming a District 3 economic development group similar to the District 4 organization out of Twin Falls that is helping the Bruneau Water and Sewer District with fiscal administration of its wastewater treatment upgrades.

County to fund fair hall

Another $49,500 has been budgeted in a new commissioners budget line for engineering fees. Civil Dynamics has been retained to help with construction of the community center to replace the Homedale Armory at the county fairgrounds. The money comes from an Idaho Community Development Block Grant.

Commissioners plan to use building trust money to pay for the new community center, which will be in place by the 2019 county fair.

“The community center is going to go in,” Aberasturi said. “It’s going to be done.”

Aberasturi said the commissioners decided against reapplying for the ICDBG because the state program uses federal funding that requires Davis-Bacon wages, which would substantially increase the final price tag of the project (as compared to self-financing).

The county fair grounds and building fund includes $120,000 that Aberasturi said could eventually be used to replace the covered grandstands in the rodeo arena.

She’s the granddaughter of Cathy Sellman and the late Chet Sellman. Her great-grandfather is Ray Colyer.

Her mother, Carla Sellman Carley, was a champion showman at the Owyhee County Fair, and her cousin showed a steer at this year’s fair in Homedale.

Information provided by her grandmother, Cathy, also reflects that she is a descendant of James and Eliza Black, who were among the original settlers in the Bruneau Valley.

Emma was named Miss Congeniality in the 2018

Regional workshop offers insight for local cattlemen

Scott Jensen, the county agent in Owyhee, reminds cattle producers that registration is open for a regional two-day educational seminar.

The Stockmanship & Stewardship Regional event will be held on Oct. 12-13 at the TRAC facility in Pasco, Wash.

Stockmanship experts Curt Pate and Ron Gill are among the presenters.

Stockmanship & Stewardship features low-stress cattle handling demonstrations, Beef Quality Assurance (BQA) educational sessions to best run an operation, and industry updates.

With a regional focus in mind, the planning committee of Washington, Idaho and Oregon Cooperative Extension staff will share applicable research in beef production, animal health as well as range and pasture management for Pacific Northwest beef producers.

“Improving your stockmanship skills is a very low cost, high return investment of time and money to improve profit and the quality of life for humans and animals,” Pate said, “and that’s what the Stockmanship & Stewardship programs are all about.”

Producers can become BQA-certified through this event as well as network with fellow producers, partake in hands-on demonstrations from stockmanship experts as well as learn grazing management techniques.

There will also be a Youth for the Quality Care of Animals (YQCA) certification, which many local fairs are now requiring of their youth exhibitors.

“These events allow producers to network with one another and learn from industry experts about real-world solutions to everyday problems they encounter on their operations,” National Cattlemen’s Beef Association director of BQA Chase DeCoite said. “Beyond animal handling, each of these events incorporates valuable information about animal health, environmental stewardship, and much more.”

The program is sponsored by the NCBA, Boehringer Ingelheim, and the checkoff-funded National Beef Quality Assurance program.

To learn more and register for the upcoming Stockmanship & Stewardship event, visit www.StockmanshipAndStewardship.org.

HHS drama camp, auditions on horizon

Theater season for Homedale High School is set to begin this weekend.

The drama club will hold a camp for theater aspirants from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday in Stacy Holton’s room at the school.

This year’s drama camp will feature a special guest, Edith Dull, who will instruct students on theatrical warm-up, audition practices and vocal projection, drama club advisor DeAnn Thatcher said.

All students from ninth to 12th grades are invited to attend the camp.

The drama club will hold auditions at 10 a.m., on Saturday for its fall performance of the musical “Sleepy Hollow,” by Vera Morris, with music and lyrics by Bill Francoeur.

Thatcher said that, besides acting, students are needed to do backstage work, run lights, operate the curtain, work with sound, take pictures, run the video camera, help with costumes and makeup, and move, build and paint sets.

“That’s the thing about drama,” Thatcher said. “There is something for everyone if they have a desire to be a part of it.”

The Sleepy Hollow production will be presented on Oct. 11 and Oct. 13.

Silver City native killed in WW I remembered

One wreath and an informational card were placed at John Regan's final resting place in Boise's Morris Hill Cemetery.

John Regan was prominent in Boise society

An Owyhee County native has been recognized for service to his country and sacrificing his life during the final months of World War I.

John M. Regan was commemorated by the Idaho World War I Centennial Commission on Aug. 4 with a formal wreath-laying at the Regan family plot at Morris Hill Cemetery in Boise.

A second ceremony was held at Veterans Memorial Park in Boise at the U.S. Veterans of World War I Memorial in the center of the Patriot Walk.

Both ceremonies came on the 100th anniversary of his death on the battlefield in France.

Regan was born in Silver City, the son of Timothy and Rose Blackinger Regan, on Feb. 6, 1886.

The senior Regan was a successful miner in Owyhee County before moving the family to Warm Springs Avenue in Boise in 1889. His mother's family owned the War Eagle Hotel.

After his move to Boise, Regan attended St. Theresa's Academy and earned his college degree from Santa Clara College in California. He returned to Boise in 1904 where he managed the family business, became active in politics, and became a philanthropist, according to the TAG Historical Research website.

He worked for the Boise Artesian Hot and Cold Water Co., and managed the Overland Building (later called the Eastman Building) on North 8th Street in Boise.

Regan was also active in the Knights of Columbus, serving as Toastmaster at dances and other events.

He enlisted as a private in the Idaho National Guard, Company H, 2nd Idaho Infantry, in February 1912, receiving a lieutenant's commission.

