Homedale businesses get ready to celebrate Homecoming

Subway restaurant on East Idaho Avenue in Homedale got into the Homecoming spirit on Monday. Restaurant employees Maya Zamora (left) and Ember Christensen paint high school scenes on the storefront window facing East Idaho Avenue. Both girls are 2018 Homedale High School graduates. Businesses around town are participating in the Painting the Town Red contest. Other businesses on Idaho Avenue also got in the spirit, and the decoration deadline is today. The HHS cheer squad will choose the best decorated business and present a trophy. For more on Homedale High School's Homecoming week, see Page 2A

Homedale council to discuss OHV street use

With more off-highway vehicles on the streets, the Homedale City Council could address the vehicles' presence during tonight's meeting.

Council members hold their September meeting at 6 p.m. today inside the magistrate courtroom across from municipal offices in City Hall, 31 W. Wyoming Ave.

Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller will raise the issue of UTVs and ATVs on city streets during his departmental report.

"We're seeing more people use them — especially UTVs — as their daily drivers," Eidemiller said. "In a lot of towns in Idaho, like Cascade, it's a common practice."

The use of ATVs and UTVs on Idaho streets isn't explicitly addressed in state code, Eidemiller said.

"Technically by the letter of the law, they're not legal because the law doesn't say you can drive them on the street," he said.

But, he points out, private citizens and city public works employees use the vehicles on the streets almost daily. The police department also has a Mule that it brings out for parades and community events.

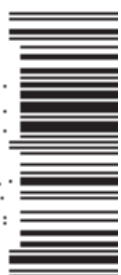

"We're in a farming community, and they are used as an implement of husbandry," Eidemiller said.

Eidemiller says people using OHVs on Homedale's streets are

Homedale Homecoming in full swing; parade Thursday

King and queen crowned before Friday's football game vs. Filer

Homecoming Week is under way at Homedale High School.

Students are dressing for the theme of Squad Day today ahead of Spirit Day, when everyone is encouraged to wear red and white, on Thursday.

Businesses have until today to complete decorations as part of the HHS cheerleaders' community spirit contest. The cheer squad will judge Thursday, and the business to earn the perpetual spirit trophy will be announced at Friday's football game.

Some businesses, such as NAPA Owyhee Auto Parts and Subway, had already begun decoration operations Monday.

For more information, contact HHS cheer coach Evonne McGuire at evonne@evonnemcguire.com.

The biggest day of student activity is Thursday with spirit games in the gymnasium and the Homecoming parade through downtown in the afternoon.

The community will get its first glimpse of the Homecoming royalty candidates during the parade, which starts on East Owyhee Avenue and heads west beginning at 2:50 p.m. The parade's final leg will travel east on Idaho Avenue.

Queen candidates include Dazsha Zamora, Sophie Nash and Monique Hernandez.

Mason Kincheloe, Robert Nix and Charlie Jerome are Homecoming king candidates.

The Homecoming court includes:

Junior — Shanlee Swallow, princess; Ricardo Hernandez, prince

Sophomore — Brooke Pfost, princess; Dawson Fox, prince

Freshman — Summer Conger, princess; Josh Brown, prince

Each class is competing for spirit points through dress-up days, Thursday's gymnasium competitions and hallway decoration to this year's theme of "Let's Glow."

The freshmen were responsible to decorate the Science Wing, the sophomores handled the Math Wing, the juniors took care of the Staff Lounge Hall, and the seniors decorated the Cafeteria Hall.

There also was a class bowling competition Monday at The Bowling Alley.

Early-week dress-up days included PJ Day on Monday and USA Day on Tuesday.

Tuesday's festivities also included the annual Snake

Volleyball team to auction off vintage jersey quilt

Dance and bon fire after 3A Snake River Valley conference season-opening volleyball games against Weiser.

Thursday's class competitions begin inside the main gymnasium at 12:45 p.m. and will include boys' volleyball, a girls' dodge ball, tug-o-war, a football relay, dance competition and more.

The 2018 Homecoming king and queen will be announced at 6:25 p.m., on Friday at Deward Bell Stadium prior to the non-conference varsity football game against Filer. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

The Trojans' junior varsity squad opens a rare doubleheader at Deward Bell Stadium with a 4 p.m. kickoff against the Wildcats on Friday.

Homecoming week concludes with a Saturday dance from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., at the school.

Sandbar sees rosier times as fundraiser car, cycle rally looms

Family-friendly event planned Saturday

Patrons and operators of the Sandbar Restaurant with a Cause can breathe easier as Saturday's inaugural Feed the Elderly Rally approaches.

Weeks before a scheduled foreclosure auction, the nonprofit was able to raise money to pay off the mortgage on the restaurant overlooking the Snake River in Marsing.

Now, the focus shifts to Saturday's Meridian-to-Marsing car and motorcycle rally, which will raise funds for the Sandbar's Meals on Wheels program.

Marsing Senior Citizens Inc. board president Pete Smit anticipates hundreds of motorcycles traveling to the restaurant to cap the rally. He's not sure how many cars will cruise, but he encourages four-wheeled participation, too.

Poker run registration will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday at High Desert Harley-Davidson off Overland Road in Meridian. The run begins at 10 a.m., and the route will conclude at the Sandbar for a barbecue, live music, raffle and auction.

Pre-registration is still available by calling the Sandbar at (208) 896-4124.

The poker run entry fee is $25. Folks can pay $10 for the barbecue lunch if they don't want to take part in the run.

According to the Sandbar's Facebook page, merchandise available for the raffle and live auction includes:

- U.S. Bank-sponsored gift basket including a hat, coffee mug, lottery scratch tickets and an Olive Garden gift card

- Two rounds of golf at Boise Ranch Golf Course

- Applebee's gift card

- Key vault and binoculars case from Al's Pawn

- Kitchen set and cast-iron cooking set from Home Depot

- Canyon Honda basket items

- Canvas deer bag and duffle bag from Ken's Tent and Canvas of Homedale

- Outback Steakhouse gift card

Smith confirmed that the loans to buy the Sandbar and purchase kitchen equipment have been paid off with proceeds from the sale of the old Marsing Senior Center building on Main Street.

Paying off the mortgage pre-empted a foreclosure auction that was scheduled for this month. The foreclosure proceedings began after Marsing Senior Citizens Inc. failed to make payments on the mortgage.

The foreclosure process came in the wake of an insurance payment dispute with the Coca-Cola vending company that owned a soda machine that malfunctioned and flooded the restaurant last year. Extensive damage to the floor forced the restaurant to close for repairs, and the loss of revenue and the unsettled insurance issue hampered the nonprofit's ability to make loan payments.

Smit said Marsing Senior Citizens Inc., has filed a lawsuit against Swire Coca-Cola seeking compensation for the lost restaurant revenue and repair costs.

Sandbar bus now part of rural public transit system

Seniors, disabled persons and military veterans in rural Owyhee County now have a transportation option.

The Sandbar Restaurant with a Cause has teamed up with the Elderly Opportunity Agency's Southwest Idaho Transit (SWIT) to offer on-demand transportation services for residents in and around Marsing, Homedale and Melba.

The Sandbar's 14-passenger bus will be deployed for the transportation services to the Treasure Valley in an effort to bolster the community's health.

Senior citizens and persons with disabilities can ride for free. Donations are welcome to support the service.

Riders can be picked up at their homes or a pre-determined location such as the Sandbar or the senior centers in Homedale and Melba. The bus will make a round trip to the appointment destination and back to the pickup spot.

The ADA-accessible bus can accommodate wheelchairs.

Rides are available Monday through Thursday, and 24 hours advanced notice is required.

Call (800) 273-4462 or (208) 365-4461 for more information or to schedule a ride.

According to a press release, the availability of reliable transportation impacts individuals' ability to access appropriate and well-coordinated healthcare, purchase nutritious food, and otherwise care for themselves.

The target populations for the transportation services include older adults, people with disabilities, the working poor, veterans, and minorities.

The bus can provide transportation to congregate meals, shopping, social outings and health appointments.

The mobility provided through public transportation can combat the isolation that degrades a person's health, independence, employment, education and overall quality of life.

The availability of transportation allows older individuals in rural communities to age-in-place and live out their years in the communities they choose. Filling the transportation need can also delay the need for folks to enter long-term care facilities.

Raffle tickets, which cost $5, will also be sold the night of the event for various prizes, including, among other items, a Liberty gun safe. Homedale Fire Chief Dennis Uria reported that more raffle prizes are coming. Proceeds from the dinner and raffle will be applied to purchasing new equipment and helping the burnout fund.