Idaho's Guard units were sent to the Mexican border in 1915. Regan resigned his commission and reenlisted as a private so he could go to the border. During that time, he achieved the rank of sergeant and then recommissioned as lieutenant before returning to Idaho.

Regan was still in the service when the United States entered World War I in April 1917. He asked to be reassigned to the infantry and was sent to France as a lieutenant assigned to Company D, 128th Infantry, 32nd Division.

Regan was being recognized as a war hero on the centennial of his being killed in action in France during the Great War.

Regan was killed in action near Cierges, France, on Aug. 1, 1918 as French and American forces tried to unseat the German army.

Regan led a unit on an attack against the edge of the German line at Bellevue Farm.

Regan's mother received a letter from him the same day his brother received a letter of condolence from one of Regan's friends who had been serving with him when he died, according to TAG.

He was buried on the battlefield in France, but in 1921, his body was returned to Boise and interred in the family plot at Morris Hill Cemetery.

In May 1919, Regan's family found out that he had been recognized for his valor with the Distinguished Service Cross.

The American Legion has a Boise post named in his honor, John Regan Post No. 2.

According to its press release, "The mission of the Idaho World War I Centennial Commission is to educate Idahoans about our long-forgotten Doughboys, Blue Jackets, Army Nurses and Doctors, Signal Corps WOs, Air Aces and more."

Marsing's FY 19 budget approved

After receiving no public input, the Marsing City Council approved the Fiscal Year 2019 budget at last Wednesday's meeting.

At $4,099,069, the new budget is 30 percent higher than the appropriations under which the city is currently operating.

The new fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

After the approval of the FY 19 budget, council OK'd the transfer of $10,000 from the general fund to the irrigation fund to line up the finalized budget with the document that was published ahead of the public hearing.

Sidewalks nearly finished

Kirby Cook of city engineering contractor Civil Dynamics told councilmembers that the Idaho highway 78 sidewalk project is nearing completion.

The cement work creates a pedestrian walkway on west side of the highway (a.k.a. 8th Avenue West) from Bosma Lane past the schools to a point across from the Labor Camp.

"All the sidewalk is in," Cook said. "They put up all the fence in front of the sidewalk at the elementary school. The bollards are set. They just need to load the gates back on to the bollards."

Council members said they were impressed with the appearance of the new sidewalk.

"It looks really sharp," Mayor James Ferdinand said.

Cook anticipates the completion of the Island Park boat docks this fall.

"We were originally going to go with the plastic EZ docks," Cook said. "I don't think that's a good option. They do look like they deteriorate pretty fast."

City sells property

Council approved the sale of its property at 410 Simpkin Ln., to Amvac Chemical Corp., which has leased the property for many years.

Amvac will pay $90,000 for the property. The company made the only submission when bids were sought last month.

The 2.5 acres of land were valued at $40,000 per acre or $100,000.

Marsing man busted for second DUI

A Marsing man is out on bail after arrest on suspicion of drunk driving last Wednesday.

Owyhee County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Lynn Bowman said a deputy stopped Don Michael Ferney, 66, near Cemetery Road in Marsing for having a non-functioning low-beam headlight.

The deputy reported a strong odor of alcohol coming from Ferney, who subsequently failed a field sobriety test.

Bowman said Ferney's blood-alcohol content was measured at .104%.

The DUI charge is Ferney's second in 10 years.

Californians face drug charges after Marsing traffic stop

Two California men face drug-related charges after a traffic stop on Aug. 7 on Main Street in Marsing.

Owyhee County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Lynn Bowman said a vehicle driven by Kevin Loiseau, 36, from Dublin, Calif., was pulled over for speeding.

Loiseau admitted to being in possession of marijuana, according to Bowman. Bowman said the deputy at the scene witnessed the marijuana, too.

A search of the vehicle produced two mason jars in the back seat containing marijuana. A total of 3.52 ounces was found.

The passenger of the vehicle, Donny Bailey, 36, of North Highlands, Calif., admitted to possessing drug paraphernalia, Bowman said.

Loiseau faces a misdemeanor charge of possession of a controlled substance, while Bailey is being charged with misdemeanor possession of drug paraphernalia.

Both men were cited and released.

Friends continue to rally for deputy fighting cancer

Auction item donations are still coming in for benefit planned Friday, Aug. 24 to help a law enforcement long respected in Homedale and Owyhee County.

Owyhee County Sheriff's Sgt. Gary Olsen has spent nearly 40 years serving first as a Homedale Police officer than as a sheriff's deputy.

The Homedale-area resident has been diagnosed with stage 4 cancer, and his friends and colleagues have rallied to present a benefit dinner and auction.

The fundraiser takes place from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 24 at Txoko Ona Basque Center, 333 S. Main St., in Homedale.

To help with Olsen's medical expenses, there will be a tri-tip dinner for $10 per plate. There will also be various raffle items, and both a live and silent auction.

Donations for the benefit, including raffle and auction items, can be left at Marsing City Hall, 425 Main St.

Sponsors for the event include the Txoko Ona Basque

Gary Olsen

Club, which has donated the space for the benefit and dinner, and Homedale Fire Department.

After leaving the Homedale Police Department, Olsen served as the OCSO school resource officer in Homedale and Marsing. He was named the TRIAD Owyhee County Deputy of the Year in 2006.

Olsen has served as OCSO's patrol sergeant most recently, and he is credited with serving as a mentor for many of the deputies who have worked for the sheriff's office over the past four decades.

Homedale teen's stroke triggers surgery, support

Taco feed benefit scheduled at HMS Meet the Teacher Night

A Homedale teenager has already had one surgery to combat a rare vascular disease and is in need of a second.

Lane Griswold, who will be starting his freshman year at Homedale High School on Monday, was diagnosed with moyamoya disease, a cerebrovascular disorder in which arteries at the base of the brain become blocked.

On July 7, 14-year-old Lane had a stroke.

"I came home from work and Lane was talking, and all of the sudden, he tripped," Lane's mother Christina Griswold said. "That's not that unusual. He is a 14-year-old boy.

"Then he said 'My arm's numb,' and he was talking and not making any sense. He sounded like he had had dental surgery. We knew something was definitely wrong."

The family took Lane to see a doctor and, after testing, the doctor told the Griswolds that Lane had a stroke.

After more tests, they were informed that he had moyamoya disease, which is Japanese for "puff of smoke."

"It's a rare disease," Christina said. "What makes it even more rare is that he has it in both arteries.

"Usually people will get it in one artery and then develop it in the other artery later in life. Lane got it in both arteries at once."

Christina said the family is counting their blessings.

"We were actually pretty lucky," she said. "Normally with this disease, they don't catch it until there's a massive stroke and permanent damage is done."

During Lane's July 16 surgery, a surgeon redirected the affected artery.

"They basically gave him two arteries, one going to the left lobe and the other going in the center," Christina said.

After Dr. Edward Duckworth performed the 6½-hour surgery at St. Luke's Medical Center, Lane stayed in the hospital four days.

Lane's parents — Christina and Lance — feel blessed that Dr. Duckworth was available, as he had only been in the area for a couple years. Christina said that if he hadn't been here, they would have likely had to go to San Diego or Stanford for treatment.

Lane refused to be intimidated by the surgery.

"I wasn't really scared," he said.

Like many teenagers, Lane was concerned with how he would look.

"Lane's only question before the surgery was to ask the doctor if he was going to have to shave his head," Christina said.

The doctors made it apparent when he was initially diagnosed that there was really no choice but to do the surgery. The Griswolds were told that without the surgery Lane would continue to have strokes and aneurysms and would probably die, Christina said.

She said they are not positive what the long-term prognosis is for Lane's condition.

"With any luck, he has these surgeries and we're good," she said.

Since his surgery a month ago, the doctors are impressed with how well Lane is doing. He doesn't really have a whole lot of restriction on what activities he can take part in.

"He was told he can ride his bike, but he can't do tricks," Christina said. "No roughhousing. He really just needs to make sure he doesn't hit his head."

Moyamoya disease is more prevalent in females, so Christina said she wants to have Lane's sister Chacota, 18, tested as well.

"We don't want any surprises," she said.

Lane will need to have a second surgery, but one has not been scheduled yet.

A taco feed and silent auction fundraiser organized by family friend Lindsey Love will take place from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Thursday at Homedale Middle School, 3437 Johnstone Rd.

The taco feed costs $5 per plate.

Money raised during the fundraiser will go toward Lane's medical needs.

"Lindsey was in California, but she called me and asked if anyone was doing anything to help us, community-wise," Christina said. "She decided she would do it."

"I asked her if there was anything I could do to help, and she said, 'Nope, I got this.' She got all the donations for food. She just took it and ran with it."

Blanksma sets times for legislative updates

Megan Blanksma has scheduled two public meetings to give legislative updates.

The Hammett Republican occupies Dist. 23, Seat B in the Idaho House of Representatives.

Blanksma’s legislative updates will take place from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. on:

- Tuesday — The Bowling Alley, 18 N. 1st St. W., Homedale
- Tuesday, Aug. 28 — Carl Miller Park in Mountain Home.

At last month’s Owyhee Cattlemen’s Association summer meeting in Silver City, Blanksma said she had received assurances that the Idaho Constitutional Defense Fund Council would meet this year to discuss possible reimbursement of two Owyhee County ranchers who racked up hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal fees fighting the federal government for stock water rights.

During the 2018 Idaho Legislature, both the House of Representatives and the state Senate passed Blanksma’s House Proclamation 1 urging the council to consider using the Constitutional Defense Fund to consider paying cattlemen Tim Lowry and Paul Nettleton for the attorneys’ fees they incurred while defending the state’s sovereignty in a decade-long court battle against the Bureau of Land Management.

In Silver City, Blanksma said she had been assured that the council – comprised of Gov. C. L. “Butch” Otter, Attorney General Lawrence Wasden, Speaker of the House Scott Bedke and Senate Pro Tem Brent Hill – would convene before the end of Otter’s third term in office.

“They haven’t given me an exact date, but it’ll be before Jan. 1,” Blanksma said.

Having won the GOP primary in May, Blanksma is seeking reelection in November against a challenge from Constitutional candidate Tony Ullrich, a Hammett resident running as a write-in.

HHS gearing up to offer driver’s ed again

Homedale High School’s driver’s education program will begin new sessions next month.

The first session will run Sept. 7 to Sept. 23. Classes will be held from 8 a.m. to 11:20 a.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Online registration is available from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 31. Enrollment will be capped at 15 students and is filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

The cost is $180, and a mandatory parents meeting will be held on Sept. 5.

To be eligible for driver’s education, students must be 14½ years old. They also must obtain a learner’s permit from the Division of Motor Vehicles.

The permit costs $21.50, and students must present a birth certificate, Social Security number, Verification of Compliance form (obtained through their high school office), proof of residence and a photo ID (a yearbook would suffice) when they buy the permit at DMV.

The September Homedale driver’s education class and each subsequent session will be limited to 15 students, but the enrollment fee has not been set yet.

The schedule is subject to change.