Defibrillators in the schools were purchased with proceeds from previous dinners.

acknowledged for their years of involvement in the annual event. The grand marshals are saluted during the grand entry beginning at 12:30 p.m., each day. Rodeo events include bull riding, saddle bronc riding, ranch-style dally calf roping, barrel racing, and team roping. Winners of all events will receive a belt buckle, and the all-around winner receives a braided rein. There will also be wild cow milking and saddle cow riding. Wild West roping will give children a chance to win a belt buckle. On Saturday, boys and girls 11 and younger will try to rope a sheep on foot. On Sunday, children ages 12-16 will try to rope a calf on foot. The top five finishers in saddle bronc will return on Sunday for the top-five ride-off Calcutta. In a Calcutta, fans bid on the top finishers for a chance to win part of the prize pot. The rider who receives the highest bid gets a share of the pot. King Cattle Co., of Homedale provides the stock for the rodeo, and Ben and Lori Badiola — also from Homedale — have donated steers for the open team roping. In addition to the various rodeo events, there will be a barbecue at 5 p.m. on Saturday at the Post 83 American Legion Hall at 32548 Belle Ave. There will also be a dance at 8 p.m. on Saturday at Bruneau Park. The Jeff Palmer Band from Mountain Home will provide live music. There is limited vendor space available. For information, call (208) 845-2051. For information about the rodeo, contact board president Will Aquiso at (208) 807-3299. — TK

✓ Homedale: State code doesn't address OHV use

“as conscientious as any other vehicle operator and probably moreso” given the nature of an ATV sharing the road with larger cars and trucks. “They’ve been good stewards of the road,” he said. “I would at least like to generate a conversation and give the public an opportunity to give their thoughts.” Any change to city ordinances to address OHV traffic would have to go through a public hearing process. Eidemiller said even if the law was clarified through the council’s action, OHV operators still would be prohibited from using Idaho Avenue as a main thoroughfare because the street is a state highway. Idaho Avenue can be used if the OHV rider is crossing the street while traveling a side street. — JPB

Correction

The Marsing School District construction update article in the Sept. 5 edition of The Owyhee Avalanche incorrectly associated the Idaho highway 78 sidewalk project to the district’s $13.5 million bond work. The sidewalk construction is part of the City of Marsing pathways project and was funded through an Idaho Transportation Department grant.

Enrollment open for Stop the Bleed class

Owyhee County residents are invited to take part in a free class on stopping bleeding and first aid.

The class is open to all residents in the area administered by Southwest District Health, and will take place at 6 p.m., on Thursday, Sept. 27 at the SWDH headquarters on the corner of Idaho highway 55 and Florida Avenue outside Caldwell.

Stop the Bleed is a national awareness campaign and call-to-action intended to cultivate grassroots efforts that encourage bystanders to become trained, equipped, and empowered to help in a bleeding emergency before professional help arrives.

Using tourniquets and doing wound packing will be part of next month’s training.

To enroll in the class, contact Jeff Cappe at jeff.cappe@phd3.idaho.gov.

Der Achtung German Band: War

by John Larsen

This all started in 1952 with the Achtung German Band. Polka music was popular in the 1950s, and four of us Marsing High School Band members started a “German Band,” which consisted of Bud Shields on clarinet, Cecil Horrace on trumpet, myself on trombone and David Sevy on tuba.

This was destined to be a comedy act, and when we went to play the opening song, Beer Barrel Polka, there was a problem with the tuba. I would say “Schtoper music,” and an onstage investigation would discover a cabbage in the horn of the tuba. With cabbage removed, we would go on with our act. We toured the neighboring high schools and gatherings and generally had a very good time.

One noon at school, the war began.

One of the inexplicable things we did in those days was to play “chicken” with our cars. To play you picked out some other oncoming motorist to challenge. When the chosen motorist was oncoming traffic, you would pull over into the oncoming cars lane of the road and see who would flinch before pulling back into you own lane of travel. Pete Sircin, an upperclassman with a shiny, well-kept ’39 Chevy, was often who we duelled with. He was a tall, lanky, serious sort with little sense of humor, which made him a more likely target.

We had played at Homedale High School the evening before, and were riding around Marsing school at lunchtime in Cecil’s ’41 Plymouth with the somewhat battered and torn cabbage still in the car. We took what for the time and season seemed the obvious choice, and when we saw Pete Sircin’s car approaching in the oncoming lane, Bud threw the cabbage out the window. It bounced off Sircin’s hood, then the roof, so we felt proud at scoring a hit.

The battle was not over.

The next noon, Sircin came driving at us with rotten grapefruit with a few doggie turds included, adding insult to injury. What could reasonable and prudent band members do but retreat to the garbage can behind Morfitt’s grocery store for the necessary elements to defend ourselves?

My most memorable moment was when Sircin’s car was bearing down on us, and it was then I threw a rotten cantaloupe. The cantaloupe hit the hood ornament on Pete’s ’39 Chevy, which sliced the fruit into two halves, and the halves wiped out both sides of his windshield. This did not break the glass, but was very effective in slowing him down and restricting his field of fire.

This conflict stretched out over the rest of the week as each noon we scrambled for the trash from behind the grocery store or any available source.

The next Friday was the showdown. Sircin had gathered Cy Lootens, Roman Usabel, a boxing champ, and other classmates to populate his gang. This day we did not even bother with driving the cars. The moment we could get outdoors at noon, we ran for our cars and pulled out rotten eggs, and any vegetable in a deteriorated

Reminiscing Owyhee memories

condition we had been able to scrounge up and began our warfare in the parking lot of the school. Trash and garbage and various turds filled the air.

This went on for about 20 minutes until Don O’Kraekel, a burly and very athletic upperclassman, came out the side door of the school unaware of the war. He was wearing his brand-new school sweater and was hit by friendly fire as a wayward rotten orange hit his chest and slid down into his pocket. O’Kraekel became somewhat mentally unstable at that point, exhibiting wanton anger tendencies and threatening to “kick somebody’s (butt).” I hastily wiped the orange juice off my hand and slid behind the ’41 Plymouth.

Fortunately for all concerned, particularly for me, the huffy and stern school superintendant got involved at this point and blew out the door, issuing a cease-and-desist order. He gave us a choice: Either we could knock off the garbage fight or find somewhere else to go to school. We grudgingly agreed, as we were down to our last rotten egg and were not sure we could get into another school. It was a war destined to have no clear victors.

The next time the band took the stage and did the Beer Barrel and Liechtensteiner Polka, we had a brand-new cabbage. The cabbage could know it was safe, not having to worry about being either boiled with corned beef or becoming a poorly guided missile.

How to best store your fresh garden produce for quality

With summer’s bounty at its peak and the first hints of fall sneaking in, you may find yourselves hoping to extend the harvest season and enjoy the “fruits” of your labors a bit longer. It’s easy to preserve the freshness, quality and flavor of your hard work by following a few simple tips.

Timing is everything! Harvest fruits and vegetables at the proper stage of maturity for peak flavor and nutrition. Under-ripe produce will sometimes have inferior flavor, while overripe items will start to break down more quickly in storage. The best time to harvest vegetables is in the morning, when they are likely to be cool and crisp. They will store better if picked at this stage, as well!

Vegetable quality deteriorates rapidly after harvest.

Avoid bruising or otherwise injuring fruits and vegetables, and do not attempt to store damaged produce for both quality and food safety reasons. Use it right away if possible. Keep fresh produce out of direct sunlight.

Home storage conditions generally won’t be as ideal as a climate-controlled commercial facility, but you can experiment to find the best approximate conditions and improvise! Refrigerators, basements, cellars or garages, attics, outbuildings, outdoor root cellars or under-the-house crawlspaces are all possibilities.

Most fresh produce stores best in cold, moist storage, the kind provided by a refrigerator. Ideal temperatures range from 32-40°F, and high humidity is achieved by placing vegetables in plastic bags or leaving unbagged in the crisper drawer. Asparagus, beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, sweet corn, greens, radishes, peas and leeks should be stored in this manner.

Some delicate vegetables can be kept in moist, slightly warmer conditions, around 45-50°F. You may consider using a separate refrigerator that you lower to that temperature range if you will be storing quantities of snap beans, cucumbers, eggplant, chard, whole (uncut) melons, okra, peppers, tomatoes, potatoes and summer squash.

Cool, dry storage, at temperatures between 35-55°F, are perfect for storing dried beans, garlic, onions, shallots, and dried peppers. Warmer, dry storage, around 55-60°F is preferred for pumpkins and winter squash.

Mature green tomatoes can be ripened indoors. Pick and store in warm, humid conditions until ripe. Warmer temperatures encourage faster ripening.

The best way to store potatoes at home is unwashed, in a mesh or perforated plastic bag in a cool (42-50°F), dark environment with good air circulation.

And sometimes, the perfect storage place is right in the garden. Some hardy greens and many root crops may be left in the ground, mulched heavily and harvested when needed throughout late fall and early winter.