Session 2 — Classes will be held from 8 a.m. to 11:20 a.m., on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays between Oct. 19 and Nov. 4.

Online registration will take place from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Oct. 12.

The mandatory parents’ meeting is set for Oct. 17.

Session 3 — Classes will be held from 8 a.m. to 11:20 a.m., on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays between Jan. 18 and Feb. 3.

Online registration will take place from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Jan. 11.

The mandatory parents’ meeting is set for Jan. 16.

Session 4 — Classes will be held from 8 a.m. to 11:20 a.m., on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays between May 31 and June 16.

Online registration will take place from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. on May 24.

The mandatory parents’ meeting is set for May 29.

Paint, decals brighten Homedale’s fire plugs

Alforex Seed employees went to work recently to repaint dozens of fire hydrants in downtown Homedale.

The workers painted 24 hydrants bright red as part of the company’s annual community service project.

The City of Homedale provided the paint and other supplies.

The hydrants were located down Idaho Avenue and Main Street and also near the town’s three schools.

Each refurbished hydrant was festooned with an interlocking “HT” decal designed and donated by John and Melanie Mitchell from Voodoo Graphx, located at 6 W. Idaho Ave. — TK

Officials maintain conservative E. Oregon sage-grouse hunt

Monday is the last day to apply for permits to hunt sage-grouse in Eastern Oregon.

The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife has made available a limited number of permits for controlled hunts.

Results will be available on Aug 31, and the hunting season will run from Sept. 8 to Sept. 16.

There are two changes in permit applications over the 2017 regulations:

- No permits will be issued for the Juniper Unit this year.

The population has been slow to recover from the 160,000-acre Miller Homestead Fire in 2012, and harvest success has been minimal.

Mikal Cline, ODFW upland game bird coordinator, is optimistic the Juniper Unit change will not be permanent.

“Sagebrush habitat takes time to recover after a fire. We are seeing some positive evidence in the Whitehorse Unit that sage-grouse are bouncing back after the 336,000-acre Holloway Fire, which also burned in 2012,” she said.

- Permits in the North Wagontire Unit are reduced from 30 to 20 in a conservation measure to keep harvest below the five percent threshold.

ODFW’s rigorous process to set sage-grouse seasons uses a variety of data sources collected throughout the year to predict fall population sizes in each hunt unit.

“We are one of the only states in the West to calculate population size to set our tag allocations,” Cline said.

Helping Homedale at City Hall

City spends $450 to bring color to front of municipal building

City employees Bill and Janet McDaniels, Homedale RV Park caretakers, spent time hauling rock and planting flowers to beautify the entrance to City Hall recently.

City Clerk and Treasurer Alice Pegram said the city spent $450 on wine barrel and ceramic planters, flowers, rock and a new ashcan.

The city will apply for a $250 reimbursement through the Chamber of Commerce's Helping Homedale program, Pegram said.

Mayor Gheen Christoffersen and Pegram came up with the design.

Man handed over to feds after county DUI conviction

A man arrested convicted of excessive driving under the influence is now apparently in federal custody.

Aurelio Najar Betancourt was sentenced on Aug. 7 in the courtroom of Magistrate Judge Dan C. Grober.

An Owyhee County Sheriff's deputy arrested Najar Betancourt on July 19 on misdemeanor charges of excessive DUI and possessing an open container of alcohol while driving.

Court records contained no sentencing information for the man, who didn't have a hometown listed either.

A check of VINELink.com, however, shows that 31-year-old was transferred to custody of U.S. immigration officials.

• Irven P. Wade of Sacramento, Calif., has been given a suspended jail sentence after his conviction for DUI.

Wade was sentenced on July 31, more than two months after an Owyhee County Sheriff's deputy arrested him for misdemeanor drunk driving.

Wade served three days in jail after his arrest.

Grober gave Wade credit for his time in jail then suspended the balance of a six-month sentence. He also took away Wade's driving privileges for six months and ordered the man to pay $650 in court costs.

LEGALS AND CLASSIFIEDS, PAGES 10-15B

Marsing's Austin Williams hangs on during his 77-point ride Saturday night. His effort in the final performance secured the Owyhee County Rodeo's Idaho Cowboy Association bareback championship.

Thrilling Saturday caps county rodeo

Seven buckles decided on final-night rides

It has been a few years since the Owyhee County Rodeo was decided with a championship Saturday.

When people look back on 2018 in Homedale, though, they'll think the Idaho Cowboys Association rodeo returned to a Saturday short-go.

Five professional buckles were secured in Saturday's final go-round at the county fairgrounds.

And the ranch bronc leadership changed hands three times in six rides Saturday night.

Dayce Tamez, the final cowboy to compete, captured the buckle with a 77-point ride at the last possible moment. After Jeremiah Boone grabbed the lead at 75 points with Saturday's first ride, Bruneau's Zack Tindall followed up immediately with a 76-point go. Monte Johnson tied Tindall with the night's fifth ride before Tamez ended the wild suspense.

After the local team roping event on Thursday, the Owyhee County Rodeo Board presented Saint Alphonsus Breast Care with a $3,000 check as part of the ongoing Kick Cancer drive.

Marsing's Austin Williams led off a sparse bareback flight Saturday with a 77-point ride to secure the championship. He was the only cowboy to complete a ride Saturday night.

Klancy Krenka's 71 from Friday night was the ride to beat heading into the final performance.

Samantha Kerns crashed through a logjam in breakaway roping Saturday.

She won the buckle with a 2.3-second performance after watching Marsing's Shelby Dines and Melba's Kayla Ties pull off 2.6-second runs to create a five-way tie at the top earlier in Saturday's go-round.

Dakota Munns pulled off a 77-point championship ride in saddle bronc Saturday. Jake Clark's 75 on Saturday had tied previous leader Brad Rudolf, who rode Friday night.

Three ICA buckles were secured with Friday performances:

- Ryan Opie and Chase Hansen pulled off a 5.3-second run in team roping.
- Ringo Robinson pushed ahead in tie down roping with an 8.8-second showing.
- Jonathan Villagrana won the novice saddle bronc title with a 50-point ride. He was the only competitor to finish a ride all week.

Morton McCoy's 62-point ride from Thursday's first night of rough stock held up for the bull riding championship.

Zach Greene rode to 56 points Thursday night and wound up as the novice bull riding buckle holder.

Jordan Minor raced through the barrels in 17.422 seconds during last Wednesday's slack, and when the dust cleared Saturday, she was champion.

In the local events, two championships were decided in Saturday's third and final performance.

The Homedale-area mother-daughter duo of Katie Jo and Sloan McFarlane posted an 11.6-second effort to win the local team roping.

Katie Jo's son Trell racked up an 80-point performance to secure the steer riding buckle Saturday.

Oakley McKenzie's 80-point ride from Thursday night's opening round held up to all challenges in mutton busting.

Maddox Young shows superb form, but can't hold on during Saturday's George and Juanita Johnstone Memorial mutton busting.

Sweepstakes winner

Paul’s Markets was the overall sweepstakes winner Saturday in the Owyhee County Fair and Rodeo parade sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi. The creators of the float interpreted this year’s theme “Owyhee County Standing Proud” as a bountiful harvest.

Hike may force ranchers to find home off range

The president of the Owyhee Cattlemen’s Association said the Clinton Administration’s proposal to more than double grazing fees is likely to cause cattlemen to stampede off public lands.

Add higher grazing fees to all the non-fee expenses, the maintenance and other improvements ranchers pay for on BLM land, and the mathematics show it’s not profitable, Ted Hoffman said.

The Clinton proposal, to be phased in over three years, would increase the formula from $1.81 per AUM to $4.28. Once in place, annual fee adjustments would be limited to no more than 25 percent of the previous year’s fee.

Defending the plan last week in Boise, Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt argued the fee increase is needed to bring public grazing fees to a comparable level with private fees. He also said ranchers are still getting a good deal.

But Hoffman, of Mountain Home, counters the Babbitt proposal is not driven solely by economics. He sees in the Administration’s plan a different objective, one foisted by environmentalists who surrounded the president — to get cattle off public lands.

“If Secretary Babbitt had wanted to learn about the grazing fee, he would have learned during the series of hearings he held throughout the West,” Hoffman said.

“The fact that he came back with this is a clear indication to me that he does not want to be confused by the facts. His mind is made up. He is going to raise the fee to a high enough level to get a significant number of cows off the range to fit the environmentalists’ agenda.

Bruneau’s Kenny Davis said it’s the operators in the 500-600 head range who will get hurt. Many utilize private pastures for growing winter feed, but rely exclusively on BLM lands for summer grazing and won’t be able to shoulder an increase.

Homedale city council approves 1993-94 budget

The city council voted to pass a 1993-94 city budget Wednesday night which totals $1,092,181 in overall proposed expenditures.

The budget was formally approved by the council following their regular meeting.

Prior to the budget hearing, city treasurer Pam Dugger reported a number of line items in the current 1992-93 fiscal year budget are projected to become deficits when the current fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

“These are some areas of concern, and I have asked everybody to pay as close as attention as we possibly can to get through,” she said

The 15 line item accounts within various departments are projected to exceed their appropriations by a collective $11,400.

The three largest deficits will appear in a health insurance account, over its appropriation by $1,500. Gas and oil for the police department is projected to run over by $1,000, and electricity for pumping city water by $4,500.

Bareback riders, Highlanders add color at parade

Special participants will highlight the Owyhee County Fair parade this year, according to Mrs. Leonard Flahiff and Mrs. Bill Ferguson, co-chairmen.

Among them are the colorful Eh-Capa Bareback Riders from Boise, the Royal Highlanders of Treasure Valley, the 25th Army Band, El Korah Motor Cavalcade, the Idaho Fiddlers and the Horseless Carriage Club.

Line-up time for the parade, which will be held Saturday, Aug. 17, has been set for 9:30 a.m. and anyone not in the parade line will not be eligible to compete for prizes, said Mrs. Bill Blackman, general chairman. The parade will start at 10 o’clock.

The parade route will start on Owyhee Avenue, will proceed up Owyhee past the nursing home in order to give the senior residents a “ring-side” view, then down Second Street West one block to Idaho Avenue and along Idaho to Third Street East then north along Third to the disbandment point past the city park.

Parade entries will be made up of the following divisions: non-competitive, religious, youth, community, commercial, open class and riding clubs. Judging on the floats will be based on the theme, “Wheels in Progress,” how well it is carried out, originality, complete overall decoration and properly and visibly named.

Parade hostesses are the following members of Alpha Omega chapter: Mrs. Bryce Peterson, hostess of the non-competitive groups; Mrs. Vee Davenport, churches; Mrs. Vee Davenport and Mr. James Barayasarra, youth group entries; Mrs. Keith Stansell and Mrs. Kris Inouye, community entries and also the commercial entries; Mrs. Frank Haylett and Mrs. Bill Louderback, riding division. There will also be three adults acting as parade marshals.

Friends church burns mortgage at Sunday rites

A mortgage burning ceremony was held Sunday following the evening service at the Homedale Friends Community Church.