Recent book on search for Charbonneau’s grave reissued

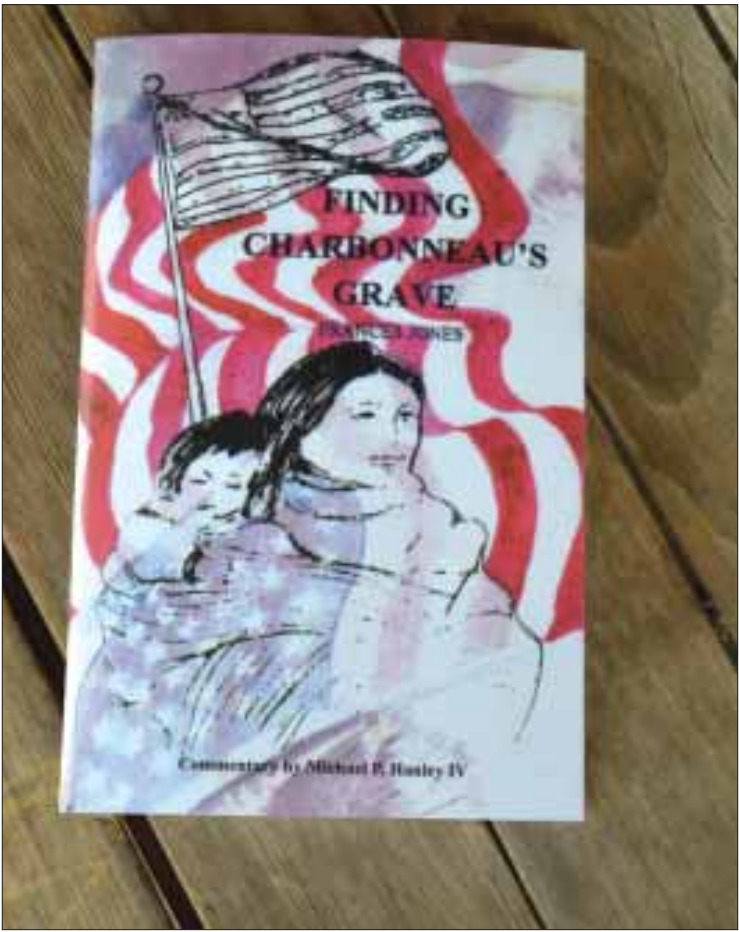

Jordan Valley-based historian Michael F. Hanley IV provides commentary in the reprint of a book chronicling the discovery of a famous local gravesite.

“Finding Charbonneau’s Grave,” a book originally published by Bend, Ore., author Frances Jones in 2013, has been reissued by the ION Heritage Museum in Jordan Valley and the ION Historical Society.

In his commentary, Hanley said the two groups received permission from the author to reprint the book. Owyhee Publishing Inc., produced the reprint.

The book details the discovery of Jean Baptiste Charbonneau’s gravesite on the Ruby Ranch (Inskip Station) outside Jordan Valley. Charbonneau was the son of Sacagawea, and he was born during the Lewis and Clark Expedition. He died in 1866 near Danner, Ore., after falling ill on a trip from California to Montana.

The reprint of the book is available for $15 at The

Homedale library Friday activities announced

Homedale Library youth services coordinator Carol McMichael will read two books for the children at Story Time at 10:15 a.m. on Friday.

She will read “How to Babysit a Grandpa,” by Jean Reagan and illustrated by Lee Wildish. This is a story, written in a how-to style, about a child spending time with his grandpa.

McMichael will also read “Churchill’s Tale of Tails,” written and illustrated by Anca Sandu. The story revolves around a pig who loses his tail and his friends who help him find a new one.

The children will also work on a craft.

During Teens and Tweens at 4 p.m., also on Friday, participants will take part in Teen Silent Library.

The boys and girls ages 10-17 will learn how to act in the library and will complete activities while trying to remain quiet.

Todd Thatcher runs his leg of the fireman’s relay during Teens and Tweens on Friday afternoon. Participants filled a bottle with water; one tiny cup at a time. Todd is the son of Mark and DeAnn Thatcher.

Homedale’s after-school Christian Life Club is back

The Christian Life Club after-school program will start another year next Wednesday.

CLC will be held each Wednesday that Homedale schools are in session through March.

The club meets from 4 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 320 N. 6th St. W.

All children in kindergarten through sixth grade are welcome.

The non-denominational program open to all faiths includes Bible stories, learning Bible verses, games and refreshments each week.

Transportation is provided from school to the church, but parents are responsible for transportation home after the meeting.

Middle school students ride the bus to the elementary school, and elementary school students meet in front of the school and walk together to the church. The church is located across West Washington Avenue from the west end of the elementary school campus.

For more information, call Mary Sonke at (208) 337-4757, Marcy Hibbs at (208) 353-6024 or the Homedale Friends Community Church at (208) 337-3464.

HPD to deploy drone to help with searches and investigations

The Homedale Police Department has a public safety tool after winning an online drawing.

Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said HPD was chosen among 2,600 departments to receive a DJI Phantom 4 drone and training free of charge.

Eidemiller said the drone is valued at about $2,000.

Eidemiller said the machine is equipped with a camera that could help with mapping and searches of all kinds.

Eidemiller said four HPD officers and two Owyhee County Sheriff's deputies have gone through drone training.

The drone isn't in service yet because city policy and procedures must be drafted.

Once the machine is online, though, Eidemiller said the uses are many.

"In searches, they can be extremely helpful, and not just in Fourth Amendment searches," he said, adding that the drone could enhance search capabilities when looking for a missing person.

The aerial photography aspect could help officers better document major vehicle accidents, he said. More comprehensive reports will be helpful to the Idaho Transportation Department and those involved in the crashes.

Library report could become regular item for Homedale council

There's a new item on the Homedale City Council meeting agenda — "Library report."

It's unclear who will give the report at today's meeting, which will be held at 6 p.m., at City Hall (31 W. Wyoming Ave.), but former library board member Mike Aebischer has provided bits and pieces of library information in the past in his role as a city councilman.

News that could be shared includes a $1,000 donation from Alforex Seeds to aid construction of the proposed 3,600-square-foot expansion.

Donations and grants received by the library must be formally accepted by the city council because the library is operated with municipal funds.

Library directors met Monday afternoon. The board's monthly meeting is held at the library on the Monday before the city council meeting and typically starts at 1 p.m.

Other items on Monday's library board agenda that could be discussed during the council meeting includes a U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development grant that will be used to buy library stacks. According to the library board agenda, the Friends of Library have applied for a grant through Simplot to help cover more cost for the stacks.

During the August council meeting, Aebischer said the USDA RD grant and a $20,000 donation from the family of Opal Nash would be used to help with a construction shortfall, but the federal funds can't be used for construction.

Directors also were scheduled to discuss $130 in memorial donations received as a tribute to Kathryn Matteson, the former Homedale Elementary schoolteacher who died in Pocatello at the age of 101 last month.

Local enters world atlatl rankings

A Murphy boy is among the top atlatl throwers in the world this year, according to Glenn Fretwell.

George Reed, 14, scored 63 during the final round at the High Desert Atlatl Throw and International Standard Accuracy Contest on Sept. 3 in Jordan Valley.

Fretwell, who hosted the High Desert ISAC in Jordan Valley, said Reed's last throw of the weekend ranked him fourth in the world.

Fretwell was thrilled with the outcome of the inaugural High Desert event.

"It was just way beyond my expectations," he said. "I didn't figure we'd have the crowd we did."

Washington state atlatl thrower Bob Kitch gave talks to the audience each day during the Aug. 30-Sept. 3 event. Fretwell said the scheduled Sept. 4 round was cancelled because Kitch and his wife Gayle — the ISAC scorekeeper — had to leave to travel to the eight-day ISAC at the Rabbit Stick Festival in Rexburg. Kitch also took part in the Rabbit Stick primitive arts festival.

Fretwell stayed home, skipping Rexburg this year. "I'm about throwed out," he said. "I'm going to gather myself and be in Missouri for the annual convention."

The World Atlatl Association convention takes place Oct. 4-7 at Graham Caves State Park in Danville, Mo. The town is off Interstate 70 east of Columbia, Mo.

Fretwell plans to host another High Desert event next Labor Day weekend, and he wants to make sure there five days of throwing as was planned this year.

"The kids will get a chance to come out on a four-day weekend," Fretwell said. "And if their folks and teachers let them, maybe they can throw on the fifth day."

VFW launches youth essay, speech contests

The annual Veterans of Foreign Wars student essay contests are under way, and local chapter members want home-schoolers to know that they can enter as well.

Cmdr. Dan Carlson of the Samuel C. Phillips III VFW Post 11065 made the rounds Monday at schools in Marsing and Homedale to spread the word about the annual contests for middle school and high school students.

But he expressed concern that students who are educated at home may not be aware of the opportunity.

The Patriot's Pen is a written essay for seventh- and eighth-graders. This year's theme for the 300- to 400-word essay is "Why I Honor the American Flag."

High school freshmen through seniors can produce a 3- to 5-minute speech on a CD for the Voice of Democracy contest. This year's theme is "Why My Vote Matters."

Entrants compete for cash prizes locally and scholarships at higher levels of the contest.

Entry deadline for the local contest is Oct. 31.

The post-level winners, who are typically announced during a December banquet, will advance to the district contest. There are state and national levels in the contest as well.

Any seventh- through 12th-grader in the area served by Post 11065 is eligible to enter the local contest.

Post 11065 encompasses Homedale, Marsing, Wilder and Parma.

For more information or to obtain a brochure containing contest rules and an entry form, call Carlson at (208) 250-7780 or Harry Schumacher at (208) 989-4870.

E. Owyhee weed board sets Tuesday meeting

The Eastern Owyhee Cooperative Weed Management Area steering committee meets at 6 p.m. on Tuesday.