The congregation moved to the lawn and as Glen Beebe placed the paper on the fire sang “Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow” led by the pastor, Quincy Fodge.

David Beebe, monthly meeting clerk, Ray Barnes, chairman of the finance committee, and Jim Thomas, trustee chairman, and others expressed appreciation of how the money had been raised for the $10,000 note, which was paid before the due date of July 1, 1972.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served by the social committee with Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Cox and Mrs. L. L. Nation in charge.

WAR-WHOOPS

Practically, the Indian race is being now exterminated by the slow process of starvation and the fitful aggressiveness of blundering soldiers like General Howard. The white race and the red are naturally antagonistic and cannot assimilate. It is only a matter of a few years until the aborigines will have virtually ceased to exist as people, and, recognizing this fact, the inhumanity is in permitting the expiring race to afflict the progressing settlers who pave the way for the less hardy representatives of civilization.

Our troops not long ago were reported as making a grand united movement to surround them, or rather, perhaps, to come upon the Indians from various sides, and so corral them. The soldiers, poor fellows, do probably all that men in earnest can under the plan, or want of plan of their commander; but they are divided into small parties, the main body being anywhere but in the right place when they are most needed. Instead of surrounding the Indians the latter go where they please.

While settlers were away from their homes at Battle Creek, Nevada, in consequence of the Indian out-break, a party of sheep-men went through the place and behaved worse than the savages. They plundered every building, burned plows and wagon, water-kegs and wash-tubs, took mining and agricultural implements, decorated their horses’ manes with ribbons belonging to the wives of the owners of the houses, and left nothing but desolation in their track through the country.

General Howard is deeply grieved at the unchristian spirit manifested by the newspapers throughout the length and breadth of the land, which have been abusing him since he started on the trail of the Bannocks. On Monday night the General entered Silver City, Idaho, and departed suddenly for Boise. It is feared that the Indians may meet him on the road. Poor man-beset on the frontier by hostile savages and at home by ferocious editors-his pathway is literally strewn with thorns. Whom the Lord loveth he affects.

THE LATE WILLIAM HEMINGWAY

At a special meeting of Robbins’ Encampment, No. 4, I. C. R. C., held in Boise City August 7th the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst our well beloved companion, Wm. Hemingway; therefore be it.

Resolved, That we submissively bow our heads to the dispensation of Divine Providence, and ever bear in mind to so shape our lives as to meet our departed companion in that Grand Encampment above to which his immortal spirit has winged its flight.

Resolved, That in the death of Companion Hemingway this Encampment has lost one of its most valuable members, society one of their brightest stars, and his family a kind husband and an affectionate parent, the community a good citizen.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family and friends of our departed companion our heartfelt sympathies.

Resolved, That this Encampment be draped in mourning and that the Companions wear the usual badge of mourning for the period of thirty days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this Lodge, and a copy be inserted in the IDAHO AVALANCHE and the newspapers of this city and forwarded to the relatives of the deceased.

On the edge of common sense The Valdez

Lately there has been dissension at the rancho. I have overheard murmurings in the barnyard, in particular regarding my stock trailer. The grumbling animals enlisted my teenage daughter to present their complaints.

In my defense let me describe my trailer. I felt like it was a real bargain when I bought it. Let's see, in 1986. It's an 18-foot Hale, '92 model with a bumper hitch. Upon purchasing it from a reputable Hereford breeder who guaranteed it would haul up to eight full-grown cows, I made a few minor repairs.

Three of the wheel bearings needed replacing, but the left front still spun good. We welded a jack on the tongue, built a new wooden panel for the end gate, put plywood over the rotting floor and bought inner tubes for the two new recaps that didn't have any tread left.

I'm still working on the wiring and have got a good coat of primer on the front panel, which covers about six square feet in the shape of Utah. The greenish primer almost matched the original scour yellow.

Recently I put down a rubber mat on the slick plywood after a horse came loose in transit and slid from front to back goin' up a steep grade. Every improvement an investment, I always say.

Jennifer's list of complaints seems trifling. The horses, she claims, are embarrassed to be seen unloading. She suggested I repaint it. Trying to get along, I pulled it down to the sandblasting guy for an estimate. He recommended against it. Apparently he was afraid it would cause structural damage. To remove that much rust would weaken the steel. Admittedly there has been some erosion where the sheet metal sides attach to the frame. This complaint was brought up by the cows. They worried about sliding a foot through the 4-inch gap that circles the trailer. I have always looked on that gap as good drainage to prevent manure buildup. I take it the boys at the sale barn agree because they've named my trailer the Valdez.

The dogs only asked that they be allowed to stay in the cab of the pickup instead of shut up in the trailer when I go into the sale. That way if they see any other dogs they can duck below the dash. I thought leavin' them in the trailer would keep other dogs from peein' on the tires. But they said no self-respecting dog would even consider it.

Perhaps my daughter has her own motives. I've noticed she won't even tie her horse to the trailer at a ropin' or horse show. I offered to paint her name on the side. Give her some pride of ownership. She said, "No, thanks." I've always admired her modesty.

Bein' a good ranch boss I'm considering their grievances, but I've good reason to avoid any hasty decisions. The Valdez is perfectly suited to my pickup. It's an '89 Ford with good tires and a fully functional left side mirror. Besides, the annual registration for the trailer is only 13 dollars.

Letter to the editor

Enviros' agenda has wreaked economic, resource havoc

This morning, I looked toward South Mountain, which I couldn't see through the smoky haze. It reminded me of a meeting with John Marvel at the state BLM office in Boise.

He was always intent on removing myself and cows from Juniper Mountain.

He said: "The only thing worse than cows is the so-called cowboy culture associated with them."

"I strongly support our goal: Cattle-free by '93."

"Even you'll have to agree," I replied. "Grazing keeps fuel loads down, aiding in fire control."

Without hesitation, he smugly said, "I would rather have it burn than have one of your cows get a mouthful."

Here we are years later, and smoke amid smoke and fire, and he's not finished yet.

Sixty-eight permittees in the Owyhees are currently faced with reductions or outright elimination of grazing brought on by Marvel's Western Watersheds Project.

So-called environmentalists have disrupted resource management, resulting, to a large part, in fire devastation sweeping through America from sea to shining sea.

I'm not questioning the so-called conservationist movement's motives. It's a fact, though, that when they go to court they often are awarded attorney fees and associated costs. This has fostered a litigator's paradise that is taxpayer-financed. Those are the same taxpayers who are suffering consequences of special interest groups run amok, creating both economic and resource loss.

From Washington Government rallies resources for multi-faceted opioid fight

An important part of furthering progress in combatting opioid abuse is ensuring resources are in place for every piece of the response to this pervasive problem. Medical examiners, coroners and toxicologists have an important role in addressing the opioid crisis, and they have had increased manpower and resource pressures as more autopsies and toxicology testing are required to respond to increased deaths from opioid abuse. I joined a bipartisan effort to ensure that local forensic medicine is properly supported in addressing this crisis.

In a letter to the Director of the Centers for Diseases Control and Prevention (CDC) Dr. Robert Redfield, 11 fellow senators and I urged continued support for forensic medicine practitioners and asked the director to describe ways in which the CDC can better help forensic medicine practitioners in light of the growing opioid crisis nationwide. We wrote, "Suspected overdoses cases are not all the same and are not all based on a single drug or single piece of evidence, resulting in an enormous workload and tremendous physical and emotional strain for medical examiners, coroners, and toxicologists." These demands, along with physical resource constraints, such as limited laboratory capacity, could compromise essential information for combatting this problem.

In June, I had the opportunity to learn more about local recovery efforts, specifically in Latah County,

Financial management

Pets are great, but you don't need a separate fund for them

Dear Dave,
I've going to be debt-free with a full emergency fund in place by the end of the year. I'm going to get a dog after that, but I wanted to make sure I did it the right way and was in good financial shape before making that move. Is a separate emergency fund for pets a good idea?

— Scott

Dear Scott,
My wife and I love animals. We've had a least one dog the whole time we've been married. Still, I think a full emergency fund of three to six months of expenses will cover you and your pet.

You go through some expense as a pet owner, along with happy, wonderful times and heartbreaking things, too. We lost our golden retriever recently, and I can tell you that was really hard on everyone. You love them like they're family, but you still have to use common sense sometimes, and remember that they're animals and not human beings. Part of that includes spending reasonable amounts of money on them — and in some unfortunate cases — doing things with the animal's best interest, not our own desires, in mind.

What is a reasonable amount? That depends on how stable you are financially. It's really a ratio question of expense to means. But no, I wouldn't recommend a second emergency fund just for pets.

Dear Dave,
Do you believe the adult child of a senior citizen, who is physically and mentally healthy but has neglected to plan for retirement, should be

DAVE Says
by Dave Ramsey • www.davesays.org burdened with providing financial assistance to that parent?

— Robbie

Dear Robbie,
Based on the wording in your question, I can only believe you don't think the adult child should be "burdened" to provide this assistance. My guess is you're talking about one of your own parents. I understand that you might be aggravated with a parent who has been irresponsible with their money. But in my mind, there's a bigger question. How big is the burden?

I talked to a guy recently who was making $1.5 million a year. He was questioning whether he should help his dad — an older man in poor health, who didn't handle his money well — by giving him $1,000 a month. There's no question you give that guy money. You're making millions, but you don't want to help your sick dad? Come on! But if you bring home $2,000 a month, and your family is barely getting by, you're not morally required to financially take care of a parent who was irresponsible with their money.

It's all relative. Do you have the money? Can you provide this help without placing an undue burden on yourself and your family? If the answer is yes, you may be asking more about your own aggravation than any sort of moral obligation.

But no, you're not morally obligated to destroy your own life, or your family, to take care of a relative who didn't take care of themselves financially.

✓ Opioid: Organizations report progress in national addiction battle drug use and increasing the number of physicians trained in treating opioid abuse. Still, much needs to be done, as the AMA noted that more than 115 people die every day from opioid-related overdoses.

Efforts continue to provide comprehensive support for critical partners in the fight against opioid abuse. In October 2017, the White House declared the opioid crisis a public health emergency in an effort to expand access to support services, specialists and other assistance. To help ensure that communities have needed resources, I supported enactment of the 21st Century Cures Act, legislation that authorized federal grant funding to support states in increasing access to treatment needs and reducing opioid-related overdose deaths. I also supported passage of the Comprehensive Addiction and Recovery Act, which enables federal grants to states to address substance abuse and misuse, and promote recovery. Federal dollars have helped establish nine community recovery centers around Idaho as the state focuses on recovery access particularly in rural communities.

The Senate Finance Committee, on which I serve, has held multiple hearings to evaluate effective ways to address the opioid epidemic and actively continues to work on bipartisan legislation aimed at improving the federal response to the opioid epidemic. This includes the committee's unanimous approval, in June, of the Helping to End Addiction and Lessen (HEAL) Substance Use Disorder Act that targets improvements for opioid addiction for beneficiaries and families utilizing services through Medicare and Medicaid. The legislation now awaits further consideration by the full Senate.