The meeting will be held at the Idaho Power Co.'s Jacks Creek Headquarters near CJ Strike Reservoir.

Second-quarter in-kind reports are due Oct. 1 for landowners who have received and applied herbicide on their property.

In-kind reports can be submitted to CWMA secretary Rayola Jacobsen by mail, email or at next week's meeting. Contact Jacobsen at Rayola_1@msn.com or (208) 338-0019.

The report forms are available from Eric Davis and Allen Long.

Property owners who have problem weeds can get help by bringing the plant and some of the soil to next week's meeting.

Fall herbicidal application is effective in helping control noxious weeds such as thistles, knapweed and leafy spurge as well as other weeds found on the State of Idaho's noxious weed list.

Joint meeting scheduled for Watershed, CWMA

CWMA's future to be discussed in Jordan Valley

The Owyhee Watershed Council and Jordan Valley Cooperative Weed Management Area will get together for a joint meeting today.

The meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m., at the Jordan Valley CWMA office, 508 Swisher Ave., in Jordan Valley.

For more information on the CWMA, contact coordinator Eric Morrison at (541) 586-3000 or jvcwma@qwestoffice.net.

The future direction of the CWMA and annual operating plans will be discussed during the meeting. Other agenda items include:

- The Parsnip Peak annual grass project
- Leafy Spurge treatments
- JV CWMA's winter weed seminar

Medusahead is the featured weed in this month's Jordan Valley CWMA pre-meeting flyer.

Each month the CWMA issues a flyer with information about a featured weed as culled from the publication "Selected Noxious Weeds of Eastern Oregon." The flyer also gives folks an idea about controlling the weed.

According to the resourced publication, medusahead is an introduced annual grass that matures later than other annual grasses.

The plant, which usually grows to a height less than 2 feet, thrives in clay soils that are cooler later in the season.

The flower/seed heads are found on thin stems that tend to lodge as they mature.

Medusahead is recognizable from stiff, wiry awns that develop at plant maturity.

As the plant dries, it becomes rough to the touch if someone runs their hand from the ground up to the seed. The plants have a high silica content making them generally unpalatable at this stage. Overall, the plant has no redeeming value as forage for livestock or wildlife.

The plants usually grow in dense colonies that are easily spotted from afar. The patches are a lighter green early in growth when compared to other annual grasses. At maturity, the colonies appear shiny or glowing in the sunlight because of the silica content.

CWMAs such as the Jordan Valley organization works hard to control medusahead because it is prevalent in overgrazed or burned rangeland.

The most effective strategy against medusahead is an integrated approach that includes fire or intensive early grazing followed by a herbicide treatment and then reseeding as needed.

Chemicals that best combat medusahead include:

- Glyphosate on actively growing plants before boot stage
- Plateau during pre-emergence and post-emergence
- Matrix
- Landmark during the pre-emergent stage

Herbicide applicators are urged to follow the law and read and follow label directions.

Homedale woman out of gas, into jail after alleged battery

Marsing man due in court to face DUI

A Homedale woman was arrested after her car ran out of gas as she drove from the scene of an alleged battery.

Homedale Police were searching for Lyndsey J. Redburn after she allegedly struck her mother at a West Washington Avenue residence around noon on Friday.

Lyndsey Redburn

A short time later, an Owyhee County Sheriff's deputy responded to the report of a stalled vehicle on Idaho highway 19.

When deputy Atanacio Montes asked for the driver's name, he said he recognized it as the woman police were looking for. Redburn, 29, apparently had run out of fuel while leaving town and the car stalled in the westbound lane of travel west of Old Dump Road.

Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said Redburn was transported to county jail in Murphy on several misdemeanor charges, including battery, destruction of a telecommunications device, resisting and obstructing a peace officer, and injury to child.

Eidemiller said Redburn had refused multiple commands to exit the vehicle when Montes and Homedale Police Sgt. Mike McFetridge tried to take her into custody.

Redburn's young daughter was in the vehicle at the time of the woman's arrest, and a family member arrived to take the child before Redburn was transported to jail.

Redburn was released from custody after her initial court appearance on Monday. No subsequent court dates are listed.

A Marsing man faces a string of misdemeanors in several different cases, including driving under the influence.

Jeptha L. White, 37, was stopped by Homedale Police last month after he was spotted speeding south on U.S. Highway 95.

After a failed field sobriety test, White's blood-alcohol concentration was measured at .146 and .141, and he was arrested on Aug. 11. He posted a $500 bond and was released from Owyhee County Jail.

White has been charged with misdemeanor DUI, second offense within 10 years, Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said. He was arraigned last Wednesday in a Homedale courtroom.

According to court records, White was arrested on Aug. 24 for violating a protection order, a misdemeanor. He entered a not guilty plea before Magistrate Judge Dan C. Grober on Aug. 28 and has a pretrial hearing set for Oct. 1 in Murphy.

A week after his DUI arrest, White was charged with misdemeanor careless or inattentive driving. He was to be arraigned on that charge Monday after deadline.

Eight days before his DUI arrest, White was accused of reckless driving, a misdemeanor, in Canyon County.

- Tanisha Barnes, 31, of Meridian was sentenced for misdemeanor DUI on Aug. 29 after entering a guilty plea.

Barnes was arrested in Homedale by an Idaho State Police trooper on Aug. 12 at East Idaho Avenue and South 3rd Street East.

Barnes had to serve one day in jail and pay fines and court fees totaling $500 after Grober imposed sentencing. She received credit for one day served in jail, and Grober suspended the balance of six-month term.

The judge placed Barnes on one year of supervised probation followed by six months of unsupervised probation. Her driver's license was suspended six months beginning today.

HPD arrests two men on out-of-county warrants

A Homedale man has been arrested on an outstanding warrant for felony domestic battery.

Homedale Police arrested 60-year-old Charles Samuel Carver Jr., when arrest warrants were served around 7 a.m. on Thursday in the 600 block of Selway Drive.

Carver was sought on a $50,000 felony warrant for domestic battery with traumatic injury.

Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller confirmed that Carver also was wanted on a $1,000 misdemeanor warrant for not showing up for a Canyon County court appearance to face drug and paraphernalia possession charges.

Carver was transported to county jail in Caldwell after his arrest, and he remained in custody at press time Monday.

- Matthew Valdez, 28, of Wilder was arrested on an three-year-old Ada County warrant at 10 a.m., on Friday at Homedale High School.

The $4,000 warrant was issued after Valdez failed to appear to face a string of misdemeanor charges including drug possession, possession of drug paraphernalia, contempt of court and three other failure to appear counts.

Valdez remained in custody at Owyhee County Jail in Murphy on Monday awaiting extradition to Ada County, Eidemiller said.

DUI charge filed after hay truck rollover

A hay truck driver was arraigned on a drunk driving charge Monday in connection with an accident on Idaho highway 78 on Aug. 30.

Gary Paulsen, 23, of Payette, lost control of a 2004 International semi while pulling trailers laden with hay near milepost 10. The semi-trailer rolled on to its side and knocked over a power pole, Owyhee County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Lynn Bowman said.

Paulsen, who was headed to Washington state, was not injured.

A sheriff's deputy, who was transporting an inmate to the jail in Murphy, happened upon the scene and stayed with Paulsen until an emergency crew from Murphy-Reynolds-Wilson Quick Response arrived.

Bowman said Paulsen was charged with misdemeanor commercial driving under the influence after he his blood-alcohol concentration measured .054. In Idaho, the legal limit for commercial drivers is .04, compared to .08 for other motor vehicle operators.

Additionally, Paulsen was ticketed for failing to maintain a lane.

Paulsen bonded out of jail and was scheduled to appear before Magistrate Judge Dan C. Grober on Monday.

Boater safety to be taught in Murphy

A free, one-day boater safety course will be offered later this month in Murphy. Owyhee County Sheriff's Deputy Mike Rabourn will conduct the class inside McKeeth Hall at the Owyhee County Historical Museum, 17085 Basey St. The class will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Rabourn will cover basic boater safety, nomenclature of a boat, hypothermia and overall boater safety issues. If attendees pass the test at the conclusion of the class, they'll receive a boater's education card from the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation. For more information, contact Rabourn at (408) 529-9975.

Homedale Assembly of God Church will hold another classic vehicle show and shine to raise funds for its youth center, known as The Refuge. Moore and others have been busy renovating an old church on Main Street to create The Refuge. Last week, a crew painted the building's exterior. The fourth annual Car and Bike Show will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 22 at Bette Uda City Park on East Idaho Avenue in Homedale. The fundraiser, which is free to the public, will begin with car and bike registration from 9 a.m. to noon. The awards ceremony will be at 2:30 p.m. The car show entry fee is $10. According to the flyer provided by Pastor Ivar Moore, items will be raffled at the event. Chili, hot dogs, and onion rings will be available to patrons. For questions contact Moore at (208) 412-2946, Doug Stump at (208) 695-3232, or Randy Friedley at (208) 859-6999.

Defense carries Huskies past Pirates for first victory

Marsing strikes quick in coach's first victory

Defense was the focal point in Marsing High School's 18-6 non-conference victory over Payette on Friday.

In a game where points weren't easily found, the Huskies found a way to stand tall and keep the Pirates' offense in check.

The defense allowed just 44 yards overall and forced four turnovers against a visiting Payette team (0-3 overall) that struggled all night to get its footing.

The Huskies (1-1) came out strong in their first drive behind a solid offensive line. They went 53 yards on five plays. A 1-yard touchdown run by Wylliam Moore a little over two minutes into the game capped the march.;

Marsing had some stars on the offensive side of the ball.

Senior Dwight Sevy rushed for 101 yards on 16 carries, while also running back two kickoffs for 66 yards.

Junior Adonis Stelzried accounted for 39 yards and a score.

Despite an unscheduled detour, freshman Victor Lemus crossed the line in third place during the high school 5-kilometer race ran in slightly smoky air in Idaho City where the temperature was in the 80s.

Lemus is in his first year of cross country and is splitting time with the football team. He ran for the Raiders' junior high school track and field team in the spring as an eighth-grader.

Fancy, fierce Trojans use trickery, defense in another blowout

6-for-6 TD start triggers 60-point barrage vs. Baker

Three different arms produced touchdown passes in the first quarter of another Homedale High School football rout.

The Trojans topped 60 points for the fifth time since 2011, rolling to a 62-18 non-conference victory at Baker, Ore., on Friday afternoon.

The win continued the highest-scoring start to a season in the Matt Holtry coaching era as the Trojans scored 50 or more points for the third time in as many victories in 2018.

Homedale (3-0) scored touchdowns on its first six possessions — including five in the game's opening 12 minutes — and led, 48-12, at halftime.

The 6-for-6 start included TD passes by quarterback

Long drives lead to short TD runs for Trojans JV

The Homedale High School junior varsity football team exhibited its sustainability Thursday night at Deward Bell Stadium.

The Trojans won for the second time in as many home games, beating Baker, Ore., 46-0.

Homedale (2-0 overall) hasn't allowed a point in six consecutive quarters, and the offense helped in that effort just as much as the defense against the Bulldogs.

The Trojans were stingy with the ball, holding a five-minute advantage in time of possession.

Coach Alex Willson's squad mounted five scoring drives of 70 yards or more.

Keagen Christensen's second touchdown of the night, a 14-yard run to end the first quarter, capped a 10-play, 92-yard drive.

The third of freshman Hayden Kincheloe's four successful PAT kicks gave Homedale a 21-0 lead.

both topped 100 yards rushing.

A 6-foot, 170-pound sophomore, Christensen picked up 158 yards and three touchdowns on 13 carries. He also had 1-yard and 3-yard scoring runs.

Kincheloe opened the scoring with a 5-yard run in the first quarter and punched the ball across from three yards away in the second quarter.

Homedale led, 33-0, at halftime.

Freshman quarterback Willie White delivered a 70-yard touchdown pass to Thomas Symms in the second quarter then capped the scoring with an 8-yard keeper in the third quarter.

He completed 16 of 24 passes for 240 yards.

Homedale racked 347 yards on the ground for a total of 587.

The defense held Baker to 158 yards offense and forced five turnovers.

Freshman Billy Hockenhull picked off Bulldogs quarterback Kaden Myer to end the first half. Ninth-grader Josh Brown and 10th-grader Brayden Christoffersen also had interceptions.

Freshman Willie Haun had two tackles for loss and a quarterback sack as part of his five tackles, and sophomore John Breshears led the defense with eight tackles, including four solo stops.

other runners got off-course, but were able to find their way again. Observers noted the race route wasn't marked well.

Ella Boren made a last-minute dash out of the water and finished runner-up in the 3-kilometer junior high school race. The eighth-grader widened her lead against the third-place athlete and finished just a step behind the race winner from North Star Charter.

Joslyn Burk finished in the top 15 in the junior high race. No times were available.

The Raiders are back in action today at the Nyssa Invitational in Oregon, according to athletic.net.

The Rimrock program will play host to the Rusty Fender meet for the first time since 2007. The event was conjured up by former coach Kermit Tate.

The Oct. 5 race will be held on a challenging, uphill course that traverses the rim hill and CJ Strike Dam.

Middle school and high school coaches can register by contacting Rimrock athletic director Ashley Merrick at (208) 834-2260.

Another upperclassman, setter Sophie Nash, served six aces while setting up 25 points and keeping four balls in play with her digging.

Jayci Swallow had a team-high 15 digs and served two aces.

Senior Josey Hall notched four kills and seven digs.

DeLaynie Dorsey chipped in five digs.

Daniel Uranga (2), receiver Drew Deal and running back Mason Kincheloe.

Kincheloe and Deal threw scoring strikes after taking laterals from Uranga. Carson Brown was on the receiving end of both option passes. He opened the scoring by hauling in a 47-yard pass from Kincheloe. Deal and Brown combined on a 19-yard play that gave Homedale a three-touchdown advantage, 21-0, 4 minutes, 39 seconds into the game.

A senior, Brown scored on four of the six passes he caught. He finished with 115 yards receiving.

Kincheloe did massive damage with his legs, too, rushing 26 times for 228 yards and four touchdowns. The performance accounted for more than half of the Trojans' 558 yards total offense.

The rapid-fire beginning solidified the hunch that Homedale is toting around a quick-strike offense. The Trojans rolled despite losing the time-of-possession battle.

The Class 4A Bulldogs (1-1) held a slim time-of-possession edge, but the Trojans came away with six turnovers.

Homedale committed a season-high four turnovers, but the defense stepped up.

The Trojans ended two of Baker's first three possessions by intercepting quarterback Spencer Shirlcliff.

Spencer Fisher picked off Shirlcliff one play after Deal fumbled with Homedale ahead, 41-6, in the second quarter.

Kincheloe intercepted Shirlcliff when the Bulldogs set up shop on the HHS 12-yard line with less than a minute remaining in the first half. Baker started the possession in the red zone after Nelson Lomeli muffed a punt.

Homedale was able to strike quickly for its second touchdown thanks to the defense.

Uranga fired a 9-yard scoring strike to Carson Brown one play after Lomeli intercepted Shirlcliff less than a minute into the game.

The Bulldogs' first two possessions after halftime ended in turnovers.

Gage Northrup recovered Shirlcliff's fumble to halt Baker's first possession.

After Homedale's first second-half drive ended on Brown's fumble, the Trojans got the ball back when Uranga fell on a fumble by Baker receiver Riley Flanagan.

Nathan Cornwall ended another Baker drive in the third quarter when he sacked Shirlcliff on fourth down at the Homedale 48.

Kincheloe cashed in with the Trojans' final touchdown a few plays later on a 10-yard run.

Led by Northrup, Homedale defenders spent a significant amount of time in the Bulldogs' backfield.

Two of Northrup's three solo tackles went for losses.

Jake Collett also had a quarterback sack, and he, Northrup, Fisher and Dominic Quijano carded five tackles apiece.

Kincheloe and Ricardo Hernandez notched four tackles apiece.

Even when the Trojans' defense couldn't mitigate the damage of a turnover, the HHS offense found a way to get points back.

When Alex Hammens scored on a 9-yard run to capitalize on Uranga's second-quarter interception, the Trojans' junior quarterback shook it off and continued the onslaught.

Uranga took the Trojans straight down the field, and Kincheloe ran seven yards to give the Trojans a 48-12 lead.

Uranga completed 13 of 22 passes for 134 yards.

Friday's victory was the fifth time in the Holtry era in which the Trojans scored 60 or more points. It was the most points for an HHS squad since a 72-0 blowout of Marsing on Sept. 18, 2015.

Other 60-point games:

• Nov. 19, 2013 — Homedale 67, Bonners Ferry 0 in the 3A state quarterfinals

• Sept. 16, 2011 — Homedale 69, New Plymouth 22

• Aug. 26, 2011 — Homedale 66, Melba 6

Moore filled in ably for the injured Wes Ireland at quarterback, including connecting with Malek Barroso on 72-yard completion in the first half.

However, it was not a secret that the game was won by the stalwart defense.

Stelzried led the way with 14 tackles, three tackles for loss (TFL), two sacks, and two passes defended. He was a shining star in a full constellation.

"He was all over the field," first-year head coach Kurt Carey said. "The defense fed off his energy."

Sophomore linebacker Isiah Prado was also a force to be reckoned with, finishing the game with 10 tackles, including two behind the line of scrimmage, and a sack.

This is Prado's first season at middle linebacker, and he used the bye week to hone his skills. He had some struggles in the Huskies' opening loss to Wendell.

Cash Sevy also experienced a position change this year, switching from defensive end to cornerback. Payette didn't air the ball out much, but when the Pirates did, Sevy was frequently in their way. He finished with two passes deflected and an interception.

Dwight Sevy was a force on both sides of the ball, Carey said

"He did a fantastic job of getting pressure on the quarterback," Carey said. "He forced errant throws and forced one interception that was caught by Anthony Sugai."

Even though Payette scored for this first time in three games this season, the defense really stood up against the Pirates, Carey said. The Huskies were stalwart despite the loss of two key starters in Ireland and defensive captain Dawson Walker.