Opioid abuse has crept into all parts of our country, destroying lives and requiring a range of skills and professions to fight it. There are big glimmers of progress in this effort, and we must continue to get all the needed tools in place to help those who are working hard to protect American families from this destructive problem.

The Trust Deed was recorded in Owyhee County, Idaho, on March 18, 2009, as Instrument No. 267723, and modified pursuant to the Modification recorded on January 14, 2014, as Instrument No. 283059, of Official Records, and modified pursuant to the Modification recorded on March 4, 2014, as Instrument No. 283381, of Official Records. The Deed of Trust was assigned for value as follows: Assignee: Carrington Mortgage Services, LLC Assignment Dated: November 4, 2014 Assignment Recorded: November 17, 2014 Assignment Recording Information: Instrument No. 285268 Shelly M. Espinosa is the Successor Trustee pursuant to a Substitution of Trustee recorded in the office of the Clerk and Recorder of Owyhee, State of Idaho on July 11, 2018 at Instrument No. 296539, of Official Records. The Beneficiary has declared a default in the terms of said Deed of Trust due to Grantor’s failure to make monthly payments beginning March 1, 2018, and each month subsequent, which monthly installments would have been applied on the principal and interest due on said obligation and other charges against the property or loan. By reason of said default, the Beneficiary has declared all sums owing on the obligation secured by said Trust Deed immediately due and payable. The total amount due on this obligation is the principal sum of $115,811.58, interest in the sum of $2,605.74, and other amounts due and payable in the amount of $160.24, for a total amount owing of $118,577.56, plus accruing interest, late charges, and other fees and costs that may be incurred or advanced. If such amounts are paid by the Beneficiary, the amounts or taxes will be added to the obligations secured by the Deed of Trust. Other expenses to be charged against the proceeds of this sale include the Trustee’s fees and attorney’s fees, costs and expenses of the sale, and late charges, if any. Beneficiary has elected, and has directed the Trustee to sell the above described property to satisfy the obligation. The sale is a public sale and any person, including the Beneficiary, may bid at the sale. The bid price must be paid immediately upon the close of bidding in cash or cash equivalents (valid money orders, certified checks or cashier’s checks). The conveyance will be made by Trustee’s Deed, without any representation or warranty, including warranty of title, express or implied, as the sale is made strictly on an as-is, where-is basis, without limitation, the sale is being made subject to all existing conditions, if any, of lead paint, mold or other environmental or health hazards. The Grantors, successor in interest to the Grantors, or any other person having an interest in the property, or any person named in IRC § 45-1506, has the right, at any time prior to the Trustee’s Sale, to pay to the Beneficiary, or the successor in interest to the Beneficiary, the entire amount then due under the Deed of Trust and the obligation secured thereby (including costs and expenses actually incurred and attorney’s fees) other than such portion of the principal as would not then be due had no default occurred and by curing any other default complained of herein that is capable of being cured by tendering the performance required under the obligation or to cure the default, by paying all costs and expenses actually incurred in enforcing the obligation and Deed of Trust with Successor Trustee’s and attorney’s fees. In the event that all defaults are cured the foreclosure will be dismissed and the foreclosure sale will be canceled. The scheduled Trustee’s Sale may be postponed by public proclamation up to 30 days for any reason. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder’s sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Successor Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Incoming Homedale High frosh 8th at Idaho Jr. Am Homedale-area resident Téa Uranga finished eighth in a big junior tournament Thursday.

Uranga was one of nine players in her age division to make the cut at the Idaho Junior Amateur, which was played over three days at Falcon Crest Golf Club in Kuna between

Aug. 7 and Thursday.

The daughter of Tony and Jennifer Uranga started the tournament in a fifth-place tie with Hailee Cole. The pair shot 10-over-par 81 in the girls' 13-15 division during the Aug. 7 first round of the 54-hole tournament.

Carly Carter was 1-under at 71 after the first day. She went on to a six-stroke victory for the championship, finishing 1-over for the tournament.

Uranga, who will start her freshman year at Homedale High School on Monday, fell to eighth place last Wednesday when she shot a second-round 92. She finished the tournament at 259, eight shots ahead of ninth-place Kate Goulet of Boise.

Uranga trailed seventh-place golfer Cole by five strokes. Cole fired a 43-over 254.

HHS football tackles Nampa jamboree

Homedale High School fall sports got under way Saturday with the annual Red/White football scrimmage.

The action is just beginning, though.

Coach Matt Holtry's football program is back on the field Friday for a jamboree at the Bulldog Bowl in Nampa.

Nampa, Boise, Middleton and Homedale will bring varsity and junior varsity teams to the jamboree. The gates open at 5 p.m. with action starting at 6 p.m.

Homedale's varsity will play on the north end of the field:

- The defense takes on Nampa's offense at 6 p.m., then the teams switch sides at 6:20 p.m.
- Homedale's offense takes on Middleton's defense at 7:20 p.m., with the teams switching sides at 7:40 p.m.

The Trojans' junior varsity will compete on the south end of the field with the same time and matchups as the varsity schedule.

Homedale's varsity opens at 7 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 24 against non-conference foe New Plymouth at Deward Bell Stadium.

The JV starts on the road at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 23 against New Plymouth.

Volleyball

Coach Jessica Willson's squad looks to build on last year's 3A state tournament appearance beginning Tuesday with a jamboree.

The Trojans travel to Melba for a series of scrimmages.

The season starts at home against New Plymouth next Wednesday. The first of three matches starts at 4:30 p.m.

Trojans scrimmage for the fans