Payette's touchdown was the team's first score of the season after being shut out by a combined 103-0 by Cole Valley Christian and New Plymouth.

With the win, Marsing avenged a 47-18 loss on Oct. 27 last season.

Carey understands that there are some things to fix before the 2A Western Idaho Conference season opener at home Friday against Cole Valley Christian.

"We are excited about the win, but now we are focused on Cole Valley and preparing

"We don't want to get complacent with just one win. We have higher expectations for this team."

Trojans athletes run tough over Rolling Hills course

Heidi Ankeny learned firsthand what her athletes were trying to tell her, and the illness that hit her days before the Weiser Invite decimated Homedale High School’s cross country team.

“(Last Wednesday) was rough,” Ankeny said. “This sickness is making its way through the team and has taken a toll on us this week.”

If sickness wasn’t enough, Homedale’s runners had to deal with extreme heat at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

Ankeny said several athletes from other schools overheated and had to get help from paramedics. None of the Trojans experienced heat exhaustion, the coach said.

“In spite of many of them not feeling well, they were tough and ran with all that they had,” Ankeny said. “I was so proud of the effort they gave.”

Junior leader Matthew Randall finished 19th with a 19-minute 5-kilometer run.

Randall’s performance came despite illness. Gage Purdom, Joseph Zamudio, Maggie Johnson and Julian Ramos all were sick during last week’s meet.

A first-year runner, Zamudio made his varsity debut and responded with a personal record of 21 minutes, 21 seconds.

Purdom was one of three juniors in the varsity boys’ race.

Ramos ran a 21:58.1, while Purdom came in at 22:07, and German exchange student Christian Schalk clocked a 22:10.

Freshman Ryker Johnson ran a 24:07.

“Ryker Johnson ran really well as a freshman in a big and fast varsity race,” Ankeny said. “Even with the hills and heat being a challenge, his time was not far off from his PR, which shows improvement and a better understanding of how to race.”

Ryker’s older sister, Maggie, battled illness and lingering leg trouble to run a career-best 28:49 and finish 19th in the junior varsity girls’ meet.

Fellow junior Ashlyn Miller was 38th in the race with a 30:49.

Two HHS juniors also ran in the boys’ JV 5K. Jake Beebe finished in 24:56, and JD Waltman carded a 29:09.

“We have a lot of room for improvement and plenty of time for that to happen,” Ankeny said. “Our focus right now will be to get everyone healthy and through Homecoming week — which is always a week that makes them tired — and the two meets we have.”

Homedale competes in the Nyssa Invitational today, and the Trojans have added the 42nd annual Catherine Creek Scamper in Oregon to their schedule.

The Baker/Powder Valley co-op plays host to the Friday meet at Catherine Creek State Park.

CVC reins in Mustangs in 2A WIC opener

Melba High School saw its season-opening volleyball winning streak end in its first conference game.

Stretched to five games for the first time this year, the Mustangs fell to visiting Cole Valley Christian in both teams’ 2A Western Idaho Conference opener.

The Chargers rallied from a two-set deficit for a 16-25, 19-25, 25-18, 25-22, 15-10 victory Thursday.

The five-game match allowed for some large statistics for the Mustangs.

Emma Clark led Melba (5-1 overall, 0-1 in conference) with 45 digs and 14 kills.

Jenna Hill blocked seven Cole Valley shots and buried nine kills.

Madisen Bunnell led Melba’s defense with 37 digs, while Katelyn Young had 32 assists.

Sept. 4: Melba def. Nyssa, Ore., 3-0 — The Mustangs’ defense worked hard in a non-conference home victory.

Emma Clark served four aces and pounded six kills, but her 16 digs was part of a solid serve receive game from Melba in a 25-11, 25-21, 25-20 victory over the Bulldogs.

Madisen Bunnell led the Mustangs with 26 digs, while Kate Clark notched three aces and 12 digs.

Katelyn Young tallied 20 assists.

Eighth-grader leads HMS in its cross country debut

LaRae Stewart led Homedale Middle School in its first cross country meet of the season.

It was also the first meet for the new program, which is under the guidance of coach Sean McCrackin.

An eighth-grader, Stewart finished 12th in the Weiser Invitational, covering the Rolling Hills Golf Course layout in a personal-record time of 15 minutes, 8.28 seconds.

Middle school athletes run 3-kilometer competitions.

The Trojans’ boys’ squad finished 12th in the team standings as three runners finished in the top 75.

Aslew of seventh-graders carried Homedale boys’ team with top-100 finishes:

- Elias Tines was 52nd in 14:38
- Brock Johnson, 64th, 15:00
- Braden Ankeny, 71st, 15:05
- Liam Koon, 82nd, 15:21

Other seventh-graders also started the season, including Izmael Ponce (16:49), Alex Zamudio (18:04.3), and David Peirsol (20:51).

The lone eighth-grader, Kayden Tomevi, ran a 19:06.

Two seventh-graders also ran in the girls’ race, including Trinity Neeser (20:05.33) and Heather Reynolds (25:02.03).

The Trojans return to action today in the Nyssa Invitational.

Frosh paces Antelopes

The Adrian High School cross country team tackled its third meet of the season last Wednesday.

Chase Johnston was the fastest of the Antelopes during the Weiser Invitational at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

The freshman ran a 22-minute, 16-second 5 kilometers in the boys’ varsity race.

Senior James Ellsworth ran a 22:39, and junior Riley Bradford turned in a personal-best 23:29.

Junior Kenzie Sorrell ran the girls’ varsity race in 31:30.

MHS volleyball splits week’s matches

The Marsing High School volleyball squad showed their will to win for the second consecutive match on Sept. 4 against Payette at home.

The Huskies swept the Pirates, 25-23, 25-22, and 25-16, in a non-conference match two days before losing their 2A Western Idaho Conference opener to Nampa Christian.

Marsing (2-1 overall, 0-1 in conference at week’s end) had some standout performances in the match.

Senior outside hitter Katelyn Fewkes finished with 14 digs and six aces.

Another senior, Fallon Lopez, added 15 assists.

Gabriela Rodriguez had seven digs and banged down 12 kills.

“We were challenged with an excellent serving team in Payette,” first-year coach Brittany Regli said. “The girls really competed well and responded extremely well under pressure.”

Thursday: Nampa Christian 3, Marsing 0 — The Trojans captured the conference opener for both teams held in Nampa. The two-time reigning 2A state champion prevailed, 25-17, 25-14, 25-13, according to Nampa Christian coach Curtis Johnson.

No Marsing details were provided by deadline.

Exchange student debuts for Marsing cross country squad

Fielding a full team continued to be an issue for Marsing High School cross country at Thursday’s Weiser Invite.

Coach Robin Simpson had only two runners for the competition at Rolling Hills Golf Course in Weiser.

Senior Sefora Arriaga and junior Friederike Schernikau ran in the girls’ junior varsity 5 kilometers.

A German exchange student competing in the first event of her life, Schernikau finished 57th in a time of 36 minutes, 34.99 seconds. A junior, Schernikau is an exchange student from Gemrany.

Arriaga, who was Marsing’s only runner in the New Plymouth Invite on Aug. 29, improved her time by more than 1½ minutes and finished 16th in 28:25.62.

Simpson said the weather was an issue at the meet.

“It was so hot,” she said. “There were two ambulances there after the junior varsity girls’ race.”

Marsing will compete today at the Nyssa Invitational in Oregon.

Senior’s bronze leads Melba to runner-up spot

A pair of top-10 finishes lifted Melba High School to a second-place finish in the Weiser Invite cross country meet last Wednesday.

Senior Kyla Heritage finished third in 22 minutes, 5.11 seconds as the Mustangs were runners-up to Cole Valley Christian in the girls’ meet at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

Freshman Telissa Christensen finished ninth in 23:01.52.

Melba had two other top-20 showings with junior Marissa Cole crossing the line with the 11th-best time of 23:18.1. Freshman Laci Cole was 17th in 23:44.53.

On the boys’ side, Melba finished fourth in the team standings behind Josh Leavitt. The sophomore was seventh in 18:03.89.

Another sophomore, Reagan Manzer was 14th in 18:31.21.

On the edge of common sense Lawn clippings

The first week of August, I was haulin’ a load of cows to the sale. We hadn’t had rain for five weeks, and my pasture was pretty sorry. I’d been feedin’ hay for two weeks. Along the highway, I could see houses on either side. Most had green lawns. It occurred to me, “Somethin’ is wrong with this picture!”

Not that I’m against people havin’ lawns, or even soakin’ them with precious water. But then they mow it. They pick up the clippings. Then they stuff these clippings in a plastic bag and try and hide it somewhere. I could quadruple my cow herd if I could just rent pasture from one residential block and graze their yards. But I know that is not realistic.

Residential yard workers do not think of their lawns as forage. They grow it, mow it, harvest its bounty and add it to a landfill. They think of it more like hair than wheat. But you talk about work! Maybe there are people who look forward to mowin’ the lawn; barbers, for instance, or manicurists. And it’s not just the weekly horse whippin’ of following a Briggs and Stratton around for half a day. Some enthusiastic yarders edge, weed, fertilize, shape, prune, rake, haul and water in a never-ending tail chase to create compost!

So, I been thinkin’. Why not capitalize on all this hand labor? What is grass good for? Cow feed, of course. But it is unlikely that livestock producers could rent 2 AUM’s (Animal Units per backyard) or some such. That means we have to be able to use the grass after it is harvested. Now, any cowman who has tried to dump lawn clippings over the fence knows most cows ignore it unless they’re starvin’. But the way cows love silage, maybe we could treat it like a fermented product.

We’d spread the word that fresh clippings would be picked up Saturday and Sunday evenings. Participating eco-sensitive residential yarders would set their plastic bags out. We’d pick it up, haul it to the dairy or feedlot, add silage preservative and put it in a pit. If it was put up fresh. it might hold a worthwhile protein level. Of course, all participating yarders would have to guarantee that their lawn was organic; herbicide and pesticide-free.

And it would help our image. It would have tremendously politically correct implications. Urban residents would become more sympathetic to livestock operations in their area. They’d be recycling and saving precious water. It would give meaning to an otherwise strictly cosmetic use of natural resources. Sort of like using a Picasso painting to cover a water stain on the wallpaper.

And if it works we can get a grant to research recycling old hair and toenails. After all, look at marshmallows. I think they’re made of horse’s hooves.

Olsen benefit success a testament to community’s generosity

We would like to thank everyone involved in the benefit for the Olsen family. It was a huge success!

There were more than a hundred items donated, as well as goods and services and volunteers that made this event possible. This is an amazing community that we call home, and we would like to list some of the organizations that contributed.

This event would not have been possible without all of the donations of items, cash and those that bought dinners, and auction winners. We can’t thank you all enough!

We apologize for not listing every single person or company that donated. There is simply not enough space.

The Olsen family sends their heartfelt thanks, and the event committee is eternally grateful. Gary Olsen was a great man, and touched so many lives! Thank you all for sharing your evening with us!

Dr. Caleb Verbois

Visions & Values
Recent SCOTUS nomination history has clouded purpose

by Dr. Caleb Verbois

Predictably, the start of Brett Kavanaugh’s confirmation hearing to the Supreme Court was an embarrassing fiasco for almost everyone involved. The Republican chair of the Judiciary Committee, Sen. Chuck Grassley of Iowa, had barely begun his opening remarks before Democratic Sen. Kamala Harris of California interrupted to demand the meeting be adjourned, and less than two minutes in protestors started screaming. Protestors continued to interrupt the hearing, which was mostly just senatorial demagoguery on camera anyway, for the next four hours or so. There are many reasons for this: the stakes are high, everything connected with President Trump is radioactive, and the midterms are just two months away. But hours into a series of diatribes from senators on both sides of the aisle, Sen. Ben Sasse (R-Neb.) took a different approach.

Sasse argued, rightly, that the “deranged comments” at the hearing were not really about Kavanaugh, or even the past two years of Trump — but instead, that the Supreme Court nomination process has been broken for the past 31 years, since the Senate’s atrocious Robert Bork hearings. In Sasse’s telling, Bork’s hearings exposed something new about the way we view the court. We no longer treat justices as impartial interpreters of the law, but as politicians wearing “red and blue jerseys.”

This is particularly dangerous for three reasons.

First, the court is the only unelected branch of the federal government precisely because it is supposed to be apolitical. If justices are merely politicians in robes, then we the people should vote on them.

Second, over the past half-century the two elected branches of government have regularly ceded more and more authority to the judiciary. As Sasse notes, this is largely because it is easier for Congress and the president to punt responsibility on difficult questions to the court because justices are immune from electoral consequences. This has the effect of permanently increasing the court’s role while simultaneously diminishing the public’s democratic influence.

Third, we have also begun treating the court’s decisions as the final word on the Constitution. That is, we no longer simply see the Supreme Court as the highest level of the judicial branch, but as the highest level of government. Once the court has ruled, we the people and our elected representatives are supposed to meekly obey.

Sasse is right about the current situation, but it was not always this way.

Both presidents and Congress used to argue against supremacy claims of the judiciary. In one example, Abraham Lincoln famously rejected claims of judicial supremacy after the Supreme Court’s Dred Scott ruling, which threatened to permanently enshrine the right of slavery, not just in slave states, but in the whole Union. Democratic Sen. Stephen Douglas castigated Lincoln for disagreeing with the court, and argued it was unconstitutional, indeed, even un-American, to critique the court’s authority. For Douglas, once the court decided something, the issue was permanently closed. Lincoln responded by arguing that it is the Constitution that is supreme, not the judiciary. The Supreme Court is tasked with interpreting the Constitution, but that does not mean the court is always right. “If the policy of the government upon vital questions affecting the whole people is to be irrevocably fixed by decisions of the Supreme Court,” Lincoln argued, “the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal.” In short, we will have turned our democracy into an oligarchy of nine men and women in robes. But since 1958 in Aaron v Cooper, the Supreme Court has claimed that its decisions cannot be questioned by the elected branches, and those branches have largely given in.

Collectively, this dramatically raises the stakes for judicial hearings. If justices are merely politicians who have the final word on our most important national debates, then Kavanaugh’s confirmation hearing is not about his qualifications, but about how he will rule. And because justices are so rarely replaced, each vote matters more.

ID theft protection is another form of necessary insurance

Dear Dave,
Where in the Baby Steps does identity theft protection fall? Should we cover the kids, too, or only the adults in our household?
— Laura

Dear Laura,
Everyone needs identity theft protection. Unless you're one of these folks who have gone completely off the grid, someone out there probably has a few of your numbers. Between sloppiness on the part of consumers, and the massive data breaches that have occurred in the past few years, almost everyone has experienced, or will experience, some sort of identity theft. Unfortunately, this is today's world.

I don't really consider identity theft protection part of the Baby Steps. It's like life insurance or car insurance in that it's something almost everyone needs. Things like that should just be part of your budget every month.
— Dave

Dear Dave,
I have about $36,000 in debt, not including my house. Of that amount, $30,000 is a truck that's worth about what I owe on it, and the other $6,000 is student loan debt. I make $50,000 a year. I also have 24 EE bonds that were gifted to me that haven't fully matured. Right now, they're worth a combined $12,500. Should I cash those in, and use the

DAVE Says
by Dave Ramsey • www.davesays.org money to pay off some of my debt, or let them fully mature before cashing them in? Also, are there any tax ramifications from cashing them in?

— Patrick

Dear Patrick,
They might be taxed, but it won't be much to worry about. EE bonds make less than one percent, so you haven't really earned much. Never buy those things, man. They're a horrible investment, with an even worse rate of return.
I'm glad you're working out a plan and moving toward getting out of debt. A $30,000 truck doesn't work with a $50,000 income. So, cash in the bonds immediately, sell the truck, and use some of the money from the EE bonds to pay off the school loans. Then, find yourself a cheap, little truck that will get you around for a few years.
You can do this, Patrick. I want you to have a nice truck one day, but I don't want that truck to be a burden. This one's got you by the throat, and you're feeling it, aren't you?

Drive like no one else for a little while now, so that later you can really drive like no one else!

Americans for Limited Government Kyl's return to Senate could rekindle Obamacare repeal

by Robert Romano

Former Sen. Jon Kyl (R-Ariz.) has been appointed by Arizona Republican Gov. Doug Ducey to replace the late John McCain. With the new appointment comes a new opportunity for Republicans to complete one of their key 2016 campaign promises: To repeal and replace Obamacare before the 2018 midterms.
In 2017, despite promising to do so if elected and working for months on end, Congressional Republicans failed to pass legislation that would do away with the 2010 health care law signed into law by then-President Barack Obama.
One piece of legislation to repeal key elements of the law failed by one vote in the Senate, the so-called "skinny" repeal. One of the missing votes was McCain's whose rejection came as a shock to many observers.
Other legislation by Sens. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) and Bill Cassidy (R-La.) failed later in September 2017 with Sens. Susan Collins (R-Maine), Rand Paul (R-Ky.) and again, McCain, opposed.
Since that time, Republicans lost the Alabama

Senate seat, trimming their majority to a slim 51 to 49. If there were any vote to repeal and replace Obamacare on budget reconciliation, Republicans could only afford to lose one senator.
Kyl could be a different story from McCain. In a statement, Americans for Limited Government president Rick Manning in a statement called Kyl a "a steady, respected hand in the Senate who has the respect of his colleagues."
So, too, might Paul, if his objections to the prior Graham-Cassidy bill could quickly be taken into consideration and Republicans could rally together around a new consensus for repealing and replacing the health care law.
One thing is clear from the GOP's standpoint: It's worth taking a chance. Health care remains a primary concern for American voters headed to polls, and the failure to repeal and replace Obamacare remains one of Republicans' and independents' greatest disappointments with the current Republican-led Congress.
However, turning a new leaf, and bringing up the bill again — even if it means staying in Washington, D.C.

in October — could provide the last, best chance to work on the legislation. The outcome of the midterms remains uncertain. Even if Republicans were to keep the Senate but lose the House, all possibility of working on one of their signature legislative promises would evaporate until at least 2021.
Reinstating the budget reconciliation procedure might take a bit of parliamentary juggling. Congress has already passed its budget for the fiscal year, but presumably, it could be amended via the same procedure before September 30. That's why there isn't a moment to lose.
Kyl's first order of business, besides confirming Judge Brett Kavanaugh to the U.S. Supreme Court, should be sitting down with Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) and Paul to see if something can be worked out on Obamacare before the elections to reset public perception of Congress as one that keeps its promises — before it is too late.

✓ Nomination: President, Congress must fix objective of nominations

So Sasse is right to conclude that the circus hearings this week are not really about Kavanaugh, or even about Trump. Our judicial hearings have been a spectacle for three decades. But Trump and Congress are not doing anything to fix the problem. For that to happen we would need a Congress responsible enough to do its job by legislating on tough issues rather than deferring to the court, and a president willing to not just nominate justices that care about the Constitution, but are capable of articulating, as Lincoln did, why the judiciary is both critically important in our system, and yet not supreme. It would, in short, take a president with a lot less bluster and a little more Sasse.

Candidates for city council can file next week

Voters will have a big say in local city governments Nov. 2 when they decide half the city council seats in both Marsing and Homedale.

Terms of office expire for current Homedale council members Dan Murphy and Frank Haylett. In Marsing, seats held by Bob Malmberg and Harvey Grimme are up for election this fall.

Candidates for city council can file petitions of nomination with the city clerk beginning next Thursday, Sept. 23.

The last day for filing petitions is 5 p.m., on Oct. 5.

Nominating petitions can be picked up at city hall in Marsing and Homedale.

Council members Dan Murphy and Frank Haylett, the two Homedale incumbents, were split on running for another term.

Murphy said he would seek re-election while Haylett said he probably would run but remained uncommitted.

Current Marsing council member Bob Malmberg said he would likely seek another term. Harvey Grimme was unavailable for comment.

Marsing eyes new water tower

The City of Marsing wants to replace its aging and inadequate water tower in the near future.

Officials say a new tower is needed to boost water storage capacity for fire protection and to meet the needs of a community expected to grow.

The city currently relies on two storage tanks with a combined capacity of about 90,000 gallons, a system which barely keeps pace when domestic water usage is high.

“In the summertime, we just barely hold our own,” city council member Bob Malmberg said.

The water tower envisioned would be 25 feet in diameter, 75 feet tall and almost double the current water storage capacity to 150,000-175,000 gallons.

Financing the structure, estimated to cost about $100,000, has yet to be worked out. Tapping a $3.05 per month rate increase for city water users approved in August is a likely source.

Preliminary discussions have centered on the possibility of using $50,000 from the water fund and borrowing $50,000 from a commercial bank, Malmberg said.

A bond issue to finance the tower was considered, but Marsing Mayor Mike Fromm said he did not know if a bond would pass voters.

Jail income ahead of projections

Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton said Monday that the revenues of the new jail facility are exceeding expectations.

As of that day, of the 29 inmates in the facility, 10 were from other agencies which pay the county to house them.

He added that as the end of August, the county has collected $40,000 and has another $15,000 billed to those agencies.

“And we still have a month (of the fiscal year) to go,” he said.

Projections for renting space was $63,000 for the year.

Should the average continue, the county can expect $71,000 for renting cells this fiscal year, which ends September 30.

Trojans stomp McCall to christen new stadium

The Homedale Trojans set out to repeat their winning ways of the last two seasons when they opened up the '68 schedule Friday night by downing McCall-Donnelly Vandals 52-0, and running their win streak record to No. 16.

The Trojans stacked up 244 yards rushing while holding the Vandals to minus 10, and kept control of the action throughout.

Homedale took the lead early in the first period after a Vandal punt went out of bounds on their own 32.

Ruben Garcia took over with two off-tackle slants to the right side, and the Trojans were on the board with their first six.

Later in the period the Trojans were at it again as senior quarterback Dale Dickson skirted left end from the Vandal 18 for the TD.

Garcia went at it again near the end of the first period as he showed the spectators a graceful job of open-field running while eating up 40 yards for the third tally.

The second quarter found the Homedale crew giving experience to their younger boys while still gathering in another six-pointer. Jeff Haylett pounded in from the 15.

Hard-smashing Dan Uranga went to work early in the third frame on Homedale’s first offensive drive.

On fourth down, Uranga pile-driven to the 5 and a first down. Not to be denied, he went to the one-foot line and then in for the TD.

Frank Orr gets Idaho certificate from governor

Frank Orr, who recently retired as supervisor of school buses of the Homedale school system and previously served the City of Homedale and Owyhee County until July, 1965, as Chief of Police and Deputy Sheriff, has received a certificate of Commendation from Gov. Don Samuelson for 17 years of service.

The certificate bears the Great Seal of the State of Idaho, and is countersigned by Pete T. Cenarrusa, Secretary of State.

Gov. Samuelson’s letter reads as follows:

Dear Mr. Orr: “On the occasion of your retirement, it is a privilege and pleasure to extend my personal and official thanks for the years of dedicated service you have given the State of Idaho. Simply and Sincerely, I offer congratulations on your record of service and best wishes for many happy years ahead.” Sincerely, Don Samuelson, Governor.

New ambulance purchased for Homedale

The Homedale Ambulance board met last Friday noon at Owyhee Lanes Restaurant and agreed to purchase a new ambulance. The need for this action has been apparent for several months. But the lack of sufficient funds postponed any action. However, due to two very serious industrial accidents in the Wilder area recently, the board felt they could no longer delay.

After contacting several ambulance companies they found one in Portland that agreed to sell them an ambulance in hopes that the people of the Homedale-Wilder area would rally around and help raise the money needed in a specified time.

“We all know there is a very definite need for a reliable ambulance in our area due to our being without a doctor,” the board members declared.

“Therefore, we are asking the support of individuals, service organizations and fraternal groups, and any contribution large or small will be greatly appreciated.”

Notes from North Idaho.

Lewiston, I. T., August 29, 1878.

Editor Idaho Avalanche:

Steamer Northwest arrived on the 27th with thirty tons of freight. She brought new machinery for the Rescue mine at Warrens. Capt. Stump says the water is very low but he will try to run the boat all the season. The O. S. N. Co. have drawn their steamers off the route.

Hon. S.S. Fenn will start for Boise September 4th.

By order of Col. Wilson a party will start on the 15th of September to survey the Clearwater from Lewiston to the Middle Fork — a distance of about sixty-five miles. We believe it practicable to run steamers to that point for four or five months in the year.

Lewiston has a half-mile of new plank sidewalk. Taking that with street-sprinkler and heat, it makes the city look quite “Metropical.”

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES. — The primary elections for the choice of delegates to the Republican Convention took place in the several precincts of Owyhee on Saturday last. In Silver City there were two tickets in the field, the first comprising the names of Anderson, Lewis, Townsend, Whalen and Clinton. The vote cast for this ticket ranged from thirty-four to thirty-nine. The other ticket was composed of unpledged delegates, consisting of G. Hays, Bigelow, Rupert, Stoddard and Hank. They polled a vote of nearly twenty-eight each, which elected the other ticket.

From the Fairview precinct Simon Harris and Geo. Winchester were elected.

R. S. Hawes and S. Harris, Sr., were elected from the Florida precinct.

Ezra Mills was elected from the Pleasant Valley precinct.

At Reynolds’ Creek there was a tie between Gates and Gardner.

Eastern section of the county not heard from at this writing.

In addition to the nomination of county officers next Tuesday, it will devolve upon the Convention to elect delegates to the Territorial Republican Convention.

NOTICE OF AMENDMENTS TO THE OWYHEE COUNTY ZONING ORDINANCE adopted by the Owyhee County Board of Commissioners

On September 4, 2018 at 10:00 am, the Owyhee County Board of Commissioners held a public meeting in Courtroom 2 of the Owyhee County Courthouse. At the conclusion of that meeting, the Board voted to adopt the zoning ordinance amendments as summarized below. The adopted amendments include:

- Adding a Table of Contents and Index
- Adding the definition of “Residential Subdivision” as follows:
“Residential Subdivision: The cumulative division of an original parcel into more than four parts for the purpose of residential use.”
- Adding the definition of Light Industrial as follows:
“Light Industrial: Any manufacturing processing, assembling, testing, storing, or similar uses. Any by-products of noise, smoke, odor, glare, gas, vibration, dust, or light are generally contained within a building or does not extend beyond the property lines to have an unreasonable negative impact upon the surrounding properties. It does not refer to the growing of agricultural crops, or the raising of livestock.”
- Adding “Light industrial” as an allowed use in the Multi-use Zone (9-5B-3).
- Changing “Residential subdivisions” from a permitted use (9-5C-5) to an allowed use (9-5C-4) in the residential zone.
- Adding the words “except residential subdivisions” to Section 9-5B-3 after “Uses allowed in the R District”.
- Adding the words “except residential subdivisions” to Section 9-5D-2 after “Uses allowed in the districts R and M”.

Copies of the ordinance amendments are available for review in the Planning and Zoning office. The ordinance amendments can also be viewed at www.owyheecounty.net under the Community Development tab. For additional information please call 208-495-2095 ext. 2.
